WIDOW AT FORKS ON WAY NORTH

MRS. W. J. MOONEY, WHOSE HUSBAND WAS KILLED ON THE REPUBLIC, RETURNS

A pasesnger going thru Grand Forks yesterday enroute from New York to her home at Langdon was Mrs. W. J. Mooney, Widow of the late W. J. Mooney, who was killed in the wreck of the Republic near New York, about ten days ago. Mrs. Mooney was accompanied by her father, Mr. Griffin of Chicago and her step son John Mooney cashier of the bank at International Falls, Minn. She was met at the train yesterday morning by some friends and in a little interview gave a graphic description of the finding of Mrs. M. F. Murphy of Grand Forks. In searching the wreckage of the Republic Mrs. Mooney with the aid of lighted matches and some of the ship's crew finally located at some distance sticking up from a mass of debris a human arm. Examination proved it to be that of Mrs. Murphy and she was after some difficulty extricated from her perilous position. Altho suffering the most intense pain she never murmured. It was soon found she had sustained very severe injuries. Her thigh bone was snapped in twain and two bad breaks of the leg were between that and the knee. After she was taken to the hospital two large splinters of wood were taken from her side. The best medical aid in New York city has been at her side ever since doing everything science can suggest to help her and to save her as much as possible from permanent lameness. From all indications it will be at least the first of May before Mrs. Murphy can be brought home and then only under the most favorable conditions.

Mrs. Mooney went to Langdon but will return to Grand Forks in a few days and will probably be a guest at the Murphy home most of the time until the large Mooney estate can be probated and settled up. After that she will return to her parents' home in Chicago, where she will live.

On the other hand, be sure when you put on boots or shoes that, however hurried, you turn them upside down and look inside lest a scorpion, a small snake or a perfectly frightful kind of centiped may be lying in ambush. Never throw your clothes carelessly upon the ground, but put them away at once in a tin box and shut it tight or a perfect colony of fierce biting creatures will beset them. PATTEWAY IS ACQUITTED

THE JURY WAS OUT BUT 45 MINUTES YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

HE HAD THE STOLEN GOODS BUT CLAIMED HE GOT THEM FROM PAWN SHOP

From Thursday's Daily— ...

Attorneys F. L. McGhee of St. Paul and W. E. Rowe of this city turned the tables on the State in the second trial of A. Patteway. He was convicted of robbing the Merchants National Bank of this city of $600 while acting as porter last summer, his trial having taken place in January and created more interest than any trial in this city in recent years, the court room having been packed to such an extent that the doors were locked.

An appeal to the supreme court was taken by the defense in the bank case and the State asked for a special term and Patteway's trial on a charge of having stolen some goods from the Guarantee Clothing Store resulted in a verdict of not guilty at six o'clock last evening, the jury having been out but 45 minutes. The goods had been taken from the Guarantee Clothing store in April, and they were found in Patteway's trunk when he was arrested for the robbery of the bank in July. Patteway claimed he had bought then in a pawn shop in Minneapolis.

The sensational part of the trial was that Patteway claimed that when his trunks were being gone thru by Chief of Police Eck of this city, a $5 bill and the receipt from the Minneapolis pawnbroker had been stolen. The Pinkerton man was not present at the trial and the attorneys for the defense scored a point when Chief Eck admitted that the detective might have stolen the pocket book when he was not looking.

Attorney McGhee today argued the motion for a new trial in the bank case and with Attorney Rowe assisting him feels confident of acquittal in case of a new trial.

During the last trial the court room was again packed, the case of the colored man having aroused intense interest, many thinking that he was convicted the first time because he was colored.

After the completion of the Patteway case yesterday afternoon a jury was drawn for the trial of Sam Anderson, who with Gus Lunde is charged by Andrew Hill with holding Hill up in broad day light in East Grand Forks and robbing him of $83. He claims the two men choked him almost into insensibility preventing him making any outcry till the two made their get-away. The Anderson case occupied the balance of the afternoon and was given to the jury just before noon today.

It took the jury in the district court in the case of Sam Anderson who with Gus Lunde was charged with holding up Andrew Hill near this city last fall, just 30 minutes to return a verdict of guilty yesterday afternoon.

The Lunde case on the same charge was immediately called. Practically the same evidence was introduced against Lunde as against Anderson. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty in the Lunde case.

Mohammedan Serenity.

A Mohammedan people enjoy one great advantage over all others—they never suffer from the anticipation of that which is to come, and, as a natural result, they can always enjoy the present, although only a few hours may separate them from disaster or even from death. Their implicit belief in an ordained future imparts a dignified repose and outward calm to all their actions. Thus, in spite of the trials and troubles which threatened the state during my stay at Fez, a smooth surface of anchangeable serenity veiled the inner thoughts of every individual, from the sultan to the negro at his gates.—Blackwood Magazine.

MPLS. BRIDGE AND IRON CO. HAS DAY AND NIGHT CREWS ON NEW BRIDGE

CONCRETE ABUTMENTS FINISHED NEXT WEEK—STEEL COMING IN TEN DAYS

From Thursday's Daily— ...

Record breaking time is being made by the Minneapolis Bridge and Iron Co. ,in erecting the splendid new Sampson addition steel bridge. Yesterday the work of putting in the concrete abutments started and will continue with day and night crews till the work is finished.

They secured a large concrete mixer which has a capacity of 150 yards per day, and the laying of the concrete for the abutments started yester day afternoon and the crew continued work all night and the work will be presecuted unceasingly till the entire abutment is completed, which, the weather permitting will be about the middle of next week.

The sand and granite for the concrete is heated before being mixed and after it is set freezing is prevented by the use of six heaters, the entire abutment being enclosed within a temporary shanty covered with tar paper.

Supt. R. C. Jones is here from Minneapolis looking after the work and states that the steel work for the superstructure is being fabricated by the Minneapolis Steel Machinery Co. and the first car o. steel is expected to arrive here next week

While waiting for the steel the crew will erect the false work for the Main span of the bridge and that work has already been started.

The enterprise being shown by both the contractors erecting the bridge and the company fabricating the steel, and City Engineer Carroll is also entitled to commendation for the manner in which he is looking after the construction work and urging the work on as rapidly as possible.

MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN REFUSE TO GET ON THE WATER WAGON

Alderman Wright Suggested That Mayor McPhee And President Snyder Climb On But They Protested.

Mr. And Mrs. Robert Huffman Want $7,000 Damages From The City Stringent Poolroom Ordinance.

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Mayor J. D. McPhee, president of the Council P. Snyder and finally the entire city council last evening at the regular meeting of the city council publicly refused to get on the "water wagon" and furthermore refused to be put there. They individually and collectively asserted that their proper place was not on the water wagon, and while this is known to be quite true with possibly one exception, nevertheless it was not generally supposed that they would publicly refuse if the matter was forced upon them at an official gathering.

The fact that there were no Barkises present, developed thru an innocent resolution instructing City Clerk Childs to call for bids for advertisements to be placed upon the city sprinkling wagons as has been the custom in the past. Several aldermen objected to the practice believing that city property should not be used to advertise the business of any one merchant of Crookston, even if a fancy price were to be paid for it.

Alderman Wright then proposed that Mayor McPhee's picture be painted on one side of the wagons and President Snyder's on the other. Both gentlemen were on their feet in a minute shouting protests against riding on such a vehicle, specially in the summer time when cooling steins were the most tempting. Finally bids were called for painting the wagons, it having been decided almost unanimously that no advertisements should be placed on the wagon, other than an inscription advertising Crookston, probably the slogan adopted by the commercial club, "Crookston offers Opportunity."

Want $7,000 Damages

Thru her attorneys, James E. and R. J. Montague, Mrs. Emma Huffman put in a claim for $5,000 damages which she claimed was due her as the result of a broken limb which she sustained last fall on the north side of Robert street, west of the G. N. tracks due she alleges to a defective sidewalk. She signified a willingness to submit to an examination at any time and referred the council to Drs. Holte and Nelson, who attended her. Her husband Robert Huffman also filed a claim for $2,000 for loss of his wife's services and worry resulting from the accident. Notice was given that if settlement was not effected in ten days suit would be instituted. Both suits were referred to the litigation committee and the city attorney.

Drastic Pool Hall Ordinance

An ordinance was introduced providing for the closing of all pool rooms from 11 p. m. till 6 a. m. and on Sundays, prohibiting all games of chance but granting them the right to remain open for the sale of confectionery and cigars at any old time. The maximum penalty for violation is $25 fine or 10 days in jail.

Fulton New City Justice

Major C. H. Mix sent a communication to the city council thanking them for the honor but declining the office of city justice. The council proceeded to ballot for a justice with the result that D. H. Fulton received 4 votes and W. E. Black 2 votes and the former who has his law offices over the New Store was declared duly elected.

Monthly Bills Allowed

The council disposed of a large amount of routine business also. The usual monthly payrolls were allowed as recommended by the finance committee without debate.

Will Widen Seventh Street

The street and bridge committee reported favorably on the application to widen a portion of 7th street as soon as the property holder interested formally vacates certain property and made the proper filings with the city. The report was adopted.

Will Pile River Bank

The recommendations of the street and bridge committee that the river bank be held by piling along portions of Lorings addition adjacent to the ball park were adopted and the work will be done at once.

The report of the finance committee abating certain sidewalk taxes where the property owner had constructed the walks was also adopted.

Monthly Reports

The weighmaster reported $48.40 cents receipts for January. Fire marshal Risch reported three fires in January, the G. N. Freight depot, the Patterson residence in Carman where the loss was total and the Sullivan hotel where the damage was slight.

Fuel Consumed

Janitor Holmgren of the city hall pursuant to a resolution passed at the last council meeting submitted a report covering the daily consumption of fuel. He reported a total of 24,990 pounds during the month, with a half cord of wood. The most coal consumed in one day was 1050 pounds for several days during the only cold snap of the winter.

The report of Chief of Police Eck for January showed 10 arrests, 9 drunks 4 vags, 2 disorderlies and the balance minor offenses.

Will Improve Jail

The city hall committee reported in favor of making much needed improvements in the city jail including reinforced concrete floors sanitary water closets, changes in cells providing a separate apartment for female prisoners etc. The report was adopted and plans will be drawn and submitted to the state board of control after which the work will be done, probably by contract.

Engineer Carroll's Busy Day

Last evening was City Engineer Carroll's busy night, or rather his recommendations showed that he had been busy for several days past. His recommendation that S. O. Fox be granted a certificate of competency to do plumbing work was adopted, as was his recommendation that a new ordinance be drawn regulating the moving of buildings within the city limits and matters relative thereto and an ordinance will at once be prepared which covers the ground thoroly, fully protecting the interests of the city.

Buy Cinders for Approach

The city engineer also recommended that the city at once close a deal with the Crookston Water Works Co., for the purchase of all the cinders they have. It will require 300 yards to complete the south approach to the new Sampsons bridge and the cinders are very close and make an ideal filling and can be secured for 15 cents per yard. The city will buy the cinders at once.

Use of Streets

The city engineer also recommended an ordinance governing the use of streets by contractors. The council adopted the suggestion and after the ordinance is prepared and passed contractors and others who are granted the use of a portion of the streets for materials etc., will have to live up strictly to the provisions of the new measure, file a bond to insure the cleaning of the street when they are thru and protect the city in every way.

Bid for Cement Work

Engineer Carroll also recommended that bids be called for to do the cement sidewalk and crossing work for the city the coming year, and the city clerk was so instructed by the council.

Want Taxes Reduced

The following persons asked to have their personal taxes reduced. Mrs. Emma Mullen $75 for a piano which had already been assessed to John P. Tuff. Granted.

S. W. Wheeler, household goods from $250 to $125 referred to finance committee.

C. M. Anderson from $360 to $185 referred to finance committee.

Wheeler Land & Loan Co., office furniture from $140 to $76, referred to finance committee.

Bills Paid

The council ordered an order drawn for $100 in favor of [illegible] and for $100 in favor of the Merchants National Bank for property condemned for approaches to the Sampsons addition bridge.

The bond of the Times as the official paper was duly approved.

Applications From Plumbers

Applications for plumbers licenses were received from James E. Morrisey, Howie and Anderson and Henry Ellis. The first was granted and the last two referred to the city engineer and city attorney.

Messrs. Anton Howie and Henry Ellis also applied for certificates of competency which were referred to the city engineer.

Band Room Proposition

The application of the members of the Juvenile band, signed by 228 business and professional men of Crookston, for a room in the basement of the city hall and the fire committees, and a committee from the Juvenile band will confer with them regarding the proposition.

Other Business

The application of L. Johnson for the use of a portion of the street to pile sand and gravel for the Federal building was refered to the street and bridge committee.

The application of A. A. Glenn for a housemover's license was put over till next meeting during which time he can file his bond.

The council then adjourned for two weeks.

WESTERN POLK PIONEER DEAD

GEO. ZENGEL HAD BEEN A RESIDENT OF THIS COUNTY FOR 30 YEARS

Death claimed another of the pioneer residents of East Grand Forks Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when George Zengel aged 58 years for 30 years a resident of that city died of dropsy and rheumatism. Mr. Zengel had been sick for some time and death was not unexpected. The end was peaceful and the family were at the bedside.

George Zengel went to East Grand Forks some 30 years ago and had seen the town grow from a few huts to its present size and prosperity. He was alderman of the ward in which he lived and served a term as city treasurer. With Mr. Mundinger he built the East Grand Forks brewery. He retired from business some time ago and leaves a good sized estate.

Besides Mrs. Zengel a family of seven children all of whom were at home are left to mourn his loss. The children are Eva, Walter Julia, Anna, Margaret, George and Helen, a babe of six months of age.

The funeral was held from Sacred Heart church at East Grand Forks this morning at 10 o'clock and was very largely attended.

MILLIONS FOR WORK IN PEG

RAILWAYS WILL SPEND GREAT AMOUNT OF MONEY IN 1909 IMPROVEMENTS

GRAND TRUNK HAS COMMENCED WORK ON UNION STATION TO COST $3,000,000

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

Millions of dollars will be spent in Winnipeg and vicinity this summer on railroad terminals and facilities. The Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern railroads have already commenced construction of a union station costing between $3,000000 and $4,000,000. The Northern Pacific and Great Northern will build terminals which include a station, freight sheds and general railroad shops. The national transcontinental is advertising for tenders for shops in the immediate vicinity of Winnipeg which will cost several millions. The same company is erecting a steel bridge across the Red River which will be over half a mile long while the Canadian Northern is about to build extensive additions to its shops in the south end of the city.

RETURNS FROM SAD MISSION

BROTHER OF MRS. CHAS. L. SKOUG KILLED BY TRAIN NEAR TRACY

Chas. L. Skoug has returned from Tracy, Minn. where he was called by the tragic death of Edward Jacobson brother of Mrs. Skoug of Sampsons addition, and Miss Julia Jacobson who is also well known in Crookston.

Deceased had been to Balaton, attending several social functions and a week ago last evening he took the train to Tracy and it is not known whether he got off there and started to walk down the track towards home, and was struck by the train, or whether after getting off he jumped on the same train and fell off. At any rate his remains were found the next morning two miles west of Tracy.

The Garvin Leader pays a high tribute to the young man who since the death of his father several years ago has assumed the responsibilities of the head of the family, being the main stay of his mother. He was upright honest and industrious, and his sad death has cast a gloom over that entire vicinity, and the deepest sympathy is felt for the stricken relatives. Deceased was 22 years old and leaves besides his mother, Clarence a brother, and Julia and Mabel his sisters are still living. The deceased also leaves two half sisters and one half brother, Mrs. C. L. Skoug, of Crookston, Minn., Mrs. J. T. Hanson, of Overly, N. D., and K. T. Nordby of White Rock, S. Dakota.

TWO MORE PLUMBING FIRMS TO START

At the meeting of the city council this evening two applications for plumbers' licenses will be considered one from Henry Ellis who has been in the employ of Chas. F. Brennen, and who will launch the Northwest Plumbing Co., and the other from Howie and Anderson, who have been employed by James E. O'Brien and Co. This will enrich the city treasury to the tune of $54 as certificates of competency will also be applied for by Messrs. Ellis and Howie at $2 each, the plumbers licenses being $25 each.

BEMIDJI SCORCHED BY $10,000 FIRE YESTERDAY

Two of the Old Landmarks Were Totally Destroyed by the Blaze Several Lost Heavily.

From Tuesday's Daily—

A bad fire at Bemidji yesterday completely destroyed the building occupied by A. Benner as second hand store and residence of John Spillet, and also damaged the brick block commonly known as the "Street block," causing an approximate loss of $10,000 the loss being partially covered by insurance.

The fire which was noticed in the rear of the Benner building, gained such rapid headway that the intense heat burst the large windows in the rear of the photograph studio of Crippen & Reese.

Mr. Crippen who was asleep in the building was awakened by the crackling of the flames, and was obliged to fight fire in order to secure his clothing and books and private papers.

Considerable damage was done to the stock of the printing office beneath and also the taxidermist stock of Joslyn Brothers which was on the first floor and in the basement of the "Street" building.

The loss is estimated as follows: Benton County State Bank, on brick building, $1,000 fully covered by insurance; on the Benner building $2,000 insurance $1,000; on the Spillet building $600 insurance $300; Record Printing Co., $300, fully covered by insurance; Joslyn Bros., $400; Crippen & Reese, $3,500 insurance $2,000 A. Benner $1200, insurance $600; John Spillet $500.

WARRENITES ARE A VERY LIVE BUNCH

Commercial Club Doing Much For Marshall County And Valley.

The Warren Commercial Club has its annual meeting for the election of officers. During the past year the club has done a great deal of work to advance the interests of Warren and the country tributary thereto. That much was gleaned from the reports of the various standing committees submitted at this meeting. As an illustration of the kind of work the club is doing, may be mentioned that last spring it prepared and published a pomphlet on clover for free distribution among farmers. This pamphlet has been the means of creating a great deal of interest in this important subject among the farmers of Marshall and adjoining counties and today the Red River Valley promises to be in fact has already become the best clover growing section of the state.

In this and many other ways, the Warren club has endeavored to advance the agricultural interests which are the foundation upon which the prosperityl and growth of every city in the valley must always rest. Good roads, improved markets for farm produce the building of creameries, the holding of farmers institutes, the promotion of education, the improvement of streets and beautifying of the city, are some of the subjects considered at the meetings of the club.

At the annual meeting of the club decided to give wider publicity to the great successes scored by Marshall county farmers in the grain contests at the corn exposition at Omaha and at the field breeders' contest at Minneapolis and the entire Red River Valley will share in the benefits of this publicity.

The report of the treasurer was very gratifying there being a healthy surplus of cash in the treasury.

Proceeding to the election of officers the members showed their appreciation of the work done by the old officers by re-electing them unanimously for another year as follows:

Judge A. Grindeland, President.
C. E. Lundquist vice president.
H. L. Wood, Secretary.
C. A. Nelson, Treasurer.

The third annual banquet will be held this evening beginning at 6:30 sharp. The following program has been prepared:

Toasts

F. C. MITCHELL AND J. F. HANON SENT BIRDS TO DULUTH SHOW

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mitchell shipped 28 birds to the annual poultry show at Duluth and J. F. Hanon shipped 8 to the same place. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell have been very successful this year winning many first prizes wherever they have exhibited. This evening they will also ship ten birds to the Minneapolis show.

In addition to the prizes which the Journal has already mentioned which they won at the Fargo show, in the S. C. Buff Leghorn class at that show they won 1 2, 3 on hen, 1, 2, 3, and pullet, 2nd on cockerel and 1st pen.

At the recent Omaha show they won 3rd cock, 2nd and 3rd hen and 1st pullet in the S. C. Buff Leghorn class and 3rd cockerel, 2nd and 5th pullet and 1st and 2nd pen in the S. S. Hamburg class.

LEGISLATORS RETURNED TO ST. PAUL ENTHUSED OVER CROOKSTON SCHOOL

OF AGRICULTURE—WILL LINE UP FOR MORE SUCH INSTITUTIONS

From Wednesday's Daily—

The State School of Agriculture idea received marked impetus in Minnesota as a result of the visit of the delegation of 15 states senators and representatives who visited the Crookston School of Agriculture yesterday, where they remained from 11 a. m. till 6 p. m., enjoying a sumptuous dinner at 12 o'clock and a light lunch at 4 p. m. and making a thoro inspection of the buildings, the methods pursued and the results obtained by the 102 students. All are enthusiastic over the work being done and last evening expressed their lively satisfaction without exception, and the plan in some form will be heartily favored, all apparently favoring the plan of Senator Stephens for the creation of one school in each congressional district in the state.

Last evening the visitors were tendered a public reception at the Crookston Club rooms and the solons were bubbling over with enthusiasm regarding the great benefits to be derived from such institutions scattered about the state as the most effective weapon to fight for more intensified farming, with resulting increased prosperity, together with the Normal school committee returned to St. Paul last evening.

Entertained at Smoker

The delegation of legislators were entertained last evening at a smoker in the Crookston Club rooms at which a general social time was enjoyed. Light refreshments were served and cigars passed after which a couple of hours were passed very pleasantly in a social manner. Vocal music was furnished by Messrs. Ross Chesterman Geo. H. Pietsch, Charles and Hector Rapin, Harry H. Chesterman, Edson Jerome and others, and W. A. Marin gave a very fine reading and Mr. Michael Kjelmarson McLaughlin told a few funny stories in his inimitable manner.

ELEVATOR AT MALLORY BURNS

ST. ANTHONY & DAKOTA RAZED —IS WORK OF INCENDIARIES

THERE WAS NO FIRE PROTECTION AND PEOPLE WERE HELPLESS

From Wednesday's Daily—

The fine St. Anthony & Dakota elevator of 35,000 bushels capacity located at Mallory burned to the ground shortly after midnight this morning and there is clear evidence that its destruction was the work of incendiaries.

The elevator contained 4,000 bushels of wheat and 2,000 bushels of flax and was suplied with an annex and coal shed, all of which is a total loss. The value of the elevator and its contents was in the vicinity of $25,000, partially covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered about 12:30 o'clock this morning and must have started at least half an hour before that time in the pit. Unsupplied as the village is with fire fighting apparatus the headway gained by the conflagration was so great that nothing could be done to save the building which stands by itself.

When the elevator was reached, however, the doors were found broken open and this is taken as conclusive evidence that the fire was the work of some individuals who have a supposed grudge to pay. There is a well grounded suspicion as to who the offenders are, and if evidence can be found they will be vigorously prosecuted.

FORMER MINNESOTA PROMOTING A FARMERS' LINE IN SASKATCHEWAN

HAS THE PEOPLE OF THAT SECTION ALL WORKED UP OVER SCHEMES

News comes from Prince Albert, Sask., that Farmer Hines who years ago had the farmers of Northern Minnesota, and North Dakota all stirred up over railway prospects is busy in that section. He is described as the president of the Farmers' Railroad company and "celebrated as an organizer of railway companies." It is asserted that he has a good show of success in building a line in a district of Saskatchewan not convenient to any line at present. Mr. Hines will shortly visit in Crookston and Grand Forks on his way east to consult with capitalists in regard to the proposed new line.

Mr. Hines goes from Prince Albert to Melfort where he will hold several meetings, after which he contemplates an extended tour thru southern Manitoba the east and points in the states visiting Langdon, Grand Forks, Crookston, Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul Chicago, Pittsburg, Washington and New York, returning by way of Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. He expects to get back to Davdson his present home about the middle of April. It is expected operations will be begun about that time on the Regina-Melfort line but at what point is not certain.

MANUFACTURE CANVAS GLOVES

MESSRS TUFF AND LOOMER TO START A NEW INDUSTRY IN CROOKSTON

WILL GIVE EMPLOYMENT TO 12 GIRLS ON START AND MORE LATER

From Monday's Daily—

Messrs. John P. Tuff and G. H. Loomer inside of four weeks will have a plant for the manufacture of canvass gloves going in full blast in this city and will give employment to 12 girls on the start and many more later.

The machinery and material is already ordered and will be installed in a large room in the rear of Tuff's Music Store on South Main street. There is no such factory this side of the twin cities and there is a wide field for such an industry, which should be given every encouragement by the people of Crookston, for it is bound to grow.

GETS INCREASE OF PENSION

WELL KNOWN VETERAN, NEARLY 90 YEARS OF AGE TO DRAW $30 PER MONTH

Ambrose Godbout the oldest member of the Col. Cobham Post. No. 90 G. A. R. of this city, but who now resides at Grand Forks, has just received notice of an increase of pension from $20 to $30 per month. He will be 89 years of age March 14 next and is still hale and hearty, remarkably vigorous for one of his age. He is father of Officer Sam Godbout of the local police force.

M. Godbout made application for the increase early last fall thru Congressman Steenerson and the bill passed the senate yesterday and only awaits the signature of the president. Mr. Godbout was notified by Atty. Chas. Loring who received a message to that effect from Congressman Steenerson who introduced the bill.

TWO MEN KILLED BY NORTHERN PAC. TODAY

Mail Carrier Andrew Kuchar And A Companion Riding With Him Struck On Crossing Near Voss, N.D., And Instantly Killed.

From Monday's Daily—

Just before noon today, passenger train No. 14 on the Northern Pacific due to arrive here from the North at 2 o'clock this afternoon struck a rural mail carrier named Andrew Kuchar, and a companion who was riding with him, killing them both instantly.

The accident happened near Voss, N. D., but the details have not yet been received. The train backed up and the remains of the two men were taken to Voss and placed in freight house to await the action of the coroner.

Owing to the fact that the train crew changes at Grand Forks the crew which brought the train to Crookston knew none of the details.

The train was in charge of Conductor Haubernesette who resides in Grand Forks.

NEW SCHOOL FOR ERSKINE

MAGNIFICENT 8-ROOM 2-STORY BUILDING TO BE ERECTED THIS SUMMER

SPECIAL MEETING WILL BE CALLED IN FEW DAYS TO VOTE NECESSARY BONDS

From Monday's Daily—

The special meeting of the residents of school district No. 230 last Saturday, called for the purpose of deciding whether or not a new school house should be built during the coming year in the village of Erskine, was fairly well attended and the vote cast on the question stood 41 to 4 in favor.

The size was discussed at some length and then it was unanimously decided that an eight room brick building should be built finishing the lower four rooms at the present time.

The school board is now in communication with an architect and as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made a special election to bond will be held. Erskine believes in doing things right and has started well.

Prof. and Mrs. H. C. Bailey have been re-engaged for another year so satisfactory have their services been in the past.

HELLYER SHORT IN LODGE ACCOUNTS

INKSTER MAN MISSING WITH $300—LEAVES WIFE AND CHILDREN

It was announced yesterday that Robert Hellyer who mysteriously disappeared from Inkster recently, took with him funds of the Woodmen, Yeomen and Forester lodges of which he was treasurer. He left unexpectedly and deserted his wife and children. The total amount due to the lodges is about $300. Hellyer has a neat and comfortable home and was supposed to be in moderate circumstances. It is supposed that he made away with the funds before his departure. His wife asserts she knew nothing of his intention to depart. She is grief stricken. The authorities are making an effort to locate him.

COAST TRAIN TO RUN VIA ANETA

WESTBOUND TRAIN NO. 3 WILL CHANGE FROM LARIMORE LINE

The Great Northern will make some changes in the running time of No. 3 westbound which goes via Larimore at present. Beginning on Feb. 28 the train will run via Aneta and Casselton Train No. 4 will come east via Larimore as usual. The running time of No. 3 will be shortened two hours making it 64 hours and five minutes from St. Paul to the coast. The train will arrive at Devils Lake at 10:50 a. m.

BIG MERCHANT IS OPTIMISTIC

P. I. HOLEN RETURNS FROM BUSINESS TRIP TO ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS

THINKS COMING YEAR WILL BE ONE OF BEST EXPERIENCED FOR YEARS

From Tuesday's Daily—

P. I. Holem of the firm of Olson & Holen of Argyle, the biggest mercantile firm between Crookston and the Canadian boundary, passed thru the city yesterday enroute home after a several weeks stay in St. Paul and Minneapolis where he has been on business for the firm and looking after some legislative matters.

Mr. Holen looks forward to the coming year as giving every indication of being the most prosperous experienced in the Red River Valley for a number of years, and believes many new farmers will come in the coming spring and summer.

He says everything points to the dawn of a new era of prosperity in this section, and that with better farming methods, good prices for all farm produce, this section is certainly "coming into her own."

He states that the snow in the cities is a fright, but would like to see a good heavy fall here before the spring breakup comes as he believes the moisture would be a good thing, and better than rains later on.

WIFE AND SON GET ENTIRE ESTATE

MRS. W. J. MOONEY AND STEPSON WILL SHARE IN ESTATE OF BANKER

In the will of the late W. J. Mooney, of Langdon, E. J. Fox and John Sheehan, of Langdon are named as executors of the estate. Mrs. W. J. Mooney and John B. Mooney are the only legatees mentioned in the will and it is understood that the various business interests with which Mr. Mooney has along the same lines as heretofore. been connected, will be conducted

J. B. Mooney has resigned as cashier of the new bank at International Falls and will take his father's place in the bank at Langdon. Mrs. Mooney will remain in Langdon until the estate is settled up after which time she will probably make her home with her parents in Chicago.

T. A. SULLIVAN TENDERED PLACE

STEENERSON PROFERS POSITION OF MOUNTED AID TO EAST GRAND FORKS CITIZEN

From Monday's Daily—

A signal honor was conferred on the city of East Grand Forks yesterday afternoon when Judge T. A. Sullivan received the following telegram:

Tim Sullivan:

East Grand Forks, Minn.

I have the privilege of nominating a mounted aid to be assigned to the civic division in the inaugural parade. I tender the place to you or some one of your choice who will attend. I will provide horse. Wire at my expense.

—H. Steenerson.

This means that East Grand Forks will be represented at inaugural ceremonies March 4, when President-Elect Taft takes the chair of chief executive of the United States.

Judge Sullivan unfortunately will not be able to attend owing to business duties. He said however, last evening that his prozy would be certainly chosen from among the residents of East Grand Forks and would be a man who could do full justice to the occasion.

The inaugural ceremonies when Taft takes the chair are to be the most elaborate in the history of the nation. Committees have been at work planning for the event forseveral weeks.

Judg Sullivan has already proffered the honor of his place in the parade to a well known official of E. Grand Forks who will decide today whether or not he can attend. Until he decides his name is withheld from publication The people of the city sincerely regret that the judge is unable to attend for no one could do the honors of the occasion better than himself but just at this time he does not feel that he could afford to be away from his home.

THE SOCIALISTS VERY ACTIVE

THEY HAVE TRIPPLED THEIR MEMBERSHIP HERE SINCE LAST FALL

HAVE MOVED HEADQUARTERS TO ODD FELLOWS BLOCK—OPEN EVERY EVENING

From Monday's Daily—

The Crookston Socialists are doing themselves proud these days. They seem to have great success in getting new members. They say they have trippled their membership since last fall when they opened up headquarters. The most remarkable feature is the large number of ladies who take a very active part in the Socialist cause.

They are now located in the Odd Fellows Building where they have free reading rooms open to the public every evening after 7 o'clock. The big halls will be used for lectures debates musical entertainments, etc. They also will occasionally entertain their friends at a dance, which they hope will attract the younger generation and thereby create attention to the study of economics.

C. R. Kluger, the Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and reall sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failcommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to ed." Sold by all druggists.

SHOOTS SELF WITH REVOLVER

MRS. B. A. BARLOW INFLICTS A SEVERE WOUND WHILE TEMPORARILY INSANE

WAS FORMERLY MISS EDITH COCHRANE OF CROOKSTON MUCH SORROW HERE

From Wednesday's Daily—

The following will be of especial interest here as Mrs. Barlow was known here as Miss Edith Chapman and formerly resided with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane east of the city and was a prominent member of the M. E. church here. Her brother, Bert Cochrane resides on the farm still. Her father resides at Park River.

Mrs. B. A. Barlow wife of the assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Park River shot herself with a revolver yesterday in her home in Park River. The wound inflicted is a serious one but it is believed she may recover as no vital organ was struck The last week or so she had been afflicted with an acute religious mania. Her condition is critical however.

Mrs. Barlow was insane when she attempted to take her life it was stated. She had been ailing for some time and was in Grand Forks for a month recently to secure treatment.

TRIED TO END HIS OWN LIFE

RESIDENT OF BLACKDUCK TRIED TO ENTERTAIN AT NECKTIE PARTY

PASSED THRU CROOKSTON ENROUTE TO FERGUS FALLS LAST NIGHT

From Wednesday's Daily—

Deputy Sheriff Markham and Probate Judge A. M. Clarke of Bemidji passed thru the city last evening enroute to Fergus Falls with John Peterson a farmer who resided near Black duck.

Peterson was in terrible shape. Friday last he tried to hang himself, but was discovered and taken into custody Since that time he tried it again several times but was watched closely, and everything with which he could injure himself was taken away from him. He imagined someone was after him all the time and his condition is extremely pitiable.

FARMER MADE WINE GOT INTO TROUBLE

FARMER NEAR HIBING FINED $50 AND HOME MADE WINE DESTROYED

Fritz Schmidt, a prominent farmer near Hibbing, Minn., will never make any more home made wine by the keg and allow his friends to sample it. Last fall Fritz and his good wife made a large keg of wine from wild grapes, two kegs in fact, and this winter he has entertained a number of his friends for an evening and they got to talking about Fritz' fine wine.

A revenue officer got wind of it and a few days ago pounced down upon Fritz arrested him and seized the wine. Fritz was hauled into court, fined $50 and costs and his wine confiscated. It is understood the revenue officers are making a specialty of getting after wine manufacturers who endeavor to avoid the government tax and several special agents are reported to be in the state working on this class of cases.

WOODMEN ARE VERY ACTIVE

DEPUTIES ARE WORKING HARD AND ARE BEING ASSISTED BY ALL

EVERY EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO LAND COVETED STATE BANNER

From Saturday's Daily—

Crookston Camp No. 2303, M. W. A. will entertain members and their friends at a smoke social and entertainment Tuesday Feb. 16 at 8 p. m.

Graxton L Reilly one of the head officers will be on the bill for a short talk as well as several other prominent citizens who are members of the society.

As has been mentioned before in the Journal the local lodge or camp of Crookston is endeavoring to land the state banner of the society for the greatest increase in members in one year. Everything seems to favor the effort inasmuch as the camp has been located here since May 23, 1894, 15 years ago, has had control of the hall known as Woodmen hall, has now 355 members and is contemplating erection of a large building for meeting purposes only and is the largest camp in the ninth congressional district. The Degree Team of Foresters being the winner of 2nd prize for drilling at the Fair Grounds two years ago They are now contemplating going to Buffalo at the next national convention where they will be thrown in contact with possibly over 10,000 drilled Foresters representing from 700 to 800 camps from all over the jurisdiction.

Crookston Camp has received from the head camp for its beneficiaries $20,000 and has spent over $1500 in otherwise aiding needy members of the order. The Crookston Camp believes in scattering a few flowers on its memebrs when living so that they know and can appreciate the value of belonging to and being one of them.

Martin O'Brien of the local camp has been a state delegate ever since the organization of the camp and was at the last meeting of the head officers elected one of the seven national auditors whose duty it is to audit all the books and departments of the order at the head offices in Rock Island. The society has now an entire membership of over 1,300,000 members and has one-seventh of the entire membership of about 160 fraternal orders. It has over 1 and one-half billion insurance in force which is over one-sixth of the entire insurance in force of total number of fraternal orders now doing business.

One of the greatest achievements the Modern Woodmen have done is to erect a Sanitarium at Colorado Springs for the cure of consumption in all its various forms. At the hospital members of the order who have contracted this dread disease can be treated FREE OF CHARGE.

Prominent physicians who have ex-Woodmen Sanitarium pronounce it amined the open air treatment at the perfect and claim that fully 96 per cent of the patients treated for consumption in its first stages can be entirely cured by their methods.

GRAND TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

The memorial services held yesterday afternoon in the city hall by the citizens of Crookston were largely attended and of a high order. The address by the Hon. Danliel Fish of Minneapolis was exceptionally fine and was an inspiration to all present. Mr. Fish left for his home on the flyer last evening.

WILL EXTEND THE WORK

PROF. HARRINGTON WILL ENCOURAGE CORN CONTEST ON LARGER SCALE

PRIZE WON BY POLK AT RECENT STATE CONTEST WILL BE AN INCENTIVE

From Thursday's Daily—

Prof. Harrington of the Crookston School of Agriculture has received photographs of some of the prize winning corn at the state contest held at St. Paul the latter part of last year in which ten ears of corn raised by students of the school at their homes last summer was awarded one of the prizes the corn having been raised near East Grand Forks.

This in itself will serve as a great stimulent for future endeavor in the corn raising line as Polk County was in competition with the southern counties of the state where corn has been a recognized staple for many years. The photographs show the exhibit from this county up in fine shape.

The first prize was won by a McLeon county boy, a former pupil of Prof. Harrington's when he resided there.

This year Prof. Harrington expects even a more successful contest in Polk county than last year. He will have the boys experiment in the raising of corn from the seed that matured early here last year, and side by side with it he will have corn shipped from the southern part of the state planted, all of the same variety to see whether the corn raised here will not mature slightly earlier than the corn shipped in. He believes it will. Along this line, as along others, the School of Agriculture as well as the Experiment Farm is doing a splendid work.

SHIPPERS MUST MAKE OUT BILL

N. P. FREIGHT DEPT. REQUESTS OWNER TO MAKE BILL OF LADING

Hereafter any person shipping goods by Northern Pacific freight will be compelled to make out a bill of lading himself before the goods will be accepted at the freight depot for shipment. The local freight depot has been supplied with new blank bills of lading and shipping blanks and has received strict orders that all goods to be shipped are to be listed by the shipper.

The reason for this ruling is that the shipper will hereafter be responsible and will be unable to claim that he had shipped goods not listed on the bill.

The general freight office issued this order some time ago and now considers that sufficient time has been given in which patrons of the road might become accustomed to the new ruling and it is to be strictly enforced from this time on.

The failure on the part of shippers to comply with this law of the railroad company may be the cause of delay in shipping goods presented. Often goods are presented by a person other than the owner without furnishing written instruction as to the shipment of goods. The owners should see that such instructions are presented at the time the freight is delivered at the depot.

Hub—But if you like the young fellow, Kate, why do you object to our daughter marrying him?

Wife—Oh, she'll marry him for all that, but I want to give her a chance to say when they quarrel that "mother didn't want me to marry you, anyway."—Boston Transcript.

RETURNS FROM THE SOUTH

E. M. WALSH RETURNS FROM THE LAND OF PERPETUAL SUMMER TIME

SAYS TAMPICO IS JUST BEGINNING ON A NEW ERA—NORTHERNERS PLEASED

From Saturday's Daily—

E. M. Walsh returned yesterday from an extended trip to Tampico, Mexico, where he went with a party of land seekers several weeks ago. He was accompanied on the return trip by Sam Wallace whom he left last Wednesday at St. Louis. Mr. Wallace proceeded to Chicago and is expected home tomorrow or Monday, the balance of the Crookston delegation remaining at Tampico. The Fournets will remain there several weeks yet, and Eudore Brosseau will probably locate in business there permanently.

Mr. Walsh is better pleased with the country about Tampico than ever, and W. R. Low will leave Monday with another party of land seekers. Mr. Walsh states that settlers are coming in fast and that the coming year will witness a wonderful influx.

He states that Tampico is a city of 20,000 people, but that the buildings are all ancient and that the new regime is just beginnnig and that paving, water works and sewers are just being installed. Despite the size of the city, there is no steam laundry there and Eudore Brosseau is considering a plan to install one.

The weather there was fine, but enroute Mr. Walsh ran into some bad streaks. He states that near Albert Lea the snow is about six feet deep along the railroad tracks, and all trains were badly delayed as a result.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage executed by Lillie Patterson and R. H. Patterson, her husband, mortgagors, to L. D. Foskett, mortgagee, dated March 5, 1908, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Polk County, Minnesota, on April 14, 1908 at 3:10 o'clock P. M. in book 152 of mortgages on page 202 thereof; that the mortgagors herein have failed to pay $34.17 due October 1, 1908, said sum being due under a certain mortgage executed by the parties named as mortgagors herein and in favor of said L. D. Foskett and by him assigned, which mortgage is a prior lien upon the land hereinafter described, said sum being represented by a certain coupon note bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum after maturity and that there is now due the said L. D. Foskett thereon, under and by virtue of the terms of the mortgage first referred to, the sum of $34.65, he having paid said sum to the holder of said prior mortgage; that said mortgage provided for a reasonable attorney's fee to be paid by said mortgagors upon the foreclosure of the mortgage herein described, and the sum of $25.00 is a reasonable attorney's fee for such foreclosure; that in addition to the sum of $34.65 paid by L. D. Foskett on said coupon note and the sum of $25.00 for attorney's fees, there is claimed to be due on said mortgage the sum of $82.35; making a total due of, the sum of $117.00 at this date together with the sum of $25.00 attorney's fees; that by virtue of said default the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative, and no action or proceeding has been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt remaining secured thereby, or any part thereof; that the premises described in and covered by said mortgage are the northwest fractional quarter of section number 5 in township number 148 north of range number 45 west of the 5th principal meridian, situate in the county of Polk, State of Minnesota; that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by the sale of said premises, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of Polk County, Minnesota, at the front door of the Court House in the city of Crookston, in said County and State, on February 20, 1909, at 2 o'clock P. M., to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, including amount of said coupon note and $25.00 attorney's fees, and the costs of such sale.

Dated January 7, 1909.

—L. D. Foskett,
Mortgagee.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

FARMER BOY NEAR FERGUS FALLS ACCIDENTALLY HANGS HIMSELF

WAS CLIMBING WITH A CHAIN ABOUT HIS NECK—MISSTEP CAUSES BROKEN NECK

From Friday's Daily—

While practicing some new gymnastic stunts with which to surprise his brothers and sister, James Steichen, a farmer boy residing near Fergus Falls, slipped from a bar in the haymow, and a log chain which he was carrying over his shoulders tightened about his neck which was instantly broken by the drop, and death ensuing in a few minutes. There he was found a little later by his brothers and sisters.

The children took great interest in athletics and had a trapeze, horizontal bars and other paraphernalia in the haymow, all being very proficient in the work. They had all been doing turns and went to the house, James returning later to practice a new stunt he had in mind, and the terrible accident followed.

NOVELTIES IN VALENTINES

TOKENS OF ALL KINDS TO TEMPT THE AMOROUSLY INCLINED YOUTH

The youth in Crookston who contemplates remembering the girl of his fancy on St. Valentines day, Feb. 14 next Sunday, will not be at a loss this year to select an appropriate gift. The shops are full of sentimental tokens, which range in price from a few cents to several dollars. There are many novelties this year, including love missives on match-boxes, pickles, and all sorts of fuit, including lemons. Then there are the expensive satin valentines and still more expensive tokens in the form of hammered brass and copper pieces.

Booksellers have placed their books of sentimental poems in conspicuous places, the confections have stocked their show-windows with heart-shaped candy boxes containing elaborate decorations, and florists have laid in an extra stock of violets and other flowers for the swain who prefers to express his affecton in a reckless manner.

BAGLEY DISTRICT COURT ADJOURNED

In the case of the state against Thurlow Young, tried on an indictment for carnal knowledge of his daughter, 11 years old, was submitted to the jury and after benig out all night and until about 10 o'clock the next morning were unable to reach a verdict and were discharged and the case continued over the term.

Fredricka Severson tried with Swan Torkelson on an indictment for fornication, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or 90 days in the county jail and a stay of execution granted for 60 days for the purpose of making a motion for a new trial. After these matters Judge McClennahan adjourned the term of court. Swan Torkelson having been committed to state's prison on the conviction for criminal assault was not sentenced on the fornication verdict.

JOHN RISTOW BROKE LEG

Mr. and Mrs. August Michaél returned this morning from Fountain City, Wis., where they have been visiting and brought news of a painful accident sustained a few days ago by John Ristow who formerly resided here. He stepped on a stone, turning his ankle with such force that his leg was broken and he will be laid up for some time to come.

W. E. BLACK IS REAPPOINTED

W. E. Black this morning received official notice of his reappointment by State Oil Inspector E. J. Lynch of St. Paul as deputy state oil inspector. This is a substantial recognition of the services rendered by Mr. Black in his official position during the past four years.

BANQUETTED HIS FRIENDS

ALEX THOMPSON CELEBRATED HIS BIRTHDAY IN ROYAL MANNER LAST NIGHT

PIPER HERE FROM WINNIPEG — HOST PRESENTED WITH MAGNIFICENT PRESENTS

From Saturday's Daily—

The biggest birthday celebration ever held in Crookston took place last evening when Alex Thompson banquetted over 100 of his friends at the Palace Hotel in royal fashion. The guests assembled at 10 o'clock and immediately after the address of welcome by the host a splendid menu was served in such a satisfactory manner that a vote of thanks was extended to Proprietor D. D. Clark for the splendid service. The following excellent menu was faultlessly served:

Menu

Crawford, J. R. Rasmusson, Tom Morris, F. B. Harris, W. E. Handy, Wm Anglim, Joseph Nault and J. E. O'Brien, Crookston; John F. Walsh, Minneapolis; N. M. Watson, Red Lake Falls; J. V. Robert, Winnipeg; and Ronald Stewart the Winnipeg Piper.

An Ideal Toastmaster

After full justice had been done to the feast prepared, Dr. N. M. Watson rapped for order and first called for a selection from Ronald Stewart, the famous bagpipe artist from Winnipeg who made a tremendous hit and during the evening was repeatedly called upon for entertainment, and managed to get some of the canny scots so deeply interested that the highland fling was being flung in all parts of the dining room at once.

Magnificent Voice

Another treat which was most thoroly enjoyed was the singing of Scotch songs by Mr. David McMeachen of Bemidji. He was compelled to respond time after time and gave those present the benefit of one of the finest voices ever heard in this city, rendering many of the old Scotch songs in a manner to set the audience in such a mood that nothing would do but more.

But that was not all in the musical line. "We're Here Because We're Here" was started alternately by Toastmaster N. M. Watson and W. E. Handy, and "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was used as a change of program every seven minutes. Don McDonald played several fine violin solos

The Dutch Heard From

After Dr. Watson had prescribed for the Germans present they were called upon to sing a few selections and Messrs. Adolph F. Rauch, C. C. Hoch, A. H. Fritz, Jos. F. Koelmel, H. G. Ebbighausen, A. C. Schmidt, M. Palen, and Jos. King with Carl Riedesel as prompter, sang several medleys which brought down the house.

Solos were also sung by Messrs. C. F. Mix, Thomas Casey, Nixon, and Messrs. N. Rapin and Eli Asselin who sang the Marseilles and Messrs Rapin and Alex Thompson.

Interesting Addresses

During the evening a number of very interesting addresses were made "Our Guests" being responded to by Martin O'Brien; "Our City" by Mayor McPhee; "The Heather from Scotland," by John Crawford; "The Ladies Not Present," by J. P. Foote, and other addresses were made by Joseph Roberts of Winnipeg, T. R. Brown, C. W. Final, J. J. Kelly, J. E. O'Brien, W. P. Murphy, Chas. Holt, G. S. Chesterman, F. McLennen, Adolph F. Rauch, whose flights of oratory and witty sallies came near causing a stampede, Allan McKinnon, A. McConville, Will Munch, Carl Riedesel and others.

Three Fine Gifts

J. E. O'Brien made the presentation speech and on behalf of the guests presented Mr. Thompson with a handsome diamond stick pin and a full leather dress suit case and Joseph Roberts on behalf of himself and Mr. O'Connor of Winnipeg presented Mr. Thompson with a beautiful Elks' watch charm, made of two teeth from an elk killed by Mr. Roberts and handsomely gold mounted. Mr. Thompson responded in a most feeling manner and was visibly affected.

Remained Till Late Hour

The guests were loathe to leave the hall, remaining till after four o'clock this morning. The gathering was one of the most congenial and happy ever held in Crookston, and the host was cheered to the echo repeatedly.

Attractive menu cards and programs were used containing the cut of the host, and the dates "1860-1909". There were a few wee and big Donalds and an abundance of cigars, the host providing for every possible wish of his guests.

The affair is one that will be long remembered by all present.

FOUND CUTICURA INDISPENSABLE

ALL PROMPTLY CURED BY "WONDERFUL OINTMENT"

"Some years ago my three little girls had a very bad form of eczema. Itching eruptions formed on the backs of their heads which were simply covered. Before I heard of Cuticura, I used to try almost everything, but they failed. Then my mother recommended the Cuticura Remedies. I washed my children's heads with Cuticura Soap and then applied the wonderful ointment, Cuticura. I did this four or five times and I can say that they have been entirely cured. I have another baby who is so plump that the folds of skin on his neck were broken and even bled. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and the next morning the trouble had disappeared. I am using the Cuticura Remedies yet whenever any of my family have any sores. I can never recommend Cuticura sufficiently; it is indispensable in every home. I cannot find its equal. Mme. Napoleon Duceppe, 41 Duluth St., Montreal, Que., May 21, 1907."

PAINFUL ULCER

On Foot for a Year. Healed by Two Sets of Cuticura

"I had an ulcer on my foot for a year or more and it was very painful as it was a running sore. I had a doctor, but his treatment did not heal it. About eight months ago I commenced to use Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. I used two sets and it is now all healed up. Mrs. E. F. Ryder, West Brewster, Mass., April 29, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Mailed Free, Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases.

WERE PARTNERS 35 YEARS AGO

The visit to this city of Hon. Daniel Fish of Minneapolis today resulted in his meeting his old friend H A. Ball of Grafton who is visitig his brother J. D. Ball of this city the two not having met in many years. About 35 years ago Mr. Ball furnished the cash and Mr. Fish the experience in establishing the Delano, Minn., Eagle which they ran for several years.

Farmer Coming Into His Own

The visit to this city yesterday of a delegation of 15 members of the state legislature to inspect the Crookston School of Agriculture and the deep interest displayed, as well as the lively satisfaction evinced after the work being done by the school had been thoroly investigated shows that the law makers of the state are thoroly aroused to the prime importance of taking care of the interests of the agricultural interests of the state, in view of the fact that 75 per cent of the population is engaged in agricultural pursuits ,and that the prosperity and better development of the state is dependent upon more intensified farming.

The delegation which visited the Crookston school of Agriculture yesterday received many eye openers, regarding the character and thoroness of the work done, and were still more deeply impressed with the thoroly practical methods employed. When the student leaves the school he goes back to the farm with a practical knowledge of agriculture. not theoretical, but practical, and the knowledge he has gained, he is in a position to apply.

He also goes back with the idea that there is as much dignity in the pursuit of agriculture as in any professional calling. As one speaker stated yesterday, "the time is coming when the aristocracy of the land will be the agriculturalist, the same as in old countries."

Is The President Sustained

It is a question how far the testimony of the four bureau chiefs, on the use of secret service men, makes against the position of the President. In quarters where that position is objectionable, the conclusion will be promptly reached that the President is unhorsed by his immediate friends. But is that true? The bureau chiefs gave opinions to the effect that in their respective departments, their own detective forces did and could do better work than detailed secret service men, which may be acepted as true. But the President in the appendix to his message, cited numerous and unquestioned instances wherein secret service men were invaluable to the government, in the prevention the detection and the punishing of crime; and his purpose was to prevent the passage of an iron-clad amendment which would make it impossible to divert the secret service where it might be particularly required. He laid down the principle that to decrease the efficiency of the service could be in the interest only of the criminal class. To lessen the number and efficiency of crime detectors must necessarily be in the interest of criminals; and it is difficult to detect a flaw in this simple postulate. Where a bureau is already well equipped with detective forces with special technical knowledge, the assistance of the secret service is not necessary. It might easily be detrimental. And that is really all that the four bureau men told Mr. Tawney and his committee. —St. Paul Dispatch.

Taxing A Necessity

The more one looks into the tariff on sugar the more iniquitous the tax appears. Here is an article used by everybody a household necessity taxed at 80 per cent while a luxury like automobiles is taxed at only 45 per cent, says the Duluth Herald and it hits the nail squarely on the head. Congress should get busy in an honest revision, and shift the heavy duties from necessities to luxuries.

The people of this country pay between $140,000,000 and $150,000,000 a year for sugar which would be entirely saved by the abolition of the tax on sugar this amount being the extra cost of sugar imposed by the tariff tax of 80 per cent. It is the testimony of the independent dealers everywhere that practically all of this $140,000,000 per year goes to the sugar trust. The jobber and the retailer do not get any of it. Every one of our 80,000,000 people use sugar and every one of us are thus compelled to pay tribute to the sugar trust. There could not be a clearer instance of wringing money from the pockets of the people to fatten the bulging pocket books of the few.

As to the matter of protection, what do we protect by the annual expenditure of this vast sum of money? The cane sugar interests of the United States and the beet sugar interests together produced this year a little less than 750,000 tons of sugar out of 3,200,000 tons that the people of this country consumed. Thus, in order to "protect" an industry which does not supply one-fourth of the product that we need, we yearly tax ourselves $140,000,000. The production of American sugar this year is the largest in the nation's history. Moreover the consumption of sugar in America is increasing more than three times as fast as the native product is increasing. In other words, instead of getting strong and robust under protection, the sugar industry is yearly growing to be more and more of an infant.

There are other strong reasons why the duty on sugar should be largely reduced, if not entirely wiped out. The overwhelming financial interest of the whole people in such a reduction should be sufficient, however to secure it. A complete abolition of the duty it is generally estimated would result in a reduction in the price of sugar of 2 cents per pound and the total saving to the American people during the coming year would probably exceed $150,000,000. While we are struggling to devise means to escape from the heavy exactions of the trusts, why should we overlook such a splendid opportunity as this? The sugar trust is today practically the only advocate of the present duty on sugar. The independent dealers declare that they would gladly see the duty wiped out, and Sereno E. Payne, standpatter and one of the authors of the present tariff, admits that the present tariff on sugar was adopted blindly "because it was impossible to get the exact facts," and he further admits that the duty is excessive.

The majority party is pledged to "an honest revision" of the tariff. If it keeps this pledge it cannot fail to remove the larger part, if not all, of the tarifl on sugar, a necessity that is now taxed higher than most luxuries for the purpose of protecting an industry that grows more "in need" of protection the longer the protection is continued.

HUOT ITEMS

Mr. Rock Audette, aged 19, who resided with his father 4½ miles northeast of Huot, was taken sick with typhoid fever about ten days ago and died Friday night, Feb. 12, at 10 o'clock. His brother, Artel Audette, aged 22, was taken sick at the same time and died Saturday morning, Feb. 13, at 10 o'clock. The funeral of the two young men was held at Huot Monday and was largely attended. Both were born and grew up in the vicinity of Huot and were highly respected. Their mother is at the point of death at the same home with the same disease, so that the father of the boys could not attend their funeral.

Willie and Frank Pepin, of Huot, have both been down with typhoid fever for a week, but are reported as improving.

Eugene and Arthur Lacousier, two more brothers, have typhoid fever and were brought yesterday to the St. Vincent hospital.

People should be very careful about the water they drink and throw a handful of lime (air slacked) in the well occasionally.

F. C. Mitchell, of Highland Park, expects to start in a few days for Idaho, with a view of locating.

London Street Noises.

A hundred years or so ago no punishment could have been worse than that of subjecting the victim to the inferno of modern London noises if they had then existed. Dropping water on the forehead, torturing with tweezers, setting food before the starving culprit—out of reach—all of these were exquisite and refined forms of horror, but they all pale before a night and a day in a modern London street. —Town and Country.

Abraham Lincoln--The Pratroit And Master Of Men

From Friday's Daily.—

Today, thruout the length and breadth of the land the highest honors are being paid to the memory of one of the best loved Americans that ever lived, Abraham Lincoln. The United States has developed many great statesmen, many noble patriots, many master minds. Men who were capable of coping with most grave situations, but standing out in bold relief as combining rare qualities which no individual statesman ever possessed is Abraham Lincoln.

It is a matter of much gratification that Crookston has observed the centennial anniversary of the birth of this great citizen in an appropriate manner. While young and old are greatly benefitted by dwelling on the life of Abraham Lincoln, still more important is the effect such exercises have upon the minds of the rising generation who will be the future men and women of our country. The influences that are set at work are so far reaching in their effects far beyond any estimate.

Abraham Lincoln was a great man --great in the truest sense of the word, great in the keenness of his intuitions and in the greatness of his soul. Other men knew more other men had wider experience, other men were more clever, others far surpassed him in diplomacy, in business acumen, in finance, but none were as great a man as he. He was the master of all men of his time.

Nothing more clearly demonstrated the mastery of Lincoln over his fellows than his relations with Stanton the great war secretary. Stanton was a rugged man, impatient of restraint and of opinions other than his own. He was a Democrat thoroly devoted to the cause of the Union. He was a man of wide experience of great legal learning, a man of iron, utterly devoted to his principles and utterly hostile to anything that crossed them.

Lincoln, the backwoods lawyer, he regarded with coarse contempt and coarser speech. The election of Lincoln to the presidency he regarded as an utterable calamity; by reason of it he despaired of keeping the Union alive.

Naturally bitter, this act of unparalleled follow on the part of the American people lashed him to a fury of contempt and criticism of the unschooled, ill-lettered Lincoln, and seldom, if ever, has a president of the United States been so assailed as was Lincoln by Stanton.

This is the man whom Lincoln called to be his secretary of war—a man so hostile to Lincoln personally that he disdained to speak to him, a man who so held Lincoln in contempt that he accepted his appointment because he sincerely believed that unless Lincoln had men of his experience and ability the country was irretrievaby ruined. When in the history of the nation has another such appointment been made? But Lincoln knew his man. It made no difference to him what might be Stanton's prejudices concerning himself.

For four years the two men worked together, the irrasible, peppery unyielding Stanton and the merciful, great hearted Lincoln. Again and again did Lincoln outrage the judgment of Stanton by his interference with discipline, Lincoln decided according to the dictation of a great heart. And how did it al lend? When Lincoln lay dying his ears deaf to praise or blame, the iron Stanton bent over him, weeping, and said, "This is the man who was master of us all." Time has swept away the petty heart burnings and jealousies of his contemporaries and of his captious critics Mortal man must have his failings and his limitations and Lincoln had his, but as a great leader and a master of the hearts and minds of men, he was without an equal in his time and no man in all the world's history has been more than his peer.

A Disgrace To The Goddess Of Liberty

Investigations by the agents of the United States District Attorney's office have resulted in the assertion by Assistant District Attorney Parkin that fully $5,000 men "owners" of white slaves in the disorderly houses of Chicago, live in idleness off the earnings of their victims. This startling assertion and the state laws which he recommends in an article in the Chicago magazine, Woman's World, have been endorsed by the Illinois Vigilance Association. They hit hardest at these "owners" by making their work a felony. Fake marriage is a frequent device by which innocent girls are obtained for lives of shame, Mr. Parkin asserts in this article and he cites such cases.

In endorsing these bills, the Illinois Vigilance Association, which has dealt with many cases where marriage, fake or genuine were used as a means of procuring girls has recommended that the enactment provide that the estate of marriage shall be no bar to testimony of girl victims.

Mr. Parkin's recommendation that detention of girls in disorderly houses to compel the liquidation of indebtedness be made a felony as explained by him in the Woman's World article furnished the reason for the term "white slave" which has been applied to the girl victims of the appalling traffic which the state legislatures of Illinois and other states soon will be called upon to crush.

"One of the greatest weapons in the hands of the white slavers and of the keepers of houses of ill-fame to prevent the escape of fresh recruits and to submerge theme into hopeless slavery is the system of indebtedness which is practiced in these places," says Mr. Parkin. "The one object of those concerned in the subjugation of a girl who has become a victim to the wiles of the white slaver is to break down all hope of escape from the life of shame and bitterness into which they have been entrapped. Nothing has been found so effective a means to this end as the debtor system. The first thing a girl is compelled to do on being thrown into one of these houses is to buy an expensive wardrobe at from five to six times its actual value.

"To be more definite I have in my possession bills, rendered against certain inmates taken from the dens. In these bills stockings costing 75 cents have been charged at $3.00; shoes costing $2.50 are charged at $8.00, and kimonos costing $4.00 are charged at $15.00. As the goods themselves were seized as well as the bills for them, I am able to make this statement. In every case I have found that the girl was compelled to renew her outfit of finery whenever the keeper so dictated, with out regard to her need of it. Our investigations have all shown that when a keeper imagined that a girl, an inmate, is intending to leave the place either openly or secretly, a new outfit is forced upon her at absurd figures and she is told that she cannot leave the place until every cent of her indebtedness has been wiped out and that if she attempts to do so the officers of the law will be called in and she will be brought back. In the dozens of cases which I have examined there has not been a single one which has failed to show evidence of this kind. I have in my possession numerous copies of bills rendered against these wretched women in which their costumes reach as high a figure as $1,200 and even $1,500. This indebtedness system is mutually recognized and enforced between the keepers of all houses; in other words, no girl can leave one house and enter another unless she is able to show that she leaves no indebtedness behind her."

How long, O Lord, how long will such leprous practices disgrace America? Southern slavery did not compare with it in horror.

If We Had the Time.

If I had the time to find a place
And sit me down full face to face
With my better self, that can not show
In my daily life that rushes so,
It might be then I would see my soul
Was stumbling still toward the shining goal,
I might be moved by the thought sublime—
If I had the time!

If I had the time to let my heart
Speak out and take in my life a part,
To look about and to stretch a hand
To a comrade quartered in no-luck land,
O God! if I might just sit still
And hear the note of the whip-poor-will,
I think that my wish with God's would rhyme,
If I had the time!

If I had the time to learn from you
How much for comfort my word could do,
And I told you then of my sudden will,
To kiss your feet when I did you ill!
If the tears aback of the coldness feigned
Could flow, and the wrong be quite explained—
Brothers, the souls of us all would chime,
If I had the time!

The Art of Being Glad

Wrote one because he had no wealth of money, "I have never had an hour of happiness." He was never glad. He was not Cleon and his soul spent itself in bewailing the fact, not realizing that it might be happier.

He who refuses to be happy because he has not money could not be happy if he had it. He does not know the art of being glad. Money may be a great help to being glad, but it alone does not teach the art. Money brings its trials, temptations, obligations, burdens, as well as its chance of joy. The man who does not know how to be glad without money is not fit to have money; money, in the end, will plunge him deeper in the pit of unhappiness.

The poorest man that ever lived had much to be glad for. Health and sunlight and friends, the green of the grass and the blue of the sea and the goodness of God—everyone has some of these to be glad for,, and any one of them is better than money. The poorest man and the richest man have alike the same opportunity to overcome evil with good, and the disposition and the ability to do it is the root of all gladness, all happiness.

There are victories for every man to win. All the wealth in the world cannot give him the gladness that the winning of one of them will. Every man, no matter what he may be or what he may do, can resolve to be the best in his class, to see beauty and do goodness. Such a man cannot help being glad and radiating gladness and accumulating a wealth of good will which is among the choicest of earth's blessings.—Duluth Herald.

The New Way

Henceforth those people who are anxious to press forward business, sosial, political, or religious questions can do so in the new and better way. It is very simple and not overly burdensome. Just buy space in the newspapers and turn loose until there is absolute relief. The old style of expecting the publisher to do all these things in a charitable way is something of the past. It has gone glimmering. It is among the things that were but are not. The publishing of a newspaper is a business proposition, every line in it costs the publisher good hard cash, and there is no just reason why he should paddle your canoe for you.—McIntosh Times.

Mighty Good Bait

A man in San Francisco who stole eight cents was sentenced to prison for eight years, and a bank wrecker in the same city and on the same day was given a year and a half for stealing nine million dollars belonging to depositors. The socialists can all use this kind of judicial bait and use it when they go angling for votes.—Prison Mirror.

First prizes are coming to the Red River Valley so often that anyone should be convinced of the superiority of this section. We beat the world in clover, wheat, oats and other grains and last week the St. Hilaire creamery took first prize at the state contest for butter.—Ada Index.

The Journey.

A little work, a little sweating, a few brief, flying years; a little joy, a little fretting, some smiles and then some tears; a little resting in the shadow, a struggle to the height, a futile search for Eldorado—and then we say good night. Some moiling in the strife and clangor; some years in doubt and debt; some words we spoke in foolish anger that we would fain forget; some cheery words we said unthinking that made a sad heart light; the banquet, with its feast and drinking—and then we say good night. Some questioning of creeds and theories and judgment of the dead, while God, who never sleeps or wearies, is watching overhead; some little laughing and some sighing; some sorrow, some delight; a little music for the dying—and then we say good night.—Walt Mason in Emporia Gazette.

Syringe Bearing Firemen.

"In place of all these here electric engines, automatic chutes and so on," he said, "the only instrument they had to fight fire with in the seventeenth century was the syringe. Under the roof of every building that they thought worth saving—like cathedrals and such—there were big tanks to catch the rainwater, and beside each tank hung a syringe a yard long. Then when a fire came—squirt, squirt, they went with their syringes, and the building quickly burned down to the ground."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Timon of Athens had just been married. As he wafted down the aisle of the chapel with his bride the court jester cried:

"Wait, Timon. I would have a word with you."

"Timon tied waits for no man." he said. "There, now; I'm square with you." And he drifted out the portal.—Exchange.

ONE WEAK SPOT

Most Crookston People Have a Weak Part and Too Often It's the Back.

Everyone has a weak spot.

Twinges follow every sudden twist.

Dull aching keeps up, day and night.

Tells you the kidneys need help—

For backache is really kidney ache.

A kidney cure is what you need.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys,

Cure backache and urinary ills.

Crookston people recommend the remedy.

Joseph Gundlach, cigar maker, formerly of 319 Broadway N., Crookston, Minn., says: "I highly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a sure cure for backache and kidney ailments. For a considerable time I suffered from pains in my back and added to this was a difficulty with the kidney secretions. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Wallace's drug store. They proved to be just what my case needed. Soon the backache was removed and my kidneys restored to a normal condition. The results were so satisfactory that I advise any sufferer from kidney trouble to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

The deceased was a resident of Grand Forks from Abercrombie, where she was one of the first settlers. Her husband died a number of years ago. She has been making her home with her son, Harry, who is a druggist at Pierre She also has a brother residing in Pierre. Mrs. Freeman visited in Grand Forks and at Maple Lake last summer Her death wil be mourned by a wide circle of friends.

GRAND FORKS U. C. T's—At the meeting of the U. C. T's. at Grand Forks Saturday evening ten new members were initiated. The work was performed in the most approved form and was greatly enjoyed. About a score more have signified their intention of joining and there will be a special meeting held a week from next Saturday night for the purpose of initiating them. The teams captained by Bud Abrahamson and Joe Daley are running close and the outcome is doubtful. It is predicted that the membership will be increased '50 in March. Following the business session last night lunch was served and there was a social session. Early today it was reported that Joe Kelley was still looking for a certain chapter and verse in St. Mathews. Sink, who has been very pale during the initiation ceremonies, was gradually recovering his color.

This morning while switching a car of oranges consigned to the Finch-Winslow-Carlisle Co., in South Crookston, the car ran off the track on the turn table, tipping it partially over, smashing the car badly and spilling the oranges all over the prairie, resulting in the total loss of about one fourth of the shipment.

Henry Ellis returned last evening from Duluth where he has been for the past few days purchasing a supply of heating and plumbing goods which will arrive in a few days and will be at once installed in the basement of the Steenerson & Wickstrom Block on South Main street, which he is having fitted up i fine shape. He has decided to engage in business for himself and as he is a competent workman and well acquainted, will without doubt do well from the start. He will keep a full and complete stock of suplies at all times. John Sundet who accompanied him to Duluth will return this evening.

ANOTHER NEW FAMILY FOR CROOKSTON— I. W. Kinder who has been selling groeries for the Wright-Clarkson Co. of Duluth for some time past, is now with W. B. and W. D. Jordon, wholesale groceries of Minneapolis the firm represented in this territory by C. M. Graves till he went with Geo. R. Newell. Wright-Clarkson & Co. will be represented in this section by L. H. Marshall of Devils Lake, who was formerly with the Finch-Smith Co. here, and is well acquainted with the territory. Mr. Marshall for the present is stopping at the Hotel Crookston, but will soon move his family to Crookston, making one more travelling man to swell the throng already here.

CABBAGE IN BLOOM—J. F. Montgomery, the Angus merchant spent the night in the city and left this morning for a trip up the "Fish Line" having in charge J. P. Easton. Mr. Montgomery pooh-hoohed the lemon ripening story in which W. E. Handy figured and stated that Angus was crowing some too, as he had a cabbage in full bloom and that the seed would mature early enough to be planted for the new crop in hotbeds. Well no one would doubt that anything would bloom at any old time at Angus, as that is one of the most "bloomin' " sections of Polk County.

Bakken as directors and John Clemenson, O. H. Dale aend E, O. Melsness as auditors. A committee of five was appointed to revise the constitution and by-laws and to formulate some plan for the distribution of shares, said committee consisting of C. C. Nass, O. H. Dale, A. F. Cronquist, H. T. Gilbertson and Emil Johnson. The report of the business transacted during the past year was adopted.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL—Mrs. A. B. Larson, who has been occupying apartments at the Riverside hotel, was yesterday sent by County Commissioner Ben Clements to St. Vincent Hospital in a critical condition suffering with typhoid fever. She has been ill several days but Mr. Clements could not persuade her to go to the hospital because of some difficulty with her household belongings which was finally straightened out. With her husband she came from North Dakota last fall and he has been unable to secure work. Mr. Clements secured him a position working on the new Sampsons addition bridge. Both formerly resided here.

WILL LOCATE HERE—Mrs. Chas. Peterson of Hallock returned home yesterday morning after spending a day in Crookston, Mrs. Peterson owns several sections of land near Hallock, in addition to other property and has decided to move to Crookston next spring and erect a handsome dwelling and make this city her future home. She has two children and the educational facilities of this city are very attractive to her. The location of people of such means in Crookston is very desirable and her decision has caused general satisfaction among her many friends here.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

FOSSTONITES HERE— Attorneys J. A. Hendricks and John Vig of Fosston are before Judge Watts this afternoon arguing a court case.

PREPARING FOR SEEDING—Capt. Emil Vonderbeck left this morning for Euclid where he will see that preparations for spring work are properly started. He always insists on the cleanest and best seed grain.

LOOKING UP CONTRACTS—H. L. Larson of the firm of Larson and Larson went to Warren this morning to look after some contract work which will be let there in the near future.

MORE THOROBRED STOCK—This morning a thorobred bull shipped from the Woodend Stock farm at Mound, Minn., passed thru the city enroute to its new owner at Bagley. It was consigned to Geo. H. French of Bagley.

GROCERS CONVENTION— C. M. Graves who sells groceries in this territory for Newell will attend the Grocers convention which will be held in Minneapolis the forepart of next week Several other grocery salesmen will also attend from this city as the meeting is expected to be a hummer.

OVER WEIGHT REPORTED —There was an error made on the part of the person reporting the arrival of a little son at the S. P. Swedburgh home yesterday. The young gentleman only tipped the scales at 9 1-4 pounds but is nevertheless a healthy youngster. Both mother and son are getting along very nicely.

THREE NEW PRISONERS— Yesterday Matt King was given forty days in the county jail by Judge Gossman for drunkenness and Deputy Sheriff Sullivan today brought B. Cunningham and Ed Collins from East Grand Forks for 15 and 30 days respectively on the same charge.

ORCHESTRA MADE A HIT—"Micks" Juvenile orchestra which played a number of selections at the Bijou last evening made a decided hit and were applauded liberally. The members are making a great showing and the people of Crookston are proud of them.

ROY TIEDT ILL — Many friends will be sorry to hear of the serious illness of Roy Tiedt, who has had such a long siege of sickness, and of late has been confined to his bed. Ray has made a gallant fight against his troubles for several years and the sincere hope of a host of friends is that he may overcomes this very severe attack.—Argyle Banner.

ROSEAU ATTORNEY HERE —Mayor R. J. Bell of Roseau one of the leading attorneys of Roseau County and editor of the Roseau Times was an arrival in the city last evening to attend to some business matters and at the same time greet many old friends. He says things look fine as a fiddle up that way.

NO. 5 LATE— No. 5 was an hour late from St. Paul this morning and the Duluth, St. Vincent and Warroad trains were here all in a bunch. Crookston has been unusually fortunate this winter in avoiding the inconvenience of late trains. All the local trains and practically all the thru trains have been right on the dot except on very rare occasions.

"BALDY" COUVRETTE DOING WELL — U. J. Couvrette is getting along nicely at Mountain Home, Idaho according to advices received from that place recently. He has a valuable 20 acre tract of land near the city a fine house and lot and considerable other property. He is chief of the fire department there, and is making good all along the line. This will be most gratifying news to his many friends in Crookston and he has a host of them.

NOT THE ONLY LEMON TREE—W. E. Handy the Northern Pacific agent at Crookston claims to be the only lemon grower in northern Minnesota,

DOES NO HARM BUT MUCH GOOD

THE RECIPE EASILY PREPARED, AND MANY SAY IT IS SPLENDID

MANY OF OUR CITIZENS SPEAK WELL OF THE HOME PRESCRIPTION

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our home druggist.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive Kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

DEEP SNOW SAVES LIVES

GREAT NORTHERN PASSENGERS' REMARKABLE ESCAPE FROM DEATH IN WRECK

Deep snow was all that saved passengers on the Grand Forks-Winnipeg train from death yesterday morning when the train which left Grand Forks yesterday morning for the north was wrecked at a point three miles north of Ardock at about 10:00 a. m. The engine remained on the track but the five coaches were derailed. The combination baggage car was ditched. The smoker and observation car were tipped on their sides. The day coach remained upright. The track was torn up for 40 feet. Nearly all of the 150 bruises or cuts. Among those who passengers on the train received were hurt were the following:

Mrs. J. Rasin, Grafton, injured internally and severely bruised.

Thomas Elliot, Minto, scalp severely cut and face lacerated.

"Cinch" McCrea, Chicago, travelling man, forehead cut.

Mrs. Robert Campbell, wife of a Grand Forks doctor, hand lacerated and sustained severe bruises.

Mrs. Floyd Lang, Grand Forks, bruised and face cut.

Goes to Hospital

Mrs. Rasin had just returned from Hot Springs, Ark., and she was hardly prepared to withstand the terrible experience. She was the only one taken to the hospital.

The pasesngers were transferred to the Walhalla line train and taken to Grafton. Last night's train arrived over the line less than an hour late..

The train left Grand Forks several minutes late and was going at a fast pace when a broken rail was struck. The snow was deep in the ditch on both sides of the track and this is believed to have saved the passengers from death.

The line was cleared yesterday afternoon by a wrecking train which left here at noon. The coaches are still in the ditch , but will probably be picked up today.

Cass Lake will share the honors in that the writer can asure Mr. Handy that Mrs. Broeker has grown lemons for several years with pronounced success, the varietty being much larger and more finely flavored than the southern kind. For pies, sponge cake and lemonade, Mrs. Broeker's lemons are unexcelled.—Cass Lake Times..

DR. STACY DEAD—Dr. Stacy for years a resident of Grand Forks and Lakota, is dead at North Yakima, Wn. after a long illness, according to a message received yesterday by his brother, Dick Stacy. The deceased was a veterinarian. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, Woodmen and Yeomen lodges. He was genial and popular with all. The deceased left Grand Forks a couple of years ago for North Yakima. He has been ill for several weeks and his death was not expected. He is survived by his wife and son.—Grand Forks Herald.

SENATOR STEPHENS PLAN IS THE MOST FAVORED

His Idea For The Establishment Of Schools Of Agriculture Endorsed In Preference To Others.

W. M. Hays Favors It And Minneapolis Tribune Devotes Much Space To An Explanation Of It.

eNver before has the question of Agricultural Schools received the attention from the state legislature of Minnesota that it is receiving at the present time. The city papers are pub lishing columns on the subject. Many plans have been suggested, but the plan of Senator Stephens is receiving the greatest degree of endorsement. Relative to the subject the Minneapolis Tribune has the following:

"Realizing the necessity of agricultural education in Minnesota which is essentially an agricultural state, the present legislature wil lundoubtedly enact some kind of a measure which will provide some such form of education.

"While there are a variety of bills before the legislature, the most interesting thing that has grown out of the agitation for agricultural schools is the intense interest that has awakened over the necessities of the situation and the earnestness with which the advocates of the different measures have gonee into the proposition.

"Professor W. M. Hayes acknowledged to be the leading exponent of scientific agriculture in Minnesota now of the department of agriculture at Washington has reduced his ideas of agricultural education to writing. his plan being practically that which has been evolved by Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston who would provide nine district agricultural schools for the state.

"James J. Hill, empire builder of the Northwest who has for years been urging the necessity of increased knowledge of farming and who has urged the necessity and importance of intensive agriculture in place of the more or less haphazzard methods now in vogue is backing the general plan involved in the different schemes that have been advanced.

Bill is Introduced

Senator J. M. Hackney of St. Paul has introduced a bill providing for a correspondence school method the instruction to be furnished from the state agricultural school.

"This proposition is meeting with a great deal of support and has also received the indorsement of Mr. Hill, who sees in the plan a method of disseminating scientific knowledge of farming broadcast among the farmers who actually till the soil of Minnesota

"Back of it all is the realization of the necessity of changed methods. Minnesota is still a new country, yet it is only a few years since Indian incursions were dreaded and the pioneers were breaking the soil.

"Back of that is the memory of the comparatively brief time ago, when America had only 3,000,000 people, as compared to its 90,000,000 of today.

"Populations are like snow balls, they increase in proportionate ratio to their size and it is acknowledged there is justification for the statement recently made by James J. Hill that within a short time the United States of America will be supporting a population almost as dense as that of the Chinese empire.

"It is a realization of these facts, the legislators say, that has resulted in the strength of the present agitation for agricultural education.

"Of the different plans proposed, that of the Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston, endorsed by Professor Hays, seems to be meeting with the widest favor. Senator Stephens is an enthusiast on farm education. He believes the young men and the girls too, should be educated to live on the farms, and not away from them.

"He believes they should be taught to live as well as to derive the best results from their farms.

"The Crookston senator becomes enthusiastic as he discusses the opportunities for advanced living that can be obtained at the presnt day. How the use of windmills, gasoline engines, etc., will furnish the country home with all the possible modern conveniences that can be obtained in the cities.

"His plan provides for nine schools, one in each congressional district, or some other district division that would correspond He would appropriate $25,000 for each school and provide for their maintenance.

"One such school is already established at Crookston and there is the nucleus of a school at Grand Rapids. His plan would give three such schools to the northern part of the state, establishing seven new ones in all, plus the ones at Crookston and Grand Rapids.

"Mr. Stephens' plan involves a comprehensive scheme of agricultural education. He believes that instruction suitable to farm boys and girls should be included in the courses of the country schools. Then the district, agricultural school would furnish an oppor tunity for the farmer boy to continue his education along this line. The education furnished in these schools would be of a general nature, but would include an education, thoro and complete, in scientific and practical agriculture, with the opportunities for practical agriculture, with the opportunities for practical application as in farm culture, stock raising and judging, dairy experimentation, etc.

"When the course in the district school was complete the boy would be in a position to fill any vocation in life —he would have a good common school education and would possess advanced ideas of agriculture which would enable him to farm with wisdom and success.

Then if the boy wished to continue his studies along these lines, he could do so in the state agricultural school, which turns out graduates who are immediately qualified to draw salaries ranging from $1,800 to $6,000 a year.

"Mr. Stephens points out that an appropriation of $200,000 would take care of 2,000 students. There are 4,000 students at the university and as the population of Minnesota is 75 per cent agricultural, he thinks this could hardly be called unfair. He would provide an appropriation of $20,000 a year for the maintenance of schools and stations, which would include 160 acres of land.

"What is known as the senate agricultural school bill provides for the location of several experimental schools, all in the southern part of the state. It provides for a nappropriation of $15,000 for each school. It locates them as follows: Austin, Mower County; Dodge Center, Dodge County; Waseca, Waseca county; Mapleton, Blue Earth County; Marshall, Lyon county; Windom, Cottonwood county; Hutchinson, McLeod county; Foley, Benton county.

"None of these schools is farther north than 66 miles from the southern boundary line of the state.

"Representative Lawrence H. Johnson of Hennepin, is the author of the county agricultural school bill, which has passed the house. The bill allows each county to raise $15,000 for its school. The county is to pay one-third and the state two-thirds for the original cost and for maintenance.

"The plan would start with the location of six schools, for which $90,000 is provided.

"The chief objection being urged against this bill is that it would locate the schools in the towns and would be inadequate, as compared with the sums of meney being used for other forms of education.

"Conferences will be held this week to see if some arrangement can be reached which wil harmonize the different ideas of agricultural education."

WORDS PROVE INDEQUATE

MEMBERS OF BEREAVED FAMILY EXPRESS GRATITUDE FOR SYMPATHY SHOWN

The following is taken from the Plummer Pioneer of which Chas. W. Latta is the editor and publisher, in connection with the death of his wife whose remains were laid to rest here:

"In time of great sorrow the burden of the afflicted is lightened and the keenest bitterness taken from their grief when true, kind hearts lend their sympathy and aid. Without these manifestations of human sympathy we are prone, in times of trouble to lose our faith in the good of humanity and in our God. For several years the writer resided in Crookston and was principally engaged in newspaper work. During those years it was a pleasure many times enjoyed to speak well of the glorious christian work of the Women's Relief Corps and many other of the true hearted people in that fair city. The mission of the members of the Relief Corps is to help and comfort the afflicted and the noble band of women belonging to the order in Crookston are never known to fail in the full performance of their duties as members of their order and as true christians. They have soothed many an aching heart, lightened many burdens of sorrow and helped in many ways to smooth the way for weary feet and aching hearts.

On behalf of the bereaved father and mother and my children and myself I tender heartfelt thanks to the members of the Women's Relief Corps for their kind ministrations; to the newspaper fraternity of Crookston for their remembrance and courtesies extended; to the true hearted friends we knew in bygone years, and find still true friends who forsook the duties of their every day life to assist and attend at the last sad rites of our loved one. Words are sometimes too weak to express our full meaning, but the many kindnesses received by us from these will always remain fresh in our memory and preserve in our hearts a kindly feeling for the people of Crookston.—Chas. W. Latta."

TRUANT OFFICER FINDS 108

ATTENDANCE IN CITY SCHOOLS HAS INCREASED THAT NUMBER SINCE

THE FIRST OF THE YEAR—OFFICER ROBERTS DOING EXCELLENT WORK

From Friday's Daily—

The showing made by Truant Officer Geo. W. Roberts who began his duties the first of the year is remarkable. Since that time he has located 193 children who should have been in school and who are now attending regularly, but who were not going, some of them not having been in school for two and three years. All are now attending and a second visit has not been necessary. In addition there are 5 more students who will start school Monday. This increase in but litle over a month shows the value of such an officer. Mr. Roberts has been very diligent in his work as the results plainly show.

PREVENTION OF FLOODS

SENATE COMMITTEE WAS NAMED YESTERDAY BY STATE SENATE

TO VISIT WASHINGTON—SAGENG ENTERED A VIGOROUS PROTEST

Despite the strenuous protest of Senator Ole Sageng that the passage of the resolution simply meant a good junket for members of the legislature the state senate yesterday decided to send two senators to Washington in the interests of a congressional appropriation for the purpose of installing a system of reservoirs and channels to prevent the periodical floods of the Minnesota and Red river valleys.

The concurrent resolution for the appointment of a delegation was introduced by Senator Farrington on the recommendation of a joint committee of the house and senate.

Senator Sageng voted against the resolution. He explained his vote by saying: "The state of Minnesota has eleven men in Washington who are being paid $7500 a year who are looking out for the state's interest. They are capable of caring for the state on this project. This resolution simply authorizes a good junket for certain members of the legislature."

Senator Farrington and Senator C. A. Johnson were appointed as the senate's commissioners to Washington.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR MUCH WORK

HELLNER & STRANDELL HAVE MUCH TO DO THE COMING SEASON

E. Strandell returned this morning from a several days 'visit with friends and relatives at Moorhead and Fargo. He states that Moorhead plans on a large amount of paving the coming year and that a very good feeling prevails among the business interests regarding the outlook for the coming year.

Mr. Strandell states that his firm has a considerable amount of work in sight for the comnig year. There is to be a large amount of sidewalks laid in the city, and in the surrounding towns there is also considerable work to be done and more will be in sight later on.

Hellner & Strandell have manufactured a considerable amount of tiling which they have in stock and will be prepared to handle more work than ever as this season they have two experienced concrete mixers for the season.

WILL BUY $1,400 PIPE ORGAN

CARNEGIE OFFERS $500 TOWARD INSTRUMENT FOR WARREN CHURCH

Not long ago the authorities of the Swedish Lutheran church of Warren sent an application to Andrew Carnegie, the great philanthropist, asking him for financial assistance in procuring a pipe organ for the church. Rev. Chelgren has just received a letter from Mr. Carnegie's secretary stating that the sum of $500 will be donated for said purpose. provided an equal or larger sum be raised by the congregation. The church will proceed at once to raise the necessary funds to make Mr. Carnegie's generous offer good. The young ladies of the church already have a fund of about $150 for such a purpose, and other methods, perhaps a concert or two, will be arranged, to raise the balance. It is the intention to have the new instrument, the first of the kind in that city installed the coming spring.

Iver Nepstad the fourteen year old son of C. G. Nepstad, who resides in Mary township, about 14 miles southwest of Ada met with an accident which will leave him a cripple the remainder of his life. With his brother Martin 2 years older, he was chopping wood at their home when in some manner Iver reached over to stand a piece of wood on end at the same time his brother brought the axe down to the chopping block. The axe struck Iver's left hand just above the wrist The extent of the injury was not fully realized until the young man was taken to Dr. Bjorn's office at Ada where on examination it was found necessary to amputate the hand, which was taken off at the wrist joint.

BAD FIRE AT BAGLEY

PATTERSON SISTERS MILLINERY STORE COMPLETELY DESTROYED

FIREMEN DID VALIANT WORK TO PROTECT OTHER PROPERTY

From Thursday's Daily—

Fire, caused by a short circuit in electric light wires destroyed the Patterson Sisters Millinery & Ladies' Furnishing Emporium last night at Bagley. The loss on the stock and building is placed at $4,500 with $2,500 insurance.

The prompt and effective work of the fire department kept the flames from spreading to adjoining property Chief Wagner is entitled to considerable credit for the good head work he displayed in at once turning the attention of his men to the work of saving the adjoining buildings, instead of wasting precious time on the already doomed structure.

C. W. STANTON JUDGE AGAIN

GOVERNOR TO APPOINT HIM TO FILL NEW PLACE IN THE FIFTEENTH DISTRICT

C. W. Stanton of Bemidji will again be appointed district judge in the fifteenth judicial district by Governor Johnson, this time under the act passed yesterday creating a third judge in that district. Judge Stanton was appointed once before upon the resignation of Judge M. A. Spooner but was defeated at the general election by B. F. Wright of Park Rapids.

The district is large territorially and it is claimed that three judges are needed.

The bill has not reached Governor Johnson for his signature but he said today that he would sign the bill and reappoint Judge Stanton, tho no request has yet been made for the appointment of anyone in particular.

The best thing in the world for nerves is sleep, the next, proper food and third, proper dress. But as good as one of these is a hobby.

How often does one hear the expression "Oh, that is So-and-So's hobby," spoken rather disparagingly. It is the tendency of theaverage mind to regard a person who has a pronounced enthusiasm as a species of harmless lunatic, rather to be pitied. The truth of the matter is that any one who has any especial fad is greatly to be envied, as it probably provides more interest and amusement for its possessor than anything else. Any decided interest in life, whether it is dignified by the name of an occupation or is simply an enthusiasm or even mentioned slightingly as a fad is eminently desirable.

The present equipment will be added to and made thoroly up-to-date and a hand ball court will be installed. The course will include instruction in wrestling, boxing, jeu jitsu, and general physical culture. This will be welcomed by the people of Crookston generally and will receive much encouragement. Prof. Simpson now has classes at Warren, Stephen and Fertile and is a thoroly competent instructor.

Inferences from Lincoln's Life

One may get a fair education without schools and almost without books.

The thing which probably most influenced Lincoln's English style was the fact that he read only a few books and read them to pieces.

It is not necessary to be handsome or well-dressed in order to get a hearing. If you have anything to say that is worth while, it will outtalk your clothes.

In the business of influencing men, a sense of humor is a means to an end It seldom succeeds by itself.

Worldly wisdom is not amiss in a big battle. Lincoln did not hesitate to lead Douglas to a pit and push him in. All he asked was, Did Douglas dig the pit for others?

Lincoln always said that he was doing the best he could all the time. In this sense every man can be a Lincoln if he will.—Minneapolis Journal.

War Scare is Over

A congratulatory note sounds thru the leading editorial comment of the country upon the action of California in the defeat of anti-Japanese legislation. The war scare is laid for the present, at least, and there is no difference of opinion in awarding the credit to the watchful energy of President Roosevelt. At the same time it is the universal view that the states on the coast have surrendered no sovereign right in recognizing the paramount interest of the national government and the greatest good to the greatest number of the American people.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Making Silage Without Silos

As most every one of you is aware, I have for a number of years had a couple of silos which I, every fall, have filled to their full capacity. The ensilage during the winter months forms with me an important part the the ration for the cows. It is a succulent food, easily digested and well liked by all kinds of stock, which if fed silage, seems to have better appetite for hay and other dry roughage also. So I, for my part, like the silo very much and as long as I keep stock, and especially dairy cows, I could not afford to part with mine.

But inasmuch as not every farmer can afford to put up a silo and equip himself with necessary machinery for handling a crop of fodder corn, the method of making silage without a silo fits nicely in its place. I tried it last fall and with such good success. that I would recommend it to every farmer in the community.

Every farmer can raise a few acres of fodder corn which handled in this way, can be put up at a nominal cost, so every one would be able to provide a certain amount of succulent food for his cows during the winter months. Last year I had about 30 acres of fodder corn and after having filled and re-filled both my silos, I had about 7 acres of fodder left which I put up in a stack about 16 feet in diameter and pressed down with an outfit called the Jenson Press.

This press outfit consists of 4 jacks or presses, 4 18 foot chains 1 lever and 4 anchor rods and costs $50. Besides that you need some poles and a couple of timbers on top and that is all.

But if you don't want to go to the expense of buying this outfit you can obtain pressure in some other way—for instance by using 4 common jack screws costing $1.50 apiece. Jack screws can be placed on top of the timber a small wooden block on top of the jack screws and chain across the wooden block and then you can press your corn down all you want to It requires a few more chains in this way than by the Jensen Press. Of course, the Jensen Press is the most convenient as it takes only a minutes' time to go around the corners of the stack and tighten a notch or two wherever there is a slack on the chain. In regard to the quality of the silage in the stack compared with that in the silo I consider it about the same.

Now is the time to make plans; speak to your neighbors and get them interested. The corn can be put in with a shoe drill, if you do not have a corn planter and as a corn binder is needed two, three or four can very well club in for one. Whatever you do, by all means raise some fodder corn.

Before leaving the subject, I would make a comparison between the silo and the stack. Most farmers who have had experience in doing chores know the difference in having hay in the barn and outside the barn at all seasons—one point in favor of the silo.

If any more information is wanted by anyone along this line, I would be glad to give it.

ENJOYED BEAN BAKE—The members of Co. I enjoyed a fine drill under the direction of Corp. Engdal from Ft. Snelling and later participated in a "bean bake" which was a huge success.

JOHN CARTER IMPROVING—John Carter, whose condition has been very serious for some time past with dropsy and other complications is somewhat improved, and if no further complications set in there is good grounds for strong hopes of his recovery.

NORTH DAKOTAN HERE—H. T. Taber, who runs the Valley Lumber Co., at Valley City, N. D., arrived in the city last evening enroute home from a trip east to the lumber camps and is spending today here with J. D. Ball. He is very much pleased with the appearance of things in Crookston He states that the outlook for a good business thruout the northwest is better for the coming spring and summer than it has been for many years past.

WANTED WEATHER DETAILS—J. W. Barlow, a well known farmer residing east of Crookston dropped in the Journal office this morning and subscribed for the Journal for a year for H. M. Sherwood, Rockwell, Ill., who owns considerable land in this section. Mr. Sherwood had been informed the character of lemon ripening weather we have been experiencing here and Mr. Sherwood could scarcely believe it and wanted to get regular information on the subject.

FORKS LOSES FACTORY—The Grand Forks Broom Factory was destroyed by fire a short time ago, and its owner, Mr. George Carpenter instead of re-establishing it, has accepted a position as manager of the Fergus Falls Broom factory and will assume his duties March 1st. The Grand Forks factory will be in a sense consolidated with the Fergus Falls factory. Two of Mr. Carpenter's brothers and their families will also come here to reside. All are men very highly spoken of in the community in which they have made their homes and they will be heartily welcomed to the city. The consolidation will enable Mr. Blood to devote all of his time to travel in the interest of the business.—Fergus Falls Journal.

FARGO CLOTHIER HERE—S. Stern proprietor of the Globe Clothing Co., of Fargo, one of the leading clothing houses of the northwest, arrived in the city this morning and has been looking over the local clothing stores to get any new ideas regarding shelving, cases, general arrangement, etc., that might be available. He is very much pleased with the clothing stores of Crookston and he secured a number of pointers that will be useful to him. He contemplates moving to a new location in Fargo in the near future, right in the heart of the business district, one of the very best locations in Fargo. Mr. Stern had not visited Crookston in many years and displayed a lively interest in the progress that has been made here. He stated that if he had been dropped off in the night without knowing where he was, he could never have located himself as in Crookston. But of course he thinks Fargo is the only town.

N. P. KILLED A HORSE—Not to be outdone by the Great Northern, which yesterday morning killed a horse belonging to L. W. Larson, of this city, the Northern Pacific, while passing through Fertile last evening, ran into and killed another horse. The accident caused considerable excitement amongst the passengers and delayed the train about a half hour. It was reported at first that the train had struck a man, but investigation showed that it was a horse which had gotten too close to the tracks.

The killing of two horses in a single day by trains establishes a record for Polk county. Both of the animals were highly prized by their respective owners and there is no doubt but that both accidents will result in efforts to recover from the railroads.

BELTRAMI MERCHANT—E. W. Johnson the well known merchant of Beltrami has returned home after attending to some important business matters at Thief River Falls.

RALPH LYCAN TO ANNAPOLIS—Ralph B. Lycan, son of F. S. Lycan of Bemidji has been appointed by Congressman Steenerson to the vacancy in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

FINE TOURING CAR—F. S. Lycan and a few friends at Bemidji have jointly purchased a fine touring car which they will enjoy as soon as the roads are fit next spring. One of the first long trips will be a run to Crookston.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION—All the Great Northern station agents of the Northern division are dropping in to take a new and rigid physical examination which is required by the company. During the past week over a score of them have been here for that purpose.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD—Chas. L. Skoug the hustling agent of the Advance Thresher Co., spent yesterday at Warren and Stephen. Mr. Skoug is very optimistic regarding the prospects for business the coming year and thinks business in all lines will be more active than it has been for a number of years.

SERVING PAPERS—Deputy Sheriff Walter Markham, formerly conected with the Hotel Crookston Buffet, returned to Bemidji yesterday after having spent a day in Thief River Falls summoning some witnesses wanted at the next term of court in Beltrami County to be held at Bemidji.

BROTHERS RETURNED HOME—H. B. Borneman Jr., agent for the Great Northern at St. Hilaire has returned to his duties after spending a few days here taking the physical examination. His brother, A. D. Borneman who is with the G. N. at Hallock was also down for the same purpose and returned yesterday.

BUSINESS AT LAKE—Alderman T. A. Harris spent yesterday at Cass Lake attending to some business matters. He has some contracts there and the way business is opening up he will have one of the busiest seasons in the structure moving line that he has had in several years, tho last year he was busy all the time having several large contracts across the Canadian line.

CLAIM AGENT HERE—C. S. Flannery, Great Northern claim agent has been spending the greater portion of the week here on business for the company. His is one of the business departments in connection with the road and business is good the year around, as there never is a time but what someone has, or thinks he has a claim against a railroad.

ATTENDED K. C. FUNCTION—John Lynch, the Grand Forks ice man was in the city yesterday enroute to Maple Lake after attending a big meeting of the Knights of Columbus at Fargo. He says the meeting was a hummer with a large attendance from many North Dakota towns. He is nearly thru cuting ice at Maple Lake.

COMPLETING FINE LAUNCH—Walter Blair and Albert Lariviere are completing a 25ft. gasoline launch at O. Viau's shop on north Broadway. It will be six feet wide and will carry a good deal of passengers. They have just ordered an 8 horse power engine and the boat will have all manner of speed, "Greased Lightning" being one of the names they are considering. They will launch the boat in the river here, but later in the summer expect to ship it to Maple Lake.

CROOKSTON SUITS HIM—John W. Sandberg returned yesterday from Twin Falls, Idaho and other points out west, having been absent on a several weeks' trip. While he did not go west with the definite intention of locating he kept his eyes open for a good opening and had he found what suited him he would have remained. He is back to Crookston, and back to stay, and says that Crookston looks mighty good to him compared with anything he saw out west. He has not definitely decided just what he will do, further than that he will continue in the clothing line in which he has been engaged for many years.

DEAL FELL THRU—Miss Calla Bell who is operating a hotel at Roseau returned home yesterday after spending a few days here. She had intended buying a hotel at Erskine from Mr. and Mrs. Swanson who came here to close the deal, but at the last moment Mrs. Swanson changed her mind and decided that she would not make a sale and the deal accordingly fell thru. Mr. Swanson has been figuring on going to North Dakota to open a bank with another gentleman from Erskine but will now probably remain at Erskine for the present at least.

QUIET IN CITIES—Col. S. S. Stadsvold returned to Fosston yesterday after a few days spent in St. Paul and Minneapolis attending to some business matters. He reports things very quiet in the cities tho great interest is being taken in some of the pending legislation, the capitol building being the center of attraction. Col. Stadsvold has always taken a keen interest in politics, but has never sought honors in that line himself—in fact on several occasions he has refused to accept political honors when urged to accept by friends all over Polk County In this respect he has very few counterparts.

IMPROVING RAPIDLY—Roy Teal who recently was critically ill at St. Vincents hospital and was operated upon for appendicitis is regaining his strength rapidly. He has been at Euclid for some time and was feeling well enough to take a run down here day before yesterday and remained over night. Tho doing well he would not make much of a showing yet in a wrestling match.

HAD PLEASANT TRIP—Ed Carlson returned this morning after a month's trip to Chicago, St. Louis and other points and reports a most pleasant trip. However he was glad to get back to Crookston and intimated that the conditions here were just a shade better than any place he visited and several degrees better than the average. During his trip he encountered considerable bad weather and expected to see snowdrifts galore and railroad traffic tied up the same as it has been farther south. He was most agreeably surprised when he discovered that there was practically no snow here.

AN EARLY SPRING—Gus Gilbertson of Climax, Tobias Johnson of Nielsville and Knute Akre who is just half way between, have returned home after a business trip to Crookston. All are substantial farmers and are looking for an early spring. Mr. Akre says conditions are fine in that section with the farmers in good shape for the next years crop. That is a section of Polk county where the farmers all do well, is they farm their land right, and have been diversifying for many years past.

CARPENTER IS CHAMPION

SET A PACE THAT MADE AL THORPE OF FARGO DIZZY AFTER FIRST MILE

THORPE QUIT IN 27TH LAP WITH CARPENTER FOUR LAPS TO THE GOOD

From Friday's Daily—

There is nothing to it for Harry Carpenter in the three mile championship race with Al Thorpe of Fargo at the Auditorium rink last evening, Carpenter racing Thorpe off his feet in the second mile and after Thorpe had fallen three times and Carpenter had gained a lead of four laps, Thorpe quit in the 27th lap or before the second mile had been finished and Carpenter finished the three miles alone.

Carpenter started out at a terrific pace and Thorpe held him very close for the first mile. Carpenter was then as fresh as when he started with wind to spare, and started spurting the second mile. Thorpe showed distress and plainly demonstrated that he could not stand the terrific pace long.

The race was witnessed by a big crowd, the largest of the season. If Carpenter would train carefully there is no question but what he could skate in any company in the country.

MAIL VOTE IS UNDECISIVE

NO CANDIDATE FOR GRAND MASTER RECEIVED ONE-THIRD BALLOTS CAST

The vote taken by mail on grand master of Minnesota Odd Fellows resulted in no election for the reason that none of the candidates received one-third of the total vote. The grand master will, therefore, be elected next June at the meeting of the grand lodge the candidates to be limited to the three receiving the larger number of votes. The result of the election follows:

Grand Master—W. M. Barber, Long Prairie, 546; George E. McDermott, Rochester 452; F. H. Costner, Minneapolis, 396; H. W. Phillips, St. Paul, 391; F. O. Ricve, Northfield 192.

Those who were elected are:

Grand Warden—Peter A. Nelson, Red Wing, 848; R. E. Barragan, Albert Lea, 575; M. H. McDevitt, Minneapolis 549.

Grand Representative—Charles H. Budd, Montevideo, 1944.

VISITED GREAT MORMON TABERNACLE

Capt. and Mrs. M. R. Brown are Thoroly Enjoying Their Trip West.—Spent Two Days in Salt Lake City and Then Left for Los Angeles—Their Train Delayed by a Freight Wreck

According to a letter received this morning by friends, Capt. and Mrs. M. R. Brown are thoroly enjoying their trip west. The letter was dated last Sunday, and was written from Salt Lake City where they spent two days, leaving Monday for Los Angeles where they will spend some time before proceeding to San Diego where they will remain the greater portion of the time, making occasional side trips to places of interest.

Capt. and Mrs. Brown were greatly interested in the magnificent Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake City, which cost $5,000,000 and has a seating capacity of 10,000 people. They attended a special Mormon sevice in the church and the music was beautiful almost beyond description, the pipe organ being one of the largest in the world. The Tabernacle stands east and west, and is patterned after the one erected by Moses after crossing the Red Sea.

Capt. Brown writes that the scenery from Denver to Salt Lake City thru the rock ribbed gorges is grand, the snow capped peaks being dazzlingly beautiful. At Salt Lake City they also have a very fine Episcopal church which Capt. and Mrs. Brown attended Sunday morning.

Hoarse coughs and stuffy colds that may develop into pneumonia over night are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar, and it soothes inflamed membranes, heals the lungs, and expells the cold from the system. Sold by all druggists.

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES IN HONOR OF LINCOLN

Three Fine Programs Rendered. The Council Chambers Were Packed Twice Today.

The Prize Essay And Reading Contests Were Of A High Character. Many Present.

From Friday's Daily—

Never has the celebration of the birthday anniversary of any great American taken such elaborate form as that yesterday and today marking the centennial of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The observance began yesterday when in every room in the public schools special exercises were participated in by the students, even the tiniest tots participating in flag drills and to this was added patriotic songs, essays on Lincoln, readings of anecdotes of his life, etc.

Last evening te capacity of the assembly hall in the High School building was taxed to accommodate the crowd attending the contest between two seniors, two sophomores, two juniors and two freshmen all of whom gave essays on Lincoln, his life and characteristics.

At 9:30 this morning another monster crowd packed the commodious council chambers at the city hall, the corridors even being packed to their capacity to listen to one of the finest programs ever rendered in Crookston including recitations, essays on Lincoln, and special music all by the students, and addresses by Judge Montague and Jos. Ball, and short remarks by Comrade James Greenhalgh Commander of the local G. A. R. post representing the old soldiers.

This afternoon there is another immense crowd at the city hall in the nature of a citizens memorial service. Business was practically suspended all afternoon, and everyone paid homage to the great American Emancipator. Hon. Jerome W. Wheeler presided, and following the invocation a few remarks by Mayor J. D. McPhee the main address was made by Hon. Daniel Fish of Minneapolis and was a very fine effort. Patriotic songs by a male quartet were interspersed.

Program Was Fine

The program at the contest in the High School Assembly hall last evening was exceptionally creditable to the participants and the judges Mrs. Powers, J. W. Wheeler and Rev. W. S. Ward had quite a task to pick the winners. Miss Meda Chesterman and Edward Hagen were awarded the head prizes for readings and recitations respectively and appeared on the program at the city hall today as did Ella Regedal, Frankie Hoch, Edythe Turner and Raymond Rossberg who won the prizes for essays on the life of Lincoln. All received handsome prizes in choice literature, the first two receiving 9 volumes of Shakespeare.

All the essays and readings were excellent, as were the musical selections.

Much Interest Displayed

The deepest interest was displayed in the two meetings at the city hall today. The council chambers were decorated with flags and a large portrait of Lincoln was draped with a beautiful flag owned by R. C. Burkhardt which had seen actual service.

Hon Daniel Fish who spoke this afternoon, arrived this morning and was met at the depot by Mayor McPhee and Jos. Ball and escorted to the Hotel Crookston.

Program Was Changed

Owing to the fact that the dinner hour arrived before the morning program was completed, the afternoon program was lengthened by the addition of all members left over from the morning, and the programs as carried out were revised as follows:

SOLONS ENTHUSE OVER SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

Scope Of Work, Attendance And Splendid Supervision Far Exceed Their Expectations: They Will Co-operate.

Big Delegation Of Legislators And 30 Citizens Of Crookston Inspect School And Partake Of Dinner.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Far reaching in its effects, and lasting and most substantial in the benefits that will accrue, was the visit of the delegation of senators and representatives from the state legislature to the Crookston school of Agriculture today. The solons numbered 15 and they arrived this morning on No. 5 from St. Paul and were escorted by the committee in charge at once to the Hotel Crookston where they were breakfasted, after which they took a cursory view of the business section of Crookston, one section being piloted about by Senator A. D. Stephens and the others scattering about.

Driven to School of Agriculture

Shortly before 11 o'clock the visitors were driven to the Crookston School of Agriculture accompanied by 30 of the prominent business and professional men of the city. The weather was ideal, much better than it was in St. Paul when the legislators left for the jaunt here, and the drive was an ideal one.

Personnel of the Party

The members of the legislature who arrived this morning were Messrs. Kelly, C. E. Johnson, Dan Robertson, Thorpe, Wetherstine, Dale, McGrant, Stephens, Anderson, Donaldson, Moonan, Seward, Swanson, Mork, and Holton, and they were accompanied by Mr. Authier, special representatives from the Minneapolis Tribune.

Those from this city who participated in the hospitality of Prof. and Mrs. Robertson in the inspection of the School of Agriculture and in partaking of a most bountiful dinner and a four o'clock luncheon included the following:

Attended Chapel

The guests were ushered into the Ladies Building where they were cordially welcomed by Supt. and Mrs. Robertson, Principal L. P. Harrington Miss Woodruff, the preceptress, Mr. Brown and the balance of the faculty, after which all attended morning chapel.

The scene here was a most interesting one, there being 102 students present, and a brighter, more intelligent and earnest set of faces were never looked into than facd Prof. Harrington who lead the exercises. After one song and a responsive reading, the balance of the exercises were rispensed with in order that the students might listen to a few remarks from those present.

Students were Unanimous

Supt. Robertson first called upon Senator Stephens who spoke very briefly but gave the students some most wholesome advice.

Senator Stephens before closing asked every student in the room whether or not they believed that the same privileges they enjoyed should be extended to other localities of the state. and if so to raise their right hands. 102 hands shot up in the air as tho all worked by one spring, and they were, the spring of earnest enthusiasm. The vote was declared unanimous and the attitude of the students certainly impressed all visitors present.

Patriotic Address

Senator Seward of Marshall Minn., was next called on and made a very patriotic address in which he referred to flags with which the chapel had been decorated since the Lincoln Day exercises. He advised their being left there, and only wished that every school house in the land was so decorated. He stated that students in the east had magnificent monuments to gaze at on every hand, erected in honor of the heroic deeds of great patriots of the Aevolutionary and Civil wars but that the flag was the only patriotic emblem to be seen in a new country.

He also referred to the advantages which the students of the school of agriculture possessed over the students of his days who attended school in log structures, woefully lacking in equipment. He wanted to see such schools as the one at Crookston, scattered all over the great state of Minnesota.

Future Teachers

Senator Moonan of Waseca called upon, paid a high compliment to the shrewdness and foresight of Senator A. D. Stephens in fathering the new departure in agricultural education which resulted in the present magnificent school.

He said he was thoroly convinced that such schools were the great necessity of the state of Minnesota today That what was needed was more of them, and that two years hence he hoped to have one in operation in his section of the state. He said that instead of centering such schools in the cities, they should be located in the rural districts where they would attract the sons and daughters of farmers and girls and boys from the city as well, and that the result would be as it is in the older countries, the aristocracy of the land would soon be located in the country.

Stephens for Governor

In closing he said that the pride of the people in Senator Stephens who had fathered this school was most pardonable, but that two years hence the people could not refer to him as "our senator" but that the people of the whole state would refer to him as "our governor" a sally that brought forth a great deal of applause.

Work Most Important

Representative McGraff was the next speaker. He endorsed the work of the school most heartily and stated on of the greatest needs of the day was the application of every possible influence to deter the boys and girls from the country going to the city. He said the tide should turn the other way, as the prosperity and future advancement of the country demanded that the agricultural regions should receive every attention.

Mr. Authier, special representative of the Minneapolis Tribune made a few brief remarks in which he convulsed those present by witty references to the workings in the state legislature, which he 'covers for his paper, but concluded with a high compliment to the members present, because they went to the legislature with a definite object in view. He complimented the school most highly and assured all that in-sco-far as his paper could render aid to such institutions it would be given.

Closing Addresses

Representative John Holten of Polk County next made a few remarks in whic hhe wanted the students to make the best of their time and that every encouragement would be given the school. Senator Witherstine made the closing remarks, and they were of a most patriotic character.

A Grand Dinner

Supt. Robertson then announced that dinner was ready and pupils and guests filed into the spacious dining room in Stephens Hall where a most substantial dinner was served, the cooking attracting numerous comments, and the splendid service still more.

An Air of Refinement

Thruout the entire day all present were impressed by the air of refinement everywhere prevalent. The faculty of th school is ideal in that respect, and while there is no formality the influence of such teachers inspires th estudents with a certain dignity which in itself elevates the splendid calling for which they are preparing themselves.

Pleasant Social Hour

The visitors next adjourned to the residence of Supt. and Mrs. Robertson where a social hour was passed after which the party divided into three squads and were shown thru all the buildings, Stephens Hall, the ladies building, the boys dormitory, and the industrial buildings, and also visited the stables and other points of interest.

Expectations Far Exceeded

The Normal school delegation from the legislature which went to Warren this morning, returned on their special car attached to the freight train arriving at the State School this afternoon the train stopping at the state farm for their convenience, and they participated in the inspection. All who were present stated that the school of agriculture and state experimental farm far exceeded their expectations, as there is no question but what the visit here is one of the best strokes of diplcmacy ever inspired by Senator Stephens. The legislators need not be told what the institution is. They have seen with their own eyes, and they will depart tonight loyal and staunch friends of the institution and want more of them established.

Reception Tonight

This evening beginning at 8:30 there will be a public reception tendered the visitors at the Crookston Club rooms at which light refreshments will be served.

J. C. SHERLOCK TO REPRESENT 9TH DIST.

WILL BE MOUNTED AID IN THE INAUGURAL PARADE MARCH FOURTH

Alderman J. C. Sherlock of East Grand Forks will represent the Ninth District in the grand inaugural parade March 4th, when William Howard Taft takes the oath as president of the United States. When Judge Sullivan decided he would not be able to take advantage of the profer himself he immediately picked the genial alderman as an excellent man to do the honors of the occasion. Mr. Sherlock on Sunday decided he would be able to make the trip and on February 27 according to the present plans he will start for the capital city.

That Alderman Sherlock will fittingly represent the Ninth District is admitted by all. The fact that Mr. Sherlock is a fine horseman stands him in good stead on this occasion as he will be a mounted aid.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF VIKING CHORUS

SOME EXCELLENT TALENT HAS BEEN SECURED FOR MARCH FIFTH

The Viking Chorus is preparing for their annual concert which will be given March 5th. For soloists they have secured Miss Eleanor Olson, Contralto; Miss Ethel Olson, Soprao and Reader, and Miss Alice R. Walden, Concert Pianist. These artists will render the greater part of the program However, the Chorus will sing some excellent numbers, one of them being Schumann's "Gypsy Life," with orchestra.

ATTENDING GRAND LODGE OF A.O.U.W.

The Grand Lodge of the A. O. U. W. of Minesota will meet today in St. Paul and will be in session two or three days, only a short session being expected. Last year the session lasted nearly a week in connection with the change in rates that was adopted. A. A. Glenn left last evening to represent the local lodge, and was joined by M. Hagestad who represents the East Grand Forks branch of the order.

When to Bow and Shake Hands

In one's house, for instance, it is correct to shake hands with every one and from this rule there is no deviation. In other peoples' houses it is by no means necessary to shake hands on the occasion of a casual introduction; in fact it would look ignorant to do more than bow. It is always considered good form to serve golden grain belt beer at mealtime. This mild delicious beverage is as good for the health as it is to the taste and keen appetite comes with its use. EAT SAUSAGES AN NEW BREAD

OR ANY FAVORITE FOOD WITHOUT FEAR OF INDIGESTION—DISTRESS

FROM DYSPEPSIA OR A DISORDERED STOMACH VANISHES FIVE MINUTES LATER

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of a case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will occasionally take a little Diapepsin after eating.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea. Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Billiousness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in the Stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. Each triangule will digest all the food you can eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking today and by tomorrow you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

WEALTHY NORTH DAKOTAN DISCOVERS ATTRACTIVE BUSINESS PROPOSITION HERE

H. A. Ball who has been visiting his brother, J. D. Ball here for the past few days, returned to Grafton, N. D. this morning, Mrs. Ball having returned last Friday evening. Mr. Ball has been looking over the field here very carefully with an idea of investing here and engaging in business and succeeded in discovering a very attractive proposition, and it is within the realm of probabilities that he will move to Crookston and make his future home here. Mr. Ball would be a most desirable citizen, and has ample means to carry out his plans, and also has a host of friends here who would be glad to have him make such a move.

MUCH INTEREST IN TAX LIST

JOURNAL'S FEATURE OF SATURDAY LAST MADE A HIT WITH THE PUBLIC

The greatest degree of interest has been manifescted by the publication of the list of personal property taxpayers in the city of Crookston and the amount they paid, as published in the Journal on Saturday last. Up to noon today nearly 200 extra copies had been sold, and the Journal has but 10 copies left of the 300 extras printed The matter is one of general interest, and the Journal has received many compliments for the feature, tho it involved a considerable amount of work in order to insure accuracy. Little else has been talked about since the issue of the Saturday edition.

Bad to Worse

He told himself,
"I think I'll go
And see a moving Picture show;"
He went and found
That he had sat
Right in behind a Great big hat;
"Lady will you Remove your lid?"
He asked, and lo!
The lady did!
"What!" said he, "are Things what they seem,
Or is the whole thing
Just a dream!"
He looked again,
Then had a fit—
Stuck on her head
With hoops on it
A Psyche knot
Stood up so tall
He could not see
The stage at all.

A PLAIN BUSINESS PROPOSITION STATED

Gasoline Traction Engine Being Manufactured Here Is Attracting Much Attention. Product Of Crookston Brains.

Crookston Manufacturing Company Has Force Of 12 Mechanics Making Them. Will Sell Limited Number Of Shares.

That there is a large and increasing demand for a traction power with which to do all classes of farm work, such as plowing, seeding, harrowing, harvesting, threshing and in hauling heavily loaded wagons on the road, is more than evidenced by the many inquiries being received by the Crookston Mfg. Co., regarding their new Gasoline Traction Engine.

This new traction is the work of Crookston brains, and is without the slightest doubt, the most practical traction ever invented.

It combines lightness in weight, with maximum of power and can be produced at a reasonable cost.

This traction is designated to meet all the requirements of the farm, is simple in construction, neat in appearance, easily managed either in the field, on the road or when being used as a stationary power, and is destined to become the favorite power of the Northwestern farmer.

The demand for this traction is by the very best and well-to-do farmers thruout the small grain belt of Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada, who are amply able to purchase for cash.

One farmer in Kittson county now has one of his men at work in the shops of the Crookston Mfg. Co., familiarizing himself with all the working parts of the traction, and has placed his order for the first traction turned out, and states that his locality will take all the tractions the company can build this season, and that every sale will be a cash sale.

It takes a certain amount of cash to establish and conduct a factory, in order that all obligations may be met promptly, such as labor, material, etc., and for this reason, the Crookston Mfg. Co. are offering a limited amount of their capital stock, to Crookston investors, believing absolutely, that they are offering an investment that will, in a very short time, be worth many times the amount paid, and that it will pay a fair return in way of dividends.

The first carload of iron material has been received, and a force of 12 mechanics are at work building the new tractions.

Do you want to be one of the original investors If so, call at the office of the Crookston Mfg. Co., at once, as now is the time they need the money. Shares are selling at one hundred dollars each, and not less than one full share can be purchased.

MEXICAN CITY SCENE OF FATAL THEATRE FIRE

WOODEN STRUCTURE EASY PREY FOR THE FLAMES—MOVING PICTURE MACHINE WAS CAUSE OF FIRE—MANY PROMINENT PEOPLE OF COUNTRY NUMBERED AMONG THE DEAD—IMPOSSIBLE TO GET NAMES OF AMERICANS IN THE CITY

Mexico City, Feb. 16 — Between 250 and 30 people were burned to death and many were injured in a fire which destroyed the Flores theatre in the city of Acapuca last night The news of the disaster reached this capital this afternoon telegraphic communication with Acapulco having been destroyed last night. when the telegraph office adjoining the theatre was burned.

The Flores theatre was a wooden structure and last night over 1,000 people crowded into it to witness a special performance given in honor of Governor Damian Flores of the state of Guerro, who was visiting the past at the time. One of the numbers on the program consisted of a series of moving pictures. While the operator was exhibiting these a film caught fire and a blaze was quickly communicated to some bunting used for decorative purposes.

In an incredibly short time the flames spread to all parts of the structure. There were but three narrow exits and the panic stricken audience rushed to them, many persons falling to be crushed to death their bodies choking the way of escape.

The screams of those imprisoned were terrifying. Owing to the rapidity with which the fire spread and its intense heat it was impossible to attempt rescue work and those imprisoned were literally roasted alive, as the fire burned with little smoke and few were suffocated. The efforts of the fire department were confind to attempting to save the adjoining buildings and the firemen succeeded so well the property loss was small. The telegraph office, postoffice, and custom house were damaged, but all of the governments records and registered mail were saved.

Today pitiful scenes of grief were witnessed on the streets. Men, women and children wandered from place to place hunting for relatives or for friends. Many of the dead are from the first families of the state, the affair at the theatre being a social event of considerable importance and calling out the wealthiest and oldest families for miles around. In some instances whole families were wiped out of existence. The municipal authorities today caused large trenches to be dug and into these the bodies of the dead were laid. Identification of the dead was impossible the bodies having been burned in most cases to a crisp.

Telegrams sent to the American consul at Acapulco by the Associated Press asking for the names of the American dead have not been answered. Acapulco on the west coast of the state of Guerrero, is one of the three important ports of the Pacific coast of Mexico. Nearly all of the steamer lines make it a port of call, and the harbor is counted the best in Mexico.

"Don't they have any dirt in heaven to play in?" he asked.

"No, of course not," replied his mother.

"Then what do little boys do up there?" queried Johnny.

"Oh, they play harps and sing and sit under beautiful trees," was the reply.

"Well," said the little fellow, "I don't see how they can have trees if there ain't no dirt."—Houston Post.

EDUCATOR IN THE TOILS

FORMER WELL KNOWN MINNESOTA EDUCATOR IS ARRESTED IN SPOKANE, WASH.

WENT BY NAME OF A. F. ALLEN THERE, REAL NAME PROF. J. S. CARLSON

From Tuesday's Daily—
E. W. Evenson, secretary of the Inland Empire Hardware and Implement Dealers' Association, stationed in Spokane, Wash., has fully identified Professor J. S. Carlson, once prominent in educational and political circles in Minnesota, who was arrested in that city under the name of A. F. Allen on February 9 and developed erysipelas while in the city prison. Mr. Evenson knew him as a professor of mathematics and languages in Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter, Minn., Mr. Evenson said in an interview:

"Mr. Carlson has the degree of Bachelor of Arts and Doctor of Law and was once prominent in the political circles of Minnesota. He speaks five languages and was called from Gustavus Adolphus college to a chair in the modern language department of the Minnesota State University. During the '90's he was elected to the state legislature, defeating the present governor, John A. Johnson. He also defeated C. R. Davis, now a congressman, for a state office. Mr. Carlson was considered an exceedingly bright man and a fluent orator. He has a wife and four children living in Minneapolis. He probably got the name of A. F. Allen from having grips with that name, there being an A. F. Allen in the Gustavus Adolphus college at the head of the commercial department. Drink is probably accountable for his present condition."

Many former students of Gustavus Adolphus college and the State University in Crookston and vicinity are well acquainted with Prof. Carlson and deeply regret his downfall.

KILLS SELF IN DAKOTA

COLAN A. CHISHOLM WAS FORMERLY A POLICEMAN IN DULUTH

NO KNOWN CAUSE FOR HIS TERRIBLE DEED—HE DIED DRESSED UP

From Monday's Daily—
Colan Archie Chisholm formerly a Duluth policeman, committed suicide in Pembina township, North Dakota, Saturday last. News of the tragedy was received today.

Mr. Chisholm who was 59 years old, was a member of the Duluth police department under Mayor Sutphin. He was quite well known and was popular with his associates on the force.

The man committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. The day before his death he drew $100 from the Pembina bank and purchased a new suit of clothes. There is no known reason why he should have wished to die.

Chisholm was born in Nova Scotia. So far as known he had no relatives living. His service on the Duluth police force covered a period of two years.

MUNICIPAL HOUSE CLEANING

Pearl Clark the landlady and Grace Hastings charged with frequenting a disorderly house, were arraigned in the municipal court at East Grand Forks and their cases continued over until Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Bonds of $150 in the first case and of $100 in the second case were required and were furnished. The two women were taken as the result of a rail of the rooms over one of the saloons on De Mers avenue and more raids are promised.—Grand Forks Herald. If the East Grand Forks authorities make anything like a clean sweep, Sheriff Daniels and Jailor Thomas Casey will have a regular harem on their hands and Deputy Pat Sullivan will have to charter a cattle car to transport the flock of soiled doves to the county jail.

NE KIND OF RING WHEAT

A MANIT FARMER CLAIMS TO HAVE COVERED SOMETH MARVELOUS

SIX-ROWE EAD HE SAYS WILL YIELD 60 BUSHELS PER ACRE

A gentleman who Sundayed in the city tells of a new variety of wheat that is being tried, in a small way up in Manitoba, and from which great things are expected.

One R. J. Taylor who lives a few miles north of Carlyle, Sask., is in possession of forty pounds of the new kind of wheat which he hopes will increase the yield of the west. The very striking feature of this new variety is that it grows on the head in six rows instead of the usual two.

Two years ago Mr. Taylor while cutting his wheat, noticed a six-rowed head, saved it planting the seed and getting ninety-four heads. These ninety four heads he sowed last spring and now has forty pounds of the seed, enough to sow about fifteen acres.

Mr. Taylor claims that this wheat yields sixty and more bushels to the acre so this fall he expects to have at least 1,000 bushels from his forty pounds. This wheat grades No. 2 Northern and is sai dto be less susceptible to frost than any of the varieties now grown in western Canada.

POLK COUNTY PIONEER DEAD

MRS. MARY MURPHY 92 YEARS OF AGE PASSED AWAY EARLY THIS MORNING

WAS ONE OF THE PIONEER WOMEN OF WESTERN POLK COUNTY

From Tuesday's Daily—
At 12:30 o'clock this morning the death angel claimed Grandma Murphy aged 92 years who resides on the Minnesota point in western Polk county just south of East Grand Forks. Mrs. Murphy was quite ill yesterday and death was not unexpected being due to old age. It is believed that up to the time of her death Mrs. Murphy was the oldest resident of Polk County.

The deceased was one of the pioneers of this section coming here with her husband in 1880. She has resided here ever since and survived her husband for 18 years. Four children are left to mourn her demise. They are James Murphy, Garrett Murphy, Maggie Murphy and Mrs. O'Leary. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

OLD SOLDIER DIED SUDDENLY

DEATH AT MENTOR AND ANOTHER IN CROOKSTON THIS AFTERNOON

Coroner Stenshoel was yesterday called to Bygland to investigate the death of Gunder Salveson who died of heart trouble at the home of his brother, Amund Salveson Saturday last, aged 74. Death was due to old age and a weak heart. Deceased was single and an old soldier. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

Miss Salina Larson died at Mentor yesterday after a short illness. Funeral announcements will be made later.

Mrs. S. A. Larson who was sent to St. Vincent Hospital from the Riverside Hotel a few days ago by Commissioner Clements suffering with typhoid fever died at 2:30 this afternoon. She leaves a husband here and several children by a former husband who have been notified.

CAPT. BROWN IN SAN DIEGO

WRITES INTERESTING LETTER REGARDNIG HIS WESTERN TRIP—PLEASED TO NOTE INTEREST HERE IN CORN RAISING—FAVORS STEPHENS SCHOOL PLAN

From Tuesday's Daily—
Capt. M. R. Brown writes very interestingly of his trip west. With Mrs. Brown he arrived at San Diego the 14th inst. and they will remain there for some time. In a postscript Capt. Brown states that he is highly gratified to note the interest the farmers are manifesting in the cultivation of corn as evidenced in the discussions and communications published in the Journal, as he believes corn culture means much to this country.

Regarding the Agricultural School proposition he says:

"Senator Stephens' bill for one agricultural school for each congressional district is all right and should be accepted and passed. If there is too many schools established they will very likely be poorly cared for, and soon become unpopular and useless. We should establish no more than can be well provided for, then they will be useful."

"We reached this place last Sunday evening the 14th inst from Los Angeles. Came by boat, and a very pleasant trip, non-eventful after getting out of sight of land. Our trip from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, was very pleasant, the scenery is varied from beautiful snow-capped mountais down to a sad desert not even a cactus to show life, but pure sand for miles on either side.

"Los Angeles is certainly a business city. They claim 300,000 people. There is every indication of thrift and prosperity, many modern buildings showing excellent architectural designs, that would do credit to an eastern city and their appearance indicates the expenditure of millions of dollars. Many private residences are simply grand and were no doubt built by millionaires who would probably like to enjoy them a thousand years or more. But alas—

'If life was merchandise,
That men could buy,
The rich would live and none
But the poor would die.'

"In visiting the cemetery ground I notice they are neatly kept and made very inviting at least the multitudes stopping there would indicate it.

"We were five days in the city. The weather conditions were very unpleasant, as it rained every day. Ladies wear furs there, same as at Crookston and men wear overcoats and everybody carries an umbrella hoisted. The people there say that the rainy season there has only spells. We expect to remain here a few weeks, the weather is like our summer."

A Squid In Hawaii.

In discovering the failings or eccentricities of a person Hawaiians not only show perspicacity, but an aptness in applying a nickname to the one possessing such characteristics: The politician who changes his faith too often is called a squid (octopus). One species of this animal is caught by the aid of a torchlight in shallow water. While a bag net is held some distance in front of it, so that it can conveniently run into it and be caught, it is prodded behind by the fisherman's foot. Sometimes the squid will go directly into the trap, but often it will run forward, with every indication of being enmeshed, to a point within two feet of the net, when it will suddenly turn about and go back to its starting place. Then it is likely to describe a right, left or oblique angle, always contrary to the fisherman's desire. So in Hawaiian metaphor the politician or candidate who switches from the straight track is a squid.—"Paradise of the Pacific."

Where They Know How to Economize.

At the request of a woman in search of a servant the manager of an employment agency asked each of the girls lined up against the wall if she had ever been employed in a minister's family. None of them had been.

"May I ask why you are particularly anxious to know if these girls have had an engagement of that kind?" asked the manager.

"Because we are very hard up just now," the woman replied, "and I must have a girl who is economical. I have found that of all servants those who have worked in ministers' families know best how to economize."—New

HUMAN CUR POISONS DOGS

EVIDENTLY JEALOUS OF SUPERIOR INTELLIGENCE OF 4-LEGGED CANINES

FIVE DOGS IN JEROMES ADDITION POISONED BY COWARDLY SNEAK

From Tuesday's Daily—
Some monster in human form has developed the dog poisoning habit in Jeromes addition and yesterday and this morning 5 dogs of residents of that section of the city have been poisoned, three of them being dead while two will probably recover.

Mayor McPhee's fine spaniel "Turp" who never harmed or bothered any one was the first victim, dying yesterday and valuable bird dogs belonging to Steve Withey and Mr. McKinney are also dead while bird dogs belonging to Messrs. Riggs and Jacobson are poisoned but will probably survive. Mayor McPhee could probably have saved his dog had he ever dreamed of strychnine poisoning, as the dog was such 2 1-2 hours before his agony was ended by death.

The greatest indignation prevails thruout the city over the outrage, and if the identity of the perpetrator of the vile deed is disclosed there will be something doing.

Any person so low, so devoid of all humanity, honor or common decency as to commit so loathsome an act as to put poison out for dumb animals, prized for their usefulness and as family pets, is of the same stripe who would stab a person in the back or commit murder if they were not so cowardly. It is not moral compunction that prevents their being open outlaws, but cringing cowardice.

Words fail us to express proper contempt for the human monster that would commit such a trick, unless Billingsgate should be resorted to and that would exclude the paper from the mails. We only hope the perpetrator may read this item and imagine about fourteen long dashes for which he can substitute the most loathsome appelations in the English, German, French and Scandinavian languages and apply them to himself with the compliments of the Journal, Mayor McPhee and about 50 others who have reported the outrage to this paper.

EASILY DECIDED

This Question Should Be Answered Easily by Crookston People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mrs. H. Johnson, 217 Washington Ave., Crookston, Minn., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved of inestimable value to a member of our family who had suffered for a long time from kidney complaint. Doan's Kidney Pills disposed of all the symptoms of my trouble and my kidneys were invigorated. I have also used Doan's Kidney Pills for headaches, backaches and that languid feeling so common to kidney complaint with excellent results."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

An Obedient Tiger.

"How entire," remarks the London Globe, "is the confidence of the native East Indian in the government may be gathered from the following anecdote, which comes from Lahore: A tiger had escaped from the zoological gardens, and its keeper, hoping to lure it back, followed it. When all other inducements had failed, he lifted up his voice and solemnly adjured it in the name of the British government, to which it belonged, to come back to its cage. The tiger, it is needless to add obeyed at once."

C. R. Kluger, the Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." Sold by all druggists.

SAFE BLOWER IS ARRESTED

BELIEVED GEORGE DEEN ROBBED DEPOT AT HORACE SUNDAY NIGHT

MAN RELEASED FROM JAIL LAST WEEK ARRESTED AT FARGO

From Tuesday's Daily—
When Chief Grant and Officer Tietgen of Fargo placed George Deen under arrest yesterday it is believed they nabbed a professional whose most laborious duty is blowing safes with common pilfering a side issue. Deen was arrested on suspicion of having robbed the Great Northern station at Horace Sunday night and goods were found in his possession which it is believed were taken from the place. He was released from the county jail last week after serving time for selling booze.

From Horace the report was received that the depot was entered Sunday night. An attempt was made to gain entrance by dynamiting the door. This was unsuccessful it being necessary to break a window to get in. The exact loss could not be ascertained last night.

ROLSCH BUYS BLOODED STOCK

RETURNED YESTERDAY FROM SOUTHERN MINNESOTA WITH MAYOR McPHEE

PERCHERON BROOD MARES AND HEREFORD HEIFERS WERE SECURED

From Monday's Daily—
Ernest Rolsch returned Sunday morning from a trip to the Southern part of the state with Mayor J. D. McPhee and several days were spent near Worthington where Mr. Rolsch purchased some blooded stock for the Lytle farm south of the city one of the best in the county, which Mr. Rolsch purchased last year.

He secured six fine percheron brood mares and three Hereford heifers which will be fresh this spring together with a fine Hereford bull, and intends to raise nothing but the best of stock.

This means that Mr. Rolsch will have one of the very finest farms in Polk county, as he is starting right. It will be but a few years till he has a splendid herd of Herefords, and doubtless others will follow his example. Mr. Rolsch has already sent a man after the stock which will arrive about March 1st.

Both gentlemen report snow all the way from 10 to 20 feet deep according to where it was measured, and state that we do not know what winter is up here in the Red River Valley.

BABY BOY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

ROBERT MASSEE FIRES CLOTHING BUT ESCAPES WITHOUT BURNS

One of the narrowest escapes from death by fire on record occurred Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Massee at East Grand Forks when their year-old son Robert touched a match to his clothing. The little fellow attracted his mother and a domestic by his screams and altho both his outside clothing and underclothing were burned there is not a burn on his body.

According to Mrs. Massee the baby boy was asleep in a room upstairs in the afternoon. He evidently woke up, climbed out of bed and secured some matches from the dresser. He managed to scratch these and the flame ignited his clothing. The little fellow began to scream and the mother and a servant who were down stairs ran to see what was the matter. They found Robert enveloped in flames but soon quelched them. It is nothing short of marvelous that the baby was not severely burned but his mother says there is not a mark to show the experience he went thru.

STRONG ON THE GUN PLAY

COUPLE MARRIED AT HILLSBORO N. D. IN TROUBLE AT DULUTH

WIFE CLAIMS HUBBY USED HER AS TARGET IN PISTOL PRACTICE

From Tuesday's Daily—
Claiming that she has been subjected to cruel and inhuman treatment at the honds of her husband for several years, Nettie Hollem has brought suit in district court for divorce from her husband John A. Bergquist Hollem.

Mrs. Hollem is 27 years old and her husband is 42 years. They were married at Hillsboro, N. D. Sept. 11, 1899 and have one child, Lester Wallace, aged 8 years.

Gun play was Mrs. Hollem's strong point, according to the complaint filed by his wife. In Brainerd in 1903 she says, he shot at her twice and in the same year at Chisholm, she says he pulled a gun and threatened to shoot her. She says that on several occasions he beat her and subjected her to other forms of cruelty.

Mrs. Hollem says her husband is a stationary engineer capable of earning big wages but he has not furnished her and the child with the necessities of life in the way of food and clothing, preferring to spend any money he might earn in gambling. She says that she has had to work to support herself and the child.

She asks a divorce, the custody of the child, alimony and the restoration of her maiden name, Nettie Glockner.

TIME CLOCK FOR COUNTY OFFICERS

SAUGSTAD BILL PROVIDES FOR DOCKING OFFICIALS WHO NEGLECT DUTIES

WOULD HAVE COUNTY AUDITOR KEEP TAB ON OTHER OFFICIALS

From Monday's Daily—
John Saugstad and his fellow citizens of Polk county have considerable difficulty in finding some of the county officials of the county according to Mr. Saugstad, and he introduced a bill today which he is convinced will compel these officials to attend to business This measure will compel all county officials to keep their offices open 3 hours in the morning and 3½ hours in the afternoon. They must keep office hours and must not be absent more than three days a month without the consent of the county board but will be allowed a vacation of two weeks.

The county auditor will keep a check on the office hours of his associated officials. The absence of officials from their post without leave will make them liable to a deduction in their pay.—Minneapolis Journal.

We would like to know which official could not be located. It will certainly be great to listen to Sheriff Daniels, Deputy Burkhardt, Judge Morken, Clerk of Court Lanctot and the rest of the bunch timidly approaching County Auditor Welte or Deputy Hanson and murmur, "Please may I go out?"

HAD HIS FEET BADLY FROZEN

Travelnig men will sympathize with Herbert L. Landblom of Fargo, traveling for Nichols & Shepard Machine Co., is at his home suffering from severely frozen feet. He arrived Tuesday. In company with Tom Olson a timber cruiser, Mr. Landblom went last week into the timber north of Duluth to look at some timber land. They started out on snow shoes, but later got into a small brush and had to abandon them and take to the ordinary way of travel. In this way it took them two days to cover a distance which it was thought would take only one day and both men had their feet badly frozen.

When we hear a woman say that all men are alike we wonder how she found it out.

THREE CURES OF SEVERE ECZEMA

Michigan Woman Tells of Her Brother's Terrible Suffering with the Disease—Grandchild and Another Baby also Permanently Cured.

CUTICURA REMEDIES PROVED INVALUABLE

"My brother had eczema three different summers. About the same time each summer it came out between his shoulders and down his back, and he said his suffering was terrible. He used different kinds of medicines that were said to be good for that disease, but nothing seemed to do him much good. When it came on the third summer, he bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and gave it a faithful trial. Soon he began to feel better and he cured himself entirely with Cuticura and has never been bothered with eczema since. He also used Cuticura to cure a bunch over his eye and a terrible corn which was so bad that he could not wear his shoe. A lady in Indiana heard of how my daughter, Mrs. Miller, had cured her little son of terrible eczema by the Cuticura Remedies. This lady's little one had the eczema so badly that they thought they would lose it. She used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and it cured her child entirely. and the disease never came back. DIED FROM LOCKJAW

EMPLOYE OF CROOKSTON LUMBER CO. DIED AS RESULT OF INJURY

FRANK O'NEIL BEMIDJI THE VICTIM — FUNERAL HELD TODAY

From Friday's Daily—

Frank O'Neil of Bemidji who recently had his foot amputated below the knee, died Tuesday afternoon of tetanus.

Mr. O'Neil was employed on the Crookston Lumber Company's steam decker for loading logs near Fowlds and had his foot crushed by a heavy chain on February 2nd. He was taken to the St. Anthony's hospital Bemidji and his foot dressed. On the 5th inst., it was found necessary to amputate the injured leg just below the knee. Nine days after the operation tetanus was manifested and the patient, weakened by his injury, was unable to withstand the disease, dying Tuesday.

It is understood that tetanus was caused by germs contained in Mr. O'Neil's sock at the time his foot was crushed. The sock driven into the foot and the blood took up the tetanic germ which was carried into other parts of the body before the leg was amputated.

Mr. O'Neil is survived only by a wife, there being no children by their marriage. Mrs. O'Neil's father and brother are now in Bemidji.

The funeral was held from the Catholic church in Bemidji today. Mr. O'Neil has many friends in Crookston who will learn of his death with deep regret.

SET GOODS IN STREET

SHERIFF DID THINGS AT WARROAD YESTERDAY AND HOTEL IS CLOSED

BRIGADE OF DEPUTIES SOON EMPTIED HOTEL AND THE BUFFET

From Friday's Daily—

Quite a stir was caused at Warroad yesterday when the sheriff with a squad of 20 deputies entered the hotel at Warroad and proceeded to set all the furniture of the hotel and the contents of the saloon operated in connection, out into the street as the result of foreclosure proceedings. There has been some trouble between proprietor Boyd and the owners of the building for some time past and they have been endeavoring to have a change made.

They made it yesterday and the affair caused considerable excitement.

A new hotel, containing 100 rooms and modern in every respect will be erected at Warroad by a joint stock company of local business men the coming summer but it will not be completed till next fall.

EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION

SUPT. McINTYRE LEFT FOR CHICAGO VIA DULUTH LAST EVENING

Supt. E. E. McIntyre of the city schools left last evening for Chicago where he will attend a meeting of the Suprintendents Convention and will be absent for about a week or ten days. The convention will be addressed by the leading educators of the entire country and it is most fortunate that Supt. McIntyre was able to attend. He left last evening for Duluth and will proceed from there to Chicago.

Watched Closely

The city dailies are trying to create the impression that the "interests" are not paying any attention to the legislature. This is wrong. Lobbyists are watching every move and it is already charged that "powerful and substantial arguments" are ready to be used as occasion requires.—Roseau Region.

This is good logic from the Duluth Herald: Supporting the home institutions doing business with your neighbors, buying at home, is not merely a matter of sentimental concern for those you know the best, but a hard headed business policy that means dollars to your own pockets.

LARIMORE DEPOT IS IN RUINS

ALMOST ENTIRELY WIPED OUT BY FIRE WHICH STARTS FROM EXPLOSION

LAMP EXPLODES AND SCATTERS FIRE ALL OVER BAGGAGE ROOM

From Thursday's Daily—

The Great Northern depot was almost totally destroyed in Larimore last evening about 7 o'clock. The loss is about $18,000. The building was valued at $20000. The company carried its own insurance on the structure.

The fire started in the baggage room. The baggage man lighted his lantern went outside to light the lamps. He was absent not more than a couple of minutes. When he returned the baggage room was a mass of flames. It is believed by the railway officials that the lantern exploded.

Building Soon a Mass of Flames

The woodwork building burned like tinder. It was a brick structure which had been built in 1890 for a division headquarters building as well as a depot and the offices were better constructed than those in the Grand Forks depot. The fire department could do very little to save the main structure as the building was a mass of flames on their arrival. They were successful in stopping the fire at the walls dividing the main structure from the freight office.

All of the building east of freight house wall was destroyed.

All of the express, freight and baggage was saved.

The Western Union and Great Northern wires went down and communication west of Larimore was shut off for a couple of hours. A lineman was busy making the necessary repairs before 8:00 p. m.

Build Temporary Structure

Carpenters were sent to Larimore on the Oriental Limited and Assistant Superintendent W. H. Kelsey stated a temporary freight depot would be in place by 9:00 o'clock this morning.

There is enough of the west end of the building left to make a fair sized depot.

Since the division headquarters were removed from Larimpre to Grand Forks only the lower portion of the Larimore building had been used by the company.

ERSKINE HOTEL CHANGES HANDS

MISS CALLA RIDDELL AND MOTHER PURCHASE PAYING PROPERTY

OLE OIE TAKES THEIR HOTEL AT ROSEAU—SWANSONS TO TAKE TRIP

Last evening in this city Miss Calla Riddell and her mother purchased the Arlington hotel at Erskine from Mr. and Mrs. Nels N. Swanson to take possession Feb. 23. Mr. and Mrs. Swanson have operated the hotel for many years and have amassed a comfortable fortune and plan on taking a rest and will enjoy a trip to Florida Mexico and other southern points. Mr. Swanson will probably later engage in the banking business in North Dakota.

Ole Ole who served as register of deeds for six years in Roseau County has purchased the Hotel at Roseau formerly conducted very successfully by Mrs. and Miss Riddell, who were very successful there, and who are popular with the traveling public and will undoubtedly make a success of the business at Erskine.

The deal was handled by Geo. F. Fuller, representing Geo. E. Perley of Moorhead.

Take Four Choice

Gus Beaulieu, editor of the White Earth Tomahawk and chief agitator for the Red Man on the White Earth reservation insists that the woes of Mahnomen county have not yet come to an end hints that that county may be dissolved by the higher courts. If this fails, the doughy Gus appeals to the noble Red Man or the remnants of this once mighty race, to band together and organize for the purpose of capturing all the county offices—next time.—Norman County Herald.

POGUE AGAIN BEMIDJI MAYOR

CITY ELECTION YESTERDAY UNUSUALLY QUIET, ONLY 732 VOTES POLLED

BAILEY, MALOY AND CAHILL ARE WINNERS — FIVE NEW ALDERMEN

From Thursday's Daily—

In one of the most quiet elections ever held in Bemidji Mayor J. P. Pogue was elected to a third term yesterday with a comfortable majority of 95 over his opponent, William McCuaig. Of the 950 electors in the city of Bemidji only 732 polled their votes which is 90 less than were cast at the city election a year ago.

Earl Geil and George Kirk, respectively candidates for city treasurer and alderman at large were without opposition and were elected.

In the municipal judgeship was centered the liveliest contest of the election, there being four candidates. Judge Bailey, who was appointd last August by Governor Johnson when the court was created, was elected to the office by a plurality of 110, having a majority of 280 over his nearest competitor, H. A. Simons. The vote for municipal judge stood, H. W. Bailey, 402; Attorney H. E. Simons, 122; Attorney A. A. Andrews, 96; Attorney A. M. Crowell, 74.

Thomas Maloy, the present incumbent of the office of the city clerk, was re-elected by a majority of 120 over T. Beaudette which is considerable less than his majority of 238 a year ago; and City Assessor Cahill was retained with an excess of 256 votes, being opposed by J. P. Omich.

Five new faces will appear at the council meetings after March 1st. Dr. E. A. Shannon defeated John Goodman in the first ward by a majority of 22; W. A. Klein won over William Blocker in the second ward; J. Bisiar in the third ward, won out over his opponents, John Marin and W. G. Schroeder; C. D. White and M. F. Cunningham were opponents in the fourth ward the former winning.

WANTS ROAD MONEY DISTRIBUTED

POLK COUNTY UNDER NEW BILL WOULD SECURE PORTION OF $62,000

Senator A. L. Hanson of Ada wants the funds apportioned to counties by the state highway commission, but held up because of non-compliance with its rules, distributed at once to the municipalities of the state. He introduced a bill in the state legislature yesterday directing the state auditor to drawn his warrant in favor of the counties for the amounts apportioned in 1907 and 1908 but not distributed.

These amounts are in turn to be paid out to the villages and towns according to the amounts they spent for roads in those years. The amount involved is about $62,000 and something is due to about seventy counties in the state including Polk county.

The bill is opposed to the highway commission's policy which is to pay state money only where roads have been built on specifications approved by the state engineer.

Want Cock Fighting Restored

Warren Sheaf: That the moral standard among the Cubans is lower than with us may be seen from the following editorial which we clip from the Havana Post of Feb. 20. A newspaper that would advocate cock fighting as a source of revenue in the United States would be promptly boycotted:

Another important bill before congress yesterday was that to restore cock fighting. As this necessitates the revocation of an existing military order, it was referred to the committee on codes. Just as soon a sit is returned from that body it is practically certain that Cuba will again hear the lusty crowing of the cock in pits thruout the island. As the bill provides that the license money shall go into a provincial treasury, this will help toward solving the problems of how to pay provincial salaries.

WAYWARD GIRL COMMITTED

SISTER WAS SENT SHORT TIME AGO—14 AND 15 YEAR OLD INCORRIGIBLES

From Friday's Daily—

Another chapter and it is to be hoped the last—in the case of Mrs. Caroline Frazier and her three daughters, Lucile, Sarah and Drucilla of East Grand Forks was enacted this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in Judge Sullivan's court, when Drucilla the eldest of the trio of girls, was arraigned on a charge of incorrigibility and committed to the state training school at Red Wing. Mrs. Frazier was found guilty and fined $25 and costs for not taking proper care of Mrs. C. C. Daley an insane person and Sarah the eldest of the two girls, was recently committed to the state training school at Red Wing. The evidence against Drucilla was even stronger that that against Sarah.

Mrs. Daly Returned

In this conection it was learned yesterday that Mrs. Daly adjudged insane by the state board and sent to the asylum at Fergus Falls is now at her home in East Grand Forks and has been there for several days. It is understood that the asylum authorities released her on the ground that she had visible means of support. The law provides that relatives, in this case her husband. Chas. Daly must take good care of an insane person. The authorities will undoubtedly see to it that the law is kept and the Mrs. Frazier episode not re-enacted.

A Clever Capture

Sheriff Daniels with Drucilla Frazier in custody went to East Grand Forks from Crookston yesterday morning much to the surprise of the officials who had not learned of the arrest of the girl. She was found boarding at a hotel in Portland, N. D. a town a short distance from Mayville in western Traill county, where she had been left by S. H. Pratt, alias Frank Smith.

Her whereabouts was learned in a rather interesting manner. Pratt, who went under the name of Smith, was selling wet goods on a commission for an East Grand Forks house, and stopping at the hotel with the girl, who he passed off as his daughter. Finally the hotel man became worried about the size of his bill and wrote to the East Grand Forks house for a settlement. In this way the matter came to the attention of Assistant State's Attorney G. A. E. Finlayson, who immediately suspected that Smith was none other than Pratt. About this time a letter was given to Chief Overby addressed to Mrs. Pratt. It was written by the Portland chief of police who learned that Smith's real name was Pratt from the girl. The letter was opened by some Mrs. Pratt of Grand Forks who turned it over to Chief Overby. Attorney Finlayson immediately advised Sheriff Daniels to get in touch with Chief Overby and as a result Sheriff Daniels made the trip to Portland on Tuesday. He found the girl staying at the hotel where she had been left by Pratt, who was afterwards arrested at Fargo. She had run a big bill at the hotel but the landlord did not like to turn her out witout any visible means of support. His persuasion together with that of the sheriff induced Prucilla to accompany him to East Grand Forks and as soon as the state of Minnesota was reached the girl was formally arrested.

When arraigned yesterday in court the girl, who looks like a mere child asked what she was going to be tried for. The judge replied that the court would endeavor to learn whether or not it would be better for her to spend the next few years in a place where she would be properly taken care of or whether she should be allowed to continue as a free citizen.

Assistant State's Attorney Finlayson, in order to guard against any further complications asked that she be placed under $500 bond. In default of this she was given over to the custody of the sheriff and brought to Crookston. The two returning to East Grand Forks this morning. The girl will spend the next two years at least at Red Wing.

COLD STORAGE PROBLEM SOLVED

CROOKSTON PURE FOOD COMPANY OFFERS TO ERECT COLD STORAGE PLANT

PRESENT FLOURISHING INDUSTRY WOULD BE LOCATED IN SAME BUILDING

The Crookston Pure Food Company has solved the cold storage plant problem which Crookston has been wrestling with for some time past without success. The annual meeting of the Crookston Pure Food Co. was held in this city last Monday, the same officers were re-elected with Arthur J. Johnson continuing as the manager.

The operations of this concern since its location in Crookston has been signally successful. In addition to the manufacture of ice cream, which is now being shipped thruout Northern Minnesota and North Dakota and the manufacture of soft drinks, an ice cream cone manufacturing plant which was later established proved very successful and a dividend of 10 per cent was declared at the meeting Monday.

The company at this meeting decided that if the proper co-operation was extended by business men of Crookston they would erect a large and modernly equipped building, which they would use for the manufacture of ice cream and ice cream cones, and would also make ample provisions for the installation of a modern and commodious cold storage plant for the handling of eggs, poultry and other produce, and would be prepared to meet any further demands in that line as the future may develop is needed.

The building would then be erected the coming summer, together with a large ice house and the fact that Crookston may have such a plant will be greeted with genuine enthusiasm as it is one of the most imperative necessities to promote the growth of Crookston as a market center, and will make it impossible for farmers to glut the local market with produce a condition that has occurred repeatedly in the past.

The plant would be a grand beginning of a new departure the growth of which cannot be even forecasted, and it means a growth of the city along lines never before atempted there.

ROBBER NABBED AT CASS LAKE

JOHN HURLEY A LUMBER JACK GOT AWAY WITH $200 WORTH OF SHOES

STOLE THEM FROM G. N. DEPOT —BOOTY RECOVERED—HURLEY IN JAIL

From Thursday's Daily—

Yesterday officer McKinney of Cass Lake Police Force arrested John Hurley a lumber jack on the charge of stealing $200 worth of shoes consigned to a Cass Lake firm from the Great Northern depot at that place. The robbery occurred Monday last and yesterday after some clever work McKinney nabbed Hurley and recovered all the stolen goods. There is evidence which will land Hurley in the pen for a term of years.

SHEAF BOOSTS SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

The Warren Sheaf calls attention to the good work on the experiment farm and the Crookston school of agriculture in the following:

"Agricultural schools are doing much for Minnesota. A very minor instance is the investigation recently completed at Crookston, which shows that contrary to the usual supposition there is a tremendous variation in the productive power of laying hens ranging from 15 to 220 eggs per year. The establishment of this fact has led at once to scientific steps towards the production of a breed that will possess maximum powers. If the Minnesota hen can be elevated to her proper standard of productiveness the farmers of the state will gain $1,000,000 per year. This work was chiefly done by farmers' boys at the Crookston School. Its future results promise to be of enormous importance and yet it is all about that comparatively insignificant citizen of the barnyard, the common hen. Minnesota still has something to learn in an agricultural way, and the Crookston farmers' boys are proving it."

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM THURSDAYS DAILY

OLD TIMER HERE—Jack McGlogan a former lineman for the Great Northern stationed here, but now superintendent of the telegraph service for the entire system arrived from St. Paul this morning and took a trip up the Warroad line.

OVERLOOKED MAHNOMEN CO.—Foster County, N. D., claims to have the youngest county auditor in the state and perhaps in the Union. They have overlooked Mahnomen county, Minn., as Mahnomen county hasn't only a younger auditor but it also has a younger treasurer both being less than 25 years of age. And the coroner is only 21. That ought to stop the shouting.—Mahnomen Free Press.

MANY FRIENDS REGRET DEPARTURE—J. M. Ball who has been a leading dealer in Red River Valley land for the past ten years formerly belonging to the firm of Odette and Ball, will leave this evening for Mexico where he will make his future home. He will go first to Tampico with his family and expects to locate there.

SAME OLD SMILE—Wylie Phillips the genial proprietor of the Phillips Steam Laundry, whose face has been missed for several weeks past, is now down town several times a day and is looking fine. His under pinning is not yet in shape for him to make any star plays on a football team, but he is rapidly gaining in strength and states that he feels fine with an appetite like a wolf.

WILL ATTEN DCONFERENCE—Contractor Louis Johnson left last evening for Minneapolis where he will represent the local church at the Minnesota conference of the Swedish Mission church which opened Tuesday and will continue till next Tuesday. Before returning he will also get some prices on cut stone and other building material to be used in buildings to be erected at Hibbing and Chisolm upon which he will later submit bids.

SHOT IN BREAST—John Wambach, the 15-year old son of Jacob Wambach of Georgetown, was accidentally shot by a 22 calibre rifle at the Wambach home last Saturday evening. The rifle stood in the corner of the room and behind the gun lay a pair of mittens belonging to the boy and as John stooped over to pick up his mittens the gun was in some peculiar way accidentally discharged. The bullet struck the boy over the left breast. The wound will not be fatal.

AUDETTE FAMILY STRICKEN—Jierre Audette a farmer residing near Huot northeast of this city is prostrated as a result of the loss of two grown sons and his wife in less than a week. Last Friday Rock Audette aged 19 died of typhoid fever. Saturday last another son Artell aged 22 died of the same trouble. The two were buried Monday last and while the funeral was taking place Mrs. Audette passed away of typhoid and was buried yesterday.

OLD GAL WANTS LAND—Gay-away-so-sae has begun suit against the United States government in the federal court at Fergus Falls to secure an allotment of 160 acres of land to which she claims to be entitled under the government treaty with the Indians. She claims to be a full-blood Chippewa and as such entitled to an allotment. Gay is not a highly educated woman, she does not write very much, but instead of signing the complaint with a small "X" which is the customary form when people are unable to write their names, she signs with a thumb mark.

EX-POLICEMAN HERE—Ed P. Monson who at one time served on the Crookston police forse, residing with his family in Sampsons addition arrived last evening from his homestead near Thief Lake where he has been residing with his family for the past few years. He proved up a year ago and has a valuable claim. He is much pleased with that section of the country, and is boosting it for farmers. He is here today as a witness for another homesteader in that section who is proving up on his land before the land office here.

REV. WARNER RETURNS—Rev. C. C. Warner returned from Fargo this morning. He reports a very interesting session of the Men's Brotherhood convention. Among those present were Pastor Shaw formerly of this city and son, well remembered in Crookston. Mr. Shaw's son is a student in Fargo College. Mr. Warner looked in at St. Luke's hospital yesterday. He found Mrs. Clark and her daughter Miss Kemmerer there, the latter able to sit up and hopes to get away for the trip home Saturday. She may find herself not quite strong enough for the trip, if so she will wait a few days longer.

BUSINESS IN CITIES—O. O. Christianson the real estate and insurance man returned this morning from a business trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis where he went last Saturday. He says there is plenty of snow in that section.

MINORS PLAY POOL—It has just been discovered (?) that boys are playing pool in Crookston. Yesterday complaint was filed against O. Vereau an dtoday he was assessed a fine of $10 by Judge Gossman.

MRS. GAAB ILL—Mrs. Matilda Gaab, sister of Adolph and Charles Rauch of this city, is very ill with typhoid fever, and her sister, Mrs. Warninger has arrived from Bemidji to nurse her during her illness. She is at her home, 702 North Front street and many friends join in wishing her a most speedy recovery.

PREPARE TO LET CONTRACT—Alderman Geo. Wright left last evening for St. Paul where he will go over the plans for the alterations in the New Store Block with Messrs. Fontaine and Anglim, Mr. Anglim having left for St. Paul last evening also. Everything will be settled so that the contract can be let immediately after his return to Crookston Friday morning.

HAD DELIGHTFUL TRIP—S. A. Wallace returned this morning from an extended trip to Mexico spending the greater portion of his time at Tampico where there is quite a Crookston colony. He returns in the best of health and reports every minute of the time spent in Mexico as extremely pleasant many interesting sights having been witnessed. While south he made a few investments in real estate.

OLD CARMAN RESIDENT DEAD—Alphonse Lalonde yesterday received word from Mondak, Montana of the death of Mr. Beaudoin, who with his wife formerly operated a hotel in Carman for many years. Some time ago they went to Montana and located on a claim where they have since resided. Their daughter, Miss Clara Beaudoin was recently visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lalonde, but was called home two weeks ago by a telegram announcing her father's critical illness and arrived just in time to see her father alive. He was nearly 70 years of age.

CONFERRING WITH MISS LOMMEN—Miss Miriam Carey who is working under the direction of the State Librarian Commission of Minnesota is spending a few days here conferring with Miss Lommen relative to the work here and assisting her in every way possible. Miss Carey is a childhood friend of Rev. C. C. Warner, her father having been pastor of the church at Freeport, Ill., at the time Rev. Warner joined. Miss Carey formerly occupied a similar position in Iowa and is very efficient and enthusiastic regarding library work. She will go from here to Bemidji on a similar mission.

JUDGE GRINDELAND LECTURED—Judge A. Grindeland arrived in the city last evening from Minot where Tuesday evening he delivered a fine lecture. He returned to Warren this morning and stated to the Journal that Minot is certainly a lively little city, and that the "Magic City" was not in any way a misnomer. Judge Grindeland is getting into the lecture business to quite an extent of late. Following is what the Minot Reporter has to say of his address Tuesday evening: "The lecture given by Judge Grindeland of Warren, Minn., last evening proved an intellectual treat for those who were present at the First Lutheran church to listen to this well known and fluent man. The judge took for his subject, "Honesty is the Best Policy" and gave an eloquent discourse on his chosen theme."

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

F. McLennan left this morning to see if the grass was sprouting and the robins singing up at Angus. He says they always show up there first.

BACK FROM TRIP—Will M. Casmey returned to Euclid this morning after a trip to Bemidji, Fargo and other points where he has been looking after business matters.

WOULDN'T MISS IT—Robert F. Leick left this morning for Mentor and Dugdale. He would not venture farther as he wanted to get back tonight sure, in order to attend the Washington party this evening at the C. C. Strander home as he has never before had the pleasure of meeting Martha and George.

BUYS HALF INTEREST—Deputy Sheriff Joe Markham of Bemidji who was formerly connected with the Hotel Crookston Buffet here, will resign his position in a few days and devote all his attention to the Bemidji Sentinel in which he recently purchased a half interest. He likes newspaper work and will apply all his time and energy.

MAIL CLERK ON VACATION—W. M. Shannon one of the clerks on the Duluth-Grand Forks railway postoffice, departed yesterday afternoon on the westbound Great Northern passenger train for Bonita, Montana, where he will spend a few weeks at the home of his brother. Mr. Shannon will go to Seattle, Wash., and other points on the Pacific coast for short visit with friends and relatives before returning to his run.

CROOKSTON PEOPLE ARE INTERESTED—Mr. Bush was over again last week. He reports the "Air Line" surveyors expected to reach the sandridge north of Moose River, in about ten days from the time the boys wrote and now we heard last night that they are actually surveying not far north of the ridge. Somebody must have some confidence that Mr. Hunt can build his railroad and gives expression to it in a tangible shape. It costs real money to run surveying crews in the winter time.—Middle River Pioneer. This is great news to a number of Crookston people who have land near there.

TAKING LAYOFF—Robert Henry passed thru the city this morning enroute home from Duluth where he has been visiting his sisters for the past few days and proceeded to Angus where he will visit Mrs. A. T. Campion another sister, for a few days before returning to his work on the Great Northern at Grand Forks. He injured his foot a short time ago and has not completely recovered.

Mrs. Will Nelson and daughter left this morning for Euclid where they will spend a few days with Mrs. Robert Teal, Mrs. Nelson's mother, and will also visit with other friends there.

TYPHOID AT ST. HILAIRE—Four cases of typhoid fever have developed in this village in the past two weeks and in all of the cases they have been drinking river water. There has been a considerable number of typhoid fever cases in Red Lake Falls the past season and there are several cases there at present. All of the Thief River Falls sewerage is emptied into the river and under no circumstances should anyone drink water from the river as it is extremely dangerous, and typhoid will be very likely to follow. If no other water is available see that it is boiled before using. This will also apply to water from melted ice as freezing does not kill the germs.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

MADE FORTUNE IN FEW YEARS—A. Paquin, better known in the town of Lambert as "the governor" was in Thief River Falls last week attending to business matters. Mr. Paquin is a man of push and energy and is making a great success of farming in Red Lake county. To the News Mr. Paquin stated that he commenced to farm in town of Lambert 15 years ago without hardly a dollar capital. For a few years he had rather a hard struggle but now things are going along nicely and is was no effort at all to add a few thousand dollars each year to his wealth. He has a farm of 560 acres all under cultivation and a few years ago he built a creamery upon his farm and manufactures his own butter which he ships to New York markets. He not only does this but last summer he paid to his neighbors $15,000 for cream that they delivered at his farm. At present "the governor" saye that he is milking thirty-five cows upon his farm and he employs quite a small army of help. This spring he will commence the erection of another large barn and will continue to increase his herd of cattle. He likes farming and is getting rich at it as fast as anyone could desire.—Thief River Falls News.

Read The Journal Wants.

SON WAS DISCHARGED—Hjelmer Henry was discharged in the municipal court this afternoon after a hearing on the charge of assaulting his father, Nels Hennry last evening. His father had him arrested but the evidence showed that elder Hennry came home intoxicated last evening and started using vile language directed toward his wife. His son took the old gentleman down and sat on him for a while till he stopped his flow of vicious language and the court held that he was justified in so doing.

A BOOST FOR C. G. SCHROEDER—C. G. Schroeder formerly of this city and who is now manager of the big concern of E. J. Meilicke and Sons at Outlook, Sask., handling land, lumber, farm loans and machinery is evidently making a hit in his new position. The firm carries a big six column ad. in the Outlook and that paper in a local in its last issue has the following: "E. J. Meilicke & Son's office will be one of the nicest in town Mr. Schroeder who is in charge, evidently believes in having things neat, up-to-date, and homelike."

VISITING EDITOR HAGEN—Lars Steenerson one of the wealthy farmers on the Goose River, near Portland N. D., where he has been located for the past 20 years, spent yesterday and last night in the city with Editor G. T. Hagen, the two having been brought up in the same place in Norway and enjoyed a very pleasant visit Olaf Eastvold a machinery dealer of Portland was also here for the day, having run over from Grand Forks where they had business, specially to see Mr. Hagen.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

VISITING ST. HILAIRE—Ed Peterson of the Water Works Co., here is spending theday at St. Hilaire looking after some business matters.

DAUGHTER ILL—The daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Emil G. Vonderbeck is confined to her hame with scarlet fever. She is not very ill but the home will be quarantined for several weeks.

HAS SCARLET FEVER—Beryl Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Davies is ill with scarlet fever. The other children are in the meantime staying with their grandmother Mrs. W. L. Davies, Lincoln Ave.

RETURNING TO CLAIM—E. J. Keating arrived this morning from St. Cloud where with his wife and family he has been visiting for the past few weeks. Mrs. Keating and the children will remain there till after school closes while Mr. Keating will proceed to the claim near Graceton and start the cabbages and pumpkins in a hot bed.

WHEELER A BANKRUPT—George A. Wheeler engaged in the job printing business in Grand Forks yesterday morning filed with Clerk Montgomery of the United States district court, a petition that he be adjudged bankrupt. He placed his liabilities at $908.55 and his assets at 3,875, all of which he claims exempt.

INFANT CHILD BURIED—The funeral of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ralston, of New Solum, was held at the M. E. Church in Warren Monday. The remains of the little one were accompanied to Warren by the parents and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porteous, the latter the grandmother of the deceased. Mr. Ralston is a brother of Ed Ralston of this city and formerly resided here.

"BOB" IN SOCIETY—An enthusiastic meeting of the colored people in Cass Lake was held last night and a club to be known as the "Taft Social Club" was organized. The object of the club will be to become more closely united and to have pleasant gatherings. The following were elected officers: President, Mrs. Jennie Lett; vice president, Mrs. Hattie Mosley; secretary, Robt. B. Moseley; treasurer Mrs. Lillian Gross. "Bob" Moseley is well known here having been a former employe of the Times.

GETTING FAMOUS—Adolph F. Rauch is getting famous as an after dinner speaker his last big hit being at the birthday banquet tendered by Alex Thompson to his friends. Since that date Mr. Rauch has received several invitations to speak at functions which will be given on Washington's birthday, but business interests have forced him to decline. A close friend however has secured a promise from Mr. Rauch that he will deliver the oration at the next Fourth of July celebration held in Crookston.

McINTOSH COMMERCIAL CLUB—At a meeting of the board of managers of McIntosh Commercial Club the election of officers and the appointment of committees was taken up and disposed of. The officers elected are Pres., John H. Hagen; V. P., F. A. Mathieu; Sec'y, H. Helgesen; Corresponding Secy, A. M. Dunton; Treas, Jacob Talle. The committees are: Membership, O. C. Narveson, Gilbert Abrahamson; Executive, C. M. Berg; N. Zetterberg, E. A. Webster.

POLK CO. PIONEER IS BURIED—The funeral of James Adare living in Western Polk County and who died early Thursday morning was held from the house today at 12:30 o'clock Rev. H. W. Georgi officiating. Mr. Adare was one of the pioneer residents of Polk county having come to this section 31 years ago. He was born in Ontario Canada on June 18. 1849, and was 63 years of age at the time of his death. He leaves a wife and three children, Edward, William and Annie. Both the boys are grown up, the daughter living at home. Death was not unexpected due as it was to tumor of the stomach.

HEARING POSTPONED—Deputy Sheriff Sullivan returned last evening from East Grand Forks with Drucilla Frazier of that place, who is having a hearing on a charge of incorrigibility before Judge Sullivan there. The hearing has been postponed till next Tuesday, Monday being a holiday and while evidence has already been given sufficient to warrant her being committed to Red Wing there is still more to follow.

Louis Fontaine arrived from St. Paul this morning and this afternoon Architect B. D. Keck who drew the plans for the remodelling of the New Store Block awarded the contract for the carpenter work and masonry to Contractor W. E. Walker whose bid was $6,424.60 the lowest of a half dozen bids submitted. He will start the work at once and will have it all completed before May 1st.

The contracting for the painting and decorating the plumbing and the heat will be let later.

Mr. Walker constructed the building in the first place for Fontaine and Anglim and is therefore in a position to do the work with greater facility than a contractor unacquainted with the building.

A CHILD'S HEROISM.

The Story of a Visit to the Beautiful Glasnevin Cemetery.

A pathetic story of a child's heroism is told by a Dublin gentleman. Recently he proposed to drive with his wife to the beautiful Glasnevin cemetery. Calling his son, a bright little boy, some four years old, he told him to get ready to accompany them. The child's countenance fell, and the father said:

"Don't you want to go, Willie?"

The little lip quivered, but the child answered, "Yes, papa, if you wish."

The child was strangely silent during the drive, and when the carriage drove up to the entrance he clung to his mother's side and looked up in her face with pathetic wistfulness.

The party alighted and walked among the graves and along the tree shadowed avenues, looking at the inscriptions on the last resting places of the dwellers in the beautiful city of the dead. After an hour or so thus spent they returned to the carriage, and the father lifted his little son to his seat. The child looked surprised, drew a breath of relief and asked:

"Why, am I going back with you?"

"Of course you are. Why not?"

"I thought when they took little boys to the cemetery they left them there," said the child.

Many a man does not show the heroism in the face of death that this child evinced in what to him had evidently been a summons to leave the world.—London Telegraph.

His Mean Trick.

"There certainly are differences in feelings," said the woman who sometimes philosophizes, "or at least different ways of expressing them.

"A few days ago a shocking incident occurred in the apartment house where I live. The janitor, who was an unusually good looking man, about thirty-five years old, killed himself for some wholly inadequate reason, some difference with his employer. Of course everybody in the house was much upset by the tragedy, and I, with other tenants, went down to the basement to see his wife and offer aid.

"'Would you ever think such a fine man would do such a mean trick!' she exclaimed."—New York Press

THE RECIPE EASILY PREPARED, AND MANY SAY IT IS SPLENDID

MANY OF OUR CITIZENS SPEAK WELL OF THE HOME PRESCRIPTION

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our home druggist.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive Kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

Fifty representatives from different county fair associations throughout the state gathered at the Merchants Hotel in St. Paul recently and formed what will hereafter be known as the Minnesota Federation of County Agricultural Associations. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed and work will be started at once to forward the county agricultural exhibits, to strengthen the county associations in existence and to establish associations in counties which have none.

The legislature will be asked to double the apportionment allotted to county agricultural exhibits, and to enact a law whereby the state will be in position to replace county agricultural buildings destroyed by fire or wind. Strong resolutions were adopted to bring about uniform action in the work of the various county agricultural societies and spread the movement throughout the entire state.

Crookston was well represented and Thomas R. Johnstone was elected treasurer of the association, and Senator Stephens put on the board of directors, as a representative from the Ninth Congressional district. He was also placed on the legislative committee. The full list of officers selected were as follows:

President—J. J. Furlong, Mower county; vice president—J. J. Maloney, Waseca county; treasurer—Thomas R. Johnstone, Polk county; secretary—John H. Brown, Lincoln county; board of directors, one member from each congressional district—First, F. A. Duncan, Steele county; Second, George Atkinson, Blue Earth county; Third, S. L. Manhart, Rice county; Fourth, John Zeloch, Washington county; Fifth, Ernie Waddell, Hennepin county; Sixth, H. W. Vogel, Wright county; Seventh, S. Hutchins, Pope county; eighth, T. W. McGuire, Stevens county; Ninth, A. D. Stephens, Polk county. The following committees were established: Legislative—A. D. Stephens, John Zelch; Resolutions—T. H. Maloney, F. A. Dunham, George Atkinson; By-laws—F. A. Dunham, T. H. Maloney.

The Father Of Our Country

> "First in War, First in Peace, First in the Hearts of His Countrymen"

From Monday's Daily—

Today is the 177th anniversary of the birthday of George Washington, one of the greatest generals, one of the greatest patriots and one of the most noble minded men the world has ever known. Today thruout the length and breadth of the land tribute is being paid to the memory of the man to whose ability, self-sacrifice and patriotism in its highest and best conception this country owes its existence

To him, and the statemen whom he in his broad wisdom gathered about him such as Jefferson and Hamilton as members of his cabinet is due the foundations laid in the beginning, which has made the United States of America the greatest, the grandest country in the world, and the very name, thruout the civilized world is recognized as synonymous with Freedom.

Two names stand out pre-eminently in American history as loved and honored above all other national characters, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. They were both great men, and both good men and both rose to the occasion fully and met conditions which would have overwhelmed most great men. Both were great men, but they were strikingly different in every way. In comparing the two Washington is often made to suffer because he was regarded as cold and distant, lacking in that sympathy which brought Lincoln so close to the people.

Washington was reserved outwardly but within was a heart large enough to share in the love of all his countrymen, and the patriotist, born of that love, prompted sacrifices greater than Lincoln was ever called upon to make sacrifices of fortune and the endurance of personal hardships, exposure and abuse which must have tried his very soul. Therein he showed his real greatness.

In his address at the birthplace of Lincoln President Roosevelt enunciated a great and grand truth when he said:

> "There have been other men as great and other men as good; but in all the history of mankind there are no other two great men as good as these, no other two good men as great."

Washington was the embodiment of the highest conception of goodness, greatness and patriotism. His memory has ever been an inspiration to old and young. In every schoolhouse thruout the land special exercises have been held, and always will be held, to keep the memory of Washington fresh in the minds of the rising generations. America will never have another Washington, but our grand country is now, and always will be in need of as many men who are inspired by the same grand motives as he, and a lack of men with such motives would be the most serious menace which could confront this country. Commercialism must not be alloyed to stultify patriotism.

The memory of Washington alone, is enough to inspire all with a patriotism such as this great Republic needs today for in times of peace there are great questions to be solved, questions which require self sacrifice and earnest effort.

The Livest Issue Of The Day

There can be no question that the one, incomparable problem which this country has now to solve is the business question. What shall we do with the trusts, the corporations, the great combinations? How shall we secure to every man a fair share of the product of his labor? How shall we put an end to the abuses by which capital uses labor for its aggrandizement and returns to labor only such share of the profits as the law of mere living compels it to? quiries the Duluth Herald.

There is nothing now about these questions. We have had them staring us in the face for centuries. But from being one of the questions of vast public interest they have come to be the question that overshadows all the others. The interrogation point to this question is a big black one that lies over the face of the whole continent and casts its shadows over half the earth.

Ten or twelve years ago we were minded to destroy the trust. How to find a law by which we might put an end to it was our thought. But we have found that killing will not do. So we have been studying the question. The whole people have been studying it from the general view point, labor unions have been studying it from their point of view and capital has been studying it under some compulsion. We have not learned a great deal but we have settled upon a few general, elementary conclusions which we believe express the fundamental truth upon which we are to build the superstructure of the proper relations of capital and labor. Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith presents these fundamentals in concise form in his annual report recently made public. The principles laid down by Mr. Smith do not involve any new matter; they are simply conclusions to which the government and the general public too, have come after a decade of suits at law, discussion and investigation. The commissioner lays down these guiding principles:

The the real issue is: What are the intent, metheds and effect of a given combination or corporation? What a great corporation does and how it does it is of far more practical importance that the mere question whether it is legally a combination or not.

That the first step in such an advance must be to establish a board system of corporate publicity thru a federal office.

That the system adopted shall provide, as far as possible a basis for the conference and co-operation of all interests.

Here we have the assertion that combinations of capital must be regulated not killed and that publicity is the general basis upon which all regulation shall take place. There are very few of us who will not subscribe to both of these statements. We have not succeeded in all the years that we have been at it in killing a single combination; we have compelled a few of them to change their form or organization, that's all. The Northern Securities company is just as much an actual merger today as it was before it was dissolved and the paper trust has the same grip on the users of paper as it had before it was "killed" by federal suit. As to publicity, we have seen its beneficial effects. It has already wiped out corporation contributions to campaigns and has practically abolished freight rebates. Organized upon the proper basis there is good reason to believe that publicity unaided, will do away with the larger part of the abuses of great combinations of capital.

This, then, is our starting point. Practically the whole scheme has yet to be worked out. We have come a long way already and we have accomplished a great deal if it is no more than these two fundamental principles of regulation and publicity. The how of them both is yet to be found. The need of finding it is imperative. The terrible inequalities of present conditions are not to be endured; relief must be immediate and must be made complete in the shortest possible time. That time will not be very soon, but it is on the way.

First, Forgive.

When ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have aught against any, that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.—St. Mark xi, 25.

In friendship we see only those faults which may be prejudicial to our friends. In love we see no faults but those by which we suffer ourselves.—De la Bruyere.

Dignified.

Certainly the coachman to her late majesty, Queen Victoria, had a befitting sense of the dignity and responsibility of his position. On the occasion of the jubilee of 1887 he was asked if he was driving any of the royal and imperial guests at that time quartered in Buckingham palace.

"No, sir," was his reply. "I am the queen's coachman. I don't drive the riffraff."

Blocking The Streets

Every so often, a crusade is started against contractors who make a practice of blocking the street with materials, and who extend their line beyond that allowed in the permit from the city, who use the street after the expiration of the indemnifying bond, and in other ways act with a reckless disregard of the fact that the use of the public street for storing materials, is a privilege and not a right. From time to time, the matter becomes acute and occasionally a contractor gets hauled into court and fined. This action is distressing and usually causes the feeling that as the matter is usually condoned, it is unjust to take such action. But it is seldom realized that while the action is condoned, there is also a great deal of provocation to vigorous action in the matter. Citizens who are compelled to detour widely around piles of material left in the street, often complain over the inattention of public officials toward such matters.—Improvement Bulletin. However there is a middle course that can be pursued, whereby contractors can be given necessary privileges and at the same time be given to understand that they must keep within bounds.

Carroll D. Wright Statistician

By the death of Carroll D. Wright, America losses her foremost statistician. When the office of United States commissioner of labor was created, President Cleveland offered the post to Mr. Wright, tho he had been an opponent of Mr. Cleveland's election and a member of the convention which named Mr. Blaine. But Mr. Wright was a statistician first and a politician afterward, as he had demonstrated in his conduct of the Massachusetts bureau of statistics. Mr. Wright served as federal commissioner from 1895 to 1905 and built up that great organization whose statistics and reports gave him international fame. The publication of nearly fifty volumes of labor reports and the voluminous publications of the eleventh census attested his capacity to make statistics reliable and yet aglow with life.

On the labor question, Mr. Wright made many addresses and published one book, in which he set forth the theory that a religion of life based upon the development of the sense of justice will provide the only permanent solution of social and industrial problems. His views accord with those of President Eliot, that the problem is one of ethics. President Eliot relies more upon publicity than Mr. Wright who put the emphasis upon the development of the religion of life in the individual.—Minneapolis Journal.

Semi-Monthly Pay Days

The bill compelling all corporations employing more than a limited number of men to pay their employes at least each two weeks has passed the house, says the Duluth News Tribune in a most timely editorial.

The merits of the measure are so manifest it certainly should pass the senate.

The only objections to it are those of inconvenience and consequent minor increase of expense. It undoubtedly would considerably add to this specific branch of the bookkeeping in railroad and other large corporations and some slight loss of interest, but no more so in proportion than for those companies which now pay not once each two weeks, but every Saturday, which in right should be the universal pay day.

With railroads pay day is about the 20th of the month. Nor do they pay to that date but for the preceeding month. Indeed it is the custom where payments are monthly to hold back in this way about a half a month or more of wages which are earned.

This system is also an incentive to extravagance. It leads to buying on credit the running of monthly bills, which are paid only in part and frequently embarrassing debt is the result. So general did this become that many employing companies were delayed by garnishments so that they had to make a rule discharging any employe whose wages were attached in this way for debt.

They failed to realize that it was but a consequence of their own fault, and that Saturday night payments would have better relieved the situation by restricting credit and gradually inducing a habit of cash payments. It is not just than an employing corporation should always owe its men from a week to six week wages and that never at any time should men be paid to date.

Frequently also in case a man wishing to end his employment he is embarrassed by the difficulty of getting his wages due promptly. These are but a few of the reasons why this bill should pass and after all are enumerated that which is chief is the abstract right of a man to have the wage that he has earned without a considerable part of it being withheld from his use as a sort of penalty or security for good behavior or subserviency.

Carving a Hippopotamus.

To cut up a hippopotamus is no easy task. In some places the hide is almost two and a half inches thick, and before you have got through a hand's breadth your knife has completely lost its edge and requires to be resharpened. The head and the feet are put on one side to be preserved as trophies of the chase, while the remainder of the flesh is cut into long, thin strips, which, after they have been dried by hanging them on the tree branches, will keep good for a very long time. The ivory of the teeth and tusks, which is of very fine quality, used to be employed almost exclusively in the manufacture of false teeth. Nowadays, says the Wide World Magazine, it is turned to all the purposes of ordinary ivory. As for the hide, cut into strips it is made into sticks, which are as good defensive weapons as one could wish to possess. Treated with oil, they become transparent as tortoise shell and look quite pretty. Out of hippopotamus hide bullock drivers likewise make thongs for their whips which are positively everlasting and fetch relatively speaking quite a good price.

BATTLESHIP FLEET RETURNS HOME

Special to the Journal—

Hampton Roads, Feb. 22—At noon today the American battleship fleet, fresh from its around the world cruise steamed into Hampton Roads, from which place it set sail Dec. 16, 1907 more than fourteen months ago. Today the fleet will be the center of interest for the entire United States. Sunday night President Roosevelt and his cabinet with many invited guests of distinction left Washington for Hampton Roads. The president reviewed the fleet, after the manner of his review when it was about to sail away The event was spectacular in the best meaning of that word, and it is rather significant, because it will be Mr. Roosevelt's last official public appearance as president.

The fleet has practically completed an undertaking without parallel in the history of the world and one in which every good citizen will have a proper pride.

The booming of salutes, the wild enthusiasm of the hundreds of thousands of spectators and the equally wild enthusiasm of the marines will make the scene one never to be forgotten by those who participated, marking as it does, the completion of the greatest cruise of a naval squadron ever attempted by any nation in the history of the world.

SUNDAY LID FITS AT GRAND FORKS

THEATRES, SKATING RINKS, BOWLING ALLEYS, BILLIARD, ROOMS CLOSED

When an audience gathered in the Empire theatre Sunday afternoon at Grand Forks to witness the performance promised by Manager Ralph Carter he explained that he had decided to give no erformance but hoped to open on Sundays in the near future The police were on hand to arrest the players. Carter had a few moving pictures run off to put the audience in good humor. No tickets were sold.

The orders of the mayor in regard to the discontinuance of all billiard and pool, skating, bowling and card playing were obeyed. No arrests were made.

As the mayor is likely to stand pat on the theatre opening proposition it seems likely that the supporters of Sunday theatres will see that other amusement places are closed on that day.

MINNESOTA'S CHANCES GOOD

NORTHROP AND UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS HOPE TO SECURE A FOREST LABORATORY

President Northrop and Professors Greene and Jones of the University of Minnesota have returned from Washington satisfied that the university's claim to have a federal forest laboratory located there had been well represented and disposed to believe that Chief Forester Pinchot's decision will be in its favor, despite strong pressure exerted by the University of Wisconsin.

The delegation saw President Roosevelt and Secretary Wilson and presented the matter to them and have enlisted aid of some of the lumbermen from that section who are there on tariff matters. Senators Nelson and Clapp and members of Minnesota house delegation have also assured President Northrop that they will do all they can to bring about a favorable decision.

It developed that members of the faculty of the University of Minnesota have been working to have the government laboratory placed at Minneapolis for more than a year. They have been conducting a quiet campaign among lumbermen in the northwest and have secured the indorsement of two associations in Wisconsin which were presented to Pinchot at hearings.

The impression at Washington is that the choice lies between Minnesota and Wisconsin, the University of Michigan having lost ground in the past few days since the superior advantage of Minnesota as a location for the laboratory has been shown.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

C. D. Billings is spending the day in the city having arrived this morning from Grand Forks.

BEN HAS AN HEIR—Friends of Ben Cooperman a popular traveling man congratulated him during the week on the arrival of a son in St. Paul.

ON LEGAL BUSINESS—Atty. H A Johnson left this morning for Beaudette where he has some important legal business to attend to. He expects to return Thursday or Friday.

INVADING THE FISH LINE—Messrs Cort, Schuneman, Powers, Sabin, Skoug and Fuller started up the Warroad branch this morning to see how much trouble they could kick up.

MAY GO TO THE COAST — Dan Flynn claim agent for the Great Northern may take the Washington district for the company It will mean more work but wil be a more paying proposition.

R. A. ELZY HERE—R. A. Elzy, the ditch contractor from Marshalltown, Ia., who has done a vast amount of work in northern Minnesota during the past few years, arrived yesterday morning and this morning went to Warren to look after some contracts that are to be let and will return this evening to attend to some business here.

IS RECOVERING—Frank McCrea, the well known traveling man is recovering from a couple of bad cuts on his head sustained in the wreck of a Great Northern train at a point near Ardock. He is stopping at the Hotel Dacotah at Grand Forks until it is time to take the bandages from his head. He has not yet made a settlement with the company.

WITH GROCERY FIRM —Herman Krueger has accepted a position with Collin and Billadeau of the Crookston Supply House their business has been increasing to such an extent that more help was necessary. They were fortunate to secure the services of Mr. Krueger who is not only an xperienced man in that line, but who has a host of friends in Crookston and surrounding country and will add still more to the patronage of his firm.

The Euclid Old Settlers Club held their second meeting Friday February 19 at the Modern Woodmen Hall. There were about 200 of the old timers and their friends present. An excellent program was given by the members assisted by the Euclid Quartette composed of Willie Teal, J. S. Chapin, W. A. Dryden and Robt. Balfour. A constitution and by-laws adopted and J. S. Chapin was elected president for the ensuing year. The evening was spent in various games of cards and dancing by the old and new timers. Competent judges pronounced the dancing of the Old Timers to be the best stunt of the evening. A five course supper was served at 12 o'clock and dancing continued until the wee hours of the morning. In fact some of the old timers were seen driving out of town at the hour of six in the morning.

Senator Stephens took advantage of the holiday to run up from St. Paul this morning to look after some business matters. He was asked if the big writeup of the Crookst on School of Agriculture in the Sunday Minneapolis Tribune, in which he was given much praise had scared him from the cities, or whether it was the gubernatorial boom for him in the same paper, taking a column of space but he onl ylaughed and confessed that he had not read the governor boom as yet. He will return to St. Paul this evening.

Ben Franklin's Keenness.

Two incidents recall the keenness and the thoroughness—the great twin abilities, to see and to utilize—of Ben Franklin. One day he chanced to observe a lady in the possession of an imported whisk broom. With his usual interest and careful consideration he examined it as a novelty. He discovered on the brush of the broom a seed, which he carefully removed. Presently he planted it, and the growth from this seed was the first crop of broom corn in this country. Again one day when Dr. Franklin was walking by Dock creek he saw stuck in the mud a wickerwork basket, which had sprouted. Carefully he fished out the basket and carefully took it apart. He gave cuttings to his friend, Mr. Charles Norris, who planted the twigs in his garden, where they grew to great size. They turned out to be yellow willows and, as Franklin had foreseen, proved of great commercial value.

From Tuesday's Daily

TO BUY STOCK—Ed Erickson the Main street butcher is sending the day at McIntosh where he expected to buy two car loads of cattle.

OFF FOR ST. PAUL—Dr. Watson, C. E. Boughton and J. A. Duffy of Red Lake Falls went to St. Paul last evening on legislative matters, and Senator Stephens of this city also returned after a busy day here signing $10 bills.

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN — From the back of one Geo. O'Reilly, one porous plaster. The plaster was applied yesterday afternoon and when Mr. O'Reilly arose this morning it had disappeared and despite the use of two bloodhounds and nine bird dogs the blarsted thing cannot be located.

J. J. HILL WILL SPEAK — It is officially announced that Hon. James J. Hill will speak at the convention of the Minnesota Retail Grocers and General Merchants' Association in Minneapolis on next Wednesday, February 24. For the occasion the associations have secured the use of the St. Paul Auditorium, believing that this would be the only hall in the Twin Cities which would accommodate the crowd which would desire to hear Mr. Hill. The program which has been arranged will be one of unusual interest. It is expected that a number of Crookston men will be present and take part in the proceedings of the convention.

MACKOFF IS PROSPERING — Word has just been received in this city of the great success befalling M. Mackoff, who was a short time ago located in the furniture business in Crookston. He has just secured the contract for thoroughly furnishing with furniture, two of the largest hotels in Spokane and did it in competition with a score of other furniture houses. Mr. Mackoff has been extremely successful in business in the west, a fact which his many friends in this city will learn with considerable satisfaction.

W. E. Rowe left last evening for Bemidji where he will represent the plaintiff Mr. Ackerberg, in a $5,000 damage suit against F. A. Mayo, a druggist of Bemidji for the death of this son which resulted from an over dose of poison contained in a prescription which had been given over the telephone and which was misunderstood and wrongly compounded according to the complaint.

Seven doctors of Crookston gave depositions on the cause of death based upon a hypothetical question, and the case will be one of the most interesting at the present term at Bemidji.

The George Washington Memorial Military Ball last evening was one of the biggest successes ever scored by Co. I M. N. G., and the Odd Fellows Hall, which was elaborately decorated with flags, bunting and stacked arms presented a very pretty scene, the members of the company all being in full dress uniform. The affair was attended by 60 couples and the committee in charge were highly complimented for the splendid arrangements Very attractive invitations in red, white and blue were issued for the affair. Frappe and wafers were served during the entire evening and excellent music was rendered by Burkhardt's orchestra. The ever increasing popularity of Co. I was thoroly demonstrated last evening. The armory was used as a promenade and cloak room.

The "Snowball" Party given last evening by Crookston Lodge No. 342, B. P. O. Elks in their hall in the Fournet Block was the most brilliant, successful and spectacular function ever given in Crookston. This is the unanimous verdict of all those present and the committee in charge consisting of Messrs. G. O. Hage, J. D. McPhee, O. B. Tyedten, F. E. McGregor and W. F. Munch received unstinted compliments for the very thoro and competent manner in which their duties had been attended to.

Hoarse coughs and stuffy colds that may develop into pneumonia over night are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar, and it soothes inflamed membranes, heals the lungs, and expells the cold from the system. Sold by all druggists.

The Modern Husband.

Mrs. Knicker—We are to have a thousand foot skyscraper. Mrs. Bocker—I suppose that means that Henry will be detained at the office 500 feet later.—

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

MOVED TO NEW RESIDENCE — Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Welch have moved into the residence on Hunter Street formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ball, which they recently purchased.

"MIKE" WAS HERE—Former G. N. Ticket Agent Mickhils of this city who is now in the G. N. Ticket office in Minneapolis was greeting friends in the city last evening.

MOVED TO NEW LOCATION — Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Musselman who have been residing on Spendley street have moved into the H. C. Scribner residence, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Welch.

FATHER GREENE IS NEARING END—Father Greene of East Grand Forks was reported early this morning as very low and it is not expected that he will survive the day. In spite of intermittent periods of apparent strength, he has been growing rapidly weaker during the past few days and it has been realized that the end was rapidly drawing near.

CLIMAX FARMER HERE— P. O. Satermoe one of the prominent and prosperous farmers near Climax is spending the day in the city attending to some business matters and paid the Journal a very pleasant call having his subscription advanced another year. He would like to see a fall of about 8 or 10 inches of snow between now and the first of March or before the spring breakup.

HORSE COMMITTED SUICIDE — A horse belonging to P. H. Konzen, Mayor of Hallock "committed suicide" the other day. The animal had been hitched in a stall where the feed is conveyed from the loft thru a wedge-shaped box manger and it is supposed that in trying to reach for feed up the hollow of the manger the animal got its head caught and hung itself ,for this is the position in which it was found stone dead.

HAS TYPHOID FEVER—Miss Clara Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Glenn, is confined to her home with typhoid fever. She has been ill for the past week and her parents and friends are looking for a rapid convalescence.

PLEASED WITH SCHOOL—Albert Gullickson, Andrew Morvig and Evan Roragen, of Fertile spent Monday at the Crookston School of Agriculture. They inspected the institution thoroughly and are highly pleased with the methods followed. They will return to the southern section of the county ready to boost for the school.

WILL HOLD SPECIAL MEETING —Chris. Houston president of the local branch of the Society of Equity, instructed Secretary Elias Steenerson to issue a call for a special meeting to be held in this city next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The meeting will take under consideration several matters of legislation which farmers are interested in and it is very desirable that a large attendance be had. The meeting will be held in the city hall.

FRAZIER GIRL TO TRAINING SCHOOL

JUDGE SULLIVAN DECIDES COMMITMENT IS THE BEST POLICY

Shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, after a trial which lasted all day, Judge Sullivan of East Grand Forks decided that Drucilla Frazier charged with incorrigibility should be committed to the state training school at Red Wing, where her younger sister Sarah already is confined.

The girl took the decision in a stoical manner and had little to say. She was placed under $500 bonds until committed, and as this was not furnished was brought to Crookston last evening by Deputy Sheriff Sullivan.

The girl herself was placed on the stand yesterday and admitted everything she had testified to with regard to the Abner Brown case in Grand Forks. She also gave some interesting facts regarding S. H. Pratt alais Smith, alias Jones. The girl told how Pratt passed her off as his daughter. hired her out at the hotels where he stopped and applied what she earned on his board bill. Drucilla said he told her he was getting 75 per cent commission on his liquor sales, but says she knews he secured the money he had by forgery. Pratt told her at one town that her name was to be Smith and at another town that her name would be Jones while they were staying there.

Contrary to former reports it was learned yesterday that Drucilla Frazier will not be 16 years of age until some time next May. She first met Abner Brown when she was between 13 and 14 years of age. Sarah Frazier already at the training school, has written that she likes the place and is not anxious to come back home. The girls are to be kept at the school for two years, and longer if the school authorities think best. It is believed that the younger child Lucile has been sufficiently impressed by the way her two sisters have been dealt with to follow the straight and narrow path for some time at least.

A VICTIM OF TUBERCULOSIS

BADGER, MINN. MAN WILL BE LAID TO REST AT MIDDLE GROVE

Ole Anderson of Badger, Minn., died at the home of his brother-in-law R. J. Folven in Blooming township, Sunday morning, aged 26 years. The deceased leaves a mother and two brothers in Greenbush, Mrs. Forsman, Albert and Andrew and a brother and sister at Mekinock, Iver Anderson and Mrs. R. J. Folven. Death was due to tuberculosis. He had been ill for four months. The funeral services will be held in Middle Grove church. Thursday, at 2 p. m. Rev. Hjertaas will conduct the services.

TO DIVIDE LARGE HALLOCK FARM

OWNER OF FARM PROPERTY DECIDES UPON A WISE MOVE

Dr. E. C. Borley who is the owner of the farm west of Hallock, generally known as the Kelso farm intends to divide the large farm up into three or four smaller farms and has already made plans for a residence to be built on each of these farms, including barns, granaries, etc. With good buildings erected on these farms he wil have no trouble in finding purchasers. This is an example which would be a good idea for other farmers to follow who have more land than they can properly handle.

GRAND FORKS COLLEGE MEET

MEMBERS OF DIRECTORATE FROM CROOKSTON ATTEND

Today a corporation meeting of Grand Forks College is in session at that city and some important matters will be considered. Among the directors who attended from this section are Judge A. Grindeland of Warren, Rev. Aastad of Thief River Falls, Mr. Digstad of St. Hilaire and Rev. Salveson and O. O. Christianson from this city.

CITY FATHERS FAIL TO ELECT ALDERMAN

RESIGNATION OF ALDERMAN ZERRACHER ACCEPTED BUT A DEADLOCK OCCURRED OVER A SUCCESSOR FROM SECOND WARD—MESSRS. J. D. BALL AND A. E. MORCK ON FINAL BALLOTS RECEIVED 4 VOTES EACH—DEADLOCK APT TO CONTINUE FOR SOME TIME—CONSIDERABLE ROUTINE BUSINESS DISPOSED OF—BOBBY HUFFMAN HAS A JUST GRIEVANCE

From Wednesday's Daily—

At the meeting of the city council last evening there was a deadlock over the election of a succesor to Alderman B. F. Zerracher from the Second ward, whose resignation was read and the seat declared vacant as provided by the charter. Alderman Zerracher has removed to Minneapolis and his seat is apparently hard to fill. J. D. Ball received four votes on each ballot, there being four scattering votes the first ballot, going to C. Reidesel, John Heldstab, J. F. Hetler and N. P. Stone respectively and A. E. Morck receiving the other four votes on the second and each succeeding ballot, Ball getting the other four. After repeated ballots in which Messrs. Ball and Morck received 4 votes each the seat was left vacant and other business taken up.

Bobby Huffman Protests

During the session an unusual circumstance developed in the petition of R. L. Huffman to have his personal property taxes reduced. It appears that he has been paying taxes on a piano for the previous five years and never owned one, or had one on the premises. He discovered the fact last year and the assessor was notified, but the assessment on the piano bobbed up serenely again this year and Mr. Huffman protests.

Others Want Assessment lowered

Carl Nelson also asked to have his assessment reduced $50, claiming that he had been raised $49 over last year and that he had been assessed $1 for a dog when he had none.

S. H. Peterson asked for a reduction of $85 on his assessment and August Linden also wanted a reduction. All applications were referred to the finance committee.

Cement Bid Tabled

As there was but one bid submitted for the cement work to be done by the city it was tabled unopened, as the council wants more than one bid before they will be considered, even if it comes from outside contractors.

Will be Sent West

The Thibedeau family which has been receiving aid from the city will probably be sent west. A relative proposed to Poor Commissioner Sargent to pay half of the R. R. fare for the family to Idaho where relatives will assist them, if the city will pay the other half. Alderman Sargent was authorized to use his own discretion in the matter and he will send them.

New Plumbing Co.

The bonds of Howie and Anderson who will operate the Queen City Plumbing and Heating Co. were approved and license granted. This concern will open for business about March 1st in the building on North Broadway formerly occupied by the Vesterheimen and Crookston Press. In the meantime they will be found at the Cleveland hotel for any work desired.

The bond of A. A. Glennfi housemover and City Justice Fulton were also approved.

Hydrant Tampered With

The Crookston Water Works Power and Light Co., in a communication complained that a city hydrant was being tampered with and the matter was referred to the Light and Hydrant and Fire committees for investifation.

On motion it was decided to have the interest earnings on the special paving fund credited to that fund in future.

INFLUENCE FOR GOOD

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MOVEMENT HAS EXERTED WORLD WIDE INFLUENCE

VISIT OF STATE SECRETARY HOWELL TODAY AND TOMORROW IMPORTANT

From Wednesday's Daily—

The visit of Secretary Howells of the Minnesota Endeavor Union calls to mind the significant history of that great movement among Young People. Organized twenty-eight years ago by a Congregational pastor in Portland, Me., it has grown to numbers past recording. [illegible],000 societies in every country on the globe are included under the "C. E." banner. The World's C. E. Convention is to be held in 1909 in the city of Agra, India which suggests the changes that are taking place in far off lands.

This is an Inter-denominational movement and has had great effect in promoting mutual confidence, fellowship and co-operation between the different churches while honoring the special opinions and methods of these denominations.

A tendency in the direction of denominational young people's societies caused the separation of the larger portion of the Methodist youth under the Epworth League, the Baptists in the B. Y. P. U. and the Lutheran in their Lutheran League but that tendency has been to a considerable extent checked and already there are signs of a return to the original unity of the Christian youth of the world. The latest example of this was the recent action of the United Brethren Societies which added the name Christian Endeavor to their denominational name bringing over 83,000 recruits to the C. E. ranks.

The International Convention for the United States and Canada is coming close to us, being set for St. Paul in July 1909. This will be one of the greatest meeting the state will have this year. These gatherings occur every two years, the last being at Seattle, with several Crookstonians in attendance.

The conference and rally to be held there tonight at the Presbyterian church and tomorrow night at the Congregational church are for the purpose of developing acquaintance with the methods and spirit of this movement.

GRAFTON MAN WOUNDS SELF

CHARLES UHLER WILL DIE FROM INJURY INFLICTED WHILE DESPONDENT

UHLER PAYS BILLS BUYS REVOLVER AND SHOOTS SELF IN HIS ROOM

From Wednesday's Daily—

Charles Uhler a farmer of Walsh county whose home is in Grafton shot himself in the head with a revolver yesterday forenoon and inflicted a fatal wound. The bullet entered his right ear.

Uhler had been despondent over his financial affairs. He had been obliged to give up his farming operations recently. Last summer he sustained a sunstroke and since then he has not been exactly sane.

Yesterday forenoon Uhler cashed a check for $10 at a bank and purchased a revolver at a hardware store. He went around town and settled several bills he owed, including one for livery rig which he had used the day previous. He went to his rooms, over a restaurant and shot himself. His wife found him in a pool of blood.

Dr. Glaspell was summoned and cared for the wounded man. He was unconscious following the shooting, until early today. He has no chance of recovery it is believed.

He has a wife and one child.

LENTEN SERVICES IN THE CHURCHES

ANNUAL SEASON OF FASTING AND ABSTINENCE ENDS ON APRIL 11

Today is Ash Wednesday the first day of Lent and during the day will held in the Christ's, Catholic, and Episcopal churches and several of the other churches.

The season of fasting and abstinence will continue until Easter Sunday which falls on April 11 this year.

GUS HANSON IS NOT YET FOUND

CLAIM OF WARREN MAN THAT HE IS IN AN INSANE HOSPITAL IS DECLARED BASELESS—WETTENSTINE ADMITS THAT HE BASED HIS CLAIM ON THE FACT THAT MAN WAS SENT FROM RAMSEY COUNTY TO AN ASYLUM AT FERGUS FALLS—CLAIMED $100 REWARD FOR HIS INFORMATION—WHEREABOUTS STILL A MYSTERY

Employes of Hanson Bros'. Pool and billiard hall in Grand Forks investigated the claim of Commissioner Wettenstnie of Warren, Minn., that he knew the whereabouts of Gustave Hanson and last night it was given out that the missing Grand Forks man had not been located. Questioned by telephone the Warren man stated that Hanson had not been in Warren lately but had been committed from Ramsey county to the asylum at Fergus Falls. As the police had been notified to look out for Hanson it would have been impossible for him to have been locked up on an insanity charge without identification.

Ole Hanson was in communication with employes last evening, and he agreed that the claim of the Warren man was baseless. Gus has a claim some where in the vicinity of Warren but he was penniless when he escaped from private hospital in Minneapolis and in his demneted condition would have found it impossible to board a train and escape identification.

Claims the Reward

Yesterday forenoon Wettenstine called up Chief Overby from Warren and declared that he knew where Gus Hanson could be found. He claimed the $100 reward offered by Ole Hanson As the chief understood Wettenstine the missing Grand Forks man had been sent from Warren to the asylum at Fergus Falls.

The police of the twin cities have been busily engaged in making a search for Hanson, and his brother, Ole has been in Minneapolis following up every clue possible. He inserted advertisements in the twin city newspapers, offering $100 reward for information in regard to the whereabouts of his brother and Commissioner Wittenstine saw the advertisement.

Insane Since July

Gus became insane last year. It was at the time the fair was in progress last July that it was noticed he was unbalanced. He insisted that the gas company's big chimney was going to fall and made other odd predictions. Ole took him to Minneapolis and placed him in a private hospital. He failed to improve and it was considered probable he wolud have to be taken to an asylum about the time he made his escape. Ole fears he has perished somewhere on the prarie, as no trace of him can be found.

The above list was prepared for the use of the public at the last annual meeting of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society, and represents the results of present experience in Minnesota in the growing of fruits as regards what varieties may best be planted.

This society is supported by the state from public taxation and has no other purpose than to acquire information on horticultural subjects and disseminate it among the people of the state. To assist in this purpose the society publishes monthly a magazine of 40 pages called "The Minnesota Horticulturalist" which is sent to its members and furnishes its members also a bound volume of over 500 pages entitled "Trees, Fruits and Flowers of Minnesota" and also some plant premiums for experimental purposes.

Anyone may become a member for one year upon the payment of the annual fee of $1.

A number of valuable premiums for few varieties of seedling fruits are offered by this society.

Fuller information on these subjects and a sample copy of the magazine will be sent to all applicants, Address and remit to A. W. Latham, Secretary 207 Kasota Blk. Minneapolis, Minn.

Destroy The Fish Destroyers

A bill has been introduced in the senate which has for its object the destruction of carp, dog fish, garfish and suckers. The idea is commendable if the state wishes to save the bass and pike but the bill has its objections in the method provided to carry out its provisions.

The bill provides that after licensing responsible parties to seine such fish they shall do so under the supervision of a duly appointed deputy game warden and the party securing the license "shall pay such deputy $2.50 for each day so employed."

This is the wrong method. Such deputy should be paid directly by the state game and fish commission, so that the deputy may act independently and without any obligation to the licensed seiner. But the licensed party should be made to pay directly to the commission the per diem due the deputy by depositing a sum in advance to cover the time expected to be consumed by the licensed seiner in completing his work.

The object of this bill is to exterminate from the lakes of Minnesota the fish that destroy the gamesters, and there should be no favoritism shown the seiner in permitting him to take other than rough fish which might, and probably would, be the case, if the deputy looked to the licensed seiner for his compensation.

The bill should also provide that no person may be eligible to the office of deputy game warden who has ever been convicted of the violation of any of the state laws.

The compensation provided in this bill, for deputies to supervise the seining seems hardly adequate, and might well be increased, in view of the fact that better service would thereby be secured. The purpose of the bill—the destruction of carp—is a good one, and the sooner an effective law is in operation the better it will be for the preservation of the game fish.—St. Paul Dispatch.

NEW TRIAL IS DENIED

VERDICT OF $5,000 FOR HALLOCK'S BOY'S INJURIES IS SUSTAINED

CASE WAS TRIED AT FERGUS FALLS—BOY MAY GO INSANE

From Saturday's Daily—

Judge Page Morris of the United States Federal Court at Duluth has just handed down a decision denying a new trial in the case of James Wallin against the Duluth Elevator Co.

The case was started in the Kittson Co., district court but was transferred to the federal court on motion of the defendant and was tried at Fergus Falls where a verdict of $5,000 was returned for the plaintiff.

The elevator company at once filed a motion for a new trial and after considerable delay, owing to a trip south for his health Judge Morris ,before whom the case was tried denied the motion.

The defendants still have recourse to an appeal to the United States Court of Appeals at St. Louis, but no appeal has yet been taken.

James Wallin ,the plaintiff was injured in the Duluth Elevator at Chatham a private siding just this side of Hallock. The foundation of the elevator gave way, and the company hired a crew of men, among whom was young Wallin to empty the bins, and the grain was being carried out in bushel baskets when a board from the roof fell and struck Wallin on the head.

Physicians from Fergus Falls, and the asylum physicians at that place testified that they believed that the victim of the accident would become insane, but Dr. C. E. Dampier of this city disagreed with that opinion.

Attorney Chas. Loring of this city represented the plaintiff in the case, and the denial for a new trial will be very interesting news to the people on the St. Vincent line where Wallin is very well known, and where much sympathy is felt regarding his unfortunate accident.

PROF. DUNTON IS WELL PLEASED

HEAD OF McINTOSH SCHOOLS SATISFIED WITH PROPOSED LEGISLATION

Prof. A. M. Dunton of the McIntosh Schools who made a trip to St. Paul has returned from St. Paul where he interviewed the members of the legislature in regard to the passing of a law which would permit the rural schools to associate themselves with the village school for the purpose of assisting in maintaining courses in agriculture, manual training and home economics in the High School and of extending the influence and supervision of the central school over the rural schools.

He reports that a number of bills have been drawn by independent parties and there has been so far no atempt to work out a state system.

Thru the courtesy of Sen. Stephens Prof. Dunton was permitted to address a meeting of senators and representatives interested in the different bills. As a result of this meeting it was decided to appoint a committee of five from each house to consider the different bills and frame a state system.

There is every reason to believe that a satisfactory solution of the matter will be reached and that the legislation needed for the carrying on of the work here will be secured.

AGED MOTHER BROKE HER LIMB

Mrs. P. K. Haselrud and H. M. Fenrite returned this morning from Madison, Minn., where they were called by a serious accident to their mother who about ten days ago while walking on the side walk started for the middle of the street where there was less snow and as she stepped off the walk fell and broke her limb just below the hip joint. As she is 67 years of age the accident is a very serious one, and to make it worse the physician first called did not discover the fracture, and it was not till the next day after she had been taken to the hospital that the physicians there on examination discovered the fracture, the two ends of the broken bone being overlapped about an inch. The limb was placed in a plaster cast and the patient is doing as well as could be expected but it will be a week before any definite decision can be made.

PROGRAM WAS ELABORATE

COLONIAL DAYS WERE RE-CALLED BY FUNCTION AT STRANDER HOME

PROGRAM WAS FINE AND MARTHA AND GEORGE MADE A DECIDED HIT

From Saturday's Daily—

The Washington's birthday social held by the Opportunity Club of the Presbyterian church at the C. C. Strander home last evening was one of the most elaborate and successful social functions of that character ever held in Crookston. Every detail was carried out to a nicety, decorations, program and refreshments all being in perfect harmony.

When the guests arrived they were ushered in the front entrance by a colored servant who was all courtesy and a second colored footman directed the, guests up-stairs where their wraps were disposed of.

Upon descending the stairway and entering the parlor they were greeted by George and Martha Washington, and the makeups they were reflected colonial days to a nicety. Ray Young impersonated George Washington splendidly wearing a wig, bow, knee breeches etc., while Miss Inga Dahl, Mrs. Strander's sister took the part of Martha splendidly, wearing a Dolly Varden Gown with Watteau pleats behind and other colonial "duds". George took special pains to kiss the hand of each lady, but the gentlemen were given no such a treat by Martha.

A very entertaining program was then rendered, every number being heartily encored and the performers compelled to respond. A colord quintette consisting of Messrs. Ross Chesterman, Harry Chesterman, Geo. Pietsch, Byron Leick and Chas. Rapin sang several times during the evening and could not sing often enough to suit those present. Miss Helen Strander gave a piano solo which was very fine and Geo. Pietsch sang a "coon" song with quartette chorus which made a hit. Byron Leick rendered an exceptionally fine piano solo "Dawn" which was followed after he responded to an encore, by a very fine piano solo by Miss Andrews. A vocal duet by Mrs. Young and Ray Young was also greatly enjoyed.

A parlor farce "Katrina and Hans" was put on by Miss Lucy Lofthouse and Roy Wilde who did exceptionally well, Roy being one of the most insistent lovers Crookston has ever known, but he fell into a trap laid by the cunning Katrina and made love to her in a different make-up and was denounced when she threw off her mask. At about this juncture Katrina's mother (Mrs. M. Phalen) appeared on the scene and the way she chased the fickle Hans about the room made the guests dodge for cover.

The rooms were very artistically and effectively decorated with red and white hatchets and the affair thruout including very fine refreshments was a signal success.

MRS. BARLOW DIES OF WOUNDS

VICTIM OF SELF-INFLICTED INJURY KNOWN HERE AS MISS EDITH COCHRANE

Mrs. B. A. Barlow wife of the assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Park River who shot herself with a revolver Tuesday is dead as a result of the wound inflicted. The bullet from the revolver entered close to her heart.

Former Resident

Mrs. Barlow was a resident of Crookston for several years before her marriage. She was Miss Edith Cochrane.

EBBIGHAUSEN NAMED BOILER INSPSCTOR

GOV. JOHNSON APPOINTS MEMBER OF CROOKSTON AUTO CO. TO POSITION

Gov. Johnson has announced the names of the boiler inspectors for Minnesota to serve the ensuing two years and the list includes the name of Chas. Ebbighausen of this city, who is the expert machinist for the Crookston Automobile Co., at N. P. Stone & Co's., and can handle both positions to a nicety, being thordly qualified.

FAIR MADE PERMANENT

CLEARWATER COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY HELD MEETING AND

ELECTED OFFICERS—WILL ERECT BUILDINGS THIS YEAR AT BAGLEY

The Clearwater County Agricultural society held a very enthusiastic and well attended meeting last evening at Bagley at which it was decided to hold a county fair next fall.

At this meeting the association decided to make the fair a permanent institution for Clearwater county and appointed T. K. Berglund, H. C. Peterson, O. T. Davids, E. H. Reff and Jerome Thayer as a committee to oversee the purchasing of grounds and erecting the proper buildings thereon, they to report at a meeting to be held April 3nd.

L. Jensen, F. S. Kalberg and E. H. Reff were appointed a committee to draft a suitable set of by-laws. A committee on membership was appointed and they will commence an active canvas for the association. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Pres., L. Jenson; Vice Presidents, George French, H. G. Larson, Gilbert Tollefson and C. O. Teigland; Secretary, F. S. Kalberg; Treasurer, E. H. Reff; Directors L. Jensen, John A. Wick, O. T. Davids, George French, Oscar T. Stenwick, C. C. Teigland, Jerome Thayer, A. Kaiser, Oscar Barness H. G. Larson, O. K. Berglund, Julius Stromme, Theodore Welte, Martin Heinzelman, Gilbert Thompson, F. S. Kalberg, H. C. Peterson, L. O. Jacobson and D. M. Wethern.

The Clearwater county fairs have done considerable towards advertising the resources of Clearwater county and it is the intention of the members of the association that the coming fair will be the best ever held in the county.

WARRENITE WAS BADLY INJURED

W. L. Officer of Warren met with a mishap yesterday afternoon that is likely to keep him on the invalid list for a little while. He was driving from Angus to Warren when the bridle bit came apart in the horses' mouth leaving him unable to guide or control the animal. Afraid that his sleigh might at any moment be upset and he himself thrown down, he decided to jump out when the horse started to "hit up" his speed. In jumping he sustained a very severe sprain of one of his ankles. Fortunately another rig bound for Warren came upon the scene at this juncture and took Mr. Officer aboard and took him to town where a physician gave him the attention his injuries required. For a few days at least he will find it convenient to use a pair of crutches in his travels.

PRESIDENT-ELECT TAFT A MASTER MASON

Masons thruout the country are interested in the fact that William H. Taft president-elect of the United States is a master mason. The impressive ceremony which brought him this distinction Thursday was conducted by Charles S. Hoskinson, "the most worshipful grand master of the grand lodge of the most ancient and honorable fraternity of Fre and Accepted Masons of the state of Ohio."

The highest Masonic authorities of 17 states witnessed Mr. Taft's admission into the order. as did a body of men represnting distinguished citizens of Cincinnati and members of Kilwinning lodge of which Alfonso Taft father of the president elect, was a member and in which Charles P. Taft was inducted under the auspices of his father. Scottish rite cathedral, an ancient edifice devoted to the higher degrees of masonry, was the scene of the ceremonies. Its main floor and gallery were filled when the distinguished candidate arrived. The procedure which culminated in the declaration that Mr. Taft was a mason, occupied about 35 minutes.

As a mason Mr. Taft's appreciation was of his father's character as such and of his own regret that the delay had been so long in his own case, and a rejoicing that his brother, „Charles P., who was present had been made a mason under the tutelage of Alfonso Taft. Mr. Taft received many greetings on a new plane of fellowship as he was escorted from the hall by the committee having in charge his initiation.

C. T. LANMAN PIONEEER EDITOR OF POLK COUNTY SELLS HIS PAPER

G. T. ENGLUND OF ALEXANDRIA IS NEW EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

From Saturday's Daily—

The following statement is made in this week's issue of the McIntosh Times by Editor C. T. Lanman, one of the veteran editors of Polk County, and whose retirement will be regretted by a large circle of friends in the newspaper fraternity thruout this section.

"With this issue the Times passes from the control of the writer into the hands of G. T. Englund of Alexandria who has already taken possession and will remove his family here as soon as suitable quarters can be secured.

"While a stranger to this community Mr. Englund comes to us with references and credentials that leave no question as to his integrity, or his ability to give our readers and patrons a paper that will be a credit to both himself and the community and we bespeak for him the hearty co-operation and support of all our friends and patrons.

"As to ourselves we have little to say at this time. For upward of twenty years we have faithfully endeavored to give the community as good a paper as the conditions would warrant, and we can now truthfully say that we retire with a clean conscience, malice towards none, and good will to all.

"Our future is yet unsettled, almost unthought of. For the present our hands will be fully occupied closing up our past business relations and looking after our somewhat extensive real estate interests. Later we hope to so arrange matters as to engage in business in this community.

"In closing we wish to again sincerely thank our friends and patrons for such support and co-operation as they have given us, and to bespeak for the new proprietor an even greater measure of prosperity than we have ourselves enjoyed."

ICE CREAM AT WARREN CREAMERY

The stockholders of the Warren creamery held their annual election this week and chose the following-named officers for the ensuing year: John W. Thomas, president; C. W. Abrahamson vice president; H. J. March, secretary; C. A. Tullar, ,treasurer; E. Springmier, director.

The reports of the officers for the two years ending Feb. 3, 1909, made a most excellent showing and one that was very satisfactory to the stockholders. The net profits earned by the creamery during the two years averaged more than twelve per cent. The business done is constantly on the increase and the profits to the investors will be yet greater the coming year.

The Warren Creamery Company is soon to put in a plant for manufacturing ice cream in connection with their butter making industry. The necessary machinery has been purchased and is now enroute. On its arrival it will be installed and, as rapidly as possible, everything will be gotten in readiness for the manufacture of ice cream. This move has been contemplated for a long time and needed only the endorsement of a general meeting of the stockholders, which it has now received, to get it under way. The company believes it will prove a paying proposition.

BOOKS AUDITED AND FOUND O.K.

The board of directors of the Northern Minnesota Poultry Ass'n met during the past week and audited the books of the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Mitchell, and all accounts were found to be in excellent shape.

All the bills of the Association have been paid, with some cash still in the treasury, and in addition the association this year had $75 worth of cooping constructed, which is an asset and next year will have as much more done in the same line.

The association fully appreciates what the business men did in the way of co-operation last year and promise that next year the show will be bigger and better than ever.

Mrs. Mitchell, the secretary states that every exhibitor who showed birds here this winter, has signified his intention of having birds here next winter, and many more will also have an exhibit.

FULLY EQUIPPED FOR MODERN MERCHANDISING

Over $12,000 Will Be Expended In Making New Store Most Modern Department Store In Northwest.

Contract Awarded At Once And Remodelling Will Be Completed May 1. Model Of Convenience And Beauty.

Geo. Wright of the Wright-Carpenter Co., returned this morning from St. Paul where yesterday all arrangements were completed with Messrs. Wm. Anglim and Fontaine for the complete remodelling of the New Store which with the new interior fixtures will cost $12000 and make the New Store the most modernly equipped department store in the northwest. There will be some that are larger, but none more convenient or with as many modern conveniences.

Occupy Three Floors

The New Store will occupy the same space in the grocery department as at present, and that portion of the building will not be altered at presnt The portion occupied by the clothing and drygoods department, however, will be used including a full modernly equipped basement and the second story as well, all the offices being removed and everything made strictly modern as on the first floor.

Handsome New Front

The plans drawn by Architect B. D. Keck call for a magnificent new front which will be very beautiful with a marble base, and solid plate glass for the front of the 50 feet occupied by the clothing and dry goods departments. The second story windows will also be enlarged giving ample light for that department.

All in One Room

The brick wall that now separates the clothing and dry goods departments will be removed and those two departments including the shoe department will be in one immense room The front entrance will be in the center the present stairway being from the street removed together with the present stairway in the rear.

Handsome Balcony

A 14 foot balcony extending across the entire rear of the room, 7 feet high will be constructed the north end of which will be used for office purposes the cashier, etc., and the south end will be utilized as a parlor, with every appointment modern and beautiful providing the ladies with a place to rest at intervals during their shopping.

Broad Stairway

The stairway to the balcony will be located in the center of the building and from the balcony a second stairway will lead to the second floor. The under part of the latter stairway will be handsomely pannelled, and beneath the first flight will be the stairway leading to the basement.

The Shoe Department

The shoe department will be located clear across the rear of the building underneath the balcony and on each side as far as the balcony projects, giving ample room. A row of fine chairs, facing the rear will be used in this department, replacing the benches formerly used, thus affording the patrons a greater degree of privacy.

A Fine Basement

The basement will be well lighted and will have a cement floor. The regular rest room will be located here It will be large and commodious, with hard wood floor and every convenience for the ladies from the country who wish to leave their children there their wraps or bundles. The ladies and gents toilets will also be located in the basement.

In addition to the stairway at the rear, another broad stairway will lead to the basement from the front entrance turning to the south, and it will be protected by a beautifully fashioned and finished railing.

New Hardwood Floors

New hardwood floors will be laid and all the interior finishings will be new. Everything will harmonize from one end of the store to the other The back of the big plate glass display windows will be finished in quarter sawed oak and large plate glass mirors wil be placed at the ends of the front windows.

New Shelving and Cases

All the shelving will be new, and together with the display tables, the chairs and the clothing cabinets and entire inside finishing will be constructed of Washington fir with rather a dark and very beautiful stain, and the balcony will be of the same material, thus creating a very handsome effect.

The new clothing cabinets will run from the archway leading to the grocery department, back to the shoe department.

The shelving along the walls will be but 6 feet high and the balance of the shelving located in the central portion of the store will be low enough so a complete view of the entire floor can be obtained from any place in the room. Many new and handsome show cases will also be placed.

Public will be Pleased

It is the purpose of the Wright-Carpenter Co. to be in a position to extend every facility to their patrons Their business last year increased by such leaps and bounds that the heavy expenditure is fully justified and the public will certainly be pleased when the remodelling is completed, and shopping can be done surrounded by the same comforts and elegance as in St. Paul or Minneapolis.

Messrs. Fontaine and Anglim entered enthusiastically into the plan and are glad to know that Crookston is to have such a modern merchandising establishment.

FARMERS ARE INTERESTED

MANY NEAR THIEF RIVER FALLS TO GO INTO POTATO RAISING BUSINESS

MEETING OF FARMERS IN THAT CITY A VERY SUCCESSFUL ONE

From Friday's Daily—

A meeting of farmers was held in Thief River Falls to consider the proposition of going into potato raising on an extensive scale in that vicinity Organization was perfected by the election of J. O. Thorstad president and Peter Engelstad secretary.

Short talks upon the subject were made by E. L. Quist, Supt. J. H. Hay, O. J. Schei, Walter Quist and C. M. Evenson. It appeared to be the unanimous opinion of all that there was good money to be made in the raising of potatoes and quite a number of farmers signified a willingness to go into this branch of farming quite extensively next spring. A committee consisting of Walter Quist, S. O. Lee and Fred Copp was apponited to select a suitable seed. This committee will investigate the various varieties and report at a meeting to be held later.

It is the intention if possible to secure at some time in the future an expert potato raiser to come to Thief River Falls and address the farmers upon the subject of potato raising.

Kill the Canadian Thistle

Canada thistles are a very persistent weed, hence are destroyed with a good deal of hard work. Late fall plowing is severe on all weeds that are propagated from roots that water in the soil. A spring fallow every week with a spring tooth harrow continued till June will destroy many of the roots. Plant to corn and dont allow a thistle to grow during the summer. Use a surface cultivator with steel points or sweeps which will cut the thistles of just below the surface. Use a sharp hoe about the hills of corn. Small patches may be destroyed by keeping them cut with a hoe or spade The roots cannot live if the tops are kept from growing.—N. W. Agriculturist.

VETERAN DEAD; LEAVES LARGE FAMILY

FATHER OF 19 CHILDREN PASSES AWAY NEAR NEW YORK MILLS

The will of Jos. W. Rogers whose death occurred in the vicinity of New York Mills on Feb. 12 was presented for probate in the court in Fergus Falls Wednesday. The estate is valued at $300 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate. Albert Kimball and Fred Cole are named as executors.

Mr. Rogers was a veteran of the civil war and was 74 years of age at the time of his death, which was due to rheumatism. He was the father of 19 children, of whom 15 are living. His first wife the mother of fourteen of his children, has been dead for about 20 years. He was married again a few years ago and leaves a young wife with five small children, who were with him at the time of his death also three of his older sons. The other children are scattered in different parts of the country.

The will names only ten of the children as heirs.

NINE BIRDS WON SEVEN PRIZES

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mitchell have just received returns from the St. Paul Poultry show. They sent 9 birds to this show and the judges awarded them seven prizes nowithstanding the competition was very sharp. These were not the birds sent to the Duluth show, a separate lot of 25 having been shipped to Duluth, where many prizes were also won. This ends the poultry shows in Minnesota for the present winter. Following are the prizes they were awarded: Bearder Silver Polish—1, 2, 3 Pullet.

SHOCK HEAVIEST LOSER IN FIRE

ROADMASTER OF GREAT NORTHERN IS OUT MANY VALUABLE CURIOS

Some of the railroad employes who used the upper portion of the Great Northern depot at Larimore as rooming places lost quite heavily in the fire. L. J. Trudeau agent, lost about $300 worth of furnishings and clothing. Frank Lee wife and children, lost everything in the way of clothing and furniture. They are out about $500. Lee is car clerk. Milo Shock roadmaster, is the heaviest loser. He had his rooms fitted up in fine shape and $900 is a conservative estimate Among other things he had four elks' heads which were valued at $100 each.

The loss of express and baggage was so little that the company's local officials considered it not worth putting in figures. All the records and tickets were saved.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF BRIDGE STEEL

The first shipment of steel for the new Sampson's Bridge arrived this morning and teams have been busy all day hauling it to the approach on this side of the river. The balance will be here in a few days and the placing of the big span will soon be completed after which the balance of the work will be finished in short order.

Albert Lea Standard: The more you read Governor Johnson's message about Minnesota the more inspiration it gives to every citizen and to every young man, especially to share in its progress and glory. He tells of 200,000 farmers tilling 25,000,000 acres, but with one-half of its agricultural lands uncultivated, producing a barrel of flour and a five pound jar of gilt-edged butter for every American family and then some for export, with a railroad investment equalled by but four other states in the union and with an iron deposit in sight that one-fourth of the whole world's supply—and that this is only a hint of what is contained in his eloquent exposition.

DISCUSSED THE TOURNEY

FIREMEN OF CROOKSTON HELD A SPECIAL MEETING LAST EVENING

RELIEF ASSOCIATION ELECTED OFFICERS AND DISPOSED OF BUSINESS

From Friday's Daily—

Last evening there was a special meeting of the Crookston fire department called to discuss plans in connection with the coming annual tournament of the Northwestern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament Association which will be held in Crookston the coming summer.

On motion a committee was named to act in conjunction with the committee of the Commercial Club to complete plans for the reception and proper entertainment for the visiting firemen, and the following committee was named: Chief A. J. Barrette, A. C. Schmidt, W. P. Stone and president Morris of the Relief Association.

The firemen fully realize the magnitude of the job that confronts them, and realize that nothing but the united and hearty co-operation of all citizens can make the affair a success and Crookston cannot afford to have the tourney anything less than the biggest and best one ever held in Northern Minnesota.

Four Days' Celebration

If the citizens realize what a monster gathering the tournament will bring to Crookston there will not be the least trouble in having the biggest four days celebration at Crookston that has ever been had and the benefits that will accrue are well worth all the money and time that will be necessary. The preliminary preparations must be made at once in order to avoid confusion and delay later on.

The Crookston Firemen's Relief Association also held a meeting last evening and elected officers. Thomas Morris was re-elected president and

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

(New York Press)

The reason a woman brags about what her children can do is they can't

The only person who really believes that a girl has all the suitors she thinks she has is her mother.

Unless a girl has the right kind of first name she is very superstitious over the way it may not fit in a romance.

The hen-pecked husband has more than a peck of trouble.

This is a fast age; everythnig goes fast—especially money.

A woman is really in a hurry if she says good-by that way.

Cooks may come and cooks may go, but the eating habit goes on forever.

How a lucky man does enjoy pointing with pride to his superior judgment!

After a man has acquired a million he can afford to call his waistcoat a vest.

Morrison County Democrat: The public is fond of fancying that Mr. Taft has the smile that won't come off, but if anything can succeed in effacing it, four years in the White House are likely to do it. We hasten to predict that in march, 1913, he will find it harder to get that the smile on than to get it off.

Northfield News: A Minneapolis judge resigns because his salary is inadequate; and a Red Wing judge has not drawn his salary for three years, and there is $14000 coming to him. Queer world.

ANGUS-SHERACK

Mr. Frank Taus spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Horn of Key Stone.

Miss Emma Giese writes from Rollette, N. D., to her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ludolf Giese of Tabor, that she is much pleased with her new position and surroundings. She states Rollette is a town only three years old and has already a population of over 500.

Our little hamlet paid a glowing tribute February 12th to the memory of the immortal Abraham Lincoln on this centennial anniversary of his birth. The teachers and scholars of Districts 59 and 174 gathered in the school house of district 171. A fine programme was carried out to perfection by the scholars of Prof. B. J. O'Brien of school district 171.

Prof. O'Brien made a splendid speech and his scholars acquitted themselves in a most patriotic manner Prof. W. N. Frost of school district 174 told in a very pleasing manner some of the anecdotes of the immortal President Lincoln and to say the least his tales touched the little ones hearts Beautiful songs were rendered in a very apreciative manner by the Ladies' Quartette of Angus. Such is the way to make true patriots and noble Americans.

Mr. Albert Horn celebrated the anniversary of his birthday February 14. Albert is now 21 years old and has thus become a man and more than that—a proud American citizen. Mr. Horn is a young man of sterling worth and his many friends wish him a long and happy life, all of cheer and sunshine.

Mr. Elois Beadel writes to one of his friends here from Enid, Okalahoma that on January 29, the town of Carmonne was completely destroyed by fire. Carmonne has a population of about 1500 inhabitants and is a new town and the destruction wrought by the fire fiend is a particular hard blow to the people this time of the year. Mr. Beadel states: "The firemen ad citizens fought like demons, but the fearful wind and the scarcity of water made the town succumb to the inevitable.

Mr. D. H. Miller and Mr. E. Johnston two of the jolliest Scotties of our neighborhood were representing our humble hamlet last Monday in Warren.

Prof. Wilford Frost teacher in school district 174 meets with great success in his school. Prof. Frost possesses the happy faculty of inspiring his scholars into their studies in a pleasing manner by progressive methods.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sirek of Tabor were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. F. Sirek of this place.

The two youngest children of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Goodwin are sick with a very bad cold.

Miss Alma Horn one of the leading young ladies of Key Stone town, intends to take a course in instrumental music.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gustorsmson were going to pay a visit to Mrs. K. Snelling last Monday evening. As bad luck wanted it Mr. Gustorsmson forgot his compass and consequently lost his bearings in the twilight. The first thing our friend John knew, his faithful nag returned him and his better half to his doorstep. Now John, better give your true friend an extra feed of oats or your male friends will call for Brown's Selects.

CROOKSTON SCHOOL PLEASES VISITORS

Legislators Are Entertained At Agricultural College In Northern City. New Idea Of Farm Education Proves

Big Success From The Outset. The Boys And Girls Are Trained To Make Home Life Happier.

Under the above prominent headlines on the first page of the Minneapolis Tribune in Sunday morning's issue the following special with a Crookston date line appeared. It was written by George F. Authier, special representative of the Tribune who was in Crookston with the special delegation of state senators and representatives who recently visited the Crookston School of Agriculture to get a better idea of what is being accomplished here. The Tribune article is published in full below:

(By George F. Authier)

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 21—(Special)—Minnesota is talking about some feasible plan of agricultural education Numerous plans are proposed ranging from the county school proposition advocated by former Speaker L. H. Johnson, to the district methods fathered by Senator A. D. Stephens but Crookston furnishes a concrete example of what can be done in at least one methed.

The school has been on exhibition this week and the visiting committee of legislators lead by Senator Stephens, whose home is in Crookston and who secured the original appropriation which made the school at this point possible was shown about the institution and received new ideas.

Boys' Room Tidy

The visitors were first taken into Stephens hall, and secured a glimpse of the rooms used by the boys. neat and tidy the walls ornamented with pictures in the most excellent taste, and were then later shown into the chapel room, where the morning exercises were held.

This room was so crowded with earnest young men and women who are taking the course, that it was almost impossible for the legislators to find room to sit down a condition that was used by Superintendent William Robertson as an argument for additional appropriation for an increase in the school's facilities.

There is room for a wide divergence of opinion as to the best methods of securing agricultural education but the school at Crookston is an eloquent sermon in what can be done and of the ready response which the invitation meets from the country boys and girls

New Educational Idea

Here is a new idea in education. It takes cognizance of the fact that 75 per cent of the population of Minnesota is agricultural. It aims to fit the boys and girls of the farm to live on the farm. It educates to the farm rather than from itfl It gives them a good training which will help them to become better farmers. It instructs them in the right ways of living. It provides fine associations it furnishes exercise in the way of military drill and manual training. The boys are taught farm hemistry and farm botany they are instructed in soil culture and in the best methods of obtaining the most desirable results. The big state farm gives them an oportunity for experimentation and for explicit application of the things that have been learned in the school rooms.

The institution is co-educational and the girls are taught most of the subjects taught to the young men. In addition they are instructed in domestic economy, in laundering, in cooking and housekeeping.

Train Hand and Mind

It is the combined system of the education of brain and hand, with especial application to life on the farm.

From almost nothing the school has grown from a handful of pupils to its present enrollment of 119 with a faculty of seven people. Most of the equipment is inadequate but it has taught its lesson and the general verdict of the legislators who visited it was that the agricultural school had come to stay and there is no doubt but the Crookston school will receive an additional appropriation this year of generous proportions.

The course of training at the Crookston school covers three years. At its close the students have a good common school education with a special scientific education, designed to fit them for farm life, or for special work in the state agricultural college. That the course of instruction is liberal as well as specific is indicated by the following list of subjects furnished by Professor Robertson; Agricultural chemistry, agricultural physics, agriculture, algebra, blacksmithing, breeding, carpentry, civics, cooking, dairying, domestic chemistry, domestic hygiene, drawing, dressing and curing meats, entomology and zoology, English, farm accounts, farm mathematics farm botany, feeding, field crops, forestry, fruit growing, plane geometry, handling grain and machinery, home economy, home management, household art, laundering, military drill, music, sewing, social culture, soils and fertilizers, stock judging, study of breeds and vegetable gardening.

The student who has mastered these courses should be in position to make a good farmer or to make a good farmer's wife, and that is the aim kept in view in the course of instruction.

Boys are Happy

The rooms in which the boys live are triumphs of cleanliness and good housekeeping. Two ocupy a room, each being furnished a separate bed and everything is kept as neat and clean as it could be kept by the most exacting housewife or mother.

The aim is to give the boys and girls home life as a home should be. It is demonstrated that the most advanced conveniences can be furnished on the farm as in the towns. Windmills furnish water, gasoline engines furnish power and heat, sewage and drainage is installed and a daily example is given the pupils that farm life can be made just as convenient, just as enjoyable and just as delightful as residence anywhere.

That the students enjoy themselves is shown by their happy faces, their confident bearing and in the earnest way in which they go about their daily tasks.

Surrounding the two main buildings are the farm barns, and the blacksmith and carpentry shops. In these shops the boys are taught manual training. They are taught to artifice in wood and iron, to make their own repairs, to forge simple tools out of iron and to do the necessary and ordinary carpentry work that may come up about a farm.

They like the work and take to it with an avidity and eagerness that is good to see.

Fine Stock in the Barns

In the barns are kept the finest breeds of cattle, hogs and sheep and the boys are taught to care for and judge stock, to experiment in dairying and in every other form of farm endeavor.

The poultry barn contains some of the finest breeds of chickens and the boys are taught to make the best out of the feather breeds.

The girls are taught cooking, sewing laundering and other household duties and it would do the average citizen of Minnesota a great deal of good if he could see these girls with faces bright and flushed working out some simple lesson in cookery. Their dresses are neat and adapted to their work and their duties are made a joy and pleasure.

One of the gallant legislators remarked that only the fact that he was a married man, kept him from coming to the Crookston school to pick out a life partner and the charming appearance of the girls induced the legislators to the belief that it might be a good place for the unmarried members of the law making body to spend their vacations.

Students from Country

And the boys and girls taking this coure are bona fide residents of the country too. Only one student in the institution comes from the city of Crookston.

The people of Crookston are proud of this institution. During the visit of the legislators, they thronged the place and their faces beamed with pride as they expatiated on the merits of the school and urged the necessities of further appropriations.

Senator Moonan, the Democratic senator from Waseca started a round of applause at the chapel exercises by unging the father of the institution, Senator "Andy" Stephens for governor.

The Crookston school is the basis upon which Senator Stephens would build up his system of district agricultural schools. He would have seven additional schools established in the state, on the plan of the successful in- state, on the plan of the successful institution at Crookstonu, the other already established, being at Park Rapids. These schools would be located in the various congresional districts so that they would cover the state geographically. It is the same plan advocated by Prof. W. M. Hayes of the national department of agriculture at Washington.

EAT SAUSAGES AN NEW BREAD

OR ANY FAVORITE FOOD WITHOUT FEAR OF INDIGESTION—DISTRESS

FROM DYSPEPSIA OR A DISORDERED STOMACH VANISHES FIVE MINUTES LATER

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of a case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will occasionally take a little Diapepsin after eating.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea. Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Billiousness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in the Stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. Each triangule will digest all the food you can eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking today and by tomorrow you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

WARREN MAN TO GET REWARD

FURTHER DETAILS AS TO INCARCERATION OF GUST HANSON IN ASYLUM

Further light as to the manner in which Gust Hanson was sent to the asylum at Fergus Falls was received yesterday in a communication to The Grand Forks Herald from Charles Wittensten, of Warren. The letter shows among other things that at no time has Hanson been wandering around on the prairie in the vicinity of Warren. Mr. Wittensten writes:

"I have a statement from the probate court of Ramsey county saying: 'Mr. Hanson was sent to Fergus Falls on Feb. 6. Description of this man is as follows. Age 40 years, Single. Born in Sweden. Name of father, Hans Olson, and mother, Benedicta Olson. Was picked up on streets in St. Paul on Feb. 1. Examined by Drs. A. Stierle and Arthur Sweeney and adjudged insane by Judge of Probate E. W. Bazelle.'

"The probate judge of Marshall county also had a phone message this afternoon from the asylum at Fergus Falls saying that Gust Hanson is still there.

As it was the information of Mr. Wittensten which resulted in Gust being located in the asylum at Fergus Falls, it would appear that he is entitled to the $100 reward offered.

A scientist claims that 10,000 microbes can roost comfortably on the point of a pin. That's more than one man can do.

NO CHANGE IN PRIMARY LAW.

HOUSE COMMITTEE WILL REPORT TO POSTPONE OLE PETERSON BILL.

FAVORABLE ACTION TAKEN ON MEASURE TO PREVENT BREAKING OF PARTY LINES.

There will be no repeal of the state primary law at this session of the legislature at present indications.

The subcommittee, named by the house elections committee, to pass on the measures in its hands, reported out the Ole Peterson bill repealing the primary law, for indefinite postponement and, according to the leaders, it will be sustained on the floor.

While refusing to sanction the repeal of the law, the committee also reported adversely on those measures in its hands extending the primary law to state officers. The committee is composed of Representatives Wells, Horton and Dorsey.

This action will likewise be sustained by the house.

The only primary bills to receive favorable consideration were those designed to compel parties to cast not less than 30 per cent of their vote, registered in the previous election, to entitle their candidates to places on the regular ballot. The idea is to prevent the participation of members of one party in the primary of another. A general bill along this line will be reported on.

As stated by one member of the committee, they were agreed to a man in disliking the primary law and desired its repeal, but they did not have the "nerve" to stand for its repeal. In the country, it is claimed, this demand is more general than in the cities.

They could come out openly, however against the extension of the law, and this the subcommittee agreed to do.

THE CREAMERIES MADE MONEY

TWO NORMAN COUNTY CONCERNS MAKE FLATTERING REPORTS

The creameries of Norman county are certainly prosperous institutions The Flom creamery is one of the most prosperous in the county, and its annual statement shows that $24,154 was paid to patrons in 1908, and there was still left in cash on hand $954. The total number of milk patrons was 78; cream patrons 31. The officers elected for the coming year are:

President—Hans Dorseth.
V. Pres.—Hans Skundsgaard.
Treas.—Andrew Rogen.
Sec.—Edvin Gunderson.
Directors—F. Sornson, Erick E. Urdahl and Joseph Hauglum.

As all debts were paid, it was decided at the annual meeting to pay 14 per cent two years due to shareholders, from the cash on hand, which was obtained from a sinking fund of 1 cent per pound of butterfat. From the remainder there shall be paid 15 per cent on all shares, to be deducted from the amount paid for same.

During 1908 the Perley creamery paid patrons $15,680. During the year $822 was paid for permanent improvements in the way of a cement floor, sewer and new machinery. The running expenses and incidental expenses footed up to $1,879. Patrons received an average of 27 cents per pound for butterfat.

Since the creamery started, in 1902 a total of 466,000 pounds of butter has been received and the sum of $83,801.68 has been paid to the patrons. The cvreamery is valued at $4000 and has been paid for in full.

BAGLEY WOMAN INHERITS COIN

Mrs. William Baragy of Bagley, has made the executor of her husband's estate and $700 which is her husband's share of his father's estate at Mason City Ia., was turned over to her. Her husband is believed to have died in the Klondike. No word has been received from him in fifteen years.

Sheriff C. A. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson of Clearwater Co. were in the city last evening enroute to Fergus Falls with Mrs. Jenson from Bagley who is insane. The condition of the woman is pitiable, her ravings when in convulsions which occur many times a day being such as to send cold chills down ones spinal column.

THE RULES TO GOVERN LENT

BISHOP McGOLRICK GIVES OUT REGULATIONS TO BE FOLLOWED

FEB. 24, IS ASH WEDNESDAY THE FIRST DAY OF LENT

The Lenten regulations of the diocese of Duluth which includes Crookston and all northwestern Minnesota, for the year 1909 have been prepared in pamphlet form and are ready for distribution. The regulations follow:

"In this year of grace 1909, the 24th day of February will be Ash Wednesday the first day of Lent.

"All faithful, unless legitimately excused or dispensed are bound in conscience under penalty of grievous sin to observe the Lenten regulations.

The precept of fast restricts use of food to one meal toward the middle of the day and a collation in the evening not exceeding the fourth part of a full meal—custom, however, authorizing the taking in the morning of a cup of coffee, tea or chocolate with a small piece of bread.

"For the collation theologians allow solid food to the amount of eight ounces. The food taken in the morning should not exceed two ounces.

"When the full meal or principal repast cannot be taken without serious inconvenience towards the middle of the day, the order of repast may be reversed the full meal or principal repast being taken in the evening and the collation earlier in the day.

"The use of flesh meat is allowed at all meals on Sundays and the principal meal on Mondays. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays except the Saturday of Ember week, March 6 and the Saturday of Holy week April 10.

"The use of fresh meat there is forbidden at all meals on Wednesdays, Fridays, the Saturday of Ember week and the Saturday of Holy week, and on all other days outside of Sundays it is forbidden at other repasts, outside the full meal.

"The use of lard is permitted at all times in the preparation of food.

"Both fish an dfresh meat cannot be taken at the same meal even on Sundays.

"Persons legitimately excused or dispensed from the precept of fasting may use fresh meat at all meals on whatever day there is general permission to use it at the principal meal.

"From the precept of fast are excused: Those under the age of 21 years or over the age of 60; the infirm and the convalescent; women bearing or nursing children, persons engaged in hard labor or other duties exhaustive of physical strength; persons who from poverty are unable to procure for the proincipal meal a sufficiency of nutritive food.

"From the precept of abstinence are excused: The young under the age of 7 years; the sick; persons who are so situated as not to be able to procure for themselves abstinence food.

"In virtue of the authority conceded to bishops of the United States by a recent pentifical indult, permission is granted to 'working people' to use meat on all days of Lent, with the exception of Friday Ash Wednesday the Wednesday and the Saturday of Holy Week.

"This dispensation from abstinence extends to all three meals in the day.

"Where the wage earner in virtue of the indult, uses meat all the members of his household may likewise use it. The church does not wish to impose upon the household the inconvenience of double cooking. But in cases of this kind, the members of the household who are bound by the precept of fast are alowed the use of meat only at their principal meal.

"The Soverign Pontiff exhorts all who make use of the privilege of the indult to be still mindful fo their duty to practice self-denial, and he counsels that instead of abstinence from meat some other sacrifice of bodily comfort be practiced the Soverign Pontiff himself suggesting as such sacrifice abstinence from intoxicating drink.

"The Pontifical indult, of which we have spoken exempts working people fro mabstinence on vigils and ember days, except when such vigils and ember days fall on Friday and on such days the indult also exempts from abstinence in the same conditions as for the Lenten season the members of the household of the wage earner.

"Pastors will make to their flocks in the usual terms due announcements of approaching ember days and vigils—adding to such announcements a statemnet of the privileges given by the indult to 'working people' "

ELOPES WITH HIRED MAN

LOCAL AUTHORITIES ARE ASKED TO KEEP AN EYE OUT FOR THE COUPLE

ADA PIERSON AND OVA JOHNSON WENT TO MASQUERADE BALL THEN SKIPPED

Chief Eck has been notified to be on the lookout for a couple of young people wanted at Clermont, S. D. According to the story of Miss Ada Pierson daughter of George Pierson who resides near Clermont, and the Pierson hired man, Ova Johnson went to the masquerade dance at Clermont recently and since that time nothing has been heard of them. The girl is said to be only 17 years old and the man Johnson is in that case liable to state prison for abduction. The father of the girl is using every effort to trace the pair but up to last night nothing had yet been heard of them. Johnson came from Illinois last spring and since that time has been employed on the Pierson farm.

RETURNED FROM BRIDAL TRIP

Emil Erdmann returned Sunday morning with bride after a very pleasant trip to southern Minnesota and Iowa points. They visited a sister of the groom's at St. Paul an uncle at Storm Lake, Iowa, and friends and relatives at Juniata, Ia., and Trumann, Minn., and report a most delightful trip. They were gone four weeks and report that it seemed like getting back to the tropics after their experience with stalled trains and paralyzed telephone and telegraphic communications, hundreds of poles and wires being down. Trains were stalled from a week to ten days on some of the branch lines and snow drifts ten and fifteen feet deep could be seen any where in Iowa or southern Minnesota. Considerable stock was frozen and farmers suffered many inconveniences.

PATTEWAY SENTENCED

GIVEN TWO AND A HALF YEARS BY JUDGE WATTS THIS AFTERNOON

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL DENIED — TOOK SENTENCE VERY STOICALLY

From Monday's Daily—
This afternoon Judge Wm. Watts of the district court sentenced A. Patteway to two and a half years in the state penitentiary at Stillwater for grand larceny for having been convicted of robbing the Merchants National Bank when working in the capacity of porter there nearly a year ago.

Atty. F. L. McGhee argued a motion for a new trial when he was here at the last trial but the motion was denied and sentence imposed this afternoon. He will probably be taken to Stillwater tonight. Patteway was stoical when sentenced. It is believed further efforts will be made later to secure a new trial by appeal to the state supreme court.

ADDRESSED THE STUDENTS

ATTORNEY W. P. MURPHY TALKS TO STUDENTS OF AGRICULTURE

POINTS OUT WHERE THEY ARE WELL PREPARED FOR LIFE'S BATTLES

From Monday's Daily—
Yesterday at the Crookston School of Agriculture the students were addressed by Attorney W. P. Murphy at their regular Sunday afternoon meeting.

He dwelt emphatically on the fact that the graduate of a school of agriculture was better prepared for making a living, and a substantial and happy existence, than graduates from the average college or high school. He also claimed the student of agriculture and manual training was far better fitted for the battle of life than a member of the professions. The average income of a lawyer, for instance, he stated was $500 while the day laborer earned as much on an average.

The student school in manual training and agriculture could easily make a living at manual labor if not successful at one of the professions while the specialist was helpless in all but one single line.

His address was listened to with deep attention and was an excellent one in every sense of the word.

WATCH RECOVERED IN ODD MANNER

JUDGE McLOUGHLIN SEES A STRANGER HANDLING TIMEPIECE LOST BY DAUGHTER

A watch lost by Miss Josephine McLoughlin, daughter of Judge P. McLoughlin of Grand Forks was recovered yesterday in a remarkable manner. Miss McLoughlin lost her watch on a train between Grand Forks and Crookston. She did not say anything about it to the judge. At noon yesterday Judge McLoughlin has occasion to go to the depot at Grand Forks. Just before he left Officer Bliven told him about the loss of his daughter's watch At the depot he noticed a stranger show a friend a watch he had found. The judge approached him and asked to see the watch, at the same time explaining that his daughter had lost one and describing the inscription. The stranger showed the judge the watch and he identified it.

Hub—But if you like the young fellow, Kate, why do you object to our daughter marrying him?

Wife—Oh, she'll marry him for all that, but I want to give her a chance to say when they quarrel that "mother didn't want me to marry you, anyway."—Boston Transcript.

Declining.

"Miss Frocks has reached her declining years," said Jones.

"Nonsense," replied Brown. "She's not more than twenty-five."

"But she has declined half a dozen men."

NO INDIGESTION OR DYSPEPSIA

MISERY FROM AN UPSET STOMACH GOES IN FIVE MINUTES —TAKE SOME

DIAPEPSIN NOW AND FOREVER END ALL DISTRESS FROM A DISORDERED STOMACH

Every family here ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of Indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you eat seems to fill your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangule after supper tonight. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery, because it willshdlu stomach misery is at your Pharmacist waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

JUDGE JOHN R. MARTIN PASSES "GREAT DIVIDE"

FAMOUS ATTORNEY SUCCUMBS TO CANCER—WELL KNOWN HERE

Judge John M. Martin assistant county attorney of St. Louis county, died at his home in Virginia, Minn., Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock after an illness of several months of cancer of the liver with complications. Judge Mratin was taken to the hospital at Rochester, Minn., last December where he was operated upon and after some time returned to Virginia where he failed gradually until his death.

The announcement of the death of Judge Martin came as a shock to his many friends in Crookston and thruout this section where he was a prominent character during the early days.

But few people were aware that the judge had been ill, and his death was unexpected to the people here.

Judge Martin was born at Ocean Springs, Miss., Aug. 25, 1842. He graduated at the Columbian University at Washington, D. C., and at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He came to Duluth in 1890 and to Bemidji in 1898.

Judge Martin was one of the early justices of peace of the village of Bemidji before incorporation into a city and as such official his original character and unique decisions made him noted all over northern Minnesota.

He was one of the organizers of Norman county and was judge of probate of that county several years, besides being for some time mayor of Ada the county seat. He was also, at one time, mayor of West Duluth.

Judge Martin was appointed assistant county attorney for St. Louis county last December asuming his duties early in January.

Judge Martin was Dr. Ames' attorney in the famous trial of the doctor when he was tried for corruptness while mayor of Minneapolis.

The deceased is survived by a wife and four children, the eldest, Dennis Martin, being a resident of California. Lulu, Warwick and Maurice Martin reside at home in Virginia.

Judge Martin was universally well-liked and was known as a kindhearted man whose acts of generosity were numerous and well placed. His demise is greatly regretted.

The funeral will be held at Virginia Wednesday.

A BIG CORPORATION LAUNCHED IN CROOKSTON

Crookston Co-operative Fuel And Commission Company Organized For Business Here.

With Capital Stock Of $40,000 Company Will Begin Operations At Once. Has Wide Field.

From Tuesday's Daily—
In this issue of the Journal on page 4 will be found the articles of incorporation of the Co-operative Fuel and Commission Co., which will operate in Crookston principally but may launch out on even a broader scale later on As will be seen by the articles of incorporation the nature of the business of the new concern will be as follows:

"The buying and selling of wood, coal and fuel of all kinds; the buying and selling of grain, flour and feed of all kinds; the buying and selling of farm produce of all kinds, and conducting a general commission business the buying, holding, improving, leasing and selling of rural and urban real estate; and this Corporation shall have the power to perform all acts and make all Contracts necessary and incidental to the furtherance of the above mentioned purposes."

The capital stock of this company is $40,000, which will give it an ample working capital. The three incorporators J. D. Ball, Nelson Miller and T. A. Harris are all well known business men of Crookston as well as the first board of directors, who include, aside from the incorporators C. E. Potts, manager of the Atlas Lumber Co., of this city, and Alexander Keir while the first officers are as follows:

J. D. Ball, President.
H. A. Ball, First Vice-President.
H. T. Taber, Second Vice-President.
Ellery Riley, Third Vice President.
Remane Keltz, General Manager.

There is no question but what there is a broad field for operation by such a concern, and the slogan from the outset will be "Go after the business." The fuel business is to a greater or less extent confined to the winter months as gasoline and electricity are now greatly used, the latter for ironing, etc., but the commission business is one that opens such a wide field during the entire year that the extent of the business possible cannot be estimated.

The company has still further plans which are covered by the articles of incorporation but which will not be announced at the present time. It is needless to state that the concern has ample backing and that its growth will be rapid from the start, as a vigorous campaign for business will be inaugurated at once and continued in a systematic manner.

In conclusion it might be stated that the plan is one that has been worked upon for some time past, and the originators have received every encouragement from the start. This strong factor of public sentiment behind the new concern augurs well for its success in the future.

BUY EQUIPMENT FOR PAPER PLANT

Fonr Paper Making Machines Of Latest Type Are Purchased For Plant At International Falls.

From Monday's Daily—
The Backus-Brooks company, Minneapolis, has bought from the Pusey and Jones company of Wilmington, Del., four paper making machines of the largest type for installation by July next in the enormous plant that company is constructing at International Falls and Fort Frances.

The machinery will fill 50 cars and will cost $250,000. Contracts will shortly be let by the Minneapolis office for 1,500 tons of structural steel. The Backus-Brooks management had expected to let the steel contract earlier but by waiting will be able to put its order in with the inflow of other business to the steel making centers, resulting from the recent reduction in prices.

Arago's Modesty.

Arago, the great French scientist, was never seen with a decoration on his breast. He valued honors lightly. One evening Leverrier, the astronomer, called on him on his way to dine with a minister. He expressed a wish to appear decorated with an order to which he was entitled, having received the official notice of the honor, although he had not as yet the decoration itself.

"Open that drawer," said Arago, "and take whatever you want."

In that drawer were all the crosses and ribbons which kings and emperors confer.

While Arago wished above everything to promulgate science and to make his researches useful, he did not attempt to identify himself forever with his discoveries by writing books. He had no time for writing, but contented himself with noting the results of his work in the record of the bureau of longitude or announcing it verbally to the academy.

The Valuables.

The man with a wife and seven children hauled up in front of the hotel desk, registered, got his bellboy and was starting off when the clerk, thinking maybe he might jolly the new arrival, called to him.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but hadn't you better leave your valuables in the safe?"

"Do you think I ought to?" inquired the man innocently enough, to hear him say it.

"Well, it is the best plan."

"All right," said the man, and, turning to his wife, "Here, Mary, pass the children over to the gent behind the counter. He'll look after them and give us a rest."

Whereupon the clerk apologized.—Judge.

PROPOSED CLUB ROOMS

LEFT TO CANVASS BY A COMMITTEE OF THREE—NAMED LATER

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO ENTERTAIN FARMERS—BAND MADE BIG HIT

From Tuesday's Daily—
At the meeting of the Commercial club in the City Council Chambers last evening Elias Steenerson at the opening addressed the club members regarding entertainment for the meeting of the Society of Equity which will be called here soon to form a county union. The members endorsed the idea heartily and J. E. O'Brien acting chairman on motion appointed a committee consisting of L. Ellington W. E. Slocum and S. Rosenthal to act with Mr. O'Brien and Secretary Brown to provide a dinner for the visitors, estimated at 150, and also make arrangements to transport them to the School of Agriculture.

Band Made a Hit

At this juncture Bandmaster Riggs and the Consolidated band of 65 pieces marched into the council chambers and played two fine selections. The band was given a great ovation on entering as well as at the conclusion of each piece. The showing made was a most creditable one, and a challenge is issued for any city in the state the size of Crookston to show a band of the same size or trained to such a fine degree.

Club Room Proposition

Chairman O'Brien then outlined the main purpose of the meeting in connection with the proposition to secure permanent club rooms for the Commercial club. He realized that to be a success such a move needed the united support of all the members.

Several members were called on including S. Rosenthal who with Chas. Loring thought any action relative to club rooms should be deferred till a representative gathering of members could be secured. A. J. Johnson and John Fournet thought the members should agree to an increase of dues to $24 per year. Other addresses were made by Rev. Warner, Rev. Cox, C. H. Zealand, and Supt. Allen of the G. N., D. H. Turner, G. S. Chesterman and others. The prevailing sentiment was that nothing should be done till the situation had been canvassed regarding support and a committee of three will be named in a day or two as soon as President H. C. Misner returns from his California trip.

Opinions Differed

Secretary Brown submitted a report of the probable cost of the maintenance of club rooms in the Union block, the estimated cost being from $85 to $100. The propositions for club rooms in the I. O. O. F. block and in the Marin block were also submitted by him. Atty. W. P. Murphy made the most extended argument against the securing of club rooms on that basis contending that for maintenance of club rooms alone, at least $2500 per year would be necessary, and gave the cost of maintenance of the Crookston club rooms to substantiate what he said.

The opinion was practically unanimous that the rooms should not be secured till a committee had secured sufficient pledges to insure the financing of the proposition.

DRUCILLA AND PATTEWAY SHIPPED

Last evening A. Patteway who was sentenced yesterday for 2½ years at Stillwater for grand larceny and Drucilla Frazier, the incorrigible girl from East Grand Forks who was sentenced to the Red Wing Training school were taken to their new homes Both had little to say, the girl appearing just a trifle flippant while the colored man was more on the sullen and stoical order.

J. A. NORTHROP HOME SCORCHED

FURNITURE ALL COMPLETELY RUINED AND HOUSE BADLY DAMAGED

INSURANCE OF $2,000 WILL COVER ABOUT 60 PER CENT OF THE LOSS

From Monday's Daily—
Shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon fire was discovered in the J. A. Northrup residence on Hunter street next door to the L. Ellington residence, and within an incredibly short space of time the furniture on both floors was practically completely ruined and the residence badly damaged.

Mr. Northrup stated to the Journal that he had about $1,000 insurance on the house and $1,000 on the furniture, and that he estimated this would cover 60 per cent of the loss. Only one picture and two chairs were saved and the loss included a 250 volumn library.

Mr. Northrup was home at the time the family being at the dinner table. The fire started from the stovepipe or chimney to the wood heating stove in the parlor, and the room was a mass of flames when the fire was discovered.

The department made a quick run but the main damage had been done before the department arrived. Most of the damage to the kitchen furniture was done by the water. Fortunately no one was injured. The residence is the one formerly owned by City Clerk A. M. Childs.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA FIREMEN'S TOURNEY HERE TO BE HUMMER

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING HELD HERE LAST EVENING

From Tuesday's Daily—
The executive committee of the Northwestern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament Association held an enthusiastic meeting here relative to the annual tournament to be held here the coming summer and the affair was fully discussed. It was decided to change the distance in the hub and hub race and the hook and ladder climbing contests and other minor changes were made. Following the meeting a banquet was enjoyed at the Grill. Those present were Secretary Walter Stone and Tom Morris and Fred Harris, Crookston; G. D. LeSage L. T. Bronson, Thief River Falls; Joseph Salby, Red Lake Falls; Chas. Moore, Hallock; A. Halvorson, Bemidji.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY

EDWARD W. SAVAGE OF WINDOM MINN., SUCCEEDS SAMUEL HEDEGAARD

Edward W. Savage arrived yesterday from Windom, Minn., and will succeed Rev. Samuel Hedegaard as the representative of the American Sunday School Union in this territory and will have headquarters in Crookston. Rev. Hedegaard has been located here for some time past and has conducted a very active campaign in the rural districts. He will probably remain in some branch of the work in this territory.

Mr. Savage is a very pleasant gentleman to meet and will without doubt be just as aggressive and successful as his predecessor.

Rev. Hedegaard will go to Burwell tomorrow morning and will hold services there tomorrow evening and may continue them for a week.

SO—ends the riddle.—London Scraps.

BABY'S EYESIGHT WAS THREATENED

By Terrible Eczema—Head Became a Mass of Itching Rash and Sores —Would Scratch Till Blood Came —Much Money Wasted in Fruitless Treatments—Disease Was Soon

CURED AT SLIGHT COST BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our little girl was two months old when she got a rash on her face and within five days her face and head were all one sore. We used different remedies but it got worse instead of better and we thought she would turn blind and that her ears would fall off. She suffered terribly, and would scratch until the blood came. At night we had to pin her hands down. This went on until she was five months old, then I had her under our family doctor's care, but she continued to grow worse. He said it was eczema. When she was seven months old I started to use Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, and in three weeks — what a change! I kept using the Cuticura Remedies for two months and our baby was a different girl. You could not see a sign of a sore and she was as fair as a new-born baby, and all for the small cost of a dollar and seventy-five cents where we had spent ten times the money for doctoring. She is now two years old and has not had a sign of the eczema since. Mrs. H. F. Budke, R. F. D. 4, LeSueur, Minn., Apr. 15 and May 2, 1907."

SLEEP KILLED

By an Itching Humor. Another Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"I broke out with a humor which spread almost all over my body. The itching would get worse on retiring, so I could not sleep. I tried several remedies but it grew worse until I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills which began to relieve me at once. By the time I had used one vial of the Pills, the humor was entirely gone. I wish every sufferer could secure the Cuticura Remedies. Travis Bates, Hamburg, Ark., April 26, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. MARSHALL COUNTY FAIR ASSOCIATION

MAKE ARRANGEMENT FOR NEXT FAIR TO BE HELD IN AUGUST

The stockholders of the Marshall County Fair Association, held their annual meeting, on Tuesday evening at Warren when the following Board of Directors were chosen: H. L. Wood John W. Thomas, W. H. Dixon, O. H. Taralseth, Julius J. Olson, C. Wittensten, C. E. Lundquist, A. A. Ayres, L. M. Olson, A. Grindeland and L. Lamberson. Directors met shortly after and chose the following officers: L. Lamberson, president; John W. Thomas, vice president; O. H. Taralseth, secretary; and L. M. Olson, treasurer.

A great deal more interest is being taken in the fair thruout Marshall county than has been the case formerly, and this augurs well for the success of this year's fair. Farmers begin to realize that they are the ones specially benefitted. The next fair will be held the first week in August the exact date to be fixed later.

FAVOR THE GENERAL BILL

HOUSE NORMAL SCHOOL COMMITMITTEE FIGHTS CASS LAKE

It will be Cass Lake against the field in the fight for the location of the sixth normal school. The house committee on normal schools has decided to recommend the Hinds bill establishing a school in the territory north of the main line of the Northern Pacific railway and west of the meridian thru Brainerd the exact site to be selected by the state normal school board. The Bemidji, Thief River Falls, Farren, Park Rapids and Red Lake Falls bills are indefinitely postponed. P. H. McGarry will bring in a minority report in favor of Cass Lake location.

The nine members of the senate normal school committee are hopelessly at outs concerning the location of the new normal school, and the choice of a location for the school will be left to the senate. Cass Lake, Bemidji and Thief River Falls want the school and each will present her case on the floor of the senate. Each has three votes in the committee.

From Saturday's Daily—

Last night Dr. E. C. Clemens of Duluth delighted a large audience at the Methodist church by his popular lecture "Every Man his own Paradise."

Preceeding the lecture thirty men of the congregation gathered in the Epworth League Rooms where a banquet of good things had been prepared and tastily arranged by the Ladies Aid. Bouquets of jonquils, paper whites, and hyacinths graced the banquet tables. At the close of the banquet Prof. Wm. Robertson, as toastmaster, with his characteristic wit reand ability introduced Mr. B. D. Keck who responded to the toast "Men and the Church of the Past." Mr. G. W. Wright followed speaking on "Men of the Church of Today and Tomorrow." Dr. Clemens spoke on "Men Movements within the Church". Committees were appointed looking toward an immediate organization of a Men's League in the church. Prof. Robertson was elected as temporary chairman and Mr. Newberry as temporary secretary to serve until further organization. Following the banquet the men gathered with the large company already assembled in the auditorium to listen to the lecture of the evening.

Dr. Clemens introduced his lecture by the thought that in his judgment Good meant every man and every woman to enjoy a paradise here and now. In the economy of the Creator each human being had within the circle of his command the possibility of making or losing for himself his paradise.

The lecturer recited the story of the ruler of Bagdad who controlled great wealth and resources for bodily comfort and earthly pleasures; yet tired of the emptiness of it all and cried to Allah for a truer comfort and peace in his sickness and suffering. In a distant hut dwelled a beggar without comforts, without food, and scant of clothing; he lay wretched in sickness and misery and want. Upon his rude cot he cried to Allah for relief and solace. Angels were sent of Allah in answer to these prayers and these planted the seed of an angel-lily midway between the hut and palace and then one carried the beggar the other the rich ruler and placed them by the angel-lily seed. While lying there wonderingly the angel-lily grew rapidly before their eyes and so beautiful was its flower and sweet its enchanting fragrance that both beggar and ruler lay in a paradise under its protecting shadow and within the circle of its sweetly pervasive and influence.

With this as his introduction the lecturer eloquently and very amusingly dwelt upon the everyday experiences which make or unmake paradise for every soul. Those who "borrow" trouble like the pessimistic negro named Lazarus, who, after a series of unfortunate experiences declared that if the Lord should come upon earth and say "Lazarus, come forth", it would be just his luck to come fifth every time.

Dr. Clemens urged contentment as a prerequisite of happiness. Under this heading as under the first he showed the illusion that exists in the minds of many that true happiness is not found alone in wealth of possessions nor environments, but in the soul itself. The arguments of the speaker were pointed shafts of humor which went straight to the mark. The empty and false living of some of the present-day financiers was scathingly dealt with in an irresistable flood of logic and conclusive argument and apt illustration.

Dr. Clemens reminds one of his noted cousin Mark Twain in his constant flow of wit intermingled with flashes of truth that takes strong hold because of their unusual setting. The speaker held his audience for over two hours in a unique lecture the impression of which will remain with many as long as they live to lighten and gladden life's way.

GOOD BOOSTING FOR CROOKSTON

SECRETARY OF THE 25,000 CLUB GIVES CITY FINE ADVERTISING

SAYS COUNCIL IS DIVIDED REGARDING "PROGRESS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT"

From Saturday's Daily—

The Secretary of the Crookston 25,000 Club, who is drawing a salary for boosting Crookston sends the following fine advertisement for Crookston as a residence city to the Minneapolis Tribune. A prominent business man said this morning that he specially appreciates the compliment that is paid to Crookston and the manner that business is transacted here. He suggests that the salary of the secretary be doubld in order to get more advertising of the same character. The item in which "The fight to the last ditch between aldermen representing progress and law enforcement and those who take the other view of municipal government" is as follows:

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 25—(Special—The city is minus an alderman at the present time and the Second ward one of the largest and located in the business district finds itself entirely without representation in the city council. This is the third time that this state of affairs has existed during the past six months, but each time a different ward has been affected. The situation is brought about on account of a provision in the home rule charter, adopted over two years ago, which provides that the council shall immediately accept the resignation of an alderman.

At the council meeting last evening Alderman Frank erracher's resignation was read and accepted. The council then proceeded to elect his successor, but after a number of ballots had been cast the aldermen were found to be hopelessly divided and the council had to adjourn without naming a man to represent the important section of the city.

It is possible that this state of affairs may continue for some time as there are two factions in the city's governing body and each is striving to secure the election of an alderman who will be favorable to themselves. The vote stood on the last ballot 4 to 4. Whoever is selected will give the majority to one or the other of the factions. It is believed that the present situation will develop into a last resenting progress and law enforcement and those who take the other ditch fight between the aldermen repview of municipal government.

J. D. BALL MAKES A STATEMENT

WILL NOT ACCEPT ALDERMANIC HONORS UNLESS ALDERMEN ARE UNANIMOUS

Editor Journal:—

There seems to be a great deal of interest in the election of an alderman in the second ward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman Zerracher. Will you allow me to express my sentiments. As soon as the vacancy occurs in any ward that ward should elect another alderman at the expense of said ward. Then the alderman goes in the council clean and leaves the fight behind. There seems to be two factions in the council, and that they may, as well as the people of the second ward may understand where I stand, I will state that I will positively refuse to pledge myself to any faction and will not acept an election unless it is by the unanimous action of the council, that harmony may prevail. Respectfully,

—J. D. Ball.

Isle of Wight.

The Isle of Wight inhabitants are not alone in speaking of "going to England" when they leave their own fragment of the kingdom. A patriotic Cornishman also "goes to England" when he crosses the Tamar. Similarly inhabitants of the Balkan peninsula talk of "going to Europe" when they leave their own corner of the continent—in curious contrast with the people of our own island. We regard ourselves as both of and in "Europe," and accordingly it is only "the continent" that we visit. The record in the splendid isolation line is probably held by that minister of the Cumbraes, in the Clyde, who prayed for a blessing upon "the inhabitants of Great and Little Cumbrae and the adjacent islands of Great Britain and Ireland."—London Graphic.

CHAIN LETTER STARTED HERE TO BUY ISLAND IN LAKE OF THE WOODS

FOR BENEFIT OF THOSE IN FIRST STAGES OF TUBERCULOSIS

From Friday's Daily—

Not long ago several residents of Crookston started chain letters for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of a fine island in the Lake of the Woods upon which buildings will be erected for the benefit of people who are in the first stages of tuberculosis.

The chain letter asks for a donation of mut ten cents, and the money is already beginning to pour in from all directions, and from all indications it will be but a short time till sufficient money has been received to complete the purchase after which the full details regarding the proposition will be published.

INSPECTED THE LOCAL COMMANDERY

EMINENT GRAND CAPTAIN GENERAL BLACK VISITS CROOKSTON

Last evening Constantine Commandery was officially inspected by Eminent Grand Captain General Black of Duluth. There was a very large turn out of members, many coming from outside points, the gathering being one of the largest ever seen since the Commandery was instituted here.

The inspection proved very satisfactory in every way and following the official work a fine collation was enjoyed.

BIG MONEY IN RAISING CLOVER

We notice by the Little Falls papers that a representative of a Minneapolis seed house has been going thru Morrison county buying up the clover seed from the farmers. He bought 572 bushels in two days and left $3,000 in the hands of the farmers. From one farmer he got 68 bushels, paying $375 for the same; from another he bought 18 sacks for $250 and so on. One farmer's clover seed yielded four bushels to the acre. The average price paid for the seed was $5.25 per bushel. We like to see these reports from other counties. It shows that the farmers generally realize the value of growing clover, not alone for the valuable seed crop, but bcause it enriches the soil, supplying elements which become lacking from continued cropping.

PLANT ONLY PURE SEED POTATOES

If the farmers of this vicinity wish to maintain their reputation for raising the finest potatoes grown anywhere in the country they must change their seed occasionally. Potatoes are bound to deteriorate in size and quality if the farmer persists in planting year after year stock grown on his own farm. Potatoes raised on sandy soil should be exchanged occasionally for tubers raised on clay soil and vice versa. Great care should be exercised to keep the varieties pure. Mongrel potatoes will not command as good prices as the pure varieties. The white varieties in this vicinity, notably that old standby the Burbank, are deteriorating in size and quality. Pay more atention to your seed potatoes. Raise pure varieties, It should not require an extended argument to convince any intelligent farmer that it will pay him to plant purse seed potatoes.

The Bridge of Lions.

A bridge comparatively little known was constructed long ago in China in the reign of the Emperor Keing Long. It is situated near to Sangang and the Yellow sea and measures not less than eight miles and a half. The Bridge of Lions, as it is called, is supported by 800 immense arches, and its foundation is twenty-one meters under water. On each pile of this wonderful bridge is a marble statue of a lion three times larger than life size. The coup d'oeil of these 300 enormous lions, each one supporting an arch, is stupendous in its magnificence.

GREAT FUTURE IS PREDICTED

M. MERCIL GIVES INTERESTING INFORMATION REGARDING CANADIAN CITIES

"TWIN CITIES" OF PORT ARTHUR AND FT. FRANCIS GROWING RAPIDLY

From Friday's Daily—

M. Mercil, a former resident of Crookston, is here for a visit of a few weeks with his parents, his cousin, O. Mercil, Jr., and other relatives and friends. Two years ago Mr. Mercil went to Pt. Arthur, Can. to engage in the real estate business. At that time he bought considerable property and is now of the opinion that Port Arthur and Ft. Francis have a great future. The two cities are but three miles apart from center to center and are connected by a street car line which has 11 miles of trackage, and Mr. Mercil states that he believes that within ten years it will be practically one city with a population of at least 100,000 people.

He says that the two cities are practically at the head of navigation and that practically all the Canadian North west must be served commercilly as the Grand Trunk now has a from coast to coast line and that the Canadian Northern and Canadian Pacific will have trunk lines to the coast within three years from date.

New industries are developing very rapidly, as power is very cheap. At Port Arthur a 1200 water power has been developed in the Current river and at Dug Lake Falls the government engineers have been surveying for some time past and believe that fully 60,000 horse power can be developed at a cost of $1,500,000 and work will be started at once on this proposition the power being transmitted to the two cities by cable a distance of 60 miles.

The credit of Port Arthur is well illustrated by the sale recently of 5 per cent 20 year debentures at a premium of $7.27 per $100 where a couple of years ago it was impossible to borrow money at any rate of interest.

Mr. Mercil states that little has been heard of Port Arthur or Ft. Francis in the United States, because of the fact that the tide of immigration to Canada from the States has been practically all thru Winnipeg until recently. He states that the two cities are now connected by a double track street car system and that the main streets of Port Arthur are macadamized while Ft. William's main streets are paved with brick.

Port Arthur owns all its public utilities including street car service electric light plant, water works, and telephone system and all are on a paying basis and giving excellent service The Canadian Northern has an elevator at Port Arthur with a capacity of 7,500,000 bushils and the Grand Trunk has the foundation laid for a 10,000,000 bushel elevator at Ft. Francis which will be completed the coming year.

Ft. Francis has its water supply piped in a distance of 20 miles the big storage tank locate don a high hill several hundred feet above the level of Ft. Francis.

Mr. Mercil has an illustrated booklet covering many sights of interest in Ft. Francis and Port Arthur and surrounding territory which shows great scenic beauty in that section of Canada. This afternoon Mr. Mercil with relatives, drove to Terrebonne where he will visit with a brother. He expects to return to Canada in about two weeks.

PATTERSON SELLS LIVERY BUSINESS

A deal was concluded last Saturday in which Daniel Patterson sold his livery barn and the entire equipment at St. Hilaire to Satterberg & Fellman. Mr. Patterson has been in the livery business in St. Hilaire since 1882 his barn having been at its present location since 1883 and bears excellent reputation. He has been in business there longer than any other man. We are not advised as to what if any, business he will engage in, but he has no intention of leaving St. Hilaire. Of the new firm Mr. A. Satterberg has been in the draying business for several years and is well and favorably known. Mr. Gust Fellman, the other member of the firm is at present working for the Neils Lumber Co. at Cass Lake and expects to return with his family about March 1st. Mr. Fellman is a young man who has grown to manhood in Red Lake county and has a large circle of friends.

It is easier to dodge responsibility than it is to dodge the result.

THE LOCAL SOCIETY OF EQUITY WANTS PLANT AT NEW BRIGHTON ESTABLISHED

ALSO ENDORSE PLAN FOR FARM MACHINERY PLANT AT THE PEN

From Friday's Daily—

The Crookston local unions of the Society of Equity held a special meeting in the city hall yesterday afternoon and took important action relative to pending legislation voiced in resolutions publishe din this column.

The action was unanimous and President Chris Houston and Secretary Elias Steenerson were instructed to call a mass meeting in this city, Thursday, March 11 at which time a county union of the society of Equity will be organized, and in this meeting the society has called upon the commercial club for assistance.

Whereas, there exists a trust on farm machinery, and which we believe has driven out of the state independent farm machinery manufacturers, and the price of farm machinery has constantly increased since said trust was formed, and

Whereas, there is pending in the legislature of the state of Minnesota, a bill known as House File No. 6 which has for its object the establishment of a plant for the manufacturing of farm machinery at the state prison at Stillwater.

Be it therefore resolved: That we heartily endorse said bill and urge our senator and our representatives to give said bill their undivided support, and

Whereas, We further believe there exists, a combination or trust among the grain dealers at Minneapolis and Duluth, fostered and cherished by the Chamber of Commerce of Minneapolis and the oBard of Trade of Duluth, and

Whereas, Our representative John Saugstad has introduced a bill to amend Section 3112 of the revised Laws of Minnesota of 1905, which has for its object the regulation of such organizations,

Be it Therefore Resolved: That we heartily approve of said bill and urge our senator and representatives to give it their undivided support, and

Whereas, our attention has been further called to a bill to prohibit stock yards and slaughter houses inside of certain limits and

Whereas it seems to us that said bill may have been instigated from other motives than solicitude for the health of the respective districts affected, and rather to head off an industry of great value to our state on the part of a competitor,

Be it therefore resolved, that we believe said bill should be voted down, unless it appears absolutely necessary for sanitary reasons that such a law be enacted, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to our state senator, A. D. Stephens, and our representatives in the state legislature, John Saugstad and John Holten.

FOOT CRUSHED BY G. N. TRAIN

As the Great Northern train was pulling out of Greenbush Wednesday Syver Syverson of Strathcona, slipped and the car wheel passed over his foot badly injuring the same. The injured man was taken to the Commercial hotel there, where the wound was dressed by Dr. Torgerson. Mr. Syverson was taken home the next day. It was a very serious injury and may cripple him for life.

The injured man is a brother-in-law of Ole Brenna of Middle River and well known there. He was taken to Thief River Falls by Mr. Brenna and it was found necessary to amputate the foot.

JUDGEMENT SUSTAINED

THE SUPREME COURT CONFIRMS JUDGE WATTS IN THE BAILEY PERSONAL INJURY CASES

LUMBER CO. IS PROTECTED BY A CASUALTY COMPANY WHICH WILL PAY JUDGMENTS

The Minnesota supreme court has handed down a decision in the two actions of John Bailey vs. the Maryland Casualty Company of Baltimore, and, as a result, the lower court is sustained in giving Mr. Bailey decisions for $7,500 and $900. This will probably end one of the most interesting and hardest fought legal actions that has been tried in Polk county for many years. Burney Bailey, son of John Bailey, was working in the saw mill of the lumber company at East Grand Forks in the summer of 1907 handling the saw that cut logs into shingle blocks. The saw was a lift and came up from the roller platform and was worked by a lever. Due to the saw being loose, the boards above it were sawed away for several inches which left it exposed. Bailey one day went to walk down the roller platform and stepped into the revolving steel and, as a result, his leg was so badly lacerated and the bone so badly sawed that the attending physicians found it necessary to amputate the leg above the ankle.

Suit was brought in the district court for $10,000 damages and a verdict secured for $7,500. Another action was later brought for wages that Bailey could have earned before becoming of age and a verdict was received in the district court for $900. Both cases were appealed and the decision mentioned above was handed down. The Grand Forks Lumber company will not have to pay any of the money, as they were protected by a bonding company.

Secretary C. L. Mosher of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial Clubs in a circular letter to all the clubs of the state calls attention to the fact that all thru the east a very erroneous impression prevails as to the frequency and severity of Minnesota's storms. He urges that the daily papers of the northwest carefully scrutinize all news articles sent in by correspondents bearing on the weather and suggests that the word "blizzard" be eliminated and conditions be stated exactly as they are instead of being exaggerated, as these articles are copied in the eastern papers and exaggerated a thousand fold. He asks the clubs to secure the co-operation of the local papers in pushing a campaign of dissipating the false impressions and placing the real facts before the people. The movement is one of vital import to the development of northern Minnesota and there is no question that the country papers of this part of the state will fall in line. In fact most of them have, on their own initiation, been laboring along that line and calling down the dailies for their libelous statements for a long time past.

Bee Economics.

The organization of bee life is a fascinating study. The workers in a beehive may be divided, says the University Correspondent, into (1) harvesters, who bring in honey and pollen from flowers, wax from buds of pines and poplars, water to mix with pollen and honey to make the pasty food for the larvae; (2) scavengers, who in early morning carry out debris, including dead, sick or injured workers; (3) ventilators, who stand erect and keep their wings in continual movement in order to ventilate the hive; (4) guards, who defend the hive from wasps, robber bees and other enemies.

SUNDAY IS HORSEWHIPPED

RELIGIOUS FANATIC ATTACKS EVANGELIST IN SPRINGFIELD OHIO.

AUDIENCE OF 8,000 PEOPLE, IS THROWN INTO PANIC BUT SOON QUIETED.

Springfield, Ill., March 1—Rev. W. A. (Billy) Sunday, a former baseball player who is now an evangelist, was horsewhipped last night by a religious fanatic at the Sunday Tabernacle, where, in the presence of 8,000 people, he was conducting the opening service of a religious revival meeting.

The evangelist had just made his opening remarks, and was leaning against the pulpit on an elevated platform while a hymn was sung, when a powerful man, who said his name was Sherman Potts, sprang forward with a buggy whip and struck Mr. Sunday several terrific blows. Sunday leaped from the platform and dashed at his assailant, whom he knocked down in the center of the aisle. The audience was on the verge of a panic, with women weeping and children screaming, while Potts and Sunday rolled and tumbled in the aisle.

Mr. Fischer, choir director, directed the choir and the audience to sing and in a few moments the entire audience was calmed, few leaving their seats. Several men soon seized Potts and held him until policemen came and took him to jail. Mr. Sunday said he suffered several painful bruises from the buggy whip.

The prisoner said his home was one mile east of Lovington, Ill. The police say Potts is a religious fanatic.

GREAT VALUE OF ALFALFA HAY

Professor More of Wisconsin, says: "Alfalfa hay, if properly cared for, is equal pound for pound to the best wheat bran in feeding value." In an address before the Wisconsin Experiment Association, in February, Gov. Hoard says: "No question before the farmer is of deeper importance than that of alfalfa. Last year I placed 180 tons of alfalfa hay in my barn grown on 35 acres, every ton of which is worth in actual feeding value, from three to four tons of timothy hay; the best timothy hay that you and I can grow. Look at these figures, timothy hay standing about 3 per cent protem, alfalfa 11. Now what does that mean Alfalfa producing 5 tons to the acre with timothy 2. Alfalfa and corn silage form an absolutely perfect ration. I maintain my brood sows upon nothing but alfalfa hay. It will grow on any kind of soil. I would rather risk it in the Wisconsin winter and summer seasons than red clover twice over. Seed 20 pounds of good clean seed to the acre with one bushel of barley for a nurse crop, and cut as soon as you can see the blossom. No live stock man can afford to be without this great forage plant.

Crookston people rely upon it.
That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.
Crookston testimony proves it always reliable.

John Freeburg, tailor, 601 Hunter St., Crookston, Minn., says: "In summer of 1898, I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills and from the good results I gave a statement in which I strongly recommended this remedy to any one suffering from weakened kidneys. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and my rest was much disturbed. The many remedies I used proved of little value and at last I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wallace's drug store. My kidneys were strengthened and soon became normal."

WILL CHANGE ITS NAME

BANK OF CROOKSTON CHANGES ITS NAME AND FILES ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

CAPITAL STOCK INCREASED TO $40,000—WILL ADD TO CITY'S FINANCIAL STRENGTH.

The Articles of Incorporation of the Crookston State Bank have been filed in the office of the register of deeds and the Bank of Crookston will cease to exist after March 15, next. This move has been known of in financial circles for some tim and it is greeted with approbation by the commercial interests of the city.

The new articles give the incorporators as L. E. Jones, Iowa Falls, Ia.; E. O. Ellsworth, Iowa Falls, Ia.; J. A. Northrop, Crookston; L. D. Foskett, Crookston; J. H. Ruettell, Crookston; Edwin A. Mills, Crookston, and the first board of directors will include these, with the exception of Mr. Ellsworth.

The capital stock of the bank will be $40,000, fully paid in, but the articles provide for an increase in the capital stock up to $100,000, whenever a majority of the stockholders may determine. The new bank will begin business the middle of March and there is no question but that it will meet with success from the very outset.

The incorporators are all well known to the people of Crookston and there is no question but that the new institution will have the confidence of the entire community. The articles of incorporation in full will be found in another column of this issue.

When sponges are first torn from the sea bed they are of a dark color and living. By tramping and pressing them with the feet a milky substance oozes out, whereupon the sponge dies. They are then immersed in the sea for a space of eight or ten hours. The dark, skinny substance is then removed by scraping, and gradually, through cleaning, drying and bleaching, they take on the fine yellow color which characterizes many of them.

PLAY WITH A WARRIOR

ADMIRAL EVANS SPENDS INTERESTING MORNING WITH J. J. HILL'S GRANDCHILDREN

TELL NAVAL MAN HOW THEY WILL REPEL ATTACKS OF CRABS AND WORMS

A great big warrior, a man who represents the roar of Long Toms, the tumult of the mad waters, the sinking of mammoths of the sea, the conflict of arms, spent a large part of his morning today playing with two little babies and telling them how fishworms crawl up out of the sands and how crabs reach out their tremulous claws to pinch little boys' fingers if they don't watch out. The great big warrior was "Fighting Bob" Evans, of Uncle Sam's navy, and the little wonder-eyed open mouthed babes who listened to his tales of adventure were Courty and Jerome Hill, the sons of Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, and grandsons of James J. Hill, who sat on the other side of the fireplace in his Summit avenue home taking part in the sport with absolute indifference to the price of consols or the temper of Wall street.

Admiral Evans and his host had been enjoying a morning chat over the logs when George E. Harmon, who is managing the fighter's lecture tour, dropped in with a Dispatch representative, for a little business visit. Business was interrupted by the entrance of the two children. Courty led the way, and Jerome came after, dressed up in a fuzzy-wuzzy fur thing that made him look like a fat, chubby Teddy Bear. The flaxen hair that wouldn't stay down rose all over his big young head in billows of curls. "The man who has lived more stories than Zogbaum or I could invent," stretched out his hand.

"Hallo, there!" he exclaimed.

"Hallo," said Jerome, stoutly.

Jerome Pleads Guilty.

"I want to know who sent those flowers up to my wife this morning—that's what I want to know," said the Admiral sternly.

"I did," said Jerome, with a stout assertion of his right to send all the flowers he pleased to anybody's wife.

"Well, I want to know where you got all those flowers in such cold weather."

"F'm Talifornia," said Jerome, "in a dreat big tar."

"F'om Talifornia in a tar, eh?"

"An' I'm doin' in a tar, too."

"So'm I," said Courty, in a little hurry for fear of being left out.

"And youre going in a great big car? Well, well—and where are you going?"

"Talifornia."

"What for?"

"To dig," said Jerome with the air of a Forty-niner.

"To dig! To dig gold?" inquired the Admiral, interestedly.

To Dig Shells.

Courty and Jerome snorted contemptuously.

"No!" said Jerome. "Shells."

"Shells?"

"Yes," said Jerome. "An' I'm doin' to det you a pointed shell."

"What are you going to get me?" asked the railroad magnate on the other side of the fire. Courty turned and faced him thoughtfully. Then he came to a conclusion.

Whitefish for Grandpa.

"A white fish," he said, solemnly. "A long, white fish, like 'at," and he measured off a piscatorial dream as far as he could stretch his tiny arms. Somehow or other, Grandfather Hill looked as though he'd rather have that fish than another railroad, and the Admiral seemed to envy the magnate his good fortune.

"When you're digging in the sand," said the admiral, addressing Jerome earnestly, "you'll come across a shell that moves, like that," and he wiggled his fingers like a crab, right up to Jerome's little nose. "Then what'll you do?"

"Hit 'im wif my shovel!" said Jerome.

"And put him in my pail," said Courty.

"And then you'll see a long worm, and it'll come up out of the sand and go like that," and the admiral imitated a fish worm squirming its accordion length toward Jerome's big dreamy eyes. "What'll you do then, eh That's what I want to know."

Jerome thought a minute.

Would Use Shovel Again.

"I'd hit 'im wif my shovel, too."

"And put him in my pail," said Courty, with an air of finality that quite did for the poor worm. "And then I'll fish a big whale and put him in my pail."

"That's right," said the admiral. "If you come across any little things like whales and porpoises and sharks, just hit 'em wif your shovel an' put 'em in your pail. But if you find a monkey—a big monkey, all dressed up in blue pants and a red coat and a funny cap, you want to remember him. Don't forget him. He walks on his hind legs like a man."

"Put him in my pail," said Courty.

"Hit 'im wif my shovel," said Jerome.

And then the nurse came and took them away, and the great big warrior and the railroad magnate sat and gazed into the open fire and saw wonderful pictures.—St. Paul Dispatch.

EDUCATORS WILL GATHER IN CROOKSTON

The officers of the Northwestern Minnesota Educational Association have announced the preliminary program for the annual convention which will be held in Crookston, March 18 and 19 next. It is expected that the attendance will be exceedingly large from all sections of the northwestern portion of the state. General Notes.

(1) The Crookston schools will be in session Thursday forenoon, March 18, and visitors are cordially invited to inspect any of the work of the schools.

(2) School officers will kindly take notice that County Superintendent Thorson, of Polk County, has planned meetings for their special interest, at which discussions of practical subjects relating to rural school administration will be led by the Superintendent of Public Intsruction and by other leading educational authorities. It is to be borne in mind that school officers attending this meeting are entitled to mileage and per diem. School officers interested in the discussion of any special topic or particular school problem are invited to communicate same to the County Superintendent as soon as possible before the final program is made out.

(3) Among those who will be conspicuous on the program and in the general discussions:

Mr. H. C. Misner, president of 25,000 Club.
Pres. Weld, Moorhead.
Mr. Geo. B. Aiton, State High School Inspector.
Mr. S. A. Challman, State Graded School Inspector.
Mr. R. J. Montague, Crookston.
Supt. Wm. Robertson, Crookston.
Supt. E. E. McIntire, Crookston.
Supt. J. J. Bohlander, Detroit.
Supt. Leonard Koos, Red Lake Falls.
Supt. J. H. Hay, Thief River Falls.
Supt. A. P. Richie, Bemidji.
Supt. E. A. Williams, Stephen.
Supt. G. E. Keenan, Warren.
Supt. J. J. Boraas, Red Wing.
State Supt. C. G. Schulz.
Prof. Rankin, University of Minn
Supt. E. C. Stackman, Argyle.

(4) Crookston Hotel has been selected as headquarters.

Free entertainment, in whole or in part, will be provided for many of the lady teachers in the homes of the citizens, but those wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity should send their names to Elizabeth Sadley, Secretary, Crookston, Minn., a few days in advance of the meeting.

Satisfactory meals can be secured at the restaurants and some of the hotels for 25 cents each, or on the European plan.

(5) Every effort is being put forth by the officers of the association, the citizens of Crookston and the teachers of the city schools to make this meeting one of interest and value. Excellent music under the direction of Professor Powers will be a feature of all the programs. The co-operation of all city superintendents, principals of graded and semi-graded schools, school officers and friends of education is earnestly solicited to make this meeting full of help and inspiration.

(Signed.)

Ingmaar Boraas,
President.
Elizabeth Sadley,
Sec'y-Treas.

Don't Grouch

Prosperity is coming or going—it all depends upon how you look at it. It will not come to us unless we get out, hustle a few and greet it with open arms. You cannot sit idly on the apple barrel, industriously engaged in doing nothing, and get a call from prosperity. Prosperity only calls on people who are awake, alive and up to the minute. If you are a dead one there is little prospect that you will meet or even overtake the prosperity entry. Look yourself over, give an honest opinion and see what class you are in. If you are not in the prosperity class duck away from the pessimists and move over into the ranks of the boys who are doing things Everybody is not favored with success, but it is more pleasant to be with a cheerful, optimistic crowd than with those who have on a grouch. Don't be a groucher.—Fertile Journal.

Want The Packing Plant

The farmers of this section of the state, and in fact of the entire state, are very desirous of seeing the Armour Packing plant located in Minnesota. They want it located at New Brighton if that is where the Armour interests want it and insist upon having it there or nowhere.

The farmers realize as the other business interests do that the location of such a plan in Minnesota means a better market for a vast amount of farm produce. They know it means a new industry in the state with millions to be paid out in payrolls, and multi-millions for cattle hogs, etc., to the farmers of the state. The reports have been so very conflicting that it is all but impossible to judge from this distance to what degree the residence section of St. Paul, or the State University would be injured, if at all, but we believe that we could stand any smell from a plant located from two to four miles from us. Such propositions should be viewed from a broad standpoint, and the interests of the entire state of Minnesota should not be sacrificed for the interests of the few, and specially if there is no real injury or inconvenience to any one.

A Notable Vietory

The closing hours of the Roosevelt administration seems destined to be marked by the accomplishment of one of the most notable reforms contended for by the president and his advisers and repeatedly indorsed by the people of the country but obstinately refused heretofore by reason of the persistent opposition of special interests.

The house of representatives yesterday afternoon passed by a narrow majority the Appalachian and White Mountain forest reserve bill. The bill has yet to go to conference and may possibly fail, but chances for its final passage today or tomorrow are good. It is the cap sheaf of the measures that have been put forth during the past few years to conserve the natural resources and particularly the forests and the water sources of the country. Altho of local significance in its title, the bill applies to all the states and territories of the Union. It creates the national forest reservation commission for the purpose of acquiring by condemnation or purchase, such lands are needed to promote or protect the navigability of streams on whose watershed they lie. The bill reduces the matter of forest conservation and the protection of head waters to a system and will undoubtedly be the basis for all future work along this line on the part of the government.—Duluth Herald.

Helping The Farmer

President Roosevelt's commission on country life having added appreciably to the nation's fund of humor by its recent report, the moment may be opportune to remark that the movement for which the commission stands is one of the most important which has yet engaged the attention of the people of this country says the Grand Forks Times.

The problem of bringing greater contentment to the people of the rural districts really overshadows the tariff question or the regulation of railroads. At the present time the farmer is envious of the city person, who, apparently is better appareled, properly manicured and more frequently washed. The agriculturist is obvious of the fact that the "bossed" counter jumper or desk slave is quite as envious.

With the awakening resulting from the work of the government commission, it is readily seen that the advantage is with the farmer. He may bring city advantages to the farm, and retain his independence. In fact, he is already at work to this end. The report refers to the upbuilding of social centers in the country, to cluster around the community church and the school house and the institution of different systems of education.

The farmer is quite willing, but he says: "What's the use without good roads?" Quite properly, he demands these first. Next he wants more free mail delivery. He needs these to help the proposed social and educational schemes. His program as to sequences is sound, and the entire nation must poin him in starting the legislative machinery to give him what he wants. It is mainly a question of transportation.

The Purpose of Life

Life is simply time given to man to learn how to live. Mistakes are always part of learning. The real dignity of life consists in cultivating a fine attitude toward our own mistakes and those of others. An essential to right living is the daily use of golden grain belt beer. This pure, wholesome beverage, if served at mealtime, gives a feeling of bodily comfort and mental exhilaration—makes rich red blood and healthy tissue. CORRESPONDENCE

KEYSTONE

Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann and sons Lewis and Andrew and Miss La Grave drove to Grand Forks last Saturday.

Mr. John Gerber visited school district No. 30 last Friday. Mr. Gerber is the treasurer of the school mentioned and thinks that the pupils are progressing fast in all their studies. The teacher, Miss Agnes La Grave deserve praise from parents and visitors.

Mr. Simon Aeschlimann is at present visiting among his many friends and relatives in different parts of Illinois.

Mrs. R. Ehnen celebrated her birth day on the 15th of this month. She received many beautiful birthday cards, also many good wishes for many more happy returns of the day.

Mr. Adolph and Mr. Albert Horn two prominent young gentlemen drove to Grand Forks one day last week to transact business.

Mr. Everett Capes and sister Miss Violet, Mr. Hoffman, Miss Agnes La Grave and the Messrs and Misses Aeschlimann enjoyed a very pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. Ehnen and family last Sunday.

Miss Agnes La Grave and Miss Lydia Aeschlimann are joyfully thinking of the future. They consider themselves the "Old Maids" of Key Stone. As soon as Miss La Grave's school closes they intend to keep old maids' hall, somewhere between here and Grand Forks. An automobile and a cozy cottage will be their greatest and future delights. May the lives of the old maids be long and happy.

ANGUS-SHERACK

Mr. Simon Aeschlimann lost a valuable work horse one day last week.

Valentine day was appropriately remembered around here,

Mr. Chas. Sirek of Tabor was here Thursday to meet relatives.

Mrs. H. Osterloh spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Sirek Sr., of Tabor.

Messrs. D. H. Miller, L. Osterloh, J. B. Goodwin, J. McLellan, E. Johnston and Douglas Snelling drove to Euclid last Wednesday evening to see a new Woodman initiated in the secrets of Woodman craft.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dobias of Brandt drove to Tabor last Thursday.

We hope our Angus weather prophet may be right in predicting an early spring; conservative people like to count the little Biddies after the eggs are hatched.

L. Osterloh drove to Key Stone on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sirek a newly married couple left last Saturday morning via the Soo from Warren for Lankin, N. D., their future home. Their many friends around here wish them a long and happy married life.

Mrs. J. W. Campion has been very ill, but is of late improving nicely.

Mrs. E. Pulkrabek is improving steadily.

Hay and straw stacks are disappearing fast and our farmers are now busy getting their seed grain ready, the harness repaired, cleaned and oiled and everything in good shape for spring work.

Mr. Frank Sirek, Sr., returned from Warren last Saturday morning.

Mr. Frank Taus transacted business in Warren last Saturday.

Mr. C. E. Broadwell of Euclid, rural mail carrier on route one had the misfortune last Friday to lose one of his sled runners and Mr. B. had to make the return trip afoot. Never mind' says Charley "Uncle Sam's mail got there just the same."

Mr. Joseph Brantl a prominent Taborite and progressive farmers was shaking hands with Sherack friends last Saturday.

Mr. J. W. Baars was visiting with Mr and Mrs. G. H. Horn of Key Stone last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Alma Horn returned home one day last week from a four weeks' vis-

The most important thing about having a good time is imagination enough it with relatives and friends in East Grand Forks.

Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann after spending five weeks with relatives and friends in Illinois her former home state, returned home last week.

Mr. Nels Swanson the Crookston veteran well digger finished a flowing well at Mr. G. H. Horn's and now Mr. Horn has all kinds of water for his large herd. Mr. Swanson is now taking a lay-off and is enjoying a well earned rest.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Osterloh and family were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnston last Saturday evening.

Adolph and Albert Horn two prominent young mben of Key Stone drove to Grand Forks last Thursday returning the next day.

The Key Stone Cheer Up Club is likely to die soon in its infancy. The fairies claim the old bachelors are too stubborn to yield to the pleadings and entreaties of the souffragettes.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Horn of Key Stone were visiting with Angus friends last Monday.

The dance in Euclid last Monday in honor of Washington's birthday was a swell affair and Angus, Key Stone and Tabor were well represented. The dance was gotten up for a benevolent purpose. The Euclid people are known to be kind-hearted and charitable.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Goodwin of Key West were visiting here the first of the week with their children Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Goodwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brantl entertained last Tuesday evening at their beautiful and ever hospitable home a great number of young folks. The evening was spent in playing various games and in vocal and instrumental music. The duet sung by the Misses Tillie Brantl and Rose Kotek was of a high order and was very much appreciated. A dainty luncheon was served at mid night and the visitors did not go home until morning. In leaving the young folks voted Mr. and Mrs. Brantl splendid entertainers.

Miss Tillie Brantl and brother Jerry drove to Tabor last Sunday morning to attend divine services.

Simple Remedy for La Grippe

La grippe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

MANY WILL BE HELPED

HOW TO PREPARE A MIXTURE TO CURE—SAYS THIS IS VERY GOOD

DREAD DISEASE, WHICH IS SAID TO YIELD TO SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescriptions regularly a dose or two daily ar even a few times a week would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce indeed, and when you need it you want it badly.

WONDERS OF VELOCITY.

A Piece of Thin Cardboard Will Cut Through Wood.

Velocity has a great deal to do with one substance's ability to break through another, and it is remarkable what can be accomplished by a comparatively soft substance against a much harder one when the former is given enough velocity. A bullet made of a tallow candle would smash flat if fired against a board from a toy gun, but when shot from an army rifle it will go right through the board. A stream of water has been known to have such swiftness of movement that a sword was broken in two when a strong man tried to cut it through. Cyclones have been known to drive such frail projectiles as straws well into a tree.

An interesting experiment showing what a soft substance can do may be performed by attaching a bristol board disk to the motor of an electric fan and setting it to revolving at the fan's usual rate. If a piece of wood, such as a lead pencil, for example, be carefully applied to the edge of the revolving disk, the wood will very readily be cut through. Of course if the disk were to revolve slowly the wood would soon blunt its edge.

A cross man would be worth at least a dollar a day more if he would become good natured.—Atchison Globe.

RADICAL RULING BY LAND OFFICE

HEREAFTER ONLY ELECTIVE, FEDERAL, STATE AND COUNTY OFFICERS

WILL BE GIVEN PRIVILEGE TO ABSENT THEMSELVES FROM HOMESTEADS

From Tuesday's Daily—

Only persons elected to federal state or county officers hereafter will be allowed to absent themselves from their homesteads and have such absence credited to them as constructive residence, according to a departmental circular just received here from the general landoffice. The circular follows:

"For many years it has been the practice of the department to permit a homestead entryman who has established residence upon his claim and afterwards had been elected or appointed to a federal, state or county office to be absent from his entry if required by his official duty and to consider such absence constructive residence upon his claim. This ruling includes deputies and assistants in such offices. Sec. 2 L. D., 147, 6 L. D., 668; 7 L. D. 88; 523-525; 17 L. D. 155.

"This privilege which is not a statutory right but rests solely upon departmental rulings, has led to such grave abuse that the objects of the homestead law have been to a great extent defeated. Threfore, the department has decided to discontinue the said practice in so far as it has been applied to persons appointed to office and limit it to persons elected to office. All decisions and instructions heretofore given, not in harmony with the view, are hereby overruled or modified in so far as they accredit such absence as residence to persons not elected to office.

"It is not intended however, to disturb the status of persons who have acted under the rule heretofore prevailing, nor to deny the benefit of the rule to persons who, prior to April 1, 1909, shall have been appointed to such office. Persons having homestead entries, who enter upon public service in non-elective positions to which they were not appointed prior to above date will be required to comply fully with all of the provisions of the homestead law just as other settlers."

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

MOTHER IMPROVING—F. M. Slyter has returned from Indiana where he was called by the serious illness of his mother. She is somewhat improved now.

EXAMINING LANDS— Mayor McPhee is spending the day near Euclid where he is examining some lands for parties who reside in Indiana . He will return this evening.

VISITED BEMIDJI—William Hughes of Crookston, the postoffice inspector of this district returned to the city this morning from a trip to the postoffices north of here and spent today in Bemidji.—Bemidji Pioneer.

PROMINENT FARMER HERE — Henry Ross, one of the well known farmers residing on Rural Route No. 5 out of this city, is spending the day here attending to some business matters.

SIGNED WARRANTS — President Snyder of the city council as acting mayor today signed several city warrants in order not to delay the getting of money due by several parties. He said he wanted to sign one for himself but City Clerk Childs refused to make any of them out that way.

WERE MARRIED HERE — At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Andrew Oen a wealthy farmer near Minot N .D. and Miss Annie Olson of the same place, were united in marriage by Rev. Salveson in this city. Mrs. McFadden a sister of the groom accompanied them here. They will leave for their North Dakota home this evening.

WILL VISIT PACIFIC COAST — Emil Hedberg cashier of the Bank of Spooner left this morning for a three weeks' annual vacation trip. He goes first to Minot, N. D. and from there will proceed to Seattle and other Pacific coast points. He has been in Crookston since last Friday, visiting with his brother, Robert Hedberg and his cousin, Lawrence Hedberg.

A GREAT RUNNER.

One of His Feats of Which He Had to Be Reminded.

"I'm the real thing as a runner," said Howard James majestically as he seated himself at the first home dinner since his return from college. His mother and sister looked at him in sheer admiration.

"Yes, mother, I wish you could have been at the university to see me run. During the football season I ran away from every one on the team. They were not in it for a minute. In the classes I took the lead, leaving them in the lurch. I always stood highest in my lectures. And then when it came to selecting a president for the class I made the race. When the voting started I ran second, but at the last, well, I ran ahead of all of the other candidates. There's no doubt about it, I'm a runner. Of course, when the baseball season opened the crowd wanted me to get on the team. At first I hesitated because I realized my superiority, but persuasion succeeded. I went on the team, and the way I ran bases was a positive shame. Then I went into the track meet. I ran ten yards in ten seconds, almost equaling the world's record. Yes; I am a runner. Then"—

"Then you ran into debt," interrupted Old Man James, with a distinctive grunt, "and I have to pay you out."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

DARK DOINGS.

When any one asked little Mrs. Pratt her opinion on the question of equal suffrage she had her answer ready. "I don't want to hear anything about it," she would say pleasantly, but firmly, "and I'd just as soon tell you why. It's because there's got to be a concealment and mystery about voting, and I like things open and aboveboard. It's the way I was brought up and the way I shall always feel if I live to be a hundred.

"I've had one experience, and that's all I want. A friend of mine talked and talked to me about voting on the educational question till at last I said I would, because I was brought up to think a great deal of education, and I always shall. So I gave up an engagement to go to the polls and register (and the dress was almost spoiled on account of my missing that trying on, too, because she didn't wait to see whether it fitted or not, but stitched the seams right up), and then I took the greatest pains to go and vote just as they'd told me to, and what do you suppose Henry Pratt told me afterward? My vote was thrown out because I had the frankness to write my full name and address on it!

"I told Henry that nothing would surprise me after that—nothing!"

At His Expense.

She—Jack told me that that hospital was built entirely at his expense. Is it possible? He—Well, Jack's uncle cut him off with a hundred dollars and left the rest of his money to build the hospital.

From Tuesday's Daily

WILL ESTABLISH DITCH— Surveyor O. L. Hamery left this morning for Warren where today it is expected Judge Grindeland will establish Judicial Ditch No. 8 this being the date for the final hearing.

MAYOR NOT FOOLED—Mayor McPhee went to Euclid this morning on business. He was not fooled by lamb like March and tho it was warm and balmy he went with all the accoutrements for an artic trip, barring the dog sleighs.

LOOKING AFTER PROPERTY — Cashier L. Ellington of the Scandia American Bank is spending the day at Angus looking after some real estate business for the bank. He will return this evening.

BUSINESS MEN OPTIMISTIC—S. D. Felsing returned this morning from a business trip to Climax. He says the business men there are all looking toward a fine business the coming season, the best that has been enjoyed for several years past.

FARM SALE AT HALLOCK—C. A. Hitchcock left this morning for Hallock where he has a farm sale to cry. Yesterday he was in Tynsid township where he auctioned off a lot of property on the old Erik Jordahl farm, every thing bringing good prices and practically all sales were for spot cash.

SOLD SNUFF TO MINORS—August Erickson the proprietor of the Svea Hotel on North Broadway who also operates the confectionery in the same building, was brought before Judge Gossman in Municipal Court this morning charged with selling snuff to minors. He entered a plea of guilty and was fined $10 and costs. The complaint was made by Chief Eck. Erickson employed no attorney not desiring to fight the case as the evidence was conclusive against him.

WARREN BANKER HERE—Harry Wood, the well known banker from Warren returned home this morning after a business trip here. He says conditions up north are more promising than they have been for years, and with the good returns from the crops and produce last year both farmers and business men are feeling very optimistic regarding the future. He also states that there is more inquiry for land than for some time past, and many more actual sales to bona fide settlers.

SHOW A WINNER—Princess Tarpeia, who is the vaudeville feature at the Bijou this week made a big hit last evening to a packed house. She slipped out of handcuffs with no effort unlocking any number of them, released herself from a chair to which she was bound by a committee from the audience in which 60 feet of rope was used and slid out of a straight jacket in an incredibly short time. Her act is one of the best ever put on here and withal is very refined.

SHEFFIELD A CANDIDATE— W. B. Sheffield superintendent of the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator Co. for this district, is certainly a candidate for a Carnegie Hero medal. This morning as the Greenbush train was pulling up in front of the depot Supt. Sheffield was standing on the platform and all of a sudden let a war whoop out of him in which he warned E. A. Mills, master carpenter for the Northern Division of the Great Northern, in thundering tones to "get out of the way of that engine." Mr. Mills jumped from the track and landed about 22 feet in the clear and turning in the direction of the approaching train discovered that while "it was coming" that it was still about two blocks away. He cast a casual glance at Supt Sheffield who was by this time hotfooting it for another train, and never looked back. What Mr. Mills said could not be distinctly understood, but there is no question but what he was thinking of Supt. Sheffield would sound much more vigorous in print than what he muttered.

The Retort Courteous.

Professor Bates was quizzing a student named Pond, who seemed to know nothing of the subject in hand. "Are there no fish in this pond this morning?" he exclaimed at length.

"Yes, professor," replied the student, "but the Bates no good."—Lippincott's.

Good Family.

"My daughter appears to have married very happily," remarked a lady. "Her husband has not wealth, it must be admitted, but he has family."

"Yes. I heard he was a widower with six children!" a neighbor sniffed acridly.

The Midnight Sun.

The midnight sun is visible wholly above the horizon at the North Cape from May 13 to July 30, at Hammerfest from May 15 to July 27 and at Tromso from May 20 to July 22.

GOLD LAID WATCHES FREE TO BOYS AND GIRLS American Movement, Guaranteed for doing a few hours' easy work. Send name and address Today. We'll send full particulars by return mail. Manager, Box 362, Worthington, Minn.

HERE FROM EUCLID— Manager Alfred Vonderbeck of Senator Works' farm at Euclid, and Ray Goodwin one of the salt of the earth of Euclid, drove down this morning and will return home this afternoon. They both predict an early spring and state that conditions were never more favorable in that section.

DAMAGE SLIGHT—Little damage was caused by the fire broke out yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock above the Club saloon on DeMers avenue in East Grand Forks. The flames which started from a burning chimney were discovered in good time and quick work by the fire department disposed of the fire in a few minutes. The chemical engine was used and spite of the fact that the work was done without an authorized chief it was well done. The building was owned by Young Bros. & Poupore and the damage is covered by insurance.

FINE NEW SCHOOL—B. D. Keck the well known local architect, has completed the plans for the new school house which will be erected at Erskine. The plans are now on exhibition in the east end town and there is no question but that when the structure is completed it will be a distinct addition to the importance of Erskine.

WANT VALLEY LAND — L. Lamberson a well known banker of Warren was in the city yesterday and he took occasion to state that in his opinion this is going to be one of the mose prosperous years that this section of the Northwest has experienced in many years. He looks for a big movement of land seekers to the Red River Valley and is confident that many will find their way to Marshall county.

FIRE AT ST. HILAIRE — At about 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning the American Hotel at St. Hilaire caught fire and before the blaze was extinguished the structure was completely destroyed. The fire was the most complete one that has ever been recorded in the city. The furnishings of the place were completely destroyed and, in addition to the property, $200 in cash was burned up.

There is no knowledge as to how the fire started. The fire department arrived on the scene in short order, but it was impossible to save the structure, and all the firemen could do was to confine it to the hotel. The fire was most spectacular and most of the citizens of St. Hilaire were aroused and witnessed the destruction of the old land mark.

COLORED WOMEN MIX—Two colored women arrested by Officer Quigley, of East Grand Forks for engaging in a public fistic encounter were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday afternoon and furnished a rather humorous diversion. Maggie was the first to appear on the scene and plead guilty t othe charge of remarking that she might have to plead guilty again. When the judge asked her what she meant she said she intended to give the woman a real beating up the next time she saw her. She paid her fine good naturedly and left the court shaking a rather formidable pair of 'dukes' in imitation of the way she intended to use them on Nellie. Nellie appeared in a few moments very much slighter and smaller than the redoubtable Maggie and told a harrowing tale of how Maggie was entertaining her husband at her restaurant in spite of her orders to the contrary. She also paid a fine of $9.50.

Some Facts About Smut

N. P. Stone & Co. Mail Very Important Circulars To Farmers Of This Section.

N. P. Stone & Co., have had a circular printed for the purpose of mailing to the farmers of this section, containing "some facts about smut" in which the subject is treated exhaustively by Prof. H. L. Bolley of the N. Dakota College of Agriculture located at Fargo, and the enterprise of N. P. Stone & Co., in getting this information before the farmers is certainly entitled to great praise as it shows a commendable interest in the welfare of the farmer. The article is as follows:

There are several diseases of grain which are commonly known as smut.

Smut is recognized by the transformation of some part of the plant, into a mass of very small dark colored bodies, known as spores. The stinking, or covered, smuts of wheat or barley, and the loose smut of oats, are by far the most prevalent and are therefore the most destructive. Wheat smuts will not affect or grow in oats or barley, neither will the oat or barley smut affect wheat.

Grain is infected, by the smut spores becoming lodged upon the grain in the field in threshing, in handling, etc., and the spores are planted with the seed grain. When the seed germinate and penetrate the seedling. As the grain plant grows, the smut plant grows inside of it, but is not apparent until the grain plant begins to produce a crop of seed. The seed or other parts of the plant are then replaced by a mass of smut spores.

It only takes a very few heads in each acre of grain, to infect the whole crop, as the spores, or particles of smut, are fine like dust and are easily blown from plant to plant and from field to field by the wind. One spore will infect a healthy grain, and the spores developed in this healthy body will then go on infecting other heads, the spread thus being very rapid. The only way the spores have of living and carrying on their deadly work from season to season is in the seed grain for they do not remain in the ground. From the infected seed grain in the spring comes the damage.

Every grain grower knows that the question of stinking smut in wheat, and the smut of other grains, is a serious one. Statistics show, that sowing untreated smutty wheat lessens the yield from one to twelve bushels per acre and gives a poor quality of wheat, grading either "no grade" or rejected; and thereby lessening the price from 5c to 25c per bushel.

Millions Lost Each Year Thru Smut.

Dr. J. Howard Faull, cryptohamic botanist, of the University of Toronto has just completed a comprehensive tour of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, where he has been making a preliminary investigation of the wheat smut problem of the West. Special inquiries were conducted at a number of representative centers. In Southern Alberta he was joined by Mr. G. H. Clark the Dominion seed commissioner.

Dr. Faull says that with the exception of rust, there is no disease of wheat that occasions such a large annual loss to the country as smut—or stinking smut—a loss that amounts each year to millions of dollars. There is a loss all the way thru with a smutted crop, in the decreased yield, the lower price per bushel paid to the farmer, the cost of scouring, and the infrior quality of flour at the end. Moreover, as smut is probably poisonous, and in any case unpalatable, its presence in comparatively small quantities vitiates wheat used for food.

Here a few extracts from the speech of Henry L. Bolley, Professor of Botany and Zoology at the North Dakota Agricultural College and Experimental Station, Fargo, N. D., at the Tri-State Grain Growers' Convention: ...

"Smut is one of the drawbacks to the growth of wheat in the Northwest. The farmer ought to object to the growth of smut for every reason, especially as he is in a position to object with the best hope of success. He can prevent the appearance of smut in the crop which he has for sale.

Then the excuse for grading down the quality of the wheat cannot exist. The chief reason, however, why he should prevent the growth of smut is to remove the element of gambling with nature, as to this feature of his farm work. Sometimes a man may sow smut seed which the elevator man may accept, but what was the loss in yield? This loss in yield is the greatest element. I have known crops of wheat upon the same soil, from the same quality of seed, which was seeded upon the same day, to give a great variation in yield, according as the treatment for preventive was successful, partially successful, or a failure. Often a crop which has been found to have but a few actually smutted heads in it has been found to possess much shrunken and light wheat, and to give a much reduced yield and low grade. Smut was in the straw but did not reach the heads before maturity of the grain.

The remedy of the evil equals prevention. Stinking smut of wheat can be entirely prevented by a treatment of the seed grain befor sowing, so as to kill the smut spores (seeds of the smut plant). This can be done without injury to the germinating qualities of the seed grain.

Indeed I have been found that the treatment actually increases the yield of wheat, even when applied to No. 1 Hard unsmutted wheat. My records show increased yield for treated seed over untreated seed, varying from on-half bushel to 12 or 15 bushels per acre, according to how badly the seed used was smutted. Thus one plot of wheat seeded upon the same ground and upon the same day, using smutty wheat treated and untreated, showed for the treated sample a yield of 27 bushrels of hard wheat; for the untreated plot a yield of 17 bushels of a lighter grade of wheat This untreated plot showed 28 per cent of actual smutted heads.

The smut of oats, barley and millet each have one or more kinds of smut of their own, that is, one kind of smut does not affect more than one kind of plant. The same treatment recommended for wheat seems to be successful in thoroly preventing smut upon these three crops."

Here are some questions asked of Prof. Bolley, and their answers:

Q. How often is it necessary to treat wheat?

A. I should treat my wheat every year with Formalin (trade name for Formaldehyde.

Q. Isn't Blue Stone treatment as good?

A. Blue Stone will not get as good a yield as Formalin. Nearly four bushels better out of twenty-bushel crop.

Q. How much wheat will the 40 gallons cover?

A. I am able to apply 40 gallons to 70 bushels of wheat. Be sure to get the whole surface of the grain wet.

Q. Will the Formalin have the same effect on the seed if you allow it to dry on the seed?

A. It will.

Loose Smut in Oats

Smut in oats is just as destructive as in wheat. In 1901, 20 per cent of the oat crop in Wisconsin was infected with smut which cost the farmers of that State more than $6,000,000.00. This great loss aroused the farmers to the fact that something must be done. In 1902 treating seed oats with farmaldehyde was quite general, and the results were very effective and satisfactory. In all cases where the remedy was properly applied, smut was entirely prevented.

A Positive Cure for Smut

Experiments at the different State Experimental stations all over the country have proven that the spores of the stinking smuts of wheat and barley, and the loose smut of oats, can be killed on the seed grain, without injuring the grain in any way whatever, and the reappearance of smut in the crop be absolutely prevented.

The treatment is very simple and inexpensive. Use formaldehyde (40 per cent strength), the trade name of which is formalin, at the rate of 16 oz. avoirdupois, to 40 gal of water. Mix well and apply thoroly to seed grain. With this method of treating, failure to prevent smut is absolutely impossible except by the use of weak or poor formaldehyde, or thru careless and indifferent application. The latter is the cause of the largest number of failures.

Prof. E. C. Parker of the University of Minnesota, Agricultural Experimental Station, writes under date of Dec. 18, 1906, in response to our letter:

"The 'stinking' or 'covered smuts' of wheat and barley and the 'loose smut' of oats may be prevented from reappearing in succeeding crops, by treating the grain before seeding, with formaldehyde. It should be borne in mind that smuts are parasitic plant diseases, the seeds or reproductive bodies of which are the black smut particles; and that each smut particle will give rise to a smut plant that will grow and thrive within the tissue of the cereal host plant, if favorable conditions for germination and infection are given. Formaldehyde treatment of grain affected with 'stinking smut' or 'loose smut' in case of oats, will destroy the germinating power of these smut particles, and thus insure a clean crop the succeeding year."

The above is simply an extract from the letter. But from the fact that Prof. Parker is an acknowledged authority on the subject, it proves our statement, that formaldehyde will positively cure the above mentioned smuts.

The Proper Way to Apply Formaldehyde

There are a great many different methods by which this treatment can be applied, such as sprinkling, or placing the seed in sacks and then placing the sacks in barrels or vats and soaking it. But the only way in which it can be successfully applied, to be sure of satisfactory results, is by a special machine made for that purpose.

Just take a pencil and paper and figure out what you can make and save on your farm. We will figure out as an example here, the saving on 40 acres of wheat.

If you sow good plump seed, free from smut and weeds, you should harvest at least 30 bu. per acre, or 1,200 bushels on the 40 acres. Now if you were to sow the very same seed, but infected with smut to any extent, this yield would be reduced fully 20 per cent or 240 bushels.

Aside from the reduction in yield there is also a very serious reduction in the grade of wheat raised from smutted seed.

Taking the light weight wheat and the lower grading on account of smut an estimate of 8c per bushel reduction in the market value would be very low. According to the above estimate, the following would be the result:

Loss in yield, 240 bu. at 80c per bu.	$192.00
The total yield after deducting the above would be 960 bu., deducting 8c per bushel	76.80
Total loss	$268.80

The above estimate of loss is very low, as you will see by referring to Prof. Bolley's figures, given at Fargo, N. D. His records show an increase of from 1 to 15 bushels per acre, when seed is treated with formaldehyde.

If you raise only 20 acres, you lose one-half of the above, or $134.40. If you raise 80 acres you lose double the amount, or $537.60.

Is it worth your while making a small investment, and taking a little time, to save these sums?

A young woman whose furs seemed to last her an unusually long time without visits to the furrier for repairs says she owes their preservation to a hint given by an old furrier who had gone out of business. When the fur seems to be flattened or crushed, she wets a clean, rather soft hairbrush and brushes the fur the wrong way and then puts it in the air to dry. When no longer moist the fur is beaten lightly on the wrong side with a small carpet beater and then is combed in the right direction of the fur with a coarse hair comb.

WELL KNOWN FARMER LOST HIS LIFE

Gunstein Jorgenson, A Farmer Residing Near Plummer Lost His Life As Result Of A Peculiar Accident. Sleigh Tipped Over And He Was Pinioned Under Flour.

From Thursday's Daily—

A fatal accident took place near Plummer yesterday when Gunstein Jorgenson a farmer residing near Garness 15 miles from Plummer was found lying dead within two miles of home with a sack of flour on his head.

At 10:30 last evening Berkland straggled into Plummer without a hat but was too drunk to give any details and this morning when he woke up he could give no details of the sad affair. The team was discovered by a farmer and Postmaster Carl Moen of Garness and John Lundin started back towards lPummer and discovered Jorgenson with a sack of flour over his neck and nearby was the wagon box and the balance of the load of feed and flour the tip-over having taken place on a sharp bend in the road.

Coroner Mellbye of Thief River Falls was at once called and it was decided that the cause of death was concussion of the brain due to the fall.

Deceased was formerly a resident of Polk County and his father is now a prominent farmer of Bygland township. He was 40 years of age and leaves a widow and 8 children all young.

The deceased had not been drinking much, and the fault is laid to his companion who was paralyzed.

"JUNK" FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 26, 1909—(Special to the Journal)—Today the Senate was assuming a rather quiet air in listening to the first reading of a number of house bills, quite a contrast to yesterday when some very heated outbursts of oratory were indulged in over the Rowe Bill which involves the allowance or disallowance of the Armour Packing Co., to construct a packing plant between the twin cities.

The odor from such a concern is what is troubling the solons and especially the citizens of St. Paul. The House will have its say in airing this subject tomorrow when its "stink committee" (as a representative called it) reports the matter to the house.

Our genial Senator was asked, "How are you getting along?" He answereded with a smile, "I don't know, as some may think I am not doing enough."

The House was adjourned to allow the use of the large hall for a public hearing before the Retail Trade committee in regard to the law proposed to prohibit the use of trading stamps for premiums as is quite general among retailers.

Some very plain facts were propounded by twin city merchants and all seemed to favor the passage of such a law. But the trading stamp concerns were not wanting in representation and Representatives Lennon of Minneapolis declared he knew that all day paid lobbyists were "working in the dark" for such interests.

He pronounced all trading stamp methods as "bunco" only to "bunco" the people and then went on to say it places the people trading in the same position as a fellow smoking cigarettes till it killed him before he would get enough stamps to get a pipe.

The Senate and House in joint session will have the pleasure of seeing and hearing Rear Admiral Bobby D. Evans tomorrow at 11:00 a. m. in the hall of the House of Representatives.

Ex-auditor of Polk County, N. A. Hoffard was seen and he reported rather busy times as special accountant for the committee of Expenditures of which Representative Saugstad is the chairman. The latter said that it was rather disagreeable work to have to look around for labors in probing expenditures that should not be questioned.

Notes from the State "U"

The Crookston contingent at the University of Minnesota are all doing creditable work and it will be a pleasure to the citizens of the Queen City to learn that none of her sons or daughters are numbered among the 56 "flunkers" as a result of the final semester examinations held the last of January.

After a number of events among which may be mentioned various post-exam jubilees the visit of the state Legislature and the Girls' Basket Ball tournament in which the 'freshies" gained the laurels over a close second by the juniors things have assumed a quieter strain owing to the opening of lent and it is predicted that all will be more faithful to studies as a result.

Athletics at the University have had a very valuable addition to its many lines by having a swimming pool constructed in the Armory.

The tank is a large one and is very popular among the students as can be seen by the great numbers that indulge in swimming and diving every day. The water is heated and is changed often. A spring-board is in readiness for the high and acrobatic divers.

If the ideas of President Roosevelt are carried out by the presidents who succeed him in regard to the coinage of money, the famous Indian head, and maybe even the Goddess of Liberty, will disappear from American coins and the heads of great Americans will take their places. President Roosevelt has already issued an order for a design for a one-cent piece which will bear the head of Abraham Lincoln instead of the traditional American Indian. The design is a special profile of Lincoln by Victor Brenner in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the martyred president. It is claimed that the head of the American Indian now used on out one-cent pieces is "no more like the head of an Indian than it is like the head of a Chinese" says the Duluth Herald.

The dress of feathers is alleged to be the only resemblance. Partly on this account and partly because he advocates the European custom of placing the heads of men of the nation upon our coins, the president has ordered the new one-cent design to contain the head of Lincoln. The custom with most European countries is to carry the head of the reigning monarch upon their different coins but while the heads of famous Americans have been used upon our paper money, we have adhered to the custom of using only the heads of statesmen who are not living. The Lincoln one-cent piece will be the first American coin to bear the likeness of an American statesman.

It will be remembered that President Roosevelt has had other ideas in regard to our coins, one of which did not meet the approval of the people of the country. By his order the words "In God We Trust" were omitted from gold pieces only to be replaced by the direction of congress. In no other respect has congress ever given any direction as to the design of coins or paper money, the matter being one which is left entirely to executive discretion.

We are not satisfied with the honor which we have been able to give the memory of Abraham Lincoln and the new Lincoln coins will be welcomed regardless of what we may think of the policy of stamping the likenesses of statesmen upon coins in place of the figures now used.

FACTS ABOUT C. E. MEET

ST. PAUL CONVENTION CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY WILL BE GREATEST INTERNATIONAL MEETING EVER HELD—MUCH INTEREST FELT

The visit of Secretary Howells of the State Endeavor Union has aroused special interest in the international convention of the C. E. Society which will be held in St. Paul. Following are a few facts regarding the convention which will be of special interest at this time.

As usual the convention will open Wednesday evening, (July 7) and close with the evening session on Monday (July 12). Delegations should plan to reach the city as early as possible on the opening day so as to have time for registration and assignment of entertainment before the opening of the convention.

Registration

The registration plan at previous conventions will be followed. The fee will be one dollar, which will entitle the delegate to the reduced rate for accommodations, the official Convention badge, the program, the privileges of the various state headquarters, and a copy of the St. Paul Convention Souvenir edition of the hymn book "Jubilant Praise" which will be used during the convention. Only persons wearing official badge will be admitted to the principal sessions, until after the hour set for beginning, which protects the delegates against being crowded out by local people and sightseers. No attempt will be made to register delegates in advance of their arrival, such plans having failed of a satisfactory degree of success in the past.

Entertainment

The standard rate for accommodations in private homes or boarding houses, obtaniable thru the entertainment committee, will be: lodging, fifty cents per night; breakfasts, twenty-five cents; luncheons, twenty-five cents; dinners, fifty cents. The entertainment committee expects to be able to furnish satisfactory accommodatoins to all who desire them, at this special rate of $1.50 per day. Those desiring special accommodations or hotel rooms will be served by the committee who will have schedules of rates, etc., on file.

Railroad Rates

The Western Passenger Association has made a general rate of one and a half cent a mile from all points in its territory west of Chicago, and it is expected that all passenger associations in the country will later make reduced rates.

Halls

St. Paul is unusually well equipped with adequate convention meeting places. We will need no tents, and there will be no necessity to take a street car to get to any of the regular places of meeting, from the main convention hall. The principal sessions will be held in our magnificent new $500,000 Auditorium,—"The finest hall in which a Christian Endeavor convention ever assembled"—which seats ten thousand people. This is a beautiful fire proof structure, with wonderful acoustic properties, seating more people than Madison Square Gardens, New York, and especially designed for the accommodation of great conventions.

Five large churches and the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium will be used for the various sectional meetings, the School of Methods, Quiet Hour, denominational rallies, etc. All these are within a radius of a few blocks from the Auditorium. One of the large churches will be devoted to the Juniors and Junior workers, thruout the week.

Convention Program

The program as always, is in the hands of the program committee of the United Society, who are not yet ready to make a complete announcement. The great central theme will be, "Thy Kingdom Come," and it will be treated by experts in its relation to the individual, home, social, civic, business and religious life, in its world-wide sweep. Each day will open with a great, central Quiet Hour service. This will be followed by the wonderfully helpful School of Methods, meeting in its six sections.

Mr. William Phillips Hall and Dr. James A. Francis who were so successful in the evangelistic work at the Seattle Convention, will hold great noonday evangelistic meetings in the Metropolitan Opera House one of the largest theatre buildings west of Chicago. They will also arrange special outdoor and shop meetings.

Speakers

The list of speakers will include some of the most famous men of the present day, and men of national reputation will be the rule, rather than the exception. They will include statesmen, leaders of reform and uplift work, business men, pastors, missionaries and practical workers from all departments of Christian activity. The names will be announced later.

Convention Features

Special features of the St. Paul Convention will be the Educational Exhibit and the singing parade and outdoor patriotic service.

The Educational Exhibit will be installed in the Armory the second largest hall in the city. It will consist of models, pictures, charts, literature, etc. Stereopticon and moving pictures will be used by experts in lectures to be given at stated hours.

On Thursday afternoon will come the great patriotic demonstration, similar to the famous service held on the east front of the Capitol during the Washington, 1896, Convention.

The tens of thousands of delegates will march from the Auditorium to the State capitol, where they will be massed on the steps and terraces for the great patriotic song-service and an address.

Music

This is to be the "Jubilant Praise" convention. Delegates to "St. Paul, 1909" are warned not to let anybody do their singing for them. We will be led by a monster chorus made up by combining specially drilled choirs from several cities, under the direction of Prof. E. O. Excell and Mr. Percy S. Foster. The book to be used is a new one "Jubilant Praise" which will be issued March 1, by the United Society of Christian Endeavor. It will have the "songs we all like to sing" and a special souvenir copy will be furnished free to each registered delegate. The best musical talent of the Northwest will render an oratorio on Saturday evening, to which the delegates will be admitted free.

St. Paul 1909 Rally Song

Tune: "The Battle Cry of Freedom."

We are marching in the Southland, we are marching in the North,
Shouting the message of Endeavor!
In the East and in the West, see the army going forth
Shouting the message of Endeavor!

Chorus:
For Christian Endeavor we sing as we
march,
True to our motto, "For Christ and the Church;"
And in nineteen-hundred-nine, then
We'll rally in St. Paul,
Shouting the message of Endeavor!

See! the starry flag is waving beside the Union Jack,
Leading the army of Endeavor!
And our march is ever onward, no
thot of turning back,
Shouting the message of Endeavor!

We are marching for Immanuel, our
Captain and our King,
Shouting the message of Endeavor!
From Quebec to California we make
His praises ring,
Shouting the message of Endeavor!

Let us rally in convention, full thirty thousand strong!
Rally the Army of Endeavor!
And we'll win a mighty conflict against the power of wrong,
Shouting the message of Endeavor!

—Walter D. Howell.

FLE BULLET KILLED BOY

PLAYMATE AND HIS BROTHER SCUFFLED AND RALPH SHOT AS RESULT

From Friday's Daily—

Paul Charbeneau of this city today received a letter telling of the tragic death of Ralph Anderson at Blackduck yesterday. Ralph with his brother Carl and a neighbor boy were playing and the two latter entered the Anderson house and took a 22 rifle from the wall. Carl took it away from the other boy or was trying to, when the weapon was discharged the bullet going thru the wall and striking Ralph who died the following day.

Ralph was 6 years or age, and last summer visited Paul Charbeneau in this city. His mother is a widow who is also known here.

A man can stay out all night without getting sleepy, but if he spends the evening at home he can't keep his eyes open after 9 o'clock.

WHO WILL BE THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF MINNESOTA

Geo. F. Authier Discusses Possibilities In The Minneapolis Tribune.

Geo. F. Authiers the special representative of the Minneapolis Tribune who was here recently with members of the state legislature who visited the Crookston School of Agriculture, sizes up the political situation in Minnesota as follows:

Governors are being made during the present session of the legislature. They are not being made by legislative enactment, but one of them will be turned out to make his appearance two years hence. Whether he will be republican or Democratic remains to be seen. Incidentally the constitutional provision, which makes it impossible for senators to take the governorship after having voted to increase the salary of the executive, makes it extremely embarrassing for on both sides of the fence.

Looking first at the Republican side of the proposition, Lieutenant Governor A. O. Eberhart is credited with having special and direct lines out on the governor's chair. The lieutenant governor lives in the southern part of the state, is a Scandinavian with a German name and has a state-wide acquaintance which would make him a formidable candidate both for the nomination and for the office. His four years' association with the senthe way of acquaintance. He is saying ate gives him a strong following in nothing, but is inviting the stroke. But there are others. Secretary of State Julius Schmahl is almost an avowed candidate, and even if he is not avowed it is generally accepted that this is his position. Mr. Schmahl has been playing the game pretty strenuously and his recent attack on the primary law at the Ryan hotel banquet is taken as a bid for the nomination on strict party lines. State Treasurer C. C. Dinehart is also being mentioned as a candidate altho it is being given out that he would be satisfied with retention in his present place for another two years' term.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson is also listed as a possible candidate and the Republican mind naturally strays in the direction of Ripley Brower as a possible candidate, and the republican mind naturally strays in the direction of Ripley Brower as a possible candidate but it is suggested that Mr. Brower is likely to prefer the practice of law rather than engage in the vicissitudes of politics. Robert C. Dunn of Princeton is taking a hand in the framing up game that is going on during the legislature while Joel P. Heatwole makes frequent visits to St. Paul. While the day of evil is a long way off the gubernatorial aspirants see in the present session an opportunity to prepare and they are preparing with a vengeance.

Were it not for the constitutional provision the senate would undoubtedly furnish a number of candidates. This fact rather galls the upper body. There are a number of able and patriotic statesmen in that body who are of the opinion that they would like to become the Republican Moses, but they voted to increase the governor's salary and the constitution say them nay. The trouble affects Democrats as well as Republicans. Among the Republican possible gubernatorial aspirants is Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston, who might like to get in the race, but can't. Incidentally Mr. Stephens may run for congress in his district two years hence, altho he is giving no sound that would indicate his intentions. However, it is rumored that the Steenerson forces in the Ninth are watching his actions closely. But that is another story. The national congress has set an example in the case of Senator P. C. Knox, for whom the salary of secretary of state has been reduced so that he might accept that portfolio under President-elect Taft. If this can be done in the case of Mr. Knox why not do it here, and there have been suggestions looking to a reduction of the salary of Gov Johnson in the interest of the senators who are now out of the running. Whether Gov. Johnson would take kindly to this proposition is not a matter of record, but the chances are that he would deprecate any such program. Barring this possibility the senators are wondering if some other method of avoiding the constitutional provision might not be found and legal authorities are being consulted.

No such handicap exists in the house where there are a number of potential governors and at least one potential lieutenant governor. This personage is none other than W. A. Nolan of Grand Meadow chairman of the house Republican steering committee and a man who will undoubtedly receive strong backing for the place when the time comes.

The Democratic program is a hard one to solve and Republicans are intimating that the plan is to place Gov Johnson in such a position that he will be compelled to run a fourth time. Outside of the possibility of Gov. Johnson being a fourth time candidate, Senator S. D. Works of Mankato would be the most promising aspirant for the place were it not for the constitutional provision. Appearances indicate that the Democrats hope to get around this provision if necessary, and it would be in the interest of Works. The Mankota man is a man of considerable wealth and a resident of the second district. He would be able to finance his own campaign and his Second district residence would help the Democrats in the effort to hold that territory. All indications are that Senator Works is being groomed for the place. He has long been prominent in Johnsonian politics. He campaigned all over the northern part of the state last fall with the governor and has been brought prominently forward. The governor is aiming to make his plan for the organization of a conservation bureau his strong card and Senator Works was selected to handle this as well as all other administration measures. As a preparation for this he was sent to Washington by Gov. Johnson as one of the delegates to the national conservation congress called by President Roosevelt. The only weak point in the chain of circumstances is the constitutional provision and the senators are not generally willing to admit this is an insuperable bar.

Congressman W. S. Hammond would seem to be the logical man in the succession but the St. James statesman is casting a canny eye to the future and he sees the prospect of a hot fight in his district for the Republican nomination, and in such an event he believes he could slip under the wire for another term. Mayor J. G. Armson of Stillwater is still another possible candidate. but it is expected that the Stillwater man will be taken care of by a place either on the board of control or at the head of the tax commission.

Entitled To A Hearing

After a spirited debate yesterday the Minnesota senate refused to accept the report of the election committee recommending indefinite postponement of Snator Ole Sageng's bill calling for the submission of the question of women's suffrage to the people. The bill was referred back to the election committee.

Senator Seward and Senator Sageng championed the cause of the women yesterday, while Senator Dunn was of the opinion that the senate had settled the question of woman's suffrage two years ago and that further hearings on the question were unnecessary.

Senator Seward did not go on record as favoring women's suffrage, but he did believe in a square deal. "Yesterday you voted to allow the opponents of the tuberculin test for cattle to present their case on the floor of the senate," he said. "The interests of the women of our state are just as valuable as the health of our bull calves."

OLD TIMER HERE—O. C. Bergland a former well known resident of this city now located on a farm near Moorhead is spending a few days in the city visiting at the home of Sheriff and Mrs. Orin Daniels. He is doing well in his new location as he is one of the progressive farmers of the valley.

A JOLLY ELK — J. W. Sanness, chairman of the judiciary board of the Elks Grand Lodge, writes a letter to Mayor McPhee, which was received this morning relative to important matters of interest to the Elks. Brother Sanness is a jolly good Elk, too modest to ask for anything himself, but a host of his friends would like to see him elected as the head of the order. He is a princ of good follows in the best sense of the word.

CROOKSTON BOY DOING WELL—W. E. McWaters a former well known Crookston boy, or remembered as such tho he is now a full grown man and running an elevator for the Duluth Elevator Co., at Auburn, N. D. sends the JoJurnal a check for another year's subscription to the Journal, as he cannot get along without the news from his home city. Many friends will be glad to learn that he is doing well, having done an exceptionally well during the last season. Like other Crookston boys, he is making good.

MANY SUCCESSFUL MEETINGS—Rev. Hedegaard has just returned from a very successful trip to St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and surrounding country where he held many meetings to further the cause of the American Sunday School Union. He has resigned his position and will retire March 1st. He may remain in this territory however as a pastor of one of the rural churches in this section or as traveling evangelist, but has not yet thoroly made up his mind. Rev. Hedegaard can be reached by phone 403 L.

HAS PUZZLEITIS—A well known farmer of western Polk county is in a peck of trouble. He writes to Mayor McPhee that his wife has "puzleitis" on the brain. She spends half her time trying to work out the puzzles published in a well known daily published in the twin cities. So absorbed in the puzzle proposition is the lady referred to that her husband tiptoes into the house at mealtime, and if there is nothing in sight to eat he takes to the barnyard again. The situation is critical and Mayor McPhee fears a tragedy may yet be enacted in the near future.

PLEASED WITH COLLEGE—Wm. Street one of the well known farmers of Beltrami who formerly resided near Crookston spent yesterday here attending to some business matters with S. L. Collins, the pioneer liveryman on North Main street who knows every farmer within 50 miles of Crookston, and also called on his son who is attending the Crookston School of Agriculture. Mr. Street is highly pleased with the work being done at the school and paid a high compliment to Prof. and Mrs. Robertson, Principal Harrington, Miss Woodruff and other instructors.

GLAD TO GET BACK—Matt Skala the big general merchant of Red Lake Falls who set the pace for all northern Minnesota by establishing a rule to buy anything and everything the farmers have to sell from a hide to the whole animal and from an onion to a thousand bushels of potatoes, was in the city yesterday morning enroute home from a trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis where he spent a week buying stock and doing a little missionary work among the legislators. He says he is glad to get back and get away from real winter weather.

BACK FROM THE "BUSH"—W. S. Lycan and Deputy Game Warden Munch returned last evening from near Kellifher where they spent a couple of days looking over a timber claim owned by W. S. Lycan on which there is valuable timber and for the cutting of a part of which Mr. Lycan concluded arrangements. They were accompanied on the trip by F. S. Lycan of Bemidji. Regarding their experiences the stories told of the trip by the three vary so widely that none of them will be published. However any one of the three could make a very good feature in any paper and more may be heard of the trip later on.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

VISITED FISHER — Alphonse Lalonde went to Fisher this morning to attend to some business matters and will return this evening.

LEFT FOR MT. CLEMENS—A. Chabot left last evening for Detroit, Mich. from where he will proceed to Mt. Clemens to take a course of baths. He will be absent several months.

DEATH AT GARDEN—Mrs. Chas. Iverson of Garden township died on Tuesday. She was 35 years of age and leaves beside her husband, several small children. Further particulars are unavailable.

MOTHER VERY ILL—Clarence Kolden and his elder brother came up from Crookston Saturday to stay over Sunday and Monday but on account of the serious illness of their mother they did not return at the time intended and are still here.—Middle River Pioneer.

ED HUMM A "HUMMER" — Ed Humm of Crookston, lodge deputy of the Modern Woodmen, was in town on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week working up new members for the Middle River lodge of that order and we are informed thad good success having secured about a dozen applications for membership.—Middle River Pioneer.

A GOOD IDEA—As a stimulous to encourage the handling of the dairy properly and profitably the Red Lake Falls creamery association will give prizes for cows producing the largest amount of butterfat in a given time. Three prizes are offered, a first prize of $25, second prize of $15, third, $10. Why not adopt the plan here.—Fertile Journal.

LEFT FOR MT. CLEMENS—Fred Simmons of the firm of Nault & Simmons, left this afternoon for Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he will spend a month in the hope that the baths will benefit his rheumatism. His many friends here trust that he will rapidly improve. He has been confined to the house for the past week and has suffered a great deal as a result.

..GOES TO HIBBING—City Attorney D. T. Collins of East Grand Forks passed thru Crookston this morning enroute to Hibbing where he will arrange for the opening of his new office in that city. Mr. Collins expects to begin work in Hibbing by March 1, but his connection with the office in East Grand Forks will make frequent visits here necessary.

ENJOYED CONVENTION— Robert Cram, who has been in the cities attending the groceryman's convention during the past few days returned this morning and reports a fine meeting with a large attendance and some excellent papers and discussions. Henry Francis who went down Monday evening also, will be back in the morning.

G. N. EMPLOYE DEAD—Fred Fitzgerald died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at a Grand Forks hospital where he had been ill for ten days. He was 22 years old. He is survived by his mother and two brothers, John of Grand Forks and James of Fargo and tow sisters, Mrs. Charles Leeson and Pearl of Grand Forks. He had been employed by the Great Northern in the train service out of Grand Forks and was a faithful and popular employe.

WILL HAVE TO STAND TRIAL—Wa-we-ya-coming, an Indian residing on the White Earth reservation who killed another Indian with a spade, will have to stand trial for murder in the first degree. The supreme court so decided last week when it refused to pass on the question as to the legality of the organization of Mahnomen county. Friends interfered to the extent of bringing quo warranto proceedings to test the validity of the grand jury which brought in the indictment.

MRS. MURPHY'S FUNERAL—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Murphy was held from the Sacred Heart church at East Grand Forks yesterday morning Father Conaty officiating. The auditorium of the church was filled with friends and relatives of the deceased who was one of the pioneer residents of the city and was loved and respected by all who knew her. The pall bearers were: J. R. Poupore, H. P. Ryan, Mayor Hugh Dunlevy, H. P. Gies, John Liston, and Charles Wurzbacher.

JUDGE BROWN WITH G. N.—Frederick V. Brown judge of the fourth judicial district court at Minneapolis who resigned recently from the bench has entered the employ of the Great Northern road as counsel. He will have charge of the legal business of the Great Northern in the states of Washington and Idaho, with headquarters at Seattle. Judge Brown has not yet completed arrangements with regard to his new residence, but it is probable that his Minneapolis home at 2117 Kenwood parkway, will be given up and that he will become a resident of the Pacific coast shortly after March 1, on which the Great Northern appointment becomes effective.

LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON — Ald. J. C. Sherlock of East Grand Forks leaves this evening for Washington D. C. where he will be one of the mounted aids in the grand inaugural parade to be held March 4. Mr. Sherlock intends to spend a day in St Paul enroute and then proceed at once to Washington. Congressman Steenerson who tendered the appointment to T. A. Sullivan of that city has been in touch with Mr. Sherlock by letter and the genial alderman has been well informed as to what will be expected of him. The honor connected with the affair is no small one and East Grand Forks feels rather proud of its representation at an inaugural which promises to be by far the most elaborate ever attempted in the history of the United States.

INFORMATION WANTED— Chief of Police Lang is in receipt of a letter from George Peterson clerk of the district court of Pembina county, North Dakota, inquiring as to the whereabouts of Garret F. Cowan or any member of his family and is willing to pay a reasonable price to anyone who will furnish the information. Mr. Cowan was an old soldier and formerly conducted a confectionery store in this city, selling out to N. W. Tarrant eleven years ago and going up to Shotley Brook in the Red Lake country where he took a pine claim. From there he left for the west and no one here, so far as known has heard from him since then.—Thief River Falls News.

THE HOME GAME—If people were forced to stay at home once they would find it great sport. A family in Kincaid, Kan., was quarantined and the head of the house published this card of thanks: "We wish to thank the city authorities for quarantining me and my family for two weeks recently because one of the children had the smallpox. During that time my wife caught up with her sewing, undisturbed by callers. We had three square meals a day and no one came in and my wife was not permitted to go out. We enjoyed two weeks of good, long nights' sleep and, best of all, a cousin with four children arrived to visit us saw the sign on the door and left town so scared that she will never come back again. I wish to thank the city authorities and hope they will think of our comfort some time again." This is only a humorous view of the old poem, "Homekeeping hearts are happiest." Settle down and look around the old shack some day. There are conditions and things in the attic and basement that may surprise you.— A. J. R. in Minneapolis Journal. It does not cut any figure, either, whether it is smallpox or scarlet fever.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY—Edward W. Savage has been named as the representative of the American Sndiuay school Union to succeed Rev. Samuel Hedegaard who has been stationed here for the past year. Rev. Hedegaard has been very active and has accomplished a vast amount of good work. He has made many friends who are in hopes that he will decide to remain in this section.

THAT "KILTER" GAME—There is more fun than a litle about the city regarding that "kilter" game. A whole lot of people think it is identical with poker. Chief Eck says it is the same thing with the exception that the "Jack" is the "kilter". Another party says that it was the kilter that "kilt him" instead of kilter. Those who have already played the game appreciate the joke.

WILL TAKE BRIDE WEST—Henry Nelson accompanied by his bride is spending a couple of days in the city with relatives an difriends. He was formerly a resident of Lowell township where he resided on a farm with his father, but left three years ago for North Yakima. He was married on Wednesday last to a well known young lady of Wheatland N. D., and tomorrow they will leave for North Yakima where they will make their future home. The many friends of the young couple here will extend most hearty congratulations. Chief of Police Eck is a warm friend of the groom and is showing them the sights of the city today.

The funeral of Alice Lundberg was held this afternoon at 2:30 from the Chesterman Chapel. Owing to the distressing circumstances the services were semi-private in character. Close friends of the family gathered in sympathetic mourning while choir and pastor led the tender service. "Abide with Me," "Nearer My God to Thee" and the "Sunshine Song" used in the Congregational Primary Sunday school were rendered by a quartette: Mrs. I. B. Fisher, Mrs. C. C. Warner, Chester Warner and Lucius Miller.

A NEW CREAMERY—The Fosston creamery is planning on a new and up-to-date building and equipment.

FARMER FROM RUSSIA — Fred Baatz one of the progressive farmers of Russia township, who is served by Rural Mail Carrier No. 3, is attending to business matters in the city today. He says the Journal is the most welcome daily visitor at his farm and he pegged his subscription ahead for another year.

ANGUS REPRESENTED — J. F. Montgomery and Messrs. A. T. and J. W. Campion came down from Angus last evening to attend the meeting of Constantine Commandery and returned home this morning. They report a mos tenjoyable meeting. No fresh blood has been spilled recently at Angus.

GAME WARDENS MUNCH OF THIS CITY AND BAILEY OF BEMIDJI

MAKE IT INTERESTING FOR POACHERS—TWO MEN HEAVILY FINED

From Saturday's Daily—

Deputy Game Warden Munch returned this morning from a trip to Blackduck and Tenstrike where he made an official trip with Deputy Game Warden L. E. Bailey of Bemidji who was chief of police there for several years.

The two drove east of Tenstrike to Robedeau Lake where they arrested Stephen King changed with killing two deer on Feb. 10. He entered a plea of guilty before Judge Charles Gustafson of Tenstrike and paid a fine of $100 and costs and two fine rifles were confiscated.

The wardens then went to Blackduck where Knute Fullerton was arrested for buying moose meat and Judge L. F. Parker of that place fined him $50 and costs which was paid.

Deputy Warden Bailey is making good and his 8 years' service as chief of police is standing him in good stead in his new position.

A FARMERS INSTITUTE

FARMERS' NISTITUTE HAS BEEN PLANNED FOR EAST GRAND FORKS MARCH 13

NOTABLE AUTHORITIES ON FARMING ON THAT DATE TO TALK TO FARMERS OF POLK

From Thursday's Daily— ...

As a result of the persistent and untiring efforts of G. R. Jacobi, cashier of the First National Bank of E, Grand Forks backed up by the Commercial club, East Grand Forks is to have the first farmers' institute in the history of the city on March 13. Sec. McNicol of the Commercial club received a letter yesterday morning from the authorities of the farm school in charge of the holding of institutes in the different towns of the state for the benefit of farmers, stating that a meeting would be held in this city on that date if agreeable. Last fall when the state farm school started this work, Mr. Jacobi began his efforts to secure an institute meeting for East Grand Forks as diversified farming and the raising of stock is one of his hobbies and he was ably assisted in his efforts by the Commercial club.

Three notable authorities of the state on farming subjects will be the speakers of the afternoon. Horace Henry one of the most noted men in the northwest in this line, will have charge of the meeting. Mr. Henry is a recognized authority on the raising of clover. C. O. Carlson of Erskine, who operates one of the most successful dairy farms in the state of Minnesota, will give the farmers who attend some valuable pointers on his special line of business. The third speaker of the day will be Mr. Lambertson of Warren.

Saturday the 13th will be one of the big days in the history of East Grand Forks and the Commercial club proposes to make the meeting such a success that it will be an annual affair. According to present plans dinner will be served all farmers who attend free of charge, and the institute will be opened immediately after the dinner in Keller's hall. The Commercial club will send out 800 letters to farmers in Polk county and will see that all who take advantage of these invitations are well taken care of. It is expected that not only farmers in the immediate vicinity of the city but for many miles around will be on hand to hear the speakers.

Of late years the farmers' institute has become a valuable auxiliary of the agricultural colleges and farm schools of the country in disseminating information which farmers should have to be more successful. In this way the results of experiments with grains, the value of crop rotation, and the advantages of diversified farming are brought home to the present day farmer in a way which is bound to mean more money in his pocket and consequently greater prosperity for the country. The future generation of farmers are learning all this in the farm schools of the country, but the only method of informing their fathers is by bulletins and by farmers' institutes.

TOM MAHER FOUND GUILTY OF ARSON

STAY OF SIXTY DAYS GRANTED IN CASE AT INTERNATIONAL FALLS

In the case of the state against Thomas and George Maher who were charged with setting fire to the Axdahl warehouse at Big Falls a year ago the jury found Tom Maher guilty after a trial at International Falls. He has been sentenced to the state reformatory at St. Cloud but a stay of sixty days has been granted, as his attorney intends to argue a motion for a new trial.

The case against George Maher has been continued until the next term of the Koochiching county court in July.

Small Johnny had on his best clothes, and his mamma told him not to play in the dirt with them on.

"Don't they have any dirt in heaven to play in?" he asked.

"No, of course not," replied his mother.

"Then what do little boys do up there?" queried Johnny.

"Oh, they play harps and sing and sit under beautiful trees," was the reply

"Well," said the little fellow. "I don't see how they can have trees if there ain't [illegible] dirt."—Houston Post.

LIQUOR DEALERS ARE CAUTIONED

AGAINST SELLING TO THE HALF BREED OR INDIAN—EXPRESS CO.'S TAKE NOTICE

EVERY PACKAGE SHOULD BE MARKED AGAINST DELIVERY TO INDIANS

From Thursday's Daily—

The express companies are sitting up and taking notice of the difficulties that surround the carrying of packages of liquor to such points as Walker Bemidji and Detroit, Minn., and to points on the Jamestown & Northern and to Mandan, N. D., all being points adjacent to Indian reservations. The danger is not so much in carrying the stuff as in delivering it to a half breed or an Indian. The federal law is very strict upon this point and it is being strenuously enforced. Such a heavy penalty attaches to delivering packages containing liquor to Indians or half breeds that the express companies have cautioned all shippers to paste upon every package of liquor this legend: "This package contains liquor and must not be delivered to a minor, half breed or Indian."

Some of the liquor houses have been doing this very thing for the past year; they have done their best to avoid shipping to Indians but in cases in the past the express agents who have been negligent in observing the notice attached to the packages and have thereby gotten the dealers into trouble.

HOWELLS IS FINE SPEAKER

FIRST VISITED CROOKSTON 12 YEARS AGO AS AN N. P. SURVEYOR

From Thursday's Daily— ...

A lively company of young people greeted Mr .Howell last evening at the Presbyterian church. He very promptly won everybody by his good nature and practical sense. A dozen years ago he visited Crookston as a member of a Northern Pacific surveying party and he spoke of changes he noted in the place.

As a Christian Endeavor worker he gave a fine exposition of the true spirit and purpose of the Society and by questions drew out some of the local difficulties and suggested remedies for the same.

Altogether it was a real treat to meet and hear Secretary Howell, and those who failed to share last night's conference are distinctly losers and ought by all means to take advantage of tonight's opportunity.

This evening he speaks at the Congregational church. His address will be for everybody and deals with the wonderful modern young people's movement in its world-wide spread and efficiency. It is an inspiring subject and it is safe to say that Sec. Howell will handle it in an inspiring way. He is just returning from filling an appointment at the Provincial convention at Winnipeg, Manitoba. This indicates his standing as a speaker. Remember too that his message will be of equal interest to everybody whether in church or out of it and regardless of denominational relations.

The address will be at eight o'clock free to all.

DEATH ENTERS LUNDBERG HOME

LITTLE ALICE LUNDBERG DIED IN ST. PAUL OF TYPHOID-PNEUMONIA

Late yesterday afternoon the news was received here by Geo. Hamery thru a telegram of the death of little Alice Lundberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Lundberg.

Mrs. Lundberg went to the cities on a visit and the little girl was taken ill with scarlet fever and Mr. Lundberg was called there several days ago by her critical condition. Later typhoid-pneumonia developed and the end came yesterday.

The deceased was 8 years of age, and a very bright and winsome little girl, beloved by all who knew her. The remains will arrive tomorrow morning and the funeral services will probably be held Saturday but definite announcement will be made tomorrow in the Journal.

The sympathy of the entire community will go out to the bereaved parents.

THE FARMERS ARE INVITED

SECRETARY BROWN ISSUING INVITATIONS FOR SOCIETY OF EQUITY MEETING

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL GIVE THEM MOST CORDIAL GREETING

Secretary Brown of the Commercial Club is today having printed invitations to the farmers of Polk Co., to attend the meeting called for March 11, Thursday by the American Society of Equity. While the 25,000 Club is not taking an active part in furthering the organization, Secretary Brown was instructed by the Commercial Club members to extend a cordial invitation to all farmers to visit Crookston on that date and assure them that they would be heartily welcomed and the circular outlines the entertainment that will be afforded them.

There will be prominent speakers present, all visitors will be given a fine dinner and a free ride to the School of Agriculture and return.

GROSS EARNINGS SHOW A LOSS

FIGURES OF RAILROADS IN MINNESOTA INDICATE SHRINKAGE OF $10,000,000

The railroads of Minnesota lost heavily in their gross earnings last year as compared with 1907. There was something like a shrinkage of $10,000,000 in the total earnings of the roads which is attributed to the financial depression.

In 1908 the Great Northern cleared $19,649,762.71, while in 1907 the gross earnings were $22,952,896.92. The taxes for 1908 amounted to $785,990.51 which is more than $200,000 over the nearest competitor, the Northern Pacific which pays $532,988.09 on its gross earnings of $13,324,702.35.

This Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is the third road in the matter of earnings. The road cleared $10,228,610.39 in 1908, but in the preceding year it showed a decrease of $1,000,000.

DIFFERENT STYLES.

How Meredith and Browning Might Describe the Same Incident.

If Browning and George Meredith were describing the same act they might both be obscure, but their obscurities would be entirely different. Suppose, for instance, they were describing even so prosaic and material an act as a man being knocked downstairs by another man to whom he had given the lie. Meredith's description would refer to something which an ordinary observer would not see or at least could not describe. It might be a sudden sense of anarchy in the brain of the assaulter or a stupefaction and stunned serenity in that of the object of the assault.

He might write: "Wainwood's 'men vary in veracity' brought the baronet's arm up. He felt the doors of his brain burst and Wainwood a swift rushing of himself through air, accompanied with a clarity as of the annihilated."

Meredith, in other words, would speak queerly because he was describing queer mental experiences. But Browning might simply be describing the material incident of the man being knocked downstairs, and his description would run:

What then? "You lie" and doormat below stairs
Takes bump from back.

This is not subtlety, but merely a kind of insane swiftness.—Gilbert K. Chesterton.

A Religious Author's Statement

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy."

A DOUBLE DECK BED

ANGUS FARMER DOES STUNT IN VERY INTENSIFIED FARMING

CONVERTS OLD-FASHIONED BEDSTEAD INTO A TWO-DECKER

From Wednesday's Daily—

A travelling man who visited Angus yesterday called at the Journal office today and told of an instance there of a farmer believed in making every inch of space count. It seems that a lady there who is about to leave had a fine old-fashioned bedstead which she did not want to take with her.

She gave it to a neighbor, and as it was of the wooden variety and with high head and foot-board he decided to make a double decker. He did so, and now the inventive father with his son sleep on the hurricane deck and the mother and daughter sleep on the lower deck.

THE MEASLES CANNIBAL.

Method of a Vancouver Island Tribe to Drive Away Disease.

A few years ago an epidemic of measles broke out among the Indian tribes living on Vancouver island, in British Columbia, not far from Fort Rupert, and the shamans or medicine men came to the conclusion that a cannibal sorcerer, whom they termed the "hamatsu" (measles cannibal), was slaying their children to eat them and that he would continue to do so until he was killed.

As they could not slay a ghost in his own person they arranged a ceremony in which one of their number posed as the cannibal and was treated as they would have liked to treat the real foe. This fact of a substitute was, of course, not made public, only the medicine men knowing the truth of the matter.

Against a wall of rock was painted an imitation opening, in the center of which the "cannibal" was fastened. At the proper time, after going through various incantations, a covering was jerked away, exposing the cannibal apparently springing through the solid rock. He was promptly grasped by two of the priests, who dragged him out and rushed him through a fire which was burning in front of the place and which was surrounded by all the members of the tribe beating drums and singing at the top of their voices. By some jugglery the cannibal was got rid of, and the people were told that he had flown away through the air and would not come back.

After this ceremony had been repeated several times to put an end to other epidemics, which were only too prevalent among the Indians, it grew into a sort of annual affair, managed by the members of a secret society whose members know that the supposed "hamatsu" was only a man.—Scientific American.

Punishment In Effigy.

Punishment in effigy was legally practiced in France and with great solemnity up to the time of the first revolution. If the man condemned escaped, a dummy was put up in his cell and the entire routine of the law allowed to take its course. The warrant was read to it, and on the day appointed it was conducted to the scaffold in the presence of all the legal functionaries and with all the circumstance of the law. Sometimes the same person was executed in effigy simultaneously in several cities, but that did not exempt him from actual punishment should he be afterward caught.

STATE SENATORS CALL IT ONLY DEVICE OF KIND IN THE WORLD

From Wednesday's Daily—

In the last issue of the Daily Oregon Statesman, the biggest paper published in that state there is an item relative to Nat Campbell ex-mayor of Crookston, which will be read with interest here. He left Crookston several years ago and located in Portland Oregon where he organized Campbell's Automatic Safety Gas Burner Co., for the manufacture of an invention of his brother Victor. The company was capitalized at $500,000. Relative to the company the Oregon Statesman published at Salem, Oregon says in a recent issue under the caption "Bad for Public but Good for Company, Legislature Admits Campbell Co., has the only Practicable Shut-off Device."

"The bill that passed the house, requiring automatic gas cut-offs in public buildings in Oregon, failed to pass the senate, for the reason, as stated in the speeches of several of the members of the upper house, that it would create a monopoly, in favor of the Campbell automatic device.

"There is no other perfect automatic cut-off device in the world, declared Senator Kay and some of the other members of that branch of the legislature; therefore the passing of the bill would create a complete monopoly in favor of the Campbell device.

"This was unfortunate for the general public, which ought to be protected against the dangers from explosions and asphyxiation; but it was a great advertisement for the Campbell device and the stock of the company owning this device is largely held in Salem. Some of the best business men of the Capital City are stockholders.

"The Campbell Automatic Safety Gas Burner Co., the company owning the patent, has a factory for its manufacturing at Twenty-second and Thurman streets in Portland and it is a very active concern.

"It would appear that the stockholders of this concern has something that is going to grow into a great concern to rank with the air brake and other devices that are already and are bound to be adopted for the protection of life and property."

WAGNER MADE IT HOT.

The Composer's Trick When Money and Firewood Were Scarce.

Here is an anecdote of Wagner's early life as related by Liszt: "Wagner, Bulow and I were all quite young when we lived together in Leipzig and had a good time—that is, I enjoyed myself, but Wagner was already fermenting with his political and philosophical ideas, and our prosaic circumstances offered little ground for the idealists of the future. We called Bulow 'Kritikus,' and we, especially I, always feared his sharp tongue a little. Of course all of us had little money, but Wagner put our slender purse to great strains. He could not bear money worries, and we let him feel them as little as possible.

"Once, after a long autumn, it became cold suddenly, and Wagner with his 'nerves' suffered from the sudden change in the temperature. He demanded a heated room at once. For two whole days the debate raged between him and Bulow as to the immediate purchase of wood with our reduced purse.

"I was not asked, because Bulow knew that I would yield, but he as treasurer contended that it was ridiculous to buy wood in the month of September. 'But I am freezing,' said Wagner in a rage, to which the inexorable Bulow suggested that he go out and get warm by running or warm himself by his muse. Laughing at his cheap, spiteful advice, Bulow and I went out, but when we returned after two hours we were thunderstruck to find Wagner in the room heated to suffocation. He sat at his writing table deep in his work. His face was red.

"'Where'— began Bulow, but the words stuck in his throat, for a glance around the room showed him how Wagner had helped himself. Several chairs and our work tables lay on the floor, permanently crippled. Wagner had cut off their legs and made the fire with them. Bulow was speechless with rage, but I stood at the door and laughed till the tears came at this ingenious way of helping oneself. Bulow lamented that we would have to replace the landlady's chairs and tables and that he could not sit down or work.

"Wagner answered spitefully: 'I have what I needed! Fellows like you, who do nothing but go walking, need neither chairs nor tables. If you had given me the money right off, your valuable furniture would still be in existence. You wished it so! Firewood would have been cheaper!'"

FR. J. F. GREENE LAID TO REST

MEMORY OF BELOVED PRIEST OF SACRED HEART CHURCH OF E. G. FORKS

WAS HONORED YESTERDAY — MANY PRIESTS AND K. C's PACKED CHURCH

From Tuesday's Daily—

Never before in the history of East Grand Forks has there been a more widely attended or impressive funeral service than the last rites over the remains of Father James Frederick Greene conducted yesterday morning in the Sacred Heart church in that city which he served so faithfully. The body of the beloved priest was transferred from the parochial residence to the church at 4:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, where it lay in state during the evening and thru the night. Not only the members of the parish but Protestants and Catholics alike from both this city and East Grand Forks took the opportunity to look for the last time on the features of the deceased.

Church Packed

Long before the appointed time for the service 10 o'clock the large auditorium of the Sacred Heart church was taxed to its capacity with the devoted friends and parishioners of the departed leader. Many of those who could not find room in the church stood on the outside to catch if they could some part of the service. Two low masses were said before the requeim high mass, the most elaborate as well as impressive tribute to the departed. The Reverend Father Ellie Theillon was the celebrant and he was assisted by Father D. W. Lynch as deacon and Father James Hogan as sub-deacon with Father C. V. Gamache as master of ceremonies. The funeral sermon was by Father H. A. Lloyd from the text "Blessed are the dead that die in the fear of the Lord." The sermon was an eloquent tribute to the deceased and his work in this city and will long be remembered by all who heard it, as a sermon of wonderful power and beautiful thought.

A Notable Gathering

Such a distinguished gathering as never before was seen in the Sacred Heart church. Special reservations were made in the large edifice for seating the 19 visiting priests, over 100 Knights of Columbus and a large delegation of Catholic Foresters, and every available inch of space, including the aisles was packed with parishioners and friends from Grand Forks and East Grand Forks and other places.

In Requeim Mass Vestments

The remains of the departed priest were clad in the Requeim High Mass vestments but even in this familiar setting the features wasted by long, tho patient suffering, were so wan as to be hardly recognizable by visiting friends who had not seen Father Greene during his last illness.

The honorary pall-bearers were T. A. Sullivan, Mayor Hugh Dunlevy, H. P. Gies, Joseph Driscoll, F. W. Kolars and I. Kingman. A large concourse of people, including a hundred representatives of the Knights of Columbus followed the casket to the depot. A large number of members of Knights of Columbus of Crookston were over to attend the funeral, Father Greene having been a member of the Crookston lodge and Grand Forks was also well represented, Catholics and Protestants alike joined in doing this honor to the deceased and followed the remains to the depot on foot.

Schools and Stores Closed

The city was given over entirely to the service during the morning and many of the business houses complying with the request of Mayor Dunlevy. The schools were closed and altho no children were allowed in the church, they took part in the exercises which followed.

Many Priests Present

The following priests were in attendance: Fathers D. W. Lynch, Duluth; M. William Proctor, Eveleth; C. V. Gamache, Hibbing; Ellie Theillon, Gentilly; S. Veulleux, Terrebonne C. Marsonnat, Crookston; L. M. Bosseau, Argyle; James Hogan, Virginia; H. A. Floyd, Eveleth; T. Filiatreault, St. Boniface College, Winnipeg; G. W. Smiers, Crookston; Patrick J. Killen, Coleraine; J. S. O'Dwyer, Bemidji Joseph Wurm, Aitkin; G. C. Bachland St. Michael's hospital, Grand Forks; Simpson, Larimore; Connaty, Grand Gorks; A. Tapin, Crookston.

The choir was composed of the following: Mrs. H. Burton, Mrs. F. Tessier, Mrs. George Buckley, Ed Enright P. Tessier, Fred Craig, H. Monley, Hazel Burton, Lila Craig and Mrs. R. E. Austin.

An Impressive Cortege

The casket was carried from the Sacred Heart church to the Northern Pacific and the cortege was a most impressive one. The visiting priests headed the procession, marching four abreast and the Knights of Columbus and Foresters followed in similar formation, with citizens and others following, the procession being the longest ever seen in East Grand Forks afoot, and probably the largest ever held in the Northwest anywhere.

Remains Shipped East

The remains were shipped to Naugatuck, Conn., the home of several of the deceased's relatives on the N. P. passing thru Crookston yesterday afternoon and were accompanied this far by many priests and the local delegation of the Knights of Columbus.

They were also accompanied by the brother and sister of the departed priest John and Mary Greene, and by his cousins Miss May McLoughlin and Patrick Duffey.

The Crookston Delegation

The officers of the local council of the Knights of Columbus Messrs. J. J. Flynn, N. B. Moran, James O'Brien and Allan McKinnon acted as relay pallbearers and among the delegation from the local K. C's. were Father Smiers, N. B. Moran, J. E. O'Brien, J. W. O'Brien, A. J. McKinnon, A. McKinnon, John Naughtin, A. D. Dufault, Dan Hughes, Henry Welte, Dr. Norman, John Driscoll, R. J. Montague, F. R. Hamel, John Laughlin, J. J. Flynn and M. E. Kirsch.

SAM SUTOR GETTING EVEN

CASS LAKE HOTEL MAN WAS THE VICTIM OF FAKE HORSE RACE

TO THE TUNE OF FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS—WELL KNOWN HERE

From Wednesday's Daily—

A special telegram from St. Paul to the Duluth News-Tribune says:

"Samuel Sutor, of Cass Lake, Minn., who was one of those recently swindled by the gang recently exposed at Little Rock, Ark., passed thru St. Paul this evening on his way to Council Bluffs, where he will appear against J. C. Maybray and others who are charged by the government with perpetrating the gigantic swindle. Sutor says he lost $5,000 on a fake horse race at Council Bluffs more than a year ago."

Rumor has it that Sutor, who is a prominent hotel man at Cass Lake, was "taken in" to the amount of not less than $5,000 by the "sharks" who have been "getting" nearly every sporting man of prominence in the country.

Sutor has said but little of his loss but has waited for the "easy money" gentry to get in limbo; and he will undoubtedly derive considerable satisfaction in testifying as to how they got his money and thereby assist in sending the "conners" to the penitentiary.

Sutor is well known in Crookston, having formerly been located at Fosston for years and it is hoped here that he will be able not only to assist in sending the swindlers to jail, but that he will also get back some of his money.

"My three year old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in an awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Orino Laxative and the next morning the fever was gone and he was entirely well. Foley's Orino Laxative saved his life." A. Wolkush, Casimer, Wis.

POPULAR OUTCRY HELPS ROWE BILL

PUBLIC HEALTH COMMITTEE IMPRESSED BY OPPOSITION TO PROPOSED PACKING PLANT

MAY MAKE BLIND REPORT — NO RECOMMENDATION IS POSSIBLE

From Wednesday's Daily—

The St. Paul Dispatch of yesterday says:

The popular demonstration before the house committee on public health in the matter of the Rowe packing house project, yesterday afternoon, has already had beneficial results.

Word was brought to members of the Ramsey county delegation today that there had been a decided change of front in the committee, and instead of reporting the Rowe bill out for indefinite postponement a report turning the bill over to the house without recommendation was among the possibilities.

This action one member of the committee said, would have been taken yesterday afternoon, following the hearing, if there had not been objections from several who advised that they wait a few days. Prior to the meeting, the committee, with the possible exception of three, was against the bill.

Minneapolis members today were busy checking up the house members on the Rowe bill and at the close, claimed sufficient to kill the measure. Those in charge however, among them Frank Nimocks would not show the checked lists.

St. Louis county, it was reported, had considered the matter and had decided to split its vote of six between the two cities. The Duluth men fear retaliation if sides are taken by them. Outside of the Ramsey and Hennepin county delegations, the Rowe bill is not regarded in the light of a measure over which they should become excited and naturally most of the country members, with axes to grind, are seeking to play with the majority which in this case is Hennepin. It has more votes in the house than Ramsey county.

Alumni of the state university over the state are writing letters to the country members. They all protest against the close proximity of the plant to the university, and their objections are having some weight.

WILL BANQUET GOV. JOHNSON

MINNESOTA CLUB BUSY AT SPOKANE — A. C. CLAUSEN PRESIDENT

April 16 Gov. Johnson will visit Spokane and deliver an address in that city. Members of the Minnesota club of which A. C. Clausen formerly of Crookston is president, will entertain the governor at a banquet that evening and it is expected that there will be 1,000 banqueters at the tables. Governor Johnson will meet many former Minnesota people while in Spokane and residents of the Inland Empire are preparing to give him "the time of his life" while a visitor there.

"If you could take your choice, wha would you have to eat every day?"

"Well, suh, I 'spects I'd have chicken foh breakfus an' watermelon foh dinner."

"And what would you have for supper?"

"Lawsy, boss, I didn't know you was gwinter stint me. I 'spected dat watermelon to be 'nuff to las' till bedtime!"—Washington Star.

STEAMER IS SUNK IN A COLLISION

Historical Society

All on Board Saved Before Ship Goes Down.

OTHER VESSEL DAMAGED

Latter Is Bound From New York to Boston, but Finding She Is Likely to Sink Runs Ashore on Cape Cod. Rescued Passengers of the Lost Steamer Taken Off by a Lifesaving Crew.

Boston, March 11.—In a collision in Nantucket sound the Eastern Steamship line steamer Horatio Hall was rammed and sunk by the Metropolitan line steamer H. F. Dimock. The Hall kept afloat long enough to flash news of the accident by wireless to shore points and to enable the Dimock to take off all on board, including a few passengers and a crew numbering about forty. The Dimock, which was bound from New York for Boston, resumed her course after the accident, but, finding that she was likely to sink, ran ashore six hours later off Orleans, on the eastern shore of Cape Cod.

Ten persons, including the passengers of the Horatio Hall and one of the officers of the Dimock, have been brought ashore by the Orleans lifesaving crew.

The Hall cost $450,000 and is a sister ship of the United States hospital ship Relief, which was the John Englis of the Maine Steamship line.

PEDESTRIANS IN BAD SHAPE

Limping Around Track in Six-Day Contest.

New York, March 11.—Painfully limping over the sawdust covered clay and cinder track the surviving pedestrians in the six-day go-as-you-please race in Madison Square Garden are reduced to eleven and a half teams. Louis Semeran of Brooklyn, who for the second time since the race started was without a partner, composed the half team.

The Frenchmen, Cibot and Orphee, seemed to possess an inexhaustible store of energy and had a lead of over sixteen miles on Davis and Metkus, a reconstructed team. Davis and Metkus in turn were nine miles in front of the Irish-pair, Feegan and Curtis, who have made heroic efforts during the last twenty-four hours to get to the front.

HEAVY RAIN CAUSES FLOOD

Montgomery, Ala., March 11.—Five persons were drowned in the Alabama river here in the rising waters which followed a severe storm. Three whites and a negro were drowned from a ferry and William Dillard, a white boy, playing near the river bank, fell in and was drowned.

The rain storm was the heaviest here in twenty years. Five and a half inches fell in a little more than five hours.

STIRLING FREE FROM HIS AMERICAN WIFE

Decree in Sensational Divorce Case at Edinburgh.

Edinburgh, March 11.—The sensational Stirling divorce suits were decided by Lord Guthrie, who granted the husband's petition, awarded him the custody of his children and denied the cross petition of Mrs. Stirling.

John Alexander Stirling, laird of Kippondaire, was married three years ago to Clara Elizabeth Taylor, an American show girl, who came from New Jersey. Last fall cross suits for divorce were filed, Mr. Stirling naming Lord Northland and Mrs. Stirling naming Mrs. Atherton as co-respondents.

COPYRIGHT 1908, CLINEDINST, WASH. D.C.

MRS. JOHN A. STIRLING.

In giving his judgment Lord Guthrie said the case had no legal interest and that it should not have any public interest. Most of the evidence had been taken up with the petty questions of selfish and idle lives, which contained little or nothing romantic and little that was even mock heroic. Mr. Stirling, he said, in meeting Mrs. Atherton had welcomed an introduction he should have shunned. Continuing, Lord Guthrie discredited the idea of a plot to get rid of Mrs. Stirling by forcing her to a guilty affection for Northland, but he thought her letters to Lord Northland were indicative of guilty relations.

Lord Northland's counsel immediately gave notice of an appeal. Both Lord Northland and Mrs. Stirling were present in court when the decision was rendered.

DISORDERS AT ONCE BEGIN

Lower House of Austrian Parliament Reassembles.

Vienna, March 11.—The lower house of the Austrian parliament, which closed in disorder Feb. 5 after a scene of extraordinary turbulence arising from the old antagonism between the Germans and the Czechs, reopened with every promise of a continuance of the disorders. The galleries of the house were crowded with partisans of the two factions and immediately the ministers appeared hostile shouts thundered from the Czech and Radical benches, drowning the cheers of the members of the Left party and the Poles. Premier von Bienerth, amid an incessant tumult, declared the nineteenth session opened, saying he hoped the work would be crowned with success and the proceedings not disturbed. His statement sounded ironical in face of the unbroken uproar.

MINERS STILL ENTOMBED

Frequent Slides Prevent Rescue of Two Men at Salt Lake City.

Salt Lake City, March 11.—The rescue of George and Jerry Peterson, who have been entombed in a tunnel of the St. Patrick mine for the past forty hours, has not yet been effected. The rescue party is encountering great difficulty on account of frequent slides, due to the looseness of the surrounding ground.

Air and nourishment is still furnished the imprisoned men through the two-inch iron pipe.

UP TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

Question of Assigning Marines to Duty on Warships Only.

Washington, March 11.—Marines may not be reassigned to duty on battleships and armored cruisers despite the recent provision of congress that money appropriations for the maintenance of the marine corps must not be used unless the marines are aboard the warships. Secretary of the Navy Meyer has asked the opinion of the attorney general regarding the constitutionality of the restoration provision.

BAILEY CALLS ON TAFT

Texas Senator at White House for Second Time in His Life.

Washington, March 11.—Senator Bailey of Texas came to the White House for the second time in his life, he said, the first time being many years ago.

"I called simply to pay my respects to President Taft. He is a delightful personality."

Senator Bailey's visit was brief.

BILL TO ABOLISH HANGING KILLED

VOTE ON THE MEASURE IN THE HOUSE IS CLOSE — ELOQUENT PLEA FOR THE BILL—MADE BY REPRESENTATIVE MACKENZIE OF GAYLORD, WHO URGED THAT THE STATE SHOULD ABOLISH ITS BARBARIC POWER OF TAKING HUMAN LIFE—MANAGER ADMITS AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY WAS HELD TO BE A TRUST IN TEXAS

St. Paul, March 10.—The house killed Representative Bendixen's bill for the abolishment of capital punishment. The vote was close, however—35 to 31—and the attendance was light.

G. A. Mackenzie of Gaylord made an eloquent plea for the bill. He urged that the state should abolish its barbaric power of taking human life. The word "whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed," were written when only the faintest light of moral civilization had illuminated the intellect of man. He believed this law was abrogated when the Nazarene commanded men to love one another.

F. T. White of Elk River reminded the house of how the Younger brothers got out of prison and said that one of them is now running a vadeville show exploiting their crimes and how Tracey broke out of prison and left a trail of blood over the states of Oregon and Washington. Burdette Thayer of Spring Valley said that if there is no capital punishment, mobs would be more likely to lynch criminals. Others who spoke against the bill were G. H. Mattson of Roseau, C. J. Swendsen of St. James and R. F. Grant of Duluth.

Recommended for Passage.

The house committee on express, telegraph and electric lines recommended for passage the Zelch and Anderson bill which will apportion the gross earnings tax received from suburban electric lines among the towns through which the lines pass. In its present form the proportion each town, village or city gets will be based on the value of the company's property in that town. The recent decision that suburban lines are common carriers would give the state the whole tax unless this bill is passed.

The bills relating to women suffrage were reported without recommendation by the house committee on elections. One is the J. N. Johnson bill to submit to the men voters the question of whether the women shall vote and the other is A. K. Ware's bill to let the women vote on the question of whether they want the right of suffrage.

By a vote of 24 to 23 the senate committee of the whole adopted an amendment proposed by Frank Clague of Lamberton so amending the Cass Lake normal school bill that the state normal board is given authority to locate the new normal school in the northwestern part of the state. Having suffered this defeat, the supporters of Cass Lake retrieved their lost by excepting the report on S. F. No 53 from the report of the committee of the whole. This has the effect of leaving the Cass Lake bill on the desk and a motion will be necessary to restore it to general orders. It is, however, the amended bill which is on the desk, the non-acceptance of the report on the bill from the committee of the whole not having the effect of killing the amendment.

Arguing that if green cabbages are sold by the pound, that cigars should be also, Senator V. B. Seward of Marshall tried to carry a motion to kill the bill of Senator J. W. Pauly of Minneapolis relating to the selling of vegetables by weight. The fight was sharp and will be renewed.

Senator E. S. Durment of St. Paul introduced his second employers' liability bill. This reduces the maximum amount of damages from $25,000 to $15,000 for the loss of both feet and both hands. This bill also eliminates the employers' liability for negligence of the workmen.

The senate committee on commerce and trade reported the peddlers' license bill for passage.

That the American Book company not long since was indicted in Texas and convicted of being in an unlawful combination and fined $15,000, was brought out in the legislative investigation of the methods of book publishers in Minnesota. W. M. Morton Chicago manager for the American Book company, admitted on the stand that his company, formerly organized under the laws of New Jersey, now under the laws of New York, was fined $15,000 under the Texas indictment and driven from the state. The company is doing business in Texas now, though under its New York charter.

Dealing with book values, Mr. Morton said that Minnesota was getting its school books, which he estimated would cost $1,000,000 to replace today, as cheaply as any other state cost per pupil being considered.

He denied absolutely and unequivocally the statements, implied and direct, that the American Book company was in combination with any other book company or that it had any subsidiary concerns.

ASK FOE TO ADDRESS THEM

Chicago Prohibitionists Have Anti-Dry Man as Guest of Honor.

Chicago, March 11.—Chicago Prohibitionists made a unique move in inviting to their annual banquet, to be held tonight, one of their opponents. The unusual guest of honor is Clarence S. Darrow, the famous lawyer and author, whose part in the programme will be a speech against prohibition.

The subsequent proceedings will partake partially of the nature of a joint debate. Reply to Mr. Darrow will be made by Oliver W. Stewart, former chairman of the national committee of the Prohibition party; W. P. F. Ferguson, editor of the National Prohibitionist, and others.

Seeks a Match With Jeffries.

New York, March 11.—James J. Jeffries has received an invitation from Jack Johnson to meet him in the office of Johnson's attorney in this city to arrange a fight. The invitation was handed to Jeffries by an attorney for Johnson.

Hopkins Gets Increased Vote.

Springfield, Ill., March 11.—The vote for Senator Hopkins on the forty-second ballot shot up to 76, as compared with the 61 which he received Feb. 25, the last day on which there was a quorum present. Only two pairs were noted, while there were twelve on the last ballot when a quorum was present.

Turkish General Ends Life.

Constantinople, March 11.—General Soifullah Pasha, who was Turkish chief of staff during the Turco-Greek war, in which he distinguished himself, committed suicide here by shooting with a revolver. The motive for the act is not known.

SENDS CADDY TO COLLEGE

Taft Rewards Youth Who Carried Golf Sticks.

Washington, March 11.—President Taft has sent his caddy to college. Elmer W. Loring, who carried the distinguished golfer's sticks around the links at Hot Springs, Va., last summer and exercised such discretion that the president brought him to Washington as his special messenger, has left for Charlottesville to matriculate in the University of Virginia. He will take a course calculated to fit him for some work Mr. Taft has in view for him and the president will defray all of his expenses, allowing him, it is said, $2 a day.

Two Killed in Street Duel.

Emporia, Va., March 11.—In a street duel here J. Thomas Brantley, a police sergeant, was shot and instantly killed and P. B. Sheffield, a cotton mill operator, was so badly wounded that he died later.

Officer Guilty of Cruelty.

Brussels, March 11.—Lieutenant Arnold of the Belgian army, who was at one time denounced by the missionaries for burning and pillaging villages and committing assassinations and other atrocities in the Congo, has been found guilty of a series of charges of this nature and sentenced to imprisonment for twelve years.

Must File Bond of $100,000.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 11.—An appeal bond of $100,000 was the basis on which a writ of error for an appeal to the supreme court of the United States will be granted to the Standard Oil company of Indiana and the Republic Oil company of Ohio, according to action taken by the supreme court of Missouri.

ENDS LIFE NEAR CLOSE OF TRIAL

Defendant in Iowa Murder Case Hangs Himself.

BED COVERLET FOR ROPE

Accused of Brutal Killing of Newly Married Couple at Muscatine Late in 1907—Prosecution Had Concluded Its Testimony and Defendant Was Scheduled to Take Stand In His Own Behalf.

Muscatine, Ia., March 11.—Urry Jones, on trial here for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Winkle on Dec. 3, 1907, hanged himself from the top bar of his cell door in the county jail. Jones had cut the coverlet to his bed into strips and formed a rope. The prosecution had finished the introduction of its testimony in the case and Jones was supposed to at once take the stand in his own behalf.

The murder was an exceptionally brutal one. Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle had only been married a few weeks when one night Jones is supposed to have entered their bedroom and while they were asleep beat the brains of both to pulp with a club. The country was searched to find the accused and a year afterward he was located at Milan, Kan., and brought back to this city for trial. His real name is supposed to be Frank Beatty, under indictment in Washington county, Pa., for the murder of his wife years ago.

CLOSES FOR PROSECUTION

Attorney General Garner Addresses Jury in Cooper Case.

Nashville, Tenn., March 11.—An immense crowd attempted to gain admission to the courthouse to hear Attorney General Garner close the Cooper case for the prosecution, but only a small portion of it gained admission. Attorney General Garner said:

"I want you, gentlemen of the jury, to consider the condition of mind of these defendants. It is impossible to believe that three men on trial for their lives should tell anything that would injure themselves except by accident. Remember, too, that no matter what Senator Carmack said on the stump or wrote in the Tennesseean about Colonel Cooper there was no justification for murder. The law gives another recourse."

ALLOWED TO SEARCH JAIL

Mob at Ottumwa, Ia., Demands Negro Murderer.

Ottumwa, Ia., March 11.—Just at midnight a mob of 100 men, most of them masked, called at the county jail and demanded of Sheriff Jackson that he turn over to them John Junken, the confessed murderer of Clara Rosen. The sheriff told the mob that Junken was not in the jail. The crowd would not agree to leave until the sheriff permitted it to go through and see if what he said was true. When it had finished the inspection the crowd dispersed.

Junken is in Sigourney, where he will remain until Judge M. A. Roberts takes up his case next week.

DECLARED TO BE INELIGIBLE

Labor Leader Elected Member of Manila Municipal Board.

Manila, March 11.—Governor General James Smith has decided that Dominador Gomez, the labor leader recently elected a member of the municipal board, is ineligible on the grounds that he is not a citizen of the Philippines and has been convicted of a crime. Gomez was identified with the radical Filipino party which was led by Simon Villa at the late municipal election. More recently he has been leader of the dock strike, which has been in progress for some time.

PASSES THE IOWA HOUSE

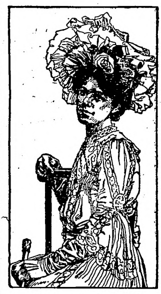
Bill Submitting a Prohibition Amendment to the People.

Des Moines, March 11.—The resolution calling for a vote of the state upon an amendment to the constitution in favor of the prohibition of intoxicating liquors passed the house by a vote of 69 ayes and 6 nays. Should the resolution pass the senate it cannot be submitted to a vote until 1911.

ETHEL BARRYMORE TO WED

Will Marry Son of Millionaire Rubber Man.

Boston, March 11.—Miss Ethel Barrymore is to be married here next Sunday to Russell Griswold Colt, eldest son of Colonel Samuel Colt, president of the United States Rubber company and of the Industrial Trust company of Providence, R. I.



ETHEL BARRYMORE.

Colonel Colt, who is reputed to be worth several millions, is much pleased with the match and has announced his intention of making a large settlement on his son, who is twenty-six years of age. Miss Barrymore will remain on the stage.

ASSASSINATED BY THREE MASKED MEN

Newark, N. J., March 11.—Rev. Father Erasin Ansion, rector of the Polish church of St. Stanislaw, was shot and almost instantly killed by three masked men in his rectory here. Miss Antonia Sewrzytska, housekeeper for the rector, who attempted to prevent the assassination, was slightly wounded in the abdomen. As there has been a dispute among the leaders of the church over its affairs the shooting was believed to have been the outcome of that disagreement.

Three men, who were unknown to the servants, called at the rectory while the rector was celebrating mass in the church. They were admitted to the parlor and Father Ansion was notified of their presence as soon as he returned from mass. As the rector entered the parlor the men opened fire on him. One bullet penetrated the breast near the heart and the two others lodged in the abdomen. Father Ansion died in the ambulance while on the way to the hospital.

The housekeeper was wounded in the abdomen, but not seriously. Other priests in the rectory, hearing the shots, rushed toward the parlor, whereupon the assassins fled from the house and escaped.

The tragedy is believed to be the culmination of a series of factional fights which have disrupted the church for many months.

BEST SKATERS WILL MEET

Baptie and Wood Among Competitors in Cleveland Contests.

Cleveland, March 11.—Five of America's best professional ice skaters, including the present and past holders of the championship title, with others, will get together here tonight, tomorrow and Saturday in a great series of races. Some of the best contests in the history of ice racing in America are expected.

Among the cracks who will compete are Baptie, champion of America; Wood, the former champion; Neilson, Sinnirud and Bellefeuille. It will be the first meeting of Baptie, Wood and Neilson. As the championship title may depend on the outcome of the races they are sure to be close and interesting.

SHUMWAY HANGED YESTERDAY P. M.

Supreme Court Refused To Further Stay Sentence. Man Was Executed At 2:32 P.M. Yesterday.

Hard Fight Was Made To Save The Life Of Murderer Of Mrs. Sarah Martin. Of Unsound Mind.

Lincoln Neb. March 6—R. Mead Shumway was hanged this afternoon at 2:32 the supreme court having refused to entertain a motion for a further stay of sentence and Governor Shallenberger refusing to step in when the court, after having reviewed all the matter relating to the case, had declined to further postpone the death of the convicted murderer of Mrs. Sarah Martin.

The fight to save Shumway was persistent and resourceful. Seeking a stay in hte district court of Lancaster county, Attorney Hamer found him self baffled by the court's statement that it had no jurisdiction since the recent passage of the Wilson act, which places examination for sanity in the hands of the trial court. Hamer then attacked the constitutionality of this act, but the supreme court held that the act was valid. Then the affidavits were exhibited showing Shumway to be of unsound mind although the physicians Hay and Mehay who examnied him di dnot go so far as to say that prisoner was insane. The court did not hold that these affidavits established a degree of mental unsoundness that would warrant the vacation of the sentence.

Prohibiting Miscegenation

The bill introduced in the Minnesota legislature by Senator Calhoun forbidding the intermarriage of whites and negroes, is one that instantly commends itself to the judgment. The mixture of two such dissimilar races as the Caucasian and the African, is not alone repubnant to a very proper and natural feeling of race pride, but the offspring of such marriages are likely to combine the weaker traits of both races and to lack their better ones. This is a phenomenon often noted where races have mingled. The Eurasians of the orient are oftentimes paraiahs, contemned by their white fathers and objects of suspicion to the people of their mothers' race.

Race prejudice is a deep seated and natural characteristic of man kind. Often blind and unreasoning, often provocative of violence and rapine, it is nevertheless implanted in the human breast as a guardian to purity of race. It is one of the great facts of life that cannot be blinked or removed. To enact its inhibition against interracial marriages into law seems to us a proper and necessary thing to do.

Such enactment involves no necessary reflection on the members of either race. It simply effectuates the general sentiment that such marriages are subversive of morality and provocative of race prejudice in its baser manifestations. The fact that the negro has been invested with citizenship, and, in the north at least permitted to vote and participate in the government carries withit no right, implied or expressed, to enter the maital relation with members of the other race.—Minneapolis Journal.

Fire's Havoc

F. W. Fitzpatrick, a former Duluthian writing for the Popular Science Monthly in its current issue, sets out some facts that are startlingly significant of the tendency to waste in American life.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's facts deal somewhat with our loss from fires and the figures that he gives tend to moderate somewhat our enthusiasm over the immense amount of building that we are doing each year. For instance for the past year of 1908, he shows that "the total destroyed values and incidental cost of fire" was $564,000,000, while the total amount of new building done was $510,000,000. That ought to stop all of us for a moment.

Fire in America in 1908 cost us $2.72 per capital In most of the countries of Europe it averages 33 cents. In Italy it is but 12 cents. In Germany it has never gone above 49 cents. A fair comparison as to cities is found in the cities of Rome and St. Louis, both towns with about half a million of population. In St. Louis there were 3,200 fires with a loss of $1.289,000 while the cost of the fire department was $1,018,000. In Rome there were 270 fires, which cost $56,000 while the city paid out $50,000 for fire protection. Surely the contrast is great enough to cause us to do some careful thinking.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's remedy for this condition of affairs is fire proof buildings, but he goes to far greater lengths than millions of us have dreamed of. "The thing to do is to absolutely prohibit inflammable construction the use of wood, in the structural parts of buildings erected anywhere within the jurisdiction of a city." He declares that fire limit districts are only half measures which do not give more than a small fraction of protection, besides which the frame building district of today is certain to fall within the fire limits tomorrow with its host of fire traps on all sides. Mr. Fitzpatrick declares that it is a popular mistake to think that fireproof buildings cost so very much more than those that are not fireproof, in which statement he is sustained by many architects of standing. According to Mr. Fitzpatrick the increased cost is only from 12 to 15 per cent. This increase moreover is only to the first cost and is soon saved in insurance and greater longevity.

Incidentally in taking a fall out of so-called fireproof buildings, Mr. Fitzpatrick points out that every floor in a big building ought to be a compartment of the building which can be instantly shut off from every other floor and he thus makes a suggestion which ought to be applied to hotels at least if not to other large buildings, by legislative enactment. Almost every destructive fire that occurs in a great hotel is spread thru the elevator shaft If it were possible at the first discovery of the fire to instantly slide into place fireproof doors separating each floor from every other floor, 99 per cent of these disastrous and fatal hotel fires would amount to no more than a comparatively trifling blaze.

Fireproof buildings have come to be one of the great American jokes and the reason for this is revealed by Mr. Fitzpatrick when he declared that out of 12,000,000 structures in this country there are but 8,000 "in which even the slightest effort has been made at fire protection." A chain is no stronger than its weakest link and a fire proof building is not much more fire proof than its most inflammable part.

The figures which Mr. Fitzpatrick gives as to our annual loss by fires ought certainly to arouse every man who intends to build to a consideration of the profit that there will be to him in building so as to be proof against this terrible agent of destruction.—Duluth Herald.

MANIA TO HORRIFY

MISS MARGARET HICKEY TELLS TALES OF MURDER TO LITTLE CHILDREN

TO LITTLE ONES — SHE IS A WELL KNOWN SPINSTER

Grand Forks March 6— Afflicted with a mania for telling children blood-curdling tales of murder and other crimes which caused the little ones to cry out in terror as they slept Miss Margaret Hickey a spinster was arrested and locked up in the county jail yesterday. Miss Hickey is charged with insanity.

The accused has been boarding at a number of places around town and it is the opinion of those who know her that her mind is affected. Her general conduct did not bother the people so much as her effort to scare the children. The litle ones drank in her terrible tales with horrified interest and sleep badly disturbed was the result.

Made Threats to Slay

The arerst was made at a boarding house on Cheyenne Avenue. The boarding house keeper asesrts that Miss Hickey had threatened to kill her and others and is very violent at times. She had been there for two weeks. Previous to that time she boarded elsewhere in the city and people at the house believe she is crazy.

WERE MARRIED AT SIGHT

ALEX MACKEL WOMAN THEY DINE AND THEN THEY WED

People here will be interested in the following news dispatch which refers to one of the former well known residents of Ada who was a frequent visitor in Crookston.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 27 — Rescued from under the wheels of a street car and married to her rescuer within two hours, Miss Ellen Shellito of Crossville, Tenn., has established a new record for speedy matrimonials in Seattle.

Miss Shellito had been here but a few hours when in crossing a downtown street she became confused and stepped directly in front of an approaching car.

Alex Mackel, six feet six inches tall a lawyer of Butte Mont., seized her and lifted her from danger. He proposed and was accepted. A few minutes later they were married.

"We would have been married half an hour sooner if it had not been for a pinheaded waiter, who stuck around our table," said Mackel.

NOTHING DOING IN ADA POLITICS

Altho only six days remain until the annual city election is held in Ada, so far there has been absolutely "nothing doing" in local politics. Two caucuses have been called; one by the temperance people for Friday night and a general cuaucus on Saturday night. It is probable that there will be two tickets in the field but up to date there have not been enough candidates mentioned to fill one ticket. As a general thing the city campaign does not open uuntil Monday before election and it is expected that this rule will hold good this year. For mayor those who have been mentioned are the present incumbent, C. J. Lofgren and Jake Volland and Sam Olson.—Ada Herald.

Warren Register: The Duluth Herald says the people of the country would have more respect for Pulitzer Smith and others indicted for libelling Robinson, Taft et al. in the Panama canal matter if they would "quit skulking behind the skirts of the goddess of free speech and come out into the open and fight a fair fight." Perhaps the reason for their failure to fight in the open is the non-existence of any facts which they can urge as a defense for the accusations that they have iterated and re-iterated against the president that is and the president that is to be.

DAMAGE BY THE STORM

WIRELESS MESSAGE FROM BALTIMORE BRINGS BAD NEWS

PROMINENT MAN IS VICTIM OF STORM'S RAGE—MAN WAS OVERCOME

BY THE COLD AND FELL BY THE SIDE OF THE TRACKS

Baltimore, Md., March 6 — Latest and careful estimates based on information obtained today and tonight, place damage by storm to public service corporations at from $700,000 to $1,000,000.

Harry Granger brother-in-law of George R. Gaither who at last election was republican candidate for governor was found today, a victim of the storm, beside the tracks of the United Railways. It is thought that Granger attempted to walk from the home of friends in Mount Washington a suburb to his home in Forest Park a distance of several miles, and that he was overcome by the cold.

CHURCH TO COST SIXTY THOUSAND

FINE PLACE OF WORSHIP TO BE BUILT BY PRESBYTERIANS OF GRAND FORKS

At a business meeting of the board of the Presbyterian church at Grand Forks last night a resolution was adopted calling for a meeting of the congregation to act on the proposition to erect a new church. The board recommends that a $60,000 building be erected and that work be commenced just as soon as plans can be drawn and a contract awarded.

There is no question but that the action taken last night will be ratified by the congregation. A large share of the amount needed has been subscribed.

The new church will be constructed on lots owned by the congregation and a part of the present site. It is probable that it will be unnecessary to tear down the building in use at present until the new one is completed

The new church will be one of the finest in that state.

FARMER TERRIBLY CUT BY SAW

Lars P. Solberg who lives ten miles northeast of Fertile met with a queer accident last Thursday and one that will probably cripple him for life. He was working around a wood sawing outfit and while in the act of picking up a chunk of ice to throw out of his way backed into the saw and received a cut about 14 inches long in his leg extending from his thigh down. The flesh was cut to the bone and badly torn and the wound filled with bits of torn cloth. The great sciatic nerve that supplies feeling and motion to the limb below the knee was torn to shreds and will deprive him of the use of his leg. Mr. Solberg was brought to Crookston and placed in a hospital where he can receive the care and attention that his condition calls for.

EXPLOSION OF A GASOLINE PLANT

A Defective Lighting Plant Stirs Up Trouble. Near-Fatal Accident In Kulm N. D. Hotel.

W. Fields Eyesight Destroyed And Several Others Were Seriously In Small Town On Soo Line.

Kulm, N. D. March 6—The explosion of the gas lighting plant in the Kulm hotel last evening cos tthe eyesight of W. Fields of Aberdeen S. D., traveling representative of the International Harvester company besides seriously if not fatally injuring four others, including the proprietor of the place and a pastor who was a guest.

Just how the accident occurred is not known and possibly never will be The house is lighted by a gasoline system which apparently was working all right. Without warning there was a terrific explosion and the guests were thrown in a panic. The first thought was to save the structure from flames which followed. With this accomplished aid was given the injured.

It is possible that an investigation will be determined to dehrdluetaoin will be started to determine where the fault lies and examine the plant which was at the root of the trouble.

BIG MINNEAPOLIS AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Over $2,000,000 worth of automobile and motorcycles were sold from the floor of the Chicago Automobile show held early in February and of this astonishing number a great many purchases were made by persons in agricultural pursuits. It was partly with the purpose of bringing almost to the door of the northwestern farmer the possibilities of the modern automobile for country use that the Minneapolis Automobile Show will be held in the new Minneapolis Armory, March 13 to 20.

With the rapid improvement in country highways and with the many advances made in motor car manufacture designed to overcome existing obstacles to comfortable travel on the roadways still unimproved the practical advantages of the motor car in the country are being generally recognized by the farmers of the prairie regions. Further acquaintance with the original and maintenance cost of the modern machine serves to convince the farmer that he is saving money by investing in an automobile up to date.

To these various conditions and reasons are ascribed the remarkable sale of automobiles now being made in country districts.

The Minneapolis Automobile Show will have on its 42,000 feet of floor space practically every kind of machine and accessory now known to the scientific automobile builder. There will be touring cars, roadsters runabouts, trucks, surreys, and heavy and light machines of all sorts, ranging in price from less than $1,000 to over $4,000. Demonstrators will be at hand thruout automobile week to give inquiring visitors practical illustration on the roads of Hennepin county of the ease with which the modern automobile may be made to negotiate the most difficult of country highways, while the experts in charge of the exhibits in the armory will be glad to explain any detail of construction or operation.

This assembling of the machines which are doing so much to bring about the "horseless age" will be practically the same as that found in the Chicago, New York and Boston Shows with this advantage—it will be within a few hours' ride of every farmer in the northwest.

The Minneapolis Automobile Show Association will be under an expense of $10000 in arranging for the preliminaries of the Minneapolis show of March 13 to 20. But Minneapolis ha sbecome one of the greatest motor markets in America; Minnesota farmers are following the example of farmers in Illinois, Iowa and states farther east, and the Minneapolis automobile men believe the time has arrived to show farmers of this section all there is to see in the latest thing in automobiles.

PHYLLIS ABSTAINS.

Society in somber garb and rectors toning Satan down;
But I'd no quarrel with those days of penitence; indeed, sometimes
I've felt a bit contrite myself on hearing those dear, dulcet chimes
Calling fair sinners to their prayers, bidding a recreant world make haste
To gain the sanctified retreat wherein its sins might be erased;
But now I heed them not at all, howe'er they call appealingly—
"You must abstain," the rector said, and Phyllis now abstains from—me.
"It's only forty days," she said, "and I am yours for all the rest.
In Lent, my dear, the rector says, one must give up what one loves best,
Abstain from every worldly thing, and you are worldly, aren't you?
Besides, it's but a test," she said, whether or not your love rings true."
No plea of mine availed against the rector's ban on worldly taint;
'Twas her absession (great word, that, and thus it was my pretty saint
In chastened mood and heart contrite took up her role as devotee,
Dismissed pomps and vanities, be- neath which head she barred out me.
Surely that rector graced his robes! Lofty of brow, a soulful gaze,
Six feet of sweetness and of light; sometimes one sees at matinees
Such deities the idol of a turong of femininity—
And to the rector Phyllis paid devotions afternoons at three,
In tending souls so ardent was the rector's zeal that ere Lent waned
I found a Phyllis lost to me, and what I'd lost the rector gained.
Prate to me not of keepin Lent! Phyllis, immune to every plea,
Kept Lent and kept the rector, too, that's why she now abstains from me.
—Life.

Stillwater Gazette: Some inquisitive fellow in the Duluth Herald asks: "Are you keeping Lent? And what for? For the good of your soul or the applause of the public?" We cannot answer, but we have often wondered if some of those who pretended to be following out instructions were really and actually playing honest. There are a great many people who are truly conscientious in church matters as they are in everything, but there are people who make a great display that are only fooling the casual observer. Those who make it a point to know who's who, can spot these pretenders with one eye shut and both hands and feet tied.

INTERESTING DIVORCE CASE

TIME DURING WHICH DIVORCE ACTION IS PENDING NOT A PART OF STATUTORY PERIOD OF DESERTION—DAVIS CASE UP FOR A SECOND TIME

From Thursday's Daily—

The divorce case of Edon Davis of Red Lake County against Mary Davis tried before Judge Watts of Crookston on Tuesday brought to light a rather interesting point of law. Vaule & Murphy of this city appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney G. A. E. Finlayson of East Grand Forks for the defence.

The plaintiff brought an action for desertion in November 1907, which was tried April 22, 1908 the court holding that desertion for the statutory time had not been proven. This action was dismissed by the plaintiff Nov. 21, 1908, and on December 2, 1908, the plaintiff instituted a second action for divorce, alleging desertion. The defendant denied the charge of desertion and set up a cross complaint on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The case was called Tuesday before Judge Watts for trial, and the defendant's attorney called attention to a decision of the Minnesota supreme court which held that the time during which an action is pending for a divorce may not be considered as a part of the statutory period of desertion. The case was submitted, and although a decision has not been handed down the court intimated that a divorce would probably be granted the defendant, with alimony, together with the custody of the minor child.

COVERED MILK PAILS.

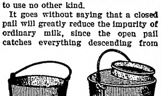
A prominent dairyman says: We have yet to meet the man who has tried a good kind of covered milk pail and who likes clean milk who has not thought them a great improvement over the ordinary open pail. Yet our observations on their use is to the effect that not more than eight cow owners out of ten use them. It would certainly be a good habit for everybody to get into to use no other kind.

It goes without saying that a closed pail will greatly reduce the impurity of ordinary milk, since the open pail catches everything descending from above. Experiments have plainly brought out the advantage of covered milk pails, and, while they require somewhat more work of the person who washes the dairy utensils, no one who is interested in pure milk could consider this an argument of more than featherweight description. A good kind of pail is one in which the top fits on as a cover and the milk opening is covered with screening or is fitted with a hoop so that cheesecloth can be used for that purpose. There is little difficulty in thoroughly cleansing such a pattern of pail.



UNCOVERED AND COVERED MILK PAILS.

The closed pail is a subject which it would seem local creameries could agitate with direct benefit to themselves. In a way much of the advice offered to the farmers in the interests of purer milk is wasted since it is impracticable.

FINE CLASS OF FARMERS

COMMERCIAL TRAVELER FROM CHICAGO PRAISES CHARACTER OF

THE STURDY FARMERS FOUND IN NORTHERN PART OF MINNESOTA

"Northern Minnesota has the most sturdy lot of settlers that you can find anywhere in the Northwest and I am acquainted with the territory that I am speaking about," said A. C. Worrell, who makes the northwestern territory for a large Chicago wholesale house, to a Duluth Herald reporter.

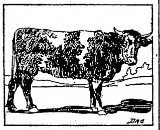
"I have ben traveling over the northwest for the past fifteen years. During that time I have seen many people come to various parts of the northwest. The people of Northern Minnesota are a different class from the rest of the people who have come to the northwest in the time that I have been going over that part of the country.

"They are a sturdy lot of the best class, and they have come to the northern part of the state despite the fact that many people have told them that it is impossible to make a success of farming in this part of the state. They have come here to make a success of their work and what I know of the settlers in this part of the state, there is a great agricultural future ahead of Northern Minnesota.

"Down in Iowa and over in Wisconsin they have some of the best farmers in the entire country. But for sturdy character and determination to succeed they are not superior to the settlers who have come to this part of the state. The characteristics of determination and character are the dominant ones of the settlers who have taken homesteads in the extreme northern part of the state. They have contended with many obstacles but very few of these settlers have abandoned their claims. Most of them have remained to build homes in that part of the state. The settlement of Northern Minnesota will be very rapid from now on and I also believe that some of the best settlers in the country will come to this part of the state."

BEEF CATTLE ON THE FARM.

There are hundreds of farmers who for various reasons are not making a business of dairying, but are keeping only two or three family cows, and yet these same farmers are perhaps raising hogs or growing grain as a specialty and therefore have considerable roughage that should be converted into beef profitably. Corn fodder, oat straw and clover hay are usually abundant on every farm of much size and unless fed to cattle or sheep must be otherwise disposed of and perhaps at a loss financially, and of course the soil suffers when such products are sent off the farm.



SHORTHORN, BEEF TYPE.

Selecting the cattle is half the battle, writes an Ohio breeder in Rural New Yorker. It is useless to raise dairy steers and expect top prices for them at selling time. The straight backs, full loins and blocky quarters of the beef breeds or beef grades are what you want in the feeders you select. Usually a farmer has two or three calves of his own raising, and if he can use more he may buy some calves from his neighbors at weaning time and thus have his bunch of cattle even in age and size. Where one needs a carload or more one can get range calves, or a stock buyer can get a bunch of native stock together in a short time, or one may go to some large stockyard and pick the calves or older stock personally.

My own practice is to buy some calves at weaning time three to six months old and keep them till they will do to export. I frequently keep them till they are four years old.

"Come on, Bill," whispered the old burglar in disgust. "it's no use wasting time here."

"Don't you think those two lovers will get off the steps soon?" queried the new burglar.

"No. I heard him say that was the last kiss. They'll be an hour yet."

Even when a man proves that he is a woman's superior, she doesn't believe it.

U. DAILY AGAIN SHOWS FIGHT

PACKING HOUSE "LID" DISREGARDED AND STRONG PROTEST APPEARS

APPEALS TO LEGISLATORS—EXPERIENCES AT CHICAGO "U" REFERRED TO

From Thursday's Daily—

St. Paul Dispatch: The Minnesota Daily the State University student publication today declared its independence of the self-appointed mentors of that institution and again entered the fight against the proposed Armour packing plant south of New Brighton. Until today the university paper has said nothing since the "lid" was put on nearly two weeks ago.

The Minnesota Daily quotes from the Daily Maroon the University of Chicago student publication, as follows: "The University of Minnesodents are up in arms against the establishment of a packing plant within three miles of the campus. They have the moral support of the University of Chicago as we have it on good authority that when the wind is in the northwest a skilled cook can cut a chunk of campus atmosphere and make a very nourishing consomme."

The Minnesota Daily continues: "We are further informed by one of our professors, who formerly lived within a block of the University of Chicago that he had sometimes been awakened from sound sleep by the packing plant odors and had often gone without breakfast because they were so disagreeable."

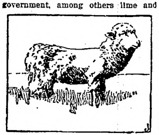
The legislators are advised to proceed carefully and not allow the location of the plant on the proposed site until it is ascertained whether the statements set forth are based upon facts. The Minnesota Daily speaks not alone for the university proper, but also for the college of agriculture, located only a short distance from the Armour site.

SHEEP SCAB.

Cause of This Contagious Disease and Best Dips to Cure It.

Scab in sheep is caused by a parasite scarcely visible to the naked eye. The eggs hatch in from three to ten days, and under favorable conditions the product of one female in three months is 1,500,000. The disease is contagious and may be contracted by touching the sick animal or from anything that has touched it. The mites have been known to live apart from the sheep on wool or other objects for ten days. Those parts of the body covered by thick wool are worst affected. The fleece becomes matted and finally drops off, as shown in the illustration. On account of the intense itching the sheep bites itself and rubs against posts, trees, feeding racks and the corners of buildings, so that healthy sheep touching these objects are likely to get the disease. In some cases the skin cracks and in others becomes compact and hard, like leather. The mortality from scab has been known to run as high as 75 per cent.

The only remedy is to do a thorough job of dipping and disinfection. Various dips have been approved by the government, among others lime and sulphur, tobacco and sulphur and numerous coal tar and creosote preparations. Objection to the first two is that they discolor the wool and the tobacco makes the sheep sick. In using the coal tar or creosote dips it is best to get one of the proprietary solutions bearing on the label the indorsement of the agricultural department.



A BAD CASE OF SCAB.

Dipping should be done immediately after shearing in liquid at 103 to 105 degrees, holding the sheep under at least two minutes and immersing the head once. In ten days dip the animals again. Scabby sheep should never be driven along a public road, and all quarters in which they have been should be thoroughly disinfected and left four weeks or more before using again.

IS HEARTILY APPROVED

EARLY CLOSING OF BUSINESS HOUSES DOES NOT INCONVENIENCE PUBLIC

THERE SHOULD BE NO FRACTURES OF THE ARGUMENT BY ANYONE

From Saturday's Daily—

The early closing program inaugurated by the business men of Crookston some time ago is meeting with the most hearty public aproval. The clerks who were formerly compelled to rush home for supper and rush back again to hang around stores till late in the evening, preventing them from being with their families or attending evening functions, now have a few hours to themselves for pleasure and recreation, and during the hours they are on duty give the patrons of the stores a better service than ever before.

The people are now all accustomed to the new regime and there is no necessity for any of the business places remaining open after 6 o'clock, and no complaints have been made of any one attempting to go back on the agreement that was made.

Another feature of the 6 o'clock closing plan is that it gives Crookston a much more metropolitan air. In all of the large cities early closing has been in vogue for years, and during the summer months many of them close at noon Saturday giving employes a half holiday. It is a step forward and is receiving the most hearty endorsement of the people of Crookston. The village swaddling clothes of "open all evening" should never again be donned in Crookston.

CROOKSTONITE PARTICIPATES

THIRD ANNUAL BANQUET OF U. OF M. MEDIC CLASS OF 1912

The third anual banquet of the Medic Class of 1912, University of Minnesota was held in Donaldson tea rooms Minneapolis on Feb. 27, an dthe affair was a very elaborate and successful affair. Much local interest is attached to it as Ralph L. Kirsch of this city is the treasurer of the class, and is also making a record of which his many friends in this city have every reason to be proud.

The programs for the occasion were very unique, and bore the gruesome skull and crossbones. The program included a solo by Clyde Undine who was a member of the University Glee Club which visited Crookston last year and scored a great hit. Mr. Undine also scored a personal triumph amnog the eligible young ladies of Crookston at a social function given in honor of the visiting delegation in that connection of which more will be heard later on.

CASE AFTER CASE

Plenty More Like This in Crookston

Scores of Crookston people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Noel Herbert, 338 Hunter St., Crookston, Minn., says: "My back pained terribly and unfitted me for any work. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and finally procured a box at Wallace's drug store. I started using them and it was not long before my back became stronger. I am glad to state that the old trouble entirely left me and I have not felt a return of it since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement with the hope that others may be convinced of their merit."

The above statement was made by Mr. Herbert in 1898 and nearly six years later he added: "Doan's Kidney Pills so completely relieved me of kidney trouble six years ago that there has been no return of it. It is apleasure to again endorse this remedy."

NOBLE WOMAN GOES TO REWARD

MRS. JOHN R. McKINNON PASSED AWAY AT 6:45 THIS MORNING

WHOLE CITY MOURNS DEATH OF A PIONEER RESIDENT

From Thursday's Daily—

Thursday at 6:45 a. m. the spirit of Mrs. John R. McKinnon passed from its earthly environment to "that better house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

While it had been feared for weeks that Mrs. McKinnon could not survive the wonderful vitality she had shown gave rise to the hope in the hearts of many that she might yet rally and survive this attack, but the attending physicians had given up hope long ago as cancer of the stomach had reached such a stage that no medical skill or surgical operation could avail anything.

All Crookston is in mourning. In the death of Mrs. John R. McKinnon this city has lost one of the most noble minded, earnest conscientious and charitable Christian women ever known. Words are inadequate to in any measure express the true worth of such a beautiful character, embodying all that is true all that is best, all that is purest in womanhood in its very highest sense.

No woman was better known, more highly honored, more deeply respected or more sincerely loved than Mrs. McKinnon. Nothing can be said which can present what such a woman represents in a community. No words can express what loss has been sustained or the sorrow that is felt.

No one will ever know the extent of her charity. Many know of many of her good deeds. None know all. She was a woman of deeds rather than words. None ever appealed to her for aid but what received succor and no one who needed sympathy or a cheering word but who found it.

As a wife, mother and neighbor she embodied those qualities which are all too rare and which made her a woman who has done much for the community in making its social life better its religious life more profound and inspiring the true conception of the better and truer life in all others with whom she came in contact.

Mrs. John R. McKinnon, whose maiden name was Miss Harriet McDonald was born in Glenevis, Glengarry Co., Ontario, Canada on April 26, 1850, and would have been 59 years of age next month. She grew to womanhood there, later removing to Ausaba, Michigan, and in Bay City, Mich., July 22, 1874 she was united in marriage to John R. McKinnon who survives her.

The family removed to Crookston in the spring of 1880 and resided here ever since. The union resulted in 8 children, two of whom are still living Mrs. George Capser (Margaret) and Miss Hattie McKinnon. There were also three adopted children, Jeanette McDonald, Archie McDonald, and Ella Frazier, the latter having died some months ago.

Deceased also has one sister still living, Mrs. Cox of New Haven, Conn., who is very feeble, and a brother, Allan McDonald who resides at the old ohme Glenevis, Ont., who was also unable to be here.

As a model Christian woman the character of Mrs. McKinnon stands out with pre-eminence. She was a member of St. Anne's church until St. Mary's parish was organized since which time she has been a faithful and active member in that church being identified with all the societies connected with the church and having been at the head of them many times. She was recognized as one of the most earnest, faithful and successful workers in the church and was the central figure in the character of gatherings which tend to make the social life of a city purer and better.

In her church work she was unostentatious and a great deal she did in the name of the Master she so faithfully served, is only known to those she befriended. Her ear was ever lent to those in trouble and her counsel has guided the feet of many young girls safely over the shoals of temptation. Her life in every way was an inspiration to all those with whom she associated and no woman's death could be more deeply mourned. During her long illness she displayed a quiet resignation that can only come to those who live in Christ, and who look upon death as but a transition to the nearer relation to Him. Never could the words apply better, "Oh Grave where is thy victory, Oh Death where is thy sting?"

From Saturday's Daily—

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. John R. McKinnon were held this morning at 9:30 in St. Mary's church. The edifice in which the deceased had been such a devoted worshipper for years was inadequate to contain all who had gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to her memory.

The impressive Requiem High Mass was said by Father Smiers and there was special music including a solo at the conclusion by Miss Rose Campbell. The floral tributes were especially significant, as in addition to the beautiful floral pieces there were great masses of individual tokens, which spoke in the mute but beautiful language of flowers of the spirit that had departed, and recalled her thoughtfulness in attending to those little acts of kindnesses during life, the remembrance of which seem to bring back with them the delicate perfume of the rarest flowers because of their beauty and goodness.

No funeral oration was delivered by Father Smiers by the special request of the departed. None was necessary. Her life itself portrayed with a greater eloquence than commanded by the tongue of man the beautiful character that had been moulded.

The remains were taken to the Catholic Plot in Oakdale Cemetery where they were committed to the final resting place and short services were held there in the presence of a great gathering of relatives and friends many of whom came from a distance.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Allan McKinnon, Archie McKinnon Dan McDonald, J. P. Foote, J. F. Creamer, M. Ericsson, James Powers and John O'Brien.

Duluth's Experience

The red light district in Duluth which has caaused so much trouble among the city council and mayor is not ended yet. The men who clamored for the removal of these palaces of impunity believed they were doing the right thing and if humanity were only purer or built upon a different plan, or brought into the world without the stain of the Garden of Eden upon them, their position would have been tenable. Howevtr experience is this odd world of ours teaches that this form of sin is with us, and that it seems to be almost so closely interwoven into man's nature that it takes more than an edict of a city council or the act of the mayor to blot it out. The red light district in Duluth was smashed up into fragments, but the fragments flew to so many parts that a goodly portion of Duluth today is contaminated by the presence of some quesitnable person or persons. Speaking to aminister of the gospel in Duluth a few days ago, he said that one of his "new" next door neighbors was a couple of women whose lives were such that discredit was reflected upon the whole neighborhood. He also said that scattering such 'people all over the city was a great mistake. He said that he was one of the members of the Civic League that did the scattering but really it was a mistake. A few years ago when Chris O'Brien was mayor of St. Paul, one of the very first things that he did was to send out a proclamation to this class of people and ask them to "hike." They were out of their haunts in a day or so but they were in and among the respectable elements of the city in such numbers that no lady was safe on a street car, in the opera or any other public place. Respectable families in flats had to move out because of the contamination and next door "hell" that was oftentimes located over night.

The public streets of Duluth today contain hundreds of these questionable characters that parade for no other purpose than to allure the unsuspecting man and secure his fall.—Eveleth News.

Should Tea And Coffee Be Taxed?

Consideration of the proposed internal revenue tax of 3 cents a pound on coffee and 10 cents a pound on tea will be forced upon the new congress along with the revision of the tariff. A yawning deficit that may equal $150,000,000 for the current year and the probable loss of receipts by the reduction of some import duties, are two facts that compel a search for new sources of revenue. The proposed tea and coffee taxes would net about $36,000,000 on the basis of present consumption.

Yet the proposed imports would be unjust in the form suggested because they would bear on the people in the proportion of their needs and not of their ability to pay. The poor man who drinks two or three full-sized cups of inexpensive coffee with a meal would be taxed many times as much as the millionaire who sips his afterdinner demitasse of a more costly beverage. The woman who drinks 50-cent tea would pay as much as she whose brew costs $3 a pound.

Rightly regarded, coffee or tea is a necessity at a moderate price. Three-dollar tea or 50-cent coffee is a luxury, a privilege of the rich but extravagance when indulged by the poor.

Better than an internal revenue tax without regard to the value of the article would be an ad valorem import duty. A 10 per cent tariff—or whatever rate might be fairest—would distribute the burden more equitably. Better yet, coffee or tea, up to a certain price, might be admitted free and the high-priced article heavily taxed.—St. Paul Dispatch.

STATE PRESS

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Minnesota senate killed the bill for the nominating of United States senators by direct vote of the people thru fear that Governor Johnson might win if referred to the people. This might have been obviated by having the law so drawn that each party could nominate its candidate for senator, and have the members of the legislature vote for the candidate of their own party. For instance, if Moses E. Clapp was the choice of the republican voters and John A. Johnson was the choice of the Democratic voters Republican voters in the legislature would vote for Clapp and the Democrats for Johnson. Voters would understand that the election of legislators was directly involved in the choice between a Republican and a Democrat for United States scenators. The Journal-Press believes that the people should be given a chance to express their choice on so important an office and the legislature should give the people such a law while preserving the party system.

Albert Lea Standard: One of the best and noblest acts of President Roosevelt in the latter days of his administration was that setting aside nearly a million acres of the timber and stone lands in St. Lauis, Lake and Cook counties in the northeast corner of the state, as a national forest reserve. If it is so maintained it will become a national blessing.

Two Harbors Iron News: Roosevelt has gone, but about 300 pounds of his shadow still remains with us.

Willmar Journal: What! Do the Minnesota Democrats think that John A. Johnson ras a life tenure of the oce of governor of Minnesota, that they are laying plans for a fourth term? Yet if the Republican party persists in over-riding the wishes of the people composing it they may let Johnson have another term. The candidate wanted by the people is the only one that can be elected by the Republican party—not the candidate wanted by the Republican politicians. It's time the lesson was learned.

Buffalo Journal: Governor Johnson probably did the state a great service when he appointed Louis W. Hill president of the Great Northern railway company a member of the state highway commission of which he is chairman. If he will divert some of the Hill energy to the public service good results are sure to follow.

CONSERVATION OF AGRICULTURAL RESOURCES

James J. Hill addressed the members of the Minnesota legislature last week on the conservation and development of the resources of the state. The talk was made at the special invitation of the lawmakers and both houses took an adjournment for the afternoon to listen to Mr. Hill's speech.

Mr. Hill addressed one of the largest gatherings ever assembled in the house chamber. Not only were all the members of the lawmaking body present, but state officials and prominent citizens were eager to hear Mr. Hill and all that the big room could hold were crowded in, the rules of the house being suspended in deference to the general demand for admission.

When Mr. Hill appeared at the main entrance, flanked by an escort of senators and representatives, the entire assemblage arose as a mark of respect to the venerable pioneer, and remained standing until he had mounted the speaker's high seat and had been welcomed by the speaker.

Mr. Rockne extended a welcome to the legislature's guest and in presenting him to the audience referred to Mr. Hill as one of the greatest authorities on conservation of resources in the world.

Mr. Hill said he had chosen to speak on a topic which had interested him more than any other for at least a quarter century—that of the preservation of the state's agricultural resources. He said that everything of value comes from four sources: the sea, the forests, the mines and the farm.

Farm Real Producer.

"The farm," he said, "produces more real value in the United States than all the others multiplied many times over. The value of the agricultural crop for the last season amounted to $7,800,000,000." He said this is more than all the mines in the United States have produced from the earliest days to the present time and more than the foreign commerce of the whole world.

He then proceeded to urge the importance of insuring the preservation of the sources of this great wealth and traced from earliest times how countries rich from their agricultural resources had dissipated these and are now but deserts and barren wastes.

"All the great industries of the world rest on coal and iron," said Mr. Hill. "When our iron resources are exhausted what are all these millions of people to do that are now engaged in the various industries? How are they to be employed? There is but one answer, and that is that they must go back to the land; they must go back to Mother Earth that bore them, and the will treat them kindly and well if they do not abuse her kindness."

"Now I want to call you attention to what I think will make an intelligent start in the direction of helping the agricultural interests of the state. Within about twenty-five years the yield has decreased from about twenty or twenty-five bushels per acre on reasonably new land to an average of about twelve and a-half bushels. That admonishes us surely enough that we must at once set about preserving the fertility of the soil. That can only be done by better methods of farming. You cannot continually take out of the soil one crop, year after year, any more than you can go to an elevator and year after year take grain out of the elevator, unless you put something back into it, and it is just as easy to increase the fertility of the soil as it is to increase your capital by loaning money at interest. The fertilization of the soil is better understood than it was years ago; the chemical analysis of soil has shown the chemical proportion that is taken out by the different crops, The state of Wisconsin, at its agricultural school, is doing better work, more accurate and more intelligent, and more advanced work, than is being done anywhere else in the United States in that direction. While most of the agricultural schools are doing well, our own here stands well toward the front; but the Wisconsin interest is greater, and they have given more attention to the thorough and accurate care of the soil.

Made the State Well Known.

"They have made the state known as the market for thoroughbred stock, both cattle and horses. Professor Moore, of the Agricultural school at Wisconsin, after a few years' experience, has developed a variety of corn suited to the climate and soil of that state; and I had the figures given to me that he has raised an average yield of from twenty-seven to forty-seven bushels, and that in one year the difference due to increase in yield has amounted to $15,000,000 for that state. I never passed a more interesting or happier afternoon than I did last September in Madison; and think, while the session is fairly well advanced and you have a great deal to do, I still think that your agricultural committee could afford to spend a day or two at Madison seeing what they are doing. I am sure it interested me; and within a day or two I was speaking with Mr. Page, who is one of the trustees of the National Educational foundation, which is working in conjunction with the department of agriculture in seeking to raise the condition of agriculture through the state, and he told me he had spent a day there, and was going back to spend three more, because he had never seen such intelligent and good work done anywhere. They are doing good work in the agrcultural department in Washington. A great deal of it is theoretical, and we must always have a certain amount of theoretical work, but it lacks the exact, close sound methods that are pursued over here in our neighboring state; and if they continue for the next five years as they are going at present, Wisconsin will take rank as an agricultural state that her soil does not entitle her to; but the men who are behind the guns are doing the work that will push her upward and give her a position among the states that is much better in proportion than she would have from any ordinary use of the methods in vogue.

"Now, to begin with, are we to wait until the children from the farms come to the state agricultural school and are educated, and some of them go back to the land, and others go to the cities? We have no such time to lose. If you are going to educate the children of the state you would not bring them to the cities for education, you don't bring them to the universities or the large schools in the cities, you carry the education to where they are.

"Now, let us see if we cannot devise a plan that will carry the education to the farmer on his own farm, and teach him to do it with his own hands. I am sure that it would be better for us. You may be interested—Mr. Page wrote me several pages of manuscript telling me what they were doing. I won't read them all to you, but he tells of what they are doing dwon in the south.

"'The agent goes among the farmers, he sees the farmer, makes him plant his cotton in a certain kind of a row. The agent brings the seed—well selected seed—and he makes the farmer plant it. Then he comes around at intervals and sees that it is done as it should be, and shows him how to do it with less labor, trouble, and better results. When the cotton in this plot of one or two acres is ripe, the agent comes along and the farmer says, "'"Why couldn't I make my whole field yield as much?"'" The agent says, "'"You can; I came here to make you see that you could. If I had told you without showing you. you wouldn't have believed me."'"

"Now if the legislature will appropriate $50,000 to be expended under the direction of the state agricultural school and the state agricultural school will pick out some man who has absolute knowledge to superintend this work, and take 200 graduates, if they can find two hundred graduates who are well equipped and know how to do the work, and how it should be done,—you can pay them, if you like, $25 a week, and for six weeks they receive $150 each—200 would cost $30,000—let them go to the country and see the farmer, let them start two weeks before seed time, selecting the farmers, and say to them, 'I have the seed for an acre of wheat an acre of barley and an acre of oats, and if you will prepare these acres as I tell you, make it a good seed bed, manure it properly before we commence—if you will do all this, I will stay and show you how to put this seed in the ground and start it as it should be started, and if you won't, I will go to some neighbor who will.' If he wants to raise three acres of wheat, by all means let him; if he wants two acres of oats and one of wheat, let him have it; but let him see that better cultivation will give him results and that the difference will make him rich.

Personal Experience.

"Last year on my farm at Humboldt in this state, my farmer wanted me to summer fallow some, and I said to him: 'McCleary—he is not a member of congress, but is a cousin of his, raised over here in Pearce county, but is a very good farmer—I want you to take all the manure, save it carefully and put it on the land as far as it will go; do a good job and let us see what the result will be. I know what it will amply pay you. I am ashamed that a farmer of mine should burn the straw every year. He did that as he was told, and he thoroughly manured 190 acres out of a field of about 2,000 acres. The yield was a little over 35 bushels, and it was all No. 1 hard and weighed nearly 60 pounds to the bushel on that 90 acres. The average of the field was a little over 16 bushels. The average of my neighbors was from 8 to 14 bushels.

"Now, if farming by proxy, as I do, by proper cultivation and by proper fertilization I can get 35 bushels per acre, we ought at least, and we have the right to expect that we could, by farming in the state of Minnesota get a yield of 25 bushels. Now if you take 25 bushels at $1 per bushel, $25, and I am sure that for seed, cultivation, with proper cultivation and fertilization of the soil, that might require $8 an acre, which would leave $17 an acre profit. I don't think the farmers in Minnesota, even at the present price of grain, are getting $4 an acre profit. The $17 per acre would be $10 per cent return annually on $170 an acre, and if we raised 25 bushels of wheat to an acre the question would be solved as to how we would feed 200,000,000 of people.

"Now with $30,000 expended for graduates of the universities to go right to the farmer and show him how to do the work, the seed will probably cost from $7,000 to $8,000; oats, we will say from 36 to 40 pounds per bushel for seed, can be secured—that is a common yield seed—can be secured. On the shores of Puget Sound the farmers get from 120 to 150 bushels of oats an acre, and some of them claim as high as 200 bushels; but I have seen the field where they raised 12, 130, 140 and 150 bushels of oats to the acre, and some of it weighed 42 pounds to the bushel. Our farmers pay little attention to the quality of the seed; they will sow oats that weigh 27 to 28 pounds to the bushel and expect to get a good yield. There isn't enough vitality left in the seed to give a good crop.

The Method.

"Now the secret, or the method—it's no secret—of improving our agriculture, is a knowledge of the contents of the soil and all that certainly can be done by state agricultural schools. There ought to be there a bureau of soil analysis, to which any farmer can send the soil of any field he has got and have the mtell him what it wants. The cost would be a mere bagatelle and a big advantage to the farmer. Then the adaptation of the soil to seed, and the selection of seed that is known to be good sound seed, with enough vitality to yield a good crop.

"Some people, and I hope there will be very few, might say: 'We have all our own burdens to bear and we cannot spend this additional money; we cannot spend this additional money for improving the method of farming or of preserving the fertility of the soil. But, let me answer them with this; from this time on Minnesota has no other source of revenue than that which comes from the field. If we go on for the next 25 years as we have for the past 25, bearing in mind that for the past 25 years the yield, particularly in the northern part of the state, has gone from—in some cases it was 35 and even 45 bushels, and they expected an average of 25 bushels an acre, and the man who didn't get 20 bushels thought he had at least a partial failure of crop; now he is satisfied with from 8 to 14, or if he is not satisfied he has to accept from 8 to 14 or 15, and an average of about 12½. Very well, if our farmers are allowed to go for the next 25 years as they have for the past 25 it will take 50 years to bring them back to where they ought to be, and many of them will be like the farms in a large portion of this country, particularly in New England, where you can buy them for one fourth of the cost of the buildings on the land. We have no other source of income than what comes from the cultivation of the land, nothing will support our villages, our towns or our cities, our churches, or our schools, our commerce, our banks, our professional men, or anything else. I don't want to take a shingle off the roof of any educational institution in this state; but we have no more use for a state university than if we were in the desert of Sahara if we allow our lands to go as they have been going for the last 25 or 30 years. (Applause.)

Can Afford to Be Generous.

We can afford to be generous in a policy that will preserve the fertility of the soil; but if we are to live—if we are to live and enjoy a fair measure of prosperity, it is an absolute necessity that we pay more attention to taking care of the soil than we do to any other interest in this states. Men may come and men may go, men are born and they die, but man may sell his land and the land remains there, and with the land—as it prospers or as it is poor—the prosperity of the people who live in this state will keep absolute step with the condition of the land; they will either be prosperous or be poor with it. There is no escape from it.

"Now, as I said before, if we are to wait until the children grow and we can send them to the agricultural school and some of them come back and do better work, and others see them doing it and will adopt their methods, etc.—let me say to you again —we haven't time; we must begin now, we must begin right here, if we would succeed, and we must carry that education to the farmer, to the man who is on the land and has his feet in the soil; we must teach him how to raise twenty-five to thirty-five bushels to the acre, and if that work is done as I suggested, carrying the work onto the land, 200 students, 200 graduates of the state agricultural schools could at least take care of an average of one plot of two or three acres each, and that would make 2,000 acres in the state. Now, how many farmers will come to see how that particular plot of ground yielded? As a means of education I don't know how to put a limit on its value. The year after, in place of $50,000, I think $100,000 could be well spent. The farmers must be taught in Minnesota to sow clover, clover is the best fertilizer. Next to clover the barnyard manure. The manure from a cow is worth from $20 to $22 a year; and from a horse about $25 a year; it is worth a little more than that compared with the price of commercial fertilizer.

Must Educate Farmers.

"How long are we going to continue our present methods? And think of it in every conceivable way as I have shown, how will you improve it unless you carry the education to the farmer? As I said before, if you wait until the children grow up and are educated at the agricultural school, it will be too late. You cannot do it. Now let me ask you, gentlemen of the legislature, to give that your most serious thought. I don't care whether you represent the city or the town or the country constituency, you are all equally interested in it because your city and your town will crumble into ruins if you haven't an agricultural population behind to support you.

"Now you may feel that I would say something on the question of transportation, you might be disappointed if I didn't, and so that you will not be disappointed I will have a very few words to say on transportation. I won't take long, and I have practically put it in such form that it will take less time, and I will be less likely to ramble. To begin with, I want to compare our average freight rates I want to compare the work being done by our railroads with the work being done in other countries, and I think I will give you some official figures that will throw some light upon the subject."

Mr. Hill took up in some detail some of the legislation of the past and some now pending touching upon railroads and corporations.

The time a girl feels she can really trust a man not to kiss her is before her father, and that's why she never lets him stay around.

THE USES OF MONEY

Money should not be regarded as the principal end of life, nor should it be regarded with contempt, for it represents to a great extent the means of mental and physical comfort.

The finest qualities of human nature are related to the right use of money—generosity, honesty, justice and self-sacrifice.

A little self-sacrifice, a svaings account with this bank, and a determination to use your money right (by saving it) will soon accumulate a snug balance to your credit.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

RURAL ROUTE OUT OF WARREN—Rural free delivery route No. 4 out of Warren has been established to go into operation April 1st. The service will be tri-weekly. The carrier has not yet been appointed.

MRS. RUNDQUIST STILL ILL — The many friends of Mrs. A. W. Rundquist will regret to learn that her improvement has not been as rapid since she left the hospital as was expected. For the past three weeks she has been very poorly.

WARREN DRUGGIST ILL—E. Quistgard of Warren proprietor of the Warren Pharmacy was suddenly seized with an attack of appendicitis Saturday of such severity that an immediate operation was decided upon. He was taken to the Warren hospital where the operation was performed that evening. Everything went well and Mr. Quistgard is now getting along all right.

ERSKINITES NOMINATE—The citizens of the village assembled at the village hall last evening and nominated the following ticket for the ensuing year. Gunder Odegaard, President of Council; Gunder Stenerson, H. T. Gilbertson and S. P. Jorgenson as trustees; T. K. Berge, recorder; Theo. Nelson, treasurer; Torger Nelson, assessor; and C. P. Hole as justice of the peace.

VICTIM OF WHITE PLAGUE — Miss Tilda Larson aged eighteen years and two months died at her home in the town of Lessor last Saturday from consumption which she contracted about a year ago and has been confined to her bed for the past four months. The funeral was held from the home on Thursday last and the remains laid to rest in the cemetery north of the track east of the village. Deceased was the youngest daughter of L. T. Segberg.—Erskine Echo.

BOUND OVER — Deputy Marshal Rider has taken J. A. Mickelson, who is charged with selling liquor without a government license to Fergus Falls. Mickelson will answer for the offense at coming term of the United States court in that city. The offense is alleged to have been committed at the village of Winger, Polk county. Mickelson has been making a good deal of trouble there and was arrested some time ago on the charge of running a blind pig. He failed to learn a lesson from this, and the charge of selling liquor without a government license has now been preferred against him.

DEATH WAS SUDDEN—Napoleon Gamache son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gamache of this city died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ildaige Latendresse at Cass Lake. The cause of death is unknown and Mr. Gamache had been ill only five days. The remains were brought to Red Lake Falls this morning and funeral services were held from St. Joseph's Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Pichery officiating. Deceased was twenty-one years old and is survived b yhis parents, three brothers and three sisters and many other relatives. Deceased had been employed at Cass Lake for the past few months, but for two years previous to that time had been a student at St. John's University.—Red Lake Falls Gazette. Deceased had many friends in Crookston who deeply regret his death.

SIMMONS DOING NICELY— Jos. Nault received a letter from Fred Simmons today. The writer states that he is getting on fine at Mt. Clemens where he is taking the baths, and expects to come home prepared to enter the Red River Valley Marathon which will be run here during the firemen's tournament in July.

  On thy cold gray stones, O Sea!
And I would that my tongue could utt
And I would that my tongue could utter
  The thoughts that arise in me.

O well for the fisherman's boy
  That he shouts with his sister at play!
O well for the sailor lad
  That he sings in his boat all day!

And the stately ships go on
  To their haven under the hill;
But, O, for the touch of a vanished hand,
  And the sound of a voice that is still!

But the tender grace of a day that is dead
  Will never come back to me.

—Alfred Tennyson.

AT RED LAKE FALLS — Chas. Hoeft, the transfer man, is spending the day at Red Lake Falls on business.

VISITED LAKERS— Walter Stone spent yesterday at Red Lake Falls on business for the firm and also did a few lines of talking in connection with the big firemen's tournament here in July.

DIED THIS AFTERNOON— Miss Annie Hanson aged 28, died this after noon on 6th street where she resided with her mother and her brother, Louis Hanson, the cause of death being lung trouble. Funeral announcements later.

"DUKE OF CLEARWATER"—S. C Bagley who was for years one of the heaviest loggers in northern Minnesota and who was known as the "Duke of Clearwater" returned home yesterday after spending Sunday in the city attending to some business matters. He is now residing near Fosston.

ENROUTE TO NEW HOME—Mr. Ross Miller and bride have arrived in the city and will spend a few days here with relatives before proceeding to their new home at Regina Canada, Following their marriage in Ontario they visited Chicago and other places The groom is a brother of Nelson Miller and Lorenzo Miller and has other relatives here whom he will visit with his bride.

LITTLE BABY DIED—Friends here will learn with regret of the death of the week old baby of County Commissioner and Mrs. James Driscoll. Mrs. Driscoll is a sister of Deputy Sheriff Sullivan who returned from East Grand Forks yesterday and reports that Mrs. Driscoll is also very ill and much apprehension is felt regarding her condition.

NEW BASS FIDDLER—It was the intention of Bandmaster Riggs to limit the number to participate in the Consolidated Band Concert to 65 but another bass viol player having arrived in the city he will be invited to participate thru courtesy of James Heng at whose home the young man is stopping. The visitor arrived last Saturday via the stork route, weighs about 8 pounds and has already shown signs of becoming a good vocal ist his lung power being ample for all purposes. Mrs. Heng and the young son are both doing well.

RECOGNIZED LOCAL SPORTS — George Wright received a letter yesterday from Walter Ruggles from Lincoln, Neb., in which the writer stated that while walking along the streets of Lincoln he noticed a crowd gathered in front of a kodak store. He wondered what interested them, and going closer saw a large kodak picture of Martin O'Brien and J. H. Stair of this city with their dogs hunting in a field near Crookston. Both dogs were on a point and the picture created a great deal of enthusiasm. Mr. Ruggles entered the store and tried to discover how the picture came to be there but the clerk did not know. Anyway it was good advertising.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Cures backache and irregularities that if neglected might result in Bright's disease or diabetes.

Ada, Mar. 9—(Special to Journal)—There are two tickets placed in nomination for the city election Tuesday, one, the Citizens' Ticket and the other a No License Ticket. The contest does not promise to be a very spirited one as either ticket would be satisfactory. The Citizens' ticket being the present incumbents of office and it is the sentiment that they have done well and no cause for complaint, while the no license ticket would probably do just as well. The question of voting on the license will be submitted to the voters and the out-come will probably be very close.

Citizens' Ticket—

C. J. Lofgren, Mayor.

Jason Weatherhead, Allen Harvy, J. E. C. Volland, E. C. Betcher, Aldermen.

Sever Bang, Treasurer.

A. O. Rolfe, Justice.

Oscar Hellerud Constable.

No License Ticket—

R. A. Ball, Mayor.

C. C. Allen, B. F. Tenney, Ben Holte Oscar Lovaness, Aldermen.

Hans Holden, Treasurer.

A. O. Rolfe, Justice.

John Spenningsby, Constable.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

ROADS ARE FINE—J. P. Marcum Rural Mail Carrier No. 1 out of Crookston says the roads are as near perfect as he has ever seen them at this season of the year. He has used a buggy practically all winter and now the greater portion of the way the roads are actually dusty and the trip is a pleasure every day.

ACCEPTED POSITION — Charles Boucier of Crookston has accepted a position with the Crookston Lumber company, and came over from the "Queen City" last night to begin his duties as foreman of the yards, succeeding James Foss, resigned.—Bemidji Pioneer.

SAD NEWS RECEIVED— Charles Byers of Spring Valley, Minn., father of C. H. Byers of this city died at his home in Spring Valley this morning at 6:30. He was 74 years of age. Mrs. C. H .Byers went down about a week ago and Mr. Byers and two daughters leave this evening to be present at the funeral.

LOST FINE DIAMOND— Mrs. J. McKinnon residing upstairs at 113 S. Third street, Grand Forks, reported to the police yesterday that during her absence for a visit of a few hours with her mother someone had entered her room and stolen a diamond ring valued at $75. The ring had been left in her pocketbook. She could give no clue further than people in the shop on the first floor had noticed a man going up the stairs. They gave a fairly good description of him and it is believed he will be captured before a great while.

AFTER McLAUGHLIN— A bunch of the live ones at Grand Forks are planning on putting on a big minstrel show in about a month and last evening the first rehearsal was held. M. McLaughlin of this city has received an urgent offer to act as one of the end men, and there were som attractive cash attachments to the offer. They want McLaughlin as one of the end men and Conductor Willis will be the other blackface artist. The date of the performance has not yet been set.

As a result of the election yesterday on the license or no license proposition, the 'Drys" had much the best of the argument. Following is a list of the results in a number of the villages where the proposition was voted upon.

AFTER AN EMBEZZLER

SHERIFF DANIELS AT SEATTLE TO BRING TOM FLAHERTY BACK

FLAHERTY FORMERLY OF EAST GRAND FORKS—STOLE FROM GUND BREWING CO.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Sheriff Orin Daniels is in Seattle where Thomas Flaherty was arrested on a telegram sent by him. Flaherty is charged with embezzling money from the Gund Brewing Co., and it is expected extradition papers will be granted by the governor of Washington.

Flaherty is well known here and all over northern North Dakota and his friends hope he may be able to explain matters satisfactorily. The exact amount of money taken by Flaherty is not known here, but he is quoted as saying that it is quite a sum but that his property in East Grand Forks will protect the company. It is understood that the mater is likely to be settled satisfactorily. The following dispatch from Seattle tells about the arrest:

"Wanted at Crookston, Minn., for embezzling a large amount of money from his employers, the John Gund Brewing Co., of La Crosse, Wisconsin, Thomas J. Flaherty, a collector for the corporation was arrested by City Detectives James Bryne and Charles Phillips on Second avenue this morning.

"To Captain of Detectives Charles Tennant Flaherty acknowledged that he had taken his employers' money, but he asked for an accounting and had received no reply. He added that he did not know what his speculations amounted to but that they formed a 'pretty big chunk.' Flaherty said that his property at home would fully protect the Gund Brewing Co.

"A warrant for his arest was telegraphed the police here shortly after he left Minneapolis on February 17. It was sent by Sheriff Orin Daniels of Crookston, Minn."

HOLD UP SWITCH CREW

SPOT CAR FOR HIM AT EMERSON —JUDGE LET HIM OFF EASY

From Wednesday's Daily— ...

An exasperated settler from Indiana held up a switch crew at Emerson yesterday with a gun. W. J. Veitch, bound for Saskatchewan, with a carload of horses and settlers' effects, unloaded at the quarantine yards Sunday and had undergone inspection, being promised that a car would be spotted at 7 p. m. At 11, not having been accommodated, he renewed his request and was promised relief shortly.

At 3 a. m. he became desperate and took his stand at the C. N. R. railway bridge swinging his lantern to stop the Canadian Northern switch crew.

Veitch boarded the engine when it stopped and it is alleged "held up" Enginer Sinclair with a gun demanding that his car be spotted without further delay

Foreman Fox kept his eye on Veitch staying with the car when it was spotted.

Wilson appeared and asked where the gun had been placed. Veitch pointed to his coat hanging in the car Wilson then secured the gun and marched Veitch off to the lockup.

Veitch's trial took place during the moring before Magistrate Whitman and Mayor Hamilton. Veitch pleaded guilty to the holdup, stating that persuasion had failed and, being in desperate straits and only having $39 in cash and his family being on the road to meet him he felt that he had to do something desperate to move someone to get what he wanted. After consulting together for a few moments, the magistrate said:

"As the gun had got him into trouble they would confiscate it and would let him off on suspended sentence, agreeing that with the quarantine regulation and other delays as he had experienced is was somewhat exasperating."

The mean thing about a holiday is all the disagreeable things you have to do then because you don't have the time other days.

TOWN BADLY WRECKED AND THIRTY LIVES LOST

Brinkley, Ark. Almost Wiped Out By Tornado In Short Time.

EVERY BUSINESS HOUSE IN RUINS—HARDLY A DWELLING HOUSE IN ENTIRE CITY NOT DAMAGED IN SOME MANNER—TWO PRIN CIPAL STREETS ARE PILED HIGH WITH WRECKAGE—CATHOLIC CHURCH CONVERTED INTO HOSPITAL—GOVERNOR DONAGHEY ARRIVES ON SCENE OF CATASTROPHE—OTHER CITIES IN THE STATE PLAN RELIEF

Brinkley, Ark., March 10—Thirty or more lives were snuffed out, 60 people were injured and property estimated to be worth $1,000,000 was destroyed as a result of the tornado which wrecked this little city last night. Of the known dead, 14 are white people, as follows:

Issaac Reed.
Mrs. Isaac Reed.
Russell Reed.
Raymond Reed
Porter Foote
J. L. Starrett.
Harry Stovall, Jr.
Mrs. Ethel Phillips.
Mrs. Belle Darden.
Two children of Mrs. Darden.
Charles Frenze.
A. H. Hood.
Unidentified Man.

Among the more seriously injured are: O. K. Dowdle, side and ankle crushed; Mrs. E. M. Mason arm broken and bruised; Daniel Cummings injured about head; Robert Alexander, bruised; Mrs. Claude Leaky cut about body; D. V. Donnelly wounded about head; John E. Waddell of Memphis, cut about head; Miss Clara Rose seriously injured; Thomas Rose bruised; Arthur Rose crushed by timbers; Miss Daisy Rose bruised; Mrs. J. E. Morelock both limbs broken; Mrs. John Smith bruised; Edward W. Livingston hip and back injured; J. E. Stewart bruised and crushed.

The remainder of the dead and seriously injured are negroes.

Took But Few Minutes

The tornado shrieked above the city only a few minutes but its work of destruction was complete. The Roman Coatholic church standing directly in the path of the storm alone escaped destruction and stands tonight grimly in a scene of desolation. It has been converted into a hospital. Main street and Cypress avenue the two principal thorofares of the town are now impassible and are piled high with the wreckage from end to end.

Every busines house is in ruins and there is hardly a home that has not at least suffered the loss of a roof or a window.

The Arlington hotel was totally demolished. Eighty guests were registered there, but all escaped injury, the Brinkley hotel, Southern hotel and Kelly hotel were all destroyed without loss of life however.

Relief squads have been at work all day caring for the dead and injured The Rock Island and Cotton Belt railways have placed cars at the disposal of the local relief committee and many people are leaving Brinkley, seeking a temporary refuge at other points nearby. The dead were sent to Helena, from which point interment will take place.

Governor on Scene

Governor Danaghey, arrived from Little Rock this afternoon in response to a call from the citizens committee He has the situation well in hand and says food clothing and shelter are the things most needed. Hundreds of people are homeless and are wandering about seeking a temporary abode. Three special trains arrived from the neighboring towns today, bringing relief workers physicians and nurses. In the Catholic church doctors and nurses are caring for the injured. The citizens of Helena have offered the use of their homes for the destitute. Mass meetings have been called for tomorrow in Memphis, Little Rock and other cities, to raise funds and supplies for the storm victims.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

From Thursday's Daily

VISITING BEMIDJI—M. Kelley of Crookston, an estimator for the Crookston Lumber company arrived in the city yesterday noon for a short business consultation with the head officers of the company. Mr. Kelley accompanied by Tom Shevlin and B. W. Lakin, drove over to the company's camps near Wilton this morning.—Bemidji Pioneer.

MINNESOTA WEATHER—St. Paul reports an average temperature of 18 above during the month of February this year, which is 2 degrees warmer than the average February of the past 27 years. The snowfall during the month was 23.5 inches—almost two feet—and was the heaviest in a great many years. Here in Crookston the snowfall during the month was almost nothnig, the twin cities having had three or four heavy snowstorms that did not touch the western portion of the state.

PLEASED WITH STATE FARM—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith spent yesterday at the Crookston School of Agriculture and the State Experiment Farm and were both very enthusiastic regarding the work being done by the school and at the farm when they were in the city last evening. This was their first visit to the Experiment farm under the regime of Supt. and Mrs. Robertson, and they were loud in their praises of what was being accomplished and spoke in the highset terms of the work of Principal L. P. Harrington, Miss Woodruff the preceptress and the other instructors. They are thoroly convinced that the work of the school will soon be in evidence thruout this section in improved farming methods and improved conditions in general farm life.

Last evening the Socialists had their first meeting of what they call the educational side of it which they intend to hold every two weeks, for the benefit to themselves to better understand the economical question, which is confronting us and must be selved. Several questions were brought to view which resulted in very lively debates and the ladies took part in debating also.

At eleven o'clock some one made a motion to roll up the carpet and have some music so they danced till 12 o'clock when a lunch was served in the dining room, after which they departed for their homes delighted with the good time enjoyed. They expect to give a public entertainment in a week or ten days.

A Religious Author's Statement

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy."

TO ATTEND FUNERAL—Judge P. McLoughlin will atend the funeral of Mrs. J. R. McKinnon in Crookston tomorrow. He had known her for 30 years.—Grand Forks Herald.

FARMERS INSTITUTE FOR GARDEN—The Journal has been asked to announce that a farmers' institute will be held Monday, March 15th, at the Lucken school house in the town of Garden. A regular corps of speakers from the state institute workers will be in attendance and the meeting promises to be one of the best ever held in the county. Farmers living in that vicinity should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear these speakers.

DIES AT MALLORY—Mrs. James Roberton died yesterday forenoon at 10:30 at her home two miles from Mallory. She has been ill for several months. She was 50 years old. She is survived by her husband five sons and a daughter. Two of the sons are Grand Forks residents and are employed by Dan Dow. Her husband, three sons and a daughter are on the farm near Mallory. John Cumming, of Grand Forks, is a brother of the deceased. Peter, another brother, resides at Mallory. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

GUST GROBERG PASSES AWAY—Gust Groberg died Sunday Feb. 28th at 6:30 p. m. Mr. Groberg had only been sick a few weeks and prior to that was in the best of health. The cause of his death as given out by the attending physician was nephrites a form of kidney trouble and Bright's disease. The funeral will take place today at one o'clock from the United Lutheran church in Fertile and the interment will occur at the cemetery of the Swedish St. John's church in Sundahl. Mr. Groberg was the senior member of the firm of Groberg Bros., who have conducted a prosperous harness business in Fertile for the past seven years. He is survived by his wife, two brothers and a sister.—Fertile Journal.

GET THEIR LAND AFTER LONG FIGHT—An order from the department at Washington that the entries of M. N. Karelson and Isaac Staples who live on a quarter section near Morris, be allowed put an end to a fight lasting 21 years. When these two made application for homestead entry on the land they now occupy, the old Hastings & Dakota railway blocked them, and altho many efforts had since been made no results had been gained, but confident that they would win at the last the two continued making improvements on it. The land has been free of taxes to them during the past 21 years and according to the homestead law will be for 7 years more.

My Prayer

Deliver me till life shall end
From that strange thing—the bosom friend.
Portect me while I'm here below
From those who would my secret know.
Permit me of my earthly pelf
To keep all knowledge to myself
Allow me at each hour to see
In speech my deadliest enemy.
Assist me too, at every turn,
Keep back my thoughts with silence stern,
Whate'er I am, would be, or was,
Help me to keep inside by jaws,
In short permit my giving way
To telling things by night or day.
To keep one's tongue becalmed and still Serves mightily one's foes to kill.

TWO CAMPS BROKEN UP—Kenneth Kelley of this city who has been clerking in one of the Crookston Lumber company's camps near Blackduck returned to Bemidji this morning after completing his work. "Ken" reports that Mitchell's camps, Nos. 2 and 3 have finished the season's work and been broken up. There were 180 men employed in the two camps.—Bemidji Pioneer.

ROCKSBURY FARMER DEAD—Mrs. Olson a sister of Chris Thompson the well known Rocksbury farmer, died last Friday at the advanced age of 73. The funeral services were held on Monday. The deceased had been resident of this section for number of years and her husband resides in California having gone out there about 8 years ago.

PIONEER PASSES AWAY—Mrs. Swen Johnson of Rocksbury, wife of one of the pioneer settlers of Red Lake county died last Saturday. The deceased came to Thief River Falls in the early 90's and for a number of years resided in that city removing to their farm in the town of Rocksbury about five years ago. Besides her husband she leavse two daughters and a son—Miss Gustie Johnson, Mrs. John Morgan and Oscar Johnson. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon.

SAD DEATH RECORDED—Miss Anna Eeg of Crookston formerly of Waukon died at the Warren hospital Tuesday after a nine days' illness, caused by heart failure. She was born in Baker county this state, and with her parents immigrated to Norman county, locating on a homestead in Waukon, where she lived until two years ago, when her father died. The sudden departure of the young lady, who was thirty four years of age, cast a deep gloom over the community. She is survived by G. O. Eeg, of Hallock, and Mrs. Erick Gullingsrud of Thief River Falls, her brother and sister.

TO BE DEPORTED—A spacial agent of the Canadian government was here the first of the week to investigate the matter of Tommie Kribbs. Kribbs is an English prize fighter that came to this city last summer and in the fall became sick with an attack of rheumatism. He had no funds and since that time has been at the hospital as a city charge. As he was not a resident of the United States and had no legal residence in Thief River Falls the British authorities were notified. They have agreed to take the man back to Winnipeg and if it can be shown that he was subject to rheumatic attacks before he came to this country they will pay all of the expenses the city has incurred and this amounts to over $200.—Thief River Falls News.

Now that the winter season is drawing to a close, renewed interest is manifested in shirtwaists. It was feared by many at the close of the fall season of last year that shirtwaists would go entirely out of style, as they could not easily be brought into harmony with the lines of the prevailing Empire and Directoire styles. This fear was groundless, however, and there is every reason to believe that shirtwaists will be as popular as ever during the coming spring and summer. Shirtwaists have many features which make them a general favorite with women of every station. What makes them particularly inestimable for wear during the hot season is their coolness and the fact that their freshness can easily be renewed by occasional laundering. No matter how smart the cotton or linen frock may be it is never quite as cool as the little blouse which may be fashioned of fabric as flimsy as a cobweb. It is true, the "peek-a-boo" waist with its suggestively airy and often suggestively immodest trimming of open lace insertions and medallions, has not the sanction of women of taste and refinement, but one does not have to wear a "peek-a-boo" waist to feel comfortably cool, even in the hottest weather. The reign of net sleeves and guimpes is still undisputed. The early spring exhibits of messalines show the costumes to be still made on empire lines and with coarse net sleeves, long and close-fitting. Many of these sleeves have large satin-covered buttons extending the full length of the outer arm.

NO INDIGESTION OR DYSPEPSIA

DIAPEPSIN NOW AND FOREVER END ALL DISTRESS FROM A DISORDERED STOMACH

Every family here ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of Indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you eat seems to fill your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangule after supper tonight. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery, because it willshdlu stomach misery is at your Pharmacist waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

LOOKED AFTER NEW BRIDGE

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS WILL HOLD SPECIAL SESSION ON MARCH 10TH

Commissioners Eklund Thorson and Driscoll returned yesterday afternoon from near Fertile where they looked over an old bridge over the Sand Hill River for which a petition for a new bridge had been received. The commissioners will make a report to the board at a special meeting which is called for March 10 to dispose of routine business.

Two Pertinent Suggestions

Rep. Spooner has introduced a bill proposing a constitutional amendment for an educational qualification for judges of probate. It would do away with a lot of nonsensical legislation of an educational qualification was required for a member of the legislature. A law that would have smooth sailing in the house judicial committee would be a bill for a constitutional amendment declaring only lawyers eligible to the legislature and to all other elective offices. — Eden Valley Journal.

Can This be True?

We are inclined to think that not a little beneficial legislation will be enacted by the present Minnesota senate and house and perhaps a great deal of injurious legislation will be choked to death. But there is no denying the fact that the combined railroad, steel, and whisky interests ho lda mighty sway over the legislature and that what-ever the people get they will have to fight for.—Sauk Center Rapids Free Press.

CHARLES CARPENTER 17 YEARS OLD, BROKE INTO THIEF RIVER STORE

CLAIMED HE WAS DRUNK AND OTHERS WERE NABBED

Upon the complaint of Ole Rude who conducts a jewelry and confectionery store on North Main avenue in Thief River Falls a warrant was issued for the arrest of Charles Carpenter a seventeen year old boy, for breaking into his store and stealing money to the amount of $12 and some goods.

Carpenter was arrested the next day and admitted his guilt before Judge Bishop. He claimed that his reason for doing the act was that he was drung and that he had purchased his whiskey of Alfred Rasmusson, who conducts the saloon formerly owned by Geo. Williams. The authorities at once caused the arrest of Mr. Rasmusson and the trial was to have been held on Tuesday with young Carpenter as the witness for the state. City Attorney Halvorson however, on Monday evening moved to have the case dismissed, but it is rumored that another complaint will be issued later on.—Thief River Falls News.

MRS. OLIVE BENSON DIES AT BEMIDJI

WIDOW OF LATE JUDGE BENSON OLD RESIDENTS OF CROOKSTON—BURIED HERE

Mrs. Olive Benson died at her home in Bemidji at 3 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of more than a year past, with heart trouble cancer and other complications, against the fatal nature of which she struggled valiantly, only giving up the struggle when human nature could stand no more, being unconscious for a day previous to her demise, sinking into a deep sleep that was never disturbed and passing away with scarcely a tremor. Deceased was 48 years of age.

Mrs. Benson lived in Crookston for several years before going to Bemidji, arriving there in the early days of Bemidji when the lumberjack held full sway and the every-day life of Bemidji was by no means tame. Mrs. Benson was always a pleasant woman whose disposition made her many friends. When she was taken ill a little over a year ago, she did not take her ailment very seriously, but as time went by and she did not improve very materially, and especially during the past few months, she became resigned to her condition, altho fighting the fatal termination of the disease.

Mrs. Benson is survived by five children, three daught[illegible] Gyda, Bertha and Clara, and t[illegible] sons, Elmer and Chris also a granddaughter Cora.

Funeral services will be held in Bemidji Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the body of Mrs. Benson will be brought to Crookston Sunday night for burial in the family lot at this place where lie the remains of former Judge of Probate Benson, Mrs. Benson's husband.

The Departure of Judge Brown

Judge Frederick V. Brown is an able lawyer. He was a just, impartial an dlearned judge. He has been an excellent citizen of Minneapolis. His departure for other fields is regrettable because of the loss to the city. He will better himself financially and that is what the young man with a growing family must look out for.

The state does not pay judicial salaries sufficient to assure it the permanent services of the best men. Minneapolis of course, has some very able men on the bench. That they remain there is not because they are inferior to others who have left it to practice again at the bar. There are exceptional circumstances of residence or personal disposition that keep them where they are. Their presence on the bench does not disprove the general statement that the state is niggardly in its financial treatment of its judges and foolish in its insistence upon their running the gauntlet of partizan elections.—Minneapolis Journal.

Todd County Argus: If the legislature repeals the primary law, Governor Johnson will veto it and thereby greatly strengthen the Democratic party in the state.

CLEVER RUSE OF CROOKS

AGERN, WELL KNOWN IN CROOKSTON WHO WAS BUNCOED BY OLD WRESTLING GAME TELLS

HOW HE WAS WORKED FOR TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS IN ARKANSAS

Dispatches from Little Rock, Ark., telling of the work of a gang of swindlers who have been operating all over the country and mention as one of the men who was victimized to the extent of $2000, Agern of Fergus Falls, well known in Crookston having attended many gun club tournaments ehre who says the report is correct and gives an interesting account of the manner in which he lost his money.

A wrestler named Barney visited Fergus Falls last summer, arranged for one or two matches and made a great reputation. Shortly afterwards he went to Iowa arranged for a match and Agren received a message asking him to come down to act as stakeholder, with the understanding that all his expenses would be paid. He decided to go and on his arrival found the little town alive with excitement over the approaching event.

The stakes, $2,500 a side were to be put up, and before the money was turned over to him, Agern was requested to produce $2,000 of his own as evidence of his reliability and did so after wiring home for the money. It was understood that both the stakes and his own money were to remain in his own hands, but after the 65,000 had been put up by the backers of the match, a dispute arose, one side asscerting that there was a shortage, and revolvers were drawn.

Agren was persuaded to turn over the entire amount, including his own $2,000 under seal, to be taken to the bank and verified. This was the last he saw of the money. The match came off and Barney turned over on the mat with blood spouting from his mouth. Agern consulted the authorities but was persuaded to keep the matter quiet until the present cases could be worked up.

JOHN BAARDSON PASSES AWAY

PIONEER CITIZEN OF FERGUS INTO THE GREAT BEYOND

John Baardson one of the highly respected pioneers of the town of St. Olaf died Feb. 25 at his home there, from that most dreaded of diseases, cancer of the stomach. His wife died Dec. 4, 1904, and he leaves two sons to mourn the loss of a kind and wise father. The elder son, Helmer lives in the state of Washington and the younger, Bernhard has always remained on the old homestead.

Mr. Baardson was born on the Aalberg farm, Parish of Sparbo, county of Norde, Trondhjem, Norway, Oct. 11 1842. He came to America in the spring of 1866, and located first in Winnesheik county, Iowa. There also came Karen Tonette Nilsdatter later in the year, with whom he was united in marriage shortly afterwards.

In the spring of 1868 they loaded their belongings onto a "prairie schooner" drawn by a pair of oxen, and moved to what is now the town of St. Olaf. They located on a claim and began to transform the wilderness into a place of habitation. How well they succeeded their well tiled farm bears witness.

John Baardson took an active part in organizing the town and the school district, and held various school town and county offices. He was also an active participant in various political movements such as the "Grange" "Farmers' Alliance," and "People's Party." He was county commissioner for a number of years and no more conscientious man ever occupied a seat on that board.

Quite a few years ago he laid aside all public and political thoughts and has of late lived a quiet life on his home farm.

The interment will take place at Lakeside cemetery Friday, March 5.

In his death, one of Otter Tail county's leading citizens has passed into the Great Beyond. He was an able, conscientious and fearless man.—Fergus Falls Journal.

NO PART IN CONTROVERSY

SENTIMENT FAVORS LEAVING LOCATION OF PACKING PLANT TO LEGISLATORS

NO ADVERSE SENTIMENT EXPRESSED AGAINST POSITION TAKEN BY ST. PAUL

From Friday's Daily—

After canvassing the situation regarding the location of the proposed Armour Packing plant at New Brighton there seems to be a very decided sentiment among the people of Crookston to take no hand in the matter but to leave the entire subject to the members of the legislature who are in St. Paul and who can become more conversant with the facts in the case, and the extent to which the location of such a plant would be damaging to the State University and a large residence section of St. Paul.

The Journal in an editorial a few days ago took a position in which St. Paul was criticised in a measure for not taking a broader view of the situation. To err is human, and the Journal is free to confess that the stand it took on the matter was ill-advised. After thoro investigation the Journal is of the opinion that the business men of St. Paul are acting in good faith in their fight to keep the polluted sewage from the big plant from flowing thru their sewers.

The packing plant, the Journal believes is greatly to be desired but as to where it is to be located is another question.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT HAS MADE GOOD

Theodore Roosevelt retires as the chief executive of the United States today. He has made good in every sense of the word. He has been severely criticisd by many. He has trod on the toes of many. That is why he has been critcised. He has been a president who has done things. The great majority of citizens of the United States have perfect confidence in him. Here are a few things that have been accomplished during the Roosevelt administration:

The navy of the United States has been more than doubled; it has done what no other similar fleet of a like size has ever done—circumnavigated the globe.

The Panama canal—no feat of so far-reaching importance has been to the credit of this country in recent years.

The peace treaty of Portsmouth was a substantial achievement, as was also the part played by the United States in the Algeciras conference.

The settlement of the anthracite coal strike.

Forest reserves trebled or quadrupled; the forest service reorganized and reservations created for preserving birds and beasts as well as trees.

The national irrigation law enacted second in importance to the creation of the homestead act itself.

The administration of the civil government in the Philippine islands put upon a satisfactory basis.

Cuba transformed into a thriving and prosperous country.

Position of the United States in regard to the Latin-American republics infinitely improved, as is also the case with Japan.

Law passed improving the administration of the navy and of the national guard.

Department of commerce and labor with the bureau of corporations enabled this country to take the first really efficient step towards exercising proper national supervision over corporations.

The consular service of the United States reorganized.

National meat inspection and inspection of packing houses provided, also a pure food law.

Condition of women and child workers investigated.

Employers' liability law for corporations engaged in interstate commerce for the government itself and for the District of Columbia.

The Alaskan boundary dispute settled.

Pacific cable laid.

A movement started for the development of the international waterways.

A movement under way for the betterment of conditions of country life.

Corporations and labor unions brought impartially before the courts.

Many successful suits civil and criminal, undertaken by the government.

SAM FELSING BREAKS ARM

CAUGHT IN BELT OF SAWDUST SPREADING MACHINE HE WAS INSTALLING

INJURY VERY PAINFUL BUT HE WILL NOT BE LAID UP LONG

From Friday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon as Sam Felsing was installing a sawdust spreading machine in the Great Northern ice house at Carman, he slipped on the ice and his arm caught in a belt resulting in a very painful fracture of the right arm between the wrists and elbow. He was driven hurriedly in a hack to Dr. Dampier's office where the fracture was reduced after which Sam walked home with the same smile usually worn. While the injury was very painful his rugged health will result in the knitting of the bones in a short time, when he will be about his usual duties.

ANCIENT ANDOVER SOD-TURNERS FEASTED

Jos. McMahan entertained a number of friends last evening at his hospitable home in Jeromes addition. He issued invitations to a number requesting their presence at a reunion of the Ancient Sod Turners of Andover Township. The meeting was a most pleasant one and included pioneer farmers of Andover and several others who were connected with them in a business way.

Old times were talked over, jokes cracked an da fine oyster supper served. The guests presnt discovered that it was Mr. McMahan's birthday anniversary and he was presented with a handsome gift as a token of esteem and good will. Those present were Lorenzo and Fred Davis, Will, Deb and Sid Lytle, Erick and L. B. Scribner, W. E. Slocum, N. P. Stone, Jake Ide, John Sylvesterson, F. W. Hutchinson, S. L. Collins, Christ Peterson and Dan Hughes. Mesdames Jorgenson, S. C. Lytle, Hutchinson, Christ Peterson, Miss Anna Sylvesterson.

An actress, a suffragette a lawyer, a society leader and an artist, all women yesterday in New York discussed how low a woman's dress might be cut without making it necessary to cut her.

"I wear a very low gown, with only one strap over the shoulder in the second act of 'Miss Innocence,'" declared Miss Lillian Lorraine, "and I had intended having one made like it to wear off the stage.

"I don't see that it matters how low a dress is out in the back, or whether there are straps over the shoulders, so long as it is decently high in front."

"The height of a decollette gown is not a question of morality," said Mrs. Henry I. Siegel, "so I do not see how it can be affected by the day of the week. Personally I can see no objection to wearing a low neck gown on Sunday."

"I understand that a low neck gown is permissible any time after 6 o'clock" said Miss Mary Coleman, lawyer and suffragist. "Personally I have my gowns cut rather high, but I wouldn't care to criticise any one who had hers cut lower."

"I do not wear low neck personally. and one of my principal reasons is because I consider women far more attractive with some sort of covering." announced Mrs. Harriet M. Johnson Wood a successful practicing lawyer. "It is nothing unusual, however, these days," said Mrs. Wood enlarging upon the subject, 'to see a woman with a gown that is cut down to the waist line in the back. So long as it is not that low in the front I suppose we may be grateful."

"The cut of her gown is something that every woman must decide for herself," evaded Mrs. P. H. Mechtold, a playwright.

"Why if I were prettily formed," exclaimed a well known woman artist, merrily, "I would wear my gowns just as low as I possibly could and keep them on. I think women are beautiful and I like to see them in shockingly low dresss."

DEEP CRACKS FROM ECZEMA

Could Lay Slate-Pencil in One—Hands in Dreadful State—Disease Defied Remedies and Prescriptions—Suffered Seven Years.

FOUND A PERMANENT CURE IN CUTICURA

"I had eczema on my hands for about seven years and during that time I had used several so-called remedies, together with physicians' and druggists' prescriptions. The disease was so bad on my hands that I could lay a slate-pencil in one of the cracks and a rule placed across the hand would not touch the pencil. I used ——, ——, —— Skin Lotion, —— Remedy and others externally but I did not use any internal remedy, and while some gave partial relief, none relieved as much as did the first box of Cuticura Ointment. I made a purchase of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my hands were perfectly cured after two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of soap were used. I now keep them on hand for sunburn, etc., and use Cuticura Soap for shaving. I could write a great deal more in reference to my cure but do not want to take more of your time. William H. Dean, Newark, Del., Mar. 28, 1907."

CHILD SUFFERED

"My little daughter suffered with sores on her legs all last summer. Her feet were sore, too, and she couldn't wear her shoes. I think she was poisoned by running through weeds but the doctor said it was eczema. I tried several remedies but failed to find a cure. Then I sent for Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her in two weeks. I find Cuticura the best I ever tried for any kind of sore and I hope I shall never be without it. Mrs. Gertie Laughlin. Ivydale, W. Va., Apr. 25, 1907."

ROTTEN COTTON GLOVES.

The Origin of a One Time Popular Slang Phrase.

The origin of "rotten cotton gloves," a phrase which for some years belonged to the slang of England and America, is worth relating. At a time when John le Hay was playing at the Prince of Wales' he was "commanded" to give his ventriloquial performance at a birthday entertainment at Sandringham.

His two figures, the usual squeaky old lady and the usual rude old man, had been newly dressed for the occasion, that their clothes might not suffer too keenly by comparison with the rich surroundings. But when Mr. le Hay had placed them in position and was about to begin his "show" he found to his disgust that his costumer had forgotten to change the old man's dirty cotton gloves for a pair of new kids.

The tone of shabbiness this gave to the male figure was too conspicuous to be ignored by poor Mr. le Hay, and in an eternal half minute his quick wit found a way out of the trouble for him.

"A nice thing," remarked the male doll, looking around at the royal audience with alarm, "bringing me to a swell house like this in these terrible gloves!"

This caused so much amusement that the ventriloquist decided to make more of the "wheeze," and the badly behaved old gentleman's incessant grumble throughout the entertainment, "rotten cotton gloves," proved one of the chief successes of the evening.

The "line" was in all Mr. le Hay's subsequent performances in America as well as in England, and if, say, a man had had a bad deal in Wall street or in Throgmorton avenue it was the usual thing to say that he had a "rotten cotton deal."—London M. A. P.

FINDING HIS INITIAL.

A Tangle of Letters That Was Finally Made O. K.

The man with a soft, low voice had just completed his purchases.

"What is the name?" asked the clerk.

"Jepson," replied the man.

"Jefferson?"

"No, Jepson; J-e-p-s-o-n."

"Jepson?"

"That's it. Eighty-two"—

"Your first name—initial, please."

"Oh, K."

"O. K. Jepson?"

"Excuse me, it isn't O. K. I said 'Oh.'"

"O. Jepson?"

"No, rub out the O. and let the K. stand."

The assistant looked annoyed.

"Will you please give me your initials again?"

"I said K."

"I beg your pardon, you said O. K. Perhaps you had better write it yourself."

"I said 'Oh'"—

"Just now you said K."

"Allow me to finish what I started to say. I said 'Oh' because I did not understand what you were asking me. I did not mean that it was my initial. My name is Kirby Jepson."

"Oh!"

"No, not O., but K.," said the man. "Give me the pencil and I'll write it down for you myself. There; it's O. K. now!"

SIZING UP THE BABY.

The Mother—Oh, isn't he the cutest, grandest, handsomest, smartest little fellow in the whole world? Such eyes! Such features! Such shoulders! And hear him talk, will you? Why, he understands perfectly every word I say.

The Father—There's a boy for you! Smith will brag about that kid of his, will he? Well, you just wait until this youngster is a month old, and I'll take the conceit out of Smith!

Little Bobby—So that's what the stork brought, eh? Gee, the stork must have it in for this family!

Bachelor Brother—I don't want to cause you folks any anxiety, but he's the smallest human being I ever saw outside of a dime museum. You want to feed him upon roast beef and porterhouse steak right away.

Uncle Jack (a dog fancier)—Is his nose cold? Hold him up by the back of his neck and we'll see if he's got any nerve.

Grandma—There you go, spoiling the child as soon as he has his eyes open! I suppose when he's a month old we shall all have to stand on our heads to amuse him! Give me that infant this instant before he has colic and dies!

The Family Cat—Well, that settles my hash! It's either hunt a new home or become a tailless feline inside of a month. Why, that kid's got a grip on him like a longshoreman's!

The Baby—Goo-goo! Goo-goo! Goo-goo-goo-goo! Or, in other words, I'll make it good and hot for this family about midnight!—St. Louis Republic.

His Name Was Sufficient.

San Malato, the famous Sicilian duelist, seemed to have stepped into our prosaic modern life straight from the pages of Brantome. His fame had done more than penetrate the four corners of Europe. It had reached his own home. Some misguided Sicilian bandits held up a coach one night and summoned its solitary traveler to come out. From the shadowy depths of the vehicle came two short sentences in a cold, staccato voice: "Spread out your cloaks. The mud must not spoil my boots when I descend." The cutthroats fled with the awe striking whisper of "San Malato" upon their quivering lips.—London Telegraph.

"He said he didn't know."

"Well, what doctor are you going to next?"

Fine Old Spanish Emeralds.

"Fine old Spanish emeralds" is a phrase which means something quite different from what it seems to imply. There never was an emerald mined in Spain, but after the conquest of Peru the conquerors brought home great quantities of loot, of which emeralds formed an important part. In this way the finest emeralds came into possession of the old Spanish families, and as very few had been seen in Europe previous to that time all the best stones soon became classed as fine old Spanish emeralds. Today the expression still applies to the best emeralds of any source.

MANY WILL BE HELPED

HOW TO PREPARE A MIXTURE TO CURE—SAYS THIS IS VERY GOOD

DREAD DISEASE, WHICH IS SAID TO YIELD TO SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescriptions regularly a dose or two daily ar even a few times a week would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce indeed, and when you need it you want it badly.

ANGUS-SHERACK

Mrs. H. Osterloh was visiting the school one day last week. Let this laudable act of Mrs. O. be an incentive to others and let them follow her example.

IS JEFFRIES SHAMMING?

WISE ONES DO NOT BELIEVE FORMER CHAMPION WILL EVER BE ABLE TO FIGHT

SCHEME WHEREBY JOHNSON SHALL "LAY DOWN" AND "LOSE" TITLE

Now that Jim Jeffries has reached New York and been acclaimed as if he were president of a plumbers' asssociation, all talk is of a possible match with Jack Johnson.

Johnson is nearing "our shores" and from Honolulu sends word that he is not worried over Mr. Jeffries, and is open to conviction at any time, provided the glittering coins stack high enough. Johnson says he would rather fight Jeffries than any other man.

Jeffries cautiously says that he will not decide to meet the black champion until he has proved conclusively to himself that it is possible for him to get in his old time form.

The great army of sports declare that Jeff will fight Johnson and whip him.

A large number of people believe that Jeffries has no intention of getting back in the ring, but is using his opportunity to boost himself financially by generous advertising.

Fighters incline to the belief that Jeffries can never get back into prime condition again.

One of the best known referees in the country talking to a friend the other day confidentially, said: "Jeffries is not now and never will he the man he was five years ago. He has lived a fast pace and has lost too much ground to ever come back and have his old stamina, speed and endurance. Jeffries' best friends know that Johnson would beat his head off now. If Jeff decides to get back and fight the negro it will be because his head has been turned by universal praise, or because he needs the money. He can never get right to whip Johnson in a fair fight. All the boys on the inside know this, and the talk to the contrary is for advertising purposes only."

A story from New York indicates that a syndicate of sporting men is going to get hold of Jack Johnson and tell him plainly that he is not wanted as champion; that if he insists upon remaining champion he will not be allowed to get on with any good men; that if he is willing to "lay down" and surrender the title in a "fixed" fight, he wil be given money enough to salve his pride and take care of himself with. But as champion he will be blacklisted and boycotted and starved out of color.

This sort of a programme would meet with many obstaoles. Johnson is feeling pretty cocky right now, and, believing that he can whale anybody, he would be very likely to double-cross any man who went on with him under a "working agreement," just as he did Burns.

At this stage of the game the field for Mr. Johnson seems decidedly limited, and unless Jeffries is coddled into a belief that he can whip Jack, the big, black champion's outlook for getting opponents worthy of his steel is not very promising.

MARSHALL MEETS HIM IN JAIL

GRAFTON MAN FACES ANOTHER CHARGE ON BEING RELEASED BY THE STATE

John Gordon a Grafton tailor was brought to Grand Forks yesterday forenoon by Marshall J. Shea on a charge of selling liquor without a government license.

Upon his arrival from Grafton Gordon was arraigned before United States Commissioner George Robbins. He waived examination and his bond was fixed at $100. He went to jail.

Gordon has been serving a term in the county jail at Grafton for selling liquor contrary to the state law. Marshal Shea was on hand when he completed his jail sentence.

Gordon is hopeful of getting a bond In case he cannot he will be obliged to await the meeting of the United States grand jury which will not convene for several months.

Marshal Shea returned last evening to Fargo.

Mrs. I. J. Corey and children expect to leave the latter part of the month for Montana, where they will remain indefinitely. Mr. Corey will still have his headquarters in Crookston, altho he expects to spend a month's vacation with his family this summer.

SOUTH SWEPT BY TERRIFIC TORNADO

Many Lives Lost in Hurricane Which Levelled Buildings and Left Awful Path of Devestation Last Night.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Little Rock, Ark. March 9—Four persons are reported dead and a number injured as the result of a violent storm that swept thru western, eastern and southern Arkansas yesterday afternoon and last night.

Three are reported to have been killed at Brinkley and the town was in flames and its complete destruction seems inevitable.

At midnight a special train bearing physicians and nurses and the fire fighting apparatus of that place was started from Forest City for Brinkley Those reported to have been killed at Brinkley are:

—— Foote, merchant.

—— Starret, merchant.

A Cotton Belt passenger train due in Little Rock at 6:30 o'clock last night is lost in the vicinity of Baucum where a tornado struck and is reported to have swept off the track. Another report is to the effect that the train was struck by lightning. Railroad offices in Little Rock have been endeavoring to locate the train for hours, but have been unable to do so.

A tornado struck Fourche Dam within 5 miles of Little Rock killing a negro boy and injuring other negroes. Two houses were demolished and one was completely destroyed by fire after it had been blown to bits. Several negroes are reported fatally hurt.

The tornado crossed the Arkansas river at Fourche Dam and raised a spout of water about 200 feet high. It traveled toward the northeast and swept a clean path about sixty yards wide. The tornado was followed by a hail and rain storm which kept up throughout the night. The same tornado passed into Baucum where the extent of the damage is also unknown and from there to Kerrin, Lonoke county where several houses were demolished and E. B. Adams a farmer was seriously if not fatally injured.

All the windows in a train between Gurden and Rester were blown out. At Malvern the Methodist church was entirely destroyed at a loss of $6,000.

INITIAL TRIP SUCCESSFUL

E. W. SAVAGE ORGANIZED TWO NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL IN NORMAN COUNTY

E. W. Savage the successor to Samuel Hedegaard as the representative of th eAmerican Sunday School Union has returned from his initial trip, having spent several days in Norman Co. His efforts were very successful he having organized two new Sunday schools one at Borup and one five miles west of Borup in Many township. Both are new schools and are live ones giving promise of good work in the future. Mr. Savage discovered that a horse was imperative for successful work and will buy one in the very near future.

ANGUS PEOPLE UP TO DATE

THE ANGUS TABOR TELEPHONE CO. ISSUED FINE TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

The Angus-Tabor Rural Telephone Co. believes in keeping right up in the front rank all the time. They not only have one of the best lines in Northern Minnesota, but are extending every year and the subscribers are all getting a fine service at a minimum rate.

Heretofore they have used simple cards with the call rings on them but have just had printed a fine telephone book, identically the same as the Northwestern's book in this city, and a simple plan has been devised by President J. F. Montgomery so that the calls are extremely simple. The rural lines in that section which connect with the Northwestern Toll Line at Angus, bring that entire north countral portion of Polk county in close touch with the business men of Crookston, and with the Euclid rural lines, and the ones radiating from Crookston, there are few farmers who cannot be reached without trouble.

ADA DEBATERS AGAIN WIN

DEFEATED THE ORTONVILLE TEAM AFTER JOURNAL TROPHY

The Ada High School debating team being the champion team in the 9th district, composed of Erling Norby, Ernest Helgeson and Frank Prigge, defeated the Ortonville team at Ortonville, Friday evening in the debate over the question "Resolved that the U. S. should annex Cuba." The Ada team defending the negative. They will meet some other champion team in the near future and hope to land the Minneapolis Journal trophy.

OLD SETTLERS HAD BIG TIME

FIFTY FULL FLEDGED MEMBERS AND TWENTY SOCIAL MEMBERS

Last Friday evening the Old Settlers of Euclid held a big meeting in Woodmen Hall at which everyone present enjoyed themselves most thoroly. There are now 50 regular members and 20 social members. There was a fine program carried out including a good address by J. B. Goodwin.

One feature was the reading of the official paper "The Euclid Axiom" which is edited by R. G. Davies of that place, an employe at one of the elevators which contained many local hits.

Special music was furnished by a male quartette and Dr. J. S. Chapin convulsed all present with a Dutch song which he sang in costume. A splendid banquet was served after which dancing and card playing was enjoyed till the farmers who were present could drive home in dawnlight.

SAY RED RIVER VALLEY IS BEST

Mr. and Mrs. Kemmerer who have been making their home in Oregon for the past few years, are expected back to Hallock in a couple of weeks Mr. Kemmerer writes since leaving Hallock he has spent in the neighborhood of a thousand dollars trying to look up a desirable location but he says that after a travel covering nearup the whole state he had failed to find as much as a section that would even compare to a garden patch in Kittson county or the Red River Valley, he says, you can raise every thing from a beef to the best wheat, barley flax or oats in the world and you can always get a good price for it, or have the satisfaction of keeping it until you do, but in Oregon all you can raise is fruit, and the prices are so controlled by the fruit trust that it will hardly pay for the packing of the stuff, and you are generally "up against it" because it is a case of accepting the trust price or the stuff goes to rot on your hands.—Hallock Enterprise.

KEYSTONE WOODMEN ARE LIVE BUNCH

Deputy Ed Humm of this city spent two days at Key West last week and as a result Key West lodge No. 6540 adopted a class of 14 new members. On Friday night the lodge gave a grand ball and Deputy Humm states every member there is a live one. Humm certainly was one in getting the new members.

NO DUTY ON FLEAS

ANOTHER INTERESTING LETTER RECEIVED FROM CAPT. M. R. BROWN

TELLS OF THE CONDITIONS IN AND ABOUT SAN DIEGO—EN-ROUTE HOME

From Monday's Daily—

A personal friend of Capt. M. R. Brown has received another of the series of very interesting letters which the latter has written during his western trip on which he is accompanied by Mrs. Brown.

Capt. Brown also sent some very fine pictures of the ostrich farms in which the plucking was shown, another fine view of the Old Mission Valley near San Diego,, a section of great historic interest in that section of the country.

They will leave San Diego some time this week for the homeward journey which will be made via San-Francisco, Portland and Seattle, with stops at each place. The lecture is as follows:

San Diego, Cal., Mar. 3, 1909:—This city is like all other cities of considerable size and importonce. It has its many places of interest, to attract and amuse the numerous tourists. The surrounding country is somewhat undulating with snow on the tops of the highest mounds. Farmers have not commenced their spring work up there yet, while in the valleys, crops are growing nicely

Fruits are the principal crops such as oranges, grapes, olives figs and lemons, the later being the principal fruit crop.

The soil is very poor indeed and they do not pretend to raise anything without irrigation, not even an umbrella.

Ostrich farming is engaged in quite extensively and we are advised that it is very profitable.

The Chamber of Commerce here in the city is a very interesting lace to visit. It is a bureau of information and also contains a fine display or exhibit of the products of the country, and resources of the city. It will be well for our 25,000 club to adopt some of their plans, which I will present to them after I reach home.

The city is kept quite clean and orderly with very few undesirable places However we innocently dropped into one place in the outskirts of the city yesterday, where they were just laying for us (a chicken farm.)

We took a trip down to Old Mexico a few days since, and visited a little town called Tewane. Its resources are selling curios, etc. On our return at the boundary line, we had to pass thru a custom house, and pay a small duty on all things brought from Tewane (except fleas—by treaty with our government they are exempt.)

The climate of this country is what the people here boast of mostly and we presume it is the most uniform of any place on the American continent. The thermometer ranges from 50 to 90, yesterday it was 67

Everyone makes use of the climate very extensively in their living and some of the inhabitants look as tho it was their principal diet, possibly a few clams may be alternated for a change, the tide flats are close at hand. From outward appearances the principal resources of this city are from tourists, and they tell me it is a sure crop every year.

—M. R. Brown.

THE ACCIDENT PROVED FATAL

WAS INJURED IN A MANHOLE WHILE WORKING FOR CITY LAST FALL

From Tuesday's Daily—

Shortly after noon today John Bergum died at St. Vincent's hospital as the result of being struck on the head by a scantling while working in a sewer man-hole for the city last fall.

It has been known for some time that the injury was a very serious one having resulted in the formation of a blood clot on the brain. Some time ago an operation was decided upon and a specialist from St. Paul came up and with the assistance of local physicians made the attempt, but the clot was so located that it could not be reached.

The deceased for a time after the accident which caused by an icy scantling slipping from the hands of a fellow workman who was standing on the surface above him, seemed to be improving, but later a change for the worse took place and his condition has grown worse steadily till the end came.

Mr. Bergum is one of the old residents of Crookston and resided with his family at 111 Summit Ave. He leaves a widow and 8 children who have the deepest sympathy of a large circle of friends.

WILLIAM FINLEY IS EXPELLED

FROM MEMBERSHIP IN A. F. M. OF GRAND FORKS, N. D.

At a meeting of the Grand Forks union of the American Federation of Musicians Sunday afternoon William Finley the orchestra leader was expelled from membership. The proceedings were brief. A resolution was introduced shortly after the union was called to order. This resolution set forth that all statements of Mr. Finley in regard to the local union and certain members thereof were proven false and that he should be expelled.

Eddie Pomeroy stated that he believed it quite improper to say that the statements had been fully proven when there had been no hearing given He believed that part of the resolution should be stricken out.

To the School Officers of Polk County

In connection with the third annual meeting of the N. W. Minn. Educational Association to be held at Crookston, March 18th and 19th 1909, there will be a School Officers' Convention, to which every School Trustee in Polk county is cordially invited and it is hoped that you will all avail yourselves of the opportunity to hear the excellent programs which have been arranged for the occasion. Every school officer should feel it incumbent upon himself to attend this convention.

Efforts have been made to secure prominent speakers from different parts of the state, among whom will be present during the two days' session, the Hon. C. G. Schulz, our new State Supt. of Public Instruction. In addition to these, several local speakers will take part in the programs.

We have planned to have the Officers Convention extend over the full time of the Association, and the following is a brief outline of the events and the sessions:

March 18th, Thursday—

Forenoon—Visiting Crookston Public Schools.

Thursday Afternoon—Session.

Thursday Evening — Lecture by Pres. McVey of N. Dak. University.

March 19th, Friday—

Forenoon—Session.

Friday Afternoon until 3:30—Session.

Friday Afternoon after session—Visit to the State School of Agriculture. A special train on the G. N. for this purpose has been provided for by the 25,000 Club of Crookston.

Friday Evening—Lecture.

Those attending the Convention, are entitled to a compensation of three dollars per day and five cents per mile in going to and coming from same, as provided by the Revised Laws of 1905.

Those coming to the Convention by railroad, should buy return tickets and take a receipt in full for the fare from the ticket agent.

THREE PRISONERS BREAK JAIL

HOLE BATTERED THRU A BRICK WALL DURING THE SUPPER HOUR

CHIEF ECK NOTIFIED OF ESCAPED BAD MEN AT FARGO

From Tuesday's Daily—

Description

Frank Morrison—Age 24 yrs. height 5 ft. 10 in. weight 140 lbs. dark hair brown eyes, wearing dark brown suit.

George Dean—Age 28 yrs. height 5 ft. 6 in weight 140 lbs. black hair, dark eyes, scar on wrist, scar on right cheek bone, wearing brown suit.

Wm. Dudley, negro, age 24 years, height 5 ft. 11 in. weight 145 lbs. wearing dark suit.

Reward $25 on each man.

Chief of Police Eck and Sheriff Daniels were notified during the night of a sensational jail delivery at Fargo an devery stranger in the city is being closely scrutinized.

Taking advantage of the liberty allowed them during the supper hour, of taking exercise in the corridor, Frank Morrison, George Dean and Wm. Dudley prisoners in the Cass county jail, figured in a jail delivery, which was doubtless the most daring ever pulled off in North Dakota. Securing an iron bar used in locking the cells the men punctured the brick wall on the south side of the jail and after knocking out enough brick to permit their crawling thru they said goodbye to the place of confinement and rushed forth to their liberty.

Dean and Morrison are considered two of the cleverest crooks ever held by Cass county authorities. The former has been in jail but a little over a week being the man held for the robbery of the N. P. station at Horace. He was bound over to the district court but a short time ago.

Morrison was indicted atthe last session of the federal grand jury on the charge of postoffice robbery and it is said that there are several jobs of which he could be accused and prosecuted.

The escape was soon discovered and the wheels in the machinery of criminal catching were started. The sheriff and his deputies sped to every means of exit from the city. The police were notified and in less than an hour every blue coat in Fargo had taken up the hunt for the escaped prisoners. Again the telephone was pressed into srvice and every small town radiating from Fargo was notified. The depots were watched and trains were searched. Altho it is realized that the men are clever, it is believed that before nightfall that trace of the three men will have been received.

Th task of breaking thru the brick wall was a slight one the wall being weakened with age, and not safe at any time. Using the iron bar as a battering ram, their end was accomplished in a very short time. It is stated that when Ex-Sheriff Hunt took the jail he insisted that the walls be reinforced their condition being unsafe at that time.

HOWARD GETS 21 YEARS IN PEN

At Devils Lake Saturday Judge John F. Cowan sentenced William Howard, slayer of his brother-in-law Thomas, at Starkweather, to serve 21 years in the penitentiary. Howard had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the first degree. Two physicians were called as witnesses yesterday. They testified that Howard was subject to epileptic fits and while afflicted knew nothing of what he was doing. It was their belief that he could not be held responsible for his crime the same as a person who never had fits. The maximum penalty for the crime is 30 years and the minimum 10. Howard shot Thomas after a quarrel in which both men had been pounded up Thomas was hit when leaning over a binder making some repairs. He died in a few days.

J. W. MILLER SOLD 8000 BUSHELS OF POTATOES FOR 90 CENTS PER BUSHEL

SOLD 2,000 BUSHELS LAST FALL AND HAS 2800 BUSHELS LEFT FOR SEED

From Tuesday's Daily—

J. W. Lee one of the progressive farmers residing on Rural Route No. 1, southwest of the city, has just finished loading 8000 bushels of Early Ohio potatoes most of which will be shipped to Kansas City.

He received 90 cents per bushel for them, as they are in fine shape. The price make the crop a very profitable one, even tho last season was not an ideal one for potatoes, lack of moisture early in the season keeping them back.

In addition to the sale now, Mr. Lee last fall sold 2,000 bushels and still has 2,000 bushels for seed. This is making money about as fast as could be made in any section of the country, and the success of Mr. Lee will without doubt result in still more farmers devoting attention to potato raising.

SAVED FROM PAYING FINE

HEALTH OFFICER N. C. HANSON ENFORCES LAW BUT PROTECTS NEIGHBORS

SEVERAL DEAD HORSES HAD BEEN DUMPED ON THE ICE IN RIVER

From Monday's Daily—

Health Officer N. C. Hanson of Lowell Township has had considerable trouble during the past winter regarding the disposal of carcasses of dead horses. It appears that several farmers have lost valuable horses by something resembling typhoid fever.

Instead of burying the bodies as provided by law, the farmers dragged them to the river and deposited them on the ice. Mr. Hanson notified them several times but not until they received formal notice from the county auditor to properly bury them, were the carcasses removed.

Mr. Hanson did not want to have his neighbors arrested and prosecuted, as the fine for polluting the river with carcasses of dead animals is $100 or from 3 to 6 months in the county jail. and a fine of $25 is also assessed where the orders of a health officer are not obeyed. The law provides that all dead carcasses should be buried at least three feet deep.

Mr. Hanson also calls attention to the fact that some of the slaughter houses are not in as sanitary condition as they should be, and this matter should be attended to at once.

GEORGE BLAKELY IS PROMOTED

George Blakely who has been district manager of the Northwestern Telephone company for the northern half of North Dakota for the past three years and previous to that time was manager for Grand Forks, has been promoted to be manager of South Dakota and will make his headquarters in Sioux Falls. He is succeeded here by J. Stokesberry of Sioux Falls.

Mr. Blakeley has been a popular and efficient manager and patrons will regret his departure. He has the best wishes of friends all over his territory

GR. NORTH. MAN WAS INJURED

Will Willer son of Adolph Willer of Middle River who is employed by the Great Northern at Warroad sustained a serious injury Friday morning from falling headlong down a flight of stairs. His collar bone and a coule of ribs were broken and a hip bruised badly besides other minor bruises. The company took him to the Thief River hospital Friday evening.

J. J. JORDA[illegible] [illegible]AKES "BIG STICK" OF FRIEN[illegible]IP ALONG WITH [illegible]IM

FATHER OF [illegible]E MORNING CALL REMEMBERED BY THE FORCE

From Tuesday's Daily—

While the city council was wrestling with a treatise on municipal lights, the members of The Call force enjoyed a family reunion preparatory to the departure of Editor J. J. Jordan from service after twenty-five years behind the pen in Fargo. The departure of the father of The Call from journalism was a source of genuine regret to those who have associatel with him in the capacity of employes Charles Branham, advertising manager and the latest acquisition to the "family" rendered "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" in his exquisite English tenor. For encore he sang "We Won't Go Home Till Morning" supported by the full chorus.

Editor Jordan was then presented with a handsome gold-headed ebony cane from the "gang" some of whom have been associated with him for eleven years—the life of The Call. The "big stick" carried with it the best wishes of the force from the press-feeder to the scandal monger. At the same time Mrs. Jordan was presented with a handsome glass rose jar. As presiding officer on "boquet day" she won a place with the force.

J. J. Jordan came to Fargo in 1884. since that time he has been actively engaged in the newspaper business having piloted the Republican, the Argus and finally The Call which he established in 1889. The growth of that publication was constant and most gratifying to its friends. It is with the genuine regret of his friends that Mr. Jordan retires to forget the cares of the newspaper man and enjoy home life and look after Uncle Sam's interests in the land department.—Fargo Call.

Fargo Call Sold

The rumors that have been flying thick and fast for the last few weeks were confirmed last evening when a deal was closed by which the Fargo News Publishing Company bought the Fargo Morning Call. The morning issue of the Call will be its last and the paper will then cease to exist. It is understood that none of the editorial force of the Call will be retained by the News and that the plan is to sell most of the equipment. The News company does not contemplate increasing the size of their plant for some time. The Morning Call has existed ten years, being established in August 1898, when the publishers of the Call purchased the Fargo Daily Argus one of the oldest papers in the state, having been established in 1878. In retiring from the field of Journalism in the Northwest, the departure of Mr. Jordan means the loss of the best editorial "squib" writer in this section. The Call has been closely scanned every day by hundreds of people who enjoyed the brilliant wit and biting sarcasm of Editor Jordan, who, while he was charitable would nevertheless "turn loose" when occa-

A. D. Nelson says that a man who went to eastern Colorado reports the country "all in" so far as it being a desirable place for settlement, and that they are not booming it any more Several who went from this locality and took claims or bottom land raised little grain, and some have come back Many people have left the country, one man being mentioned who spent $2,000 in improvements leaving them to get back where he could harvest something.—Windom Citizen.

Paynesville Press: Possibly an employer's liability law may be a necessity; but how is such a law going to effect the small employer? The loss of a hand or a foot by an employe in the small shop might easily put the employer out of business. In nine cases out of ten such accidents are the result of the gross carelessness of the victim and it is difficult to discover the justice of compelling the employer to pay an exorbitant price in such cases. At a glance it looks as tho such a law might tend to increase rather than decrease the number of accidents.

INTRODUCE YAKS IN WIS.

ASIATIC YAKS SAID TO BE THE ANIMAL TO BE USED ON RANGE LANDS

BETTER FITTED TO ENDURE THE NORTHERN WINTER THAN COMMON CATTLE

From Monday's Daily—

A herd of six fine yaks, it is announced is to be imbported by the Canadian Government and started in business on the experimental farm at Ottawa and John Kirsch is of the opinion that it would be a good idea to bring a herd to the Red River Valley. The animal is about the size of common cattle but is better fitted to endure the cold of a northern winter. It is valuable for miwlk, beef, hide and hair and is easily nourished on sparse vegetation. In this Asiatic beast many foreigners living here who are familiar with them, there exists a great opportunity for North America, especially Canada and the northern tier of states for the yak's habits fit him for life on the barren tracts that lie between the natural ranges of the common cattle and reindeer.

BACK FROM AUTO SHOW

SAYS CROWDS WERE IMMENSE AND SHOWING OF AUTOS VERY COMPLETE

From Wednesday's Daily—

Ed Carlson of the firm of Bjoni & Carlson returned this morning from Minneapolis with Ed Quee, the two having spent the past few days there attending the automobile show. They report that the crowds attending were very large and the showing of autos was most complete, the latest models being shown by every company in the automobile manufacturing business.

Mr. Carlson states that Bjoin & Carlson will receive a Kissel Kar in a few days, a seven passenger 30 horse power machine which the former thinks is about the finest thing in the way of an auto that can be purchased for the money.

All of the dealers who were present at the show were of the opinion that the sale of autos the coming spring and summer would be the largest in years. Many of the farmers are making inquiries regarding autos, and many of them contemplate getting machines and saving both time and horse flesh as a great portion of their business in the city or villages could be handled better and quicker by an auto than by team.

Here in Crookston there is a very noticeable increase in interest in automobiles. Several well known business and professional men who have never before been affectd with the "auto bee" are now thoroly infected and the only cure will be the "chug-chug" of the auto.

Time's Changes.

"Before we were married you said you'd lay down your life for me," she sobbed.

"I know it," he returned solemnly, "but this confounded flat is so tiny there's no place to lay anything down."—Harper's Bazar.

SEEK TO RESTRAIN ADA

SOME RESIDENTS OBJECT TO PRESENT SEWER OUTLET

BIG GATHERING EXPECTED AT OLD SETTLERS MEETING IN JUNE

Ada, March 15 — (Special to the Journal)—A suit has commenced in the District court at Ada by C. J. Skarud and others to restrain the city of Ada from maintaining the present outlet for the sewer. The case will be tried at the next term of court here.

A very largely attended farmers institute was held here Friday. The following were the speakers: Mr. Forrest Henry of Dover, Minn., spoke on clover raising. C. O. Carlson of Erskine, Minn., gave a lecture on dairying and Mr. Charles Brown of Elk River, Minn. spoke on potato raising.

The commercial club held a meeting and appointed various committees to make preparations for the Old Settlers Union to be held here in June. The city of Ada is considering the purchase of a forty acre tract of land just up to the city limits to be converted into a park, if the price can be adjusted. This is a natural park and with a very little work can be made into a beautiful park.

BAND CONCERT GRAND SUCCESS

AUDIENCE PACKED AUDITORIUM —MRS. RIGGS' PLAY A FEATURE

BAND NUMBERS FINE—MR. RIGGS AND MISS CAMERONS NUMBERS APPLAUDED

From Wednesday's Daily—

The Cosolidated Band Concert given in the Auditorium last evening was a signal success in every particular. The concert was enjoyed by a crowd which tested the capacity of the Auditorium, and from the first appearance of Bandmaster Riggs till the final number every piece was applauded to the echo.

All the band numbers were excellent and created the greatest enthusinasm and when it is considered that 65 pieces from the Crookston band, the Crookston Juvenile Band and the Burnham Creek Band, the work done is really marvelous.

The piano numbers by Mrs. Riggs were a genuine treat. On every hand the highest compliments were heard today and last evening regarding the work.

Miss Cameron made her initial appearance before a Crookston audience as a vocalist and was most cordially received. She graciously responded to a most enthusiastic encore. She will be heard later in vaudeville at the Auditorium.

Bandmaster Riggs played one of the most difficult cornet solos ever heard by a Crookston audience and was forced to respond with a second piece.

When it is considered the difficulties under which the Consolidated band has practiced, with no band room or other convenfences, the splendid success scored last evening is really marvelous. Bandmaster Riggs last evening thanked the members of the Crookston Band for their hearty cooperation, the juvenile band for their faithful practice and the Burnham Creek band for the fine work they did and the trouble they had been put to to attend practices.

April

The rain-drops glisten in the sun,
As down the window-panes they run,
run,
And grasp within their tiny hands
A rainbow bright of colored strands,
Which glitters gladly in the shine
From violet deep to carnadine.

And Phyllis gay—when to her eyes
The glistening tears rebellious rise;
My Phyllis smiles through mists of tears,
And each a rainbow gay appears,
For Phyllis, like the wayside flower,
Is sweetest in an April shower.

MIDCLE RIVER IN QUANDRY

THE TIE VOTE ON LICENSE HAS NOT BEEN RULED UPON BY ATTY. GENERAL

JUDGE WATTS BELIEVES THAT LICENSE WILL BE LEGAL THIS YEAR

Middle River, March 15—(Journal Special)—This village has been in something of a jangle ever since election day, March 9th, over the outcome of a tie vote on the license proposition. At this writing no ruling from the attorney general has been received, but the prevailing opinion among citizens generally, and also the expressed opinion of Judge Watts, is, that license will be legal the coming year. The question was voted upon last spring and license carried by a big majority, and in as much as the statutes clearly stipulate that any decision rendered by the voters upon this question stands until changed by a reverse vote, there really seems to be no grounds for the contention that license is down and out in Middle River.

Mrs. Wm. Tice will entertain the Congregational Ladies Aid Society at her home on Thursday afternoon March 18th. Everyone invited.

The local camp of Modern Woodmen at their last meeting decided to have their large commodious hall cellled with oxidized steel and when this has been completed they will have one of the neatest lodge rooms in the state.

The village election held last Tuesday was a surprise to many of our citizens the following ticket being elected: President—Joseph Tagley; Trustees—Louis Larson, Halvor Torkelson and Wm. Halliday; Recorder—F. E. LePage; Treasurer—M. O. Madson; Assessor—J. L. Sletten; Justices—Geo. M. Swift and Nels Paulsrud. The license question was defeated by one vote and the village is joined to the dry list for the coming year.

As evidence of the change of sentiment thruout the state with reference to th slaughtr hous infliction upon St. Paul, attention is directed to the editorial from the Alexandria Post News printed in another column on this page. The Post-News has the precisely correct conception of the duty of a member of the legislature in the premises. A packing plant is a good thing but there is absolutely no necessity of thrusting it in at a point where it will ruin public institutions public parks and private homes. The well-expressed position of the Post-News is becoming more and more general with the state press as the facts beome better understood.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Stillwater Gazette: Some inquisitive fellow in the Duluth Herald asks: "Are you keeping Lent? And what ofr? For the good of your soul or th e applause of the public?" We cannot answer, but we have often wondered if some of those who pretended to be following out instructions were really and actually playing honest. There are a great many people who are truly conscientious in church matters, as they are in everything, but there are people who make a great display that are only fooling the casual observer. Those who make it a point to know who's who, can spot these pretenders with one eye shut and both hands and feet tied.

STRAIGHTEN THIEF RIVER

SURVEYING CREW NOW AT WORK ON THE PROPOSITION IT IS STATED

GEORGE RALPH AT MIDDLE RIVER WHERE THE PEOPLE ARE JUBILIANT

From Monday's Daily—

Middle River, March 15—(Journal Special)—State Surveyor Geo. A. Ralph passed thru here today being enroute to the scene of the labors of the surveying crew east of Thief River, where he will take active charge of the work. In an interview with Middle River citizens Mr. Ralph declared that the state is to immediately put thru a big drainage system for eastern Marshall county. Thief River is to be dredged and straightened its whole length and a complete system of laterals put in on all the section lines on both sides of the river. The survey, Mr. Ralph stated, will be completed in two weeks and the contract for the work let at once so that the entire system will be constructed the coming summer.

This project means everything to Middle River and all eastern Marshall county, It will reclaim hundreds of thousands of wet lands and will be such a stimulas to development that eastern Marshall county will go forward by leaps and bounds and soon become what nature destined it to be—one of the richest dairy and diversified farming sections in the world.

BACK WITH PRISONER

SHERIFF DANIELS AT E. GRAND FORKS WITH TOM FLAHERTY

HEARING IS ON THIS AFTERNOON BEFORE JUDGE SULLIVAN

From Monday's Daily—

Sheriff Orin Daniels returned this morning from Seattle with Thomas Flaherty. He stopped off in East Grand Forks and will not return to Crookston till this evening. Flaherty had a preliminary hearing before Judge T. A. Sullivan of the Municipal court at East Grand Forks, waived examination and will stand trial in the district court in June unless the case is settled in the meantime. There is every probability that there will be a settlement as Mr. Flaherty has property in East Grand Forks and also has some close friends there who will do everything possible for him. The case against him was started by the bonding company and not by the Gund Brewing Co., in whose employ he was at the time the alleged defalcation took place.

ROLSCH BUYS DAIRY COWS

J. B. Retzner, one of the well known farmers who resides on rural route No. 5 out of Crookston is spending the day in the city and delivered to Ernest Rolsch four fine shorthorn dairy cows from his fine dairy herd in the township of Fanny. Mr. Rolsch recently made a trip to southern Minnesota where he purchased some Guernsey cattle and several fine horses, but desired to secure some dairy stock to place on his fine farm south of the city. This he found he could buy right here at home, and the cows he purchased of Mr. Retzner are as fine as could be purchased anywhere in the entire state.

With the fine start he has made Mr. Rolsch will very soon have one of the best dairy farms in the state.

Make it Strong

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER GRANTED A DIVORCE

TOOK RUTH BRYAN, MRS. LEAVITT, JUST FIFTEEN MINUTES TO SECURE THE DECREE

Lincoln, Neb., March 11—An absolute divorce with custody of her two children was granted yesterday in the district court to Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, daughter of William J. Bryan from William Momer Leavitt, her artist husband, to whom she was married five years ago at the Fairview home of her parents following a court ship of a little over two months.

The application was uncontested, Leavitt being present neither in person nor represented by counsel.

No mention is made of alimony, and the only reservation is that the father shall be permitted to see the children at reasonable times, the court taking the granting of this consideration upon himself without application having been made. Non-support was the only allegation made by Mrs. Leavitt.

Thomas S. Allen, uncle of the plaintiff, and her attorney, chose the noon hour to call the case. The court house was almost deserted, fewer than a dozen persons were in the room when Mrs. Leavitt, who was accompanied by her mother, took the stand.

She testified that almost from the time of their marriage Leavitt had contributed nothing to the support of herself and children. When living at Denver her father at one time sent her $5,000 at another time $500 and her mother had also given her $500, said Mrs. Leavitt. She was asked if her husband was capable of earning a livelihood.

"He is," she said, "and with his talents should support his family."

Mrs. Bryan corroborated the testimony of her daughter. Mrs. Bryan said she had visited the Leavitts when they lived in Denver in a house which Mr. Bryan and herself had furnished. She told of sums of money they had contributed to support the family.

The proceedings did not occupy more than ten minutes.

Mrs. Leavitt was not informed at the time of the decree that her husband was to be permitted to see the children at certain times as that was an after consideration of the court.

Mrs. Leavitt will be 24 years old on her next birthday.

It is better to lead a procession than to follow it—unless the leader is in a black wagon with glass windows.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST DOCTOR

GEORGE W. TOOMB DIED AND DR. OPPLIGER ALLEGES MALPRACTICE

ON PART OF DR. CORRIGAN—DODDS WELL KNOWN HERE

From Thursday's Daily—

George Toomb, employed by the Cross-Dodds Lumber company at Spooner as assistant manager, while driving near the Shevlin-Mathiue Lumber company's planer last Thursday was thrown from the load and struck on his head being severely injured.

Dr. J. E. Corrigan was first called in attendance and afterwards Dr. G. Oppliger. Toombs never regained consciousness and died Saturday evening.

All arrangements for a funeral had been completed to be held yesterday but it developed that Dr. Oppliger in his certificate of death alleged malpractice on the part of Dr. Corrigan and as a result Dr. Corrigan who is chairman of the Board of Health refused to issue a burial permit, necessitating the calling of the coroner from Bemidji and it is expected that he will arrive there today and that an inquest and post mortem examination wil be held.

Geo. W. Toombs was 24 years of age and a son of Alonzo Toomb and was born and raised near Stephen, Minn. The postponement of the funeral has raised an enormous furore in the village as Mr. Toomb was one of the most popular young men there and nearly everyone is arranged on the side of one or the other doctor.

HAS DECIDED TO LOCATE IN VALLEY

HENRY BOLTMAN ARRIVES FROM ILLINOIS—WILL IMPROVE FARM

Henry Boltman and family arrived yesterday from Illinois and will make the Red River Valley his future home. He purchased a farm several years ago just west of Jos. Reitzinger's of Brown & McPhee and has been renting the land since that time. He finally decided however that the Red River Valley would be about the proper place to farm and packed his belongings.

His car of stock etc., is expected any day and he will begin farming equipped in every way to make a success from the start. There is already a fair set of buildings on the farm, but early in the spring Mr. Boltman will erect a modern residence and will have all conveniences, and will also put all the buildings in first class repair.

The Red River Valley is getting more settlers of the desirable class this spring than for many years past and the movement will be heavier a little later than it is now.

THE SPEEDING BULLET.

Marked changes occur in a bullet fired from a gun after it has been acted upon by the force of the explosion in the barrel. Its surface has become clean, bright and highly polished by the removal of the superficial layers of the sheath, and its temperature has been raised both by the friction against the barrel and by the enkindled gases. Because of this rise in temperature it is thoroughly sterilized and totally destitute of bacteria. Standing behind a twelve inch gun one can easily follow the flight of the projectile with the naked eye.

Under favorable circumstances and with the aid of a telescope it is possible to catch a glimpse of even the small bore bullet as it flashes through the air. Photographs, or, rather, shadowgraphs, of the .311 inch bullet traveling with a speed of over 2,000 feet a second show the cap of condensed gas, about one-tenth of an inch thick, which clothes the nose of a projectile when it is in rapid motion through a gaseous medium.

Minute rotating spherules of gas showing motion remain behind and map out the path of the bullet. These lines and eddies recall forcibly the bow and stern waves made by a ship in motion and the numerous little whirlpools that may be seen in its wake.—Chicago News.

JAIL BREAKERS BACK IN CELLS

ALL THREE MEN WHO GOT OUT OF FARGO BASTILE HAVE BEEN CAPTURED

WILL UNDOUBTEDLY RECEIVE HEAVIER SENTENCES THAN HAD THEY REMAINED

A telephone message to Chief Eck received last night stated that Frank Morrison and George Dean who escaped from the Cass County jail at Fargo Monday evening had been captured at Jamestown. They were arrested on the Northern Pacific west-bound North Coast Limited. They were positively identified.

News also came that William Dudley the negro who escaped with Morrison and Dean had been captured at Alexandria, Minn., by the sheriff of Douglass county.

Will Get Heavy Sentences

The three men will undoubtedly receive much heavier sentences than if they had remained in jail. A reward of $100 each had been offered for their capture and local officers have been busy looking out for them.

From Fargo it is reported that sensational developments are looked for. It is considered certain that the men received outside assistance in breaking out, and it is believed that the whole plot will be exposed shortly. The arrest of certain prominent men of that section is promised.

THE VETERINARY.

A horse's foot should be examined whenever he comes into the stable, especially if he has been driven on country roads; otherwise a small stone or possibly a nail may remain undiscovered until the horse is made lame.

Distribution of Tuberculosis.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by the Minnesota experiment station that a dangerous medium in the distribution of tuberculosis is the manure of infected cattle, which in its dry form may readily be blown into milk in the stables. The utmost care should be taken to isolate all cattle known to be or suspected of being affected with tuberculosis, not only for the safety of human life, but for the welfare of the herd.

Remedy For Rheumatism.

For rheumatism in horses a breeder says that the following is an excellent remedy: Dissolve two drams of carbonate of potash in a pint of water and mix it with the feed two or three times a day until the animal gets well. Apply equal parts of alcohol and water to the affected joints twice a day.

Enlargements on Horses' Legs.

A recommended remedy for enlargements on the legs of horses is a mixture of potassium iodide, one ounce; iodine, three drams; water, eight ounces. Mix well and apply over the affected parts. The application should be made at the first appearance of the trouble.

For Colts That Are Teething.

Colts suffer from teething at times, and to subsist wholly upon hard, dry food may work injury. Steamed crushed oats or barley thickened with bran will prove appetizing and very nourishing in such cases. Roots may be cooked and the mass extended with ground grain and bran.

A Wash For Mange.

One ounce of carbonate of potassium to each quart of rainwater makes an excellent wash for mange or itch. Wash the affected parts once each week with this mixture and then wash off the mixture with clean rainwater.

Prevention of Ringbone.

Ringbone can be prevented by keeping the horse's feet properly trimmed, not overworking colts while young, careful driving on hard and uneven roads and avoiding all strains on the tendons.

Bright Pupils.

"You have two very bright pupils, Miss Winsome," remarked Mr. Sweetly to the schoolma'am.

LOST THEIR WARDROBE

BIJOU THEATRE BURNED THERE LAST NIGHT — MRS. FELDKIRCHNER LOSER

From Saturday's Daily—

The Bijou theatre 123 DeMers ave. at Grand Forks was gutted by a fire which started about 7 o'clock last evening. The loss is $6,000 and Mrs. R. Feldkirchner who owned the building and contents, carried no insurance. The building is a frame structure and the insurance companies declined it as a risk while it was used for theatrical purposes.

Ed Wilson, who has leased the Auditorium here for the coming year and who will open it to the public on Mar. 18, and Miss Cameron also of this city who were doing a vaudeville turn at the Bijou at Grand Forks lost practically all their wardrobe. Miss Cameron had just purchased some very expensive dresses for her work here, and all were burned. Mr. Wilson lost nearly all his blackface stuff and nothing was insured.

Mr. Wilson saved two trunks which belonged to the other vaudeville artists. He dashed into the rear of the building and dragged two trunks out which contained considerable valuable stuff, tho most of the contents were in use and were hanging on the walls of the dressing rooms.

The photograph gallery of G. G. Grove, next door to the theatre was damaged to some extent by water. The is fully covered by insurance. The store of Max Rabinovich on the other side came out practically no loss altho at one time it was feared the building would be burned. Mr. Rabinovich stated last night that he would make no claim for insurance. He praised the work of the firemen in heading off the flames.

Thousands of people watched the fire and they agree with Mr. Rabinovich that Chief Runge and his men are entitled to a great deal of credit for their successful work. The theatre building was a flimsily constructed place and it burned like tinder. All around it are buildings of a like character.

Airtight Heater Explodes

The fire started in a dressing room under the stage. An airtight heater which had been started a short time before by the janitor exployed with a loud report. A second later Mrs. Feldkirchner and others who were in the front part of the house saw the flames shoot up and in a very short time the stage was roaring like a furnace.

Very little of the contents of the theatre was saved. The moving picture machine, films and supplies were destroyed. The theatrical people saved some of their trunks. Young Bros., lost two pianos.

Mrs. Feldkirchner was undecided as to her plans last night. Having no insurance the loss of the theatre is a great blow to her. The Savoy was suggested but it was stated that it has been remodeled completely for a wholesale house.

SURVEYING CREW AT WORK

ENGINEER CREW OF STATE DRAINAGE BOARD IN CITY THIS MORNING

HAS CREW AT WORK ON STATE DITCH NEAR MIDDLE RIVER

George A. Ralph, Engineer of the State Drainage board was an arrival in the city this morning and proceeded to Middle River where he has had a crew at work surveying a ditch to take care of the overflow water which has caused the farmers of this section a great deal of trouble in the past.

Mr. Ralph has for years been one of the strongest advocates of drainage, and has probably done more than any one man along that line. There is no other man in the state who is as well posted regarding the needs of the state in that line as Mr. Ralph, and his idea regarding systematic drainage if followed out, will certainly pay the state a thousand times over.

"The world is alway out of joint; all of us are born to set it right," the Duluth Herald says.

The business of reforming the world will never be done this side of the millenium. No sooner have the reformers gained their point than there is something else that needs reforming. There is always a man's work for every man to do. It is very fascinating business this business of reforming the world, and the best men of all time have been busy at it. But of them all, which were the real reformers? Who were the most effective?

An interesting side light upon present day reformations, and one that may be helpful in answering this question, is found in President Taft's narration of how he first met his predecessor. "We found after discussion," says Mr. Taft concerning the early days of his acquaintance with Roosevelt, "that we agreed in quite a marked way in our views of proper political ideals and proper political methods. We were as emphatic in the judgment that the political reformer who was not willing to accept conditions as they were as the basis for his action, and to work for the better things that were practical, without achieving all that he would like to achieve, was rather a hindrance than a help to progress, and merely assisted the permanent control of the boss and the machine. This, I think has been the moving principle of Mr. Roosevelt's career. He has believed in practical progress and not in ideals which make for no real advancement." It is quite evident, from this statement, that "the moving principle" of Mr. Taft's administration will be this same working from things as they are to the next best thing which it is possible to secure.

Men who are animated by such ideas are the real reformers. Thru them we get evolution. If it were not for such men, evils and abuses must pile up until there is no alternative but revolution. Certain it is that the world will go on reforming and reforming until the end of time. Better the reform that comes by evolution than that which comes by revolution.

Reformers who demand that the world mend its ways simply because its ways are wrong, without reference to the limitations of existing conditions, do not help very much in the reformation of the world—except in times of revolution. In the ordinary every day progress of this world of good and evil mixed, the man who is willing to take things as they are and to acept such reforms as he is able to bring about is the real, useful reformer. The man who refuses to accept the bettering of a condition because that bettering is only a partial righting of wrong conditions is, as Mr. Taft says, "merely assisting the permanent control of the boss" and fixing error more firmly in the saddle.

The man who refuses to accept the good that he can get and use it as a stepping stone to get something better justifies himself on the ground that his conscience will not allow him to compromise with wrong. Such a man is sadly out of sympathy with his human fellow creatures who can never be wholly right. Moreover where would a consistent application of his theory bring the world to? Growth would end, evolution cease and revolution universally prevail.

The world is very practical, everyday sort of place and the real reformers in it are those who just do the best they can every day. If that is the kind of a reformer Mr. Taft is, more power to him!

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood, instead of being removed from the body daily as nature intended. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills, liver pills. All vegetable.

FUNERAL HELD TODAY—The funeral of John Bergum was held today from the United Lutheran church, Rev. O. F. Johnson officiating. There was a large gathering of friends who were present to pay a last tribute of respect to a pioneer of Crookston whose unfortunate death caused general sorrow. The widow and eight children have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in their hour of trouble.

SPECIAL SERMONS —Beginning next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock Rev. Willard S. Ward, of the local Presbyterian church will deliver a ser ies of three practical addresses to wage earners and their friends on "The Present Social Problem and Its Soluton." Mr. Ward was for 12 years a member of a trades union and is giving these matters most serious and careful study. There will be special music at each service. Prof. N. A. Thorson will sing next Sunday evening. Prof. Powers on the 21st and the Viking Chorus on the 28th. All interested in the wage earners' problems are cordially invited to attend.

REMAINS LAID TO REST— The remains of Miss Annie Hanson were laid to rest yesterday, services having been held at the home of her brother Louis Hanson. Many friends were present and the remains were followed to their final resting place by a large cortege. The bereaved mother and brother have the sincere sympathy of all in their trouble. Miss Hanson who was the victim of lung trouble was held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends and will be sadly missed by those with whom she associated.

"My three year old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in an awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Orino Laxative and the next morning the fever was gone and he was entirely well. Foley's Orino Laxative saved his life." A. Wolkush, Casimer, Wis.

NEW TIME CARD ON G.N.

CREW ON THE WARROAD LINE WILL GO THRU TO FARGO

ST. VINCENT CREW WILL MAKE THE RETURN TRIP EVERY DAY

From Friday's Daily—

A new time card will go into effect on the Great Northern, probably Sunday at midnight. As a result there will be two crews on the Warroad line Instead of the train crews running thru from Moorhead to St. Vincent, the same crew will run to St. Vincent and back every day from here.

The Warroad train however will be changed as regards the running time. The train to Warroad will leave here at the same time as at present but with the two trains and new train crew it will be possible to get here early in the evening from Warroad. The present schedule gets the train to Warroad about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while the new schedule will provide starting the train out of Warroad about noon. While the time schedule has not been definitely fixed the train will get here in time to make connections south, west and on to Fargo.

The crew arriving here from Warroad will transfer here to the St. Vincent train and take it on thru to Fargo and Moorhead, and returning from there in the morning will transfer to the Warroad train again.

This transfer is made because the Warroad train could not go thru to Moorhead without being turned around in the South Crookston yards which would take considerable time and it was desired to avoid this feature of delay, being easier to have the train crew change trains.

TORCH APPLIED MOORHEAD CHURCH

PRESBYTERIAN EDIFICE IS BURNED TO THE GROUND EARLY THIS MORNING

At 12:30 this morning fire was discovered in the basement of the Presbyterian church 503 Second avenue south, Moorhead and before the department could reach the scene the flames had gained such headway that they were entirely beyond control and in a comparatively short time the frame building had been reduced to ashes.

There had been no one in the building during the day and no fire built since Sunday from which the conflagration could have originated.

The ugliest kind of rumors were current in Moorhead this morning. The conclusion has been reached that the fire was of an incendiary origin, started by some wretch who wished to satisfy his spirit of revenge.

Rev. D. McIntyre pastor is not in the city, having left yesterday morning for Winnipeg. It is feared when he returns the shock will be more than he can stand, being in a wrecked nervous condition at the present time.

The Presbyterian church was the oldest edifice in Moorhead.

The building which was used before this burned down. This building new cost about $4,000. With the furnishings the loss will be about $5,000. with only $2,500 insurance.

FARGO WANTS BETTER SERVICE ON GT. NOR.

The Fargo Commercial club has sent a delegation of prominent business men to consult with the Great Northern in regard to a rearrangement of the schedule of passenger trains out of that city on the Great Northern branches. The plans of the Fargo club, if followed, will result in a day train to Crookston and Winnipeg, giving both day and night service to those points.

The Great Northern branches now running out of Fargo bring in trains in the evening and leave the next morning. The Fargo club desires to reverse this schedule in order that neighboring towns will be given the advantage of a day in Fargo for trade In case the Winnipeg service is installed the Great Northern will make conections at Fargo with the Fargo-Crookston branch, at Crookston coming back on the main Winnipeg line and continuing north. The road has two night service trains to Winnipeg at present.

QUARTER MILE GOES TO WOOD

NORVAL BAPTIE HOWEVER, RETAINS HIS HONORS IN MILE EVENT IN CLEVELAND

NORTH DAKOTA WORLD'S CHAMPION LOSES QUARTER MILE IN BIG RACES

From Friday's Daily—

Norval Baptie of North Dakota world's ice skating champion last night at Cleveland surrendered the quarter mile honors to Morris Wood, of New York in the opening series of professional skating races here tonight. He retains however, the one-mile mark, defeating Wood and Nilson. Charles Rankin retained his honors in the fifty yards dash. No records were broken. The five professional skaters with world's records that will take part in the three nights' events scheduled include Baptie, Wood, Nilson, Sinnerud and Rankin. The summaries:

Quarter mile—Wood won; Baptie second; Nilson third, Time 40 1-4.

Mile—Baptie won; Wood second; Nilson third. Time, 2:54 4-5.

Fifty Yard Dash — Rankin won; Wood second; Nilson third. Time, :05 2-5.

DAIRY NOTES
From Northwestern Agriculturist

In 1906 Great Britain imported from America 7,866 tons of butter.

The churn is the only wooden utensil that has a place in the dairy.

Don't expect the boys to be kind to the cows unless you set the example.

No matter how hard it rains, there are always a few dry spots around the barn.

Attend the dairy meeting or the dairy convention in your neighborhood.

One secret of success in the dairy is in always keeping the cows in good physical conditions.

The manure spreader is no longer looked upon as a luxury by the farmer who feeds stock.

Are you trying to hunt prairie chickens with a bulldog, or to make money milking a beef cow?

The average man's idea of cleanliness corresponds with his everyday conditions and conveniences.

A co-operative creamery requires just as good management in order to succeed as any other business.

If a dairyman raises his own cows he ought to be sure that they come from the right kind of stock.

Instead of buying more cows our farmers should spend more money on the best ones they now have.

Don't use musty or dirty litter. The air in the barn is filled with the dust whenever the litter is moved.

It pays to produce good dairy products because there are people willing to pay a fancy price for them.

The dairyman who produces clean milks is never worried about keeping it sweet for a reasonable length of time.

Let us emphasize again that a cow can't be an economical milk producer and an economical beef producer.

A good creamery in your neighborhood makes your land more valuable than one located in a city two or three hundred miles away.

When a fellow gets so busy milking scrub cows that he can't find time to learn any better, he certainly is deserving of pity.

It requires protein to make milk and this ingredient is found in comparatively high percentages in oil meal bran, oats, clover hay and alfalfa.

Learn to make good use of the skim milk and then you will better appreciate the good cow. A warm milk mash for the hens helps increase the profits from the dairy.

Alfalfa hay contains 11 per cent protein, clover 7 per cent and timothy and prairie hay each about 3 per cent hence the difference in feeding value for milk production.

Little Falls Herald: George Washington would have enjoyed the athletic sports of today. Marrathons and all. He had a great deal of activity and once made a standing jump of twenty-two feet, besides throwing a dollar over the Rappahannock river. His fame as a wood chopper is also quite general, even if legendary.

MILLIONS TO GO IN TRADE SCHOOL

GREAT MECHANICS' INSTITUTION IS PLANNED FOR THE TWIN CITIES—PART OF MONEY SAID TO HAVE BEEN PLEDGED—DEXTER D. MAYNE OF AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL CREDITED WITH ORIGIN

Plans for a great trade school of national scope to cost several million dollars and to accommodate more than 5,000 students are understood to have reached a point where the institution is practically assured for the Twin Cities. Dexter D. Mayne, principal of the state farm school at St. Anthony park, is the man named as the originator and promoter of the scheme. Professor Mayne declined to discuss the matter when questioned concerning it.

A large proportion of the money required is said to have been promised for the establishment of the school and plans for the buildings have been prepared. The proposition has received enthusiastic support from many sources in which it has been outlined.

While those who have interested themselves in the proposition have made every effort to avoid publicity until the success of the scheme has been assured the immensity of the undertaking has been such as to cause talk wherever it has become known.

Leader in Trade Schools

With the establishment of the institution, the Twin Cities would have a school without a counterpart in the United States and one which would be a leader in the trade school movement of the country.

While many of the details of the plan have been taken from other educational institutions the scheme as a whole is remarkable thru its novelty and originality as well as its immensity. The scheme is to teach every trade known to the commercial world and to so train the students as to fit the graduates of the school to take up the work of skilled tradesmen. There will be no entrance requirements except the earnest desire to learn a trade.

In the administration of the institution the methods of Valparaiso college of Valparaiso, Ind., will be followed to a great extent. The cost of the course and the expenses of the students will be held at the lowest possible figure. Dormitories will be provided for the students and meals will be supplied at extremely low rates. Studies will go on all year around, established college customs being disregarded in the effort to give the students the best possible trade education at the lowest possible cost of time and money.

Along Scientific Lines

While keeping the practical side of the subjects to the front, the school is designed to teach as well not a little of the scientific and theoretical so that its graduates will be as well posted in many lines as are those of many techinical schools.

The importance of the plan to the twin cities is believed by its promoters to be immense. They believe it will make the twin cities the center for trade schools of the United States and will establish in them the greatest institution of the kind in the country, turning out thousands of expert trades men each year.

Capital is understood to have been interested in the plan to such an extent that success is practically assured altho much more money must be raised before it can be made a certainty. A site midway between Minneapolis and St. Paul southwest of the state fair grounds, is said to have been decided upon, and several thousand dollars has been expended in plans for the buildings and grounds.

Cambridge Independent Press: There seems to be a few politicians attempting to make political capital out of the fight for a tonnage tax. Here in Isanti county the farmers and others are interested in the growth of Duluth and St. Louis county. The prosperity of the people at the Head of the Lakes means much to us. Every quarter of the state should receive fair treatment and no heed should be given to a handful of would-be political bosses.

Stillwater Gazette: Increase the bounty on the fox and the wolf. These untamed animals of the forest have once more invaded Duluth and there is quite a revival of business at the hardware stores.

Our idea of a true philosopher is a man who is able to explain away his faults to the satisfaction of himself.

Brainerd Tribune: Good sensible talk by The Duluth Evening Herald "Supporting the home institutions, doing business with your neighbors, buying at home, is not merely a sentimental concern for those who know the best, but a hard-headed business policy that means dollars to your own pockets.

Eveleth Star: The extinguishing of the red light district in Duluth has proved a failure. The better citizen the Christian citizen is willing to confess that the civic league blundered when they insisted upon the mayor driving them out all over the city.

Weather Forecasts

The fact that Prof. Moore the head of the federal weather bureau found it necessary to issue a circular to explain the meteorological surprise of inauguration day, is evidence, remarks the St. Paul Dispatch of the unvarying interest the people take in the weather. This is especially true of the beginnings of seasons and emphatically true of the beginning of spring. Wearying of winter, longing for spring, everybody is concerned in whatever may bear upon the weather possibilities — the merchant for his trade prospects, the householder for his coal supply, the sportsman for his outdoor amusements and not less the urchin whose playground still carries its winter banket of snow. The weather is the first and last topic of the day.

We have all learned to place a modified dependence upon the official forecasts, the percentage of verifications having justified the faith. It was a shock when the prediction for fair weather for the inauguration was so rude reversed, but Prof. Moore explains it satisfactorily and promises to do better when meteorology becomes an exact science. He vindicates his bureau and expresses no more than the truth in his conclusion:

The forecasters of the United States weather bureau are the equals if not the superiors of any others in the world, and their predictions of frosts cold waves, floods and marine storms although subject to error in the proportion of about one to ten are of such value to the industries of the nation that if one of the newspapers that now so freely criticise because two unverified forecasts for the District of Columbia have fallen on inauguration day, were to omit from its pages the daily predictions of the weather its readers would compel it to restore them, and if the department or congress were to close a station of the bureau in any part of the United States the property interests would demand its restoration. This would not be the case if the hysterical abuse that is now being indulged in was justified.

Another Blow To Romance

Hiram Percy Maxim's successful application of the muffler idea to firearms, and the consequent production of the noiseless gun, is believed by military experts to presage revolutionary changes in warfare. The art of military strategy, reduced to its simplest terms, is the art of sneaking up on the enemy and popping away at him before he is ready for you. But young Maxim has made it possible not only to sneak up on the enemy, but to pop away at him with noiseless, smokeless guns that do not betray the whereabouts of the attackers. The beauty of the invention is that it is applicable to the present firearms, and that new types and patterns are not necessary. Most revolutionary inventions involve the scrapping of much costly apparatus, and the construction of entirely new machines. If introducing noiseless guns involved the making of new guns, the cost of rearming for the armies of the world would run into billions of dollars. But the Maxim device weighing but a few ounces can be attached to the muzle of any gun, says the Minneapolis Journal.

It is evident however, that the noiseless gun means a revolution in literature as well as in strategy. Writers must devise a new vocabulary to describe the battles of the future. The roar of cannon, the rattle of muskettry the sinister purring of the machine gun, and all the variant synonyms by which the noise of the batle is analyzed and made vivid to the reader, are now to become obselete. Thus the traditions of a thousand years are suddenly to be overthrown. Not only that, but melodrama that is up-to-date must give up the reverberatory delights of such fusillades as that shown in "The Round-Up," wherein delightsome and expensive detonations are lavished at every performance.

The fact is that the romance has all but been squeezed out of war. The good, old swashbuckling days must now recede still farther into the past. High-powered guns struck a body blow at romance, and the job is now to be finished by noiseless guns. Napoleon played war as Lasker plays chess. He moved his armies hither and thither, checking and threatening advancing and retreating and finally delivering checkmate that ended the game. But in that day as in all previous history, personal bravery counted for much. The soldier could see and shoot at his enemy, and if need be come to close grips with him. The Old Guard could dash into action and by the perfection of its discipline and the dauntless energy of its courage, pluck victory from defeat. Nowadays, as at Liao-yang and at Mukden, soldiers fight for days without once seeing the enemy. Now is the case for romance any better at sea. What would such a sea-fighter as Paul Jones, accustomed to grapple his ship to the enemy's and fight it out on the decks slippery with blood, think of firing away at a mere speck on the horizon.

Hereafter the soldier must fight, not only without seeing the enemy but also without hearing him. Unless, perchance, the enemy swoos over him in an aeroplane and drops a neat little papckage of dynamite on his head. In fact, science seems in a fair way to make war utterly unattractive. It has long been unprofitable.

Public Effect Of Miscarriage Of Standard Oil Case

The general public will regard as a miscarriage of justice the decision of Judge Anderson by which the Standard Oil Company goes scot free. It will be unable to follow the case thru its legal labyrinth, but, looking at results only will despair of the justice of the courts. Under a certain state of facts a concededly learned judge imposed a fine of many million dollars under the same state of facts, viewed in the light of instruction from a higher court—instruction as obscure as Greek to the lay public — an equally learned judge directs a verdict of acquittal. How may the average citizen reconcile such a proceeding with his conception of the wisdom of the courts and the justice of the law?

That the wealth of the defendant company in some way influenced the result may be the conclusion of the hasty and unthoughtful, but of them only. The view which will generally obtain, unclarified by the slightest knowledge of law, is that the intricacies of the law tend more to supply loopholes for the escape of criminals than its plain and simple construction furnishes means for their successful prosecution.

The feeling that there is no criminal law so simple and drastic, but a shrewd lawyer may find means to circumvent it, is sowing a lamentable distrust of both law and court. Disrespect of courts and lack of faith in the administration of justice deplorable as they are, are encouraged in the masses of the people by decisions such is that of Judge Anderson strictly within the law as is may be.

The main point is that the Standard Oil company has escaped punishment It has found a way as such powerful corporations always find a way, to escape the criminal courts. Even if the fine stood it would not have punished the Standard Oil company. Rather it would have punished the patrons who paid the fine in increased prices. While monopolies control the prices of their products fines anywhere within reason can hardly prove serious to such monopolies. The burden can be shifted too easily. Imprisonment of corporation officers is hardly more effective. Other men are ready to take their places and carry out th eoriginal policies. In fact our criminal laws were made to deal with flesh and blood individuals, and with them only. They were not intended to control the elusive and intangible corporation. If the government prosecutions which have been pushed so vigorously demonstrate their futility as a means of corporation control they will have fully justified themselves. That point established our statesmen can seek a real solution of the perplexing problem.—St. Paul Dispatch.

PROGRAM FOR STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET

The completed program for the state Sunday school convention which will be held in Crookston May 4, 5, and 6, of the present year, has been announced by the secretary of the association and there is no question but that it will be one of the most complete programs that has ever been arranged for a like convention.

State wide publicity is being given to the convention by the officers of the association and the recent number of the Sunday School Herald, the official organ of the association, is almost entirely devoted to the coming meeting. It contains a bird's eye view and a two-page write-up of the city, and upon every page there is an exhortation to attend the convention. The Herald has a circulation in excess of 15,000 in the state and there is no question but that it will arouse great interest in the big event.

The convention will continue thru three days and it is estimated that it will attract about five hundred visitors to the city from all sections of the state. Besides the publicity given to the meeting through the Herald envelope stickers, speakers and letters will be set to every Sunday school in the state and the most persuasive arguments will be made to have them represented at the big meeting. Secretary A. M. Locker is anticipating one of the most enthusiastic and largest conventions that the association has ever held.

The program in full is as follows:

PROGRAM.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

EUCLID OLD TIMER—Henry Weld eman one of the old timers of Euclid spent Saturday in the city attending to some business matters and calling on his old time friends.

BACK FROM N. D.—Gene Roy returned this morning from a five weeks' trip thru North Dakota points. He says the people there are looking forward to a prosperous year and business in all lines is picking up rapidly.

A NEW DAUGHTER—Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Fourn— are the parents of a very fine bab; ughter which arrived at their home this morning. Both mother and baby are doing well and Johnathan is selling furniture at 25 per cent discount.

A NEW FIREMAN—John W. Risch the fire marshal is the father of a very fine son which arrived at his home this morning. The young fireman is slightly small to handle a nozzle as yet, but later on can be depended upon to do his full ludty in that line.

MAKES A FINE SHOWING—J. F. Hetler, the proprietor of the Queen City Greenhouse, certainly has a place well worth visiting at the present time. The editor of the Journal spent a few hours there yesterday and also spent all the loose change he had. The flowers and potted plants are certainly very fine—none could be nicer and the young vegetables are all well started.

PLANTING THEIR GARDENS —The Journal is in receipt of a letter from Wm. Creighton written from North Yakima in which he states that the people out there are busy planting their gardens and setting out their fruit trees. The weather is balmy and everything there, including a big delegation from Crookston and vicinity are prospering. The many friends of Mr. Creighton will be very pleased to learn that he is doing well and is much pleased with his new home. His health is greatly improved since he left this city.

DR. KAHALA WILL LECTURE—Being obliged on account of my health and commercial interests to leave Ers kine and seek a location elsewhere, I wish to announce to all my friends and patients that I will give a farewell address, including a talk on the prevention of tuberculosis (consumption) at the Woodmen Hall Wednesday evening, March 17, at 8 o'clock. I am giving you this talk as a token of my appreciation for your liberal patronage during my stay with you. A musical entertainment will be furnished—also candy for the ladies and cigars for the gentlemen. All are cordially invited. Admission free, of course. Yours very truly, Arthur Kahala, M. D.

From Tuesday's Daily

WILL ATTEND FARGO COLLEGE—Rev. C. O. Warner returned from Fargo this morning. He left his son Chester pleasantly located in the Preparatory Department of Fargo College (not the Agricultural College.) The young man is enthusiastic about the prospects and expects to make good.

NEW WAY TO KILL WOLVES—The Minnesota game and fish commission is reported to be considering the advisability of asking for legislation which will permit it to spread a disease among wolves, with a view to causing their death. The plan is to capture puppy wolves infect them with mange from dogs that are dying of this disease and turn them loose to give it their fellows. The plan has been tried in Montana lately, and quite a number of wolves there are found to have died from the effect of the disease. The animals die of slow torture, literally scratching their hides off, and some objection is urged to the plan for the reason that it would render the hides valueless, and thus destroy one incentive to hunting.

SECURES NEW BAND LEADER—Prof. Maxwell of Chicago has been secured as the leader of the local band and is expected to arrive the latter part of the week to enter upon his new duties. Mr. Maxwell does not need an introduction to most of the people of this city having been leader of the Red Lake Falls band for some years when the organization was at its best and it was due largely to his management that that band scored such triumphs at Winnipeg and the state fair. The local band has advanced rapidity since its organization and it is predicted that under his able management it will be but a short time before it will be second to none of the similar organizations in this part of the state.—Thief River Falls News.

GRAND LARCENY THE CHARGE—John Remus who claims to have come from Illinois was arrested yesterday afternoon and arraigned in the municipal court at East Grand Forks on the charge of grand larceny. His examination was set for 10 o'clock this morning. The complaining witness, H. Gothier a resident of Minnesota Point charges that the defendant stole a bridle and other portions of a harness valued at $7.50 Sunday night. An attempt to sell the stolen articles at the Palace Livery on the west side led to his detection, and he readily consented to coming across to this side. It is understood Remus will plead guilty to the charge which is a felony under the laws of Minnesota and subjects him to a term in the penitentiary.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the old Sampsons Addition Bridge will be closed to traffic, and the newly completed bridge will be formally opened The formal opening of the new bridge is highly gratifying to the residents of Sampsons addition. They have worked hard for the new bridge and are very justly proud of the fine structure which replaces the old one. The dismantling of the old bridge will start at once and the falsework for that purpose has already been erected.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

ABLE TO BE OUT—James E. Morrisey was able today to get down town for a short time. He has been at his office for several days past but his foot does not permit him to do very much travelling.

STOPPED THE MILK WAGONS—Some one got fussy at Grand Forks last Sunday and as a result the milk wagons were stopped it being held that delivery of milk was not necessary labor and was consequently in violation of the Sunday "blue laws". Come on in, the water's fine.

PAWN TICKET FOUND—A pawn ticket was found yesterday which states: "Crookston, Minn., Jan. 16, 1909. To whom it may concern: In consideration of the sum of $4.00 to me in hand paid the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, I hereby sell, transfer and deliver to H. Cohen, all my right, title and interest in and to H. Cohen, all my right, title and interest in and to one Elgin movement No. 11672006, in hunting case 8047806 provided however that this bill of sale will be null and void if I pay to said H. Cohen the sum of $5 within 30 days." The owner of the above ticket can have the same by calling at the Journal office and paying for this notice.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS—The United States Civil Service Commission announces that a competitive examination will be held in Crookston, Minn., on May, 10, 1909, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m., for the first grade Customs Service.

Candidates for appointment in the Customs Service must not be less than twenty-one nor more than fifty-five years of age, of suitable physical condition, and mentally qualified. If otherwise duly qualified, the limitation as to age will not apply to honorably discharged United States soldiers or sailors. This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements.

Applications for this examination must be made on the prescribed form, which, with the necessary instructions, may be obtained from E. D. Harris at Crookston, Minn., or J. M. Snoemaker, Secy., St. Paul Minn. Applications must be in the Secretary's office in St. Paul by 4:30 o'clock on April 12, '09. All persons wishing to take this examination should secure blanks and fill them out at once in order to allow time for any necessary corrections.

WANT CLERK AND CARRIER—A competitive examination under the rules of the U. S. civil service commission, for the position of clerk (male or female) and carrier in the postoffice, Crookston, Minn., will be held on Saturday, April 3rd, 1909, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m.

Applications for this examination must be made on the prescribed form, which, with necessary instructions, may be obtained from the commission's local representative, Elmer D. Harris, at the Crookston, Minn., postoffice, or from J. M. Shoemaker, secretary Civil Service Board, St. Paul, Minn.

Applications will not be accepted unless received before 4:30 o'clock p. m., on Wednesday, March 31, 1909. All persons wishing to take this examination should secure blanks and fill them out at once in order to allow time for any necessary corrections.

MADE A GREAT RECORD

HALLOCK HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATED PRACTICALLY EVERYTHING IN SIGHT

BEAT WINNIPEG, EMERSON AND ROSEAU DURING THE WEEK'S TRIP

From Monday's Daily—

The Hallock Hockey team returned home yesterday after a week's trip thru southern Manitoba, returning via Warroad, and Roseau. During the trip they defeated teams at Winnipeg, Emerson and Roseau and Manager J. E. Bouvette, editor and manager of the Hallock Enterprise has good reason to feel proud of the splendid showing made by the team.

The Hallock Hockey team has given the Red River Valley some very valuable advertising during the past winter, and Editor Bouvette is entitled to a great deal of credit for the enterprise he has shown. Following is the list of those who made the trip:

J. E. Bouvette, Mgr.; A. H. Brown, Capt.; George Johnson, H. Banneman, Wm. Kromholz, O. E. Labossiere, G. Anderson, O. Anderson, P. H. Konzen, D. McKenzie, H. J. Nelson.

SHOULD HAVE ARTESIAN WATER

DIRECTOR RUEDIGER SAYS G. FORKS WATER IS NOT SAFE FOR DRINKING

Grand Forks Herald: The water taken from the Grand Forks filtration plant is still unsafe for drinking purposes according to a report made by Director G. F. Ruediger of the state public health laboratory. He sent in the following report yesterday:

"On Thursday, March 11 the sand in the city filter was cleaned and the water which is now passing thru is quite unsatisfactory from a sanitary point of view. The sample which was collected on Friday, March 12, is by no means free from sewage pollution. and should not be used for drinking purposes without being previously boiled.

Number of bacterial colonies per cubic centimeter at 38 C. 18; number of bacterial colonies per cubic centimeter at 26 C., 76.

"Colon bacilli (from bowel discharges) were found in every four cubic centimeters.

"This water is not safe for drinking purposes without being previously boiled."

CLOSING UP THE BRUSH ESTATE

MRS. THEODORE BRUSH OF ANGUS CLOSING UP WELL KNOWN ANGUS ESTATE

Mrs. Theodore Brush of Angus, widow of the son of the late A. E. Brush arrived in the city last evening and today with L. Ellington of the Scandia American Bank is closing up the Brush estate in the probate office before Judge T. T. Morken.

Mrs. Brush is residing in the village of Angus for the balance of the winter, or till the spring term of school at Angus closed. Mrs. Brush's children are doing so well in the Angus school at which Prof. O'Brien is at the head, that she desires that they remain there.

Later she will leave for Lawrence Kansas, her old home, where she will reside in the future and educate her children. Her departure from Angus will be sincerely regretted by a large circle of friends, and more friends in Crookston will also regret her departure.

The Brush farm at Angus was sold to Andrew Stark of Illinois who arrived with his family the first of March.

MRS. STANGLIN PASSED AWAY

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. Stanglin will regret to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. E. Stanglin Monday evening at 5:30 at the farm home 10 miles southeast of the city. She leaves to mourn her death, a husband and four children, a daughter, Mrs. C. Hagely of Harold and Mrs. Bennie Kleven of Harold and Albert of Bemidji and Joe Kleven residing near Park Rapids, Minn. The funeral arrangements have not been arranged as yet.

COMPANY IS IN FINE SHAPE

ANNUAL MEETING OF CROOKSTON BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION LAST NIGHT

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR ENSUING YEAR AND OTHER BUSINESS TRANSACTED

From Wednesday's Daily—

The annual meeting of the Crookston Building and Loan Association was held last evening in the offices of the Merchants National Bank. There was a large attendance of the stockholders and the association was shown to be in a most prosperous condition in every way.

Two directors were elected as follows:

Martin Mossefin, J. S. Newbery.

Officers were elected as follows by the directors who met immediately afterwards:

President—M. E. Kirsch.
Vice President—James E. O'Brien.
Secretary—Virgil McGregor.
Treasurer—H. L. Falk.
Attorney—James H. Maybury.

Auditing Committee—Ed Peterson, Martin Mossefin, J. S. Newberry. The appraisal committee appointed by the president is A. D. Stephens, M. E. Kirsch and J. S. Newberry.

PRISON BINDER TWINE GOING FAST

ORDERS FROM FARMERS OF STATE ALREADY COVER NEARLY YEAR'S OUTPUT

The farmers of Minnesota are sending in orders for binder twine to the state prison with a rush that was never known before. The output this season will be considerably lager than for any year in the history of prison manufacture.

The orders up to today cover 12,500,000 pounds and are still coming in rapidly every day. The indications are that long before the season closes in August the entire output of the factories at the old and new prison will be covered. That will amount to 16,000,000 pounds or 2,000,000 pounds more than ever before.

As the new prison factory did not begin until half the year was over the output this season will fall short of the increased annual capacity. Warden Wolfer is of the opinion that with all the spindles in both factories running to their utmost they will not be able to meet the demands of farmers of the state at the present rate of use, and not allowing for the yearly growth of the demand. Twine is being shipped in carload lots daily, making room in warehouses for arriving fiber and the new twine.

JAMES PRICE'S HOME BURNED AT BEMIDJI

OVERHEATED COOK STOVE CAUSED FIRE ENTAILING $2800 LOSS

Fire at 7:30 this morning almost totally destroyed the home of Jamse Price on the corner of Tenth street and Dewey avenue causing a loss of about $2,800 partially covered by insurance.

An over-heated cook stove started the flames which spread almost straight upward and destroyed all of the roof and the second floor. The fire department, which quickly responded to the call, did excellent work and saved practically all the furniture on the ground floor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson who lived on the second floor, lost all of their furniture and clothes, valued at $1,000 and partially covered by insurance. Mr. Price carried $600 insurance on his furniture most of which was saved but his home was damaged to the extent of $1,800 with $1,300 insurance. —Bemidji Pioneer.

LICENSE CARRIED IN WARREN

Yesterday at Warren the vote on saloons carried "wet" by a majority of 46 with a total vote of 290 cast. The fight was one of the most spirited in years and was expected to be close but the wets carried by a big majority for the total cote cast.

PREDICTION OF JOURNAL TRUE

CITY LID HAS BEEN ADJUSTED FOLLOWING FORMAL NOTICE SERVED

GRAND FORKS ATTORNEYS RETAINED BY THE LOCAL POOL ROOM MEN

From Wednesday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon formal notices were served on a number of officials of Crookston and Polk county calling their atention to certain violations of their attention to certain violations. A similar copy has also been served upon the attorney general of the state of Minnesota with his attention called to the formal serving of the notices on local officials.

This action was taken as a result of the recent pool room ordinance passed at the last meeting of the council. The pool room ordinance meets with general approval, but it was the opinion of many that if gambling was to be stopped in one place it should be stopped everywhere, and the general cleaning up is the result.

The next move will be awaited with still greater interest. Following is a copy of the notices served yesterday afternoon:

Crookston, Minn., March 17th, 1909. To Honorable J. D. McPhee, Mayor; Martin O'Brien, City Attorney; Aaron Eck, Chief of Police; Orin Daniels, Sheriff; E. O. Hagen, Prosecuting Attorney:

Gentlemen:—We desire to call your attention to a number of violations of the statutes of this State and of the City Ordinances. The State law as well as the City Ordinances forbids the keeping of houses of ill-fame, etc. A house of this character is now and for some time past has been conducted at the corner of Gorgas Avenue and Loring Street. Further west on Loring Street there is another house of the same character. Both of these places have been conducted openly and the fact that the proprietors of them have paid fines from time to time in the Municipal Court would seem to be sufficient to show the character of these places.

The State law and City Ordinance forbids all gambling and playing for money in drinking places, forbids the throwing of dice and all tables, etc. in such places. This provision is generally violated by the saloons. Card games for money or cigars are commonly played in a number of the tobacco and confectionery stores of the City.

The State Law forbids all labor except work of necessity or charity on Sunday, and except that fruit, confectionery, newspapers, drugs and medicines may be sold. The hack lines and livery stables have been continuously violating this law openly. The moving picture shows have been operated on Sunday in direct violation of this statute.

We call your attention to these matters and request that you take immediate steps to stop these and all other violations of the State law and City Ordinances.

Respectfully,

—Carl A. Ness,
—John F. Verreaux,
—John F. Smith.

INITIATED A LARGE CLASS

WOODMEN HELD A BANNER MEETING LAST EVENING—AFTER THE BANNER

JOHN FREEBERG WON THE GOLD WATCH FOR SECURING THE MOST NEW MEMBERS

From Wednesday's Daily—

The Crookston Lodge of Woodmen held a banner meeting last evening at which one of the largest classes in the history of the order was initiated The local lodge is after the state banner with a vengeance and that they will land it is practically a certainty.

Deputies Moore and Nelson who have been working here for some time past offered a gold watch to the member of the local lodge which would secure the greatest number of new members, and this was won by John Freeberg, who won by a large majority, the contest having been on for the past two months.

The presentation speech was made by Martin O'Brien. He took occasion to pay Mr. Freeberg a very high compliment for the splendid work he had done. Mr. Freeberg responded in a most feeling manner, and was specially grateful for the kind words spoken by Mr. O'Brien.

THEODORE EIKEN PASSES AWAY

SON OF FORMER CROOKSTON POSTMASTER DIED THIS MORNING IN ST. PAUL

Rev. Salveson received a message this morning from St. Paul saying that Theodore Eiken had died at his home this morning. He will be remembered here as "Teddy" having been one of the head clerks in the post office here for several years. His father, Andrew Eiken having been post master here at one time. His many friends will regret to hear of his death. He has been ailing for some time past.

"My Dearly Beloved Friend—The time has come when I must ask you a question the contemplation of which has caused me many a sleepless night, bitter tears and anxious days. This is a subject of which I dislike to speak to you or, in fact, any one about, as you know the whole community is agitated at the present time by the same question that is worrying me.

"Many a happy home has been broken up by this same cause, and I too, tho happy, must share the burden of this wicked and uncouth world. I dare not communicate my state of mind to my folks, as you know they are so old-fashioned about such things In my distress I turn humbly to you for sympathy.

"It may surprise you to know that I would consult you upon an important subject which only my heart knows, but, like the morning dawn, the whole affair must come to your friendly hearing, I am sure you will consider the matter and understand me better than I can explain.

"I am asking a great favor and while you are considering this I wish you to set aside all cares, all social joys and properly consider the question. I hate to ask it, but must come to the point:

"Do you think it is too early to change my winter under-wear?

"After giving the question the consideration which it merits, kindly let me hear from you."

THE USES OF MONEY

Money should not be regarded as the principal end of life, nor should it be regarded with contempt, for it represents to a great extent the means of mental and physical comfort.

The finest qualities of human nature are related to the right use of money—generosity, honesty, justice and self-sacrifice.

A little self-sacrifice, a svaings account with this bank, and a determination to use your money right (by saving it) will soon accumulate a snug balance to your credit.

LAND OPENING AT CASS LAKE

VALUABLE TRACT OF LAND BETWEEN BIG FALLS AND LITTLE FORK

OPENED TO SETTLERS—A VERY LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

From Friday's Daily—
At the opening of the land office at Cass Lake yesterday morning there were 100 persons in line waiting for the opening of the office in order to make filings on lands situate in township 67-25 in Koochiching county, which had been advertised to be opened. The land in question is very valuable as it has considerable timber upon it. Some of it is also within two miles of the M. & I. railway between Big Falls and Littlefork.

A good many years ago a number of people in cruising thru this section of the country discovered this land and settled there several of those filing having squatted on the land five or six years ago.

The first in line was Joseph Bray of Blackduck a brother of Nap Bray of this city. Mr. Bray after filing, stated that he was well pleased with his quarter, which he considered one of the best quarter sections in the gift of Uncle Sam to give to one of his citizens.

The second man in line was Ernest Toupan of Red Lake Falls. The third in line was Theodore Labissoniere the merchant of Red Lake Falls. Number four was Ernie Leberge of Blackduck.

This is the first opening of government lands since Messrs. Bartlett and Wood were appointed as receiver and register of the land office here and they handled their work with neatness and dispatch.

BIG REALTY DEAL; ENRIGHT FARM SOLD

Negotiations for the transfer of Jerry Enright's farm of 480 acres adjoining the city of East Grand Forks on the northeast which have been in progress for some time, were closed yesterday, E. C. The farm is one of the most valuable in the county and the price is considered very reasonable Mr. Enright expects to locate in California.

Little Falls Transcript: Citing the fact that agricultural training in the public schools has made Denmark the richest country in proportion to its population, J. W. Olsen former state superintendent of public instruction points out the advantages to Minnesota in adopting a system of industrial education in the schools. The city pupils are well taken care of in this matter, but the 242,000 children in the rural schools are sadly neglected. The high schools received $35,228 last year for manual training and domestic science, while in 1906 the high schools were given only $8,358. Mr. Olsen urges that the normal schools of the state be given sufficient funds to offer these subjects and that permanent summer school be established at the agricultural school for superintedents and teachers and that rural schools be consolidated and assisted in giving instruction in these branches.

BIG BOOST FOR VALLEY

KNUTE AKER WOULD NOT TRADE FOR IOWA LAND, ACRE FOR ACRE

SAYS CROOKSTON IS THE BEST CITY HE EVER TRADED IN

From Friday's Daily—
Mr. and Mrs. Knute Aker of Climax spent yesterday in the city visiting with friends for a day and attending to some trading. Mr. Aker is enroute home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Olson of Grafton, N. D.

Mr. Aker is one of the most successful farmers in the Red River Valley. He owns a fine farm and to the Journal represntative made this statement:

"I would not trade my Polk county farm, acre for acre for any farm in Iowa. Iowa land never had the staying qualities of Red River Valley land. I would not trade even, and in fact would not trade at all. We have the best farming country in the world and this fact is becoming more generally known every year. The time is not far distant when the price of land here will show what the real value of valley land is."

HAD A FINE TIME AT INAUGURATION

ALDERMAN SHERLOCK RETURNS FROM HIS TRIP TO NATIONAL CAPITAL

J. C. Sherlock returned to East Grand Forks yesterday from his trip to the national capital to participate in the inauguration ceremonies. He had a very enjoyable trip indeed, notwithstanding the weather conditions were not up to the Minnesota standard by several points, and then some. Mr. Sherlock was one of the few favored ones who were successful in witnessing the inauguration ceremonies in the senate chambers and was within fifty feet of the new president when he took the oath of office. Notwithstanding the insinuations certain papers published about his not getting a horse Sherlock was in at the parade from first to last. His explanation of the statement about his horse is that he didn't take anw fancy to the plugs from which the committee offered him his choice and as much as said so. Land Commissioner Fred Dennett, who is well known here, was with a representative of the St. Paul Dispatch and remarked some thing about the Minnesota delegation not being able to get horses. The Associated Press got a story from the Dispatch man made to order, but not particularly in accord with the facts. In the meantime Sherlock, thru the kindness of a mutual friend had gone over across the river and secured the loan of a thorobred Kentucky riding horse from the private stable of General Horriesh which did him good service thruout the parade, lasting over four hours. During his visit there Mr. Sherlock went down to Hampton Roads and visited the big fleet personally inspecting the Minnesota, the Illinois, the Wisconsin and other ships. He also visited Arlington cemetery and other points of interest.

NO INDIGESTION OR DYSPEPSIA

DIAPEPSIN NOW AND FOREVER END ALL DISTRESS FROM A DISORDERED STOMACH

Every family here ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of Indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you eat seems to fill your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangule after supper tonight. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery, because it willshdlu stomach misery is at your Pharmacist waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

VALLEY CITY HAS HUGH SENSATION

THE ARREST OF SIX GIRLS MAY LEAD TO WHOLESALE DISCLOSURES

The residents of Valley City, N. D., where Frank Packard is now located, are all agog over the sensations following the arrests yesterday of three young girls on serious charges. It is stated that warrants have been issued for the arrest of twenty men and boys in conection with the cases. A number of the boys are members of the high school while there are some of the young men about town and two or three men of families mixed up in the disgraceful affair. There were a number of girls in the cases who are uder the age of consent and it will go hard with the ones convicted in conection with these cases.

One of the girls who was arrested was a hardened character and has been given a jail sentence and three others who had not traveled so far on the road of crime were sent to the reform school where it is hoped they may be shown the error of their ways and made into respectable women. The girls are all more or less unfortunate one of them having been driven from her home by a stepmother and the others not having had the advantages of good home surroundings.

Most of the charges against the male offenders are of a very serious nature and undoubtedly there will be a number of the young men who will have to serve a term in the penitentiary to pay for their fun.

He was always on the point of giving up tobacco, but he never quite succeeded. Even as late as 1827, when he had long since professed to have abandoned the habit, he said that, though an extinct volcano, he still emitted occasional puffs.

AN ARMORY IS NEEDED

MUCH INTERST IS BEING TAKEN IN COMPANY I, M. N. G.

TWENTY NEW RECRUITS ARE IN SIGHT — TIME TO GET BUSY

From Friday's Daily—
Co. I, of the Minnesota National Guards is taking a big spurt ahead. There are at the present time 20 recruits representing the young business men of the city, which will bring the company up to the full strength, 76 members in the near future.

Now what is needed is an armory. This has been needed for a long time, but at the present juncture it is imperative that an armory be provided. Thief River Falls is going to issue bonds in the sum of $20,000 to provide one, and Crookston cannot afford to be trailing in the rear. Some plan should be devised at once by the Commercial club to take care of this matter. The sooner a move is made the better. Now is the time to act. The matter is not one which permits of delay.

HE DESERTED HIS WIFE

PLAINTIFF IN CASE ADMITS THAT HE IS A DESERTER

Attorney G. C .H. Codiss for the defendant brought up an interesting point of law at the close of the testimony in the divorce case of David Boobes against Anna Boobes in the district court at Grand Forks today. Attorney Corliss made the point apparently upon which the case will hitch when the arguments are brought before Judge Templeton at a later date claiming that the plaintiff has no ground for divorce in that he deserted his wife and has failed to provide for her support.

That Mr. Boobes deserted his wife is evident said Attorney Corliss from his own testimony on the stand, when he said that he left his wife in the old country and was followed by her to Philadelphia then to Chicago where he was arrested and then to Grand Forks. Mr. Corliss added further that such being the case the plaintiff being a deserter, could not obtain a divorce decree.

Many interesting things came up during the progress of the trial yesterday and this morning. Mrs. Boobes when questioned by Attorney Tracy Bangs for the plaintiff, stated that she loved him and for this reason had continually followed him. When Mr. Boobes was asked on the stand if she loved him, he stated that she had him arrested and while he was in jail she came to him and told him she loved him.

MANY FARMERS ARE DEEPLY INTERESTED

COUNTY UNION OF THE SOCIETY OF EQUITY FORMED TODAY—THE ATTENDANCE WAS MOST GRATIFYING—SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE VISITED—VISITORS ENTERTAINED AT DINNER BY COMMERCIAL CLUB

From Thursday's Daily—

Farmers from every section of the county assembled in Crookston today and the result was the formation of a county association of the Society of Equity, which gives promise of being one of the most flourishing organizations of farmers in the entire northwest.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the local branch of the society and at a call issued by its officers and the response received demonstrates the interest the farmers are taking in the movement. From early morning the farmers began coming into the city and when the meeting was called to order by President Chris Houston, of the Crookston branch, there were assembled in the city council chamber at the city hall fully 150 farmers. As the meeting progressed additional residents of the county arrived and it is safe to estimate the number at fully two hundred.

The visitors were enthusiastic and took a great interest in the entire proceedings thruout the day and showed that they were alive to every movement intended for their benefit and profit. While the county organization was not perfected until the after noon session, the farmers remained at the meeting and listened with the closest attention to every address made during the convention.

Hold Preliminary Meeting

When the convention was called to order this morning the objects of the gathering were stated and then addresses were made by local men as to the benefits to be derived from organization. Vice President J. E. O'-Brien appeared in behalf of the citizens and the commercial club, and extended a hearty welcome to the city. He said that the people of Crookston were always pleased to have the farmers visit the city either on business or pleasure; that the interests of the city and the county were identical and the society could depend upon the citizens of Crookston for the most effectual co-operation in its work.

An address was made by Judge L. E. Gossman of this city upon the benefits to be derived from the organization of farmers and it was well received. Addresses were then made by several others, after which Elias Steenerson secretary of the Crookston branch, took up with the convention the bill before the state legislature, dealing with the regulation of the business of chambers of commerce and boards of trade. He explained the purposes of the bill at length and made an eloquent plea in its behalf.

The result of his advocacy was the adoption of the following resolutions:

We, the farmers of Polk county, in convention assembled at Crookston, Minn., this 11th day of March 1909, having for consideration matters of interest to us as producers of grain and other food products for the public markets, find that combinations of middle men control the terminal markets, and that by reason of such control the efforts of the farmers, by means of co-operative elevators and terminal associations to reach the consumers directly, have been frustrated.

We find that while our state laws have been framed so as to allow the producers and dealers in grain and other food products to organize for the purpose of advancing agricultural interests; for inculcating just and equitable principles of trade; for acquiring and disseminating useful business information; and for promoting the general prosperity of market centers and of the whole state, yet the very organizations formed under these laws, by passing by-laws and rules limiting the number of memberships, by refusing to admit or ousting those who represent the farmers and co-operative associations, have defeated the beneficent purposes of the law and have created a monopolized market at terminal points equally detrimental to the producers and consumers. In the large cities of the state, Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce have been organized by middle men whose only purpose seems to be to create exclusive commercial privileges for its limited membership.

We therefore find that the agricultural interests of the state, instead of being benefited, are incalculably injured from the effects of these artificial restraints of trade; and that the letter and spirit of the laws for the organization of producers and dealers in grain and other food products are openly and grossly violated in the enactment of by-laws and stringent regulations as to the character and number of members.

We believe the only remedy for the present condition of affairs is in the enactment of such laws as will forever prevent the control of the markets, whether terminal or local by middle men.

The markets should be open to both producer and consumer upon the payment of a fee sufficient to maintain market places. No one should be barred who is willing to pay the fee and deal honestly and fairly.

We believe that the bill known as House File No. 380, introduced by Hon. John Saugstad in the lower branch of the state legislature, if passed into law will relieve the farmer from much of the evil effects of monopolized markets.

Therefore be it resolved that we are heartily in favor of the said bill; and do hereby encourage its favorable consideration and passage into law.

Resolved further, that the secretary of this organization be instructed to sen da copy of these resolutions to the Hon. John Saugstad, in order that it may be used before the state Legislature in furtherance of the said bill.

At this point in the proceedings different farmers from different sections of the county were called upon to express themselves as to the benefits to be derived from organization and whether or not they favored the forming of a county union. They all spoke in favor of the plan and just before the adjournment of the morning session the Viking Chorus was introduced and it pleased the large audience with several excellent songs. They received loud and enthusiastic applause.

Entertained by Club

The visitors took dinner as the guests of the commercial club. They were taken to the several hotels and restaurants of the city and there enjoped the hospitality of the business men, assembling again at the city hall shortly after 1 o'clock.

Organization is Effected

A vote showed that the farmers present were wholly in accord with the object of the gathering and it was decided to elect officers at once. R. T. Buckler of the town of Lowell, was the unanimous choice of the convention for president, and T. D. Stewart of Mallory was elected vice president. E. G. Ecklund of Fosston, was named as secretary and treasurer and Elias Steenerson as county organizer.

Executive Committee

After the election of officers the executive committee was selected and it was as follows: William Bryson, Davidson; Ole Olson, Jr., Beltrami; E. G. Eckluud, Fosston; S. S. Hegg, Winger; Gust Engle, Euclid; S. T. Roberts Crookston; Arne Grundyson, Bygland; Knute Acker, Nielsville.

It was decided that the organization would meet again at Crookston in July. Several short and interesting addresses were then made relative to the value of organizing local branches of the society and there is no question but that Polk will be one of the best organized counties in the state.

Go to State Farm

As soon as adjournment was taken the visitors were shown an exhibition run by the local fire department and they were then taken to the state agricultural school by the commercial club, where they spent the rest of the afternoon inspecting and looking over the big state institution. They were also the guests of the capable superintendent and his wife.

There is no question but that today's meeting was by far one of the most successful farmers' meetings that has been held in Crookston and its influence will be felt for some time to come.

MINNESOTA LEADS WORLD IN IRON ORE

Minnesota has long held the world's primacy in the iron ore industry and is circumstanced for an enormous expansion of her iron ore mines, as has been shown by recent reports of borings made by the leading producers. In a normal year the aggregate value of a year's iron ore production from Minnesota's mines, when placed in the holds of ships or on cars for inland hauls to furnaces, has ranged from $50,000,000 to $65,000,000. All other mineral products of that State last year aggregated about $5,000,000. The conversion of a considerable part of the iron ores produced within Minnesota ere long will occupy a larger number of blast furnaces and steel mills. A good deal of work in that direction has been accomplished and much more will be done after the present depression passes away.

Modern Engineering and chemical science are making steady advances toward the day when a much smaller proportion of Lake Superior iron ores will be shipped down the lakes and the scale of conversion into iron and steel and their products near the iron ore mines will go on increasing. The construction of the great iron and steel plant at Gary, Ind., was in a large sense an acknowledgment of the logic march of events that is forcing the iron and steel makers nearer to large deposits of iron ores.

For a long time Lake Superior iron ores have furnished 76 per cent of the National production. The Southern States afford about 17 per cent of the iron ores of the country, and the central and eastern states yield about 4 per cent. Under present blast furnace consumption the amount of iron ores required for one year's pig iron production is 36,000,000 tons. The central and eastern States consume about 78 per cent of the Lake Superior iron ores. The immense deposits of iron ores in the upper lake ranges made the vast industry in Bessemer steel and products therefrom possible, as nowhere else has the iron trade found such large deposits of high grade hematite ores.

In normal years the lake traffic in Minnesota iron ores affords a tonnage in the short season of navigation that exceeds the aggregate foreign clearances in a year from the ports of London and Liverpool. The value of iron ores being low, the output of Minnesota's mines does not sound large when stated in millions of dollars, but as $1,000 worth of pig iron would not weigh much more than 70 tons, while four pounds of gold is worth $1,000, it is easy to grasp the importance of the iron ore tonnage while it is difficult to measure its value by the round millions that pays for a year's yield. When the first cargoes of Minnesota iron ore came through the Sault Ste. Marie canal, the average value of pig iron made therefrom was $30 per ton, which compares with $15.50 today for foundry pig iron made on the shores of Lake Erie from Minnesota ores.

The great iron ore ranges of Minnesota are the Mesaba and V[illegible]on of which the Mesaba is far and away in the lead, having in a normal year given forth 26,000,000 tons. Last year the Mesaba range produced something more than three-fifths of the iron ore of the Lake Superior ranges. Estimates of the iron ore yet in the Lake Superior region range between 1,500,000,000 and 2,000,000,000 gross tons, of which the United States Steel Corporation controls three-fourths. If a series of calamities should destroy every plant owned by that corporation, its iron ore reserves in lake ranges would make it enormously rich. Minnesota's leadership in iron ores is a creation of little more than a quarter of a century. Twenty-five years ago Pennsylvania was the leader in iron ore production and had held that position for many years with New York in the second place. In 1877 the geographic centre of the iron ore producing industry was in the middle of the northern boundary of Pennsylvania. The tremendous development of Minnesota's iron ore industry has within the years since 1877 shifted the geographic centre of the industry 1,119 miles from Pennsylvania. That centre is now a few miles west of that hustling city of Duluth, which 30 years ago the lively Congressman Proctor Knott named "The Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas" in the course of a speech against giving the then little town a postoffice building. As to the iron ore situation, Duluth has long been the zenith city, and will remain so for many a year to come.—Wall Street Summary.

Analysis Of Liability Bills

In days gone by there has been a marked disposition in Minnesota to resist state development on the ground that such labors should be the sole concern of those most immediately affected, says the Duluth Herald Some traces of this narrow view still remain, but for the most part the people of Minnesota now take the wider view and are willing and anxious that the state take a large part in the development of its resources and in the realization of its tremendous possibilities.

The history of the drainage movement in this state is illustrative of the progress of thought in Minnesota in regard to state development. It is only a few years ago that the drainage of the vast swamp areas of Northern Minnesota was bitterly opposed by the southern half of the state. The matter was one which concerned the pocketbook of the people of Northern Minnesota. They said: Let those who are to get the profits, pay the expense The reasoning was good, but the premises upon which it was based were bad When it began to think the matter over Southern Minnesota discovered that the whole state, as well as its northern half, would benefit from drainage. Liberal appropriations for drainage is now an established policy, whose wisdom is disputed by no one. Northern Minnesota has profited enormously, useless land has been made richly productive, thousands of settlers have been brought in, farms, dairies, homes, factories and cities are multiplying. But the state has also profited. The money that it paid out for drainage it is getting back, and in time it will have every cent of it back with interest. In addition, it has so multiplied the value of its lands that its treasury has already been enriched by thousands of dollars of profit and its school funds will ultimately be increased, from this one source alone, by millions of dollars.

The longest step forward in a proper appreciation of the real work which Minnesota has to do for its own development was taken when Governor Johnson transmitted to the legislature last January his notable message in which the possibilities "of the most interesting, fertile and resourseful region yet undeveloped on the continent of North America" were so strikingly and so eloquently set forth. Governor Johnson's message, dealing for the greater part with this subject, may be said to be the summing up of what the people of Minnesota have been thinking in the past few years about their state. Thought is sometimes long held in solution; in this case the governor condensed it and precipitated it so that all may see it in concrete form Some few have thought in Southern Minnesota, perhaps that he has gone too far and has said more than they really have had in mind, but for the most part what Governor Johnson has reduced to vigorous, atention-compelling words is what the state as a whole has been holding in solution in its thoughts for several years past. We have been gradually coming to the point where we are prepared to take a wider view of the material possibilities of Minnesota and of the work which it is necessary for the state to do in order that the whole state may the more quickly and the more effectively realize upon these possibilities.

Sectional feeling still prevails but in a degree far less marked. Partisan jealousy still holds back wise legislation. But on the whole there is the disposition on the part of all men and both parties in Minnesota to look at the development of the state in the light of the needs of the state as a whole. Those who live in the Northern half of the state are certain to profit more immediately and more largely but no more surely than the people of the southern half of the state. The benefits that the whole state will receive from a liberal policy of state development will duplicate in a score of instances the benefits which the state is now taking from its policy of state drainage. When every man's hand is against every other man's hand, none can prosper, but when all co-operate for the mutual good of all, all will prosper in an unprecedented degree.

The water wagon is way up like an airship when you climb on but as close to the ground as the grass when you fall off.

THE CROOKSTON LID WILL FIT TIGHT

ATTORNEYS RETAINED AND STATE LAW WILL BE STRICTLY ENFORCED—FOLLOWING ACTION OF COUNCIL, CARDS, DICE AND OTHER GAMBLING GAMES WILL BE TAKEN FROM SALOONS—RED LIGHT DISTRICT WILL BE FORCED TO LOCATE OUTSIDE CITY LIMITS

From Thursday's Daily—

There is going to be something doing regarding the lid proposition in Crookston. It is going to be re-adjusted, and it looks as tho it was going to be applied pretty tight.

Attorneys have been retained and within a few days Mayor McPhee, Chief Eck, City Atty. O'Brien, County Atty. Hagen and other officials will be notified of certain violations of the state law and the city ordinances regarding card and dice games in saloons, cigar stores, and other places, card tables, booths and other matters in saloons which are contrary to law. The existence of the tenderloin district will be cited and in each and every case there will be evidence submitted it is claimed, and the officers will be formally notified to correct the evils.

A copy of all notices will be furnished the attorney general of the state of Minnesota, together with the evidence and it will be up to the officials to apply the "lid" rigidly.

What the outcome will be remains to be seen, but that there will be something doing is absolutely certain.

The Wider View

Examination of the latest two employers' liability bills shows that neither of them is calculated to lessen litigation to any great extent.

The Durment bill lowers the bars against such suits by permitting recoveries of damages for injuries received in hazzardous occupations by excluding the defense of assumption of risk or the negligence of a fellow servant. It also permits recovery of a diminished sum, in spite of contributory negligence if the employer was also negligent.

The house committee bill bars the fellow servant rule, assumption of risk and contributory negligence as defenses against suits for damages for personal injuries in certain ocupations.

Both bills limit strictly the amount for which the employer shall be held in damages.

The committee bill does not discourage the prosecution of speculative suits, with huge claims of damages except indirectly, by making it easier to prove a case that would entitle the injured party to a relatively very small sum for compensation.

The Durment bill goes a little further and provides that, if the state of facts be such as to entitle an employe to compensation thereunder, no recovery can be had under any other law. But the application of that restriction would be extremely limited, because the occupation must not only be hazardous, but the injury must have resulted from a hazard or danger peculiar to the work. Even tho the occupation be hazardous, if the injury resulted from something that might have happened in a less dangerous occupation the new law would not be applicable.

While the Durment bill is an improvement over the Stuart bill, the tremendous differences it discloses afford additional argument in favor of the view that the legislature is not yet prepared to enact a wholly satisfactory bill.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Minnesota's Peat Reserves

A News Tribune reader writes to ask apropos to the statement of James J. Hill before the legislature that coke could be obtained cheaply from peat, and iron manufactured cheaper in Minnesota than in Pennsylvania cannot something be done about it Can't the legislature be induced to look into the matter? queries the Duluth News Tribune.

It is very safe to say that if Mr. Hill was right and had already outlined his plan to the manufacturers of steel that the owners of the plant at Duluth will waste no money bringing coal from Pennsylvania and other states of they can make coke cheaper from peat. But when he is expending only language Mr. Hill sometimes has been known to chase rainbows.

As another reader said: "If Mr. Hill is convinced of the availability of peat why does he not feed it to the locomotives?" Still we realize that it might be available for making coke and not for burning in locomotives, which are not constructed for its use.

The fact is, the fuel resources of this country have barely been scratched. Not only does Germany use its peat as fuel but it conserves its byproducts at a good profit. Nor is there any question as to the extent of Minnesota's peat beds. They cover hundreds of thousands of acres and are in all parts of the state.

But again there is peat and peat. It has as many varieties as coal. As far back as 1871 a plant, located in Faribault county, bricketted peat, selling it to one of the railroads and to farmers at $4 a ton. In 1873 a bill introduced by then Senator John S. Pillsbury authorized an investigation as to its availability for use. This was to be made by the university and an appropriation was made.

Some five years ago, we believe a company was organized at Mankato to exploit the peat beds near there. So the subject has not been wholly neglected and even individuals have tried to use this fuel merely dried and not pressed.

The trouble seems to be that the time and exigencies have not yet come for its extended use. Out in North Dakota there are thousands and thousands of acres of a very good quality of lignite coal. It is much more easily bricketted than is peat.

It also has a higher fuel value. It is extensively used by the farmers and in small towns. It has indeed solved the household fuel problem for that state and in a large measure accounts for its rapid settlement.

But it is not used in a large way. Experiment apparently has shown that properly handled it is the equal of anthracite. But its time also does not seem to have come. Indeed the only answer as to why it and peat are not yet used is merely "we don't have to."

Wherever and whenever the use of either or both will mean economy, a saving of dollars, a promotion of enterprise and the opening of new fields for manufacture they will come into their own. But America has not yet reached that stage and until it does they will remain in the ground as the heat product for future generations.

Mankato Free Press: There is no profession or occupation so underpaid as that of school-teachers. And there is no profession or occupation that ought to be better paid. The average cook or housemaid gets a larger compensation than the average woman school-teacher, considering that they are provided with bed and board. And this should not be. The teachers are worth far more to the community than they are receiving. They not only instruct the young along educational lines, but assist them in laying the foundation upon which can be constructed useful citizenship.

CANNON IS NAMED RULE CONTEST ON

INSURGENTS MAKE CONSIDERABLE SHOWING AT THE HOUSE CAUCUS—CONGRESSMAN STEENERSON TAKES A STAND AGAINST CANNON—THE CLASH OVER PROCEDURE MAY BE VERY SHARP TOMORROW—SPEAKER YIELDS A POINT IN THE SELECTION OF COMMITTEE

Washington, March 15—Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois was elected speaker of the sixty-first congress when the house met in extra at noon today.

He was made the organization candidate of his party at a caucus of republican members held Saturday night in the hall of the house of representatives. It is true that he received only 162 of the 186 votes cast, fifty six votes less than the full republican strength. With a full attendance of the house today a majority will consist of 195 members.

Mr. Cannon when he entered the speaker's chair knew that he had been thru a fight. Some of his stanchest supporters admit that the sky is not clear and that there is much hard work ahead. Congressman Halvor Steenerson of Crookston is one of those who voted against Cannon.

Tight Squeezes for Rules

The democrats voted for their leader, Champ Clark of Missouri for the speaker. They will not abandon him in a body at any period to support for speaker a republican selected by the insurgent republicans. Several democrats if forced will desert their party and vote for Mr. Cannon should a coalition between their party and the insurgents be attempted.

The next house will contain 171 democrats twenty four less than a majority. It may develop that the democrats and the insurgents can muster enough votes to amend the rules, but they probably will fail to get enough strength to defeat Mr. Cannon's election as speaker.

Haugen Walks Out

Several recognized dyed-in-the-wool republican rules insurgents attended the caucus last night. It was remarkable therefore that no opposition developed when Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania preesnted a resolution to the effect that the rules of the last congress shall be made the rules of the congress that meets today. On the question no roll was called and there was no division but the house organibation leaders claim that the caucus action is binding upon all of the members present.

Representiaive Haugen of Iowa who had been in the hall relieved himself of all responsibility by refusing to participate in the vote on the rules. He walked out of the hall and claims that he is free to vote as he pleases when the fight over the rules, the real fight of the new congress comes up.

All the Iowa delegation excepting Mr. Hubbard were in attendance upon the caucus and according to precedent will be bound by its action with the exception of Mr. Haugen who maintains his freedom on the adoption of the rules.

The caucus was a smouldering smoking volcano. Its rumblings were heard by the Cannon supporters and an earth quake was feared but by permitting the discontented to voice their opposition in votes for members for speaker who would not under any circumstances permit their names to be used in opposition to Mr. Cannon, demonstration was avoided.

FLAHERTY CASE IS CONTINUED

FORMER EMPLOYE OF THE GUND CO. HELD ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLING $500

Thomas Flaherty a former agent of the John Gund Brewing company, was brought back to East Grand Forks from Seattle yesterday morning by Sheriff Daniels on the charge of embezzling $500 in cash from the John Gund Brewing Co., of that city, on the 28th of December last. He was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Special Judge Purcell and at his request was given a continuance until March 29th. Bonds were fixed at $1,000, which were furnished by Phil Humble, Harry Harm, Harry Hatch and J. M. Westberg. Flaherty was represented in court by Attorney George A. Bangs. The complaint was filed by John Taylor the local manager of the company.

What's in a name anyway? Theodore Roosevelt was for seven years the most talked-about man in the world, and in all that time the millions who used his name daily never learned to pronounce it correctly. The most common pronunciation was "Rusevelt," with a long "u" and a short "e". A few called it "Rosevelt." The owner himself tried in vain in the earlier years of his presidency to establish th pronunciation which he favored, namely "Rose-y-vult." it never went.—Minneapolis Journal.

Need of Ventilation in Winter

The necessity for ventilation in winter is extreme, and it seems strange that so many people who are in all other respects persons of intelligence and thoroly conversant with the needs of the body, should, in this particular instance, demonstrate such a lack of ordinary common sense. Another essential to good health is the daily use of some good malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer, the ideal home beverage. It is brewed from the best of nature's products in a better way than other beers and deserves a place on your home table. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Men who say they were driven to drink would doubtless have arrived sooner or later anyway.

MANY WILL BE HELPED

HOW TO PREPARE A MIXTURE TO CURE—SAYS THIS IS VERY GOOD

DREAD DISEASE, WHICH IS SAID TO YIELD TO SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescriptions regularly a dose or two daily ar even a few times a week would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce indeed, and when

A NEW DEPOT FOR THE SOO

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TO BE SPENT BY SOO IN THIEF RIVER FALLS

The Soo line is going to spend thousands of dollars in improvements at Thief River Falls this summer in making improvements. A large addition is to be built to the roundhouse and a new handsome and commodious depot will be erected.

The depot is to be one of the finest and most permanent in the Northwest and built with a view of accommodating the business several years hence It will be a two story brick and stone structure 50 feet wide and about 200 feet in length. The ground floor will be fitted up for offices for the master mechanic, roadmaster and other officials of the road.

INDICATIONS GOOD FOR M. & I.

M. & I. AND N. P. OFFICIALS WERE CONSIDERING PROPOSED SCHEDULE FOR FALLS

International Falls Echo: International Falls is today entertaining a party of prominent railroad men, they being W. H. Gemmell general manager of the M. & I.; G. A. Mitchell, assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, and Superintendent Strachen, of the M. & I. the party coming up this morning on a special train.

We are pleased to be able to announce that their visit is for the purpose of figuring out a schedule for a change in train service which is to provide night service between here and the twin cities, commencing the firstt of April.

It has been expected that this change would be made in the early spring but it is not supposed that the service would be inaugurated before the first of May. While not prepared to say anything officially regarding the new service, we learned from Mr. Gemmell that we would have a six-day service with the odds in favor of no train out Saturday evening and none in Monday morning. This arrangement will not only make traveling much more pleasant but it will greatly improve our mail service and increase the popularity of our town as a week-end excursion point.

The time of the accommodation train will be so changed as to take care of local travel between here and Bemidji and combined the two changes will give us a service that will be much appreciated by all travelers. The change is largely because of the increased activity which must come to our town in the spring and this recognition by the railroad company of what is in store for us is also pleasing to our citizens.

CLAIM ALLOWED BY HIS LODGE

DAVID TODD WILL DRAW CHECK FOR $1200 FROM THE AMERICAN YEOMEN

ONE LEG AMPUTATED AND OTHER MUST BE AMPUTATED AS RESULT OF DISEASE

From Tuesday's Daily—

M. W. Spaulding foreman of Golden Grain Homestead No. 264, of Grand Forks last evening received a message from W. E. Davy chief correspondent for the Brotherhood of American Yeomen stating that David Todd's claim for total disability had been allowed and that a check for $1,260 had been forwarded.

Mr. Todd's case has baffled the skill of physicians. He was taken ill on April 29 after working in the field all day. He was taken to the hospital in Grand Forks where it was found that he was afflicted with an unusual disease which shriveled a portion of his leg. At a consultation of physicians it was decided the leg should be amputated. Now his other leg is affected and must be amputated at the thigh to save his life.

Total Disability Claim

The Yeomen is the only fraternal order that has ever allowed any total disability claims, this being the third one in less than five years. The first claim being paid Martin Walsh the second to Thomas Hanrahan and the third to David Todd.

JACK'S RINK TO BE VAUDEVILLE HOUSE

MRS. R. FELDKIRCHNER SECURES THE LEASE OF THE BUILDING AT G. FORKS

Mrs. R. Feldkirchner has made arrangements with W. R. Jack to use the Auditorium at Grand Forks for vaudeville. George Webster the northwestern booking agent spent yesterday there and made arrangements for a new picture machine and acts to be there tonight.

The patrons of the Bijou will no doubt be glad to learn that Grand Forks' successful vaudeville house will be in readiness for them tonight and that Mr. Webster has promised to send the very best acts in the northwest here for the new opening.

Mrs. Feldkirchner has been too busy since the fire to listen to the many expressions of sympathy from all the interested friends, but she appreciates it just the same.

SIMENSON'S RIBS BROKEN IN WRECK

Christian A. Simenson the railway mail clerk who was hurt in the wreck of train No. 3 of the Great Northern Saturday afternoon near Granville, was taken to Grand Forks suffering from three broken ribs and some bruises. The mail car plunged off a fifteen foot bridge and embankment. Mail Clerks Ambrose Bach and J. Sauer escaped with a few bruises.

The wreck was cleared up so that No. 2 got thru Sunday without transfer being necessary.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ROOMS NOW CERTAIN

From Tuesday's Daily—

The 25,000 Commercial club is now assured a club home.

The board of directors held a special session last evening and after listening to the report of the special committee which has been canvassing the sentiment of the membership, decided that there was practically unanimity of sentiment in favor of the club home and that it could be established with every indication of being a success.

Already eighty members have signified their intention of supporting an amendment to the Articles of Incorporation raising the dues from one to two dollars per month, and the committee has secured subscriptions to the amount of $1225 to be expended in the purchasing of furnishings for the rooms.

Subscription for Furnishing

In securing the club home it became necessary to secure a fund from which to furnish the rooms and the committee in calling upon the different members also presented this end of the project and the response has been most generous and liberal. When the report was made last evening there was subscribed just $1,225 and an effort is to be made to increase this amount to $1,500.

Membership May Be Limited

There is also a movement on foot to limit the membership of the club to 100 active members. It is believed that in this way membership in the club will become more valued and it will be sought with considerable interest. After the membership reaches the limit the idea is to have a waiting list and whenever a vacancy exists to fill it from the waiting list.

Desire the Traveling Men

An effort will also be made to enlist the co-operation of all traveling men who work in and out of Crookston. For then there will be created an associate membership which will give them all the benefits of the club home and the social features, but which will not entitle them to vote or to hold office. For such membership a fee of ten dollars will be charged payable five dollars each six months in advance. This amount will also cover all dues. The club believes that the traveling men should be enlisted in boosting the city.

As to the nature and character of the furnishings. This committee has a difficult task ahead of it, but there is no doubt but that it will be able to satisfactorily accomplish the task.

Special Meeting Called

The board at its meeting last evening decided to call a special meeting of the membership for an early date next week. At this time amendments to the Articles of Incorporation will be presented covering these changes.

Those Who Have Signed

The following have thus far been seen by the committee and have signed the membership list which will be held by the committee, Messrs. G. S. Chesterman and John A. Cowley and Secretary Brown, and every former members is invited to communicate with the committee and all citizens desirous of membership are requested to do likewise:

MRS. AMIGH MAKES STARTLING STATEMENT

"Summer resorts and excursion centers which are well advertised as Graetna Greens and as places where the usual legal and official formalities preliminary to respectable marriage are reduced to a minimum are star recruiting stations for the white slave traffic," is the declaration made by Mrs. Ophelia L. Amigh, superintendent of the Illinois State Training School for Girls, who speaks with the authority of one who for years has dealt with the effects of white slavery in fact has sent twelve white slavers to prison. In an article written for the Woman's World of Chicago in its campaign for suppression of the traffic in daughters of American homes Mrs. Amigh denounces the Graetna greens and runaway marriages, giving from her experience, a startling explanation. "I earnestly urge all mothers never to allow a daughter to go to one of these places on an excursion or under any pretext whatever, unless accompanied by some older member of the family," she says, "and even then there is something unwholesome and contaminating in the very atmosphere of such a place.

"Do you think that I overstate the perils of places of this kind? Of these gay excursion centers, these American Graetna Greens? I hesitate to say how many girls I have had under my care who were enticed into a 'run-away marriage' at these places—and then promptly sold into white slavery by the men whom they had married, the men who married them for no other purpose than to sell them to the houses of the red light district and live in luxury from the proceeds of their shame.

"Let every mother teach her daughter that the man who proposes an elopement, a runaway marriage, is not to be trusted for an instant and puts himself under suspicion of being that most loathsome of all things in human form—a white slave trader."

Mrs. Amigh mentions some of the innumerable cases which come under her personal observation where the startling fact was made plain that trains to Chicago and other cities and the city stations are "worked" as systematically for girl victims for white slavery as they are for the bus and transfer companies.

DESERVING OF HEARTY PUBLIC SUPPORT

On St. Patrick's Day each year the Woman's Relief Comps gives a supper to raise funds to maintain and care for the soldiers' plot in the cemetery.

Until the Relief Comps assumed this duty the graves of veterans having no relatives living here were neglected and uncared for except on Memorial Day.

Arches were placed at the four entrances, the walks were sodded, the graves marked with headstones, flower beds formed and a hedge of wild roses planted to outlines the whole plot.

Over two of the arches the flowering clematis is trained, while the wild ivy graces the other two.

In the early spring the tulip beds are bright with bloom and the red geraniums furnish a bright spot of color. All during the heat of summer and until the frost cuts them down in the late autumn.

During the season the grass is clipped and watered and the weeds kept down, so that the soldiers' plot bears little resemblance to the bare spot of seven years ago.

The Relief Comps is working for a soldiers' monument to be placed in the center with suitable inscriptions engraved thereon.

They have a substantial sum for the purpose already and if the project receives the support and encouragement it deserves, the monument will be erected by another Memorial Day. This project is very dear to Mrs. A. J. Streeter and she is untiring in her efforts to increase the fund.

The supper the Relief Comps give on St. Patrick's day is to raise money for the maintenance of the Soldiers' burying ground and is worthy of the generous patronage of ever one.

PLAN TO SECURE RECORD VOTES

APPLAUSE GREETS SPEECH

Legislator Makes Impassioned Appeal for Shurtleff for Senator.

Springfield, Ill., March 25.—While the fifty-third ballot was in progress Representative Lederer made an impassioned speech, declaring that the right man to be elected senator was Edward D. Shurtleff and changed his vote to Shurtleff. Cheers and applause greeted the words and vote of Representative Lederer, who most of the session has voted for Mason. The ballot then proceeded without incident until Speaker Shurtleff himself voted for Governor Deneen, the first vote to be cast in the joint sessions for the governor.

TAFT DISAPPROVES ROOSEVELT METHODS

New President Abandons Many of Predecessor's Policies.

Washington, March 25.—Although less than three weeks elapsed between the inauguration of President Taft and the sailing of Theodore Roosevelt for Africa it is a matter of remark that the new president has placed the seal of disapproval on many of the methods of his predecessor in doing business. A list hastily prepared is as follows:

Disuse of simplified spelling; "through" no longer spelled "thru."

Abandonment of evidence obtained by the bureau of corporations in criminal prosecutions.

Reversal of the policy instituted by the Roosevelt administration in closing the Pensacola and New Orleans navyyards.

Departure from the policy of appointing negroes to office in the South over the protest of a majority of the white citizens.

Long messages to congress discarded.

New policy in process of formation for enforcing the interstate commerce laws.

Members of the cabinet given the privilege of choosing their assistants.

NUMBER OF PERSONS KILLED

Severe Storm Sweeps Over Wise County, Tex.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 25.—Reports received here from Wise county, thirty miles north of here, say that a terrific electrical storm swept that county and that four persons were burned to death in a fire which followed. The town of Slidell is reported practically destroyed by the storm and only two houses were left standing. Many farmhouses throughout the county were wrecked. Bridgeport and Decatur are said to have suffered heavy losses. Two negroes, Henry and Will Cook, were killed by lightning near Sander.

Later advices from the storm swept area give an increasing death list. A. D. Price, a farmer, his wife and five children and a farmhand were burned to death three miles north of Slidell by the destruction of their home. Twenty persons are reported injured.

Opponents of Payne Bill Hold Conferences.

FIGHT RECIPROCITY IDEA

Assert Plan to Admit Canadian Coal Free of Duty Would Not Lessen the Price to Consumer, but Only Enrich the American Operator—Say Majority of Members Object to Hide and Lumber Schedules.

Washington, March 25.—An effort is to be made in the house to secure record votes on the schedules of the new tariff bill which affect hides, bituminous coal and lumber. The Republican members who are opposed to the changes which the Payne bill makes in these schedules have had several meetings. They believe that the placing of hides on the free list, the reduction of 50 per cent in the duties on lumber and the reciprocity provision for free bituminous coal are not desired by a majority of the members.

There are probably as many members who want a vote on the proposition to place lumber on the free list as there are members who desire to test the feeling regarding the retention of the present lumber duty. The latter sentiment is particularly strong on the Democratic side. Those who desire the present duty of 67 cents per ton on bituminous coal retained declare that the placing of this article on the free list will not reduce the price to the consumer.

They attack the reciprocity provision in the Payne bill which declares that bituminous coal shall only be admitted free when imported from any country which imposes no tax or duty upon coal imported from the United States. The argument presented is that this arrangement would permit the entry of coal free of duty from Canada should that country repeal its import duty on coal.

In event of the latter case, it is contended, the American coal dealers of Pennsylvania and Ohio, who now control a large Canadian market, would add to their pockets the amount of the duty repealed by Canada. The British Columbia coal, which would come in free of duty, it is said, would compete with the great quantity of coal from the American government's coal lands in several Western states, reducing the price which the government receives for this coal.

CHAMP CLARK HAS THE FLOOR

Democratic Leader Speaks on the Tariff Bill.

Washington, March 25.—Interest in the tariff discussion in the house of representatives centered in the speech of Mr. Clark of Missouri, minority leader and ranking Democratic member of the committee on ways and means. From the outset Mr. Clark's remarks commanded attention. At times he injected humor into what he had to say and frequently was interrupted by applause.

As a preliminary to his set speech Mr. Clark provoked the house to great laughter and Mr. Olmsted of Pennsylvania, the chairman, to no little embarrassment by congratulating him upon the advent Tuesday of a son.

For Mr. Payne the minority leader had only words of praise and his remarks in that connection elicited applause on both sides. Mr. Payne's powers of endurance, he declared, were a marvel and his nine-hour speech on the tariff had made him a great historical person. "Indeed," said Mr. Clark, "he has knocked higher than a kite the idiotic theory of Dr. Osler." The speech of the majority leader he characterized as a superb vindication of his physical strength.

Mr. Clark also had a kind word for every member of the committee on ways and means. "We worked like galley slaves in trying to ascertain the truth," he said. He denied that the committee had bullyragged any witness, as, he said, had been charged, and declared that if any witness had received an indecent word in the committee room he had provoked it by his own acts.

Americans Purchase an Island.

Mexico City, March 25.—H. M. Crankshaw of Guaymas and a number of Americans have purchased Carmen island, situated in the Gulf of California, from James Viesca of La Paz, Mex. The island embraces about eight square miles, most of which is solid salt deposit.

THE SENATE KILLS TRADING STAMP

PASSES BILL PREPARED BY JUDICIARY COMMITTEE — NO STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION—MEASURE OFFERED BY REPRESENTATIVE LOBECK OF ALEXANDRIA KILLED IN THE HOUSE—ANTI-TREATING BILL MEETS THE SAME FATE—HOUSE IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE RECOMMENDS PASSAGE OF BILL TO REDUCE MORTGAGE REGISTRY TAX.

St. Paul, March 24.—After a speech by Senator G. P. Wilson the senate passed the bill killing the trading stamp. The bill was one prepared by the judiciary committee after argument in which the best lawyers of the state talked on the constitutionality of the proposed act. The bill prohibits the usual trading stamp, but permits them when the article is stated for which the stamp is good and provided that no definite number of stamps be required before something is obtainable.

Two state senators indulged in personalities at the meeting of the subcommittee of the senate roads and bridges committee appointed to apportion the $300,000 road and bridge appropriation, generally known as the "pork barrel." The approtionment of two years ago, with a 50 per cent increase to use up the additional $100,000, was made in all except two counties. It was over these two counties that the miniature storm occurred, and it ended by the sub-committee passing a motion to reduce the amount for Meeker county by $75, and apply it to Todd county.

The measure offered by E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria providing for a state-wide prohibition and Representative Lee's anti-treating bill were both killed in the house. There were sixty-one votes against the former and thirty-eight for it, while Lee's motion for rejecting an adverse report on his measure was lost by a vote of 40 to 59.

Thayer Bill Recommended to Pass.

The Thayer bill providing a stamp tax on board of trade sales of 1 cent per $100 was recommended for passage by the house after a lively debate. L. H. Johnson of Minneapolis tried to amend the bill so that any broker who paid a $50 license fee would escape the stamp tax, but this did not carry.

The house committee of the whole recommended for passage F. T. White's bill placing sheriffs on a salary basis all over the state. Henry Rines of Mora opposed the bill because it increased the cost to the counties in most cases, but the motion was adopted by a vote of 47 to 45.

The house in committee of the whole recommended for passage Representative Stuart's bill reducing the mortgage registry tax from 50 cents to 10 cents on $100. The vote was thirty-four to fifty-four. This is a substitute for Mr. Stuart's former bill, which exempted them entirely from taxation. There was a question as to the constitutionality of exempting them entirely, so he proposed this nominal tax.

The Stuart bill applies only to mortgages on real estate. A bill for a nominal tax of three mills on other credits, such as state, county and municipal bonds, notes, accounts, tax certificates and the like was introduced by C. M. Bendixen of Morgan and T. J. Kneeland of Minneapolis.

Reapportionment Plan.

Copies of the reapportionment plan which the committee of the two houses are working on were handed to members of both houses. The scheme calls for fifty senators, instead of sixty-three, as at present, but does not reduce the present number of representatives, 119. The senate apportionment is based on one for each 40,000 and for representatives one for each county with one for each 15,000 additional. Every county, except two or three of the new counties in the northern part of the state, gets a representative. Ramsey and Hennepin get the same number as at present—five senators and eleven representatives in Ramsey, and seven senators and sixteen representatives in Hennepin—but some changes are made in the districts.

Kerry Conley of Rochester introduced a bill in the house designed to permit a packing plant to locate at the proposed Armour site provided it is true, as Minneapolis contends, that modern packing plants are odorless and inoffensive. His bill requires any person, firm or corporation establishing a soap factory, tannery, stock yard, rendering plant, packing plant or any other business of a nature that may be offensive within four miles of any state institution of learning, to give a bond to the state in a sum equal to 25 per cent of the cost of the plant, which bond shall be forfeited to the state whenever their plant becomes offensive or obnoxious to the state institutions and they do not remove the offense.

Some of the house members are sorry now that they passed the new prison bill, and a resolution for a committee of five to investigate the matter was presented to the house.

SURRENDER TO THE POLICE

Four Men Recently Indicted at Boston for Conspiracy.

Boston, March 25.—Four men connected with the structural steel business, who recently were indicted by the grand jury for conspiracy to defraud the city of Boston by collusive bidding for structural contracts, surrendered to police inspectors and were placed under arrest. They are Albert S. Miller, Jr., of Worcester; Elmer F. Smith of Marion, Charles M. Pennycuick of Worcester and Frank E. White of Malden.

INMATES ESCAPE INJURY

Bomb Exploded in Hallway of Chicago Residence.

Chicago, March 25.—An attempt to destroy the home of James Macaluso, a steamship and labor agent, was made when a dynamite bomb was exploded in the hallway of the building. Macaluso and members of his family were thrown out of their beds, but escaped injury.

The police made a thorough search of the neighborhood, just south of the loop district, but no trace of the dynamiters could be found.

Macaluso could not understand why the attempt to injure him was made. He said he had had no trouble with anybody and had received no threatening letters.

Severe Storm in the West.

Chicago, March 25.—A severe storm has developed in the Rocky mountain region and telegraphic communication with Denver has been lost over all routes.

SOUTH POLE NOT TOUCHED

Lieutenant Shackelton's Expedition Fell Short of Goal.

London, March 25.—Lieutenant Ernest H. Shackelton of the British navy and his exploration party did not quite reach the South pole, as was reported.

The expedition reached within 111 miles of the pole, which is 354 miles nearer than the point attained by the "discovery expedition," of which Lieutenant Shackelton was an officer.

As the expedition was undertaken rather for the purpose of geographical survey than with the idea of reaching the pole it may be said to have succeeded beyond expectation.

PRICES ON BOURSE DECLINE

Marked Pessimism at Vienna Concerning Balkan Situation.

Vienna, March 25.—Marked pessimism again prevails here concerning the Balkan situation, but the feeling seems to be based largely on surmise or unsupported facts. Prices on the bourse fell considerably on the report that the powers had failed to reach an agreement regarding the steps to be taken at Belgrade. The powers, however, are still negotiating.

KILLS CHILDREN AND SELF

Connecticut Woman Takes Three Lives While Demented.

Simsbury, Conn., March 25.—The bodies of Mrs. Amos Miller and her two children were found in the Farmington river. The children had been tied together before drowning ensued and through a note left by Mrs. Miller the probabilities are strong that while mentally depressed she took their lives and her own.

Great is the fact that our interests gradually take a wider scope, allowing more scope for the healing power of compensation.—Dinah Mulock Craik.

MINERS APPEAR TO FAVOR PEACE

Convention Proceedings Indicate Modified Demands.

SPEECH IS APPLAUDED

Delegate Advocating Action That Will Result in a Continuation of Work Receives Approval of His Hearers. One Resolution Introduced Asks Only for Recognition of the Union and the "Check Off."

Scranton, Pa., March 25.—That the mine workers now in session in this city will not resort to the radical step of ordering a general suspension of coal mining in the anthracite fields in order to enforce their demands on the employers was indicated by the trend of proceedings in the brief session of the convention in Music hall. One delegate made a plea for the adoption of more moderate demands in the interest of peace and a resolution from one of the local unions read in the convention advocated the continuance of work without an agreement until the men were better prepared to enforce their demands. The speech for peace evoked considerable applause and the resolution was well received. Another resolution asked only for the recognition of the union and the "check off." All the resolutions reported to the convention were referred to the committee which will define the policy of the anthracite men.

The resolutions committee made a partial report. One resolution from a local union provided that the convention drop all demands except recognition of the union and the "check off." The committee concurred in the resolution, but after a brief discussion the resolution was referred to the policy committee.

Another resolution provided that the miners continue at work without an agreement until the men can at a more appropriate time enforce their demands. This was also referred to the policy committee.

A motion then was adopted that all resolutions touching the policy of the anthracite miners be referred by the resolutions committee to the policy committee without reading.

If the situation warrants an officer of the miners' union will present a resolution to the convention asking President Taft to appoint a commission similar to the anthracite coal strike commission to investigate the conditions at present as compared with those that existed in 1902 in order to learn if the demands of the men are just.

LIQUOR INTERESTS TO FIGHT

Claim Destruction of Business by Prohibition Is Illegal.

Cincinnati, March 25.—The liquor interests of the country are about to start a fight in the state and federal courts which will make a new and more thorough test of their rights under the Constitution than has any previous litigation in all the years of the battle against the liquor traffic.

Circular letters have been received by local brewers and distillers asking their co-operation in a meeting soon to be held in this city to formulate plans for the fight.

While the circulars could not be secured for publication it is stated that the liquor people will ask the courts "to determine whether a brewer or distiller who has invested millions in real estate that cannot be removed or realized upon after the destruction of the business, such investments having been made under laws that apparently secured him in the building up of large properties and devoting many lives to its development, all of which is jeopardized and destroyed without due process of law and without compensation for the destruction of the property," can be legally deprived of his rights.

The question is to be raised particularly in the states where there is statewide prohibition. Particular reference is made to Tennessee, where it is said millions invested in such property has been destroyed.

Shoots Father-in-Law and Self.

Jamestown, N. Y., March 25.—Lynn Hodges shot and fatally wounded his father-in-law, A. P. Anderson, at the joint home of the two at Youngsville, Pa. A few minutes later Hodges put a bullet in his own head. Both men will die.

TAFT APPROVES SENTENCE

Major Fremont, Son of "Pathfinder," Dismissed From Army.

Washington, March 25. — Major Francis P. Fremont, Fifth United States infantry, is to be dismissed from the army as a result of his conviction by courtmartial in Cuba on the charge of insubordination, President Taft having approved the sentence of the court. Major Fremont is a son of the "Pathfinder" and is now stationed at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y.

KILLS DAUGHTER ON NEW YORK STREET

Father Prevented From Shooting Himself by Passerby.

New York, March 25.—Within sight of several of her schoolteacher friends and pupils on the way to school through a crowded street on the upper East Side Miss Anna A. Mangano, a teacher in a public school, was shot and instantly killed by her father, Phillip Mangano, a court interpreter. He then turned the revolver on himself, but was prevented from carrying out his purpose by Adolph Schwartz, a young man, who grappled with him. Two more shots were fired while the men struggled, but both went wild. Mangano broke away from Schwartz, but was overtaken and arrested by two policemen.

At the police station Mangano refused to say anything about himself, but a bank book in the names of Anna Mangano and Phillip Mangano led to the discovery of his identity. Frank Lacatira, a brother-in-law of the dead schoolteacher, later appeared at the police station and identified the prisoner as the dead girl's father. Lacatira told the police that his sister-in-law was compelled to leave her father's house last January because of his cruel and inhuman treatment of her and had lived at a working girls' home in Lexington avenue since then. He said that Mangano probably shot his daughter in a spirit of revenge because she had left him.

BALLOONISTS REACH SAFETY

Escape Death After Sensational Aerial Trip.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—Captain A. E. Mueller and his five companions have returned to Los Angeles from their sensational balloon trip which began Saturday in Pasadena.

The balloon America, in which the party ascended, was swept by blizzards into the high Sierra Madres, where, after landing, the men found a lonely farmhouse.

They managed to reach Switzer's camp later and telephoned to Los Angeles. The entire forest ranger service and hundreds of other men engaged in the search for the balloonists and it was believed they had perished in the storms.

New Trial on Technicality.

Montgomery, Mo., March 25.—Dr. W. H. Hemphill, convicted and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary in connection with the death of Miss Elizabeth Gleason, a schoolteacher, who was sent to him for consultation by Rev. Clyde H. Gow, was granted a new trial here on a technicality.

CONVENTION PROVES A GRAND SUCCESS

Both Teachers And School Directors Are Highly Pleased With Convention Just Closed.

OFFICERS ELECTED

President—Prof. George Keenan, Warren.
Vice President—Supt. Hove, Bagley.
Secretary and Treasurer—Co. Supt. N. A. Thorson.

From Saturday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon the convention of the Northwestern Minnesota Teachers' Association came to an end and the universal sentiment was that it htd been the greatest in the history of the organization. In enthusiasm, interest and atendance it proved more successful than all former annual meetings and as the visitors left for their homes they had the highest praise for the city as a convention place and for the hospitality exhibited by the citizens generally.

While most of the visiting teachers and officers left the city on the evening trains many remained over till this morning and by this evening they will have all departed from the city. The attendance was in excess of five hundred and the registration reached almost that figure.

Election of Officers

Before an adjournment was reached the annual election of officers was held. The honor of being the organization's president fell to Superintendent George Keenan of Warren, one of the most popular and well known educators in northwestern Minnesota. There is no question but that his administration will be one of great vigor and the work of the association will be pushed to the limit.

Superintendent I. S. Hev, of Bagley was selected as vice president and Polk County is represnted thru the selection of Superintendent N. A. Thorson, as the secretary-treasurer. Considerable work will devolve upon him an dther eis no question but that he can be depended upon to push the association with his characteristic aggressiveness.

It is expected that the next convention of the assosiation will be held in this city, this being the most central point and the one most easily to reach from all sections of the district.

Session at Agricultural School

Fully 500 visitors and citizens took advantage of the two special trains which had been provided by the commercial club to afford transportation to the School of Agriculture and the state experiment farm. The first train left the Great Northern depot at 3:45 and carried about 250 visitors. The second train leaving at 4:30 o'clock was also crowded to its capacity.

At the farm the visitors were shown thru the buildings and about the grounds. They also visited the students in their rooms and at their work an dsecured a most thoro understanding of the methods of the institution. They were pleased with the information they had secured and left the institution regarding it as one of the leading ones of the state.

The entire 500 were tendered a luncheon by Prof. and Mrs. Wm. Robertson and a most pleasant social time was enjoyed by the immense gathering. The party returned to the city via the regular St. Vincent train and a special. Great credit is due the officials of the Great Northern for the excellent manner in which they handled the large crowd and with their efforts to make the event pass off with the greatest satisfaction.

Convention Was a Success

There is no question but that the convention was a success in every particular. Those who attended stated that in practical information the meetings had ben a veritable mine and the opportunity afforded for the interchange of thoughts and ideas was ideal in every particular.

Hon. C. G. Shulz, State Supt. of Public Instruction, who spoke on the Minnesota School System and Some of Its Possibilities. Mr. Schulz came into office the first of the year to succeed J. W. Olsen, to whom he had been assistant for several years. Mr. Schulz was the unonimous choice of all the educators of the state for this position. He ranks high with all the leading educators of the country and Crookston will look with pleasant anticipation toward another visit of Supt. Schulz.

Supt. McIntyre, who spoke in his characteristic and forcible way on the rural school situation, and the progress in this field of the work. Mr. McIntyre urged upon the school officers the importance of a better attendance in the schools and brought up the subject of compulsory education laws and the truant officer and his value The address was very well received.

Supt. L. M. Mithun of Marshall Co. was next introduced and in his fearless way he presented some of the every day problems of the country school work. He held the continuous attention of the audience for a full hour and his discussion of school buildings, grounds, heating, lighting and ventilation, etc., was very favorably received by the school trustees and contained some very good suggestions

Afternoon Session

The convention reassembled at 1:30 at the city hall at which time the question box, lead by Supt. Schulz was taken up. Mr. Schulz imparted much useful information in response to the many questions propounded by the school officers from the country districts.

Supt. A. D. Wilson of the farmers institute next addressed the session on the subject of teaching Agriculture in the Rural schools and pointed in a clear and concise manner the importance of this work for the benefit of the country girls and boys in order that the agricultural interests are to get their full share of the present educational work.

Excellent Suggestions

Supt. A. M. Dunton of McIntosh next spoke on the importance of having the agricultural schools located in the country districts, and urged the farmers to hold on to what naturally belonged to them. Prof. L. P. Harrington of the School of Agriculture was the next speaker, who had to confine his remarks to a few brief moments. He outlined the possibilities of the industrial contest for the boys and girls of the county.

Viking Chorus Makes Decided Hit

Special thanks are due to the Viking Chorus which furnished music at all the sessions of the school officers. The visitors were greatly pleased with this feature and the special attention that was given them by the chorus, and the people of the city of Crookston also owe a vote of thanks to the Viking Chorus for the splendid work they did in assisting in entertaining the visitors.

300 School Officers

There were 300 school officers present and they were unanimous in expressing themselves as highly pleased with the program and all believed that the cause of education thruout this section of the state would be greatly benefited as a result.

Pass Strong Resolutions.

Before an adjournment was taken this morning the committee on resolutions presented a report embodying strong resolutions covering agricultural, education, normal school, and other matters which are of the greatest interest to the teachers and all educators. The resolutions are in full as follows:

Whereas, it is generally conceded and acknowledged by all that an additional State Normal School in northwestern Minnesota is needed to carry on the educational work now begun, and that such an additional normal school would, in a great measure, serve to supply the schools of this section with better trained teachers; and

Whereas, a bill known as H. F. No. 117, for the establishment of such a school, has been introduced in the house of representatives by the Honorable E. R. Hines and is now pending before the legislature of the state of Minnesota; and

Whereas, said bill provides that the location of the said normal school shall be left with the state normal board, we believe that said bill is a just and reasonable one, and that no injustice would be done any locality by the passage of the aforesaid bill; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the teachers and other educators of northwestern Minnesota, in convention assembled, in the city of Crookston, on this the 19th day of March, 1909, that we pledge ourselves to the support of the said bill, and most earnestly request the honorable members of the senate and house of representatives of the state of Minnesota to use every honorable means at their command to secure the passage of said bill.

Whereas, we have enjoyed the kindness and hospitality of the citizens and teachers of Crookston, and we greatly appreciate their successful efforts to make our sojourn a pleasant one, therefore, be it

Resolved, that we, the N. W. M. E. A., do hereby extend our thanks to Supt. McIntire and his corps of teachers, to the citizens of Crookston and the press for their efforts in our behalf, and, furthermore do we extend our sincere thanks to the officers of this association for the instructive and very successful meeting arranged by them.

We favor the passage of the bill providing for the election of county superintendents by county boards of education.

We favor the district agricultural school plan, the introduction of industrial work in the high schools, and the introduction of agriculture into the rural public schools.

We recognize that an agricultural education is the peculiar heritage of the farmer and that in all plans for the extension of agricultural education his interests should receive first consideration. That the rural district school as now organized is the farmer's school and that through the highest development of the farmer's school the best results in agricultural education are to be secured, and we favor the passing of the bill encouraging the consolidation of the rural schools.

We believe that rural high schools may render valuable service to their communities by establishing courses in agriculture, domestic science and manual training and by preparing the way for the introduction of these courses into the rural schools, and we favor such appropriations from the state as will enable the rural high schools to do effective work along these lines.

Whereas, the methoda of supplying text books to our public schools have been a matter of investigation by the legislature now in session, and as a result of such investigation a bill is now pending in that body providing for state uniformity of text books and a state text book commission, and

Whereas, our experience in Minnesota, and the experience of every state that has tried the proposed plan, has demonstrated that the state uniformity system was unsatisfactory and a hindrance to do educational progress, therefore, be it resolved,

First, that we are strongly opposed to state uniformity of text books and to a state text book commission, believing that it would be a backward step and a great detriment to the cause of education and

Second, that we urge our senators and representatives to use every honorable means to defeat the proposed legislation;

Third, that each system of schools should be left free to seelct the text books for use in its schools;

Fourth, that a superintendent of a system, supported in his judgment by his teachers, is the proper person to select the text books for use in his system and that no books should be adopted without his recommendation;

Fifth, that we are strongly opposed to the contract clause of our present text book law, and we urge that school boards and school men look with disfavor upon any company or its agents who attempt to bind districts by a contract covering a term of years;

Sixth, that we condemn any attempt on the part of school book publishers or their agents to secure positions for superintendents or teachers or to oppose applicants for any position and we denounce the acceptance of any such assistance as unprofessional.

Signed—
G. E. KEENAN,
A. M. DUNTON,
H. R. TONNING.

Reception to Teachers.

Last evening in the high school building the visitors were tendered a reception by the teachers of the local schools and the citizens. The affair proved to be a great success in every way and as a social event was all that could be desired. The building was crowded and light refreshments were served during the evening. A pleasing program was rendered by Mickelson's high school orchestra and the high school glee clubs.

From Friday's Daily—

The third annual convention of the Northwestern Minnesota Educational Association will adjourn today after having one of the most successful and profitable sessions in its history. In every particular the convention has proven a success and the teachers, school officers and prominent educators express the highest praise for the manner in which the convention has been conducted and handled. Not an unpleasant incident arose to mar the meeting and the visitors will leave the city this evening with the highest conception of the hospitality of the citizens of Crookston.

Was Well Attended

There are in excess of five hundred visitors in the city today and conservative estimates place the number at almost six hundred. At noon today the register showed 402 names of teachers and school officers and it is believed that fully one third of the visitors attending the convention have not as yet registered. Those registered from all sections of the district, each county being well represented by both teachers and officers.

Pass Strong Resolutions

Before an adjournment was taken this morning the committee on resolutions presented a report embodying strong resolutions covering agricultural education, normal school, and other matters which are of the greatest interest to the teachers and all educators.

State Superintendent Here

The presence of C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of public instruction, in the city today added to the interest manifested in the sessions. He addressed the school officers and the teachers and in a carefully prepared paper showed what the posibilities of the public school system were and his remarks lifted a high goal towards which every one connected with the school system should aspire. His paper called forth great applause and was appreciated by the large audience most fully.

The other addresses of the sessions today were excellent and the round table discussion this afternoon under the different leaders held the interest of every teacher and were the means of transmitting exceedingly valuable information.

Visit Agricultural School

The visitors this afternoon at 3:45 and 4:30 o'clock were taken to the Crookston school of Agriculture on two special trains which had been secured by the commercial club. The first train was well filled with the rural school officers, who adjourned earlier than the teachers. They desired to reach the farm in time to make an inspection of the stock and the stock buildings. The second train which was devoted to the teachers was also well filled and there is no question but that the crowd at the school will be the largest that has visited it with the exception of the day when Stephens hall was dedicated.

The visitors were greatly interested in looking over the buildings and the grounds and also in seeing the students at their work. The keenest interest was manifested in the methods maintaining at the school and there is no question but that the visitors realized most fully the great work that the school is doing in northwestern Minnesota.

After the visitors had been given an opportunity to conclude their investigations, they were invited to the large students' dining room in the new Stephens Hall and were served with a delightful light luncheon by Prof. and Mrs Wm. Robertson. The event proved most enjoyable and at its conclusion the visitors were addressed by Superintendent Robertson who in a few words outlined the methods and the aims of the institution. He made a strong plea for agricultural education and there is no question but that every visitor was convinced that the agricultural school needed a liberal appropriation for its proper development in the future.

Oratorical Contest Tonight

At the city hall this evening the students of the Crookston High School will have an oratorical contest with the students of the Moorhead high school. This event will be of most intense interest as those who will take part in the program have been making preparations for some time and there is every indication that it will be a contest well worth witnessing.

An Eloquent Address

The address of President Frank L. McVey of the University of North Dakota and formerly chairman of the Minnesota state tax commission, last evening in the city hall, proved to be one of the leading features of the convention. Prof. McVey is a pleasing orator and a deep thinker and there is no question but that his effort was one of the most scholarly ever delivered in Crookston. His subject was "The Public School as a Social Agency."

Other details of the convention will be published tomorrow.

YOUNG MAN SI CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER PLANKS

THOMAS RUDE DIES INSTANTLY—FORMER RESIDENT OF MANVEL VICTIM OF AN ACCIDENT NEAR ST. JOHN—SLEIGH TIPS OVER ON STEEP PLACE ON ROAD AND ENTIRE LOAD OF HEAVY PLANKS CRUSHED LIFE OUT OF RUDE—BODY IS BROUGHT TO GRAND FORKS AND FUNERAL WILL BE HELD NEAR MANVEL FRIDAY—HAD MANY FRIENDS

From Thursday's Daily—

The body of Thomas Rude, who was killed accidentally on a road near St. John, N. D. was brought to Grand Forks last evening and this morning was taken to Manvel where the funeral will be held tomorrow. The body was brought there by John Kittleson of East Grand Forks an uncle of the young man.

Mr. Rude was killed Monday while engaged in hauling planks to Bannerman, a Canadian town a few miles from his farm. When going along a steep place the sleigh was tipped over and Rude was crushed to death under the planks. It is believed that he died instantly. About an hour after the accident he was found and the body was taken to St. John.

Would Soon Have Title

The deceased was 28 years old and was unmarried. He had been living on his claim near St. John for nearly five years and planned to prove up on it April 1. He is survived by his mother and five brothers and sisters. Two brothers and two sisters reside at Roseau, Minn., and one lives at Manvel. His mother, Mrs. B. Silerud also resides at Manvel.

The deceased was a resident all his life near Manvel until five years ago when he moved to his claim near St. John. He was well known in Grand Forks. Many friends will regret to learn of his untimely death.

Industrious Young Man

Mr. Rude had installed a plank sawing machine on his farm and during the winter months has been engaged in sawing planks. He found a ready sale for the product in Canada and was delivering a large load when he met with death.

The funeral at Manvel will be attended by many friends from Grand Forks and East Grand Forks.

Babies And The Ballot

There is no such thing as a free and unlimited suffrage. The ballot does not belong to all men alike; it belongs only to certain men who, the best wisdom of which we have yet been capable, has decided, shall vote for us, says the Duluth Herald.

The rights of the ballot do not extend to women except in certain limited cases; the male kind under 21 years of age are not allowed to vote; most black men do not vote, the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States notwithstanding; and even white men, of lawful age, may exercise the right of franchise only upon certain conditions. It is apparent, not only that there is no free and unlimited suffrage but that there never will be. In fact, there are reasons to believe that the ballot may in time be denied to many who now have it.

Among the contributions to the discussion of woman's suffrage in this country is the declaration of "a courageous woman," as the Outlook calls her, that suffrage should be given to woman, but that it should be given only to married women who are mothers. First produce a baby or no ballot! The reasoning of the "courageous woman" is that suffrage is already too widely extended and that the highest good of the whole people demands that suffrage be restricted, not extended. The state should be governed by those best fitted to govern, she declares. Mothers, having a deeper sense of responsibility than other women can possibly have, are the only women who should have the ballot.

But whether the baby should be the sine qua non of the ballot for women, the suggestion touches nearly a matter which is of concern to every one who desires good government. We may safely start from the assumption that suffrage will always be restricted; there will always be some who may vote and some who may not vote. By what rule shall those who are to have the ballot be separated from those who are not to have it If the wisdom of time has shown us that some restrictions must be made, it is possible that with greater wisdom we shall decide on still further restrictions. For instance, conditions under which the right of suffrage is now exercised as was recently pointed out by The Herald, are such as to make it practically certain that the most ignorant and the most corrupt shall cast their ballots, but that the best intelligence of the country the men whose influence is most desired in each election for good government, shall be largely prevented from voting Commercial travelers and men whose business frequently take them away from home lose their votes by the the thousand in every election, but the bum and the loafer is right on hand with every opening of the polls. If a man is known to be an enemy of good government, ought he be allowed the ballot? Ought we not to remove restrictions which prevent a large proportion of our best citizens from voting?

The question of woman's suffrage is a question which woman themselves must settle. It is not so much for men to give women the ballot as it is for women to take it or not to take it, as they shall determine. But as to whether the ballot shall be confined to women who are mothers and to men of adjudged fitness is a far broader and a far more difficult question. Certain it is that restrictions exist, and that the pressure is rather for still other restrictions than for more universal suffrage. The best government is the government in which the greatest number intelligently and honestly participate and it is to such and such only that the ballot ought to extend.

Augurs Well For Future

The grand meeting of school officers and teachers in Crookston certainly augurs well for progress in educational matters in Northwestern Minnesota. The gathering is the largest of the kind ever held in the northwest and the interest displayed is indicative of a desire to raise the standard of education by improving methods of instruction all along the line.

The gathering is particularly gratifying to Crookston. While this city has naturally been the educational center of the state, the fact remains that there have been too few similar conventions held here in the past. Such a convention naturally means an almost endless amount of work, and the bulk of it falls upon a few in Crookston,. However the endeavor required is paid for a thousand fold by the results attained.

In the first place the effort necessary, together with the financial outlay required is more than recompensed by the general betterment of educational conditions.

In addition to this is the value of such a character to Crookston. Just from a selfish standpoint such a gathering is of inestimable value to Crookston. Such a convention cost money, involved a vast amount of labor etc., but is is worth far more than the cost. Crookston has not been as active in promoting such gatherings in the past as should have been displayed but for the future the present convention has set a standard that will be lived up to in that line.

Everything possible has been done to make the visit of the teachers and school officers both pleasant and profitable, and they have been unanimous in expressing their appreciation of the efforts expended for their benefit.

Nothing is more valuable to a city than a reputation for hospitality, and Crookston has scored a success on this occasion. The work of the 25,000 Commercial club and of Supt. Thorson, Supt. McIntyre and the entire faculty of the Crookston schools, is entitled to the most hearty commendation. It is such a spirit displayed on occasions of this kind that means a greater Crookston. And added to this the general public has assisted in every way possible and responded generously in providing entertainment for the visitors.

CONTEST WAS GREAT SUCCESS

MOORHEAD WON HANDILY BUT LOCAL CONTESTANTS DID GOOD WORK ALSO

THE VISITORS ENTITLED TO UNSTINTED PRAISE FOR THE SHOWING MADE

From Saturday's Daily—

The oratorical contest last evening between the Moorhead and Crookston high schools proved a very exciting affair. A great deal of praise should be given the Moorhead students for their excellent work as they were all very fine. Their selections were good and thy gave them in a splendid manner showing a great deal of hard work.

The Crookston high school was at a disadvantage as the debaters have never had any work along the line of elocution and the Moorhead students have, elocution being one of their studies in school.

However the Crookston contestants did excellent work, and altho they did not win, deserve a great deal of credit for their work.

The judges were the Superintendents Dunton of McIntosh, Koos of Red Lake Falls and Hay of Thief River Falls. From the twelve contestants the three best young ladies and gentlemen were chosen. Miss Alphid Kittelsrude being first, Miss Agnes Louden second and Miss Cassie Ball third Mr. Renel Wiji first, Mr. Edward Frost second and Mr. Norman McLean third

O. J. TAGLEY INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

FOUR SEPARATE COUNTS LODGED AGAINST PRESIDENT OF NYMORE COUNCIL

O. J. Tagley, president of the village council of the Village of Nymore has been arrested on four indictments returned by the grand jury at the session of the district court at Bemidji and was arraigned before Judge Stanton this morning, but allowed until the close of the Nelson murder trial to enter his plea. He was alowed his liberty on his own cognizance until ordered by the court to appear.

Mr. Tagley is charged with signing four orders for bills not approved by the village council, three of which were for $9.05 tach and one for $4.10 being bills for election judges and clerks at the last general election in the village of Nymore. The bills were paid by the vilalge treasurer.

PASTORS ENDORSE ACTION TAKEN

REV. SALVESON AND REV. C. C. WARNER WANT TO SEE LAW ENFORCED

CIVIC LEAGUE IS ALSO INTERESTED AND WILL BACK THE MOVEMENT

From Thursday's Daily—

The movement to enforce the city ordinances and the state laws as well in Crookston is receiving most hearty endorsement in this city. Here is a sample of the opinions expressed to the Journal today, being from the only two ministers interviewed:

Rev. A. Salveson of the Synod church: "The stand taken by the Journal for law enforcement is most commendable. I will lend every possible assistance toward such a movement and believe every pastor in the city will take the same stand. The Civic League will also lend its influence, as such a line of action had been previously outlined. The laws are made to be respected. Any one who thinks this is a laughing matter will be mistaken before the end comes."

Rev. C. C. Warner of the Congregational church: "I wish to very readily go on record in favor of seeing the laws enforced. There is no reason why they should not be. No one can criticise Journal for printing the notices served on the officials of the city, county and state. If the laws and ordinances are not desired they should be repealed. You will find every law abiding citizen heartily in sympathy with law enforcement."

Owing to the fact that th ere is a teachers' convention in session it was impossible to see others ministers and business men, but they will be interviewed tomorrow.

The sentiment is unanimous that the pool room ordinance was a move in right direction but that all gambling should be stopped, wherever it is done, whether in a pool room or some other place. There should be no discrimination.

Tomorrow or Saturday two attorneys will be here to look up the city ordinances and city officials will simply be required to enforce all laws as well as a single ordinance.

This is simple justice.

And the Civic League stands behind the movement.

HIS HEALTH IS MUCH IMPROVED

A. CHABOT RETURNS FROM COMBINED BUSINESS AND PLEASURE TRIP

A. Chabot the proprietor of the New York Store returned this morning from a combined business and pleasure trip during which he took a course of baths at Mt. Clemens, Mich., and also visited Chicago where he made some heavy purchases for the New York Store.

He returns to the city looking and feeling better than he has for a long time. He states that the weather has been fairly good while he was away, but that he was glad to get back as it is still better here. He will have some spring showings which will be of special interest to the patrons of the New York Store and which will be announced later on.

While at Mt. Clemens Mr. Chabot saw Fred Simmons and states that the latter is getting on finely. Mr. Simmons expects to return to Crookston in a short time in fighting trim.

WILL INSTALL NEW SONS OF HERMAN

This evening at Bemidji a new lodge of the Sons of Herman will be instituted. The work will be done by a team from Crookston lodge No. 44 who left this morning and will return Saturday morning. There will also be a number of the Grand Lodge officers present. Special messages are expected from Bemidji at any time this afternoon reporting that the city has been turned upside down or thrown into Lake Bemidji, tho Carl Reideset, who headed the delegation from here backed by Wm. Emmerich who took along a Singer sewing machine to keep the bunch sewed up stated they would do all possible to main tain the dignity of the Crookston Hermans. Herman Feidler who also went along can be depended upon to keep the peace as far as lies within his power. Those who left for Bemidji this morning include Mesrs. A. F. Rauch, H. Fiedler, W. Woelk, Aug. Shuler, H. Schmidt, R. Sievert, C. Reideset, S. Meng, Wm. Emmerich, Wm. Becker and C. Hoeff.

RETURNED FROM LONG CRUISE

LIEUT. WHITLOCK HAS EXPERIENCE MANY WOULD DESIRE IN THE NAVY

IS NOW ENJOYING FURLOUGH VISITING AT HOME OF L. D. BROOKS

From Thursday's Daily—

Lieutenant Guy Whitlock, U. S. N. and Mr. I. B. Whitlock of Winona are in town visiting at Mr. L. D. Brook's. Mrs. Brooks is a daughter of Mr. I. B Whitlock.

Lieutenant Whitlock is on furlough after serving three years in command of the gunboat Callao in Chinese waters. He joined the Atlantic fleet at Manila last November and served on the new battleship Nebraska until the fleet reached Gibraltar where he left the fleet and went on furlough thru Spain, France and England.

Lieutenant Whitlock entered the naval academy from the First Minnesota Congressional district in 1897 and has been on sea service eight years. During this service he has visited most of the south and central American ports, the West Indies, Africa including Liberia and a trip to the diamond mines at Kimberly and the gold mines at Johannesburg, Japan, China the Philippine Islands, Ceylon, Cairo, and southern France. At the expiration of his furlough he expects to be ordered to duty on shore for a year or more, probably at some navy yard.

The Nebraska upon which the Lieutenant served recently is a western ship and was built by the Moran Bros. at Seattle and joined Admiral Sperry's fleet at San Francisco.

After joining the fleet the Nebraska won the baseball championship, the signal trophy, came second in the steaming trials, and in many ways the ship and her crew were of marked credit to th e west which they represent. Most of the crew was recruited in the West.

Lieut. Whitlock states that the cruise of the fleet was of great value in increasing our prestige in all parts of the world and created in many ports a demand for American goods.

As a grand pleasure trip as the public has in some cases thought it, he has different views, as in several parts as few as fifty men only have been allowed ashore from each ship, fifty out of eight hundred, leaves about sevenfifty disappointed.

Upon leaving Manila the men all seemed to be anxious to get home and since the fleet has arrived, every opportunity is being taken to let the men visit their homes.

COMPANY PLANS TO ECOMOMIZE

NO G. N. DEPOT WILL BE BUILT IN GRAND FORKS THIS YEAR

Grand Forks Herald: According to an official of the Great Northern who is in a position to know the facts there will be very few improvements made by the Great Northern in North Dakota this year. The road contemplates extensive improvements in Montana and Washington and will employ many men in that section.

Those who have been losing sleep over the possibility that the company would build a new passenger depot in the outskirts of the city this year can rest easy. The company has not changed its plans to build the depot at the corner of Kittson avenue and Fifth street but it has been definitely decided to postpone the building until next year. The present depot will be used in the meantime.

The company would like to build a new depot this year, but feels hardly able to make the improvement in view of the immense expenditurs which will be required in Montana and Washington and that the past couple of years have not been any too prosperous for the road.

CASS LAKE GETS NORMAL SCHOOL

Cass Lake's normal school bill passed the senate yesterday without a single vote to spare. The count was 32 to 25. The result was a foregone conclusion, but Senator Sageng made an effort to arouse his colleagues on the proposition He read the report on reservoirs showing that they back water at times up to the edge of the land picked as a normal school site making it a swampy place,

PRES. TAFT AT NEW YORK

PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT THE MEMORIAL EXERCISES IN NEW YORK

New York, March 22 — President Taft came to New York Thursday to made an address at the Cleveland memorial meeting, held in Carnegie hall. Judge George Gray, of Delaware, was a fellow passenger with the president,, and a speaker at the Cleveland meeting.

President Taft was met by a large throng at the Jersey City station and was escorted to the Twenty-third street ferry and thence to the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft. It was Mr. Taft's first trip as president.

President Taft Speaks.

"Grover Cleveland was as completely American in his character as Lincoln. Without a college education, he prepared himself for the bar. His life was confined to western New York. His vision of government and of society was not widened by foreign travel. He was a pure product of the village and town life of the Middle states, affected by New England ancestry and the atmosphere of a clergyman's home. His chief characteristics were simplicity and honesty, courage of his convictions, with a sense of public duty that has been exceeded by no statesman within my knowledge.

Was Untouched By Scandal.

"By his administration of the affairs of his city as its mayor, he showed his power of resistance to, and of overcoming corrupt influences. His reputation in this regard spread over his native state of New York at a time when such an attitude as his seemed exceptional.

"The presidential campaign of 1884 was one of slander, scandal and abuse, but Mr. Cleveland came through it retaining the confidence of the American people in his courage and honesty and his single purpose to better the public service.

"Mr. Cleveland was a democrat. He was a partisan. He believed in parties, as all men must who understand the machinery essential to the success and efficiency of popular government. His impulses were all toward the merit system of appointments in the public service. He dealt with the instruments which he had, and he not infrequently was obliged to yield to the demands of those who had no ideals. Every time that opportunity offered, however, and there was not some greater object in immediate view, he strengthened and assisted the movement toward the merit system.

Represented a New Democracy.

"Mr. Cleveland's political career was so short that he had a great advantage over the prominent men of his party whose records reached back into and were governed by the bitter quarrels of the Civil war. As at political quantity, his history began during the corruption and demoralization in the republican party, which were a necessary result of continued power during the war and the decade succeeding. He represented in a sense a new democracy, about which all the older elements rallied.

"At the end of his first term he was renominated, but was beaten by Gen-Harrison in a close vote. By that time the politicians of the old school in the democratic party had drawn away from him. But so strong a hold had he upon the affections of his party that he was nominated a third time, against the desires of most of the party leaders, and in the election which followed he led his party to the greatest victory in its history.

Stood for Tariff Reduction.

"In this campaign Mr. Cleveland stood for an affirmative idea, that of at reduction of the tariff, so as to make it a tariff for revenue.

"He was positive. He was affirmative. He was courageous. He believed in parties. He believed in party policies and in consistency in regard to them. The first time Mr. Cleveland was in power he was opposed by a republican senate.

"This gave little opportunity for any radical changes, but it did offer an opportunity for Mr. Cleevland to point out to the country the fact that our government is a government of three distinct branches.

"We hear much in these days of the usurpation of legislation by the executive branch. As long as the legislative branch has the power of the purse the danger of executive usurpation is imaginative.

Where the Real Danger Lies.

"The real danger arises from the disposition of the legislative branch to assume that it may completely control the discretion conferred upon the executive by the constitution. The country is under obligation to Mr. Cleveland for having pointed out some of the limitations that there are in the constitution upon attempted legislative action to restrict executive discretion.

That Gorman-Wilson Bill.

"In Mr. Cleveland's second term there was a large majority of his party in the house and a working majority in the senate, so that the whole responsibility of government fell upon the democracy, with Mr. Cleveland at its head. The significance of his second administration centers about three issues. The first was the tariff; the second free silver; and the third the suppression of lawlessness directed against federal authority by use of the process of federal courts and by federal troops. The same influences in his own party which had sought to defeat him for nomination in his third canvass, he found intrenched in the senate so strongly as to be able to defeat the declared policy of his party in favor of a tariff for revenue, and he refused to sign the Gorman-Wilson bill but allowed it to become a law after denouncing it as the result of perfidy and dishonor. This was doubtless the greatest disappointment of his political life, for it destroyed the opportunity to test the wisdom of the party policy advocated by him and declared in the party platform."

THE SENATE COMMITTEES

YOUNG MEMBERS RECEIVE IMPORTANT ASSIGNMENTS IN THE SENATE

Washington, March 22—The committee on committees has completed filling republican vacancies on senate committees. The work resulted in giving to western senators very much greater representation on the important committees. This is regarded as the direct result of the campaign that has been carried on for a long time by the "insurgents." It is asserted that never before in the history of the senate have the western states been so fully represented on these important committees as they are now to be.

The democratic steering committee is still at work endeavoring to make a disposition of democratic vacancies on committees and is about ready to report. The republican committee on committees will accept its recommendations for democratic appointments without question.

In one or two instances the republican representation on important committees has been increased by the addition of one or two members without a corresponding addition in the democratic membership. The committee on military affairs has received an additional republican member. In no instance, however, has the number of democrats on a committee been reduced.

Committee Changes.

One committee, that of conservation of the national resources, has been created. The committee on finance, as reorganized, contains one more senator from the far west. Of the eight republican members, four are now from the west and two from west of the Missouri river. Vacancies were caused by the death of Senator Allison and by the retirement of Senators Platt, Hansbrough and Hopkins. These vacancies have been filled by the appointments of Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Flint of California, Smoot of Utah, and Cullom of Illinois. The hold-over republicans are Aldrich of Rhode Island, Burrows of Michigan, Penrose of Pennsylvania, and Hale of Maine. Senator Cullom gives up his membership on the committee of appropriations to take the place formerly held by his colleague, Mr. Hopkins, who has not yet been elected by the Illinois legislature.

The democrats will designate Mr. Simmons of North Carolina to take the place formerly held by Senator Teller, the other democratic members of the finance committee being Senators Daniel of Virginia, Money of Mississippi, Bailey of Texas and Taliaferro of Florida.

The three vacancies on the committee on appropriations will be filled by the appointment of Senators Curtis of Kansas, Burkett of Nebraska and Kean of New Jersey. Senator Burkett is one of the economists of the senate.

The one republican vacancy on the committee on foreign relations has been given to Senator Root, former secretary of state, who takes the place of Mr. Foraker. Senators Sutherland and Borah will go on the judiciary and Senators Dixon of Montana and Brown of Nebraska will go on military affairs, Senator Crane will become chairman of the committee on rules, and Senator Perkins will become chairman of naval affairs. Senator Flint of California will become chairman of the committee on interoceanic canals, and Senator La Follette will go to the head of the census committee. These are both rapid promotions to the heads of important committees, Mr. Flint being sixth member of interoceanic canals, while Senator La Follette occupied the same relative position on the census committee.

Senator Burnham of New Hampshire will become chairman of the committee on claims, while Senator Borah will go to the head of education and labor. Mr. Carter of Montana becomes chairman of irrigation and arid lands, while Mr. Smoot of Utah becomes head of the printing committee. Senator Daniel succeeds Senator Teller as chairman of the commitee on private land claims.

Hansbrough's New Place.

When the makeup of senate committees are announced next week, just what will be done with other northwestern senators cannot be learned at this time. It is known, however, that neither Senator Nelson nor Senator Clapp will change his assignments, both being satisfied with his present work. In connection with Mr. Hansbrough's employment as assistant to the committee on appropriations in the investigation of the secret service, it was reported here today that Senator McCumber had or would protest against his former colleagues being given such a place, and that Mr. McCumber would interrogate Mr. Hale as to his authority for giving the retried senator such at position.

The imputation was that Mr. McCumber feared that Mr. Hansbrough would still be in a position to block his ambitions to return to the senate, or at least to hamper the consummation of that ambition.

Mr. McCumber, however, entered a vigorous denial that he had any such idea. He stated today that he had assured Mr. Hale that he was pleased at the assignment of his late colleague to this important work.

New York, March 20.—In the current issue of The Outlook appears the first of a series of articles by Theodore Roosevelt on socialism. It is entitled "Where We Cannot Work With Socialists," and the treatment is in Mr. Roosevelt's vigorous style. Among other things he says:

life by a glorified state free lunch counter and state foundling asylum, deliberately enthroning self-indulgence as the ideal, with, on its darker side, the absolute abandonment of all morality as between man and woman; while in place of what socialists are pleased to call 'wage slavery' there would be created a system which would necessitate either the prompt dying out of the community through sheer starvation or an iron despotism over all workers, compared to which any slave system of the past would seem beneficent because less utterly helpless."

Contending that socialists are not international, Mr. Roosevelt declares that if the leaders of the party in America should endeavor to force their followers to admit negroes and Chinese to a real equality their party would disband promptly. He then says:

"As for the so-called Christian socialists, they either are or should be aware of the pornographic literature and the pornographic propaganda which makes up one side of the movement; a pornographic side which is entirely proper in a movement that in this country accepts as one of its heads a man whose domestic immorality has been so open and flagrant as to merit the epithet shameless."

"The socialist leaders with a curious effrontery at times deny that the exponents of scientific socialism assume a position as regards industry which, in condensed form, may be stated as that each man is to do what work he can, or, in other words, chooses, and in return is to take out from the common fund whatever he needs; or, what amounts to the same thing, that each man shall have equal remuneration with every other man, no matter what work is done.

"Under this type of socialism, therefore, or communism, the government would have the most drastic possible despotism—a despotism so drastic that its realization would only be an ideal. Of course, in practice such a system would not work at all, and incidentally the mere attempt to realize it would necessarily be accompanied by a corruption so gross that the blackest spot of corruption in any existing form of city government would seem bright in comparison.

"In other words, on the social and domestic side, doctrinaire socialism would replace the family and home

Credit Due The Ladies

The presence of a large delegation of prominent ladies of Crookston at the meetnig of the city council last evening advocating purchase of property souh of the carnegie Library to form an entrance to the City Park and also to be terraced for the purpose of holding band concerts or similar gatherings, shows conclusively the interest that is taken by the ladies of Crookston in important matters.

Those present, members of the Current Events and Woman's Clubs presented a monster petition favoring the plan they presented. The argument used by their spokesman Mrs. Elsie Spendley was certainly a most weighty one. The property desired can be secured now at a merely nominal price. It will be worth three times as much for commercial purposes in a very few years. The matter was referred to the ways and means committee of the council, and it is earnestly hoped that they will find the "ways and means" to carry out the desire of the earnest ladies present last evening, as well as the signers of the monster petition.

Breakers Ahead

Apparently there are breakers ahead of the state legislature in connection with the bill providing that liquor can be dispensed in club rooms at any old time of the day or night to club members where there is no charge made.

The retail liquor dealers to the number of 500 met in Minneapolis yesterday and decided to erect monster club rooms in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth and enjoy the same privileges as others.

If this is done why not erect club rooms in Crookston, Thief River Falls, Bemidji or any other burgh, and the saloons would then soon all cease to exist and be replaced by private club rooms over which the police would have no surveillance.

In juggling with the liquor question it is well to make haste slowly or one of these fine days there is going to be a noise caused by something falling—bars perhaps.

STATE PRESS

Rochester Post and Record: "And the mountain labored and brought forth a mouse." After all the fuss and feathers raised by the insurgents and Democrats of the lower house of congress, over their determination to revise the rules and wrest the autocratic power from Speaker Cannon of doing what he chooses with that body, allowing such bills to be passed as pleases him and killing those that he marks for death, he is still the same boss as ever. The change that has been made in the rules is really insignificant and Cannon is still the house of representatives. Cannon, Tammany and Wall Street are the victors.

Norman County Index: J. F. Jacobson and R. C. Dunn had a long conference in St. Paul Monday and there is a rumor that the latter will try for governor in 1910 backed by Jacobson.

Winona Republican-Herald: Lest you forget, we desire to announce that Memorial day comes on Sunday this year, as does July 4, which will possibly result in a saving of a good many dollars to those who are liable to separate themselves from their coin by celebrating, if these dates fell on any other day. But the days will probably be observed as is usual, on the followng day. Christmas 1909 and New Years 1910 fall on Saturday.

North Branch Review: In Minnesota there are about 600 newspaper men each conducing a job printing plant and each one tamely submits while the government robs them of thousands of dollars' worth of business in the shape of prined envelopes. This in justice will be stopped in time, anyway but why not do it now? Get busy gentlemen and prod your representative at Washington.

MRS. T. E. BEIVER LAID TO REST MONDAy

MANY FRIENDS INCLUDING WOOD MEN AND ROYAL NEIGHBORS ATTEND FROM HERE

This afternoon at Argyle, the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Timothy E Biever were held, and never in the history of that village was greater honor done the memory of the departed. There was a large attendance from Argyle and vicinity and in addition there is a large delegation from Crookston and Euclid, a large number of Royal Neighbors and Woodmen attending from here. Those from this city including Mesdames Geo. F. Carpenter, Crowe, Misner, McCaffrey, Palen, O'Reilly, and Messrs. J. A. McCaffrey and M. E. Kirsch Jay Hazeltine form Harmony, Minn., Harry Harm from East Grand Forks Mrs. J. S. Chapin of Euclid and others.

The floral tributes consisted of a wealth of individual tributes and several set pieces including one from the Royal Neighbors of Crookston and another from the Royal Neighbors from Euclid, a large delegation attending from the latter place.

Mrs. T. E. Biever, whose maiden name was Amelia Tiedt, was a woman loved and honored by all who knew her. Her sunny disposition has cheered many a discouraged traveller down life's journey. Her charity knew no bounds.

CROOKSTON BOY LANDS FAT JOB

GETS $5,000 CONTRACT FOR INSTALLING KEWANEE WATER SYSTEM

The following taken from the Wyoming State Journal published at Lander, Wyoming, refers to Ed Morrisey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Morrisey of this city, and who made his home in Crookston until a short time ago. The contract foots up to more than 5000.

"E. J. Morrisey of the Western Heating & Plumbing Co. of this city has secured the contract for installing a Kewanee system of water supply, over hauling the entire plumbing and installing new fixtures in the school buildings of the St. Stephens Mission St. Stephens, Wyoming. This is one of the largest contracts of its kind that has been let in this part of the state."

MRS. MARY MUNCH DIED SUDDENLY

OF HEART TROUBLE — LEAVES ONE SON WHO RESIDED WITH HER

Last evening at 9 o'clock Mrs. Mary Munch died at her home 504 Woodland Ave., Sampson's Addition, of heart failure, at the age of 63 years She had resided here for many years her only son, Blasius, a well known carpenter residing with her. Deceased was highly respected by all who knew her and her death comes as a shock to them. The funeral will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Mary's church.

An umbrella dealer says there are lots of hold-ups on rainy days.

MANY WILL BE HELPED

HOW TO PREPARE A MIXTURE TO CURE—SAYS THIS IS VERY GOOD

DREAD DISEASE, WHICH IS SAID TO YIELD TO SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescriptions regularly a dose or two daily ar even a few times a week would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce indeed, and when you need it you want it badly.

FUNERAL SERVICES OVER MRS. STENSHOEL

LAST TRIBUTE PAID TO MEMORY OF WOMAN BELOVED BY ALL WHO KNEW HER

This afternoon funeral services were held over the remains of Mrs. N. P. Stenshoel, wife of the coroner of Polk County. There were short services at the residence, 622 Cowing street, at which relatives and a few intimate friends were present, after which the public services were held at the Synod church on South Broadway. The funeral is one of the saddest ever held in Crookston and Rev. A Salveson who presided spoke comforting words to the stricken husband and little children for whom the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community go out. Mrs. Stenshoel died suddenly last Saturday morning of heart failure and her husband has been comletely prostrated with grief as a result of the unexpected bereavement.

The church was thronged with sorrowing relatives and friends this afternoon who came to pay a last tribute of respect. The church altar was banked with flowers which in their beautiful but silent language told of the beautiful character of the departed, and the deep but helpless sympathy of friends.

Following the services the remains were laid to rest in Oakdale Cemetery being followed by a large number of friends. The pall bearers were the Messrs. O. N. J. Hagen, H. A. Johnson O. O. Christianson, M. A. Mossefin, C. M. Tveten and Orin Daniels.

Among the relatives present from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Langum the latter a sister of the deceased, of Anoka, Helen Stenshoel of Lanesboro, Minn., H. C. Stenshoel and daughter Ida of Valley City, N. D. E. A. Kirkelie, brother of deceased of Harmony, Minn., Mrs. Christine Stenshoel, mother of Mr. Stenshoel, of Lanesboro, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Sanbeck the latter a sister of Mr. Stenshoel of Waukon, Ia.

LESUER CENTER DEFEATS ADA

I NSEMI-FINAL DEBATE—JUDGES SO DECIDED BY 2 TO 1 VOTE

DEBATE WAS HELD AT ADA FRIDAY—MUCH SURPRISE OVER DECISION

Ada, Minn., March 22—(Special to the Journal)—The High School Semi-Final debate was held at Ada, Saturday evening. The question was "Resolved that the U. S. Should Annex Cuba." The affirmative was represented by LeSueur Center, the winners of the second and third districts. And the negative was represented by Ada, the winners of the seventh and ninth districts.

Gladys Iltis opened the debate and argued that annexation would benefit Cuba, because it would increase her imports and exports. That Cuba needs capital and population from the U. S. in order to prosper, and that she would not governherself as other Spanish American Republics had failed to do so.

Frank Prigge opened the debate for the negative and showed the progress the Cubans have made under self government and that the progress is largely due to the Cubans themselves furthermore that the revolution of 1906 was a revolution against political corruption.

Maude Elwood argued that it would be a benefit to the U. S. because the Platt Amendment had failed. That Cuba was necessary for protection and that Cuba was really a part of the U. States.

Ernest Helgeson argued that it would be unwise for the U. S. to annex Cuba because it would stir up the old race problem. Furthermore it would be an enormous expense in fortifying Cuba and finally that it would not be practical to annex the island as a state or territory.

Mary Kollars argued that the U. S. had promised to establish and maintain order in Cuba and that could be done thru annexation, and that at the present time there was a conspiracy in the Cuban army.

Erling Norby closed the debate by raguing that the U. S. was not justified in annexing Cuba because of the agreement made in the Platt amendment and the declaration to the rest of the world to maintain Cuban Independence. The rebutal work by both teams was very strong and it was a very close and interesting debate.

The decision was two in favor of the affirmative and one for the negative. The judges were Prof. Kingsford, Moorhead Normal, Supt. McIntyre of Crookston and Attorney Chas. Marden from Barnesville. The final debate will be held at the Minnesota University between th LeSuur Center and St. Charles teams.

The decision of the judges was a surprise to the whole audience and that is the general expressoin since the debate.

J. M. STEPHENS GIVES ANNUAL DINNER WITH COW BELL TRIMMINGS

Last Saturday evening J. M. Stephens entertained a number of his friends in a very pleasant manner. The party was driven out to the hospitable Stephens' home northeast of the city in the jag wagon, the horses being decorated with cowbells and the men in full dress. The evening was passed pleasantly with cards and music, a duel by The Two Bills, Lycan and Munch, taking the head prize—that was on the way back. The guests were treated to an elaborate turkey supper, with all the trimmings at 11 o'clock and tarried till 1:30 a. m. when the chickens began to cackle. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens were presented with a beautiful mahogany chair by the geusts. The Misses Emma Sylvester and May Stephens served the supper in a most dainty manner. The guests were Messrs. J. A. Cowley, W. M. Ferguson, W. E. Handy, Ben Clements, Wm. Munch, C. A. Hitchcock Brown, W. S. Lycan and H. Whitmore of Minneapolis.

VERY PROUD OF THEIR BAND

PEOPLE OF BYGLAND ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CONCERT GIVEN THERE SATURDAY

ORGANIZED BUT FEW MONTHS MADE A SPLENDID SHOWING THERE

From Tuesday's Daily—

A telephone message was received today from Geo. Olson of the firm of O. G. Olson & Co., at Bygland giving information regarding the band concert given in the town hall there last Saturday evening by the Bygland band of 30 pieces. The people knew they had a creditable band, but did not expect that an organization formed but a few months ago could acquit themselves in such a manner as they did. Every selection was encored vigorously and the band responded liberally.

The band was organized only last fall and has made really wonderful progress. The hall was packed with one of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences ever gathered at Bygland. Over and above all the band has been created out of green material, very few ever having had practice on any instrument.

A reception was held after the concert, and refreshments served. K. Nomeland of Grand Forks complimented the band highly.

Ex-Sheriff Arne Grundyson of Polk Co., took occasion to publicly thank Bandmaster Riggs who has had the band in charge, for his wonderful work in perfecting such an organization out of raw material in such a short time. Others also expressed their appreciation of the excellent work of Mr. Riggs and on behalf of the entire Bygland community thanked him for what he had done. One speaker emphasized the value of such an organization as giving the boys and young men of Bygland something to employ their spare moments, rather than being compelled to "go to town" to get the amusement which every young man wants.

ORGANIZED ELDRED SOCIETY OF EQUITY

SOCIETY STARTS OFF WITH A VERY HEALTHY MEMBERSHIP

Eldred, Minn.,—Editor Journal: A rousing meeting of the American Society of Equity was held at the local Hall Friday evening. O. A. Naplin, General Organizer, spoke for an hour and a half on the necessity of organization among farmers. During his address he pointed out the numerous tricks used by the combinations to fleece the farmers out of their just profits. The necessity of local cooperation in building and maintaing elevators and creameries was emphasized and we hope the farmers will bear the good advice in mind.

A strong local organization was perfected and the following officers were elected: G. W. Marrum, Pres.; M. C. Leikness, V. P.; H. N. Thune, Sec. and Treas. Meetings will be held the last Saturday of each month.

A meeting will be held in Climax next Friday evening.

MAYOR McPHEE SAYS ROAD TO EUCLID IS FINE AND DRY

ROAD WAS BUILT UNDER AUSPICES OF 25,000 COMMERCIAL CLUB

From Tuesday's Daily—

Mayor J. D. McPhee drove to Euclid yesterday and he returned last evening very enthusiastic over the Euclid road which was built under the auspices of the 25,000 Commercial Club of Crookston. "The road is the best I ever saw at this time of the year" said Mayor McPhee. "After getting past the slush near the city we drove right along. Of course there are a few spots where drifts have made the roads muddy, but these were of no consequence." This road shows what can be done with effort and the example is one which should be followed in other directions.

"This road runs north and south, practically, and is in better shape than roads running east and west at this season of the year as is always the case, but it is far ahead of the average north and south grade.

"This is also the season of the year when work done by the split log drag is very noticeable. The edges of such roads contain no grass where snow and ice can prevent the water from running from the grade as soon as a thaw comes, consequently such grades are in far better shape than those which are lined with weeds and grass."

ED MARTIN IS PROSPERING NICELY

JUST BACK FROM A TRIP TO SEATTLE AND CALGARY, CANADA

Ed Martin, one of the old time Crookston boys, who for the past few years has been with the land department of the C. P. R. arrived in the city yesterday afternoon on the N. P. from Calgary, Canada and spent the night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Martin, leaving this morning for Red Lake Falls to visit his sister, Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere for the day, returning this evening to proceed to his headquarters which are now located in Chicago. Mr. Martin spent some time recently securing grain and other exhibits of the resources of Canada, specially in the vicinity of Calgary and has forwarded them to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition at Seattle where the exhibit will be placed by experts. Ed is doing well and recently moved his offices from St. Paul to Chicago. He looks as young and frisky as ever and is enjoying the best of health.

+ + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + + +

ALL KNOW HIM— James Leo or Grand Forks a former Crookstonite spent Saturday in the city attending to some business affairs and visiting with his numerous friends.

WELL EARNED VACATION — Alva Newland will leave this evening for a fortnight vacation trip thru the west He will visit numerous places in Idaho, Washington and Oregon. He will combine business and pleasure, not overlooking any good opportunities for investment.

WITH THE NEW STORE— E. K. Green who has for many years been a department manager for the New York Store has severed his connection with that store and accepted a position with the New Store and hereafter will be with the Wright Carpenter Co. Mr. Green has a wide acquaintance and a very large following of friends and his employment by the New Store will mean some new faces among the patrons of that store.

BACK FROM THE WOODS—Peter Engh one of the old timers in this section has returned from Fowlds where he has been spending the winter in the camps of the Crookston Lumber Co. The camps are all broken up now and a cut near Fowlds of 6,000,000 was banked. Mr. Engh will leave in a short time for the headwaters and come down with the drive later in the spring. "Pete" as he is known by everyone, is one of the best in the business.

RETURNS FROM RANGE COUNTRY—Nels Anderson the well known South Main street butcher has returned from a two days combined business and pleasure trip to Hibbing and other range country towns where he says everybody is prospering. He says active preparations are being made for the summer's work about Hibbing. He saw several well known Crookston people there. Con Cappel is in the commission business; W. Brown is running a restaurant. At Shevlin where he spent one night he saw Peter Renne formerly in the restaurant business here, now manager in the big general store operated by Iver Krohn. He is doing well and is little changed. Adolph Erickson son of Ed Erickson is working in the bank at Shevlin and alos doing well. Mr. Anderson says that butchers and general merchants do an enormous business with the mining camps, and it is a common thing to see a wagon loaded with $250 or $300 worth of meat consigned to one camp. The butchers buy all their supplies in carload lots.

Win Championship—The hockey game between Warroad and Hallock at the home rink Thursday afternoon was unanimously pronounced by those who witnessed the contest, the cleanest, fastest and best-played game of the season, and this is true of the playing of both teams. The game resulted in a decisive victory for our home boys, the score being 13 to 3 at the close, and this leaves Warroad with the championship for northern Minnesota. In the evening after the game a dance was given at Parker's hall in honor of, and as entertainment for, the visiting team, at which event an enjoyable time was had. Anderson the goal keeper for the Hallock team, was seriously injured by the puck being driven with full force into his face, breaking his nose, at the outset of the game, and he was disabled for the day. The game was continued by use of a substitute, and although the accident weakened the team somewhat, the boys did extremely well.

STEAM PLOW DEAL ON—C. L. Skoug left this morning for McIntosh where he went to close a deal for the sale of a big steam plow. The demand for steam plows in this section during the past year or two has been increasing wonderfully.

MRS. KOLDEN VERY LOW — Andrew Eiken left for Middle River this morning to see Mrs. S. S. Kolden, an old resident of this city and a sister of Mrs. Eiken. She is very low with tuberculosis and the end is expected at any time. Mrs. Kolden is also a relative of the Tvedtens of this city.

INSPECTING ICE HOUSES—J. W. Pfeifer who has the contract for filling a great number of Great Northern ice houses arrived from Larimore this morning and is inspecting the G. N. ice house at Redlands which was filled by John Bunton and which he found in tip-top shape. Mr. Pfeifer is an old time friend of Alderman Snyder, who was the first man he met on coming to t he northwest in the early days.

STREETS ARE BAD—John R. McKinnon returned this morning from St. Paul where he has been spending the past fe wdays. He says the streets there are in a deplorable condition, the mud making them all but impassible. There has been considerable rain and the accumulation of dirt during the winter has put the thorofares in a frightful condition, the worst, Mr. McKinnon says, that he ever saw.

MOVED TO BIVINS FARM — Leodore Capistran is busy these days moving on his new place section 9 in town of Andover. He expects to be settled down with his family by March 24th. Mr. Capistran has made his home in the town of Lowell for 26 years, he is an up-to-date farmer and is also an experienced stockman. He will make that part of the section look up-to-date as the place has been neglected ever since Mr. Bivins left it but he expects to soon have it looking like Mr. Bivins did. His many friends in Lowell regret his removal but wish him prosperity on his new place.

DR. KAHALA LEAVES ERSKINE —At the Woodmen Hall last Wednesday evening Dr. Kahala who is about to leave for the far west entertained about four hundred friends to bid them farewell and gave them a fine talk on the subject of Prevention of Tuberculosis which was most highly appreciated and enjoyed by those in attendance Among those present were people from Mentor, Cisco, Brooks, McIntosh Lengby, Winger and other points as well as from every township tributary to Erskine. The Erskine Orchestra rendered some fine selections of music which was also thoroly enjoyed. It was particularly noticed as the many friends shook the hand of the genial doctor in saying farewell that it was with a sad heart, realizing that we are about to lose an able and reliable physician and surgeon in whom they had learned to have the utmost confidence Candy was passed for the ladies and cigars for the gents and a most enjoyable time had.—Erskine Echo. A. F. RAUCH WAS ELECTED

WILL SUCCEED B. F. ZERRACHER IN THE SECOND WARD OF CROOKSTON

VOTE WAS FOUR TO THREE—PUBLIC SPRITED LADIES PRESENT PETITION

From Wednesday's Daily—

The city council held a regular meeting last evening at which all members were present excepting Alderman Christianson who was called to Grand Forks on a mission which he was in honor bound not to neglect. There was a large crowd present to watch the proceedings.

The most important matter disposed of was the election of Adolph F. Rauch as alderman from the second ward to succeed B. F. Zerracher, resigned, Carl Reidesel having failed to qualify within the prescribed time. The first ballot was informal and stood four for Mr. Rauch and 4 for Mr. Murphy. The formal ballot resulted the same and Mr. Rauch was declared elected. This ends a controversy which has been agitating the city for several weeks. Mr. Rauch is a heavy tax payer, a good business man and having served on the council before has demonstrated that he will make a good alderman. His property interests may be judged by the fact that he paid over $1100 asphalt paving tax alone.

Honored by the Ladies

For the first time in many months there was a very large delegation of ladies present, representing the Current Events and Woman's Clubs of the city who are very much interested in the proposition to have the city purchase the lots south of the Carnegie Library to Robert street to be used as an entrance to the City Park and to be terraced so as to be available for band concerts and other similar public purposes A petition which had been circulated by Mesdames S. Rosenthal and Spendley was presented to the council, signed by 134 prominent business men and President Snyder recognized Mrs. Spendley, who addressed the council on behalf of the proposition, stating that the city had thus far done but litle toward the library proposition in comparison to the splendid gift of $17000 from Mr. Carnegie. She stated the lots could not be purchased for $5,300 and that a few years hence they would be worth many times that amount. She made a very eloquent plea in favor of the project The matter was referred to the ways and means committee to report at the next meeting.

Routine Business

On recommendation of City Attorney O'Brien the payment for three hydrants which had not been used was refunded.

The bill of Dr. Biorne of Ada for $25 for waiting on John Bergum was referred to the finance committee.

A saloon license was granted to J. O. Moe.

J. C. Stewart and C L. Lukkason were granted plumbers certificates. The request of W E. Walker to use a portion of North Main street in front of the New Store was referred to the street and bridge committee with power to act.

$7,000 was ordered paid on the contract of the Minneapolis Bridge and Iron Co. this being all but about $400 of the city's share.

The cement bids were laid over.

FALLS FROM TREE; FRACTURING LEG

CHARLES RYAN PROMINENT FARMER SUSTAINS SERIOUS ACCIDENT IN WOODS

Charles Ryan a prominent farmer living in western Polk and a candidate for the legislature four years ago was the victim of serious accident yesterday morning. Mr. Ryan with one of his farm hands was at work in the timber a short distance from the house getting out some wood. He had just felled a large tree and in falling it lodged in the branches of other trees a short distance from the ground. Mr. Ryan climbed upon the tree and was trimming off some branches when it turned suddenly, throwing him to the ground a distance of about seven feet in such a manner as to strike his leg on a projection of frozen earth making an ugly fracture, splintering the bone just above the ankle. He was removed to the house and medical assistance summoned. He was resting nicely last evening but it will probably be some time before he is able to be out again Charlie has the sympathy of his numerous friends here in his misfortune.

"MAN ABOVE THE DOLLAR"

EX-PUBLIC HEALTH COMMISSIONER OHAGE OF ST. PAUL IN CROOKSTON

MAKES STATEMENT REGARDING THE PROPOSED ARMOUR PACKING PLANT

From Wednesday's Daily—

Dr. Justus Ohage ex-health commissioner of St. Paul, who is known thruout the entire northwest the man who established the public baths in St. Paul, spent the morning in the city enroute to Red Lake Falls where he was called as a witness in a Soo R. R. case. He was seen by a Journal representative regarding the proposed Armour Packing Plant at New Brighton and said in substance:

"My idea is simply to place man above the dollar I could not have any personal interest in this fight. I do not want to see the public baths of St. Paul made utterly valueless. If the packing plant is located on the proposed site which is not really at New Brighton but several miles nearer St. Paul, the water will be so polluted that the public baths will be really dangerous.

"There is no valid reason, why the plant should be located there.

"There are scores of locations which would be just as good and where the public health would not be endangered It seemms to me that we should place 'Man above the dollar' in cases of this kind."

Dr. Ohage is intensely earnest regarding the packing house proposition and he impresses all other with this idea.

RESIDENTS RIGHTS ARE VERY SLIM

DOGS SEEM TO HAVE FULL SWAY IN SOME PORTIONS OF THE CITY

From the experience of J. P. Marcum on North Broadway it would look as tho a dog has more rights than a tax paying citizen. If a thief enters your house or barn you are permitted to shoot him if you cannot capture him any other way. But a dog can enter your barn, kill your chickens and mangle them ,attack the owner but you are not permitted to shoot them, even after the owners of the dogs have been notified of the outrages they are committing.

Last Friday dogs killed some chickens at the Marcum home, and the owners of the offending dogs were notified. Day before yesterday the same dogs entered the Marcum barn and tore the feathers and portions of the flesh from some chickens so that some of them had to be killed to end their sufferings.

In addition to this Mrs. Marcum while trying to drive the dogs from the barn was attacked by one and came near being bitten. As a result she suffered a nervous shock which made her seriously ill.

She states that a policeman informed her that she would not be allowed to shoot the dogs inside the city limits While we are not "learned in the law" we have just a drop of common sense which tells us that if any mans dog or his owner or the whole constabulary comes into our bar without due authority and kills our chickens we would take a chance at shooting the whole blooming outfit, and we would not go to jail either.

A person has a right to protect their own property at any and all times, and has the same rights inside the city limits of Crookston as he has out on the prairie No dictations of any municipal officer can override a constitutional right.

BAD STORM LAST SUNDAY

SOO CUTS NEAR MEDFORD FILLED WITH 14 FEET OF SNOW

ROTARY PLOWS HAVE BEEN KEPT BUSY EVER SINCE OPENING ROAD

Cliff McLennon a former well known resident of Crookston, and later in business at Angus, passed thru the city this morning enroute to Red Lake Falls where he was called as a witness in a case against the Soo railroad. For several years he had a run out of Thief River Falls on the Soo and last year while on a run distinguished himself by detecting and capturing a horse thief who stole some horses near Thief River Falls and sold them in the city.

He now has a run on the west end of the Soo and states that near Medford a terrible storm was experienced last Sunday which filled all the cuts some of them having 14 feet of snow He is running on a rotary snow plow and it has been kept busy ever since the storm getting the tracks into shape again. He says the storm of Sunday was one of the worst he has ever witnessed and he has been a resident of the Red River Valley ever since he saw daylight, which dates back into the early 80's.

IMMIGRANT SHOWED FIGHT

JOHN CLARK PUT TWO HOBOES TO FLIGHT LAST EVENING

THEY TRIED TO ENTER HIS CAR BUT FACED A BIG GUN

From Wednesday's Daily—

Two tought hoboes were treated to a surprise party last evening in the South Crookston yards of the Great Northern. An immigrant who was in his car of goods headed for Canada was awakened by some one opening the car door. He had a lantern in the car and complacently watched two tough looking customers enter Mr. Clark gave them a politie invitation to take their departure and in response was given an invitation to go to a region hotter than it usually is here in August.

The two intruders evidently thought they had an "EZ" Mark, but Mr. Clark happened to be of another stripe. He pulled a revolver from his hip pocket and jumping to his feet ordered the two toughs to make a hurryup exit. They hesitated a minute and Mr. Clark re-inforced his invitation with an application of the toe of his boot.

Two more surprised toughs never fell off a car thon those two and a member of a switch crew who saw them limping off about a couple of blocks from Mr. Clark's car thought at first that the pair had been hit by the switch engine

SOO HAS BIG DAMAGE CASE ON

In the district court at Red Lake Falls before Judge Watts today an important damage suit against the Soo Railroad was started in connection with an accident which took place last fall. Among the witnesses were Assistant Supt. of Motive Power Ford, C. D. McLennon a brakesman on the west end and formerly a well known Angus boy, and Dr. Justus Ohage of St. Paul.

THE USES OF MONEY

Money should not be regarded as the principal end of life, nor should it be regarded with contempt, for it represents to a great extent the means of mental and physical comfort.

The finest qualities of human nature are related to the right use of money—generosity, honesty, justice and self-sacrifice.

A little self-sacrifice, a svaings account with this bank, and a determination to use your money right (by saving it) will soon accumulate a snug balance to your credit.

A Religious Author's Statement

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy."

CONVENTION BEGINS MOST AUSPICOUSLY

TEACHERS AND SCHOOL OFFICERS ARE COMING INTO THE CITY PREPARATORY TO PARTICIPATING IN CONVENTION OF EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION—ATTENDANCE WILL BE IN NEIGHBORHOOD OF FIVE HUNDRED—PROGRAM STARTED THIS AFTERNOON WITH LARGE ATTENDANCE—TEACHERS MEET IN FRANKLIN SCHOOL AND THE SCHOOL OFFICERS IN COUNCIL CHAMBER

From Thursday's Daily—

The third annual convention of the Northwestern Minnesota Educational association convened this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the new Franklin school building. At the same time the rural school officers and teachers met in the council chamber in the city hall and started a session of the greatest interest.

At noon today fully two hundred teachers and school officers had registered in the high school building and every train is bringing additional visitors to the city. The evening trains will bring the largest delegations of teachers to the convention and there is every reason to believe that before the registration books are closed this evening fully 500 names will be on them. Large delegations are expected from Roseau, Red Lake, Marshall and Kittson counties this evening and the morning trains will increase the number of delegates from the southern portion of the district.

The officers of the convention will be one of the largest that has as yet been held and that former predictions will be more than verified. Those who have already arrived are being looked after by the local committees an deverything so far has proceeded without the least friction.

Many Prominent Visitors

Among this morning's arrivals were many men and women prominent in the educational life of the section and they are taking a keen interest in the proceedings. Superintendents of schools, principals and leading educators are present and there is no question but that the conferences and discussions which will be held during the two days' session will hav ea potent influence upon the educational methods and practices of the section.

The Opening Session

Promptly at 1:30 o'clock this after noon the opening session of the convention was called to order by the chairman. The auditorium room of the school was well filled and all were prepared to give careful consideration to the central theme of the convention namely "The Concentration of the Present Educational Ideas."

After the "Bridal Chorus" had been most acceptably rendered by the High School Mixed Chorus, H. C. Misner, president of the 25,000 Commercial Club was introduced to deliver the address of welcome to the convention. Mr. Misner extended the hospitality of the city most graciously to the visitors and called attention to the fact that every citizen deemed it an honor to entertain the association.

An appropriate response was made by the chairman in behalf of the association and the visiting delegates after which Superintendent E. E. McIntyre read a paper on the subject "The Important Fundamentals in the City Schools." The paper showed considerable thought and contained many valuable pointers which provoked an interesting discussion under the leadership of Superintendent J. J. Bohlander of Detroit. This discussion demonstrated the intense interest being taken in the subject by the teachers and members of the association.

The High School girls then rendered most pleasantly a chorus selection entitled "Down in the Dewey Dell." The effort aroused considerable enthusiasm and added to the popularity of the chorus and their previous exploits.

"The Essentials in the Common Schools," was the subject of a paper by Superintendent J. J. Beraas of Red Wing. This paper also on account of its excellence called forth a long discussion which was lead by Superintendent Leonard V. Kees of Red Lake Falls.

The first session of the convention was a decided success from every view point and there is no question but that the coming sessions will increase in enthusiasm and interest. In another column of this issue the full program for this evening's session and tomorrow's can be found.

Session of the Rural School Officers and Teachers Today

After spending the morning hours i nvisiting the different city schools the rural school officers and teachers assembled in the council chamber at the city hall at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon with County Superintendent N. A. Thorson of this city as chairman. The large assembly room was well filled with the visitors and thruout the afternoon session the greatest interest was taken in the papers, discussions and the addresses. The Viking Chorus rendered a musical selection most acceptably and received merited applause.

Superintendent Julius Beraas, of Red Wing took the place of President F. A. Wold of the Moorhead Normal School, who had not arrived. The subject under discussion was "The Moral Phase of Public School Education." The address was an interesting one and the closest attention was given to it. Prof. W. A. Rankin of the University of Minnesota, was on the program his subject being "The Civic Phase of Public School Education." The professor aroused the greatest possible interest by his views and there is no question but that his paper will rank with the leading ones of the meeting.

Superintendent J. H. Hay, of Thief River Falls, who is well and favorably known to every citizen of Crookston followed with a paper on the "Necessity of Engaging Good Teachers, and Equipping Our Schools Well." The practical side of education was taken up in this subject and Supt. Hay handled it with the greatest possible ability.

J. W. Wheeler, vice-president of the commercial club, appeared at this session and ably represented the people of the city. His talk was enthusiastic and entirely extemporaneous and made the visitors feel that they were welcomed royally to the city and all its institutions.

The first session of the school officers proved to be extremely interesting and there is no question but that the succeeding sessions will increase not only in attendance but also in interest.

New Franklin School Dedicated Under Auspicious Conditions

The immense crowd which was attracted to the dedicatory exercises at the new Franklin school last evening demonstrated the interest which the people of the city was taking in this model building. As soon as the doors were thrown open citizens filed into the structure and wended their way thru the different rooms, giving a careful inspection of the entire building. The most pleased expressions of satisfaction relative to the excellence of the construction and arrangement was heard on all sides. There is no question but that the people of the city are proud of the new school house and they have something which should be appreciated.

Throuout the somewhat lengthy program, the large crowd remained in the building and the applause which greeted the school board and the popular architect whose creation the Franklin school was, showed that the people were in hearty sympathy with the new era which had dawned in school construction in Crookston.

Addresses were made by R. J. Montague president of the school board: F. [illegible] Himel, committeeman for the Franklin School; B. D. Keck, architect of the building, and other local citizens. The addresses showed that great pride was taken in the structure and the spirit of advancement which it represented. Superintendent A. M. Larson of McIntosh was also one of the interesting speakers.

Attention should be called to the work which was exhibited by the boys of the High School and Grades in manual training, and by the girls in sewing. The most careful inspection was given it by the citizens and there is no question but that it demonstrated that the ability shown would compare favorably with that of any other school in the entire northwest. It also proved that the department was in exceedingly capable hands and the results attained were indeed remarkable taking into consideration the fact that the department had only been established a comparatively short time. The exhibits of drawing by the different grades also received the highest commendation.

The Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs rendered a number of pleasing selections during the evening and Michelson's High School orchestra added to the pleasure of the occasion. There is no question but that a high standard of musical ability is being developed in the public schools of the city and its influence cannot be doubted.

NEW ROAD MAY STRIKE THIS CITY

D. W. HINES OF HANNAH SEEKS TO INTEREST CROOKSTON IN PROJECT

ANTICIPATES NO DIFFICULTY IN SELLING STOCK TO FARMERS ALONG LINE

From Friday's Daily—

D. W. Hines of Hannah was in the city Wednesday night and addressed a meeting at the city hall explaining his latest railway project to some of the business men. The proposition contemplates a line of railroad from Duluth to Hudson Bay, by way of Regina The initial project is known as the Farmers' railroad and a charter has been granted by the Canadian government for the first section, extending from Regina to Melfort, Saskatchewan He plans to secure the co-operation of the farmers along the proposed line and has already sold to a good many of them shares of $100 each, to be paid for in two years in installments. The Canadian government will guarantee the bonds to the extent of $13,000 per mile.

Mr. Hines or Farmer Hines as he is better known, says he anticipates no difficulty in selling stock to the extent of $4,000 a mile to the farmers along the route and that the remainder of the money for the construction will be easily forthcoming. The plan is similar to that on which his former prospective line from the lower Red River Valley was mapped out some ten years ago, and which was also later adopted by the Farmers' railroad, extending north from Devils Lake, and the Northern Dakota railroad extending from Edinburgh to Concrete.

To Secure Charter

Mr. Hines left yesterday evening for Grand Forks and returned here today intending to leave this evening for Blackduck, Duluth and other points along the line for the purpose of interesting residents in his project and will then go on to Ottawa to secure a charter for an extension of his railroad from Regina to the boundary line, where he expects to make connections temporarily with either the Great Northern or the Soo railroads, until the extension to Duluth can be built. He says the first 200 miles of the road will be constructed this year and will be used to haul out a million and half bushels of wheat. Extensions of the work will be pushed as fast as possible.

Farmer Hines was engaged in the promotion of his Duluth airline railroad he was sent to the state insane asylum at Jamestown and remained there for some time, finally taking his departure without saying goodbye or getting leave of absence. He charges that he was drugged by parties interested in heading off his railroad project and that his temporary insanity was due to the drugs administered. He has been holding meeting for some weeks past at various points along the line of his proposed road with a view to interesting the farmers.

The changed route of the road from that first proposed is owing to the Soo road touching Warren and Thief River Falls. Now he proposes to build an American line from Hannah to Grand Forks, thence to Vig postoffice on the Red Lake River between here and the Forks, then to Crookston, and from Vig on to Fargo also.

From Crookston Farmer Hines proposes to run his line thru Lambert, Gully, Gunvick, Olberg, Nebish, and Blackduck, thence on to Duluth.

Farmer Hines while here made overtures to Elias Steenerson for the purpose of securing the charter of the Rainy Lake, Crookston and Pacific railroad, and this will probably be secured.

Mr. Hines is also interested in the water power on the Red River which is being exploited by Mr. Steenerson near Climax, and believes that the proposed road could be supplied with electric power by utilizing this and other water powers which are available along the proposed route.

"The Fickle Woman"

You are fickle, dear, as all your sex is;
Do you think me destitute of tact,
Why should there be anything that vexes
In a simple statement of the fact?
Mine is not the cunning tongue that flatters,
Framing tarradiddles meant to please
Therefore, I repeat, in certain matters
You are as uncertain as the breeze.

Yet I find you winsome and alluring—
Am I not a suitor at your feet?
Dearest, if your judgments were enduring
Could your personality be sweet?
If when I am earnest in my pleading,
You should answer positively "No"!
Would my hopes of finally succeeding
Crumble underneath the cruel blow?

Frequently, alas, I have offended—
Yes, I own your anger has been just—
Yet your mercy always is extended
When I grovel humbly in the dust,
When my heaving breast with anguish riven,
I am quite the wretchedest of men,
Yet am unaccountably forgiven
How I bless your fickle nature then.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM THURSDAYS DAILY

Otto Koeppe spent yesterday up the north line attending to the sale of Leaders and other popular brands.

The remains of Theodore Eiken, the former well known and popular young man of Crookston, will be held from the Synod church in Crookston next Monday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Salveson officiating. The remains will arrive Saturday morning on the 7:20 Great Northern train accompanied by relatives. Many of the old friends of the deceased will attend the funeral.

SUPPER WAS A SUCCESS— The St. Patrick's Day supper given last evening by the members of the W. R. C. for the benefit of the Old Soldiers' plot in the Cemetery was a grand success in every particular. As usual the patrons got about double value for their money, everything on the menu from the Irish stew down being par excellence.

RETURNED TO ANGUS—Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Evans returned to Angus yesterday after having been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lake for a day. Both are old time settlers of Angus and Mr. Evans is one of t he most prosperous farmers in that section of the country.

ST. VINCENT P. M. HERE—Richard Lapp, better known as "Dick" is spending the day in the city visiting old friends. He came down last evening to attend the session of the Elks and will return home tomorrow morning. He is one of the old timers and his visit here was enjoyed by a host of friends.

PROMINENT FARMER HERE — W. A. Wagner one of the prominent farmers on Rural Route No. 5 who has been a resident of this section for the past 21 years is spending the day in the city and called at the Journal office to subscribe. He said all his neighbors took the Journal and he decided to get in line with the rest of them.

Some imagine if they stay in the narrow confines of their own little environment refrain from a few physical indulgences, and attend church quite regularly, they are keeping Lent The way to do real pennance is to get out and see some of the sorrows of others and then set your mind at work on some measures to alleviate them.

A man who spent the winter at Bismarck was heard to say: "I thought I had known trouble, worry, despair in my life, but I went out to the penitentiary one day and when I saw all those poor devils in their cells, locked away from all brightness and sunshine in life, I said: "How narrow a fellow can become unless he gets out i nthe world and sees something like this to remind him of how well off he is."

The most practical seems to lay self entirely aside and think most of others around us and what we can do to brighten their existence. Lay aside all self indulgence, and live for awhile for those less fortunate. Don't fret about what you are or what you should be or spend the time in vain regrets over old sins. Long periods of introspection more often bring despair. A better way to obtain peace is to throw aside all morbid craving for spiritual relief within one, go look outside, and seek to alleviate the sorrow of others about you. In so doing you more often bring surcease from trouble of your own.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

D. J. LEWIS HERE— D. J. Lewis, who is selling "Old Forester" arrived in the city yesterday on the Northern Pacific and after spending the night here left this morning for points on the Warroad line. He will be back either tonight or Saturday.

MET WITH SERIOUS ACCIDENT—While playing in one of the upper floors of the school Wednesday evening the son of F. J. Verreaux thrust his arm thru a glass door and badly cut his wrist. He was given immediate medical attention and it is reported today that no serious consequences will result altho the cut was quite dangerous.

WILL VISIT BEAUDETTE—J. R. Rasmussen left this morning for a trip over the Thief River Falls, Roseau, Warroad line, expecting to return either tonight or Saturday. The new cold storage house at Beaudette for the Hamm Brewing Co., is nearly completed, the old one and a new one to replace it having been recently burned.

OVER FROM CROOKSTON—A. C. Fournet and James Montague, tennis enthusiasts of Crookston were in the city yesterday looking over the tennis courts of the Town and Country club with a view to making plans for courts and a club house near Crookston. A tennis club has been organized at Crookston recently and is made up of a number of first-class players.—Grand Forks Herald.

INTEREST IN EDUCATION—One of the school officers in atendance at the convention is J. P. Salentine of the town of Belgium. Mr. Salentine has during his 30 years residence taken active interest in advancing education. He has great faith in the agricultural school, having a son attending that institution and will give all his children the advantage of an education in that excellent institution.

HAL DAVIES HERE—Hal Davies, a graduate of the Crookston High School who was also the City Editor of the Journal and Times at different times, arrived from Fargo this morning and will probably decide to again make Crookston his home. He has been city editor of the Fargo Call for the past two years and severed his connection with the Call when that paper was purchased by the Fargo Daily News a few days ago. Mr. Davies will probably be connected with one of the local papers.

STEAM PLOW FOR RED LAKE COUNTY—If there is any unbroken land left in the towns of Reiner and Star, Red Lake County it will not be the fault of Sensky Bros. of the town of Star. W. J. LaBree the local agent for the Reeves Threshing company, will this week deliver to the Stenskys a modern steam plow guaranteed to turn over twenty acres of sod in one day. Besides plowing up their own fields these gentlemen expect to take a number of contracts from neighbars and will be busy all summer.

THE SALVATION ARMY — Two nights very special meetings on Thursday and Friday March 25th and 26th Salvation Campaign and battle for Souls led by Major Percy Morton, divisional officer from Minneapolis assisted by the Officers and members of the local work. Reinforced on Friday night by the officers and soldiers of Grand Forks. Meetings at 8 p. m. A hearty invitation is extended to all.

TO RAISE TOBACCO IN MINNESOTA— Dr. Winship mayor of Park Rapids has leased 10 acres of his farm in Straight River township to the Wisconsin Tobacco company for a term of two years. The Wisconsin Tobacco company will sow the tract to tobacco and experiment to determine whether or not tobacco can be raised in Central Minnesota at a profit. Expert tobacco growers will be placed in the change of the tract and the result will be watched with interest.

MRS. FREDRICK OHM DEAD—Mrs. Fredrick Ohm wife of one of the pioneer settlers living up near Middle River died last Thursday at the age of 66. The funeral services were held on Monday. With her husband the deceased settled upon a homestead up near the present village of Middle River 22 years ago and has resided there ever since. The Ohms were about the first settlers in this section and have always been held in high esteem there. Besides a husband, the deceased is survived by ten children. Herman Ohm of this city is one of the sons.

BRUCKMAN SORRY HE WENT SOUTH—Prof. Bruckman late leader of the local band, wishes that he was back in Thief River Falls once again already yet. The Professor went from here to Arkansas and the town he located in was destroyed by a cyclone recently, forty people being killed and many more injured. Such business was not to the Prof's liking and he moved out of the town. In a letter to his old friend Val Yager he asks if the local band is still without a leader and if it is, he would be pleased to return and fill this position again.—Thief River Falls News.

DEATH OF L. K. LUKASON—Ole Lukason of East Grand Forks received a telegram yesterday afternoon notifying him of the death of his nephew L. K. Lukason of Oslo in a hospital in St. Paul, where he had been for treatment. The deceased had lived in East Grand Forks most of his life. leaving two years ago to engage in business at Oslo. He was about 30 years of age. Ole Lukason and Louis Boreen went to St. Paul last night and will accompany the remains to East Grand Forks.

Simple Remedy for La Grippe

La grippe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

ONLY SLIGHTLY IMPROVED — City Weighmaster James Greenhalgh who has been ill for some time past is only slightly improved. He is able to be out but is still far from well.

TRUMBORE TO ARGYLE— J. A. Trumbore passed thru the city this morning enroute to Argyle where he was called on business matters. He was formerly located in this city.

LITTLE BABE DIED—This morning the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrisey died of cerebral meningitis and the remains were laid to rest this afternoon. Owing to the serious illness of the mother the funeral was private. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved parents.

EUCLID FARMER HERE — Paul Useldinger one of the well known and old time farmers east of Euclid returned home this morning after spending a few days in the city attending the educational convention. He looks forward to the coming year as one of the most prosperous ever enjoyed by the farmers of the Red River Valley.

BACK FROM ST. PAUL—J. A. McDonald returned from St. Paul this morning where he has been on a combined business and pleasure trip. He is now located there as the representative of the St. Hilaire Lumber Co., and his family is there also, but he is still regarded as a resident of Crookston and will make this city quite regularly.

ANGUS SHOULD BE PROUD—Angus and vicinity should be proud of the delegation present representing the school officers of that section at the educational convention. Every schoolboard in that vicinity was represented. Among others there was present D. H. Miller, John Goodwin, Ben Sewill, A. T. Campion, Louis Osterloh, and Prof B. J. O'Brien. This is indicative of the general interest which was taken in the convention, and shows also what interest is taken in education by the school boards of Northern Polk Co.

Supt. Wm. Robertson of the School of Agriculture and the State Experiment Farm left this morning for Euclid where he will address a gathering of farmers which is in progress there today. There will be several other speakers and the gathering is one of the largest the farmers ever had there.

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF EX-CHIEF HAYES

Whereas, in His infinite wisdom, it has pleased the Almighty Ruler of the universe to remove from our midst the spirit and person of our beloved friend Ex-Chief M. B. Hayes

Whereas in this death the Crookston Fire Department especially feels this departure from this sphere as the great success which has attended the department thruout its existence is unanimously attributed to the wise mind and confident hand that guided the launching of the Fire Department into existence by its first beloved chief, Dad Hayes as he was so familiarly called by all;

Whereas not only has our Fire Department lost a chief and friend and the city of Crookston one of its noblest and best citizens but our nation has lost one of its best defenders, who during the Civil War fought and suffered that we might enjoy a union and when the Maine was sunk in Havana Bay and Ex-Chief Hayes altho a veteran then was the first in the community to offer his life tnd services to his country again to defend her against any insult or foes.

Whereas in such a life of heroism from the cradle to the grave we doubly deplore his sudden departure from us which death occurred when absent from the city that loved him so well and which city he had seen raised from its infancy and which he had many times honored by his unselfishness and devotion.

Be it further resolved, That altho bowing to the wish of Him who doeth all things will we desire to express our deep sympathy by the sudden calling away of our friend and associate from his sphere of usefulness.

Therefore, Be it Further Resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy of all the honorary and active members of the Crookston Fire Department be tendered to his beloved wife in this, her sad bereavement and further that these resolutions be spread on the records of the Fire Department and a copy sent to Mrs. Hayes and also caused to be printed in the daily papers of the city of Crookston.

Committee,

—Thos. R. Johnstone,
—Tom Morris,

ARRESTED AT MOORHEAD

MR. AND MRS. ORR HELD AT REQUEST OF SHERIFF DANIELS

PAIR ARE CHARGED WITH JUMPING BOARD BILL AT PALACE HOTEL

From Saturday's Daily—

Sheriff Daniels today received a phone message to the effect that a couple supposed to be the same as registered here as Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Orr at the Palace, and who are accused of jumping a board bill at that place.

Here they represented themselves as representing a national conservatory of music with hadquarters in several large cities including Dallas, Texas. Sheriff Daniels will go to Moorhead tonight to bring them back. He did a very quick piece of work in locating them.

LADS TELL ALL ABOUT CRIME

ARTHUR KELLER AND HARRY EVANS ADMIT THEY ROBBED TWO RIVER STEAMERS

KELLER ALSO SAYS HE ROBBED THE ARNESON MERCANTILE COMPANY'S STORE

From Friday's Daily—

In the arrest of Arthur Keller, aged 18 years and Harry Evans aged 20 years in East Grand Forks yesterday the authorities have cleared up the mystery surrounding two robberies. They are hopeful that further confessions will be made by the young men. The youths were taken in charge for robbing the government boat Ogama and Red River Transportation company's steamer Fram of valuable brass and other goods the total value being nearly $200. The plunder taken was found in a barn on the Evans residence lot. Evans was found at home and was placed under arrest at once. Keller was captured after an exciting chase.

After his arrest Keller confessed that he had burglarized the Arneson store in East Grand Forks some weeks ago. He took quite a lot of goods out of it.

Besides the state charge brought against them it is likely that the government will take a hand and prosecute the boys on a charge of stealing United States property.

Robbed Boats before

A peculiar circumstance is the fact that both boys were arrested several years ago on a charge of robbing a boat, but were released on account of their youth and promises of parents to reform them.

The accused consented to return to Grand Forks without requisition papers and were brought over and arraigned before Judge R. J. Purcell who fixed bail at $500. Parents of the boys altho well able to do so, declined to furnish bail and t he ywere taken to the county jail.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
Cures Colds Prevents Pneumonia

SHOULD MAKE WAR ON THE CROWS

INVESTIGATION SHOWS THEM TO BE AS DESTRUCTIVE TO CHICKENS AND OTHER TAME AND WILD FOWL AS HAWKS AND MORE SO ON ACCOUNT OF TH EIR NUMBERS — GAME WARDEN MUNCH TO ENCOURAGE THEI R ETERMINATION—IS AIDED. BY FARMERS

Game Warden Munch is very much interested in encouraging the welfare for the extermination of crows. Few people realize the viciousness of these pests, or the number of tame chickens and other barnyard fowl they kill, but one farmer residing near Crookston reported to Mr. Munch that last year he ha. 75 young chickens killed by crows. In addition they rob duck and prairie chicken nests, sucking the eggs and certanily do thousands of dollars worth of damage to corn, oat and other grain fields. Covering the subject Warden Munch called the attention of the Journal to the following article regarding the crow pest published in the March issue of "Recreation."

In the early spring of 1902 I was greatly annoyed by crows stealing the eggs of my tame ducks—as well as those of some wild ones—which nested on the shores of Stag lake in Sussex county, N. J. The crows got to be so expert in finding single eggs and nests of the ducks that we could hardly secure a setting of eggs during the early part of April, when the ducks were laying almost daily; only such eggs as were dropped in six inches or more of water were safe. All attempts to shoot the crows proved futile as long as there was not enough foliage for cover to hide in. Later, however, when the leaves were out the crows soon learned the neighborhood of Stag lake was rather unhealthy, and we succeeded in raising a few broods of ducks.

With the dawn of day the marauding crows were on hand. They would perch in the trees overhead of the unsuspecting ducks and follow them from place to place. I often watched them thru a binocular and counted from a dozen to twenty and more crows watching the ducks around the lake. I repeatedly saw several crows alight beside a freshly laid egg and fight furiously for its possession. One crow would jam its strong beak into the egg and hop or fly some distance with it, and by widening the hole in the shell, eat the yolk and leave most of the white of the egg in the shell on the ground.

Long before being an eyewitness to these thefts, I had formed a great dislike for the crow. When a boy I had witnessed crows robbing smaller birds' nests and remembered reading articles by sportsmen telling of the depredations of crows among the prairie chickens, quail and water fowl on their breeding grounds. Again, I had repeatedly seen a mountain farmer's corn crop damaged by crows pulling the seed corn to the extent of half a crop. Having always been more or less a close student of nature, and especially of everything pertaining to the fauna of the country, I know that the crow does a great deal more damage than good. During the months of April, May and June, our crows will subsist mainly on bird eggs and young birds as well as by pulling planted corn. What direct good a crow may do by destroying obnoxious insects, mice, etc., in a year is, in my opinion nothing to be compared to what good such birds would do that are destroyed by the crows as eggs or young birds. I have seen them rob various insectivorous birds' nests to feed their own young with fledglings. I, therefore, never give a crow quarter in spite of the uncentani statements as to their usefulness by other ornithologists.

While considering how to protect our duck eggs the following spring, I decided to try to shoot the crows by decoying them with a live great-horned owl, descriptions of which sport I had read with great interest in some of the older German sporting literature. I procured an owl, and instead of building a sod-covered dugout, as was generally done in Germany, I built some brush blinds near some of the bare ledges on the mountains around Stag lake. The scheme worked from the start, and by the time our ducks were laying well I had most of the local crows killed off or driven away. It was more than a satisfaction to see these sly, thieving rascals come blindly at the owl with the best intentions of roughhousing or mobbing it—to suddenly find themselves in very hot quarters. Their antics, when they discovered that they were in danger of annihilation were often amusing. They would pump with feet and tail to assist their wings to make headway, a comical spectacle considering the valor of their unsuspecting onslaught of the owl. With the introduction of the owl as a crow decoy, the tables were turned, and a crow is now a rare bird at Stag lake in summer time.

While the punishment and keeping down of the numbers of crows was the main object of thus using a great-horned owl, I soon learned that all of the various species of the predatory birds, anything from an eagle to a sparrow hawk, would decoy to it. The owl was hardly ever given an outing without one or more hawks making a call and paying their respects; and as soon as the crows were taken care of, I found it most interesting study the modes of attack of the various hawks, and with this idea, built new blinds and substituted a mechanically moving mounted owl for the live one. For decoying hawks, the mechanical owl has distinct advantages over a live one. The main advantage is that the mechanical owl can be placed in any conspicuous position, and it remains there while a live owl will often prefed to be on the ground than upon its perch, and a proper perch can never be made to command the same field of view as is made possible by the use of the mechanical owl decoy.

The mode of attack of crows and that of hawks is different. A crow upon spying the owl will generally circle above it a few times and utter its loud war cry to attract all the crows in the neighborhood. If left alone with a live owl they will soon be in numbers and make it most uncomfortable for the poor bird, as some of the crows, more courageous than others, will bodily attack the owl, using their beaks and claws in a surprisingly vicious manner. The best way to clean a certain territory of these black rascals is to kill the first crow that comes within sure killing distance of the gun, as it doesn't take them long to learn the danger, and one crow will warn others. Crows are easily called if one understands how to imitate their by mouth or regularly made crow-calls and such calling, in connection with a decoy owl, is sure to bring almost every crow to the gun which comes within some few hundred yards of the blind. After a crow has been missed a few times, it gets very suspicious and wary, and I imagine that a few crows which survived our arrangements for their destruction did not trust other members of their own tribe thereafter, and would flee from any real crow calling for company.

DIVORCED PAIR MARRIED AGAIN

MINNESOTA COUPLE MADE HAPPY BY JUDGE HASSELL AT GRAND FORKS

WM. BUELL OF DEER RIVER AND ANNA OF BEMIDJI WERE PRINCIPALS

From Tuesday's Dally—
Judge L. K. Hassell at Grand Forks yesterday united Wm. Buell aged 49, of Deer River, Minn., and Mrs. Anna Buell aged 54 of Bemidji. They had been married before and secured divorce. Single blessedness was hardly to their liking and so they decided to get married again. Judge Hassell performed the ceremony with his usual skill on such occasions and the pair happily departed to enjoy their honeymoon.

While admitting that they had been married before and were divorced the pair declined to tell of the way in which they had been reunited beyond that it was a real love affair.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD THIS AFTERNOON OVER REMAINS OF THEODORE EIKEN

This afternoon at 2:30 at the Synod church on South Broadway, Rev. A. Salveson officiating, most impressive funeral services were held over the remains of Theodore Eiken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Eiken, the family now residing at St. raux, but having for years been prominent residents of this city.

The altar of the church was completely banked with flowers. The decorations were in charge of the Young Peoples society of the Synod church and all that loving hands could do to honor the memory of the departed, who had been loved by all who knew him was done. The archway was encircled with white crepe, to which was fastened sprays of green smilax, and smilax was interwoven with a wealth of individual contributions of flowers and elaborate floral pieces which completely covered the altar and the steps approaching, the organ and the casket. Many of the floral pieces were sent from St. Paul friends. Rev. Salveson paid an earnest tribute to the high character of the young man who was known as "Ted" Eiken to his Crookston friends, and pointed to him as an example well worth following.

The crowd present far exceeded the capacity of the Synod church, scores remaining on the steps and sidewalk during the services, and the cortege which followed the remains to Oakdale cemetery where the remains were laid to rest was a very large one.

The pall bearers were all old friends of the deceased and included Messrs. O. B. Tveten, Wm. Larson, Norman Mossefin, Arthur Anderson, Wm. Thompson and John Boh.

In addition to the large number of friends from this city, there were present at the funeral aside from the parents of the deceased, a sister Hulda and a brother Will, Dr. Arthur H. Jolstad of St. Paul, Senator Albert Stondall of Madison, Wis., and Halvor Tofte of St. Paul, the two latter being business associates of Mr. Eiken.

HELMER PETERSON COMING TO FRONT

GETS THE DECISION IN A ROPED ARENA AFFAIR WITH SENATOR BAILEY

To settle certain differences of opinion Senator Bailey of Emerson and Helmer Peterson of Noyes formerly of Crookston enjoyed a 5-round contest in the Arena at Emerson. The rounds as reported in deall by a well known Crookston railroad man were as follows, Peterson getting the decision:

Round one—the Senator is on the aggressive—leads forth with a heavy right for Peterson's short ribs but fell short owing to the clever footwork of Peterson.

Round two—there was considerable talking done in this round, the Senator somewhat besting his man. Gong sounds—honors even.

Round three—Peterson is on the aggressive and leads with a heavy left on the Senator's short ribs. Bailey clinches but were separated by Referee McMillan—some talking. Gong sounds.

Round four—Peterson now becomes enthusiastic over his pugilistic aspirations and is on the aggressive but was crowded to the ropes by the Senator who landed a heavy blow on his opponent's abdomen—very litle said in this round.

Round five—Peterson now becomes angered by his slow work and makes a pass at the Senator who was listening to orders from his referee, this landed over the Senator's eye knocking him down. At the count of 8 the Senator was about to rise but his opponent stood over him talking very rapidly thus confusing the referee who counted the Senator out. All honors about even but the Senator says he will soon be in training to meet this opponent again. At present he is nursing a sore eye.

MRS. TIMOTHY BIEVER PASSES TO BEYOND

DIED YESTERDAY AT DARBY, MONT., WILL BE BURIED AT ARGYLE MONDAY

Mrs. T. E. Biever breathed her last at Darby, Montana yesterday morning Mrs. J. A. McCaffrey received word to this effect last evening. The news will cause the deepest sorrow in this city where the family resided for several years, Euclid where deceased grew to womanhood, Argyle where her mother and brothers now reside. Deceased leaves a husband and one son Clifford, 20 years of age. She was about 39 years of age and was held in the ver yhighest esteem by all who knew her. She grew to womanhood at Euclid and was united in marriage there to T. E. Biever. After residing there for a number of years they removed to Crookston and were residents of this city for several years where both were well liked.

Less than two years ago Mrs. Biever was taken ill with tuberculosis and was at once sent to California, in the hopes that the change of climate would effect a cure. She improved for a time and when she did not improve as was desired she was taken to Montana. There her condition improved for a time, but for the past few months her condition has been critical The remains will be brought here either Saturday or Sunday and will be taken to Argyle Monday morning for interment, and she will be laid to rest there beside her father and two sisters. Aside from a husband and son she leaves a sister, Mrs. Donaldson of Wheaton, Minn. ,and four brothers, Fred, Ray and Victor of Argyle and Henry of this city and Ray is critically ill at the present time. There will be a large delegation from this city who will attend the funeral.

IS STEENERSON TO LOSE CHAIRMANSHIP

RUMORED HE WILL NOT BE HEA D OF THE COMMITTEE ON MILITIA BECAUSE HE BUCKED AGAINS T CANNON FOR SPEAKER

From Monday's Daily—
According to a Washington story, Representative Steenerson of Crookston who stood with the insurgents until the Fitzgerald proposition was sprung in the house, is to lose the chairmanship of the committee on militia and that place will be given to Butler Ames of Massachusetts.

This report, like others, lacks verification however and Mr. Steenerson's friends do not place any reliance in it. It is recalled however, that at the beginning of the Sixtieth congress Ames sought the chairmanship of the committee, but he lost out because Steenerson was the ranking member of the committee and under the rule of seniority entitled to head the committee. From other sources come statements to the effect that Mr. Cannon while he may not be lenient with the new members who revolted will not disturb the older members in their committee assignments, and on this assumption, Mr. Steenerson is safe.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ADOPTS AMENDMENTS

From Tuesday's Daily—
The special meeting of the 25,000 Commercial club at the city hall last evening proved to be very enthusiastic and demonstrated that the greatest interest was being manifested in the establishment of a club home. The discussions were free and interesting and as each of the proposed amendments to the Articles of Incorporation and the By-Laws was taken up the members presnt expressed themselves freely on the subject matter, but they were adopted by a unanimous vote after the changing of a few words and sentences, which had for their purpose no change in the spirit of the amendments but simply a change in the method of expressing them.

The amendment proposed limiting the active membership to one hundred provoked a spirited discussion, some taking the stand that it was not exactly consistent. The large majority of the members were, however, in favor of the limit and after the objection was thoroly discussed an amendment which proposed striking out the limit was withdrawn and the original amendment was adopted unanimously.

Before an adjournment was taken Prof. William Robertson requested the club to issue invitation to the superintendent of Farmers Institutes to hold an institute in Crookston in June. The suggestion was acted upon at once and an effort will be made to have such a meeting held here under t he auspices of the institute.

Board Meeting Will be Called

A meeting of the board of directors will be held in the very near future at which time the matter of giving an authorization to the officers of the club to enter into a contract with the owners of the rooms which will be used for a club home.

At the present time Secretary Brown has received applications of 95 members either for the continuation of their present membership under the change in the articles and the By-Laws or for new memberships and there is no question but that the membership limit will be reached within the coming twenty-four hours. After the limit has been reached applications wil lbe placed on file in the order of their reception.

Committee will Act at Once

When the meeting adjourned last evening Chairman Chesterman of the furnishing committee called the members together and the matter of securing the necessary furniture for the home was discussed. It was decided that another meeting should be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and no further delay should be had in getting the necessary furniture for the home.

Amendments as Adopted

Following are the amendments as adopted:

1. Amendment to Article II. of the Articles of Incorporation, making certani changes so that it reads as follows:

The terms of admission to membership shall be the election by the board of directors in the manner prescribed in the By-Laws, of persons who are adult residents of the City of Crookston and vicinity and the payment of the membership fee prescribed in the By-Laws, which fee shall accompany the aplication for membership.

2. Amendment to Article I. of the By-Laws, making certain changes in Section 1, and incorporating Section 3 so that they read as follows:

Sec. 1 Each applicant for membership shall sign an application, whether for active or associate membership, stating his occupation, place of business and residence, and obtain the recommendation ni writing of two (2) active members of the Club, in good standing, any shall be voted upon by the Directors by ballot in the order of reception, until the active membership reaches one hundred members and then further applications for active membership shall be placed on a waiting list in regular order of their reception and shall remain upon said waiting list until a vacancy in the active membership occurs.

Sec. 3 Membership in the Club shall consist of two classes, Active and Associate. Any person residing within the city of Crookston, or in the immediate vicinity, shall be eligible to active membership and secure all the privileges of this corporation. Any other person is eligible to Associate membership. An Associate membership entitles the holder to all the social privileges of the club, but does not give the right to vote or hold office.

3.—Amendment to Article VII. of the By Laws, making certain changes in Section 1 and Section 2, so that they read as follows:

Sec. 1 The fee for Active membership shall be Five ($5.00) Dollars, which shall accompany the application.

The membership fee for Associate membership shall be Ten ($10.00) Dollars per annum, payable semi-annually in advance and shall be in lieu of all dues for such associate membership.

Sec. 2 The dues for Active members shall be Twenty-four ($24.00) Dollars per annum, payable monthly in advance.

CHARLES JOHNSON IS DEAD — Charles Johnson, a local and well known railroad contractor, died at Bethesda hospital yesterday of typhoid fever, after an illness of several weeks. He was employed by the Great Northern and while engaged in work on one of its branch lines, contracted the disease in a most virulent form. It is supposed that bad water was responsible for the beginning of the disease. The deceased leaves a wife and one child.

The story of Lot's wife should be taken with more than a grain of salt.

Finish A Three Years C[illegible]se On Friday April 2. Exercises [illegible]e Held Sunday.

First Class Represents An Enrollment Of Over 100. Means Great Things For Valley.

From Monday's Daily—

On Friday April 2 th Senior Class of the Crookston School of Agriculture will graduate a class from their three year course. The commencement exercises will be held next Friday, April 2 and 2 o'clock at Stephens Hall and all are invited to be present.

Yesterday the baccalaureate sermon was preached. There was a large number of the relatives of the graduating class present at the ceremonies which were held in the large dining hall. Supt. Robertson presided and the opening prayer was given by Rev. F. M. McCoy of the local M. E. church This was followed by a hymn by all present and next came a quartette composed of Mrs. Robertson, Miss Minnie Walker, J. W. Wheeler, and Geo. F. Carpenter, with Miss Anderson and pianist.

A splendid sermon was delivered by Rev. Robertson of Wesley College at Grand Forks who is a brother of Prof Robertson. His charge to the class was one of the finest things ever heard in Crookston or vicinity.

This was followed by a hymn and a few words of an appropriate character by Prof. Robertson.

The class pin is a clover leaf properly inscribed.

The members of the graduating class are as follows:

Olivia Nelson, Olaf Nelson, Lena Opdahl, Christopher Fossbakken, Lewis Fossbakken, Mollie Fossbakken, Albert Petterson and Louis Regeimbal.

ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND PARCEL LED OUT FOR 1909 AND 1910

POLK COUNTY GETS LITTLE OVER $5,000 FROM THE STATE BARREL

From Tuesday's Daily—

Thomas H. Horton chairman of the house committee on roads and bridges has notified his colleagues to pass their plates for their share of the state road and bridge fund, known as "the pork barrel." This fund has been increased to $600,000 for the two years. The apportionment for the different counties ranges from $750 for Cook county in the northeast corner of the state, to $10,200 for Hennepin county.

While the sums apportioned are to be expended by county and local authorities the legislative members may specify how and where the amount shall be disbursed. Many legislators leave the entire responsibility with the county commissioners, but others divide the money among the towns and villages, in many cases in as small sums as $150.

The apportionment of the road and bridge fund agreed upon by the committee is as follows:

Aitkin $3750; Anoka $6425; Becker $3450; Beltrami $7275; Benson $3000; Big Stone $6000; Blue Earth $9000; Brown $7500; Carlton $3525; Carver $3000; Cass $3750; Chippewa $3000; ter $6000; Cook $750; Cottonwood Chisago $3000; Clay $3750; Clearwater $6000; Cook $750; Cottonwood $7050; Crow Wing $7800; Dakota $7500; Dodge $3700; Douglas $3750; Faribault $7950; Fillmore $4200; Free born $4975; Goodhue $4050; Grant $3000; Hennepin $10200; Houston $3750; Hubbard $6450; Isanti $3150; Itasca $3525; Jackson $3525; Kanabec $6300; Kandiyohi $3750; Kittson $7200; Koochiching $3000; Lac qui Parle, $7500; Lake $1200; LeSueur $7200; Lincoln $5400; Lyon $7050; McLeod $3000; Mahnomen $1500; Marshall $3975; Martin $7050; Meeker $4050; Mower $3525; Murray $3525; Nicollet $6750; Nobles $3525; Norman $3525; Olmsted $7500; Otter Tail $7200; Pine $3750; Pipestone $2700; Polk $5250; Pope $3750; Ramsey $3750; Red Lake $7275; Redwood $3900; Renville $3925; Rice $10200; Rock $3525; Roseau $7,200; St. Louis $6450; Scott $6000; Sherburne $2700; Sibley $6000; Stearns $6300; Steele $2700; Stevens $3000; Swift $2700; Todd $3825; Traverse $3525; Wabasha $3600; Wadena $3000; Waseca $2700; Washington $3450; Watonwan $2700; Wilkin $3675; Winona $4200; Wright $3900; Yellow Medicine $3525.

SEED CONTEST IS POPULAR

PROF. HARRINGTON HAS DONE A GREAT WORK IN THAT LINE

HE WILL CONTINUE IT THIS YEAR AND STILL GREATER SUCESS PROMISED

From Monday's Daily—

The success of last year's corn contest between the students of the School of Agriculture has encouraged Prof. Harrington to such an extent that the practice will be made a permanent feature, and each of the students will this year be given about two pounds of the best Minnesota No. 13 seed corn secured thru the seed house of Northrup-King Seed Co. This seed will be taken home by them, planted and reared to the best of their knowledge. One of the boys of the local school secured a state prize last year something to be very proud of. In view of the fact that the valley is not considered a corn region, the securing of a prize in competition with the entire state is a splendid advertisement for Polk county and the Crookston school.

There will also be seed contests for many varieties of grain and vegetables which will be encouraged by the authorities, and should be taken hold of by the farmers with enthusiasm.

HALLOCK FANS HAVE ORGANIZED

WILL URGE THE ORGANIZATION OF VALLEY LEAGUE— GOOD MATERIAL

A meeting of about thirty business men and baseball enthusiasts was held at Hallock last week for the purpose of organizing a base ball club for the next season. J. D. Henry was elected chairman and A. L. Bennett secretary of the meeting. It was found that there were about fifteen players at home and opinion was divided as to whether there should be any one hired. It was decided to leave that until later. On motion, J. C. Powers was elected manager of the team and A. L. Bennett was elected secretary and treasurer. It was the sense of the meeting that the captain be chosen later by the players. An effort will be made to try and organize a league among several towns along the line but if this cannot be done a schedule will be arranged with good amateur teams around the country.

STARTED SEEDING OPERATIONS

A NUMBER OF FARMERS NEAR LOCKHART HAVE STARTED SEEDING

SEVERAL HAVE SEEDED FROM 15 TO 25 ACRES—OTHERS ARE READY

Mayor McPhee received a letter today that several farmers in and obout Lockhart had started seeding.

One farmer had started operations but few days ago and seeded a small patch and several others seeded from 15 to 30 acres. This is about the earliest that seeding has been done in this section for many years and the farmers who have been fortunate enough to get on their farms have been talking about it ever since.

GREAT BOOM FOR WARROAD WOODMEN

ED HUMM SECURED 51 NEW MEMBERS IN PAST FEW DAYS

Ed Humm has just returned from a trip to Warroad where he has been spending the past few days. While there he secured 51 new members for the Woodmen Lodge at that place and in a short time there will be a big initiation ceremony. He also organized a Forester team which promises to be one of the best in the northern part of the state. Mr. Humm certainly did a great stroke of business and has again earned his title of the "Hummer of the Humms" in Northern Minnesota.

SCHOOL HAS GOOD DEBATERS

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL DEBATING AND LITERARY SOCIETIES MERY ACTIVE

LITERARY CIRCLES HAVE BEEN PROMINENT THE PAST YEAR

From Monday's Daily—

The past winter has been a very lively one in litertary circles at the Agricultural School. This feature has been much encouraged by the faculty and it has met with a hearty co-operation on the part of the students.

Early in the term it was found that the membership would be too large for one organization so two societies were organized. The Adelphic society and the agricultural literary society. Their meeting nights were Saturdays and with a literary program a debate was held.

The Adelphic officers of last month were Jake Salentine Pres., and Miss Harriet Coulter, Sec. The question debated last meeting was: Resolved that the road tax moneys should be paid in cash. and road work done by contractors. Miss Thoreson was leader for the affirmative and Mr. Koppang the negative. The negative won.

The election of officers resulted in the following being chosen, these officers will hold over until next year and will have to organize the club. They are:

Martha Moore, Pres.

Miss Linforse, Vice Pres.

Esther Misner, Sec.

The question of debate of the Agricultural literary was, Resolved that boys have better opportunities than girls.

The officers chosen for the next term are:

Carl Eklund, Pres.

Winnifred McDonald, Secretary.

SHIPPING IN FINE STOCK

PRACTICALLY EVERY TRAIN IS BRINGING IN SOME GOOD BLOOD

BEING SHIPPED OUT OVER ALL THE BRANCH LINES TO FARMERS

Anyone visiting the trains from the south every morning will note a very healthy sign as to the trend of the farmers of the Red River Valley toward improving their stock of all kinds. Not a day goes by but thorobred hogs, cattle, sheep or chickens are shipped in and sent to farmers on some of the branch lines running out of this city.

This morning there were some fine Berkshire hogs shipped in for breeding purposes and sent up the Warroad line. This is a most encouraging sign on the part of the farmers who are convinced that none but the best stock will return the biggest profits.

CAPT. JAS. BEARD AFTER BIG CONTRACT

Capt. Jas. Beard, the big ditch contractor, representing the Standard Drainage Co., of Windom arrived in the city this morning from St. Paul enroute to North Dakota, where at Bismarck within a few days a big ditching contract will be let on which he will put in a bid. It is understood that during the coming year there will be a great amount of drainage work done in North Dakota and Capt. Beard will endeavor to land several of the contracts.

HUNTING IS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Had His Preliminary Hearing Before Judge Gossman This Afternoon.

Was Recently Arrested For Forgery At Hawley By Sheriff Daniels.

This afternoon Thomas Hunting, alais Henry James, was arraigned before Judge Gossman in the municipal court charged with forgery. He was not represented by an attorney and was held to the next term of the district court for examination before the grand jury.

Shortly afterwards several checks signed, supposedly by Mr. Hughes were cashed by business men of the city, and later on it was discovered that all were forgeries. There were five or six checks for amount ranging from $10 to $20.

It appears that Hunting worked for John Hughes a farmer in the Town of Huntsville for a part of a day last fall, and later worked for several of his neighbors. Hughes gave him a check on Merchants National bank of this city. cshe shr

Hunting was arrested at Hawley where he has been working for the past winter at McDonald's livery barn.

James Montague took the testimony this afternoon, Mr. Hughes Bond and others being put on the witness stand.

Vulcanizer Explodes And Metal Is Hurled Within A Few Inches Of Prominent Dentist's Head.

This afternoon shortly before three o'clock a vulcanizer in the office of Dr. W. A. One half of the vulcanizer tore thru the wall directly by the side of Dr. Robertson and missed him by only a few inches.

Had the metal struck him on the head he would have been instantly killed, and it is a wonder that he was not either killed or maimed for life by the loss of an arm or limb.

GREAT FLOCK OF CROWS SEEN FLYING NORTH THIS MORNING

OLD TIMERS STATE THAT THIS IS A CERTAIN SIGN OF WARM WEATHER

From Wednesday's Daily—

This morning about 6 o'clock several big flocks of crows were seen flying north and the old timers state that this is one of the most certain signs of approaching spring.

Robert Rosenberg who is now recognized as the premier weather prophet of Crookston also predicts a fine spell of weather. He has hit the nail on the head for the past six months and hereafter will supplant Mayor McPhee as the official weather forecaster. WOULD APPLY TO CROOKSTON

WORKS WOULD AMEND MEASURE REFERRING TO DES MOINES SYSTEM OF RULE

SUBJECT LAID OVER UNTIL ADDRESSES OF YOUNG AND McVICAR ARE GIVEN

From Wednesday's Daily—

An amendment intended to widen the scope of the Senator Works bill which empowers certain cities to adopt commission form of city government so as to include all the cities of the state was offered today by Senator S. D. Works, Mankato author of the bill.

Both the amendment and the bill were laid over till after the address to be given before the legislature next Thursday night by Col. Lafayette Young and John MacVicar of Des Moines.

Mr. Works called attention to the two addresses and said he would not ask for action until the senators had the opportunity of hearing from the distinguished authorities on the subject.

Commissioner MacVicar and Gen. Young will arrive in St. Paul Thursday morning.

"Centralize the responsibility," Mr. Mac Vicar says "and you know where to go for reforms."

Tomorrow evening the Euclid Old Settlers Association will hold a big meeting. A fine program has been arranged and following the program there will be a dance and banquet. Quite a number from this city are planning on attending the meeting as the previous meetings have been a grand success.

THE USES OF MONEY

Money should not be regarded as the principal end of life, nor should it be regarded with contempt, for it represents to a great extent the means of mental and physical comfort.

The finest qualities of human nature are related to the right use of money—generosity, honesty, justice and self-sacrifice.

A little self-sacrifice, a svaings account with this bank, and a determination to use your money right (by saving it) will soon accumulate a snug balance to your credit.

FARMERS ARE ORGANIZING

FARMERS MEETINGS IN BELTRAMI AND CLEARWATER COUNTIES ARE SUCCESSFUL

GATHERINGS HELD THIS WEEK IN RED LAKE AND MARSHAL LCOUNTIES

Supt. Wilson of the state farmers' institutes, has arranged a series of meetings for Roseau county and the extreme easterly ends of Marshall and Red Lake counties, reaching a number of the inland settlements that are remote from railway facilities and which never get institutes.

F. B. McLaren of Wrenshall, Minn., is in charge of the meetings and has as asistants C. O. Carlson of Erskine and O. A. Stonvick of the state dairy and food commission of Crookston. Special attention will be given to the promotion of dairying, altho other lines of farming will also be considered. The territory which the instructors will traverse is one of the richest in grasses in Minnesota, and is largely open prairie, but far removed from railroads. Still in the eastern part of counties named despite that they are from twenty- five to fifty miles from railay facilities, several creameries are in active existence in the section indicated.

Mr. McLaren has just completed three weeks along these lines in Clear water and Beltrami counties encouraging farmers to start creameries. Here he organized nineteen farmers' clubs held 24 meetings and spoke to 12,000 people. Arrangements are completed for meetings at Olga, Lambert Lilo, Highlanding, Kratka Germantown, Grygla, Fram, Wanaska, Ross, Roseau and Badger. These meetings began Monday and cover a period of ten days. It is the purpose of the commercial clubs of the towns on the lines of the Great Northern and the Soo running north from Thief River Falls to have spring meetings held along the railway.

TAILORS WANT WAGE ADVANCE

FIFTEEN GRAND FORKS TAILORS ARE OUT ON A STRIKE

Fifteen tailors employed in the shops of Thomas Griffiths, N. Nordlund and Waxwick & Langford, in Grand Forks went out on a strike this morning for an increase in wages an advance from seven to ten percent being asked, the scale of ages differing in the three tailor shops of this city.

The strike is not likely to cause a closedown in all the shops as it is understood that those other than the three mentioned have met demands of the tailors.

The many friends in the city of Miss Helge Locken were sadened this morning on receiving the news of her death at Minneapolis. She has been at Northfield, Minn., where she had been keeping house for her nieces the Miss Sivertson and Miss Locken the past year who were attending college at that place.

Miss Locken is one of the pioneer residents of the valley and has many relatives and friends here who mournfully feel the loss of one who was ever the friends of the suffering and needy. The interment will take place in Crookston the date to be announced later.

TO WARROAD VIA WYLIE

R. R. RUMORS ARE AFLOAT THAT ABANDONED G. N. TRACK TO BE REPLACED

TRAINS FOR NORTHEAST WILL AGAIN RUN VIA SHIRLEY AND WYLIE

From Friday's Daily—

Persistent reports are reaching the city that the Great Northern contemplates restoring the abandoned roadbed between St. Hilaire and Shirley, its juncture with the St. Vincent line this spring. Sixty pound rails will be laid and this branch again be made the main line to Warroad.

The reason for making these changes are said to be numerous. It will make a shorter run, and give far better and quicker service to the people residing on the north end of the line. This program will not be very satisfactory to Red Lake Falls. as it will have to again be served by a short line from St. Hilaire.

NEGROES QUIT SUNNY SOUTH

FOUR FAMILIES PASS THRU ON WAY TO NORTHWESTERN CANADA

On their way from hot Oklahoma to the cold region of Northwestern Canada, a party of colored people passed thru Crookston late yesterday.

The party consisted of four families including men and women and several bright looking pickaninies. They were bound for Winnipeg whence they will go to Edmonton, Alberta, their plan being to take up land near there.

The pool rooms of East Grand Forks are following out the instructions of Mayor Dunlevy in prohibiting minors from frequenting the places.

FINE EDIFICE FOR PRESBYTERIANS

GRAND FORKS PRESBYTERIANS ENDORSE PLANS FOR A NEW $60,000 CHURCH

At a meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church last evening the board was instructed to go ahead and secure plans for a $60,000 church as recommended. Plans and specifications will be secured and bids will be called for. It is planned to get the work started as soon as possible this spring.

Of the $60,000 needed for the construction of the church there is less than $10,000 to be subscribed. It was the unanimous decision of the congregation that the full amount should be subscribed before work on the church is commenced.

BIRTHS 816 DEATHS 389

EVXIDENCE OF THE HEALTH OF POLK CO.—11 TOWNS NO DEATH

COUNTY CLERK'S REPORT TO STATE BOARD OF HEALTH IS COMPLETED

From Friday's Daily—

Clerk of Court Lanotot has completed the report of Polk county's births and deaths and forwarded same to the state board of health today. The figures show up very favorably, the healthfulness of the climate as the births almost treble the deaths.

The total number of births in the county during the year 1908 were 816 and the deaths were 389. The county has 70 towns, villages and cities, of these 11 report no deaths, they are Beltrami village, Brant, Brislet, Eden, Fairfax, Farley, Grove Park, Helgeland, Johnson, Kertsonville and Scandia.

The township of Belgium has sent in no report and it is taken that there was nothing doing out there if so it's the only place in the county that had not at least one birth. The towns of Fanny and Russia have had an equal number of births an ddeaths, one and four respectively.

The city of Crookston reports very favorably, taking into consideration the hospitals that receive patients from the entire valley, its number of births are 177 and deaths 99.

Of the other villages the following report is made:

ED RRIVER RISE ABOUT SAME TIME

THE FIRST RISE IS NOTED ABOUT THE USUAL TIME OF THE YEAR

The recent warm days and the consequent thaws have had their effect upon the Red River and it is now beginning to rise. The first indication of a rise was noted on Saturday noon at the time of the reading of the gauge by Observer H. W. Grass at Moorhead. At that time it was slight but at noon today Mr. Grasse reports a rise of six inches.

From figures compiled by Mr. Grass it is found that the first rise in the river has been noted in the past at the following dates:

1902, February 26.
1903, March 27.
1904, March 22.
1905, March 1.
1905, March 1
1906, March 28.
1907, March 20.
1908, March 12.
1909, March 20.

TOUGH CHARACTER IN CITY LOCK-UP

THE POLICE ROUND UP SUPPOSED LEADER OF GANG OF YEGGMEN

Ole Olson came in from Bemidji last night with his winter's earnings in his jeans. He met few of his old comrades and started to bowl up a few, have a jollification to make up for the many quiet hours spent in the big woods. He woke up this morning in one of the lodging houses minus a wallet containing $50 which he swears was in his possession when he retired. The police were notified and soon had one of the supposed thiefs in limbo. Upon examination the prisoner had many and divers suspicious articles on his person, which lead the police to believe that they have made an important capture. No money was recovered and it is supposed if the supposed victim really lost any, the thieves got away with it. The police are out looking for two pals of the one now in jail.

PEMBINA FARM 2,000 ACRES

THE LARGE PEMBINA FARM UP NEAR WARREN HAS CHANGED HANDS

CONSIDERATIONS ARE $100,000 — WILL BE SUBDIVIDED INTO 5-ACRE LOTS

From Friday's Daily—

A deal was consumated in St. Paul farm adjoining the corporate limits of Warren, on the east, was sold for a consideration of $100,000. The deal embraces an acreage of almost 2,000 acres and was effected thru Mr. Frank O'Meara, of St. Paul who has been an extensive land operator in this section and the Red River Valley for the past dozen years.

The recent purchaser of the Pembina property is Benjamin C. Koch of Tremont. Ill., also a large land owner thruout the Red Diver Valley. Thru the efforts of both Mr. O'Meara and Mr. Koch scores of settlers have been brought into this country during the period of their operations. Several years ago Mr. O'Meara the agent in the recent deal, sold to Mr. Koch the wellknown Keystone farm at Euclid. Since that time scores of Illinois farmers have taken up their abode on the various subdivisions of the farm.

It is said to be the intention of Mr. Koch the present owner of the Pembina property to subdivide section 31 which immediately joins the corporate limits of Warren, into five acre lots. Surveyors are now at work on the acreage proposition. It is said to be the intention of Mr. Koch to place the lots upon the market immediately after the extensive grading, ditch and concrete sidewalk operations will have been completed in the early spring.

MANY ACRES TO BE RECLAIMED

BETWEEN FARRIS AND HEART LAKE BELTRAMI CO. WILL PROVE BOON

Arrangements have been practically completed for the digging of a drainage ditch between Farris and eHart Lake. State Drainage Engineer Geo. A. Ralph has been working on the matter for some time past and is now making active preparations for beginning work. The ditch will mean much to the settlers in that vicinity inasmuch as it will drain over 5,000 acres of land and over six miles in length.

In the neighborhood of 2,000 acres of state land is included in this tract. It is the intention to make a state road along the course of the ditch.

Mesdames Sperry and Klock have made arrangements with H. W. Gossard Co., for a demonstration of the World Famous Gossard Corsets to be given at their Millinery Store on Monday and Tuesday March 29th and 30th Mrs. E. Douse a corseter and demonstrator of note will come from Chicago with all models of this conset to conduct this demonstration which is not for the purpose of urging the ladies who take this opportunity to meet Mrs. Douse, to buy but to acquaint them with the proper model and mode of adjustment for producing the best possible outlines of the form. Free fittings, March 29th and 30th.—Sperry-Klock, Palace Block.

HIGH LICENSE IN E. G. FORKS

APRIL MUNICIPAL ELECTION IS ALREADY THE TALK—CANDIDATES SPOKEN OF

High license wil be the issue in the next municipal campaign in East Grand Forks according to the sentiment which is now beginning to reach the surface.

From present indications high license will be the issue at the coming campaign the arguments in favor being a greater revenue from the saloons to the city. At present the saloons of the city are paying an annual licensev of $500 which under the high license rule will be raised to $1,000.

Mayor Hugh Dunlevy will be a candidate for re-election and Charles and John McDonald are also spoken of as probable candidates for mayor.

Foley Independent: Good-bye Teddy Teddy, we wish you all kinds of good luck. Come back safely, as we shall need you again.

MANY PEOPLE ATTEND MISSION

THE MEETINGS AT ST. ANN'S CATHOLIC CHURCH LARGELY ATTENDED

THE REV. FR. PORTELANCE OF WINNIPEG DELIVERING GREAT GREAT MESSAGES

From Thursday's Daily—

The past week has been a very pleasant and instructive one for the congregation and many out of town visitors of St. Ann's French Catholic Church.

The annual mission is now in progress and is one of the most successful ever held in the city. Father Tapin is in charge but is being ably assisted by Rev Fr. Portelance from Winnipeg a member of the Oblate order and is the principal speaker.

Father Boisseau of Argyle and Father Berne of Olga, N. D., Two services are held each day, High Mass being celebrated at 9 a. m. and Benediction at 7:30 p. m. with mass at 6:30 a. m. and 7:30, confession from 3 to 6 p. m. and in the morning before high mass.

At the 40 hours devotion Fr. Berne is the celegrant, Father Portelance sun-deacon and Father Tapin master of ceremonies. There will also be a Requem High Mass celebrated Saturday.

The services are being attended by exceptionally large crowds many being present from Red Lake Falls and Gentilly.

Following the present mission one will be held at Lambert and Terrebonne and the priests here leave for the other missions on Monday next.

COUNCIL CONTROL LICENSE IN M. R

LICENSE QUESTION MAY BE CARRIED TO COURTS BY THE SALOON MEN

For the first time since the spring of 1905, the village of Middle River is position having been a tie, upon the "dry" The vote upon the license proopinion of the attorney general and also by advice of the village attorney the council by a vote of 3 to 2 summarily closed the saloons. There is much feeling over the matter.

The question was voted on a year ago and license carried by a large mapority. Section 1528 of the Revised Laws of 1905 says that where a vote is taken upon the question such vote stands until reversed by a subsequent election. On this section the minority of the council took their stand. In a written opinion Judge Watts of this district holds the same view, as do also the majority of the attorneys. The matter probably will be taken into the courts by th esaloonmen.

FINDS MONEY IN POTATOES

THE MAN WITH THE HOE IS THE MAN WITH THE DOUGH

Alvin Hemphill is a progressive farmer who came from Joliet, Ill., two years ago and is making a success at farming in McCrea township, Marshall County. Last year he planted six acres to potatoes from which he raised 1100 bushels. He shipped 692 bushels to Illinois last fall receiving 80 cents per bushel here on track. The balance he stored in his root house and will have no trouble in selling them for as much or more this spring. He will increase his acreage of potatoes this year.

The survey of t he Thief River-Middle River ditch as well as the lateral on the next section line south of that was completed last week and the crew was pushing operations on the other lines. It certainly does look good and will look still better when we see the dredges commence work on or before June 1st. Just watch Middle River and eastern Marshall county grow.—Middle River Pioneer.

St. Peter Herald: What is wanted is the best possible results, and this cannot very well be obtained by trying to maintain inadequately equipped agricultural schools in every county. It would be a useless waste of energy and prove a disappointment in the end. One or two well-equipped schools in each congressional district would outweigh any number of poorly equipped schools. It seems that this point should be carefully considered before passing the bill.

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

You must look well after the condition of your liver and bowels. Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Miss Bessie Hall and Mrs. G. N. Wilson after visiting here a few days with friends returned to Stephen last Saturday.

Mr. Ed Pulrabek came over from Tabor last Saturday on business.

A great many of our leading citizens took train for Argyle last Monday morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. T. E. Biever formerly of Euclid.

Our town is possessed of an excellent bride and water system.

Miss Rose Kotek was visiting a couple of days with her girl friend Miss Tillie Brantl.

Mr. Ed Brantl came over from Grand Forks and is spending a two weeks' vacation with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Brantl of Tabor. Ed is a locomotive fireman on the Northern Pacific system. His many friends are very glad to see him here once more because he is a lad of the best type and has friends wherever he dwells; still his friends claim there is a mysterious twinkle in his left eye and they are afraid his calling so repeatedly on a certain young lady may mean something serious in the near future. Never mind Ed do what you think is best, there is no home without a wifey.

Miss Tillie Brantl called on Miss Margaret McDonald one day last week.

The Messrs. Edward, Charles and Jerry Brantl and sister Miss Tillie called on the Gerber family one evening last week.

Mr. Vonasek Sr., and Mr. Martin Dvorak were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John Brantl of Tabor last Sunday.

The roads are quite muddy now a days and pedestrians are making slow progress.

A couple of snakes were seen in the town of Key Stone the other day and now comes the report from Tabor that a few of t he festive crows have put in an appearance.

The snow is disappearing fast, the lovely water is running gaily in the ditches and all mortals around here are predicting an early spring.

THE JURY FAVORS SOO RAILROAD

IN THE SHUSSER $10,000 DAMAGE SUIT AT RED LAKE FALLS COURT

The jury in the $10,000 damage suit on trial at Red Lake Falls the past week allowed Miss Shussel the plaintiff only $1000 damages the sum offered her by the company to settle the case.

he plaintiff alleged that in stepping off a Soo train at the Thief River Falls depot she stepped between the car and the platform and fell. She was carrying some dishes which were broken, and she claimed that she had received permanent injuries as a result of the fall. The contention was made that there were no lights on the platform as provided by law, and this the company admitted and was willing to settle for $1,000. This offer was refused and the case went to trial. Atty Chas. Loring of this city defending, and Atty. Charles Boughton of Red Lake Falls representing the plaintiff.

Some men are so lucky about money maters that if they found a roll of bank bills they would spend it before they got home and tell their wives about it.

Many improvements are scheduled for St. Ann's Catholic church, the largest church building in the city. A fine large pipe organ will be installed as soon as it arrives, and plans are now under consideration for decorating the interior by fine frescoing.

St. Ann's is one of the largest and wealthiest church organizations in the valley and are continually improving their properties.

FLICKERTAIL SCRIBE — R. A. Quale editor of the Edmore N. D. Herald-News is spending a few days in the city, visiting with his brother E. O. Quale of Gary, Minn., who is confined at the Bethesda Hospital, having recently undergone an operation, and is improving fast. Mr. Quale reports North Dakota as in the finest condition in its history, to grow a banner crop. Every one is in the most optimistic frame of mind, respecting the future activities in every line of real-estate and other business.

NEED MORE HELP—Owing to the fine business being done at the Grand Central hotel a continued increase of help is required. The demand in Crookston being in excess of the supply outside towns must be drawn on to fill the want. Therefore William Marotte has gone out in the east country to recruit the supply. He is accompanied by Ed Larkin one of the finest who ever doned the new style of green lid that top off only the well dressed this spring. Their first stop will be Red Lake Falls, and their admirers are placing bets that will be as far as they go and the winning graces of the two will be sufficient to bring all the help wanted.

"Out of hell! Back to Eden!" This is the exhortation given the young men of the Chicago Hebrew institute by Rabbi Isaac Landman of Philadelphia, who declares that hell is the city and Eden the farm.

"In Eden" says Dr. Landman "there is always work to do. There is beauty for the eye and joy for the ear. There is health, independence and riches too for him who employs brain with his muscle for making the earth give up the blessing ridden there. The excuse that 19 centuries of Christian intolerance have unfitted Jews for the pursuit of agriculture is now invalid."

Mr. Bunzey will cater to the Maple Lake summer-colony and will have all the garden delicacies of the season to serve them. He resided in Crookston at one time while employed on the Journal force.

HIGH LICENSE—New York Mills is one of the comparatively few places that will be affected by the passage of the law limiting the number of saloons to one for each 500 inhabitants As the village was dry when the law was passed, and went wet at the recent election, the law becomes applicable there. Two parties had planned to apply for licenses, but only one can be granted and it is reported that one party has just offered $2,000 for the exclusive privilege of selling liquor in the village during the coming year. The council had decided to place the license fee at $750 if two saloons were to be established and at $1,500 if there was to be only one, but this party's offer is $50 higher than the figure suggested.

ALL WORKING IN HARMONY

SEVERAL COMMITTEES OF DIFFERENT ORGANIZATIONS MET LAST NIGHT

THE FIRE TOURNAMENT IN JULY HAS MANY BOOSTERS BACK OF IT

From Friday's Daily—

The three committees from the 25,000 club, the fire department and the N. M. Tournament Ass'n. met last night and transacted much business necessary to the preliminary work that is now being done towards making the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Association Tournament in July a stupendous success. The Woodmen are planning on having their big midsummer picnic at the same time.

Governor Johnson will be invited to be present and will come if there are no conflicting dates. He is a very busy man but will come to Crookston if he can possibly do so. The invitation will be extended thru the Young Men's Johnson club.

Crookston has a reputation among the firemen of the state of being hospitable, and the firemen are all making preparations to be here. The present intention is to have the meeting on July 5, 6 and 7.

IN SWEAT BOX HOBO CONFESSES

THE TOUGH CAPTURED BY THE POLICE IS LOOSENING UP SOME

This morning C. A. Nelson or Johnson admitted that he was one of the three pals of Jens Olson the man who claimed he was robbed of $40 and a watch night before last and that the other two had given him one-third of the plunder.

Nelson claims however that he had nothnig to do with the robbing of Olson.

Chief Eck's theory is that the other two men implicated in the robbery happened to be a little more sober than Nelson and made their get away Nelson proceeded to spend his share of the boodle to complete his spree and was all in when nabbed by the police.

Nelson was arraigned this afternoon at 2 o'clock before Judge Gossman in the municipal court and the case was adjourned till 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. In the meantime Nelson may be induced to tell something more of his palls and where they are likely to be found.

An Obliging Caller.

When M. Clemenceau was in the French chamber of deputies he became for some reason the idol of the workingman, but his popularity, according to the course of nature, brought its penalties. He was besieged by all sorts of people, who came merely to ask questions, and sometimes they were questions of the most trivial sort.

He was originally a doctor and used to give advice for nothing at certain hours of the day. One morning a workingman entered his room, and Clemenceau said without looking up from his writing:

"Take off your coat and shirt. I'll attend to you directly."

Three minutes later he found the man had stripped to the waist.

"There is nothing the matter with you," said the doctor when he had made an examination.

"I know there isn't," returned the man.

"Then what did you come for?"

"To consult you on a political question."

"But what did you strip for?"

"I thought you wanted an illustration of the emaciated body of the man who lives by the sweat of his brow."

The political question remained unanswered. M. Clemenceau was too exasperated to do more than tell the man to dress and go home.

Bliss.

"What sort of time do you expect to have during the social season?"

"Fine," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Mother and the girls will be so busy thinking about their clothes that they won't have time to notice my grammar."—Washington Star.

Taft Worries Politicians

President Taft's new policy of picking Southern Democrats for federal places where the communities do not want negroes and where Republicans are scarce, has stirred up all kinds of interesting troubles at the White House.

Loudest in theircries are the Republican leaders of these states, who insist that they are not getting their share of recognition.

On the other side a wail is coming from the Democratic leaders, who feel their party slipping out from under them. Every time Mr. Taft hands a place to a Democrat they claim he converts a whole army of Democrats to the Republican cause.

Most of the Southern Democrats are Republicans anyway. With the tariff fight compelling them to espouse Republican policies to get the protection favors they want, the Democrats are losing their Democracy with astonishing speed.

And all the pleas which have been made to Mr. Taft to keep the old referee plan intact have failed.

He has been having daily conferences with the Southern Democratic senators to get their views on local candidates but one of these took the president very much aback by the frankest kind of a declaration of policy.

"I am willing to help you pick the proper Republicans for places," this Democratic senator from the big Southern state is reported to have told the president, "but I will not recommend a single Democrat. For I know that the moment you appoint him he will become a republican. And the Democrats can't afford that."

So far the president's chief interest is said to be centered in finding good timber for federal judges in the South. He is said to be displeased with some of the appointments which past presidents have made to the bench south of Mason and Dixon's line. For his part he intends to put the bench on a high plane, if he has to make it a solidly Democratic group.

Aut Wiedersehen

Theodore Roosevelt Tuesday left the shores of his country and set sail for Africa, where he expects to spend a year hunting and collecting specimens of the fauna of the far interior of the Dark Continent.

His departure is especially noteworthy in several ways. He has just retired, voluntarily and in the face of the most tremendous popular demand for him to remain, from the presidency of what we fondly believe to be the greatest nation on earth. His personal popularity with the people of his country is unexampled in our history. None of our retiring presidents have ever taken so unique a method of ocupying their time and energies after retiring from their high office. Such has been the career of Roosevelt, and so extraordinary have been the many acts of his life that anything he does compels the most powerful interest, so that it is doubtful if the whole world has ever before been so absorbed in the undertaking of any one man as it is today in this semi-private, semi-public venture of Theodore Roosevelt into the depths of Africa.

That more than interest of the people of this country goes with him can not be doubted. He has the love of his countrymen in a peculiar degree, and there are few hearts of all out eighty millions who are not saying "God be with you till we meet again!" This country has a wonderful confidence in Theodore Roosevelt; it may not need him again as its president, and it may. But in any event it needs him as a citizen, and it lets him go only with the thought that it will soon have him again. — Duluth Herald (Democratic).

Walt Mason: O tune up the timbrels and kick up a din, and shake up the air with a song; one chieftain goes out and another comes in, and the government moseys along! One chieftain is weary and sick of the strife, and goes to an African vale, where a man leads a quiet and natural life, with lions and snakes on his trail. Afar from the clamor of patriots' tongues, he'll seek a much needed repose, where critters don't battle all day with their lungs, but scrap with their teeth and their toes. One chieftain comes in, and he's stalwart and brave, and he'll need to be dauntless and strong; O long may he prosper and long may he wave—and the government moseys along!

Representative John Saugstad is receiving not a little notice from the twin city dailies altho some of them are not complementary, it is not because he is not doing his duty by his district, but it is because the city lobbyist cannot make him swerve from the right and just course. Mr. Saugstad has been styled an insurgent because he will not line up with the bosses at every beck and call. His picture was humorously caricatured in the Dispatch yesterday.

The catalog houses have caused trouble at Pierz, Morrison county. The Soo road runs a mile from the village and some time ago the catalog houses sent out a number of catalogs to farmers. Many farmers sent in orders probably at about the same time, and a few days ago a carload of goods was received. The merchants of the village rose up and now they declare that if the farmers are going to order their supplies from Chicago they can also sell their products to the mail order houses. A merry war is on and interesting developments are expected.—Thief River Falls News.

DUGDALE IS ALMOST WIPED OFF THE MAP

Fire Destroyed The City Hall And Merchantile Establishment Of Herman Camp.

Loss $15,000.

From Saturday's Daily—

Early this morning a fire at Dugdale totally destroyed the general store of Herman P. Camp and the town hall adjoining entailing a loss of about $15,000 on which there was insurance of $7,000 on th estock of Mr. Camp and $700 on the town hall.

In addition the most fortunate feature of the fire was that Mr. Camp who rooms over his store barely escaped with his life, the ames enveloping the room before he was awakened.

The fire is supposed to have originated in the attic of the store, but this will never be known to a certainty. There was a dance in the hall last evening and the people had all reached their homes and were fast asleep when the alarm of fire was given.

Mr. Camp had a big stock and the insurance which was placed through the C. C. Strander & Co. agency of this city will not cover the loss.

The destruction of these two building very nearly wipe out the town as it is only a small station 20 miles east of Crookston. The Great Northern about two years ago moved the depot to Tilden about a mile west of Dugdale and since then this little town has been handicapped.

It has been impossible to reach Mr. Camp by telephone today to find out what his future intentions are regarding rebuiluding but it is generally believed that he will rebuild. He was doing a fine business and had no competition.

POLK CO. TEAMS IN LUMBER CAMPS COMING OUT IN FINE CONDITION

LUMBER CAMPS ARE BREAKING UP AFTER VERY FAVORABLE SEASON

Parties who had their teams working hauling and skidding report them returning home in fine shape including with a good earning record. Chas Teal Sr., of Euclid had 8 head near Tenstrike which arrived overland today. They were in charge of his grandson Roy Teal. The trip out was made in record time without a mishap.

A FAVORABLE SETTLEMENT

It is reported that the railroad company has settled the Winnipeg Junction case by buying out all property owners there. It costs the company $30,000 and after the company had bought them out it gave the property back again minus the claim to any railroad facilities at the Junction. The Junction will now soon be removed to Lake Park.

Somewhat Puzzling.

It is not at all surprising that the American vernacular should sometimes prove a little too much for the Englishman. A case in point was that of a visitor from London who came to New York last summer and was taken by his host to see one of the league baseball games at the Polo grounds. The game had progressed as far as the third inning without anything in particular happening, when suddenly one of the Giants pounded out a three bagger that set everybody howling with joy.

"That was a bird!" ejaculated the Englishman's host after the excitement had subsided.

A moment later a foul tip sent the ball flying back to the grand stand.

"And what do you call that?" queried the Englishman.

"That's a foul," said his host.

"Ah," returned the Englishman, "a fowl, eh? Well, it seems to me that the language of baseball is most extraordinary. A fowl is a bird and a bird is a fowl, and yet you use these terms to describe two plays that seem to me to be diametrically opposed to each other. Do you call that logical?"

The Englishman is still trying to think it out.—Harper's Weekly.

She Had Tested the Oyster.

Dora, the pet of the household, was very fond of oysters, and after eating her lunch of oysters and crackers she thought of her dear mother busy at her sewing machine. She selected a nice large oyster, put it in a plate and carried it to her mother, who, pleased with her little daughter's thoughtfulness, ate the oyster and said:

"It is most as good as my little girlie."

"Yes," answered Dora, "I know it is good 'cause I licked it all the way from the kitchen."—Delineator.

The Contrast.

The elderly bride regarded in the mirror her wreath of orange blossoms, her gown of ivory satin and old valenciennes and her long rope of perfect pearls.

"There's only one trouble about fine clothes," she murmured. "They make one's face look so shabby."—New York Press.

A DEADLY CONTEST.

Tragic Climax of a Bicycle Race In Australia.

One of the most singular events in the annals of athletics occurred a few years ago at Sydney, Australia. The occasion was a great electric light bicycle race, and the attendance was not less than 10,000 people. There were fifty entries, two of whom, James Somerville and Percy Cliff, were not only professional rivals, but deadly enemies. Both were considered expert riders.

From the start of the race Somerville led, with Cliff a close second. Somerville kept the lead throughout and came into the last lap with Cliff only a few feet behind him. When about twenty-five yards from the finish Somerville put on a terrific burst of speed and drew away from his rival. Suddenly at this point his grip on the handle bar relaxed, and he fell forward. The machine, however, under the tremendous impulse it had received, raced ahead like an arrow, the rider hanging limply over the handle bar.

Four yards from the tape the machine slowed down a little. At this point the front wheel of Cliff's machine struck the hind wheel of Somerville's, sending both wheel and rider across the tape. Somerville won the race, but he was dead several seconds before he crossed the tape.—Chicago Record-Herald.

ANCIENT DOCTORS.

Some of the Things They Knew Twelve Hundred Years Ago.

The Russian Academy of Medicine after examining a Tibetan "Handbook of Medicine," first published 1,200 years ago, acknowledges that it contains many truths discovered or rediscovered by modern physicians. Here are some extracts from the ancient volume:

"Number of bones in the human body, 360; number of nerves, 99; number of pores, 11,000,000.

"The heart is the king of the organs and the staff of life. The lungs embrace it as a mother does her child. Sicknesses are due to man's malice, ignorance and inability to curb the passions, for these things interfere with the proper nourishment of the human organs. All unkind thoughts react upon the heart and liver."

The methods for ascertaining the state of a person's health were very similar to those methods employed today—looking at the tongue, feeling the pulse, etc. Vegetable medicines are advocated; also baths, compresses, massage, bloodletting, etc. Fines were imposed upon physicians who did not keep their instruments clean.

Why Our Railroads Are Narrow Gauge.

Why are all railroads built on the standard gauge of four feet eight and one-half inches? The makers of the first locomotives thought only of putting their machines upon the tramways already in existence, and from that followed a very interesting and curious result. These tram lines naturally had exactly the width prescribed by the strength of one horse. By mere inertia the horse cart gauge established itself in the world, and everywhere the train is dwarfed to a scale that limits alike its comfort, power and speed. Because there is so much capital engaged and because of the dead power of custom it is doubtful if there will ever be any change in this gauge. Still, it might be worse. If the biggest horses had been Shetland ponies our railway carriages now would only be wide enough to hold two persons side by side and would have a maximum speed of twenty miles an hour. There is hardly a reason aside from this antiquated horse why the railway coach should not be nine or ten feet wide—that is, the width of the smallest room in which people can live in comfort and furnished with all the equipment of comfortable chambers.—Atlantic.

MAKE HASTE IS URGED

CONDITION OF PRESENT POSTOFFICE BUILDING URGES OFFICIAL TO HASTEN

WITH THE COMPLETION OF THE NEW GOVERNMENT BUILDING HERE

From Thursday's Daily—

Newbery and Newbery as agent for Fitger and Co., of Duluth owners of the building has notified Postmaster Steenerson that the building now occupied as the postoffice is in a very unstable condition and that the owner will not be responsible for any damages should an accident occur. Mr Steenerson has forwarded the notice to Washington and will await instructions from the department before taking any action.

There is of course no immediate danger that the building will collapse, but the owners are very anxious to make necessary repairs before the structure is too far gone. To put the building in normal condition again will require the building of about sixty feet of new wall on the west side and to do this it is necessary to vacate.

Postmaster Steenerson is urging the necessity of rushing the new building to completion.

FURTHER ACTION IN HIGH COURT

E. G. FORKS PAVING MATTER TO BE TAKEN TO SUPREME COURT

Former City Attorney D. T. Collins of East Grand Forks and Judge Corliss were in the city yesterday and took the necessary steps preliminary to appealing the paving case tried in the district court in Janury and decided against the city to the supreme court. The case will go on the calendar of the April term and will prably be argued in June. Messrs. Corliss and Collins who represent East Grand Forks in the case are of the opinion that the city stands a very good show of winning when the matter comes up before the supreme court.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT

MRS. L. S. HANCOCK IS IN VERY SERIOUS CONDITION FOLLOWING FALL

SUFFERED A BROKEN HIP AND WRIST AS RESULT OF ACCIDENTIAL FALL

From Saturday's Daily—

Mrs. L. S. Hancock one of the most prominent of our old citizens lies in a critical condition in her home on Cowing street the result of a fall on a slippery walk.

Mrs. Hancock was going from her home to that of her daughter Mrs. Geo. F. Carpenter this morning, when crossing the street she suffered the fall. She was at once taken to her home and a physician called who discovered that she was seriously injured having sustained a broken hip and wrist.

Mrs. Hancock is quite elderly and stout and it is feared on account of her age that the injuries will cripple her for life if the results are not more serious.

The local members of the Reads old settlers association have received the report of the successful banquet and smoker held at Dayton's Tea Rooms in Minneapolis on the evening of March 20.

There were 45 present, a regular program was gone thru but the most interesting part was the personal reminiscences of those present, as well as the many letters from Reeds natives in far off countries.

L. W. Larson, Rudy Burkhardt, J. N. Kirsch and Mrs. Emma Rasmussen of Crookston responded by writing. Some of the letters received were from all parts of the globe. The home coming week will be held in the month of August.

A ROYAL DESPOT.

Wurttemberg Prince Who Sold His Subjects Like Cattle.

Cruel and despotic were some of the petty princes who ruled the fatherland before the Napoleonic wars swept them away. Charles Eugene of Wurttemburg, born in 1728, died in 1793 and during his sixty-five years of life tormented his parents, his wives and his subjects. His first consort, Fredericka of Beyreuth, was worthy of him. When entering Wurttemberg soon after their marriage the girls threw masses of flowers in front of them. "What do those dogs want?" the princess asked her husband. They were always quarreling and never spoke to each other without snarling. The prince was always short of money and sold 6,000 of his subjects to England to raise the wind. He took the poor wretches from the fields, clapped a uniform on them and sent them to their destination as if they were cattle. Once he called all the young men of a certain district before him and made the following speech: "My brave boys, do you want to go to fight in the ranks of the English heroes against the savages of the continent?" No reply was made for the moment. Then a number of the youths stepped forward, and one of them said, "We do not want to be sold like sheep." The prince promptly gave orders for two of them to be seized, put against a wall and shot at once. Then while the blood was running from the mutilated bodies of the two unfortunates the prince by divine right said: "Run away. You see I do not want to impose my will on you. I think of your welfare like a father does of his children. You want to fight by the side of the valorous English." All consented. Schiller heard his father tell this story, and he himself related it in a scene of one of his plays.

Phil May's Drawings.

The late Phil May was popularly supposed to be the "lightning artist" par excellence of England. It is quite true that he could draw many wonderful things "straight off." But when a subject had been chosen for a Punch illustration many drawings were made from a model or models who first had to be discovered. By a process of selection each drawing of the subject bore fewer lines. When the drawing was published most of those who looked at it thought that it had been done with a few rapid strokes of the pen, whereas it probably represented a week's hard work.—London News.

32 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

DEMONSTRATES TO CAPT. DONALDSON THAT THE R. R. VALLEY IS UNEXCELLED

HE HAS TRAVELED EXTENSIVELY AND IS STUDENT OF FARM AND FARMER

From Saturday's Daily—

H. W. Donaldson an old timer of Kittson county, came up from St. Paul Wednesday morning and will put in the season at Hallock working for Burchart-Hulburt Investment Co. During the past four years Mr. Donaldson has spent considerable time in western North Dakota and Alberta, Canada At neither of these two places did he find soil, climate, market, or any thing which goes towards making a good agricultural country to be compared with that of the Red River Valley. Having spent nearly thirty-two years in this county and managed some of the big farms in the early days and has a thoro knowledge of soil, also having seen a great deal of what is supposed to be good farming localtiies and when a man of his experience makes a statement that northern Minnesota is far in the lead, as an agricultural section such a statement ought to be worth something.

EUCLID AUDIENCE LIKE "UNCLE RUBE"

ST. MARY'S DRAMATIC SOCIETY SCORED A BIG SUCCESS AT EUCLID LAST NIGHT

The play "Uncle Rube" given here St. Patrick's eve under the auspices of the St. Mary's Sodalists was repeated at Euclid last night with marked success. Altho the entertainment had not been much advertised a large crowd greeted the players at the Woodman Hall.

The characters of the play "Uncle Rube" were about the same as when presented here, and the individual successes would only be repeating what was said in the Journal of Mar. 19th. The participants drove up

FARMER BROWN DRAGGING

A number of visitors from over west in the city testified to reports that Brown brothers farmers near Key West had three drags in the fields yesterday and the day before. Many farmers have stated that their fields were in trim for the drag but did not belivee it well to get to work until the weather was more settled.

A DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

Effect of One Woman's Pathetic Eyes Upon a Jury.

James T. Brady, who was one of New York's greatest lawyers, was once counsel for a young woman in a case involving an attempt to break a will.

His client sat by his side. She was a very beautiful young woman, whose eyes seemed always to rivet the attention of those upon whom her glance fell. There was a pathetic expression which affected every one. She sat watching the jury during the course of the trial, and at last there was some complaint that she was attempting by means of her glances to excite the sympathy of the jury.

Then Mr. Brady arose and in one of the most touching and beautiful of all the addresses he ever made in court spoke of the blessings which every one who had an appreciation of beautiful things and could see them enjoyed and dwelt for some moments upon the happy lot of the jury who could see the budding of the flowers—it was then springtime—and the charms of nature. Then, suddenly turning to his client, he said, "That blessing is denied my client, for, though she has eyes which seem to look upon you, gentlemen, there is no vision in them, for her sight has been taken from her."

She had been, in fact, the victim of total paralysis of the optic nerve, which had not impaired the beauty of her eyes, but had given to them that singular pathetic expression which she was thus falsely charged with employing that she might secure the sympathies of the jury.

Impressed.

"I appear to have made something of an impression on that man over there," remarked a young lady at a wedding party. "He has been looking at me ever since I arrived."

"If you mean that one with the black mustache, he's the detective engaged to look after the presents!" said a friend.

Very Little Change.

"It's three years since I was in this city," said a stranger in a restaurant as he was walking out after finishing his dinner; "city looks the same."

"I don't find much change!" responded the waiter as he took up the nickel that was left on the table.

HUOT DAM ROCK PILE

OVER 10,000,000 POUNDS OF DAM BALLAST PILED UP NEAR HUOT

THIS REPRESENTS A REVENUE OF $3,000 TO SURROUNDING FARMERS

The proposed water power improvements on the Red Lake River near Huot is proving a bonanza to the farmers in that vicinity who are supply the rock for the dam.

John Lindberg is in from there having spent the past winter buying rock for the Crookston Water Works Power and Light Co., to be used in construction. The farmers delivered 5,000 tons the past winter for which they received $3,000 a very neat sum, and in addition much land was rid of rocks and made more valuable.

The Water Works Co., owned 1,600 acres near Huot last year and have since acquired more which is necessary for the overflow. With the stone secured the past winter there is about one-fourth of the total amount needed for the dam now on the ground, and there looks to be enough to build a Morro Castle. The farmers made good money, hauling about 4 tons to the load on an average.

MURDER THREAT SCARES THEM

GRAND FORKS CHILDREN HAVE THEIR INHUMAN FATHER ARRESTED

Terrorized by their father's threat that he would kill both of them when he returned shortly to their home in Grand Forks, two children of Fred Schneiblei hurried to the police station last night. Chief Overby and Captain Sullivan accompanied the children to their home and arrested the inhuman father.

A warrant charging him with threatening to kill was sworn out in Judge P. McLoughlin's court. His hearing was set for this forenoon at 10 o'clock and he was taken to the county jail.

Makes Murder Threat

Schneiblei had been attending a beer party at the residence of his brother John and when he returned to his home during the evening he told the children that as soon as he found them asleep he would kill them. He left the house and the children lost no time in getting to the city hall.

The mother of the children is dead. There are two boys aged 16 and 8 and a girl of 14.

The police are inclined to believe that the accused may have intended to commit murder. He was drunk and ugly and has been greatly feared by his children.

Too much firewater prevented two Indians on their way from Bemidji to Lakota from making the westbound Oriental Limited at Grand Forks last evening. They were arrested by Captain John Sullivan on a charge of drunkenness and it was found that they had a satchel full of whiskey and alcohol. One of the men lost his hat somewhere. Long before the train arrived they were lined up on the platform but their thirst proved too much for them and they sought a cozy nook.

TENNIS CLUB GOING SOME

NEW CLUB HOUSE BUILT RIGHT AWAY AND GROUNDS TO BE IMPROVED

BOARD OF DIRECTORS WERE ELECTED AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

From Thursday's Daily—

A meeting of the Crookston Tennis club was held last evening at which important business was transacted also the five directors elected as follows: Tom Morris, C. E. Gildersleeve R. C. Ruettell, Dr. F. Frank Boles, Dr C. E. Dampier.

The building committee named some time ago was authorized to at once enter into a contract for the construction of the fine new club house, plans for which were drawn some time ago. The contract for the building has been let to Larson & Larson who were the lowest bidders, and the plumbing and sewerage work has been let to Chas. F. Brennan. This will be quite a job as several hundred feet of water mains and sewage mains must be laid to make connections. Work on the building will be started at once and Crookston will soon have another evidence of metropolitanism to boast of to visitors in the city.

Social Committee

The club does not intend to neglect the social features during the coming summer and a committee to have charge of the social affairs during the coming season was named as follows: H. H. Chesterman, L. S. Miller, C. H. Zealand. This committee was also happily named and insures that proper atention will be given to social functions.

Most people's generosity consists in all the things they are going to do for others when they can afford it.

CITY COFFERS REPLENISHED

CITY TREAS. McGREGOR DREW MARCH APPORTIONMENT TODAY— $13,854.88

THE SCHOOL DISTRICT MONEY IS ALSO READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

From Friday's Daily—

The city treasury was this morning enriched by $1,584.88 when City Treasurer V. L. McGregor went to the court house and had that fund transferred in the local banks to the city's credit.

This money comes from the taxes paid to the county treasurer prior to March 1st. The money will be placed to the credit of the various funds by Clerk Childs and Treasurer McGregor.

For the Carman school district No. 251, its treasurer J. F. Ingersoll drew $978.55 for funds, with which to do business the next six months.

There is another sum of $233.20 due the district for the attendance apportionment. The district receiving $2.20 for each pupils attending six weeks.

The Crookston district No. 1 has still $10,757.21 to its credit in the county treasurer's office. $5,000 having been drawn some time ago. Of this amount $3,480.40 is for attendance apportionment and the other comes from the regular property tax.

NELSON FOUND NOT GUILTY

AS CHARGED BY BELTRAMI CO., JURY AFTER 29 HOURS OF DELIBERATION

SENTIMENT OF TWELVE MEN WERE FOR LIGHTER CHARGE BUT COURT OVERRULED

From Thursday's Daily—

After being out practically twenty-nine hours, the jury in the case of Barnard Andrew Nelson, accused of the crime of murder in the first degree (of having killed Morris Fuller at Fowlds on the mornnig of January 3rd) at 8:15 last evening, returned a verdict of not guilty, at Bemidji, as charged in the indictment.

The jury came into court yesterday morning and asked for instructions as to whether they could return a verdict of manslaughter in the case; and as to what extent they could ask for clemency for the defendant; also if they could find that the Barnard Nelson indictment was not a true in dictment in the first or second degree. They were given negative answers as to the questions as to returning a verdict of manslaughter and also as to finding the indictment not true, and were given to understand that the question of the extent that clemency could be exercised toward Nelson rested entirely within the jurisdiction of the court.

The jury retired and put in several hours in earnest discussion of the case. Finally, at 3:45 yesterday after noon, the twelve men came into court and reported that they were hopelessly apart and could not reach a verdict They were directed to return for further deliberation; they wrestled with the evidence and all phases of the crime finally reaching a verdict at 8:15 last night.

SOCIALISTS SPREAD DOCTRINES

THE THREE HOURS MEETING LAST NIGHT WAS CROWDED TO THE DOORS

LECTURER BARTON A U. OF M. GRADUATE KEPT AUDIENCE IN RAPT ATTENTION

From Friday's Daily—

Again the Socialists showed that they never stop campaigning. They are just as lively after as before election. Their meeting last night was a grend success the house being packed to the doors and corridors with people and many had to be turned away. Many of the leading citizens were present to know both sides of the social problem and, who gave the speaker much credit for the cause he stands for and advocates. Mr. Barton who delivered an address on existing evil condition of the day and the final outcome if not remedied, has but few equals. The audience was all attention for the two hours of his speech with occasional tremendous applause.

Mr. Barton certainly gave his listeners something to think about. He said in part: "Education is what we want but if used for individual benefits we trample our less fortunate sisters and brothers beneath us and thus become a curse to civilization. We must educate ourselves and help our fellowmen and thus be sucessful in the uplifting of humanity.

In Minnesota there are about 600 newspaper men, each conducting a job printing plant, and each one tamely submits while the government robs them of thousands of dollars' worth of business, in the shape of printed envelopes. RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Crookston People

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is planty of proof right here in Crookston.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. Benj. Campagne, 322 Spendley St, Crookston, Minn., says: "I can just as enthusiastically endorse Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did six years ago. At that time they proved of great benefit to me in banishing a dull backache which had clung to me despite my efforts for relief. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wallace's drug store and began using them. They helped me from the first and soon the pains were entirely removed."

When a man finds himself a misfit in a town it is time for him to move. It often happens that the misfit is rather the town than the man; it often occurs that the man is right and the town is wrong, (tho the probabilities are the opposite), but in cases like this it is a fact and not a theory to be reckoned with. He may be and often is a success in some other place. In fact he is likely to win success more successfully in the new place rather than the old—and easier. He might live down the opposition in the old place he starts on even terms as to time and as to conditions. Lots of men have made the mistake of their lives by thinking the world is only a few miles wide.

Red River Valley In Fine Shape

Not for many years have the prospects been as good in the Red River Valley as they are this spring. The farmers have their plowing well done more than they have had in ten years and in addition the plowing was well done. There was a large amount of summer fallowing done last year, and the fall plowing as a rule was done early so that the land that is ready for seeding this spring is in fine shape.

The recent snow was also a great benefit. The ground was dry last fall, but the recent snow which has now practically all melted will fill the cracks with moisture and this will furnish the needed water for grain later in the season should it prove dry.

From present prospects the spring will be early. As stated several days ago, some seeding has already been done, and it would take but a very few days of fine mild weather before seeding would be general.

With all conditions favorable there is every reason for the business men to be optimistic regarding the coming year. The feeling is that way now and will be more so as the season progresses. All indications point at a new era of prosperity in this section of the northwest.

With hundreds of new farmers coming in, the practical, desirable kind, the farming interests of this section are going to receive a boom such as has not been experienced in many years.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

TO NORTH DAKOTA—Robert Ashley left this morning for North Dakota and will visit Neche and Hamilton before returning. He expects to make the two towns today.

SPENT SUNDAY HERE — Tim Toole of Duluth spent Sunday in the city the guest of C. W. Final. The company is very much pleased with the outlook for business in this section the coming year.

A NEW GAME—I. W. Kinder, president of the Travelling Men's Sunday school Association, this morning received a new game called "Egg-O-See' which he started to introduce among the traveling fraternity. It seemed to take very well as he sold several pecks at the depot this morning.

HAS BAD HAND—Chief of Police Eck has a very painful hand as the result of a cut in the fleshy part of his left hand. The wound is healing up nicely but in the meantime is very painful and the injured member is very badly swollen.

HAD HIS BIRD CAGE —Maurice Billedeau spent Sunday in the city from Fisher and returned this morning. He took along a bird cage and also had a package which he claimed contained a bird, but the general supposition here was that he had the bird caught in Fisher before hand.

"My three year old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in an awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Orino Laxative and the next morning the fever was gone and he was entirely well. Foley's Orino Laxative saved his life." A. Wolkush, Casimer, Wis.

A BAD ACCIDENT — Martin E. Hoff had the misfortune to be thrown from his horse while going home last Sunday afternoon and seriously spraining his knee. Dr. Swanson has him in charge and he is improving rapidly but is still unable to take his mail route which is being handled this week by August Berglund.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT—W. A. Sorsoleil arrived at St. Hilaire last Monday from his home near Prince Albert, Sask., and has been visiting with old friends. Mr. Sorsoleil came down at this time on acount of his damage suit against the Red Lake Falls Milling company for $10,000 damages which is being tried at Red Lake Falls this week.

SCHOOL LAND SALE—The state auditor will hold a sale of school lands for Red Lake county at Red Lake Falls on Friday, June 11th. Only four thousand acres are offered for sale in this county, but in Roseau County 60,000 acres will be offered and 45,000 acres offered in Marshall county. This would indicate that the school lands in Red Lake county have been nearly all disposed of and is now in private hands.

CREAM SEPARATOR SALESMAN—Chester Stebbins, the general agent for the DeLaval Cream Separator Co., spent Sunday in the city and left this morning for Thief River Falls where he has a deal on. He states that the demand for cream separators in the Red River Valley has been increasing to such an extent that the companies are paying more attention to this section of the country than ever before.

HEADED FOR CLAIM—J. Rasmissen of Moorhead who has been visiting his son Rudy Rasmussen at Grand Forks arrived this morning from the latter city and will spend a few days here at the home of his son J. R. Rasmussen before proceeding to his claim in Roseau Co., where he will spend some time. Mr. Rasmussen tho advanced in years is still hale and hearty and as vigorous as many men much younger in years.

WERE PHOTOGRAPHED — The Bangen Photographic Studio has just turned out a fine picture of the faculty and students of the Agricultural school. The photo-picture is twelve by fourteen inches and made by tastefully grouping the individual pictures so as to make a fine group picture. There are over 100 persons on the picture each student and teacher has secured one that will be highly prized by them, in the future years to come.

SNOW THREE FEET DEEP—St. Cloud Times: "Fifty years ago today," state C. A. Gilman this morning "the snow lay three feet deep on the level in the woods, and there was not a sign of its clearing up or melting. I was then conducting a sugar camp out near where the Gilmanton Catholic church now stands and came to town thru the snow to attend the Clark-Corbett wedding. That year the snow stayed on the ground in the woods all thru March and April and on the first of May we moved our camp on a sled to the edge of the timber where we could then take wagons." There is quite a difference between the conditions then and today.

NELSON BOUND OVER—O. C. Nelson, charged with the robbing of a transient Friday night was today held to the grand jury by the Municipal court, and not having the $500 bonds he went to jail.

WATTS TO RED LAKE FALLS—Judge Wm. Watts returned to Red Lake Falls this morning to resume the March term of court. Several local attorneys accompanied him.

MIGHT SELL NEW STOCK—C. Q. Roemer went to Dugdale this morning a new stock of hardware. Camp was burned out a few days ago as was stated in the Journal.

RANDKLEV RETURNS — Somewhat browned by southern suns and "trained down" about fifteen pounds in avoirdupois by his energetic traveling, M. E. Randklev has returned to his home at Fosston after an absence of a number of weeks, the greater portion being spent by him in the interesting island of Cuba.

CRAZED BY GRIEF—Ka-Ka-gie-sic one of the Warroad Indians, was taken to Roseau last Friday by Julian Brown of Warroad. He was examined before Probate Judge Holm the following day, adjudged insane and taken to the Fergus Falls hospital by Mr. Brown and Sheriff Olsson. Ka-Ka-Gie-Sic who is a brother of Chief Na-ma-pock, lost his wife and children about a year ago and the misfortune seems to have affected his mind.

A Religious Author's Statement

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy."

MANY WILL BE HELPED

HOW TO PREPARE A MIXTURE TO CURE—SAYS THIS IS VERY GOOD

DREAD DISEASE, WHICH IS SAID TO YIELD TO SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

To relieve the worst forms of Rheumatism take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses.

This prescription forces the clogged up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes Rheumatism.

As Rheumatism is not only the most painful and torturous disease, but dangerous to life this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home who should at once prepare the mixture to get this relief.

It is said that a person who would take this prescriptions regularly a dose or two daily ar even a few times a week would never have serious Kidney or Urinary disorders or Rheumatism.

Cut this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce indeed, and when you need it you want it badly.

From Tuesday's Daily

Gus Schuneman is making the north line today and departed with a smile which nearly covered his face and that is making a pretty broad statement.

VISITING BAGLEY—J. W. Wheeler left this morning for Bagley where he will spend the day attending to some important business matters of a financial nature.

BACK FROM MINNEAPOLIS — Bennie Moe returned this morning from a combined business and pleasure trip to Minneapolis where his mother resides.

ON FINANCIAL BUSINESS—J. P. Foote of the Scandia American Bank left this morning for a business trip up the Warroad line, expecting to return this evening.

VISITING GRAND FORKS— Rev. A. Salveson left this morning for Grand Forks where he will spend the day attending to some church matters and visiting with friends.

A NEW NAME — J. J. Kelly is spending the day attending to some business matters out on the Fosston line. His latest name among the travelling men is "Gold Mine John" alias "Coffee Kelly."

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Cures backache and irregularities that if neglected might result in Bright's disease or diabetes.

Sold by all druggists.

HALLOCK BUSINESS MAN HERE—John Henry, one of the prominent business men of Hallock arrived in the city last evening and is spending the day here with friends and is also attending to some business matters.

FANNY FARMER IN CITY—A. F. Michaels of the Town of Fanny is spending the day in the city. He is a well known farmer on rural route No. 5 and his farm is kept up to the highest standard. He was in the city today to have some stationery printed and intends to do business the same as a business man in the city.

HEILEMAN AGENT HERE—N. C. Ludvigson the manager of the Heileman Brewing Co. Agency here and at East Grand Forks who formerly resided here but later moved to East Grand Forks spent the night here and left this morning for the west end county town. He is looking as hale and hearty as ever and is just as good natured.

HERE FROM CLIMAX—Alexander Spokely arrived from Climax this morning and is spending the day with his brother, Julius Spokely, and other friends. He says things are looking fine around Climax, which is one of the garden spots of Polk county.

ON THREE DAYS' TRIP—C. L. Bang left this morning for Warroad and other points on that line where he will spend the next three days getting orders for the Crookston Bottling Works. The business of Bang Bros., is growing steadily owing to active pushing by the two members of the firm.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

TO MOVE TO FORKS—Theodore Tharaldson who has been traveling in North Dakota for the past year states that he is going to move his family to that city in a short time. He has been a resident of this city for a number of years, and the departure of the family will be greatly regretted by a large circle of friends. Mr. Tharaldson is making the move because of convenience as he is spend- Grand Forks.

PROMINENT FARMER IN—Fred Reitmeier one of the prominent farmers residing on rural route number five is spending the day in the city attending to some business matters and at the same time ordering some stationery at the Journal office. He is one of the progressive farmers of Lowell and is a frequent visitor in Crookston.

LOCATES IN NORTH DAKOTA—John Jebe who has been operating a tonsorial parlor at Pomeroy, Ia., has sold his business there and left last evening for Haynes, N. D., where he will engage in the same line of business. He has been visiting for the past week with his father, Jacob Jebe who resides on a farm near Marin station.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

"OLD HICKORY" HERE—C. Teal Sr., the veteran farmer of Euclid drove to the city this morning in time to catch the train for Mentor where he will spend the day on business.

HERE FROM ARGYLE—E. A. Martin one of the prominent business men of Argyle was in the city this morning enroute home after a business trip to Grand Forks. He states that the farmers up that way are all busy preparing to start seeding.

HAS APPENDICITIS—Miss Joetta Wallace who has been ill for the past few days is suffering with appendicitis The attending physicion has not decided as yet whether an operation is necessary and it is hoped by her many friends that she will recover without adopting such a measure.

WILL VISIT OLD FRIENDS—T. E. Biever and son Clifford who have been spending the past few days in the city with friends, left this morning for Euclid where they will spend a few days visiting and will attend the meeting of the Euclid Old Settlers Association which will be held tomorrow night.

SNOW WAS SHORTLIVED— The snow which fell Sunday did not last long. The farmers were all glad to see it fall as the moisture was badly needed, but were just as glad to see it go. While the weather prophets are somewhat at variance regarding the future the old timers are of the opinion that we will have an early spring and they are preparing for it.

CHANGING HIS RESIDENCE — Peter Gramer is today busy moving his family from 226 Lincoln Ave., Jeromes Addition, to 1010 North Broadway, near the Windstacker plant. Instead of taking Horace Greeley's advice to go west and grow up with the country, Mr. Gramer believes in going north.

ONLY FISH STORIES—Jos. A. Wessel left this morning for a trip up the north line. As a member of the State Game and Fish Commission he was supposed to have a few pheasant or fish eggs in his pocket to distribute in this section of the state, but in reality was only armed with a few fish stories—as usual.

TWO LIVE ONES —There was not a great deal doing at the city hall last evening. Two real live drunks were rounded up and they were given the regulation sentence by Judge Gossman in the Municipal court this morning. There were also six "sleepers" who were ushered out of the city this morning by the police.

STILL CLEANING STREETS — Street Commisioner Chas. Duval is still continuing his street cleaning campaign. He has a large force of men at work and intends to have the streets and crossings cleaned up right before he ends the spring cleaning campaign. This is very commendable on the part of the administration. Regardless of all other considerations the streets should be kept clean.

MUSICIAN LEAVES CITY—Clarence Mickelson who was the organizer of what was known as "Mick's" orchestra, which has played at many social functions and was a credit to the city in every way left for his home at Stephen. Gathered at the depot this morning was every member of the orchestra to bid him farewell and many other friends were also present to give him a "send-off". His departure is sincerely regretted by a host of friends.

IN INSURANCE LINE—Samuel Mc Donald who owned a drug store in Grand Forks some time ago, has taken a place with Eugene Fretz of the Northwestern Mutual Insurance company, as assistant general agent for North Dakota. He will have charge of the south half of North Dakota and will make his headquarters in Fargo He has commenced work, and his friends feel sure he will make good. He has all the qualities which make the successful insurance man and his company is second to none.

LUMBER JACKS ARE RETURNING—Every train from the east for the past few days has been loaded with lumberjacks. "Turkeys" at the depot have been a familiar sight. The men are headed for all parts of North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. Many of them are well known in this section and some of them are not known at all. The police have been bothered to a considerable extent by them but Chief Eck and his men have been able to get rid of most of them with but little trouble. Those who had no money were simply "hunched" out of town and those who had the coin and got into limbo paid their fines and said nothing.

BACK FROM CITIES—J. J. Padden manager of the Red Lake Falls Milling Co., returned this morning from a trip to Minneapolis and St. Paul. He is very reticent regarding the rebuilding of the Red Lake Falls Flour Mill this spring. But the fact that no start towards reconstruction has been made as yet makes it look as tho there would be no mill built this spring. Marcus Johnson who operated about 9 mills in Minnesota suffered the loss of two during the past winter by fire. the one at Red Lake Falls and another at Foley about three weeks ago. The mill at Red Lake Falls was the largest in the bunch and there is no question but what it will be rebuilt in time on account of the fine power there.

KEYSTONE

Mr. John Gerber transacted business in Grand Forks last Friday.

Mr. John Capes and Mr. Douglas Wiles two prominent land agents spent last Tuesday night at the home of Simon Aeschlimann. Being the hustlers that they are they will no doubt sell lots of land and get quite a settlement of Illinois farmers in this vicinity next summer and fall.

Miss Cora Ehnen who is attending high school at Grand Forks, N. D. is enjoying a short vacation which she is spending at home.

Miss Tilly Brantl is staying at the home of John Gerber.

Lewis Aeschlimann and Miss Agnes La Grave called on Henry horn last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gerber are the proud and happy parents of a fine son born the twenty-third of March. The young man feels his importance as he was preceeded by four sisters and proposes to rule the entire roost. Mr. Mr. Gerber is willing to pass around cigars and has been wearing a smile that won't come off ever since.

Mr. Simon Aeschlimann returned last Sunday from a six weeks' visit with friends and relatives in Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. He enjoyed his visit very much and met many old acquaintances whom he has not seen for many years.

It does not seem as if Mr. Snow could bear to leave this part of the country, as he has been a visitor for several days already.

The Farmers in Illinois are plowing and getting rather anxious about the seeding of their oats. Never mind we will soon get our grain all seeded before very many weeks will pass and can then boast of our grain as well as the Suckers.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

WILIS A. GORMAN POST, GRAND FORKS CELEBRATES 25TH ANNIVERS

FATHER OF E. M. WALSH THIS CITY THE OLDEST MEMBER OF POST

From Monday's Daily—
The twenty-fifth anniversary of Willis A. Gorman Post, G. A. R. of Grand Forks, was observed appropriately on Saturday evening. The W. R. C. entertained the veterans at a supper and this was followed by a program of addresses of interest. The celebration was atended by a large number of the veterans. Of the three charter members of the G. A. R. Post A. Knudson, J. B. Mossette and J. M. O'Neale the latter an uncle of the Misses Kasser of this city, were the only ones present. Addresses were made by J. M. O'Neale, T. T. Henton, F. J. Peck, A. J. Pierce and J. D. Church. Their remarks related largely to the post's past history.

Thomas Walsh, father of E. M. Walsh of this city, is the oldest living member of the post but owing to illness was unable to be present.

Mr. Pierce read a sketch of the post's history which revived old memories. He had collected the facts carefully and the sketch proved of great interest. He recommended a number of things and laid particular stress upon the necessity of the members furnishing biographical sketches and pictures.

The celebration was brought to a close by the singing of "America." It was mos tsuccessful in every way. The W. R. C. provided a fine feast for the veterans and the only regret expressed was that every member of the post could not be present.

Managing Candles

When candles begin to flare high and flicker on the dinner table, the hostess intent on preserving the life of her set of dainty candle shades, keeps an anxious eye on these frail bits of lace and paper. To instantly extinguish the blaze dip a piece of bread in water and apply it to the wick. When you are fatigued or run down try a glass of golden grain belt beer. If taken regularly at mealtime will build up and feed the nerves, enrich the blood and invigorate the muscles. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

SAYS VALLEY COMPARES WELL

JOS BALL RETURNS FROM A TRIP TO MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA

HE STATES THAT NO SEEDING HAS BEEN DONE THERE AS YET

From Monday's Daily—
Jos. Ball, the land man, returned this morning from a business trip to Marshalltown, Ia., where he has been spending the past few days on a few land deals.

He was much pleased with conditions here when he arrived today. He states that no seeding has been done around Marshallton as yet, and from appearances work in the fields will be general here as soon as it is there As a matter of fact there has been considerable work done in this section already tho the work has not been general.

Iowa farmers are generally supposed to start work a couple of weeks before Red River Valley farmers, but of late years it has been noted that they start at about the same time.

SERVICES IMPRESSIVE

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HELD A SPLENDID MEETING YESTERDAY

SERVICES WERE HELD IN MEMORY OF LATE FATHER GREEN

From Monday's Daily—
Most impressive memorial services were held here yesterday by Crookston Council Knights of Columbus in honor of the memory of the late Rev. Father Green who was an honored member of the local council, and for years pastor of Sacred Heart church at East Grand Forks. There was a very large attendance both from this city and East Grand Forks, the delegation from the latter place including Judge T. A. Sullivan, City Clerk C. P. Zimmerman, M. J. Sullivan, E. J. Sullivan, P. Girard and son, Dr. Kirk and others.

The program was a most impressive one the talks by N. B. Moran, Judge Sullivan, Mr. Zimmerman, Judge Montague and J. E. O'Brien being especially illustrative of the life and character of Father Green.

The program was as follows:

IS STRICKEN IN THE CAB

ENGINEER SWOONS AND FIREMAN STOPS G. N. TRAIN IN TIME

While at the throttle of an engine of a Great Northern passenger toward St. Paul at the rate of 55 miles an hour, Engineer William Lachappelee aged 40 years was suddenly attacked with acute appendicitis and would have fallen from his cab but for the quick work of the fireman who seized the man with one hand and brought the train to a stop with the other.

Lachapellee had complained of feeling ill for several hours and according to the fireman, had swayed and came near fainting several times but he pluckily remained at his post.

At Atwater 90 miles from St. Paul he swooned. After the fireman stopped the train the sick engineer was assisted to a coach and every attention given him but no doctor was at hand and he did not receive medical care until he reached this city.

He was removed to St. Joseph's hospital where an operation will be performed as soon as he is strong enough.

MAKE CITIZENS AT ERSKINE

CLERK OF COURT LANCTOT MAKING MORE VOTERS TODAY

Clerk of Court Lanctot left for Erskine this morning where he will spend the day taking applications for citizenship papers. There are quite a number of applicants there and the trip of Clerk of Court Lanctot is simply to save them the expense of coming to Crookston, as he can go there alone and take the applications of all who want to become citizens at the same expense that any one of the applicants can come here.

"What would you do," the bridegroom whispered hoarsely, "if by some terrible accident I should be drowned?" In the mild moonlight he saw his young wife pale and shudder. "Oh, don't, Tom," she cried. "How can you? You know I don't look well in black!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT LARIMORE SUNDAY

Newman Eganson, A Brakesman Of Crookston, Victim Of Fatal Accident Yesterday.

Lost Both Legs At Larimore On Sunday And Died In Grand Forks Hospital Last Night.

From Monday's Daily—
On Sunday afternoon Newman Ergeson one of the well known railroad brakesman of the city residing at 109 N. Front St., was caught between an engine and baggage car while switching in the yards at Larimore was knocked down and run over by the engine, both legs being cut off above the knee.

The injured man was rushed to Grand Forks on a special train where he was placed in a hospital, but death ended his sufferings during the night. The remains will be brought to Crookston on the train this evening and will be buried here. The funeral announcements will be made later.

Deceased was one of the well known and popular men of the city. He leaves his parents and several brothers and sister to mourn his sudden demise, and they are all the recipients of the most hearty sympathy of a host of friends in their terrible bereavement.

The deceased was in Crookston last Saturday evening and left on a trip Sunday morning and little was it thought that such terrible news would be received this morning.

LARGEST MUSTER IN HISTORY

COMPANY I WAS HAMPERED BY LACK OF ROOM TO SHOW OFF IN

HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED BY COL. GERLACH FOR FINE FORM SHOWN

From Tuesday's Daily—
The annual inspection of Co. I, Minnesota National Guard, of Crookston was held last evening, the inspecting officer being Col. Wm. Gerlach, U. S. A. retired. The inspection was a most satisfactory one in every respect, bringing out the largest muster in the history of the company, and within a short time Capt. Westerberg will have the full company strength, 76.

The present armory in the Odd Fellows Hall is so small that Col. Gerlach did not think it possible that Capt. Westerberg could have the company execute any maneuvers, but just to demonstrate that Co. I was not lacking in drill the captain put the company thru some squad formations even in the cramped quarters, that pleased the inspecting officer immensely and he was very emphatic with his expresions om commendation of efficiency of the company under most adverse conditions relative to the lack of a suitable armory where drill could be successfully carried on during the winter months.

WILL PROBABLY LOCATE IN DULUTH

SUPERINTENDENT OF MOORHEAD SCHOOLS IN CITY THIS MORNING

Supt. Lurton who has been at the head of the city schools of Moorhead for several years past was in the city this morning and took the train for Duluth where it is understood that he has opened negotiations for a position. Prof. Lurton has done good work at Moorhead and he has either received a good offer at Duluth or some other town on the Duluth line.

MENTOR PIONEER DIED FRIDAY

Harold Johnson one of the pioneer residents of Mentor, who has been farming there for years, passed away Friday last after a lingering illness of old age. He was 81 years of age and leaves several grown sons. The funeral will be held on Tuesday next at Mentor. The casket was sent out this morning by N. P. Stenshoel the county coroner.

BIG MEETING THE SONS OF H.

CLASS OF 15 WAS INITIATED LAST EVENING—STATE ORGANIZER HERE

OPEN MEETING HELD AND BANQUET SERVED—ROUSING ADDRESSES MADE

From Tuesday's Daily—
The Sons of Herman Lodge of Crookston held a rousing meeting last evening at which a class of 15 candidates have been secured for initiation at the next meeting, being unable to be present at the meeting last night. State Organizer Paul Busch of Mankato was present at the meeting last evening as was President Thome and Guide Silversack of the lodge recently instituted in Bemidji, and following the initiations they made addresses of an enthusiastic character as did Carl Riedesel, Jos. Koelmel, several of the candidates and others.

The ladies were present, the meeting being an open one, and there were over 100 in attendance. The Sons of Herman lodge is rapidly growing and will soon be one of the strongest in the city in point of membership, tho it is one of the youngest instituted here.

START HARROWING IN ANDOVER

P. THYGESON HAD HIS TEAMS IN FIELD YESTERDAY—GROUND IS FINE

Mail Carrier J. P. Marcum on Rural Route No. 1 out of Crookston reports that seeding will soon be on in full blast southwest of the city. Yesterday P. Thygerson, a well known farmer in Andover Township started his harrows at work and the soil worked up fine and mellow. It will take but a few more days of fair weather to put the land in shape so that all the farmers will be at work.

JOHN CHRISTIANSON DIED AT PLUMMER

DEATH WAS SUDDEN AND CAUSE SUPPOSED TO BE TUBERCULOSIS

News was received in the city last evening that John Christianson a former well known young man of Crookston had died at Plummer after a short illness of tuberculosis last Friday. His brother Otto was notified here and left this morning to attend the funeral which was expected to be held today. Many friends of the unfortunate man will sincerely regret the news of the sad death.

UPSET STOMACH OR INDIGESTION

ENDS FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING SOME DIAPEPSIN

STOPS FOOD FERMENTATION AND CURES STOMACH TROUBLE BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermantation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a litle Diapepsin.

ELECTION IN GRAND FORKS

LIST OF SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES IN ELECTION HELD YESTERDAY

In the election held in Grand Forks yesterday the vote in some of the wards was larger than anticipated. The weather was fine and a good deal of interest was taken in the election vote for aldermen. The following aldermen were elected: First ward, Dr. H. M. Wheeler; second ward, L. H. Sannes; third ward, Frank Dixon for one year term and Frank Kent for two year term; fourth ward, Hugh P. Ryan; fifth ward, Geo. Buckingham sixth ward John Vallely; seventh ward, A. G. Sorlie.

Joseph Kennedy had no opposition for the office of member of the park board.

Messrs. Sannes, Kent, Buckingham, and Vallely are re-elected. Messrs. Wheeler, Dixon, Ryan and Sorlie are new members of the council. The other members of the council who did not have to seek re-election this year are Messrs. Griffith, Ellestad, Hunter, Knudson, Lynch and Salisbury.

CASH PRIZE FOR POLK CO. CORN

JULIUS JACOBSON, EAST GRAND FORKS GETS THE MONEY

Supt. of Schools N. A. Thorson of Polk Co., this morning received $5 from Supt. A. D. Wilson won by Polk County at the agricultural contests held in connection with the Minnesota Educational Association in St. Paul. The money goes to Julius Jacobson of East Grand Forks, whose corn exhibit won the prize.

The boys and girls of Polk County should get interested in the contest for the coming year at once, and select their seed and ground. It is the winners in the county contest that have their exhibits sent to the state contest.

It takes a pretty sharp remark to cut a slow man to the quick.

TREATIES MAKE THE STATE DRY

PROHIBITION'S ADVANCE CLAIM, GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAYS IS TECHINICALLY CORRECT

HOWEVER APPLICATION WILL BE GOVERNED BY COMMON SENSE

From Monday's Daily—
Liquor selling, licensed or unlicensed, is illegal in Minneapolis and in nearly all of Minnesota, under the Indian treaties of 1851, 1855 and 1863. This startling claim is made by the prohibitionist state committee which declared yesterday that two-thirds of Minnesota will be forced to go "dry" unless congress comes to the rescue and does away with the old treaty provisions.

The claim is technically good, according to C. C. Houpt, United States district attorney and other federal officials. In fact, it is well established by court decisions. The old treaties are still in force, and they prohibit the sale of liquor in any of the lands ceded by the Indians. Minneapolis lies in the tract of 19,000,000 acres ceded in 1851 by the treaty of Traverse des Sioux.

The trouble with the prohibitionist claim is that enforcement of the treaties lies largely with the Indian bureau as a matter of policy and the department is not interested in Minneapolis but only in territory known as "Indian country."

Hits White Earth Hard

The old treaties are being revived with an important effect, however. The Indian department has taken steps to stop the sale of liquor entirely in the present limits of Indian reservations. Heretofore it has only tried to stop the sale to Indians. Many saloons have been licensed within the White Earth Indian reservation, in the counties of Becker, Mahnomen and Clearwater. Indians receiving their alotments have become citizens and have acquired the right to buy firewater. Now the government is going to close all saloons in this territory and the drouth will extend to white men as well as Indians living within these boundaries.

An agent of the Indian department spent several days in the twin cities recently on this errand. He had a conference with F. W. Zollman of St. Paul attorney for the brewing companies, and it is said that an understanding was reached by which the brewers will withdraw entirely from Indian reservation territory.

MUCH BUILDING AT MAPLE LAKE

BANKER MELGAARD OF ARGYLE BUILDING NEW BOAT HOUSE AT PRESENT

SEVERAL CROOKSTON PEOPLE HAVING PLANS DRAWN FOR NEW COTTAGES

From Tuesday's Daily—
The present season will witness more building at Maple Lake than has taken place in the history of that popular summer resort. John Kyle, a Crookston contractor has been working there for some time past on improvements.

At present he is erecting a fine boat house for Banker Melgaard. Bunnes Bros., have already remodelled the interior of their store in preparation for the coming season's business. Ed Gilbertson is now erecting a model log cabin and will do job work at the lake the coming summer.

A. J. Kelly and Chas. Babcock are having plans drawn for cottages which will be erected by Contractor Kyle early in the season.

During the summer Mr. Kyle contemplates operating a truck garden and has already secured land and will have vegetable seed in the ground just as soon as the weather permits. He will spend the entire summer there.

Even the tadpole can boast of his social position, having been born in the swim.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

BACK FROM TRIP WEST

CAPT. AND MRS. M. R. BROWN RETURN FROM SEVERAL MONTHS' TRIP

SPENT GREATER PORTION OF THEIR TIME IN SAN DEIGO, CALIFORNIA

From Thursday's Daily—

Capt. and Mrs. M. R. Brown returned yesterday afternoon from their trip to the Pacific coast where they have been spending the past few months. They visited Salt Lake City, Pasadena, San Deigo, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and several other places on the coast and met many former residents of Crookston while away.

The greater portion of their time was spent at San Deigo where they passed several very pleasant weeks. Capt. Brown returns in the best of health. He is very much pleased with his western trip and states that C. E. Misner of Pasadena, Ex-mayor Nat Campbell of Portland and many others whom he met are all prospering and desired to be remembered to their friends in Crookston. Capt. Brown stated that not since he left Crookston has he enjoyed better weather than is being experienced in Crookston today.

HELD SPECIAL COURT TERM

JUDGE GRINDELAND RETURNED THIS MORNING FROM ADA

THE PARTITION OF SANFORD ESTATE UP FOR CONSIDERATION

From Thursday's Daily—

Judge Grindeland returned home to Warren this morning after having been called to Ada where he hold a special term of court in the Sanford partition case.

The case involves the distribution of 1288 acres of land which is valued at about $2500. Atty. Brattland represented W. G. Sanford, Frank Sanford and Edward H. Sanford. The contest is entitled W. G. Sanford vs. Edward H. Sanford and others. There were two witnesses. Attorney Jas. H. Maybury, of this city ils one of the attorneys interested in the case and he was at Ada yesterday.

PAYS TO RAISE BLOODED HOGS

C. P. WOODSTROM MAKES GOOD RECORD — YEAR OLD HOG WEIGHS 345 POUNDS

C. P. Woodstrom today brought a hog to the city, a Berkshire which would have been one year old on the 3rd of April which weighed 345 lbs. He sold the hog to Nels Anderson, the South Main street butcher.

Mr. Anderson was very active in getting this strain of hogs introduced in this section. He invested considerable money and spent a great deal of time in interesting some of the farmers, among them the Woodstroms. The results are not being obtained and those who have seen what comes of raising thorobred hogs are themselves getting interested. It is a step in the right direction and more farmers should follow suit.

John Sylvesterson also sold a hog today 5 months old which weighed 11 pounds. This is another example of what it means to raise hogs that are real hogs and not scrubs.

TAKEN TO THE INSANE ASYLUM

DEPUTY SHERIFF JOHNSON TOOK BAD ACTOR TO FERGUS FALLS

Deputy Sheriff Johnson arrived in the city last evening with a patient for the insane hospital at Fergus Falls. The unfortunate man was a lumber jack by the name of Chris Johnson and he was so violent that he had to be strapped to a cot. The case was one of the worst that has ever been seen here and Deputy Sheriff Johnson when he returned this morning showed that he had passed a most strenuous night.

FIRST CLASS GRADUATES

GREAT CROWD ATENDS THE EXERCISES AT STEPHENS HALL TODAY.

PROGRAM WAS OF A HIGH ORDER EVIDENCED GOOD WORK

THE GRADUATES

Olivia Nelson, Olaf Nelson, Lena Opdahl, Christopher Fossbakken, Lewis Fossbakken, Albert Petterson and Louis Regembal.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the first class graduated from the Crookston School of Agriculture. There was a large crowd present at the exercises which were a credit to the graduates as well as to the faculty of the school.

The first graduating class represents an enrollment of over 100 pupils The baccalaureate sermon was preached last Sunday by Rev. Robertson of Wesley College, Grand Forks a brother of Prof. Wm. Robertson. The program today was of a highly creditable character but occuring late in the afternoon cannot be published till tomorrow.

NEW LAW FIRM IN CROOKSTON

JUDGE FULTON AND GEORGE JUDSON HAVE FORMED A PARTNERSHIP

George Judson and Judge Fulton have formed a law partnership and will hereafter be associated in business. Both are well known in Crookston. Mr. Judson has been a resident of Crookston for many years. For the past two years he has been in the office of former County Attorney Maybury where he acted as Assistant County Attorney in a most satisfactory manner. He is a young man upon whom dependence can be placed. His knowledge of the law is undoubted and the service that he will give his constituents in the future is unquestioned.

David L. Fulton, the other member of the firm is a graduate of the law department of both the university of Minnesota and Wisconsin. Before coming here he was associated with a law firm in Minneapolis.

The new firm will certainly be a strong one. The fact that one member has been a resident of the city for so long, and has held such a high standing will mean much to many people who want legal advice.

Judson & Fulton will be found in Room 10 in the Rauch Block.

THE FIRE LOSS IS SETTLED

HERMAN P. CAMP OF DUGDALE EXPECTS TO REBUILD STORE AT ONCE

Herman P. Camp, the Dugdale merchant who was burned out a few days ago is spending the day in the city and adjusted his loss thru the Strander Abstract and Investment Co. His loss was practically total and amounted to about $7000 on stock, tho a total of perhaps $1000 worth of stock was saved. He carried $5000 insurance on stock and $2000 on the building all of which was carried thru the Strander agency. He was very much pleased with the prompt settlement. He expects to rebuild at once and again engage in the mercantile business at Dugdale.

The farmers of the Red River Valley are all preparing for the seeding time. A few of them have already started operations, but most of them will not commence till the weather settles definitely.

It is a fact that is to be noted with a great deal of satisfaction that the farmers are this year paying more attention than ever before to the character of the seed they are sowing. The seed wheat is being better cleaned, more carefully selected than ever before, and all other grains for seed are being given the same attention.

This is specially noticeable in connection with seed oats and barley. Heretofore almost anything was considered good enough to seed. It is now recognized that to get good results good seed must be sown.

"As ye sow, so shall ye reap" is recognized to be true regarding crops as well as actions and t he farmers of the Red River Valley have learned the lesson.

This means a higher grade of products than have ever before been raised in this section.

CHARGE MADE IS FALSE

STATEMENT MADE REGARDING CLEANING STREETS IN THE SECOND WARD

IS WITHOUT FOUNDATION—NO ALDERMAN CAN ORDER SUCH WORK

From Thursday's Daily—

The statement was made yesterday very generally to the effect that Alderman A. F. Rauch had put about 20 men at work cleaning the streets in the second ward for the purpose of heading off the petition calling for a new election.

The Journal is not taking any part in this controversy. It is a matter that rests with the people of the second ward alone. However the people are entitled to know the facts in the case.

Everyone knows that the street cleaning force has been busy for more than a week past. Everyone also knows that the force has been working on Main street, Robert street, Second street and Broadway for some time past.

The fact that the work in the second ward just started yesterday is no argument to be used against the new alderman.

Anyone knows that not a cent of money can be appropriated to be expended in any ward without a majority vote of the council. This is a provision of the charter that no alderman can override.

While the Journal is not interested in the second ward controversy in any way, still we want to see fair play. There is nothing to be gained by making false statements. Let the people of the ward settle their own difficulties. But what ever is done it should be done absolutely on a fair basis. If the people do not want Mr. Rauch to represent them they have a remedy. But on the other hand Mr. Rauch should not be charged with something of which he is not guilty and which he had no power to do.

E. M. WALSH IS PRESIDENT

JUDGE MONTAGUE TERMINATES HIS DUTIES ON SCHOOL BOARD

Judge R. J. Montague, after having served on the Crookston School board with credit for many years, handed in his resignation at the board meeting yesterday and was succeeded by E. M. Walsh. Judge Montague has been one of the most enthusiastic and devoted supporters of a high standard of education in the Crookston schools. He has worked untiringly to this end and his work has been effective. He resigned owing to conditions which arose which made such action necessary.

Mr. Walsh, who succeeds him as president of the board is also prominently identified with the educational history of Crookston. He has served many years on the board, and served with credit.

Mr. G. S. Chesterman was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Montague and is one of the very best selections the board could have made.

Mille Lacs Pioneer: On Wednesday of last week the lower branch of our state legislature passed the Bjorge bill placing a tonnage tax on iron ore by a vote of 61 to 57. The senate is yet to be heard from on the proposition, however, and it is the opinion of many who are well informed on the subject and who are in close touch with senatorial sentiment, that the measure will meet with defeat before that body. Laying aside the question of justice or injustice of the measure to Duluth and St. Louis county, it would seem an ill-advised time to enact such legislation, just when the big steel corporation is about to establish a $10,000,000 plant at Duluth. It would be the part of wisdom to allow the steel corporation to establish a plant and then if a tonnage tax bill is thought just to state as a whole let it be enacted into law, thus securing the steel plant and a tonnage tax as well. The tonnage tax proposition will keep. The steel plant proposition may be delayed or flushed by hasty tonnage tax legislation.

VIOLATED GAME LAWS

GAME WARDEN WM. MUNCH RETURNS FROM TRIP TO MIDDLE RIVER

WM. DIBLEY ADMITTED SELLING GREEN MOOSE HEAD—FINED FIFTY DOLLARS

From Friday's Daily—

Deputy Game Warden Wm. Munch returned last evening from a trip to Strathcona and Middle River. He first went to the former place for evidence and later visited Middle River where he arrested Wm. Debley for selling a green moose head for $15. The defendant was arraigned before Judge V. A. Greer, a former resident of Crookston and fined $50 and costs which he paid at once.

Deputy Warden Munch confiscated the moose head and shipped it to the State Game and Fish Commission at St. Paul where it will be sold.

It is understood that Dibley is not the real name of the man arrested, but that he is one of the most prominent business men in Eastern Marshall county.

The action of Warden Munch in enforcing the law, no matter whether the man pinched is prominent or penniless, will meet with the hearty approval of all The law should be enforced no matter whose toes are tread upon.

ANGUS-SHERACK

Little Miss Margaretha, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Campion was quite sick last week.

Mrs. J. F. Montgomery returned from the Queen city last Friday morning.

Mr. Herman Ostenloh took some fat cattle to Warren last Friday and Mr Douglas Snelling took a few fat calves the same day to Marshall county's seat.

Louis O. Osterloh is still suffering of stomach trouble and is not improving of late.

Mr. J. Overstreet of Illinois has been around here inspecting some of our land intending to make soon an investment in Polk County soil..

Miss Lena Ehaust took the train for Argyle last Saturday.

The following prominent Angus citizens took the train for Warren last Saturday to attend the annual sale at that place. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Campion, Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnston Mr. and Mrs. E. Yuergens, Mr. D. H. Miller and daughter, Miss Mary, and sons Walter, Robert and Harry, and the Messrs W. N. Frost, A. L. Anderson, F. Taus, J. B. Goodwin, F. Kobetsky and Ed Pulrabek of Tabor

Mr. and Mrs. L. Osterloh spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Andedson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sewill drove to Warren one day last week.

The Modern Woodmen of Angus held a very important meetnig last Monday evening in their hall and a new member was initiated in the secrtes of Woodmancraft. The billy goat was well trained for the occasion and a splendid time was enjoyed by all. The Angus Woodmen are making Herculean efforts to make their camp come to the front.

Mr. John McLellan one of the old pioneer farmers of our neighborhood was donig business in Warren the latter part of last week. Mr. McLellan predicts a bountiful crop this coming season, all mishaps barred, because the old veteran farmer says, "the fields are in excellent condition and ready to receive the precious seed grain."

Mr. Herman Osterloh was transacting business in Key Stone last Wednesday.

A grand ball is to be given Friday evening Appril 2 at the Angus M. W. A. hall and a fine time is expected.

MAYOR McPHEE WAS IN LEAD

HE STARTED CAMPAIGN FOR A BETTER GRADE OF SEED OATS

Mayor J. D. McPhee was not in the tail end of the procession regarding a better grade of seed oats. Two years ago he secured some high grade seed oats from Canada which he paid a fancy price for.

Since that time he has seeded the oats on his home place and also sold many seed oats to other farmers. He thoroly believes in raising the standard of all grains raised, and wants to see the quality of all grain as well as all stock improved in this section.

REAL "FISH" STORY COMES FROM BEMIDJI TELLING HOW HIS SWORD FISH SAWED ICE

IN LAKE — "DOC" RUTLEDGE IS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS

The performance of some tame fish which are the property of A. H. Jester, who owns the famous "Jester Farm" out on Lake Plantagenet, south of Bemidji, are the wonder of the good folks who live around the lake which is some seven miles south of Bemidji as the crow flies.

According to "Doc" Rutledge, two years ago, Mr. Jester was able to obtain from the state game and fish commission thru J. A. Wessell, a member of the commission, two dozen sword fish, which Wessell claimed had been imported from Ireland where he asserts they thrive and grow to large dimensions on the north coast of the Emerald Isle. Wessell assured Jester that these fish woull be of great material service to him but "Al" looked with distrust on the assurances of Joseph as he had occasion to remember several April 1st occurrences on the part of Joe that had caused him woe.

However Jester placed the fish in Lake Plantagenet until this winter, when his attention was called to the fact that blocks of ice were being sawed out in the middle of the lake, and knowing that no person had spoken of cutting ice at that particular spot. Mr. Jester decided to watch and find out who was helping themselves to the congealed aqua pura which has made Lake Plantagenet famous for its medicinal propensities.

Mr. Jester went to the point where the sawing had been going on, and repeated his trip three times, before his patience was rewarded.

The morning of his third trip, while it was not yet daylight, Jester heard a scraping and grinding but look as hard as he would he could not see a living soul in sight.

Finally lighting his lantern and making a more diligent search, his labors were rewarded by seeing a long slender object thrust thru the ice, which was being worked up and down from underneath the water. Jester was greatly perplexed until when there was a lull in the working of the object thrust thru the ice he made minute examination and his wonder and gratification knew no bounds.

There thrust thru the ice, and some three feet in length was the bill of one of the sword fish, and at a point about six inches from the base were the initials "A. H. J." with which Mr. Jester had branded all his Wessell fish when he placed them in the lake two years ago

Carefully disentangling the bill of the fish from an old pole and line which had been frozen into the ice, Mr. Jester watched the fish work for about an hour and then went home deciding on taking out the chunks of ice for his ice house as fast as they were sawed by his fish.

As Jester is an honored member of Bemidji lodge No. 1052 B. P. O. E. and bears an enviable reputation for truth and veracity there can be no question as to the story about those fish; at least there should not be, as "Al" agrees to show any skeptical person the exact spot on the lake where the ice was taken from.

SAYS SPRING IS SURELY AT HAND

C. M. GRAVES SAYS WHEN MEADOW LARKS ARRIVE IS SURE SIGN

C. M. Graves left this morning for a trip up the north line. Yesterday he was at Ada and he states that while there he saw a real live meadow lark, a yellow breasted one, and that this is a sign of spring having arrived that never fails. South of Ada he also saw a farmer harrowing and the land was in very fair condition.

"Sigh" Graves never gets enthusiastic unless there is some cause of alarm and in the present instance he is without doubt armed with all the credentials necessary to prove his statements.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
Cures Colds Prevents Pneumonia

FOUND DEAD NEAR BRAINERD

SECTION FOREMAN FINDS MANGLED REMAINS OF ELMER CHURCH

BESIDE N. P. TRACKS YESTERDAY FORENOON—WAS STRUCK BY TRAIN

From Friday's Daily—

The body of Elmer Church of Pine River was found this morning beside the Northern Pacific tracks three miles west of Brainerd by Peter Parsons, an N. P. section foreman and his crew.

It is supposed that the deceased came to his death either by a fall from a moving train or from being struck by a train while walking along the track. Church who was said to be on his way to Montana, came from his home at Pine River yesterday and apparently started to go to Sylvan, the first station west of Brainerd. That he was going to Sylvan is evidenced by letters, unstamped, which he was carrying from his daughter, Miss Lottie Church to friends in Sylvan, and which he would otherwise have mailed. Church's watch was found about twenty feet west of the body, badly defaced and evidently stopped at about 7:20 or 7:30 o'clock. A revolver which he always carried was found about fifteen or twenty feet east of where the body was lying. His neck was broken and his left side caved in and his left hand cut. It is not known at what time he started from Brainerd or whether or not he started afoot, but no tickets to Slyvan were sold last night and he had no ticket on his person as would have been apt to have been the case had he purchased one west of Staples.

A theory which finds credence among the railroad men is that Church started out about supper time for Sylvan and met a special train. Church was probably slow in getting out of the way and the engine struck him caving in his side and breaking his neck.

Another theory of the manner of Mr. Church's death is that he tried to ride on a freight and accidentally fell from the train.

Church was a rather eccentric individual. He formerly lived about seven miles southwest of Brainerd and went from there to Pine River four years ago. He has had an idea for several years that someone was after him and always carried a heavy revolver. He purchased a box of revolver cartridges in D. M. Clark & Co.'s store yesterday afternoon, but the box had not been opened and the revolver was loaded with long rifle cartridges. There is no belief however, that there was foul play.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

EXCELLENT PAPERS ON MARKET GARDENING

Pupils Of Crookston School Of Agriculture Write Able Papers On Important And Neglected Subject.

Prof. Harrington Took This Means Of Testing Views Rather Than Regular Examinations.

At the Crookston School of Agriculture this spring, Prof. Harrington instead of conducting a regular examination to test the knowledge of the students relative to the subject of gardening, he had them all write papers on the subject, but not in answer to a set of questions. The Journal would like to publish them all but this is impossible, so a few were selected which appear below and which are particularly timely at this season of the year. It would be well to read each article carefully and follow the suggestions made. There is also one paper on fruit culture which is also excellent.

The pupils were not assisted in writing these papers in any way and they show clearly what splendid practical training the students are receiving. Following are the papers:

VEGETAABLE GARDEN

(By Hazel Wilkinson, Northwest Experiment Farm, Crookston, Minn.)

Why to have, and what to have.

Every farm home should have a garden. In the busy spring it is sometimes regarded as "not worth whinle" to stop working in the fields long enough to prepare a garden. But nature demands "green food." and if this demand is neglected there is apt to be a doctor's bill to pay that may use up some of the returns from the fields. And then almost everyone enjoys having fresh vegetables to eat.

The soil for the vegetable garden should be free from stones and stumps and easy to cultivate. This should be well draimed, and if possible so placed that water will be handy for setting out plants, such as cabbage and tomatoes, and for watering during dry periods.

A gentle south slope is best for the vegetable garden. This should not be far from the house. And should be fenced so that poultry may be kept out while the tomatoes are ripening and such other times when they would be detrimental.

There are many different varieties of vegetables for the garden. We of this generation are raising many vegetables such as our ancestors had in their vegetable gardens. But we have made some improvements such as stringless beans, uniformly sized tomatoes, etc.

The following list of vegetables should be in every garden: Potatoes, beans, peas, tomatoes, radishes, lettuce, onions, beets, rutabaga, carrot, sweet corn, watermellon, muskmelon, cucumber, squash, pumpkin, parsley, rhubarb, celery, cabbage and cauliflower. Then there are many others which add variety, as, endive, thyme, red pepper, salsify, dill, caraway, lavender, anis and coriander.

All kinds of seeds should be tested before planting. This may save the loss of a crop. A simple way is to place one hundred seeds on a plate covered with dampened blotting paper. Then covering seeds with more dampened blotting paper and keeping seeds warm and damp for several days until all seeds have sprouted that seem to be alive. Then count and determine the percent of seed that is good. In other words that will germinate.

The main point in cultivating vegetables is to keep them free of weeds, and to form a dust blanket. There are so many machines now that nearly all this cultivation is done by machinery.

There are many insect enemies in the vegetable garden nearly all of which are combated by spraying, or [illegible] some poison on the plant so effect[illegible]

Vegetables in the garden should never have the same place they had last year, but here as well as in the fields, rotation should be practiced.

Such plants as radishes and lettuce may be planted in the rows where cabbages, corn, etc., are and will have matured and been removed before the later crop needs the room.

Sweet corn should never be planted within forty rods of field corn, and a greater distance would be desirable.

The seed for all garden vegetables should be procured as near home as possible. This will make the seeds grow and mature earlier.

(By Albert O. Malm.)

On every farm there ought to be a good sized garden, cared for in such a way that it would furnish enough vegetables for the farm home from early in summer until late in the fall and still have enough to store away for winter use. Any farmer may have this by selecting both early and late varieties of vegetables.

In selecting a place for a garden, if early vegetables are wanted a southern slope with a rather sandy soil should be prefered but for potatoes, beets, and vegetables that do not require so long a season, a northern slope is not objectionable. This however need not be considered in northern Minnesota.

A garden should be well drained, so that no standing water will remain on the surface after a heavy rain. The garden should be plowed and manured in the fall, fall plowing leaves the soil in a better condition the following spring. Well rotted manure should be applied to gardens as it adds both humas and fertility which retains the moisture, while if fresh manure were applied to the soil it would take a time before it would be of any particular value as food for plants.

A garden should have sweet corn for table use, the Red Cob Cory for an early variety and Stowells Evergreen for the late variety will do very well. A patch of pop corn may be added to this. Asparagus, radishes, spinach and lettuce are among the first to produce fruit or greens for early use in summer, asparagus is a perennial, radishes, spinach and lettuce are annuals.

The onion grows into a bulb, has a strong taste, it should be planted early, sometimes the seed is sown in hothouses to be transplanted to the garden later.

The beets, carrots and turnips are fleshy roots, and are relished by both man and beast, carrots are raised in some countries for horse feed, it is supposed to be one of the best feeds raised for horses.

The cabbage and tomato plants are generally planted in window-boxes or hotbeds early in spring and transplanted to the garden when the weather becomes warmer, the cabbage is a biennial and the tomato an annual, the cabbage grows into a large head or overgrown bud, while the tomato grows up and branches like a tree, it bears large red fruit of good quality.

In the gourd family we have the watermelons, muskmelons, pumpkins, cucumbers and squash. These have a hard skin or rind on the outside. The watermelon when wanted in this part of the country should be planted in boxes or hotbeds early and then transplanted to the garden as they take a long season to mature.

The beans and peas belong to the clover family, are annuals and among the most valued crops in the garden, They are of easy culture and can be raised on nearly all kinds of soil, we have different varieties of brush beans of which the Dwarf Lima are highly esteemed by those who know them. They are smaller in size than the pole bean, but are more certain to mature well, and easier to cultivate.

The varieties of peas are divided into three classes, those having wrinkseed, and those having edible pods. led seed, those having small round Wrinkled varieties do not germinate as well as the round varieties, nor do their germinating power last as long. They are better in quality than the round varieties. Peas want a heavy cool soil and should be planted about 3 or 4 inches deep. Among the best varieties are the American Wonder, Stratagem, Yorkshire Hero, and Marrowfat. The Stratagem does better on light than on heavy soil.

The Rhubarb or pieplant belongs to the Buckwheat family, its root is perennial and wants a rich soil with plenty of manure, it is of easy culture, the roots may be split in parts and replanted as it is propogated both by seed and roots. It is used for sauces and pies.

The potato is perhaps used more extensively than any other garden vegetable there is scarcely a meal but what we have potatoes on the table. The potato is a native of South America. Some years ago the potato rot ran over the United States and Europe to such an extent that it brought starvation o people who depended entirely upon the potato. Rev. Chauncey Goodrich of Utica, N. Y commenced shipping in potatoes from South America, where the potato originated. The potato has since them improved upon by selection until it has reached the standard of the present time The Early Ohios and Early Rose are the leading varieties as early potatoes Carman No. 3 is a good late variety. Diseases which affect the potatoes are early and late blight which may be prevented by spraying with bordeaux mixture. Potato rot which may be prevented by treating the seed with corrosive sublimate or formalin before planting, Paris Green may be mixed in with the bordeaux mixture to kill the potato beetle which is a common pest in all sections.

There are a number of insects which are destructive to the different garden vegetables, such as the cabbage worm, cut worms, striped cucumber beetle, the squash vine borer, etc. These may all be kept away by using arsenous poisons, kerosene emulsion or tobacco water. The white grub or May beetle, the maggots and chintz bugs do their work under ground by destroying the roots. Their presence can only be remedied by rotating or changing the crop and keeping all grass down, they are destroyed to a large extent by some birds.

The garden should be kept clean by hoeing and cultivating, no grass or weeds should be allowed to go to seed.

On arranging the vegetables in the garden, the garden should be longer than it is wide and the rows running lengthwise. This will save turning if cultivating is done with a horse. The vegetables should be grouped so that the annuals, biennials and perennials are not mixed. That is planting first one row of biennials then one row of annuals, but the biennials should all come after each other. The annuals and perennials in like manner. This will allow a better chance for cultivation as the biennials and erennials can not be plowed every year.

FRUIT GROWING

(By Victor Johnson)

In this section of the state fruit growing cannot at the present time be carried on in the sense of an orchard but it can be limited to a home fruit garden.

A fruit garden consists of an assemblage of fruit bearing trees and shrubs, maintained for the purpose of supplying the home with fruits. In its general purpose, then the fruit garden is intended to accomplish the same results as the vegetable garden.

Only a few years ago the owners of home fruit gardens not only led in the production of fruits but where the authorities as to how and where to grow them. They also were the propogating grounds from where our best varieties of highest quality and greatest commercial value came.

The advantage and pleasures of a home fruit garden are many.

In the spring it is more than a pleasure to see the trees white with sweet smelling blossoms and the birds and bees singing and buzzing from branch to branch.

In the fall or autumn when the trees are loaded with nice red fruit that cannot be beat anywhere neither in flavor nor appearance. It will add a great deal to the interests and courage of the farmer that fruit can be grown.

It will also add greatly to the attractiveness of the table and healthfulness of the diet.

The location for an orchard or the best location is on a high northern slope, sloping toward the north and east, as the trees will be less effected by sun-scold in early spring and drought in summer, it is also a more even temperature on a north slope than on a south slope.

But apple trees can also be raised on level prairie if not northern Minnesota would have to get back in the shade.

Select a high piece of land where the soil is loose and open so that it will take and hold a lot of water, it should be easy to cultivate, it should also be provided with a wind break on the south and west sides, for in this case the trees will have to serve instead of a hill.

The time to plant is in the spring just as soon as possible but not when the ground is sticky.

The trees should be set about 25 or 30 feet apart. This might seem to be a very far distance to set small apple trees, but as they need a lot of cultivating it will make it so much easier to get in there between the rows with a team and plow, and turn around without injury to the trees. Small fruits may also be planted in between the rows such as currants, raspberries blackberries and gooseberries. Or if it is not desired to plant small fruit in between the trees other vegetables may be grown there instead. Such as corn, potatoes or any other garden vegetable that can be cultivated and kept clean, for weeds and grass should never be allowed to grow in the orchard. Clover may be seeded in the orchard and plowed under every 2 or 3 years, in that way it will help to keep up the fertility of the soil, but this should not be done before the trees begin bearing.

In selecting apple trees or any other fruit tree it is always best to get them as near home as possible and they should also be grown on as nearly the same kind of soil as they are to be planted on. Now for the tree itself always get a good hardy tree with a good big root, as the top can readily be changed as the tree is growing by careful pruning and trimming.

Varietiees of Trees

The new beginner has a long list of trees to select from but if he is not familiar with them he is likely to get badly fooled and discouraged. It is always wise to consult some one in the neighborhood that is growing apple trees and the ones that are satisfying him the best ought to do well with his neighbor also if given the proper care.

In buying trees the ones that are the least subject to diseases should be secured. A tree that is effected with blight or any other disease should never be planted in the orchard. The large apple trees that are best ruited for northern Minnesota are Duchess of Oldenberg, Hibernal, Charamoff, Okebena, Longfeld, Anisim,, Wealthy, Milda. Crabs and Hybrids—Virginia Tonka, Minnesota, Martha, Pride of Minneapolis.

Mulching is quite often done and it keeps the moisture in the ground as well as it puts humis in the soil. Common barn yard manure is the best or as good as any, where the land is not too rich. It should be spread evenly around the trees or letting it slope a little toward it. The mulch should be spread out on all sides as far as the branches of the tree.

The Vegetabre Garden

(By Mons Monson, Drayton, N. D.)

The vegetable garden should be on land which may be easily cultivated and the soil should also be well drained as wet land will not raise much of a garden.

The soil should be kept in as good a state of cultivation as possible, this will keep the weeds down and will also prevent evaporation and so increase the soil moisture which is necessary to plant growth, cultivation also makes plant food available for the use of plants.

The land needs to be well manured else the crops will not amount to very much, manure lossens up the soil and also helps to warm it in the spring.

Horse manure is light and ferments quickly, it is therefore very valuable for early spring crops.

When planting the garden especial care should be taken to have good seed. Seed should be procured from a reliable seed company and should be clean and free from weed seeds. It is also desirable to test seeds for germinating powers before planting.

Most vegetables are started in the spring in cold frames or hot beds to get an early start; therefore every garden should have a hot bed or a cold frame as a necessary adjunct to gardening.

There are many insects which cause damage to gardens. The best remedy for most of these is paris green, altho cut worms, the most destructive of all pests are hard to eradicate. They may be poisoned by leaving clover leaves dipped into paris green in the rows of the garden. The squash bug may be eradicated by dusting the plants with paris green.

The vegetables which grow in this northern region should be hardy and strong and of early maturing quality, else they may not mature before the frost comes in autumn.

The first vegetable to appear in the spring is asparagus and it should therefore be found in every garden. It is not difficult to grow.

Next in importance are sweet corn, radishes, lettuce, onions, peas and beans, celery, tomato, and potatoes. There are of course many other vegetables which should be grown in every garden, some herbs like anis, caraway and thyme, are easy to grow and should not be left out, and some vegetables which are only used for seasoning as cress and sage.

In conclusion, the most important points to remember are, keep the weeds down, have the soil in good tilth use plenty of manure, rotate the crops to keep insect pests down and select good seed.

Home Garden

(By A. C. Rindahl, Fertile, Minn.)

The question of the proximity to the house or other buildings is of great importance when locating the garden.

In old homesteads the garden was generally located adjacent to the house, requiring but a few stteps from the kitchen to reach the extreme parts of the garden.

The work of caring for the garden is usually done in spare times and for this reason alone the location should be near the dwelling. In case the site chosen for the garden should become unsuitable for any cause it is not a difficult matter to change the location.

The soil for a garden should be of sandy rich loam, and a slope towards the south or southeast is most desiable for the production of early crops, it is an advantage to have protection on the north or west side of the garden either by a hill or a group of trees.

Good natural drainage is of great importance in a garden the land should have sufficient fall to drain all the surplus water, and there should not be low places in the garden where water will stay for any length of time. It should not be located along banks of rivers where the large floods in the spring will overflow it.

In plowing the location of the various crops in the garden, due consideration should be given to the matter of succession in order that the land may be ocupied at all times.

As a rule it would not be best to have a second planting of the crops following the first, but some such arrangement as early peas followed by celery, or early cabbage or potatoes followed by late beans or corn, and similar combinations, are more satisfactory.

Autumn is the time for plowing hard stiff clay soils especially if in a part of the country where freezing takes place. As the action of the frost during the winter will break the soil into fine particles and render it suitable for planting.

Sandy loams and soils that contain a large amount of humus may be plowed in the spring but the work should be done early in order that the soil may settle before planting.

For garden crops there is no fertilizer that will compare with good well rotted barnyard manure. In localities where a supply of such manure cannot be secured it will be necessary to depend upon commercial fertilizers but the results are rarely so satisfactory.

In selecting manure for garden crops care should be taken that it does not contain any elements that will be injurious to the soil.

An excess of sawdust or shavings used as bedding will have a tendency to produce sourness in the soil.

Chicken, pigeon and sheep manures rank about the highest as fertilizers, their value being somewhat greater than ordinary barnyard manures. The manure from fowls is especitly adapted for dropping in hills or rows of plants.

Supply of seeds for the garden should be secured some time in advance of the planting season.

The most common method of starting plants is by means of a hotbed. The hotbed consists of an inclosure covered with sash and supplied with some form of heat, usually fermenting stable manure to keep the plant warm and in a growing condition. The hotbed should always face to the south on the south side of either a dwelling, barn or a light board fence, will furnish a good location.

Vegetables I would like to have in a garden are as follows: First, a nice patch of potatoes, of Early Ohios, a patch of asparagus, onions, sugar beets, cabbage, turnips, radishes, beans, Lima rought peas, carrots, celery, tomatoes, and a litle patch of Hungarian watermelon; and all these should be kept free from weeds and insects. Theer are many remedies for insects but differs from varieties of vegetables.

Mr. F. G. Fritts, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My litle girl was greatly benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children, as it is mild, pleasant and effective, and is a splendid spring medicine, as it cleanses the system and clears the complexion. Sold by all druggists.

Hopeless Case.

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.

BUYING FINE VALLEY CATTLE

IOWA MAN COMES TO NORTHWESTERN MINNESOTA TO SECURE FINE STOCK.

A prominent Iowa cattle dealer has been spending several days in Northwestern Minnesota and the result is that he is about ready to ship back to Iowa about 1,000 head of cattle, which he has purchased in Roseau, Red Lake and Marshall counties. The stock is for the market and it is intended to take them to Iowa and there fatten them.

He stated to a prominent Crookston man that there was no question but that northwestern Minnesota was an ideal stock raising section and if the farmers would pay some attention to the industry they could increase their incomes many fold. He was well satisfied with his trip into this section and stated that he would be pleased to purchase all the cattle he could secure in this section.

His visit has raised the query why, if cattle can be bought at a good price here and shipped to Iowa to be fattened on the high price land, could not the fattening be done on the comparatively cheap land in this section and a big profit reaped?

The appearance of Miss Mabel McKinley in Grand Forks has been an epoch in society and musical circles and the city fairly bubbles over with praise for the great artist. Manager Ralph Carter has been the recipient of much congratulations and the people of Grand Forks feel that they are under great obligations to him for bringing such an attraction to the city.

Miss McKinley is great. She possesses a voice that is indeed a rarity, and from the first note her audience is held spellbound until she finishes, when the silence is broken by a wild, spontaneous applause, demanding encore after encore. In most of her selections she has the orchestra accompaniment, but in "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Comin' Thro' the Rye," which she renders magnificently, she plays her own accompaniment, a grand piano being put in for her special use. Though a classical artist, Miss McKinley has chosen a number of songs which appeal to those who are not musically educated, and feels happiest when these are well received. "Just One Sweet Girl," and "How'd You Like to Love Me," her own composition, were redemanded several times. Miss McKinley's gowns are beautiful and costly, and add much to her many charming and attractive qualities.

A Dormitory Is Needed

The Journal is in receipt of a communication from a well known Crookston young lady, who is attending the University of Minnesota, relative to the necessity of the erection of a dormitory for the accommodation of the young ladies who are attending the university from outside of Minneapolis and St. Paul. The reasons given are so manifestly weighty and cogent that any fair minded person will see that the attitude of the young ladies is just. There should be such a dormitory, and there should be no delay in its erection. The reasons given in the communication are as follows, and will be of interest to every person who takes pride in the greatest educational institution of the state:

1. A dormitory is needed for the out-of-town girls at the University. They are at a great disadvantage now, as compared with the girls from the Twin Cities.

2. The houses in East Minneapolis are not suitably built for boarding houses. They are private houses, many of them old and unsanitary. They are over-crowded, and are necessarily run for profit.

3. A dormitory could offer healthful and comfortable living for the lowest possible price.

4. It would make it possible for the University to know its students personally.

5. In a dormitory, cases of illness among women students could be cared for.

6. In a dormitory the lonely, home sick girl could be helped, and the girl too much inclined to society could be restrained.

7. College education has small value for a woman if thru it she loses her health or her refinement. Only by means of a dormitory can the University guarantee its women students healthful and uplifting surroundings.

Britain War Territied

We would not charge degeneracy to the British nation. Nations die slowly. It will take several hundred years to determine whether Great Britain has passed the high point in its career and is walking downward into the shadow But the "blue funk" into which Englishmen have been thrown by the intelligence that Germany is outstrippnig their country in Dreadnought building, indicates that British nerves are not so good as they used to be. In private life it is the arrant coward who whines and trembles if he does not hold the biggest gun and the longest knife. Men of courage are willing to meet other men on equal terms. Why does not the same rule hold good as to nations?

For generations Great Britain has inisted upon overwhelming sea power She must overmatch any two nations in ships and guns in order to make her bread secure. Two decades ago other nations caught the big navy fever. England saw them creeping up upon her sea power. Then her wise naval men concocted a cunning scheme. They would build a ship which would make all other warships obselete. Then the Dreadnought. It was a game that other nations could play at better than she. Now Germany threatens to overtake Britain. The Kaiser in a few years may have the biggest ship. Britons feel panicky No lion was braver when foes could be met with overwhelmnig force. If we must match them ship for ship, gun for gun, what will become of us? There is but one way—build more Dreadnoughts. Buil them faster. But that game, too, can be overdone. In that way lies national bankruptcy. This is the dilemma before which Britons wail and tremble. It menaces all Europe. The nightmare has crossed over seas. America has joined the terrified procession, burying herself under a mountain of debt to escape the war fiend. As a community becomes civilized some men become brave enough to go unarmed. Then everybody not arrant cowards disarm, also. America is the one nation to set such an example to the war-terrified world. Is America brave enough to do it?—St. Paul Dispatch.

Sunday Baseball

Once upon a time in the state of Connecticut the kissing of the members of one's family upon the Sabbath day was forbidden by law; now the legislature of Connecticut is proposing to legalize the playing of baseball on Sunday, and the movement has the support of a considerable number of clergymen in the nutmeg state. Legislation forbidding kissing on Sunday was one far swing of the pendulum; possibly legislation permitting Sunday baseball is the far swing in the opposite direction. The strange thing is not the legislation, however, but the advocacy of it by the clergymen of the state. Intolerance drove the Pilgrim fathers to New England and when they got there they were just as intolerant in inflicting their opinions upon society as their persecutors in England were in attempting to say how and when and where God should be worshipped. The Puritan believed his religion so thoroly that he made it the government of every man's every act, and according to the dictates of a supersensitive conscience was it decided how each man should live down to the most ordinary acts of life. Time softened the Puritan and his intolerance gradually wore away, but much of it remains to day. Blue laws are still in force on the statute books of Massachusetts and other New England states and quite frequently they are resurrected and enforced, as for instance when but a short time ago the mayor of Boston forbade the production of a scene from "Polly of the Circus" at a charity entertainment. The scene had a bedroom in it and some old blue law of Massachusetts forbade the looking upon of bedrooms except in the darkness of the night. So Miss Mabel Taliferro did not give that beautiful and touching scene from "Polly of the Circus" in Boston town. Where such intolerance yet holds sway upon occasion, we should not have thought it possible that a voice from the pulpit should be raised in defense of the game of baseball upon the Sabbath day. Yet here is the New Haven Register actually printing communications from several pastors in that city favoring Sunday baseball. "If the testimony of other clergymen of New Haven", says the Register, "should be found to agree with that which the Register prints today, there would be a substantial weight in favor of the bill to permit properly regulated baseball in New Haven." If anything could cause a turning over in the graves in New England this ought to do it. In Minnesota of the West, which still has some towns said to be wild and wooly, there is a movement of some strength to discourage baseball on Sunday and in some of our frontier towns the game is impossible by reason of public sentiment against it. The Minnesota clergyman who has the courage to write a defense of Sunday baseball and publish it in the newspapers has not yet published abroad the fact that he has got that courage.

People who look upon Sunday as primarily a day of rest and recreation have no scruples against baseball and other games upon that day; those who look upon the day as a day of worship think differently. But the man who advocates Sunday baseball in the newspapers is something new under the sun.—Duluth Herald. And specially in "blue-lawed" Connecticut.

The School of Traction Engineering, which is now one of the short courses of the School of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota, will be held this year at University Farm, St. Paul, for one month commencing May 25th.

Steam engineering, gasoline engineering, and blacksmithing will be taught in a practical way. Students will be given practice in actually running the engines and will be given sufficient work at the forge so that they may be able to do some of their repair work. Students will room and board in the schol dormitories.

A prospectus describing the work and giving full information will be sent to all who desire. Apply to James M. Drew, Registrar, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.

The longer you let an account run, the longer it will be before you catch up with it.

STATE PRESS

Virginia Virginian: The Creek Indians in Oklahoma are on the warpath again and Chief Crazy Snake is laboring under the hallucination that he is going to overthrow the government. There are a great many chiefs now basking in the sunshine of the happy hunting grounds, who made an attempt to do the same thing. The irate old warrior should profit by their failure.

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: Some of the interests are wondering if Prof. Frederick Starr of Chicago university knows what he is talking about, when he says that Roosevelt will never come back from Africa alive. They are afraid the professor is wrong and the people hope he is.

If som epeople were to marry for brains instead of for money, they would probably get left just the same.

Moorhead News: It is a noticeable fact that a very large proportion of the purchases made at the auction sales being held in Clay county this spring, are paid for in cash, the proportion taking advantage of deferred payments at so much per cent, being comparatively small. All of which goes to show that the farmers of Clay county have plenty of ready money.

Hibbing Tribune: The Miller reaction has set in. The newspapers around the country are beginning to realie that martyred heroes may be all right dead, but are not a very live proposition to put bills thru congress.

Litchfield Independent:: The iron ore tonnage tax bill passed the Minnesota house last week by a majority of two. The senate will not do a thing to it, but kill it, probably.

1909 Blue Book Fine Publication

Hon. Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, has just issued the 1909 blue book, which is now ready for distribution; and Mr. Schmahl may feel proud of this year's publication, which outshines any previous blue book in the history of the state. In addition to the usual information which has always appeared in the book, this year's edition contains many new features, which include a complete list of state and national banks doing business in the state, and there is also the names of all the principal officials of every state in the union. The Pioneer acknowledges the receipt of a copy of the manual, and cannot but point the many improvements which the genial secretary has made on the book. Julius is a crackerjack in the responsible position which he now occupies.—Bemidji Pioneer.

The Journal expects above is true but the Journal has as yet failed to receive a copy.

For A State Weather Bureau

Maryland has soured on the national weather bureau since the "flare back" that killed the inaugural ceremonies, and cut off Baltimore from communication with the civilized world. The failure of the federal service to predict the weather accurately on that occasion has caused Maryland to put her great constitutional lawyers—and Maryland contains more great constitutional lawyers per capita than any other state in the union—upon the scent. They have intimated tho their final report is not in, that the federal weather service is unconstitutional; that the right to regulate the weather is a state right, which has lapsed thru non user. It is one of those cases cited by Senator Root, where the general government has been compelled to do certain things because the states neglected to exercise their powers.

There is no warrant for the imposition of a federal weather. Mark Twain at one time wrote learnedly of New England weather, describing its fifty-seven varieties, nearly all bad, with graphic force. But Mark was wrong. There is no such thing as New England weather. There may be Maine weather, Vermont weather or Connecticut weather, but New England weather is a broad, unconstitutional classification. The inference of the Maryland authorities is unmistakeable.

Weather is a state concern. It should be observed, depicted and regulated by the states themselves. And while the states cannot put a tariff upon weather coming from other states they can exercise their police powers to prevent ingress of alien weather contrary to laws of the state where it seeks entrance. Minnesota, for example has a perfect right to install a series of blockhouses along her western coast to ward off blizzards. They have no constitutional right to cross our borders and play havoc with our gardens.

Too long we have supinely submitted to vague and unsatisfactory federal regulation. The national bureau seems to think that a kind of weather that is good for one state is good for another. It has no hesitation about letting storms trot about from state to state in a most annoying way. It is time this was stopped. The legislature is in session. It is true, no more bills can be introduced without the consent of the governor, but we cannot imagine his excellency refusing his consent to a bill putting the weather in charge of the state board of health, and providing for an efficient corps of inspectors, wardens and superintendents. Let it decree that no windstorm moving at more than five miles an hour shall come within 2½ miles of the agricultural school or state institution of learning. We may as well have a test of this thing now as any time. The postulates are that federal weather is unconstitutional, besides being no good. We should get better weather and more of it, if it were predicted at home and regulated by our own people.

BUSINESS OPENING UP IN GOOD SHAPE

Magnus Lundberg, the well known insurance man returned this morning from a business trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis. He says that business is opening up well there, and that the wholesalers are all looking toward the Red River Valley with the expectation of a fine business from this section the coming year.

The weather down below is very good, Mr. Lundberg states, but thus far the farmers have done no more there than they have here tho work will be general on the fields in a very few days if the weather continues favorable.

CREAMERIES VERY ACTIVE

M. J. CORT SAYS VAST AMOUNT OF NEW MATERIAL IS BEING PURCHASED

SEVERAL NEW CREAMERIES HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED THIS SPRING

From Wednesday's Daily—

M. J. Cort the creamery supply man left this morning for Mentor where he was called on business. To the Journal Mr. Cort stated this morning:

"There was never lively interest in creamery matters than is being displayed this spring. At Reiner, a small place 28 miles from Thief River Falls a creamery has been established, equipped with all the latest machinery and with farmers interested who have a total of 500 cows. This makes success certain.

"At Woodside, between Erskine and Fertile, the Woodside and Garden Creamery Co., has been organized and another thoroly modern creamery will be established which will be in operation in a short time.

"North of Fosston the Hill River Creamery Co., has been organized and has purchased a modern plant. At Hill River a short time ago the farmers held a big meeting and were addressed by Prof. Robertson of the State Farm, Dairy Inspector A. O. Storvick of this city, myself and several others. The farmers met in a farm house and listened with interest till six o'clock in the evening to the addresses given regarding the creamery industry, and would have remained till midnight had not the speakers been compelled to leave to catch their trains. The outlook all along the line was never better for the dairying interests in Northern Minnesota."

LOOK OUT FOR SPURIOUS COIN

CHIEF OF POLICE ECK GETS WARNING OF WORKING OF CROOKS

THEY HAVE BEEN PASSING SPURIOUS $5 AND 10 GOLD PIECES IN NORTHWEST

From Wednesday's Daily—

Chief of Police Eck received notice this morning to keep watch for a gang of crooks which has been busy for some time past in the northwest passing spurious gold pieces. They have succeeded in passing a large number of $5 and $10 counterfeits which while they are light weight and copper colored are easily passed.

The cashier in every business house in Crookston should carefully scan every gold piece taken in in the future as the gang of swindlers may be here at any time, and if they come Chief Eck wants to be notified at once and will land them where they belong.

AN ELABORATE EASTER OBSERVANCE

ST. ALDEMAR COMMANDERY OF GRAND FORKS TO BE GUESTS

Constantine Commandery No. 20, Knights Templar will have their usual Easter services the coming Easter Sunday at the Methodist Episcopal church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

St. Aldemar Commandery of Grand Forks has been invited and a large number of the Sir Knights of Grand Forks will attend.

HOUSE CLEANING AT THE COUNTY JAIL

Four Prisoners Enter A Plea Of Guilty And Receive Their Sentences.

Decide To Start Serving Time And Not Lie In Jail Till Next Term Of Court.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Yesterday afternoon there was a regular housecleaning in the county jail. Four prisoners decided to enter pleas of guilty and take their medicine, thus avoiding the necessity of lying in the county jail till the next term of court in June and at the same time getting more lenient treatment from the court than might be expected if they insisted on their innocence and put the county to the expense of a trial.

Thomas Hunting pleaded guilty to forgery in the 3rd degree and was sentenced to 2½ years.

Mike Kaderowski pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree and also got 2½ years.

O. C. Nelson and John Resmus pleaded guilty to the same charge as the above and received six months, their offense not having been as grave as the formers'.

None of the men will be taken to Stillwater for a day or two.

CASS LAKE TO LOSE SCHOOL

GOV. JOHNSON VETOES NORMAL SCHOOL BILL—CANNOT BE PASSED OVER VETO

BIG FIGHT OVER LOCATION OF NORMAL SCHOOL ALL OF NO AVAIL

From Wednesday's Daily—

Governor Johnson vetoed the Cass Lake normal school bill yesterday, the first measure to feel the executive ax at the present session. The governor gives several reasons for opposing the bill. He holds there is no immediate need for the school. There is a school of pedagogy at the University of Minnesota and five state normal schools. The schools at Moorhead and Duluth have room to spare. The state's finances do not warrant the new institution.

As to location the governor says the normal board is opposed to Cass Lake because it has not enough population to supply a model school.

The bill had a bare majority in each house and cannot be passed over the veto.

All likelihood of the enactment of a tonnage tax at the legislative session was dispelled today when Lieut. Gov. Eberhart ruled on the Morris Indian school bill, that it takes a two-thirds vote of the senate to make the bill special order. On previous occasions special orders have been fixed by the majority of those voting. But under objection to the Putnam school aid bill a few days ago and the Spooner bill today, the lieutenant governor has ruled that it takes a two-thirds vote tomake the bill a special order. It is now so late in the session that the tonnage tax bill cannot be passed without some concession on the part of its opponents and it now seems they are determined to fight to the last ditch.

WINNIPEG JUNCTION OFF THE MAP

Winnipeg Junction was wiped off the map at midnight Saturday night, as a railroad town. The junction ponit for the new high line of the Northern Pacific will be Lake Park, seven miles east of the old station of Winnipeg Junction. The N. P. boys who have been making run from here to the Junction will have to get used to the new order of things. A number of Winnipeg Junction business concerns have moved to Summit the nearest town, and others have moved to other towns.

WAS WED AT KALAMAZOO

Fred T. Lincoln, a former Crookston newspaper man and Miss Ella Aris of Hancock were married last evening at Kalamazoo, where the groom is city editor of the Gazette.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. M. Wood, pastor of the Kalamazoo Congregational church, at the home of Mrs. Alson Wood, aunt of the groom. The bride was attended by Miss Angie Wood, cousin of the groom, and the groomsman was A. B. Ogle, a member of the Gazette staff. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln will be at home at West Vine street, Kalamazoo, after April 20.

SEEDING IS DELAYED

SNOW OF TODAY WILL STOP OPERATIONS FOR A COUPLE OF DAYS

WORK WOULD HAVE BEEN GENERAL THRUOUT THIS SECTION OTHERWISE

From Wednesday's Daily—

The snowstorm which started in this morning will delay seeding operations for several days. Farmers were ready to begin work quite generally and many of them had already started but the soft snow will make the surface so mucky that nothing can be done for two or three days even with the most favorable weather. Considerable seeding has already been done and the grain in the ground will be benefitted by the snow, but any further fall of moisture will not be welcomed for several weeks to come.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

HELD THIS AFTERNOON OVER REMAINS OF ERNEST NEWMAN-ERGESON

The funeral services over the remains of Ernest Newman Ergescon were held this afternoon from the Hauges Lutheran church, Rev. O. F. Johnson officiating. There was a very large attendance, many railroad men being present, Mr. Ergeson having been a well known brakeman for several years past. He was 24 years of age and his tragic death at Grand Forks, resulting from an accident at Larimore was a terrible shock to his friends, and the deepest sympathy is extended to the members of the stricken family. The remains were laid to rest in Oakdale Cemetery and despite the inclement weather they were followed to their last resting place by a large number of people.

VOTED BONDS FOR FILTRATION

The people of Fargo by a vote of 1904 to 249 decided at their election yesterday, to issue bonds in the sum of $100,000 for a filtration plant for the water system and the establishment of a municipal electric light plant. It is the general understanding that the power to operate the light plant is to be obtained from the Dayton Hollow dam just below Fergus Falls and the Union Heat and Light company which at present furnishes Fargo with lights, was bitterly opposed to it. There is a question as to the legality of the bond issue and a fight in court is now in order.

If walking is good exercise, the modern housewife surely gets enough according to a local housekeeper who has experimented with a pedometer. She put one on one day and at the close of the day it registered ten miles and she claimed she had only done an ordinary day's work, not the regular cleaning day nor had she been more than four blocks away from her house.

FOR A CITY BEAUTIFUL

MAJOR BROMWELL DECLARES IT WILL BECOME MOST BEAUTIFUL CITY.

Washington, Apr. 3.—Major Charles S. Bromwell, for five years superintendent of public buildings and grounds of this city, has been ordered back to his regular work in the engineer corps of the army, and is going to Milwaukee, where he will be in charge of the harbor improvements of Lake Michigan. In an interview summarizing the work he has done in Washington, he takes the position that Washington is destined to be the most beautiful city in the world—the world's garden spot and architectural wonder, outranking Paris, long the most beautiful city of Europe.

"Washington," says Major Bromwell, "is today second to no city of the world from the standpoint of physical beauty, but with a comprehensive general plan of improvement like that of the park commission, and systematic appropriations from congress, it is eventually to becoe more beautiful than any other city of the world.

Little Work During Winter.

"Landscape gardening is not exactly in the line of what an engineer officer expects, but I became deeply interested in it after I had been assigned to the office of superintendent of public buildings and grounds. The assignment was a most agreeabe onel and I shall remember it with pleasure.

"Throughout the winter but little can be done in the way of improving the ground, for which reason the superintendent of public buildings and grounds is detailed during that season as military aide to the president of the United States, with his station at the White House.

"During the summer the White House is closed, and so the superintendent, during the summer months, has ample time to look after the beautification of the city.

"My opinion is that congress has been rather liberal in the matter of appropriations for the beautifying of Washington. If the money can be furnished as needed, and is used for carrying forward a general plan of beautification, Washington will become a more wonderful city than Paris, or any other city in the world, ancient or modern. There should be a general plan, however, and it should be rigidly adhere to.

"I am not especially committed to the Burnham plan, but in improving the city for five years, I have borne it in mind, and have made changes which would not conflict if that plan should be ultimately adopted.

"With a comprehensive plan, improvements can be made in certain localities as the money is appropriated. There will not be a great deal of improvement going on at any one time, but by constant work, year after year, Washington, in perhaps one generation, certainly in two, will find itself the garden spot of the world.

"Paris now boasts ot its Champes Elysees, which leads from the center of the city, under the beautiful Arc re Triomphe, to the Bois de Bolonge This is a mignificent street of a mile, and the Arch of Triumph, at which twelve avenues intersect, is one of the architectural beauties of France and of all Europe.

To Erect Lincoln Monument.

"It will not be many years before Washington will have an equally beautiful boulevard. The erection of public buildings on the mall, the establishment of parks, and the planting of trees along newly opened thoroughfares, will, I believe, rival the Champs Elysees, if it does not surpass it. This boulevard will extend from the capitol to the west end of Potomac Park, near the river bank, where it is proposed to erect a magnificent monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. With Potomac park connected with Rock Creek park, one can readily appreciate what the beauty of such a plan will be.

"Alost all the parks of Washington contain statues. The beauty of Lafayette park, across Pennsylvanit avenue from the White house, will be further enhanced by the erection of two statues on the north end of it. Franklin Park is to have the Barry statue, and ither statues will be properly distributed over the city among its parks, as the money to pay for them is set aside. At the northwest end of the Washington monument lot there is a plot of ground which is to be improved until its beauty rivals that of Lafayette park.

"I believe the white House elipse should be left bare as it is now. It is well graded, is covered with grass and is imposing in appearance.

"The opening of new streets and the extension of old ones in the farther northwest section of the city will develop many new intersections, where undoubtedly, there will be located parks. In these parks in time statues will be placed.

"In time, Washington is to be in a very true sense a city of parks and gardens, and of public buildings, the most attractive from an architectural paint of view, that the world has ever known. The recent completion of the senate and house office buildings, on Capitol Hill, sets off that section of the city in a highly attractive way.

"The new union station, costing almost twenty million dollars, is near the capitol, and is a part of the decorative feature of Capitol hill. This building will always be one of the most imposing in the city. On Capitol Hill, also, it is believed congress is in time to erect a splendid temple of justice, for the surpreme court and the department of justice. These improvements will complete the decorative features of Capitol Hill.

"Millions of dollars have been expended for new buildings in the heart of the mall during the past few years, and the plan to erect practically all of the public buildings of the future within this park enclosure is a wise one.

"With good times prevailing in the country for the next ten years, it is my belief that Washington, at the end of that period, will show a marked improvement over the Washington of today, just as the latter shows improvement over the Washington of ten years earlier.

"Public sentiment in the United States, I believe, is strongly in favor of the building of a capital city which will epitomize and characterize at a glance teh importance of the country among the nations of the world."

A Lame Excuse.

"A French sentinel in Algeria," said a playwright, "had for his colonel a very tall, lanky, round shouldered man. This round shouldered colonel one night was making a quiet inspection. Passing the sentinel, he found, to his rage and indignation, that he was not challenged. So he returned to the man and roared:

"'You didn't challenge me!'

"'N-no, sir,' faltered the sentinel, saluting.

"'Well, why didn't you?' the colonel demanded.

"'Excuse me, sir,' said the sentinel, 'but I thought—I beg your pardon, sir—I thought you was a camel.'"

His Denomination.

A man who had been playing golf with a clergyman heard him swear two or three times under his breath. Suspecting the lapse, he could not be sure of it until one monosyllable came out with unmistakable clearness. After he had finished the match a friend of his said: "I saw you playing just now with the Rev. Mr. Dash. Of what denomination is he?" "Some people say he is a Congregationalist," replied his late opponent, "but I should call him a Profanitarian."—Argonaut.

SMITHS ARE IN THE LEAD

ODD FACTS AS TO NOMENCLATURE FROM THE FIRST FEDERAL CENSUS

Washington, April 3.—In the states for which schedules of the first census remain, there were in 1790, 27,340 surnames, according to the latest publication of the census bureau. Of this number almost half—11,934 names—appeared but once, thus each represented but one family. But two names are represented by 3,000 heads of families and over.

While it is impossible to estimate the number of additional names which would have been contributed by the states for which schedules are completely lacking, they form such a small proportion of the total number of schedules that a conservative estimate would place the total number of different surnames in the United States in 1790 at less than 30,000.

All the names thus represented have been classified in this report and the tables presented give in detail the distribution of those names occurring upon the schedules more than 100 times, and hence represented by not less than 500 or 600 persons as members of the family.

Smith Leads Field.

The number of heads of families with approximate total number of persons, under a few of the names of more frequent occurrence, were:

Name—	No. of families.	Total persons.
Smith	5,932	33,245
Brown	3,358	19,175
Davis	2,575	14,300
Jones	2,561	14,300
Johnson	2,646	14,004
Clark	2,242	13,766
Williams	2,283	12,717
Miller	2,225	12,694
Wilson	1,765	9,797

These nine names represented about 4 per cent of the total white population in 1790.

All Proper Names From Parts of Speech.

The surnames which appeared upon the schedules of the first census show a very great preponderance of English and Scotch names. A large proportion of all the names are adaptations of nouns, verbs, and other parts of speech, and in general represent the simplest Anglo-Saxon terms. Inspection of the nomenclature of the surnames of the first census suggest the preponderance of the distinct Anglo-Saxon element.

About 30 per cent of the entrie population was represented by names adapted from parts of speech. Upon a classification, according to the meaning of the names, it appears that the origin of practically all was connected with daily life and surroundings. Classified by meaning, most of the proper names derived from parts of speech which appear in the first census schedules fall under the following topics: Food, eating, drinking, clothing, sewing, materials, household utensils, nations, towns, cities, nationality, kinds of men, condition, appearance or state, bathing, ailment and remedies, occupation, parts and conditions of the body, relationship, games, religion, music, literature, kind of house, building material, belongings, surroundings, furniture, tableware, merchandise and commodities, money, color, objects of nature or features of landscapes, trees, plants, and flowers, fruits, nuts, weather, beasts, birds, flying and creeping creatures, the ocean and maritime subjects, war, death, violence, and time.

Predominance of English Stock.

The analysis of nationality as shown by names indicates the fact that the English stock composed 83.5 per cent of all the white population at the period of the first census, and if the Scotch and Irish be added, the British stock represented a little more than 90 per cent, while the Germans contributed slightly less than 6 per cent and the Dutch 2 per cent.

In fact, so great was the British preponderance in practically all of the New England states that the other nationaliteis were negligible. In no other section of the union was the British element so strong as in New England, a fact strikingly in contrast with the conditions which prevail in that section at the present time.

Were it feasible to make an analysis of the population of the southern states in 1900 similar to that made from the schedules of the first census, in order to obtain percentages comparable with it, it is probable that very little change would be noted from the proportions shown in 1790. There has been a noteworthy preservation in that section of the purity of the stock enumerated in 1790, contrasted with the extraordinary change in the composition of the population taking place in the rmeainder of the nation during the century and more which elapsed from 1790 to 1900.

CRITICISM IS UNJUST

FOSSTON THIRTEEN TOWNS THINKS CROOKSTON IS RATHER GREEDY

FOR DECIDING TO CELEBRATE JULY 4TH—FIRST TIME IN YEARS

The Foston Thirteen Towns has quite a warm roast for Crookston in this week's issue because it was decided to celebrate July 4th in connection with the Northwestern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament Association annual meeting in this city.

This is the first time in many years that Crookston has celebrated the 4th of July. The time is most opportune not only for this city, but for the hundreds of people who will be here at that time.

We are surprised that the Thirteen Towns editor would criticise any city for celebrating July 4th. The fact that the celebration will be in connection with a firemen's tournament does not seem out of place. This is also, it might be stated the first time that Crookston has had the firemen's tournament in many years. It will cost thousands of dollars and if Crookston people decide to spend a few hundred more for a celebration of the 4th of July, we do not think that Fosston or any other village or city has just cause for criticism.

SU OLVED OVER $25,000

JAMES H. MAYBURY ONE OF ATTORNEYS IN IMPORTANT PARTITION SUIT

SPECIAL TERM AT ADA WEDNESDAY PROVED A MOST STRENUOUS ONE

From Saturday's Daily—

James H. Maybury was at Ada, last Wednesday trying a partition suit involving twelve hundred acres of land valued at about $25,000.00 which is in controversy between the Sanford heirs It was a strenuous day. The testimony of twenty-four witnesses experts on land values and soil was given. Judge Grindeland kept the court grinding continuously from morning until 11:45 at night. Leaving just time enough for Attorney Fosseen to catch his train for Minneapolis.

In an interview with the Journal this morning Mr. Maybury said: "I have about regained my former good health, and have entered into my law business with a renewed vigor. It is very pleasing to find my former clients returning and new ones coming constantly. Since my term as county attorney expired, I have been busier than I expected to be, and feel grateful for the volume and character of my law business. My experience as county attorney helped me greatly in court work and gave me a wide circle of acquaintances."

ALDERMAN HARRIS MAKES STATEMENT

SAYS HE HAS BEEN BADLY MISREPRESENTED AS TO STAND

Alderman T. A. Harris says that he has been misquoted as to the statements he made regarding the use of the city hall by societies. In a statement to the Journal today Alderman Harris said:

"I was badly misquoted and I believe viciously so in a recent published statement regarding what I said at the last council meeting in connection with granting the use of the city hall for society meetings.

"What I said was that I did not think the the city should compete with owners of halls in the city, who had their money invested. There are a number of halls for rent at all times, including the G. A. R. hall, the hall in the Marin Block, the I. O. O. F. Halls, the Union Block Hall, the Germania Hall and a number of others including the Fournet Hall and the Woodmen Hall perhaps on certain nights, tho I am not certain about all of these.

"I simply stated that I did not think that the city should enter into competition with these people who have heir money invested in halls. I made the statement publicly and still believe I am right in the contention. It is not right for the city to compete with people who have their money invested."

A long yarn is sometimes produced from the threads of conversation.

SAYS MINN. IS UNSURPASSED

CAPT. BROWN SAYS CONDITION OF FARMERS HERE IS EXCELLENT

DURING ALL HIS TRAVELS IN WEST NO BETTER PLACE WAS FOUND

From Saturday's Daily—

Capt. M. R. Brown who has just returned from an extended trip to the Pacific coast and intervening states was interviewed this morning by a representative of the Journal with the object of getting a comparison of conditions here with those in other sections of the west and middle west. He covered a great deal of territory and as he is a close observer of conditions his impressions will be of general interest. Capt. Brown had two purposes in mind in making the trip, one object was to enrich his mind regarding the different states of the west, the conditions existing etc. Capt. Brown had quite an extensive opportunity as going from here to St. Paul he travelled thru Iowa and via the southern states to Utah, thru Colorado from one end of California to the other Washington, Montana, Dakota and Minnesota. Capt. Brown said in part:

"I observed as closely as I could the condition of the farming communities and no where in all the states I visited did I find the country districts as bright, prosperous and thrifty as in Minnesota and Iowa.

"The appearance of farm buildings and fences is a true index to the productiveness and prosperity of the country in which they are located. As a rule they are in good shape in Minnesota and Iowa. In other states the buildings in the rural communities had more or less of a tumble down appearance, showing conclusively that there was a lack of productiveness in those states.

"While some other states have climatic conditions which are more agreeable to some people, there are many other conditions which should be very carefully considered by those contemplating making changes for a home place.

"I have fully made up my mind that we in the Red River Valley have excellent opportunities and advantages to make comfortable homes and live a prosperous and happy life, and I return fully satisfied to make my future home here."

AISLES MUST NOT BE PACKED

FORMAL NOTICE SERVED ON THEATRE PROPRIETORS LAST EVENING

AISLES AND LOBBIES MUST BE KEPT CLEAR—TO ENFORCE ORDINANCE

City Engineer J. E. Carroll, who is also the building inspector of Crookston last evening wrote the proprietors of the various theatres of the city that in the future the provisions of the ordinance requiring that aisles and lobbies in all places of public amusement or entertainment or any place where public assemblages are held must be kept clear so as not to prevent egress from said buildings.

The notice was to the effect that no one will be allowed to stand in aisles or lobbies and that admissions must be limited to the seating capacity of the places, as any other practice is a menace to public safety.

This formal notice was signed and sent out last evening by Building Inspector Carroll.

High Pressure Days

Men and women alike haveto work incessantly with brain and hand to hold their own nowadays. Never were the demands of business, the wants of the family, the requirements of society, more numerous. The first effect of the praiseworthy effort to keep up with all these things is commonly seen in a weakened or debilitated condition of the nervous system which results in dyspepsia, defective nutrition of both body and brain, and in extreme cases in complete nervous prostration. It is clearly seen that what is needed is what will sustain the system, give vigor and tone to the nerves, and keep the digestive and assimilative functions healthy and active. From personal knowledge, we can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla for this purpose. It acts on all the vital organs, builds up the whole system and fits men and women for these high-pressure days.

Many a man is an expert hand at putting his foot in it.

TO MAINTAIN BOTH BANDS

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL CO-OPERATE WITH TWO BAND COMMITTEES

NEW BAND MASTER TO BE SECURED AT ONCE—ACTION IS DEFINITE

From Saturday's Daily—

Last evening at the joint meeting of the committees representing the Crookston band and the Crookston Juvenile band, the Commercial club pledged its most hearty support to the proposition to maintain both organizations, recommended that all band contracts be paid to the duly authorized representatives of the Crookston band, and that a contract be closed as soon as possible with one of the several directors with whom negotiations have been opened. Manager J. N. Kirsch, President H. F. Brown and Secretary-Treasurer Geo. LeBlanc spoke for the Crookston Band and Bandmaster Riggs also made a few remarks.

To Fit Club Rooms

The officers of the club were instructed to execute a lease for the third floor of the Union block and the committee on furnishings was authorized to at once proceed and close contracts for the needed furniture so that the Commercial club rooms will soon be ready for occupancy.

SPECIAL TRAIN OF IMMIGRANTS

ARRIVED THIS MORNING ON THE GREAT NORTHERN FROM IOWA AND ILLINOIS

COLLEGE MOVING TO NORTH BROADWAY

BUTTON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE TO OCCUPY OLD QUARTERS AGAIN

Today Chas. Solberg is busy moving the furniture, typewriters and other paraphernalia used by Button's Business college which during the past winter was forced to secure quarters in the Union Block, the college building on North Broadway not being large enough to acommodate the students, the enrollment having been the largest in the history of the college. Many of the students are now leaving for their homes for the summer, or to accept positions, and the old quarters across from the court house will be large enough to accommodate all remaining.

DEBATE TO BE CONTINUED

COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT NOT FAVORED AT DEBATE

CARNEGIE LIBRARY DEBATING SOCIETY HAD SPIRITED CONTEST

Last evening the Carnegie Library Debating society held a debate on the desirability of the Commission form of city government. The debate was a very spirited one, the affirmative being handled by Lucius Miller, James Hanson and Oscar Fredricks while the negative was looked after by the Messrs. Kjersvick and F. E. Weseberg, A. J. Johnson being unable to attend on account of the Commercial club meeting.

The Judges decided in favor of the negative by a 2 to 1 vote.

It was decided however to debate the same question at the meeting at next week's meeting when the affirmative will be represented by Messrs. L. D. Foskett, C. E. Ring and George Hamery while the negative side will be taken care of by Messrs. O. K. Berget, I. Mark Oseth and Arthur J. Johnson.

The private car of Supt. F. E. Elliot of the Dakota division of the G. N. was attached to No. 5 this morning, Mr. Elliot having been in St. Paul for the past couple of days confering in regard to a new time card.

Mr. Elliot stated this morning that no definite conclusions had been arrived at regarding the new schedule but that there would be several changes of importance, specially in connection wtih the coast trains and it is very probable that Crookston will benefit as a result of some of the changes.

City Engineer J. E. Carroll has formally condemned the building in which the post office is located as unsafe and has sent the following notification to Postmaster Steenerson:

Elias Steenerson Postmaster:

Dear Sir: I have today made examination of building occupied by postoffice and from such examination and my knowledge of surroundings and past conditions, I am of the opinion that it is dangerous to life and limb to occupy such building and I have this day condemned this building as dangerous.

Signed,

—J. E. Carroll,
City Engineer.

Moyor McPhee was a visitor at the Journal office this morning and suggested that th is is about the time of the year that back yards should be cleaned up. Chief of Police Eck has been ordered for some time past to see that all back yards should be cleaned.

This is the time of year that every one should clean their yards. It should take no notice from the mayor or the chief of police. It is a matter that interests every resident just as much as it does the officials.

However the fact remains that all should take warning of the order issued. While this is the 1st of April it is no April fool order.

FORMER CROOKSTON RESIDENT—Attorney P. J. Russell a former well known attorney of Crookston who is now located in Bemidji was in the city last evening enroute to St. Paul where he was called on legal business He will return tomorrow morning and expects to remain over here for a day to attend to some legal business and will also visit with his old friends.

TO SOUTH DAKOTA—Reg. Middleton, one of the former well known residents of Crookston passed thru the city night before last enroute to South Dakota where he will spend a week or two visiting. There are a few rumors regarding his visit which should not be published as "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft aglee."

OUT ON SURVEY—O. L. Hamery left this morning for Middle River where he will spend a few days surveying a proposed county ditch. Mr. Hamery has more work this year than he has had for some time and is kept busy every day in the week. During the past few days he has been called to look after two important jobs in Marshall and Kittson counties.

COUNT VON OTTER HERE—Count Gustav A. Von Otter the well known representative of the Morawetz Co., of Milwaukee who has sold hats, caps gloves and furs in this territory for years spent the night in the city talking over a few of the latest German delicacies with Jos. Eckert, and left this morning for a trip up the north line where he has several customers to meet but expects to return to the city on t he evening train.

GOOD WAY TO RID OF WOLVES—As a result of a trick played at Sturgis, S. D., by the government it seems likely that the old range country this side of the Missouri river will get rid of a great many of the wolves that have been the terror of the stock growers. Under directions from Washington, rangers of the Black Hills forest reserve set traps in which they caught over a hundred without seriously injuring them. These wolves were then confined in an inclosure surrounded by a high fence and infected with the mange. After the disease had made good headway the animals were released. As a result farmers are continually finding dead wolves and others are so weak and emanciated that they are easily killed with clubs.

Not Misplaced.

Hotel Clerk—I found the "Not to Be Used Except In Case of Fire" placard those college boys stole out of the corridor. Manager—Where? Clerk—They'd nailed it up over the coal bin.—Boston Transcript.

Highly Flattered.

"Your glasses," she said, "have made a great difference in your appearance."

"Do you think so?" he asked.

"Yes. You look so intelligent with them on."—Chicago Record-Herald.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

A WELCOME MEDLEY—The medley early this morning in which crows geese, returning song birds and crowing cocks participated was a very welcome concert to the early risers. Such weather as that of today with surrounding conditions make life worth living.

PROMINENT FARMER HERE — Knute Acker, the prominent Climax farmer is spending the day in the city He came up with two great candy pails full of eggs for which he gets top prices as they are always strictly fresh.

TOOK TO THE LAKE—J. M. Stephens and Wm. M. Ferguson left this morning for Maple Lake where they will inspect the Ferguson cottage and set things straight for the coming summer season. It is possible also that they will shoot a few crows and secure the bounty for pin money.

VISITS NORMAN CO. SCHOOLS—E. W. Savage representing the American Sunday school Union will leave this evening for Ada and will be absent till the middle of next week visiting Sunday schools in Norman Co., and getting a line on the conditions there. He has a number of new schools in prospect of which announcement will be made later on. Mr. Savage plans on a very busy summer and there is certainly all manner of work in his line to be done in his district.

City Engineer J. E. Carroll announces that from official measurements the Red Lake River has risen 20 inches during the past three days. Practically all the ditches in the country are open and are pouring water into the river and a continued rise may be expected.

The river below the dam is open half the width of the channel and a general breakup may be looked for at any time. The river is opening considerably earlier than last year and several days earlier than the average.

This afternoon City Attorney O'Brien formally called the attention of Chief of Police Eck to the sections of the city charter which makes it his duty to suppress all houses of ill fame. Chief Eck will take action at once, he has stated, and the places will be closed forthwith.

THROW OUT THE LINE

Give Them Help and Many Crookston People Will be Happier

"Throw out the life line"—

The kidneys need help.

They're overworked—can't get the poison filtered out of the blood.

They're getting forse every minute. Will you help them?

Will cure any form of kidney trouble.

N. L. Nelson, formerly of 305 Jackson Av., Crookston, Minn., says: "Backache and kidney complaint annoyed me for many years. The trouble was not continual but it required only a little exertion or a cold to bring on a severe attack. A few months ago I was suffering more than usual and it was hard for me to stoop or lift. I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured them at Wallace's drug store. This remedy promptly relieved me of the pains in my back and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for this wonderful cure."

It is every woman's duty to keep young-looking as long as possible, but unfortunately she does not always know the best way to live up to that duty, say an exchange. Avoid worry, hurry and getting flustered. Learn self-control. Anger is a rapid wrinkle-bringer. Be temperate. Moderation does not only refer to the stomach. Overdoing in any way makes for premature age. Love the open air. Fresh air is not a fad; it is a necessity, if one would keep young. Get plenty of sleep. Nothing lines the face like nights of wakefulness. Keep mentally alert. An intellectual back number adds years to her seeming age. Nothing makes for youth like a young mind, save, perhaps, a young heart. Don't let yourself get sluggish and indifferent. Here is where the benefit of massage, physical culture and a vital interest in life comes in. Don't let your face reflect every perplexity. The woman who keeps young need not wear a mask, but she should guard against the so-called speaking countenance," if she does not want a fine crop of wrinkles. BIG MONEY IN CLOVER CROP

A. C. ROBINSON WRITES INTERESTING LETTER REGARDING HIS EXPERIENCE

THINKS VALUE OF RED RIVER VALLEY SOIL GREATLY UNDERESTIMATED

From Friday's Daily—

Editor Crookston Journal:

I see so many letters in your paper from farmers all over the state, telling of their experiences in different branches of farming, but so far I have not seen much of anything from Mentor and vicinity, so I thought it might interest some of your readers to know what we can do here, if you will allow me. It will give my experience in raising clover and timothy for hay and also clover for seed, which might be might be entitled, "My First Experience in Clover Raising in Minnesota."

About five years ago, I seeded in four acres to clover and timothy, got a good start. The year after I took from this four acres tract twenty large loads of clover and timothy hay, estimated to be over four tons per acre. That year I seeded in about eleven acres to Medium Red Clover. The following year I had a fine crop on both the first and second seeding. I used it all for hay, with the exception of what I estimated to be about half an acre, which I left for seed. From this I threshed over eight bushels of seed. There was so much said about this large yield of seed, and while some people could hardly believe, others, who had often passed the small plat knew it to be a fact, but to satisfy myself and others, I had the ground measured and found it contained three fourths of an acre. From this I cleaned and sold for over sixty dollars worth of seed and kept about one bushel for my own use. This certainly was a remarkable yield, but nothing more than many others might do this year if we have a favorable season.

The farmers around here are just awakening to the fact that they have gold mines right on their farms and while the most of us have only been experimenting so far, the time has come now that large acreages will be used for the purpose of raising seed and I feel confident that the returns will be larger for all who go into this. The fact that clover and timothy can be grown to so good advantage here as in any part of the state has been the cause of giving stimulas to our creamery industry, which has more than trebled and is still on the increase, so it looks now, as if the capacity of the creamery here in Mentor will have to be increased considerable in order to handle the increasing business.

And yet with all those advantages we have farmers here who are offering their land at from $20.00 to $35.00 per acre, sell out and go west and northwest. I only hope that some one will come and take their places, who will appreciate the value of this soil and the opportunity they have here of getting a good and comfortable home at a very reasonable price. This is my experience here and I think we have one of the best and most prosperous communities to be found anywhere.

Thanking you for the space this shall take, I am,

Yours truly,

—A. C. Robinson,

International Falls Echo: The reaportionment bill which was expected to be enacted into a law by the present session of the legislature, but hope of which now seems to be a forlorn one sets apart Itasca and Koochiching counties as a district, with two representatives and a senator. The passage of the tonnage ore tax indicates the temper of the politicians of the southern part of the state, and it is hardly possible that they would in the same state of mind turn around and legislate away the power which now gives them the right to inflict such unjust measures upon the northern half of the state as the said tax.

A bill has been introduced by Representative Peterson of Nicollett county providing for the naming of farms and the registering of such names in the official records of the county on the payment of a small filing fee. The bill is permissive and not compulsory. An amendment was added that no two farms in the county should be given the same name. The idea appears to be a good one. In Norway and in Scotland, and probably elsewhere the custom of naming farms is almost, if not quite, universal, and in both countries the owner of the farm is known by the farm name, which in Scotland at least is regarded as an honorable distinction.

J. J. HILL EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ON TARIFF

Sensational stories were printed in the eastern papers regarding James J. Hill's visit to the capitol at Washington yesterday to th e effect that he was tinkering with the various schedules of the Payne bill. Those whom he saw assert that Mr. Hill simply urged the passage of a tariff bill in the interest of the general business of the country.

In an interview in a morning paper however, Mr. Hill said:

"They talk about revising the tariff, while at our present rates of expenditure the tariff is now scarcely on a revenue basis.

'How then is it to be scaled unless we shave down the cost of the government?

"I am not a free-trader, but I see the evils in the recent tariff schedules, altho I don't know how they are to be remedied unless we shall call a halt upon the cost of the government or shift the tax thus placed upon the people to domestic products. As to trusts I guess Mr. Havemeyer was about right when he testified before the committee in this city that the tariff was the mother of trusts.

"But these questions or problems will be solved. They are much more soluble than one of supreme importance which is how to extract from the soil the maximum of production at the minimum of cost. The trust will break down of its own weight long before we solve this great problem. Upon its solution depends wholly the onswer to your question. 'What is the cause and what is the remedy for the present high cost of living?"

Big Boost For The Valley

In this issue of the Journal there are two important articles as bearing upon the importance of the Red River Valley and the conditons here among the farming community as compared with other sections.

One article is an interview with Capt. M. R. Brown, who after an extended trip thru nearly all the western states, gives it as his opinion that there is no secion of he country where the farmers are more prosperous, or where there are more pleasant homes than in Minnesota and Iowa, and specially called attention to the prosperous conditions in evidence in the Red River Valley as compared with other sections which he visited.

He also stated that he returned more satisfied than ever to make his home in Crookston. These are significant statements. Another article of special importance is a communication from A. C. Robinson, a successful farmer located near Mentor. He gives his experience in the successful raising of timothy and clover both as a hay crop and for seed and concludes with the statement that the present price of farm lands in this section is far below the real value. He states that the farmers who are selling their land for $35 per acre and investing elsewhere are making a mistake which they will live to deeply regret.

Such statements are worthy of very careful thought. People who are here in many cases fail to utilize the advantages which surround them. They get a notion that some new section of this country farther west, or in Canada offers greater opportunity. They forget to consider the fact that in the new countries they must wait for years for the school, church and other special privileges which are available here.

The Packing Plant

It is certainly remarkable that the sentiment regarding the location of the Armour plant at New Brighton has undergone such a wonderful change within the past short while. The press of the entire state, practically, favors the location of the plant in the state, they want it, but a very decided stand its taken against is being located where the health of the students attending state and other institutions will be endangered.

The effort of some people to make it evident that St. Paul was opposed to the location of the plant in the state acted as a boomerang. St. Paul was never at any time opposed to the location of the plant in the state. The business men of St. Paul want the plant as well as any other city, but they do not want it located where it will be obnoxious to so many state institutions.

This stand is so ultimately fair, that the position of St. Paul has appealed to the entire state, and St. Paul now has the solid backing of every fairminded person in connection with the fight.

LeSueur News: The tonnage tax bill passed the house. Maybe the principle involved is right, but we cannot see it in that light. If we take it home, and say LeSueur county wheat shall be taxed by the state and the money paid into the state treasury, not the county treasury always carrying in mind the supposition that one crop of wheat can be grown on the lands, and thereafter they would be useless. How would our people like such legislation, and yet that is an exact illustration. We believe the iron ore should be taxed heavily, but the state should receive it only such share as it does from other taxable property. The remainder should be left in the counties where the iron ore is mined, for the benefit of those counties.

According [illegible] ficial Dispatches to Washington [illegible] is a Renewal of Alarm on the Fr[illegible] of Salvador Over the Menacing [illegible] ents of the Nicaraguans—Neutr[illegible] aws Apparently Violated.

Washington, April 15.—According to official dispatches there is a renewal of alarm on the frontier of Salvador over the menacing movements of the Nicaraguans. It was supposed that the decisive action taken by the United States and Mexico in sending war vessels to preserve the peace of Central America would stop further attempts of Zelaya to pursue any belligerent attitude towards his neighbors. Honduras evidently has shown but little disposition to insist on the neutrality laws respecting her territory and it is still regarded as possible that Nicaraguan troops might be able to cross Honduran territory in carrying out hostile purposes towards Salvador. Any important movement, however, will be met by decisive action by the United States and Mexico.

CASTRO INTENDED TROUBLE

Washington Officials Convinced by Cumulative Evidence.

Washington, April 15.—Cumulative evidence which has reached Washington convinces the officials that had he been permitted to remain in the vicinity of Venezuela former President Castro would have made an effort to recoup his lost prestige in that country.

The former president's utterances, printed in the Cologne Gazette, indicating a sentiment in some sections of Venezuela favorable to him and to his ambitions, and other advices, strongly support the view that Castro felt hopeful of again restoring himself in public favor in Venezuela if chance were given him.

RUSSIAN OFFICERS GO FREE

Had Been Condemned to Death for Surrendering to Japs.

St. Petersburg, April 15.—Rear Admiral Gregorieff and Lieutenant Smirnoff, subordinate officers under Vice Admiral Nebogatoff in the Russo-Japanese war, have been pardoned and released from confinement in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. These officers were sentenced to death for having surrendered their commands, but in view of extenuating circumstances their sentences were commuted to ten years' imprisonment in a fortress. They began serving their sentences in 1907. It is reported that General Stoessel and Vice Admiral Nebogatoff also will be pardoned shortly.

DEADLOCK IN NEGOTIATIONS

Turkey and Bulgaria Unable to Settle Dispute.

St. Petersburg, April 15.—The negotiations looking to a settlement of the Turco-Bulgarian dispute, arising from the Bulgarian declaration of independence last year, are taking an unsatisfactory course. Both here and in Constantinople they have come practically to a deadlock. M. Poprikoff, the Bulgarian minister of foreign affairs, who has been here since March 3, is preparing to return to Sofia unless the negotiations take a turn for the better. The mobilization of the Bulgarian army is regarded as a possibility unless Turkey speedily comes to terms.

Stops Sale of Discarded Arms.

Washington, April 15.—No more will cheap revolutions in neighboring countries be encouraged by the easy manner in which it has been possible to purchase the old arms of the United States. Orders have been issued at the war department stopping the practice of selling the discarded arms of the United States.

KETCHEL AND JOHNSON SIGN

Matched to Fight Twenty Rounds for World's Championship.

New York, April 15.—Jack Johnson and Stanley Ketchel were matched to box twenty rounds for the heavyweight championship of the world at the Colma Athletic club on Oct. 12, 1909. The fighters are to receive 50 per cent of the gross receipts to be divided 65 per cent to the winner and 35 per cent to the loser. Both Ketchel and Johnson signed the articles.

JACK JOHNSON.

Ketchel was anxious to fight forty-five rounds, but Johnson demurred, saying that twenty rounds would suffice to show which was the better man.

BIDWELL SAVES AGED FATHER FROM PRISON

Gives Up Possible Liberty to Secure Leniency for Parent.

Chicago, April 15.—Charles Bidwell's effort to save his aged father, Benson Bidwell, from prison at the cost of his own possible liberty was accomplished in Judge Chetlain's court here.

Both Bidwells were sentenced to indeterminate terms in the penitentiary for alleged swindling through the medium of a "cold" motor invented by the elder Bidwell. Young Bidwell, to save his father, whose physical condition is precarious, agreed with the state's attorney to drop his appeal, in which he had much faith, if the state would agree to a lenient course with his father. In court Benson Bidwell was allowed to plead guilty to a minor charge, under which he must serve ten days in the county jail, after which he will be given his liberty.

Charles Bidwell will be taken to the penitentiary next Friday to serve a term of from one to ten years under the indeterminate sentence law.

LIVING QUIETLY IN NEW YORK

Process Server Finally Locates Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

New York, April 15.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who has dropped almost completely from public view since the continued confinement of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, at Matteawan, is living quietly at 31 West Thirty-third street. It was there that she was served with papers in supplementary proceedings in the suit of a milliner who got judgment against her last September for $233. Soon after the judgment was obtained process servers began a search for Mrs. Thaw, but it was not until now that they were successful. She accepted the service with the comment that she would be on hand for the examination, which was set for April 19. She declared, however, that she did not owe the money and that the suit was a farce.

THE HOUSE PASSES THE "VAG" BILL

ARDS ALSO INCLUDED—THOSE WHO REFUSE TO SUPPORT THEIR FAMILIES MAY BE TAKEN INTO CUSTODY UNDER PROVISIONS OF THE PROPOSED LAW—ANTI-CIGARETTE BILL REPASSED BY THE HOUSE AND IS NOW UP TO THE GOVERNOR —SENATE KILLS PETERSON'S ARMOUR RESOLUTION

St. Paul, April 14.—The so-called "vag bill," which the Minneapolis police department has been pushing, passed the house after some severe amendments proposed by R. J. Wells had been adopted.

The chief fight was over the section which permits the arrest of any pickpocket, thief, burglar, "yeggman" or confidence man for vagrancy if he is found loitering around depots, banks, railroad yards, hotels or other places named. The aim was to give the police power to arrest or send out of town known crooks before they committed any crime. Wells had it amended so that it stated definitely that no one should be considered a crook under that section unless he had been actually convicted of some crime named in that section and if he did not get into some lawful occupation within thirty days. This was to give released prisoners a chance to reform and get to work before they are arrested as vags. Even with this amendment there were objections to it, and John Lennon said that it did not give them a chance to go anywhere except to the graveyard or the sea.

J. F. Selb wanted to strike out the section making vagrants of habitual drunkards who refused to support their families. He said it was already covered by the present laws, but Wells said that under the present laws he could not be arrested except when drunk.

Those Liable to Arrest.

The bill now allows the arrest as vagrants of persons without any visible lawful occupation, habitual drunkards guilty of non-support, persons with infectious diseases contracted in places of debauchery who require charitable aid, beggars, "street walkers," males who assist prostitutes in getting business or live habitually with them and known crooks.

The house repassed the anti-cigarette bill with the senate amendments, which will make the bill effective Aug. 1 if the governor signs it.

The senate killed the resolution by F. H. Peterson providing for possible injunction proceedings by the attorney general against the Armours.

The resolution instructing the attorney general to look into the possible damage was killed, 50 to 1". It was preceded by several bunches of more or less fervid oratory on a subject of which many of the senators were tired. Senator Peterson sought to protect the state university, and was opposed by Senator Wilson of Minneapolis and others.

Senatorial courtesy was torn to shreds in the state senate when the country members stood shoulder to shoulder and forced the passage of the bill requiring the installation of safety devices for passenger elevators. After Senators Durment, Wilson and Laybourne had spoken strongly for the three big cities, declaring in unmistakable terms that the large cities carry elevator passengers at the rate of over 5,000,000 a year without a serious accident, the country members turned loose and denounced the city members for meddling in the affairs of the country and carried the bill 33 to 23.

Nimocks Bill Passed by the House.

The corresponding house bill by Frank Nimocks was passed by that body while the senators were fuming over their bill.

The house passed Burdette Thayer's bill prohibiting lumber companies from selling lumber cheaper at one place than at another for the purpose of stifling competition.

The house passed Senator Clague's bill proposing an amendment to the constitution so that the state may pay half instead of only one-third of the cost of road and bridge improvements.

Another delegation from the northern part of the state protested to the senate against the proposed tonnage tax measure. Those who spoke were: A. D. Polk of Brainerd, P. E. Dowling of Eveleth, M. M. Williams of Little Falls, Professor Van Dyke of Coleraine, D. Hayes of Two Harbors, Mayor Wise of Brainerd, W. J. Stock of Coleraine and R. C. Dunn of Princeton.

The statement that Senator Wright's Indian pension bill passed the house Monday was an error. It was discussed and laid over for the purpose of amendment. The bill was passed Tuesday after there had been another debate on it.

The house by a vote of 39 to 28 indefinitely postponed the legislative reference bureau bill drawn by Representatives Washburn, Mattson and Burnquist.

The house by a vote of 52 to 50 killed J. F. Rosenwald's bill reorganizing the state agricultural society.

VESSEL FINALLY WRECKED

Has Series of Accidents Before Going on Rocks.

Pittsburg, April 15.—Following a remarkable series of accidents and a tempestuous voyage the steamer Virginia, from Cincinnati to Pittsburg, was finally wrecked in the Ohio river at Wellsville, O.

The boat, the largest plying the upper Ohio, went down close to shore after striking a rock and tearing a hole three feet long in the hull. The passengers, numbering fifty, became panic stricken when the vessel met with the last accident and it was with difficulty a crew of seventy-five men restrained them. The crew managed to place the passengers safely in boats and put them ashore.

Madrid, April 15.—The newspapers of Madrid express little regret at the expiration three days ago of article 4 of the treaty of Paris, which gave Spain equal commercial privileges with the United States in the Philippine islands. They point out that the advantages granted under this article were wholly illusory.

GREAT SCARCITY EXISTS

Declares He Has Preached the Gospel of Higher Prices for Months Because He Saw What Was Coming. Purchased His Holdings When Market Looked Cheap and Intends to Sell at a Profit if He Can.

Chicago, April 15.—The appeal of Pittsburg bakers to Secretary of State Knox to take steps to end manipulation of wheat and other markets caused comment by James A. Patten of Chicago, popularly alleged to control the present market for the high priced cereal.

"In the first place," said Mr. Patten, "I don't control the market. My line at no time has run over 10,000,000 bushels. I have preached the gospel of higher wheat because I saw what was coming. I saw it first, I believe, but when it comes to 'controlling the market' there are two or three hundred other men who have bought who have something to say about that.

"I bought when the market looked cheap, as did others who accepted my view, and I'm going to sell it at a profit if I can. I have already sold a great deal. I have more to sell and when anybody offers me a proper price I will sell more. I just sold some cash stuff at $1.42. There is no corner, no manipulation. Others who bought early sell as demand develops."

Mr. Patten then diagnosed the situation as he understands it.

"For three or four years this has been coming and I saw it. At the end of each crop bins were empty everywhere. With increasing population here and abroad it was obvious that sooner or later the crop of one year would be exhausted before a new crop was at hand. Last fall, if not earlier, I saw it coming. I bought wheat and my friends did likewise. The great unthinking public here and in Europe would not or could not see what was coming. Liverpool would not buy months ago, thinking the prices of that day too high. Now Europe wants 55,000,000 bushels. The harvest was early last year. It has been trying to cover thirteen months instead of the usual twelve and it can't do it. We need wheat for the mills right here in Chicago now."

Cash Wheat Sells for $1.50.

St. Louis, April 15.—The highest price paid for cash wheat in St. Louis in thirty-one years was recorded when sales of No. 2 red were made at $1.47 to $1.50. Largely as a consequence of these market conditions the flour industry has almost ceased locally, several mills being shut down, while others are running on half time.

NO WITNESSES TO TESTIFY

Wisconsin Senatorial Probers Spend Day in Waiting.

Madison, Wis., April 15.—The members of the Stephenson investigating committee of the senate spent the day waiting for witnesses, but none appeared.

State Game Warden Stone's whereabouts are seemingly unknown, even to his wife, who has promised to do her best to find him. There is still a persistent report that he is in the northern part of the state, but if so he left no word that he is on official business.

The so called Bray joint resolution providing for another joint investigating committee to look into the senatorial election, was put over for a week when it came up in the senate branch of the Wisconsin legislature.

Domestic Trouble the Cause.

Kansas City, April 15.—Frank Williams, aged fifty-one years, a laborer, shot and killed his wife Addie, aged forty-nine years, in their home in Rosedale, a suburb. Williams then committed suicide. Domestic trouble caused the tragedy.

Night Riders Are Suspected.

Nashville, Tenn., April 15.—The Presbyterian church at Fredonia, Caldwell county, Ky., has been burned and night riders are suspected. Bloodhounds have been put on the trail.

There is not a single moment in life that we can afford to lose.—Goulburn.

NIGHT RIDERS IN INDIANA

Visitors Terrorizing Land Owners and Tenants.

Washington, Ind., April 15.—Night riders are terrorizing land owners and tenants in the vicinity of Harrimans Ferry, south of this city.

William Schrolucke, owner of 700 acres in that neighborhood, reported that twenty men on horseback visited all his tenants and informed them that if they paid greater rent than one-third of the crop raised their crops would be mowed down before they became ripe. Some of the tenants were threatened with violence.

Farming machinery belonging to three tenants on Albert Himeslv's farm was destroyed.

Thomas Taylor, a wealthy land owner, received by mail a package containing powder and matches, with a note of warning of what he might expect if he insisted on one-half crop rental.

HOPES TO ARRANGE MATCH

McIntosh Confident Jeffries Will Fight Johnson.

New York, April 15.—Hugh D. McIntosh, the Australian promoter who came to this city a few weeks ago saying that his principle object was to arrange a fight between Jeffries and Johnson, sailed on the steamer Mauretania for Liverpool. He expects to return in a month, he said.

"I am confident that Johnson and Jeffries will face each other in the ring," said Mr. McIntosh. "Johnson has been eager for the fight for a long time and won't back out. Jeffries has promised to give me an answer within thirty days as to whether he will accept a proposition to fight Johnson."

PLEADS GUILTY TO MANSLAUGHTER

Young Woman Who Killed Doctor She Claimed Wronged Her.

New York, April 15.—Sarah Koten, the young Russian woman charged with shooting and killing Dr. Martin W. Auspitz on Aug. 7 last, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree when called to trial for her life in the supreme court here. She was remanded for sentence on Friday.

The crime to which the young woman pleaded guilty was sensational in its circumstances and the story which the prisoner told shortly after she had shot down and killed the physician in the vestibule of an up town apartment house aroused widespread interest in her case. She had killed Dr. Auspitz, she said, because he had attacked her while she was under the influence of an anaesthetic during her term of service as a nurse in a sanitarium which the physician conducted at the time. She brought with her to court from Blackwell's island, where she has been a prisoner, the baby boy born to her since the shooting.

Leaders of Rioters Executed.

El Paso, Tex., April 15.—The Herald's correspondent at Torreon, Mex., thirty miles from Velardena, where the riots resulting from an order preventing a religious parade occurred last Saturday, has returned to Torreon from the scene of the trouble and reports that one rurale, one woman and three men were killed in the street fights. Ten of the leaders of the rioters were taken prisoners and executed.

WILL INVADE UNITED STATES

Canadian Pacific Decides to Enter Hill's Territory.

Winnipeg, Man., April 15.—The Canadian Pacific railway has decided to at once invade North Dakota and go after the Hill lines with a vengeance. They will extend their branch, which now ends at Mowbray, in Southern Manitoba, this spring, across into Dakota to connect with the Soo line. The Soo line will also be extended to Brandon, Man., giving a direct line from Brandon to Minneapolis, running parallel and between the two Hill lines which now run into Manitoba, one ending at Brandon and the other at Portage la Prairie. This is in retaliation for Hill's announced intention of building an air line into Winnipeg from the boundary and building extensive terminals here.

NEW G. N. TIMECARD PRACTICALLY COMPLETED

Principle Change is in Connection with the Service of the Warroad Line.

Slight Change Will also Be Made in Several Other Local Trains Trains East Later.

The new time card which will be put in effect on the Great Northern within a very short time has practically been completed. There may be a change of a few minutes in some of the trains but the change will not be material from the figures given below.

The chief change is in the service on the Warroad line, the train in the morning leaving at 9:10 for Warroad and returning will arrive in Crookston at 6:10, two crews being used instead of one as at present, and laying over for the night at Warroad.

The train for Duluth in the morning will arrive from the west at 8:35 15 minutes later than at present, and will leave at 8:45. The train for St. Vincent will arrive from Fargo at 8:40 instead of 8:10 and will leave for the north at 9 o'clock.

Returning from St. Vincent the train will arrive at 5:55 and leave for Fargo and Moorhead at 6:25, giving a half hour here for supper.

The train from Duluth in the evening will arrive at 6:20 p. m. and leave for Grand Forks at 6:30 p. m. At the present time it arrives at 6:50 and leaves for the west at 7 o'clock.

The changes in the schedule will be practically as follows:

No. 34 arrives 8:35 a. m. leaves at 8:45 a. m. (From Duluth for the west.)

No. 131 arrives 8:40 a. m. leaves 9 a. m. (From Fargo to St. Vincent.)

No. 33 arrives 6:20 p. m. and leaves at 6:30 p. m. (Evening train from Duluth to Grand Forks.)

No. 132 arrives at 5:55 p. m. and leaves at 6:25 p. m. (Train from St. Vincent to Fargo.)

Train to Warroad leaves Crookston at 9:10 a. m. and returning arrives in Crookston at 6:10 p. m. instead of 10 o'clock as at present.

FINE NEW SAW MILL IS READY

SHEVLIN-MATHIEU PLANT AT SPOONER WAS STARTED YESTERDAY

The Shevlin-Matieu Lumber Co., have completed one of the largest and best equipped sawmills in the northwest, on the site of the former mill, which was destroyed by fire last August at Spooner.

The machinery of the mill was tested yesterday and started for the season's run. Every piece of timber and machinery is strictly new. The concern will employ hundreds of men this season. Knute Nelson of Bemidji will be superintendent.

LAID TO REST IN MEMORIAL PARK

BODIES OF MRS. V. V. FREEMAN AND C. C. RICHARDSON BURIED

The funeral of Mrs. V. V. Freeman and C. C. Richardson whose bodies were brought to Grand Forks from Pierre, S. D., by Harry Freeman on Wednesday night, was held yesterday interment being made in Memorial park. Mrs. Freeman was one of the pioneer residents of Grand Forks having moved there with her husband from Abercrombie in the early days. The pall bearers yesterday included oldtimers who were her friends during her residence there, A. I. Hunter, George Aker, W. C. Nash, William Budge, Steve Collins and Don McDonald.

Under the Yoke

I cannot wear the old clothes
I wore last spring, alack!
Because my waistband now has crept
Quite half way up my back
And as for sleeves more dolorous
Than ever is my song—
Whereas they have been full and short,
Today they're small and long,
E'en one's anatomy is not Exempt from sudden change!
We take on flesh, or cast it off
In manner passing strange!
Dame Fashion says: "You must be fat,
Or svelte or quaintly lean;
More Botticelli-like and lo!
No other type is seen!"
Oh, Mother Eve why did not you
Withstand the serpent's wiles
Then we, your daughters, had not known
This curse of varying styles!

HALE CANDIDATE FOR GAME WARDEN

IS OUT FOR PLACE HELD BY WILLIAM SMITH OF GRAFTON, NORTH DAKOTA

Gov. John Burke of N. Dakota, has appointed the state game and fish board of control and the members are J. B. Eaton, Fargo, for a term of four years, Herman Winterer, Valley City, for a term of four years; Thomas Griffiths, well known tailor and sportsman, Grand Forks; J. L. Killion, Towner, and David Armstrong Willow City, all for a term of two years each.

The board will meet April 13, when it will appoint the two game wardens and all of the deputy wardens, and the fish commissioner, as is provided for in the new bill. While Capt. R. W. Main of Cando, is just now opposed to W. W. Barrett, former forestry commissioner, it is said that Main has a cinch on the appointment of fish commissioner, and all of his friends feel confident that he is entitled to the place, as it was largely thru his efforts in the recent session of the legislature that the new bill was enacted and the fish hatchery was established at Fish lake in Towner county.

A Bismarck dispatch says: There is some speculation as to who will be named as the two game wardens, tho it is said that Clarence Hale, of Grand Forks is seeking the place for the district against William Smith, of Grafton who expects to succeed himself. Who will oppose Olaf Bjorke, of Abercrombie, in his attempt to succeed himself for the appointment in the Second district is not stated.

Queen Alexandria wore her new diamond necklace, which has been cut from the Cullinan diamond, for the first time at the opening of the parliament. This necklace is the only one in the world that has been made of cuttings from a single diamond. This fact gives an idea of the great bulk of the Cullinan diamond, which has given enough cuttings for two necklaces and still reains one of the largest single stones in the world. The queen's necklace is one of rare beauty, all the stones matching in color and luster. More than half the cuttings are still unset, but all will find their way to Alexandria's jewel box. The queen in old age is as fond of precious stones as when she was a bride. She has 35 tiaras, and by the death of her mother, Queen of Denmark, came into possession of one of the finest collections of gems in Europe. Alexandria's complete collection is surpassed only by those of the czarina and the Queen of Spain. In the last few years Alexandria has bestowed rare pieces from her collection upon her daughters and the Princess of Wales. Still her store grows, however, as she constantly is receiving gifts of jewels from admiring and generous subjects.

TWO FINE BLOCKS ARE TO BE ERECTED

LOUIS FONTAINE ARRIVES AND MAKES DEFINITE ANNOUNCEMENT OF PLANS FOR IMPROVING PROPERTY—STORE TO BE BUILT NEXT TO C. O. D. BUILDING AND HOTEL ON PRESENT SITE OF UNION RESTAURANT

Louis Fontaine arrived in the city this morning from the twin cities and today made the definite announcement that work would begin in a short time on the erection of two substantial brick buildings, one just south of the C. O. D. clothing store on the vacant lot between that place and the Minneapolis Brewing Company's block for store purposes having a 25 foot frontage and one story in height

The other will be erected on the present site of the Union Restaurant on Second street adjacent to the G. Northern depot. This building will be for a hotel and restaurant and will have a frontage of 40 feet. The lots are 100 feet deep but the building will not be that deep, space enough being left for a driveway to reach the rear of the hotel and the New Store conveniently.

This structure will be three stories and strictly modern in every way. It will be connected with the building in which the grocery department of the New Store is located, and the front of that building on Main Street will be rebuilt to correspond with the improvements being made on the balance of the New Store front and the second story will be remodeled to be used as rooms in the hotel and the basement will also be completely remodelled.

Mr. Fontaine's faith in the future of Crookston is certainly conclusively shown in these investments.

Election Reform Just Begun

When the legislature of Minnesota assembled for its thirty-sixth session early in January of this year, it was quickly discovered that there existed among its members a marked discontent with the operation of the primary election law, a pronounced desire to secure its modification, a certain knowledge that upon no other proposition are the people of the state so determined as that there shall be progress in election reform, not retrogression, and a vast uncertainty as to what it is best to do.

The primary election laws of most Western states are in the main much alike; they succeed, in that they give to the people a larger and surer voice in the choice of their representatives and in that they have encouraged independence in political thought; they are at fault, in that they largely defeat the legitimate purposes of party government and in that they cause the expenditure of vast sums in elections. The faults of the primary election law have been observed from its first operation but the means of remedying them have not yet been suggested. Not knowing how to better the law, we have borne with its shortcomings for the sake of its greater blessings.

The proposal for primary legislation now before the legislature of New York state and advocated by Governor Hughes is a very different experiment in primary reform from that of our own in Minnesota and that in force in most other states of the Middle West. The New York plan provides for a combination of the convention and primary systems of nominating public officials. All nominations are to be made by party committees chosen by the people. These nominations must be ratified by a primary such as we know in the West. If the nominations are not satisfactory, others may be provided for by petition. The plan, it is expected, will work a remedy for the weaknesses of the law as we have found them in the West. While independence of political thought is encouraged, party lines for party purposes are preserved inviolate. While the choice of the candidate rests with the people, the lavish use of money to influence choice is largely prevented. At least it is hoped that such will be the effects of the law. The passage of the bill is somewhat doubtful, but the country at large will be greatly benefited if it has the opportunity to study the operation of such a measure in actual use.

The cry for the repeal of the primary law in Minnesota comes from those who see its weaknesses as well as from the politician who prefers the old system of conventions. It is certain, however, that we shall never go back to the old system. Election reform has come to stay; in fact it has but just begun, and the present laws in Minnesota and other Western states are certain to be extended and modified so as to give the people still larger powers in the selection of their representatives without the evils which are now so manifest in the law. There is a strong demand for the extension of the primary election law to state officials in this state; if it were not for the admitted defects of the present law, such extension would now be accomplished. Many who thoroly believe in the primary principle, hesitate to extend it further until it has been perfected.—Duluth Herald.

How It Happened

Nothing happens on this mundane sphere. There is always a cause for an effect. Just now there is much commotion among a vast number of women in the United States. The cause is the proposed increase in the tariff on gloves, to be raised by the Payne bill.

Let us go a little farther and discover the cause of this proposed raise When the Dingely tariff bill was being formulated, the tariff on men's gloves was reasonable. At this time Lucius Littauer was elected a member of congress from New York. He was one of two heirs of his father, who had become very wealthy making gloves, and with his brother had succeeded to the business. He was too one of those men who are very genial and had a way of ingratiating himself with those with whom he came in contact. He was everybody's friend, 'everybody" in this instance being congressmen. He gave sumptuous dinners to his fellow members, voted for their bills, lent them money and did whatever he could to make them believe he was the best fellow going. Dingley was one who fell under his charm, and at his request put a tax on men's gloves. The result was a monopoly, and a multitude of dollars came his way.

But he wasn't satisfied with this. He wanted the same monopoly in women's gloves and he asked Mr. Payne to incorporate a schedule in his tariff bill raising the rate of that commodity. When the bill was being considered before it was presented to congress, some one asked Mr. Payne why the rate should be raised. Mr. Payne replied, "Mr. Littauer has told us that the importations are greater now than when the duty was put on. I have not looked into it myself."

And there you have it. One man a manufacturer of gloves and a good fellow asked that every woman who wears gloves should pay a higher tax on them. And this tax is not for the benefit of the United States treasury but for the monopoly of which Mr. Littauer is the head. No one else asked it, and probably no one else thought of it. Chairman Payne could give no other reason for the increase than the request of this one man. But that was enough. He got it.

The Winona Republican says there should be patriotism enough to make the payment of the increase in the price of gloves a pleasure to buyers because it stimulates an infant industry. It's a mighty strong, healthy industry, whose owners are rolling in wealth. If one of the proprietors of that paper votes for this increase and also the increase in the duty on stockings he should be defeated at the next election. Watch his vote. —Rochester Post and Record.

Woman, as a rule, is considered to have no sense of humor. In fact, her lack of appreciation of a joke is a standard jest among the men folk. The real truth of the matter is that men don't want women to have a sense of humor. They are afraid of the woman who is very quick to see a joke. They feel that as she is so quick to see the ridiculous side of things, she will be equally quick to see the ridiculous side of them, and that no man can stand.

It is said that it costs 25 cents per ton per mile for hauling from the farm to market in this country as against 7 cents in France and Germany. This is the difference in the roads.

Views Differ

Will some Solomon arise and tell us what the tariff law that will succeed the Dingley act is to be like? The contest is now going on at Washington over the various schedules of the Payne bill tends to give every one a pain. All the congressmen Republicans and Democrats, are said to favor tariff revision downward, but do they? The northwestern members, Democrats as well as Republicans oppose the reduction of the present duty on barley, but want the lumber duties still further reduced. In southeastern Missouri they want the duty on zinc raised, but favor lower duties on the products of eastern factories. Southern free traders and advocates of a tariff for revenue only ask for high duties on cotton, rice and sugar. Maine is against the reduction on lumber, tho the northwest generally favors it; and so it goes. Other bones of contention are tea, coffee, hides, iron, steel, citrus fruits wool and its products, cotton goods, etc. When you get them down to tacks, you find that every congressman, whatever his politics, is at heart a protectionist. Some are more selfish than others, as they want protection for only those industries upon which their constituents depend or in which they are financially interested. Those who are protectionists strictly on principle and believe in the national application of the protective policy for which the dominant party has always stood, refusing to play favorites are not so numerous as they should be. We believe the Payne bill all things considered, was a very fair measure as it was reported to the house, but of course it was not perfect. While some of the amendments already tacked on to it are good ones we are of the opinion that the original bill was a better one, taken as a whole, than the one that the house will finally pass and send over to the senate.—Warren Register.

The Spoilsman's Hard Conditions

The spoilsman is hard beset. He finds himself called upon to defend his coveted privilegees on all sides. President Roosevelt's veto of the census bill, in which congressmen were allowed to name the enumerators, was a hard blow, and President Taft's demand that the spoils system be eliminated from the bill means that the spoilsman has lost more ground never to be regained, says the Duluth Herald.

Congressmen naturally cling to the privilege of naming the census enumerators. It enables them to make their seats in congress more secure by increasing the number of those to whom they can grant favors. Naturally the congressman names for census enumerators the men who can be most useful to him in his next campaign for votes. Quite naturally too, such men are often not at all qualified to make the best enumeration. Hence the unreliability of the census; hence the inevitable loss to business interests.

The late Carroll D. Wright, thoroly conversant with every phase of the census system, asserted not long before his death that a year's time and $2,000,000 in money would have been saved to the government if the provisions objected to by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft had not been included in the last census bill. How much the country lost by reason of them nobody knows.

The house has bowed to the inevitable and has passed a census bill providing for competitive examinations for all clerks and employes of the next census. These examinations will be similar to those now given by the different departments under the civil service rules, and the result will be a census taken by those who are most competent to do the work and by those who are under no obligation to anyone for their positions. The census will cost less money, its results will be the sooner known, and it will be the most accurate census ever taken in this country.

The moral effect of the fight for a civil service census will doubtless be very great and will have great weight in the campaign to put the spoilsman clean out of business.

"And while we are reforming the world, let us begin on the perfume bottles, and carry them to the public square and smash them. Judging from the amount of perfume some women use, the family perfume bill must be as big as the family beer bill. When the perfume soak passes on the street, the effect is not bad, but when she enters a room and fills it with a scent of perfume and usually of an inferior grade, the effect is sickening. Since few have the judgment to use just enough perfume, why use it at all?" growls the Devils Lake Journal editor.

Don't care much for perfumes thank you, but the very, very choicest kind, just a faint delicate scent of violets, but there are worse things than perfumes to worry and the man who kicks so hard about this little vanity of womankind maybe has just had his stomach upset by an overdose of something that makes a man's breath smell worse than any overdose of patchoulie or musk ever spilled. This reminds us of a perfume story A well known druggist had a colored servant whose faithfulness made him wish to give her something pleasing for Christmas. Knowing the darkey's fondness for heavy perfumes, he brought an ounce or two of musk as an offering. A few days after while she was waiting on the table he had occasion to remark, 'Martha, you must have spilled that musk bottle this morning." "O, no, that's just my natcherel smell," was the answer.

The most deceitful thing about a girl is how she can convince you she isn't when you know she is.

Even when a man can build a house that is livable there will be malaria or something around.

When a woman has curly hair of her own she can't appear any more honest about it than she could if it weren't.

The more times a man can kiss a girl when he oughtn't to the less she can count them when her mother asks her about it.

Badger Herald-Rustler: Children have as much rightt to be well trained as to be well born. Yet with many parents the idea of such training is limited to a year or two of schooling while their moral welfare is not regarded in the least. To allow children full license to run the streets at all hours and form all kinds of associations is one of the surest ways of ruining them.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

FOR AN OPERATION—Dr. H. W. Smith was called to Thief River Falls this morning where he will perform an operation of a critical nature.

CIVIL CASES ON—Judge Gossman took advantage of the holiday to try three civil cases in the Municipal court and was busy with Clerk N. B. Moran practically the entire day taking the evidence.

He has Frank Bladstrom as manager of his farm, an experienced man, but Mr. Wise wants to see personally that the work is done in the best possible manner.

POTATOES FOR THE MARKET—R. E. Smith a well known farmer south of the city has just shipped a carload of potatoes thru J. W. Lee to Larimore N. D., at very good figures. The section of country about Crookston is getting to be noted as a potato growing section and good money has been made in that line during the past several years.

WILL SEED FLAX— C. A. Hitchcock left yesterday for Plummer near where he has a farm, and will make preparations to have the entire farm seeded to flax this year. The land there is specially adapted to the culture of flax and Mr. Hitchcock will receive big returns with even a fairly favorable season.

VISITED EUCLID—James and Arnold Balfour of this city spent yesterday at Euclid where they visited their brother Robert the well known elevator man for the day, returning last evening. They state that the farmers about Euclid are all repared to start seeding in a few days.

BUYS SPIRITED HORSE— E. W. Savage the representative of the American Sunday School Union has just returned from Ada where he purchased a spirited horse and a new buggy, or practically new. He has the new outfit at Bjoin and Carlson's bern and today took a number of his friends for a short spin. The white nag can certainly go along some and will be a great aid to Mr. Savage in his work in the rural districts. Mr. Savage has been spending some time in Norman county where he has organized several new schools. It is probable that he will organize another one near Lockhart in the near future.

TROLLEY WILL BE EXTENDED—At a meeting of the Grand Forks street railway directors it was decided to order construction material and equipment for a three mile extension of the railway system. It is expected that the material will arrive next month, and by June 1 at the latest work will be under way on the line. It is planned to have this portion of the line completed so as to handle the state fair traffic. Three new cars will be secured, and additional material and equipment will be ordered later. The committee authorized to secure material and equipment includes Engineer Burch of Minneapolis, James Dinnie of Grand Forks and W. J. Murphy of Minneapolis.

BIG MANUFACTURER HERE — S. W. Raudenbush at the head of the S. W. Raudenbush Piano Co., of St. Paul, spent Wednesday in the city conferring with Prof. Rydning who will open a music store in Crookston in a few days in the large store rooms at the rear of the First National Bank block formerly occupied by the S. W. Wheeler Land Co., and adjoining the Western Union Telegraph office. Mr. Raudenbush left yesterday morning for Bemidji and International Falls having important business to attend to in the northern part of the state.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

BOUGHT FINE TEAM—P. J. Carey yesterday sold a fine span of two year old Hambletonian geldings to Banker Cronquist of Erskine and the team was shipped there last evening in charge of Mr. Cronquist's son.

SOME MONSTER SIGNS— E. B. Hanson, the well known traveling man who sells "Big Four" and "Five Bros." tobacco is placing some monster signs in the city today among his customers. The big policeman causes a look of awe among the younger generation.

OPENS BARBER SHOP—Geo. W. Darkow one of the old time and popular barbers of the city has leased the building located just north of the Germania Hotel and has opened tonsorial parlors where in the future he will greet his friends. George has a host of them and should have a good trade from the start. All will wish him every success in business for himself.

"DAD" PALMER AT GRAND RAPIDS—"Dad" Palmer who was formerly employed on the Independent, but who has been in Minneapolis for the past couple of years came up the first of the week and is emloyed at the Herald Review at Grand Rapids. Dad is as handsome and young looking as ever, they say. He is one of the pioneers of Crookston where he worked an all the local papers, and is one of the veterans in the business.

BIG LAND AUCTION—Sixty thousand acres of government land will be disposed of at Roseau on Thursday, May 10th. A payment of 15 per cent of the purchase price will be demanded at the time of sale, while the balance can be carried for 40 years at 4 per cent interest. State Auditor Iverson will send all applicants an illustrated book on Minnesota lands free for the asking.

CONSULTING SPECIALIST — Attorney R. H. Medicraft of Roseau arrived last evening and is spending a few days here consulting Dr. G. A Morley regarding a serious affection of one of his eyes caused by the stoppage of one of the tear ducts. The eye will not be permanently affected and Editor Medicraft will return to Roseau Monday morning.

BURIED THIS AFTERNOON—The funeral services over the remains of little Miss Schulz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Schulz who reside on the Hazeltine farm was held today. Deceased was the victim of appendicitis, her death following an operation. The family formerly resided at Thief River Falls and have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their sad bereavement. Rev. T. T. Ove officiated at the services.

ARE PLEASED WITH SCHOOL—Fred Piquette and Albert O. Malm returned from the Crookston Agricultural college last week having completed the winter term. They were met at the depot and driven out to their homes. The boys enjoyed their course at the school very much and say that they profited much for the time spent. The commencement exercises took place on Friday last and a class of eight graduated. The young men speak very highly of the school. —Argyle Banner.

FANS ARE GETTING FUSSY — Albin Mattson of Warren who is a base ball enthusiast and has delivered the goods from the center of the diamond in many a well contested game. In speaking of the prospects of getting up a team in Warren this season Mr. Mattson said they were somewhat up against it for lack of material, and they did not feel that they could afford to support a team, altho they would like to get into the game with the rest of the towns on the line when the time comes to play ball. Hallock, Kennedy Stephen and Argyle are all waiting for developments and can produce the goods at any time.

APING ROOSEVELT —Arthur H. Kirsch the popular clerk at the post office here and also the accomplished musician who jams wind in the baritone horn when the Crookston Band bows to the public left this morning for Bemidji, where Johnnie Boh and other confederates claimed he went on a lion hunt, following the example of ex-President Roosevelt. Arthur so it is alleged will try his luck in jungles closer at hand but will go to Africa sure if he is not successful in this section in his search for big game.

At a recent institute for farmers held at Morris, Stevens County, Mr. Nelson, in talking on the dairy industry ,stated as a fact that the increase in population was ahead of the increase in dairy cows, and from that premise drew the conclusion that the products of the dairy would always be in demand at remunerative prices.

The man who decided honesty was the best policy avoided passing on it as a principle.

SHERRIF IS VERY BUSY

SHERIFF DANIELS AND DEPUTY SULLIVAN PUT IN OVER TIME

SULLIVAN LEFT THIS MORNING FOR BEMIDJI COUNTRY ON STILL HUNT

From Thursday's Daily—

Sheriff Daniels and Deputy Sullivan are working over time these days. Sheriff Daniels spent last evening at Climax and returning this morning proceeded to Fosston where he was called on other official business.

Deputy Sullivan spent the night at East Grand Forks brought over two prisoners for the county jail, turned them over to Jailor Thomas Casey and jumped on the same train for Bemidji from where he will make a trip up the M. & I. on a still hunt for a much wanted man.

WASH FROCKS

Styles and Materials Popular for Summer Wear

It has been somewhat of a puzzle, as the season for wash dresses has drawn near, as to how these were to be conformed to the princess outlines and high waists of the time. Scant dress skirts and maillot underwear could scarcely continue with fabrics so sheer and limp as wash materials necessarily are, and full starched petticoats clearly were out of the question. The problem has been solved fairly well by the princess petticoat and corset-cover combined. These are to be very generally worn in white and in color, and the adoption of them opens the way for the wearing of princess gowns in a variety of lovelier cotton stuffs than have been seen in many years, says Harper's Bazar.

These run all the way from chiffon cottons which are as sheer and almost as soft as the silk weave, tho they cost but a trifle a yard, to silk and cotton printed chiffons at a dollar and a quarter; from sheer, dotted swisses (having printed and not tufted dots this year) to cotton Directoire cloths that promise to take the place of duck and pique and even of linen. Merchants give these materials any name their ingenuity suggests, but they may be generally described and called for under the name of Directoire cloths. Some have a fine almost perceptible poplin weave.

These and the plain and striped galateas come in all fashionable greens olives, blues, smoke and taupe shades and take cotton soutache trimmings beautifully. They will be made up in coat suits of plain and combined materials. It is possible, for example, to make a high princess skirt or jumper of plain material and a coat of the striped goods, which, ingeniously cut and put on, may form the self-trimming. In other words they make up successfully in forms for which linen is suitable. These cost between 18 cents and 25 cents a yard and vary in width from 27 to 32 inches.

For dancing and commencement frocks and for dainty muslin dinner or lawn party gowns there are numbers of gauzy cotton of much beauty of color and texture. Most of these have striped patterns, which is not surprising in a season that promises to continue to run to long lines on most of the muslins and organdies are thin and shadowy. All the printing is delicate and such floral designs as appear on the thinner stuffs are all small and subdued in color. The floral organdies, for example, are powdered with tiny Dresden figures, over hair lines of black or gray or other tone. Often that tone is too pale to be at once identified.

Some of the English cotton gauzes have pale Paisley stripes two inches wide, which are lovely in a tucked mass. German gauzes generally show quarter-inch lines of pale solid color, while those from the French markets run to plain widths of material and beautiful borders. The effort apparently is to refine all weaves to a gauze thinness and a chiffon softness Even gingham is now almost transparent and sold under the name of cotton tissue. Some of these tissues in plaids and in checks, are now made up over silk slips in both princess and belted Empire forms.

One of the daintiest of the new organdies is shown with pin-point dots in color or in black. There is a selvage border to most of these dotted organdies which is formed of a group of six or eight kuarter-inch colored stripes alternating with white ones of the same width. The group is sometimes dotted with Dresden figures done in the warp and not printed, as is usual with printed goods.

The Muckrakers' Conspiracy

The first returns are in from the new muckraking campaign planned recently in Washington by a coterie of magazine managers and others. H. Gilson Gardner a Washington correspondent, who attended the meeting where the campaign was planned, is first on the ground with a long dispatch in which he celebrates the theme, "the Taft administration is reactionary."

The new president has been in his seat barely a month. He has had opportunity to make a few appointments outside of his cabinet. He summoned congress in an extraordinary session that began little more than a fortnight ago. He has had no chance to pass on legislation, and has sent but one message to congress. His inaugural address is scarcely cold yet. Nevertheless, uprises H. Gilson Gardner and denounces Mr. Taft as a traitor, an ingrate and a reactionary.

Now will follow the chorus from the muckazines, as they industriously pursue their rakish way. It will be interesting reading. It will be touched off with the familiar fireworks that are supposed to get the public going. But the public is rather blase in the matter of muckraking. By much observation, the public has learned to be discriminating. It will refuse to condemn Mr. Taft out of hand because he has resolved to be president himself, and not a mere echo of Mr. Roosevelt.

There were some aspects of the Roosevelt way of doing things, well enough known in Washington, that were never given to the public. It is perhaps a good thing that we have a president who appreciates and values the dignity of his office and means to preserve it. It is perhaps just as well that he has not yet, in order to convince the public that he mans to carry out the essential "Roosevelt policies," found it necessary to let out a series of wild whoops and cowboy yells.

Meanwhile, the public has not decried any reason for doubting the honesty or the loyalty or the intelligence of William H. Taft. It will judge him by his deeds, and not by the din and the epithets devised by Mr. H. Gilson Gardner and his merry-andrew crew.—Minneapolis Journal.

Financial Situation

It is probable that the money market will pursue an even course during the next few months. There are no indications ahead of any extraordinary demands upon it. Both the collateral loan market and foreign exchange have adjusted themselves now to the immediate effects of the quarterly disbursements. As soon as the dividends become fully distributed the effect upon the market will become more apparent by still easier conditions.

Notwithstandnig the increased business on the Stock Exchange there has been no change in the demand for time accommodations. The supply of call money is abundant enough to meet all present requirements from that source. The conviction that easy money will prevail thruout the summer months and that after that there will be a hardening of rates is expressed by the fact that whatever demand there is is for seven months and over the year money for which 3 and 3½ per cent is bid but which is being steadily held by the banks at slightly higher rates.

The foreign exchanges, both here and on the continent of Europe, declined no further on Thursday, principally because the reduction of the Bank of England rate had been largely discounted and very much speculated upon. The exchange market will probably now follow a natural and less precipitate course, reflecting in a normal manner the influences which the universal money markets will bear upon it. A further reduction in the bank rate will bring it down to the irreducible minimum of 2 per cent. The present rate testifies to the world wide plethora of money.

The recent engagement of $1,000,000 gold for shipment to the Argentine and the withdrawal of $500,000 from the Bank of England on Thursday for the same purpose indicates that the needs of that country are not yet satisfied and that the movement may be continued from here. It is generally believed, however, that not much more will be sent out from here. The total shipments from here this year have been $17,150,000.—Wall Street Journal.

Brainerd Dispatch: While the question of good politics is questioned by some of Governor Johnson's supporters in his appointment of Charles F. Vasaly of Little Falls to the state board of control, there are none who question his good judgment in selecting a man fully capable of filling the position. The term is for six years, and the salary is $3,500 per year Mr. Vasaly's newspaper friends in all parts of the state irrespective of politics will extend their congratulations.

Attack On Dairy Interests?

The legislature of Minnesota has need to look closely into the possible effects of a bill regulating the shipment of cream and milk on railroads If the bill, now pending, is as evil as it is feared it will work the greatest hardship upon one of the most important of the state's industries.

The bill provides that all shipments cream and milk must be made in refrigerator cars unless it has been pasteurized. It is claimed that the effect of such a law would be to cut out the small farmer and dairy man from shipping milk. If such would be the result, the great dairy interests of Minnesota would be paralyzed and, what is just as bad the development of Northern Minnesota would be seriously hampered. Agricultural development in Northeastern Minnesota would practically come to a standstill. In St. Louis county dairying is made the principal means. Near Hibbing several thousand acres have been purchased by Iowa parties a colony of farmers has been brought in, and several dairy farms have been begun. Agriculture in such sections must begin with dairying, for dairying will yield the quickest results and will give the farmer support while he is developing his farm. Anything which strikes at independent dairying strikes, therefore, not only at one of the state's greatest industries, but in a peculiar measure at the very growth of the state in those sections where growth is most needed and where it is now making its beginnings.

It is claimed that the aim of the bill is to create a creamery trust in Minnesota. If this is actually the purpose of the bill, it will not get far toward becoming a law now that the light of publicity has been thrown upon it.—Duluth Herald.

Lawmakers Let Railroads Alone

The state legislatures of the past winter have let the railroads pretty well alone, and the result is that the magnates are feeling pretty free to make calculations for the future.

The fight between the Hill and Harriman forces is becoming more intense as time passes, each one cutting into the other's territory, or laying plans for so doing.

These two features are causing the near future in railroad building to look extremely rosy.

It is said that two surveying parties are to leave the main line of the Northern Pacific at different points in the west and invade Harriman territory, and probably be near enough to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul tracks to hear the whistles of its engines, or possibly cross it into territory south of the recently constructed transcontinental line.

One of the parties of surveyors will probably be sent out by the Northern Pacific to Bismarck, S. D., where the Burlington may be reached for traffic on the Hill lines, and still further south into Denver, where connections may be made with the Gulf, Colorado & Southern for the gulf coast.

The Great Northern will also be very effective, it is said, especially in perfecting its terminals at the head of the lakes, although the bulk of the fight against the Harriman interests will fall upon the shoulders of the Northern Pacific, as indicated by the expected activity of the surveyors in running new line sto the south and tapping territory now claimed by the Harriman roads.

This has been brought about by the paralleling of the Hill lines through the Rocky mountains by the Harriman roads, under the very eyes of the passing passenger trains of the Northern Pacific.

The contracting and labor interests of the northwest have heard of these things an dare laying their plans accordingly. They are elated over the prospects of a lively year in railroad building.

The roads rest a large part of their case on the results of the tariff. Steel rails and ties may be put on the free list, or the tariff materially reduced, all of which means much to the purchasing department of the railroads. When the session has adjourned at Washington there will be a freer movement in local railroad headquarters.

Better To Vote Than To Pray

"It is more important to vote than to pray, more important to attend the party caucus than to go to prayer meeting." So says Bishop Joseph F. Berry of the Methodist church.

Bishop Berry hits squarely at the cause of all our complaint with regard to politics. We score our congressman, but thousands of us fail to vote either for or against him. Southern Minnesota charges the legislator who votes against the tonnage tax with being bought by the steel trust and Northern Minnesota assails the selfishness of the senator who voted down reapportionment, yet a full 100,000 of us, north and south, failed to go to the polls, last November. There is never an election comes around, wherein is a contest, that the contestees do not have to beg the voter to exercise his franchise. The newspapers day after day appeal to the voter to remember registration day. The candidate hires carriages and transports the voter to the polls and back to his home or his work. And yet with all this effort, fully one-fourth or more of us do not vote.

Possibly the good Bishop does not wish to be understood too literally in his declaration that it is more important to vote than to pray. Faith without works is dead but works alone without faith would not be worth much, and if all the world went to vote and forgot to pray we should be worse off than we are now. But the Bishop's appeal to vote strikes home to those who most need to be reminded of this sin of omission. It is not the bum, the ward heeler, the loafer or any other undesirable citizen who neglects to vote. Not at all. Your undesirable citizen votes early and as often as possible. But the better class of citizenship is too busy to attend to the matter of voting oftener than now and then. One has married a wife and cannot come. Another has bought him a business and must stay to set it in order. Others are "very busy" but graciously consent to go and vote when importuned by the candidate "if I can possibly find the time" on election day. On election day it is certainly more important that this class of citizens should go to the polling place than to the prayer meeting.

The failure of reforms, the slowness by which we bring about those which by common consent we all regard as highly desirable in political life and in the maintenance and operation of the government, is due not to the power of the politician nor to the superior strength of special interests, nor is it because there are more who wish for evil than for good, but solely because those who want good things accomplished will not go to the polls on election day and vote for they want. Imagine if you can what would be the result if the people were alive to every issue to the extent that every one of them voted at every election. Ninety per cent of the abuses of politics of which we complain would be wiped out in a single year.

There is food for thought in Bishop Berry's rather startling declaration. —Duluth Herald.

Lies Due To Laziness

The old-fashioned mother who believed that lying was an inveltion of Satan and sought to banish it from her offspring by use of the slipper or the rod will probably have scant patience with the contention of the president of Brown university that th great source of untruth in American life is not the deliberate resolve to lie but "intellectual slovenliness, unwillingness to buckle down to hard work and willingness to take shelter in the first and easiest refuge that offers."

Possibly the college president is right, with the certain kinds of lies he had under consideration but his explanation can not fit the entire repertoire of prevarication. It is probably true that no man consciously chooses falsehood as his mode of success, altho this is apparently controverted by the fact that every community has one or more persons to whom the label, "Professional Liar," is affixed by almost unanimous consent. Still, laziness can hardly be assigned as the cause of the ladylike white lie that masquerades as "Not at home" or the bore-bumper lie with which the office boy informs the unwelcome caller that his employer is out to lunch or will be engaged at a directors' meeting for the rest of the day.

It would be rank injustice, too, to change laziness with being responsible for political lies. This form of lying, which has been reduced almost to an exact science, may spring from selfishness but it bears no earmarks of "intellectual slovenliness." Nor is the malicious lie an offspring of laziness. It is bred of jealousy or hate or revenge or some other pernicious motive and, invariably violates all union rules against working overtime. So, despite the dictum of the learned college professor, we do not believe that the lie born of laziness is a very serious menace to American social life. A lazy lie is about as negative a proposition as a lazy person.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Spoiled His Taste.

"A friend of mine," said a Montana man, "is defending a damage suit for being a party to making a man take the liquor cure without his consent. This man had been on a protracted spree of several weeks, and his business was going to the dogs. My friend thought it would be a kindly thing to send him to a sanitarium for treatment. He did so, and the man was given the cure for the whisky habit. When he was discharged from the sanitarium the first thing he did was to go to a saloon. He called for whisky. He tasted it, but did not fancy the flavor of it. He set his distaste of it down to the cure he had been given by my friend's orders and immediately began suit for $50,000 damages. He says in his complaint that he had a highly cultivated and discriminating taste for whisky, which had taken years to develop, and that was spoiled by the cure. Rings as a Protection.

"I used to be surprised," said a clerk in a high class jewelry establishment, "when a woman whom I knew was unmarried would come in and coolly select a handsome solitaire diamond ring, the sort usually sold for an engagement ring, and then, quite as a matter of course, buy a plain gold band of the wedding ring variety. I couldn't understand it at first, but now I've learned that many unmarried women think two such rings, worn when traveling, for instance, serve about the same purpose as a chaperon. I had a case the other day where a mother came in with her unmarried daughter —a pretty girl hardly out of her teens —and bought two such rings. From their conversation I learned that the girl was to take the trip to the Pacific coast unaccompanied, and the mother evidently thought if her daughter was protected by her rings she'd not be so apt to be criticised for being alone. The Chair of Torture.

The most prominent building in the ancient city of Nuremburg is the castle. One of its two towers was used for torture, the other served as a prison. The castle also contained a museum of horrors until it was purchased by the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, in whose possession these relics now lie. One of these was the chair of torture. It was very heavily made and studded over the seat and at the elbows with blunt topped spikes. To it the victim was tightly bound, and in a short time discomfort began to manifest itself and in time became unbearable. During its continuance the torture was increased in several ways by means of wedges being passed between the legs and screws being applied to the thumbs until they began to bleed.

FARGO NEGROES IN SHOOTING AFFRAY

Fargo, N. D., April 13 — Charles Clark's restaurant on Front street was the scene last evening of a sensational shooting affray as a result of which Charles Clark, a negro, the proprietor of the restaurant is dead and Ed. Simpson another negro, is being held for murder.

About 8:30 o'clock in the evening Simpson walked into Clark's restaurant and ordered a meal which he ate and then refused to settle the bill. A row followed between Clark and Simpson and the latter was finally kicked out of the place. He immediately went over to a nearby gun shop and purchased a revolver and a box of cartridges. Loading his revolver he made his way back to the restaurant, he walked in and without preliminaries emptied the full change of the gun into Clark's body, killing him instantly. Every bullet took effect as the murderer was at close range and almost any one of them would have been fatal. Simpson threw the revolver down and turning started to run.

Met Him Coming Out

In the meantime the police had been informed of the row which had taken place and arrived in time to meet Simpson coming out of the place He was immediately placed in jail. Clark's restaurant is of the joint order tho the proprietor was not considered a bad negro. Simpson was just released from the county jail a few hours previous to the shooting, where he was being held as witness against Dean another negro who recently broke jail.

Simpson, like most men of low intellect does not seem to realize the terrible nature of his act. On being placed in jail he immediately went to sleep and on waking up early this morning asked his jailor, "Well is that other black man dead?" He showed little concern on being told that Clark was dead.

FAMRERS' ANTI-AUTO SOCIETY

RULES OF THE ROAD

The following is the new code agreed upon by the Farers' Anti-Auto Protective Society, which has just held its annual convention in the different States in the Union.

1. On discovering an approaching team, the automobolist must stop offside and cover his machine with a tarpaulin painted to correspond with the scenery.

2. The speed limit on country roads this year will be secret, and the penalty for violationwill be $10 for every mile an offender is caught going in ecess of it.

3. In case an automobile makes a team run away, the penalty will be $50 for the first mile, $100 for the second mile, $200 for the third mile, etc., that the team runs; inaddition to the usual damages.

4. On appreaching a corner where he cannot command a view of the road ahead, the automobilist must stop not less than 100 yards from the turn, toot his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver, haloo, and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

5. Automobilists must again be seasonably painted—that is, so they will merge with the pastoral ensemble, and not be startling. They must be green in spring, golden in summer red in autumn, and white in winter.

6. Automobiles running on the country roads at night must send up a red rocket every mile, and wait ten minutes for the road to clear. They may then proceed carefully, blowing their horns adn shooting Roman candles.

7. All members of the Society will give up Sunday to chasing automobiles shooting and shouting at them, making arrests, and otherwise discouraging country touring on that day.

8. In case a horse will not pass an automobile, notwithstanding the scenic tarpaulin, the automobilist will take the machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass.

9. In case an automobile approaches a farmer's house when the roads are dusty, it will slow down to one mile an hour, and the chauffeur will lay the dust in front of the house with a hand sprinkler worked over the dashboard.

A Genuine Russian Peasantry

The communal system of land holding by the Russian peasantry is at an end. We have frequently said that Russia and the Russians could never come into their own until the peasant class was placed upon the land as individual holders, each responsible for his own industrial salvation, says the Duluth News-Tribune.

Under the communal system the land has been most largely held and cultivated in common. The holders of a tract have been grouped in a village. Frequently parts of their holdings have been at some distance from this living place, causing delay, inconvenience and individual discrimination.

Each of these groups was responsible as a whole for the cultivation of the soil for all taxes and penalties. The distribution was made by families, according to the number of male members, and at intervals new allotments were made.

The by-laws and restrictions were very burdensome placing a premium on sloth. The industrious, competent and ambitious were made responsible for the lazy, indifferent and all in all public demands, which have been almost ruinous.

These lands are now all to be allotted individually, and the holders can buy such added acres as are available from the crown lands, this exchange being financed by the government. It is the most momentous change that has come in Russia since the liberation of the serfs.

Nor shall we share the forebodings of a writer in the North American Review, that in completing this transformation thousands will sell their holdings, succumb to drink, laziness, improvidence and waste and turned adrift, be added to the army of the destitute. Nor that tens of millions will be directly cut off from the soil by this measure and be forced to eke out their existence in untried ways and activities that bode no good to the social and political fabric."

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL—E. W. Savage returned this morning from Lockhart seven miles west of which place he organized a very promising Sunday school with a good membership, which starts out under most favorable ouspices.

BACK TO DONALDSON— Elmer Ellington returned to Donaldson this morning after spending Sunday here. He says the farmers near Donaldson are all ready for seeding and just as soon as the weather warms up a little they will all get out on the fields.

COVERING THE EAST LINE—The S. S. Convention will be advertised on the east line this week. Rev. C. C. Warner visits McIntosh, Fosston, Ebro and Bagley on Wednesday and Thursday for this purpose. He will fill evening engagements at Fosston and Bagley.

BACK TO HIBBING—Otto Salmon a former well known resident of Crookston who has been located in Hibbing for some time past returned there this morning after visiting with friends here for a few days. He is very much pleased with the Iron Range Country.

LIVE BUNCH AT HAROLD—The Harold S. S. Circle is composed of a live bunch. They held a basket social at the station Thursday evening last and took in $22.00. At that rate they will soon be able to pay for the organ which costs $15.00! Rev. C. C. Warner preached an Easter sermon there yesterday.

ENJOYED HIS TRIP—City Treasurer Virgil McGregor returned yesterday morning from a several days' visit in St. Paul and Minneapolis where he had some business matters to attend to. He visited the legislature and watched the law-making wheels turn. He states the weather there was not overly pleasant. He returned by way of Fargo where he saw Loren Wilde who is employed on the Fargo Forum in the capacity of city editor and who is doing well.

ST. HILAIRE BANKER BACK — L. O. Hansen the well known banker of St. Hilaire passed thru the city this morning enroute home after a several days business trip to St. Paul. Mr. Hansen says the legislators are all hustling to get the business wound up before the close of the session. He states the weather there has been chilly and damp the same as here for the past few days. He states however that the business interests of the cities are looking toward northern Minnesota with more confidence than ever.

HAVE FINE DAUGHTER—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. R. Finlayson of Euclid are the parents of a fine baby daughter which arrived at their home last Saturday evening. The mother and little babe are both doing well and the proud father is frantically scanning every automobile catalog he can get his hands on and says nothing but an upto-date touring car will do for that young lady. He will add several to his livery at Euclid and that place promises to become a regular mecca for automobiles. Mrs. Agnes Finlayson of this city mother of W. R. J. is being congratulated as "grandma" from all sides.

The remains of Mrs. S. S. Kolden arrived from Middle River Saturday evening and the funeral will be held tomorrow Tuesday, afternoon at 2:30 from the Synod church.

Rev. Ordahl will preach the sermon in the Scandinavian language and Rev. Adolph Salveson will preach a sermon in English. The death of Mrs. Kolden has caused the deepest Rev. Kolden has caused the deepest sorrow here as well as at Middle River. She has visited here very often and at one time resided here and has many relatives in this city, the Tvetens being cousins. Deceased was a sister of Mrs. Andrew Eiken, formerly of this city and now of St. Paul, Mrs. A. O. Daniels, mother of Sheriff Orin Daniels, O. C. Bergland of Clay Co., T. O. Bergland of Ruby, Wash., and the late Mrs. H. B. Tveten.

Despite the fact that yesterday was a cloudy, drizzly, snowy Easter as far as the weather man was concerned the services in Crookston churches made the people forget all about the weather conditions. Splendid programs were carried out in practically every church in the city, the special music being a most enjoyable feature.

READY FOR BUSINESS—The W. N. Buell confectionery and cigar store adjoining the Columbiaa Hotel is now open and "Brady" the old rail" is behind the counter. Mr. Buell runs the pop corn and peanut wagon here and during inclement weather the wagon will be kept in the store where fresh popcorn and peanuts will be made a specialty.

TO ATTEND PRESBYTERY—Dr. E. H. Marcum of Bemidji was a visitor in the city this morning between trains, taking the late train for Warroad having just time enough to run up for a call on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Marcum and get a little of "Ma's" cooking. He was enroute to Warroad to attend a meeting of the Adams Presbytery, joining Rev. Ward of this city at Roseau, he having gone up there yesterday. Rev. White of Bemidji stopped off at Tilden on business and boarded the Warroad train there on the same mission.

The Great Northern Railway company is making a strenuous effort to ascertain the identity of the persons who placed obstructions on the track near Hillsboro Saturday evening and nearly wrecked the west bound Oriental Limited. Four fishplates were placed on the rails. The wheels of the pilot passed over the fishplates and brushed them out of the way of the big drivers of the engine. Had the fishplates remained in just the right position on the track the drivers would have been thrown off and a horrible wreck would have been the result. Railway men say that if the fishplates had been placed on the track where there was a curve the entire train would probably have left the rails. There is a straight stretch of track in the vicinity of the place where the plates were left on the track.

Tom Shevlin Jr., who won fame for Minnesota as an athlete on the Yale football team which he lead to victory and who is now manager of the Crookston Lumber Co. mills at Bemidji, was a transient in Crookston this morning between the St. Paul and Duluth trains, leaving on the latter to attend to some important business matters for the company. Mr. Shevlin expects that the mills will all be started within a very short time and will hum merrily all summer. He looks forward to a very active season in that line and expressed his pleasstarting up of the Crookston mill this spring after the shut down.

Vital statistics for 1908 showed up well in comparison with those of previous years. The state department of public health reports that in the past year there was 44,274 births and 22,160 death.

"No race suicide here," said Dr. H. M. Bracken gloating over the complete nature of the report. "I think that the great increase in the number of reported births and deaths is due largely to the operation of the new law which has been in force during the past year, forbidding burial of a body without a burial permit.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

BACK FROM CANADA — Albert Torgerson a local carpenter has just returned from a trip to Canada. He says there is considerable work there and he may return for the summer.

LOW SINCE OPERATION— Mrs. M. M. Davies one of the old residents of Crookston and formerly of Euclid who was operated upon for tumor at Minneapolis last week is very low. Her advanced age, 68, being a great handicap to her recovery.

ALVA HILLIGOSS DEAD— Alva Hilligoss a former well known Fosston boy died a few days ago near St. Cloud where he was living. His aunt, Mrs. Movolt of Fosston returned from the funeral this morning.

DRAINAGE MAN HERE — Capt. James Beard, representing the Standard Drainage Co., of Windom passed thru the city this morning enroute to Middle River where some repairs are to be made on a dredge before the ditching season opens.

TELEPHONE MAN—J. W. Christie connected with the head offices of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange Co., in Minneapolis, arrived this morning and with Manager Bracelin of Crookston went to Bemidji on business

GRANTED DIVORCE—Judge Watts issued an order in the district court yesterday granting a divorce to Mrs. Mary Sliter from Edmund Sliter on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Both of the parties live in East Grand Forks. H. A. Bronson appeared for the plaintiff and Skulason and Burtness for the defendant.

A VERY GOOD PRACTICE— The attendance at the last few council meetings is a healthy sign. If this was practiced for about a year it would seem that people generally have some fair knowledge of city affairs and the difficulties with which the councilmen are often confronted.

OFF FOR MAPLE LAKE — Louis Weiler and family will leave this evening for Maple Lake where they will reside. Mr. Weiler has secured a tract of land and will devote his time to raising poultry and garden stuff and training bird dogs. He has been very successful in training the dogs and will have quite a string of them. —Grand Forks Herald.

The City Council last evening walded thru an immense amount of business, the action of most general interest be the ordering of an election in the second ward on May 10, at which time a successor to Alderman F. Rauch will be taken. The candidates will probably be Alderman Rauch and Attorney Wm. P. Murphy and the fight, will without doubt be the warmest waged in that ward for alderman in its history. Both men have a strong following and active work will be done by the friends of both candidates from now until the polls close on the day of the election.

VIKINGS TO PARTICIPATE

WILL ATTEND MEETING OF RED RIVER VALLEY SANGERFEST ASSOCIATION

MEETING WILL BE HELD AT FERGUS FALLS JUNE 4, 5, 6—A BIG FESTIVAL

FARMERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

OVER THE OUTLOK — GROUND IS IN FINE SHAPE AND ALL THAT IS NEEDED IS WARM WEATHER—NO FLOODS THIS YEAR

From Wednesday's Daily—

While the spring has been backwand and but little seeding has been done in this section the farmers are optimistic over the outlook. Contrary to the usual conditions at this season of the year the low sections of the Red River valley are not flooded and there does not seem to be any prospect of floods as the snow has disappeared from the fields in the vicinity of the Red River and its tributaries. The ice is breaking up slowly and it is expected a few warm days will clear the river. If the low parts of the Red River Valley escape the usual flood it will mean a good deal for just as soon as the weather gets a litle warmer seeding will commence The ground is frozen and it has been possible to do a little seeding only on the warm afternoons.

Farmers agree that the land is in an ideal condition for spring work. There is abundant moisture soaked down in the ground and spring weather will soon start the grain growing.

That the high price of wheat will mean a large acreage is the opinion of grain men. The late season may prevent farmers from putting in quite as much wheat as they had planned. They are greatly interested in the tariff legislation.

STUDENTS OF RURAL SCHOOLS

BIG MEETING FOR BENEFIT OF INDUSTRIAL CONTEST WILL BE HELD

AT THE CITY HALL NEXT MONDAY AFTERNOON 2 O'CLOCK FINE MOVE

From Wednesday's Daily—

Supt. N. A. Thorson of Polk Co., Schools announced this afternoon that an industrial meeting had been arranged for Monday afternoon next for the special benefit of the students and teachers of the rural schools in this vicinity.

Rural school boards should at once take action and close every school in this vicinity and have both teachers and students attend this meeting which will be addressed by Prof. L. P. Harrington of the School of Agriculture who was secured thru Supt. A. D. Wilson of Farmers Institutes after hard work by Supt. Thorson.

The meeting is called to discuss the best seeds planting, culture, etc. of grains and vegetables, so that the pupils of Polk County can make a fine showing in the State Industrial Contest next fall as well as the Polk County contest held prior to that.

CLIFF HARRINGTON GOES TO PANAMA

Clifford Harrington, son of Prof. and Mrs. L. P. Harrington of the Crookston School of Agriculture left last evening for Panama where he will do some civil engineering work for the government for some time to come, the date of his return not being set.

Last evening the members of the Crookston Juvenile band gathered at the Great Northern depot and gave him a royal send off, and many other friends were present to wish him a successful trip and a safe return.

BEAUDETTE GETTING METROPOLITAN

That Baudette will have waterworks and sewerage installed during the present year is practically an assured fact. The city council of 1908 of that place had taken preliminary steps to go on with this work, and at the first meeting the 1909 members expressed themselves in favor of going ahead with the proposition. It will be taken up again at a regular meeting next Thursday evening, when it is expected that the date will be fixed for holding an election to bond the village for the necessary funds.

The electric light plant of Baudette will also be remodelled if the proposition is carried as it undoubtedly will be

L. A. ROSING DIED TODAY

MEMBER OF STATE BOARD OF CONTROL AND LEADING MINNESOTA POLITICIAN

WAS PRIVATE SECRETARY TO GOV. LIND — RAN FOR GOV. AGAINST VAN SANT

From Wednesday's Daily—

Genuine sorrow will be caused by the news received here this afternoon over the telephone announcing the death at St. Paul of Hon. L. A. Rosing member of the state board of control, this morning shortly before 9 o'clock. He has been ill for some time past with Bright's disease and his death was expected within a few months but came suddenly.

For many years Mr. Rosing had been a leading democrat of the state. He had been high in the councils of the party, was private secretary to Gov. Lind and was a candidate for governor of Minnesota against Van-Sant.

He was one of the most popular democrats in the state and had warm friends in both political parties. His death will cause the deepest sorrow thruout the entire state.

POLK COUNTY STUDENTS

PUPILS OF SCHOOLS URGED TO ENLIST IN INDUSTRIAL WORK

POLK COUNTY SHOULD LEAD ENTIRE STATE—SELECT THE SEED NOW

A call is hereby issued to the pupils of the Polk County schools to enlist in the Industrial work arranged for this county for the present year. In connection with this work there will be held an Industrial contest in which pupils of the schools under eighteen years are eligible to compete. There will be sewing and cooking for the girls and grain-growing for the boys. Those intending to enter the Grain-growing contest are advised to give immediate attention to the selection of good seed and soil.

A rich county like Polk should be one of the leading counties of the state in this work, and I feel assured that it is possible for the country boys and girls to make it such. Can you not help talk up a good school fair for Polk county next fall? Out of the $1350.00 prize money in the State Contest last year, Polk county received only $5.00. Let us be up and doing. The hearty co-operation of every loyal citizen is invited for the success of this work. Let parents and teachers work together to interest the boys and girls in this practical education.

Those desiring more specific information regarding the Industrial work and the Contest, may write to The Farmers' Club, St. Anthony Park, Minn., or to the County Superintendent, Crookston, Minn., for "Farmers' Club Circular No. 1" and "Rural School Bulletin No. 2."

Very respectfully yours,
—N. A. Thorson,
County Supt. of Schools.
Crookston, Minn., April 14th, 1909.

KRUGER GETS SIXTY DAYS FOR LARENCY

Edward Kruger of Larimore, was given a hearing in municipal court at East Grand Forks yesterday and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of larceny or bringing stolen property into the state. He was given a fine of $50 and in default thereof a sentence of sixty days in the county jail. It appears that Kruger had been doing some janitor work recently for Skulason & Conmy, lawyers on the west side. A typewriter was missed from the office a few days ago and also a sheep-lined coat belonging to Theo. Thompson.

A search for the missing articles disclosed the fact that Kruger had pawned the typewriter in East Grand Forks and it was also learned that he had attempted unsuccessfully to dispose of the coat. The latter was not located. Kruger claims to remember nothing about his transactions in the matter and appears to be slightly off in mental balance. Some time ago he had the editor of a Larimore paper arrested for throwing him out of his office and was in the hospital for some time as the result of a fracas.

He was brought to Crookston last night.

BEMIDJI PAPERS HAVE MERGED

BEMIDJI DAILY AND WEEKLY PIONEER IS NAME OF NEW PUBLICATION

PIONEER, RECORD AND NEWS TO SAIL UNDER ONE BANNER

From Wednesday's Daily—

One of the most important newspaper deals in th ehistory of northern Minnesota has been concluded in Bemidji, whereby the Bemidji Daily and Weekly Pioneer, the recently established Bemidji Record and the Beltrami County News have been merged and will be continued as the Bemidji Daily and Weekly Pioneer.

The merger was completed yesterday and under the new arrangements, G. E. Carson the principal stockholder of the Record, becomes actively identified with the management of the Pioneer Publishing company in conjunction with C. J. Pryor, who has acted as business manager of the Pioneer during the past three years.

A. G. Rutledge who has been managing editor of the Pioneer, is retained and will have supervision of the news columns of the Pioneer and be otherwise identified with the publication.

DAN PATCH & MINOR HEIR

BOTH ARE TO APPEAR AT GRAND FORKS STATE FAIR

GREATEST ATTRACTION IN HISTORY OF NORTH DAKOTA ASSURED IN JULY

From Wednesday's Daily—

President A. L. Hunter, of the North Dakota State Fair association, received a telephone message last evening from Secretary M. C. Bacheller that he had just closed a deal for the appearance at the state fair at Grand Forks in July of Dan Patch and Minor Heir, world famous pacers. Dan Patch has a record of 1:55 and Minor Heir the sensation of last year has a record of 1:59½.

The signing of the contract for the appearance here follows three years of effort on part of President Hunter and a campaign of nearly two years by Secretary Bacheller. Dan Patch and Minor Heir are the greatest combined attraction that could be secured for the fair and it will be a record-breaking event for North Dakota. The horses will be here during the entire week. It is their first visit to North Dakota.

M. W. Savage proprietor of the pacers turned down an offer to go to Winnipeg this season. From Grand Forks the pacers will be taken to the Iowa state fair.

Everybody Interested

Last year there was probably more interest taken in the performance of the phenomenal Minor Heir than those of any horse in the world, with the exception of Dan Patch.

The exhibition by the two great pacers will bring visitors from points all over North Dakota, Manitoba and other sections. It is a wonderful achievement of the fair management. Those concerned are to be heartily congratulated on their success. With Dan Patch, Minor Heir and scores of speedy horses for the race meet and Dr. Stone as starter, those interested in high class racing will find much to interest them there.

TURNED THINGS UP-SIDE- DOWN

SECOND STREET SCENE OF AN EXCITING RUNAWAY THIS MORNING

TEAM WITH BIG LOAD OF FEED THOUGHT DR. DAMPIER WAS HUNGRY

From Friday's Daily—

This morning a man employed on the S. W. Vance farm drove to the city for a load of feed. He had a team hitched to a wide tired lumber wagon on which was a large basket hayrack and on this a ton of feed, some cream and milk bottles and other things were placed.

After securing his load he went to Olds Bicycle shop to secure a wheel which he was having repaired. The team which had always been very docile and steady, started off on a run.

The driver dashed after them, but could not catch up. The team turned from Main to Second street and dashed east across Broadway and on reaching the front of the residence of Dr. C. E. Dampier ran into the curb spilling the hayrack and load of feed and tearing on east where they were stopped.

Charley Hoeftlater straightened out the wreck, assisting the man to reload and he started on his way rejoicing shortly before noon little the worse for the experience excepting a few scratches he had received in the turmoil.

NIGHT TRAIN AN THE M.&I.

WILL BE INSTALLED NEXT WEEK FIRST TRAIN WILL COME NORTH MONDAY

Beginning Monday night, April, 12 the M. & I. railway in conjunction with the N. P. will commence the installing of a daily night train between the twin cities and International Falls and intermediate points, including Bemidji.

For some time past there have been rumors that a daily night train would be installed on the M. & I. to the twin cities, and the date for the service was generally set for April 1. It was known that increased business for the road had been necessitated by the great activity of the work of installing the big power dam and paper mills at International Falls and much pressure has been brought to bear on the company to put on the night train

It is announced now that the officials of the M. & I. and N. P. recognize the necessity for better service for the boundary town and the train will be put on next Monday evening, running north from St. Paul 'that night as a special and starting the regular schedule Tuesday night.

LITTLE FOR THE CREDITORS

WILL GET ABOUT 30 PER CENT FROM ESTATE OF SUICIDE LUND

Claims amounting to $320,000 have been allowed against the estate of the late John G. Lund the Minneapolis real estate man, who took his life and objections entered to others amounting to $145,000. There are also contingent claims outstanding that amount to $251,000.

Dates for the hearings on contested claims were set in the probate court by Judge George R. Smith. As there is only about $150,000 in sight from the estate the creditors are not expected to receive much more than 30 per cent of their claims, even if all the claims objected to are disallowed by the court. Lund formerly had a branch office in Crookston.

The time to give proper consideration to opportunities is not tomorrow. Opportunities never present themselves tomorrow. It's always today and the time for their thorough consideration is likewise always today. Many a man can trace both loss and failure to the handy little scratch pad on which he jotted down an idea for tomorrow's consideration, while some other more progressive fellow took advantage of the same idea when yesterday was today, realizing that tomorrow never comes. The business man must cultivate methods down to the minute. the period has arrived when there is more truth in the old proverb, "Time and tide wait not for the slow," than there was when it was stereotyped. Here is an argument wedded to wisdom.—Minnesota Dairyman.

ACID SOON ENDS LIFE OF FURRY

GRAFTON MAN MAKES TWO PURCHASES IN ORDER TO HAVE LOTS OF POISON

LOOKS AFTER HIS TEAM AND THEN TAKES DRINK OF ACID WHILE IN BARN

From Friday's Daily—

News was received here yesterday that John Flurry had committed suicide at Grafton Wednesday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid enough to kill several men. Furry went to a drug store and purchased a small bottle of carbolic acid. He decided it was not enough and returned and pur chased another bottle of the same size, claiming that he needed it for disinfecting purposes. Then he put all the acid in one bottle and swallowed it. He was dying when found in the barn and was unable to speak. Furry left a note saying:

"God forgive me for all my sins and others too."

Employed as Teamster

The deceased has been employed in doing team work. He had a team of his own and before killing himself he fed his horses and cared for them. eH had been drinking heavily for about a month and several times had threatened to kill himself.

The deceased is survived by a wife who is left in poor circumstances.

At the coroner's inquest a verdict in accordance with the evidence was rendered, it being found that he had committed suicide.

Furry was 55 years old and had resided in Grafton for six years.

DEATH OF PIONEER RESIDENT OF FORKS

M. GORMAN WELL KNOWN CONTRACTOR OF GRAND FORKS DEAD

The death of Michael Gorman a well known contractor and pioneer resident of the city occurred at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at the family residence after an illness of several months. Mr. Gorman was born in Ottawa, Canada, in 1855 and come to East Grand Forks in 1887 since which date he has been a resident of the city and engaged in business here. He was a man of the strictest integrity and was highly esteemed by the entire community. Of a quiet and retiring disposition he nevertheless always had a cheery word for everyone. The deceased leaves besides the bereaved widow, four daughters, Margaret, Bertha, Ethel and Ida and six sons, William, Fred, Frank, James, John and Patrick; all of whom are at home except the two sons, William a resident of Seattle and Frank who is in the U. S. army and stationed in California Two brothers, John of Larimore and James of Fargo, arrived before his death; Edward, of Moorhead, arrived last evening; Simon, another brother lives in New York. A sister, Mrs. Stevens lives in Fargo and another sister Mrs. Douglas lives in Ottawa, Can.

The funeral will be held from Sacred Heart Catholic church Monday morning, Father Bounival of St. Boniface, officiating.—Grand Forks Herald

MAGNIFICENT FLORAL DISPLAY

NEW STORE HAS AN ARRAY OF EASTER LILIES AND OTHER PLANTS

THAT HAS ELICITED GREAT PRAISE DURING THE DAY

From Thursday's Daily—

Robert Cram manager of the grocery department of the New Store was busy with a force of clerks this morning arranging one of the most magnificent displays of Easter lillies and other potted plants ever seen in Crookston. One entire display window, one long counter, and the lower portion of the shelving on one side of the grocery department is loaded with such an array of beautiful lillies and other plants such as has sent every lady into ecstacies who has seen them today.

The varieties include a list that is past the knowledge of any one but a florist, and most of them are just beginning to bloom so that by Easter Sunday they will be just right. Of course many of the plants will bloom for two or three months yet such as the azealias, the roses and lants in that class.

The enterprise of the Wright-Carpenter Co., to secure such a stock and give the people of Crookston the benefit of selecting from such a variety is most commendable and is characteristic of that firm in taking care of their patrons.

OLD SOLDIERS ENTERTAINED

WERE GUESTS AT FINE SUPPER GIVEN BY THE WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

Last evening the members of the G. A. R. were entertained at a fine hot six o'clock dinner by the W. R. C. of Crookston at the G. A. R. Hall. There was one of the largest gatherings of veterans seen in Crookston in a long time at such an occasion and the affair was a thoroly pleasant one. The menu served was an elaborate one and the guests did full justice to the viands.

Following the supper the old soldiers enjoyed a box of cigars and a very pleasant social hour was passed.

Last evening was the regular meeting night of the W. R. C. The order was never in a more flourishing condition. As indicative of this was the addition of seven new members at the meeting last evening, and there are several more who will be taken in very shortly.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Do not Endanger Life When a Crookston Citizen Shows You the Cure

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Rear this Crookston testimony:

Leroy G. Burkhardt, 309 Fifth St. E. Crookston, Minn., says: "I speak from personal experience when I say that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable remedy for kidney complaint. Being in need of such a medicine I procured a supply at Wallace's drug store and they helped me from the first. Doan's Kidney Pills soon absolutely cured me of kidney trouble and I am always ready to recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Ortonville Herald-Star: An official effort is to be made by the Minnesota State Editorial association to influence congress against a continuance of the government's present unfair competition with country printers in the matter of printing envelopes. No other business has ever been made to suffer such disastrous losses from government competition, and that the press of the country has been quiescent so long is remarkable. Every publisher should give the move his cordial support.

People who live high are not always above suspicion.

FAIR DATES THIS YEAR

RED LAKE CO. FAIR HELD 4TH, 5TH AND 6TH OF AUGUST

DANIEL SHAW AND DR. G. A. PENNEY TO BE SECRETARIES OF THE FAIR

At the meeting of the shareholders of the Red Lake County Agricultural Society held in Thief River Falls it was decided to hold the county fair this year on the first week in August. At a previous meeting it had been decided to hold the fair on the second week in August, but as the first week has been the dates since the organization of the society it was deemed advisable to make no change. The dates will, therefore be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 4, 5 and 6. The matter of electing a secretary was taken up and no one could be induced to devote the large amount of time required to hold this position. The matter was finally compromised by electing Dr. G. A. Penney and Daniel Shaw as secretaries. Both of these gentlemen have filled the position before in a very successful manner and now each will devote half of time to the task. That they will make a success of the fair goes without saying and they receive the encouragement and support of all citizens. The association is in good shape financially and the fair this year will be better than ever before.

Winona Republican Herald: The two big railroad men Harriman and Hill both see a silver lining back of the present clouds in the business world. Both say that with tariff agitation out of the way things will pick up. As a matter of fact there is every indication of a return of "good times" as soon as the tariff question is settled and our Washington dispatches indicate that this will be long deferred.

BACK FROM THE SUPREME COURT

JAMES H. MAYBURY ENJOYED A TALK MADE BY GYPSY SMITH

Ex-County Atty. James H. Maybury returned this morning from a few days' trip to St. Paul where he was called on business before the supreme court. While there he happened to be fortunate enough to visit the senate during the discussion of the anti-cigarette bill which was one of the most spirited of the session and of the employers liability act in the house where oratory flew right and left. Mr. Maybury thinks Speaker Rockne of the House is quite a genius.

Mr. Maybury also on Tuesday evening atended one of the revival meetings in the Auditorium where, despite one of the worst storms he ever witnessed in the twin cities, 4,000 people were gathered. He would have failed to get in had it not been for Joe B. Pierson formerly of Crookston, and now with the Pioneer Press of St. Paul who piloted him in as a reporter for the Pioneer Press. Mr. Maybury stated that as he failed to "report" down there, he would discharge his duty by reporting to the Crookston papers.

COMMUNICATION

Ed. Journal:—Will you allow me to express my sentiments. I am a resident of the 2nd ward. I have taken no part in the issue now confronting the people of this ward According to the city charter the city council has full power when there is a vacancy of an alderman to fill same. They have done that and Adolph Rauch was appointed and has accepted. Now there is a petition to un-seat him What for?

They say that the city council must be taught a lesson, that a majority of the people must rule. But what about the minority? The city charter says that any time that a minority is not satisfied they can non-seat a man who a majority has placed there and no matter who is elected as soon as he is seated the minority of the ward of 40 per cent will non-seat him and another election must be ordered. Thus you see it is perpetual and we can go on and have elections every month and spend the city's money and at the end of the year we are just where we started. Now my plan is to stop now, while there is yet time and get ready to amend the city charter at the earliest possible moment.—Taxpayer.

FINE BUSINESS PROPOSITION

BUT N. A. BRAY IS NOT LEAVING CROOKSTON PERMANENTLY

IS LOCATING IN CANADA TEMPORARILY FOR BUSINESS REASONS

From Thursday's Daily—

N. A. Bray who with Eudore Brosseau has purchased a hotel at Gleichen, Alberta, Canada, and who has been here for the past two days attending to business matters left this afternoon over the Northern Pacific for Gleichen.

Mr. Bray is one of the well known Crookston boys who has for years been prominently identified with the business interests of the city taking an active part in city, county and state politics. Mr. Bray is not leaving Crookston permanently and will continue to be a subject of Uncle Sam He is going to Alberta temporarily, simply to take advantage of a good business proposition.

He has been a resident of Crookston so long that he will always consider this city his home, and he has a host of friends here who will most heartily welcome his return. He has always been a "live one" willing at all times to contribute to any project for the betterment of Crookston or for any worthy cause, and his friends wish him every success in his new location, tho it is but temporarily.

"GENIAL JOE" FROM ST. PAUL

PIONEER PRESS HEAVYWEIGHT DROPS INTO THE CITY FOR A VISIT

Jos. B. Pierson, formerly connected with the editorial department of both the Journal and Times of this city dropped in this morning and is spending the day with friends here and attending to some business matters at the court house.

"Joe" who was prominently identified with the Crookston Club, and who was a prime mover among the Crookston Club Minstrels last winter has made good in metropolitan newspeperdom. During his stay there he has met many former Crookst on residents and has been in a position to extend them many courtesies—of which they talk much and he says nothing. His many friends will be pleased to note that he has been making doubly good on the Pioneer Press. Just another product of Crookston which has drawn a prize.

(Ed. Note: Joe is still single.)

WHITE DENT CORN FREE FOR SEED

Thru the generosity of Mr. Webber one of the late arrivals from Illinois and who is now located on a large farm 4 miles southwest of town I have a few ears more than I will plant for an experiment, of large White Dent corn.

A few parties wishing to give it a fair trial can have a couple of ears apiece by calling at the Journal office any time after Saturday next. Nothing is required only leave your name and address. It might be interesting to note the different results obtained by plantnig this corn in several different results obtained by planting this corn in several different localities.—Henry O'Neill, R. D. UPSET STOMACH OR INDIGESTION

ENDS FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING SOME DIAPEPSIN

STOPS FOOD FERMENTATION AND CURES STOMACH TROUBLE BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, billousness, sick head ache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermantation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a litle Diapepsin.

TRAINMEN HONORED DEPARTED BROTHER

MAGNIFICENT FLORAL TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF NEWMAN ERGESON

The funeral of Ernest Newman Ergeson, the Great Northern brakeman who was fatally injured at Larimore, which was held yesterday afternoon from the Hauges Lutheran church showed above all the loyalty of the Trainmen to their departed brother workmen. They had a magnificent floral tribute in the form of a broken wheel which was contributed by the trainmen and other intimate friends. There were also many other beautiful floral offerings. The pall bearers were all Great Northern men and were as follows: J. C. Culvenwell, Charles Maidment Geo. Bougie, Garnet Balfour, F. H. Lane and Fred Bougie.

TO OPERATE A BIG STEAM PLOW

GOODWIN BROS., WILL SUMMER FALLOW 1,000 ACRES AND SEED SAME AMOUNT

R. C. and H. C. Goodwin are spending the day in the city from Euclid looking after some business matters. Goodwin Bros., will this spring seed about 1,000 acres near Euclid, and have a big steam plow already for operation as soon as the ground is ready.

In addition, during the summer they expect to use their steam plow and turn over about another 1000 acres for anyone who has summer fallowing t odo. Clyde Goodwin will be at the throttle and any one knowing the kind of plowing the Goodwin Bros., were noted for when they did it with horseflesh will not question what they will do with the steam power.

Cass Lake Times: The iron tonnage tax bill which passed the lower house and is now before the senate for action, is creating more comment than any bill before the present session of the legislature. All Northeastern Minnesota is intensely interested, for it is a fact that in the fullness of time, every county of the northern section, even to the confines of the great Red River valley, will be included in the iron range. The iron industry should be fostered rather than restricted, and properties within the iron producing belt should be taxed as other property is taxed and not otherwise.

Does not Color the Hair

Ingredients of Ayer's Hair Vigor

Sulphur. Destroys germs that cause dandruff and falling hair. Cures rashes and eruptions of scalp.
Glycerin. Soothing, healing. Food to the hair-bulbs.
Quinin. A strong tonic, antiseptic, stimulant.
Sodium Chlorid. Cleansing, quiets irritation of scalp.
Capsicum. Increases activity of glands.
Sage. Stimulant, tonic. Domestic remedy of high merit.
Alcohol. Stimulant, antiseptic. Water. Perfume.

Show this formula to your doctor. Ask him if there is a single injurious ingredient. Ask him if he thinks Ayer's Hair Vigor, as made from this formula, is the best preparation you could use for falling hair, or for dandruff. Let him decide. He knows.

Why the Menu Was Changed.

The culinary department of an East Indian household, if the story of an American traveler who has recently returned from Calcutta is to be believed, is managed far differently from an American kitchen. "Here we employ an Ethiopian expert at so much a week," says the Philadelphia Record. "There a cook would disdain to place a weekly valuation on his services. His conditions involve a flat rate of so many shillings weekly for the furnishing and preparation of provisions. This system of putting the culinary department out to contract causes a penuriousness on the part of the chef which frequently is not for the best health and welfare of the household. Shortly before last Christmas the above named American tourist had ordered his cook to have steak for dinner. Broiled chicken was served instead. Pressed for his reasons for disregarding the command of the head of the household, the cook explained that the chicken had taken sick and if it had not been killed and served that day he was afraid he would have lost it."

Conscientious Bill.

"Bill had charge of the animal tent," said the old circus man, "and among his pets was a leopard, the only one we had with the show, and quite enough too. This leopard gave Bill more trouble than all the rest of the menagerie put together. It was certainly an ugly brute.

"Well, one day when we were showing in the Midlands I had come up to London to arrange about some advance business. I was eating my dinner in the hotel when a telegram was handed to me. It was from Bill and read: 'The leopard has escaped. Prowling about town. What shall I do?'

"That was just like Bill. He had to have explicit directions, even in an emergency like this. He didn't want to make a mistake.

"I immediately wired back to Bill, 'Shoot him on the spot.' I didn't think any more about it until a couple of hours later, when I received another telegram from conscientious, careful Bill, asking, 'Which spot?'"

Relative Hardness of Precious Stones.

The relative hardness of various stones is easily determined by testing the power of one stone to make scratches on another. If a diamond is rubbed with one of the points of a topaz, the topaz point is blunted and the mark which will be seen on the face of the diamond is only the dust of the topaz, which can be brushed off with the finger. But if the topaz is rubbed against the diamond the latter is unaltered and the surface of the former is marked with a scratch which can be removed only by further polishing down. It is on the basis of this process of comparison that a scale of comparative hardness has been formed represented by ten substances, of which diamond is the highest and graphite the lowest in the scale. It is a curious fact that these two extremes of the scale, the brilliant and hard diamond and soft black graphite, are both chemically the same substance—pure carbon.—Jewelers' Circular.

Could Do It.

It was a mean trick, but, then, that is the kind that's usually successful.

"That dog," said the owner, "will bring me anything I send him for, and I am willing to bet on it."

Straightway a bet was arranged, and then the manager of the billiard hall suggested that he would like to have the pool table brought to him.

"Certainly," answered the owner of the dog, and he pointed to the table and said, "Fetch it!"

The dog raced around it once or twice and then grabbed a pocket and tore it off.

"Hold on!" cried the billiard man. "He'll ruin the table."

"Of course," answered the owner of the dog, "but if you give him time he'll get it all over here. You didn't suppose he could bring it in one trip, did you?"

But the billiard man paid the bet.

The Father Pipefish.

"The best of fathers is the pipefish," said an angler. "He hatches the little pipefish, and after they are hatched he carries them about with him till they can take care of themselves.

"This fish has under his tail a sac. In it he bears the pipefish spawn. Thus the spawn hatch in perfect safety. They are not decimated, like the other fish spawn lying unprotected on the bottom of the sea, by every hungry passerby. No; they all hatch; every one of them.

As soon as they hatch the father fish splits, or nature splits for him, the sac, and all the little fish drop out into the sea, but they cling to papa. Wherever he goes, like a gray cloud those thousands of tiny sons and daughters surround him, and on the approach of danger they pop back again into the sac just as baby kangaroos pop into the sac, or marsupial pouch, of their mamma.

"The male pipefish is, in fact, the female kangaroo of the sea."

Cleveland's Greediness For Work.

President Cleveland was often at his desk in the White House until 3 o'clock in the morning and up again at 9. I fell into the way of working until about 1 o'clock in the morning, and because of the oppressive heat I kept the door of my room wide open. Often during the hours around midnight I would step into the hall in hope of getting a stray breath of air. Once it so happened that as I looked across the hall to the half open door turned toward mine I saw upon its polished surface the reflection of the hand of a man writing with a patience and an industry that amazed me. I knew that the president was at his desk. I used to ask the watchman when I went to my task in the morning at what hour the president had knocked off work the preceding night. I found that it was generally about 3 o'clock in the morning, although sometimes when he had finished some severe task that he had set himself he would stop at 2 o'clock. I usually stopped work at 1 o'clock, but I did once or twice hang on until 2 in the hope that I might, if only for once, show an endurance equal to that of the man next door whose greediness for work had become proverbial.—George F. Parker, in McClure's.

New York's Lobster Palaces.

Nobody of distinction of appetite goes to a lobster palace to eat. One goes there in gaudy mood or when every other place is filled or closed or with the kind of man who thinks gayety means overdressed women, bediamoned men, waiters rushing with champagne as if they had the fire buckets and a caterwauling orchestra. At midnight the din and the excitement incline a sedate man to ask himself whether he is not in a riot. If you have a lobster digestion, you don't hear the din or feel the maelstrom of omnibuses, waiters, head waiters and patrons swirling about you. A man who is eating lobster has to concentrate all his faculties, mental, physical, moral and intellectual, on the ordeal. You have heard no doubt of the young lady who was asked over her first lobster how she liked it. "I think," she declared, "it's perfectly delicious if there weren't so many large bones in it. They look like celluloid, don't they?"—Richard Duffy in Putnam's.

He Was a Poor Guesser.

He was a new conductor and anxious to expedite matters. When he saw a woman holding a two dollar bill in her hand he dispensed with the customary exhortation to pay her fare and began to count out change. There had been a drain on his pockets throughout the trip, and he was obliged to interview half the passengers in the car before he finally secured the desired small coin. Finally the transaction was completed, and the conductor returned to the woman.

"Fare?" he said.

The woman fished a nickel from her pocketbook. Then she looked at the two dollar bill.

"Dear me!" she said. "How careless I am! I forgot I had that money in my hand. Somebody might have stolen it."

"Chump!" growled the conductor.

The woman thought he meant her, but he didn't. He was cursing his own stupidity.—New York Globe.

French Peasant Women Hard Workers.

The French peasant woman, Bretonne or otherwise, works hard as any man. It makes one sad to see the women working in the fields, digging and delving, carrying heavy burdens, driving the cattle, sometimes attending to the machinery employed on the farms. One wonders whether husbands and fathers appreciate it all, especially when you hear some of the ballads, for ballads are supposed to reveal the soul of a people. I heard one the other day of which the refrain is as follows:

> Dear is my good wife Jeanne,
> Her death I should deplore,
> But dearer are my beaves,
> Their loss would grieve me more!

—From Plougastel (France) Letter to New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Not Worth It.

A young man, after his banns had been twice announced, called upon the busy vicar early one morning. He wanted to have a private word with him about the banns.

"Well," said the vicar, "what is wrong?"

"Oh, it's the girl's name."

"Hasn't it been given correctly?"

"Oh, yes, it's correct enough, but I want you to put another girl's name for the third calling. I've changed my mind and would rather marry Mary 'Arris instead of Sarah Jenkins."

The vicar lectured the youth upon his fickleness and told him if he wanted any alteration it would be necessary to make a fresh start and have the banns published afresh.

"What, and pay another shilling?" gasped the lover.

"Certainly," replied the vicar.

"Well, in that case you had better let it be as it is, and I'll marry my first love."—Pearson's Weekly.

R. E. WHITE GETS VERDICT

RECOVERS FROM RAILROAD FOR A BAD DELAY IN THE SHIPMENTS

JURY GAVE PLAINTIFF MORE THAN SUIT WAS BROUGHT FOR — ROWE ATTORNEY

At Grand Rapids in the district court the last case tried was that of R. E. White, a well known farmer of western Polk County who for many years past has done considerable logging business. He had a damage suit against the M. & R. R. Railway Co. White is a logger who in the fall and winter of 1905 was logging north of Deer River. In November of that year Mr. White delivered to the railway company for transportation some sixty men and a carload of vegetables paying the transportation charges.

Delays were experienced in the transportation, Mr. White lost several days of the men's time and when the vegetables were finally delivered they were found to have been frozen. Mr. White's suit was to recover the damages sustained by the perishing of his vegetables and the loss of time by his men.

The Grand Rapids Independent says, "W. E. Rowe, a prominent attorney of Crookston represented White, while R. J. Powell of Minneapolis conducted the case for the railway company. The jury returned a verdict for White, allowing him $813.00."

ROSEAU CO. IS BOOMING

EDITOR R. H. MEDICRAFT SAYS GREAT BOOM IS IN PROGRESS

MANY PEOPLE COMING IN, AND FREIGHT SHIPMENTS ARE IMMENSE

From Saturday's Daily—

R. H. Medicraft, one of the prominent attorneys of Roseau arrived in the city last evening and will remain over Sunday attending to some business matters. In an interview with the Journal Mr. Medicraft this morning said:

"The comletion of the railroad to Roseau has shown us what we really had better than ever before. When our freight was being hauled in by wagons from several directions we did not realize the amount of business that was being done there. Now all that is necessary is to watch the shipments that are arriving every day over the Great Northern train. It is really surprising the amount of freight and express that is received there every day.

"Roseau is forging ahead. This year a 10 foot cement sidewalk will be built from the center of the city on both sides of t he street to the new Great Northern depot, a distance of about four blocks.

"We will erect two fine steel bridges the coming summer to replace the wooden bridges over the Roseau River — improvements that will certainly be noticed.

"Roseau is also to have a new $35,000 school building the coming summer which will be a most noticeable improvement and of which every resident will feel a just pride.

"Few people outside our own county realize the real extent of the benefit of the railroad connections which we now enjoy. I was talking to a farmer a few days ago and he told me that he had secured seed for 50 acres of potatoes which he would sow this year. The land about Roseau is ideal for potato growing but in the past we have had no way of shipping them without a long wagon haul and this is too expensive to be rofitable.

"There has also been a very noticeable increase in the price of Roseau County land since the railroad was completed thru our city and never in the history of the county was the feeling so optimistic among both business men and farmers. We are on the verge of the greatest era of prosperity we have ever enjoyed."

COMMITTED TO ASYLUM

SIVER CLIFFGAARD KNOWN AS SHARESPEARE GOES TO ASYLUM

This afternoon Judge of Probate T. T. Morken and two physicians decided that Siver Cliffgaard better known about the city as "Shakespeare" was a fit subject for the asylum for Fergus Falls. His committment was made out and he will be taken down this evening.

The unfortunate man has been a victim of St. Vitus dance for a number of years, and has been extremely obstreperous of late being vicious as well, and has been a nuisance on the streets and around the Great Northern depot. The action of the judge will be most heartily commended.

TAFT TO PRESS A KEY OF GOLD

When President Taft gives the signal from the White House that will flash across the continent and start the wheels whirling at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, June-, his hand will press a key of virgin gold, studded with the first nuggets taken from a claim in the Klondike.

A large nugget set on the key bar, was the first found on bed rock in the discovery claim and the twenty-two nuggets which stud the exquisite jewel were in the poke brought out by the discoverer, George W. Carmack.

The base upon which the instrument rests is white Alaska marble and the button which tips the key bar and which is set off with a nugget, is of walrus vory. On the plate of solid gold are inscribed:

"Presented to the president, William H. Taft, for the purpose of opening the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, June 1, 1909. Made from the finest gold discovered and taken from the Klondike Aug. 16, 1896, and presented by discoverer, George W. Carmack."

SAW FORMER RESIDENTS

CAPT. BROWN TELLS OF FORMER CROOKSTON RESIDENTS LOCATED IN WEST

QUITE A NUMBER ARE LOCATED IN PORTLAND AND ASTORIA OREGON

From Saturday's Daily—

In speaking of his trip west this morning, Capt. M. R. Brown told of meeting several former well known citizens of Crookston. He said among other things.

"On my return from California I stopped a few days in Portland, Ore., where I met several former residents of Crookston. Among them were W. D. Hurlburt, after whom Hurlburt St. in Crookston is named, Sylvester Peterson formerly in the Crookston U. S. Land office and Nat Campbell, former mayor of Crookston. I had a very nice visit with all of them. They are looking well and apparently are prospering in their several followings.

"I went from there to Astoria, about 150 miles down the Columbia River to its mouth. That is one of the most picturesque and romantic cities that I found on the coast. It has so many natural beauty spots that it must eventually make a typical Switzerland city. It is a city of about 15,000 or 20,000 inhabitants. Its principal resources are lumber, and salmon fisheries and canneries.

"There also I met several old time residents of Crookston. The Utzingers among them. C. C. Utzinger and his brother Jake both prominent and well known citizens of Crookston in the early days. They have nice homes and are doing nicely in their occupations. They have very nice families, all grown up, and are industrious. The C. C. Utzinger girls are employed, one as a teacher in the public schools there, and the other two have nice positions as bookkeepers in prominent business houses. One son is also bookkeeper in a bank They all seem to be happy and feeling well and satisfied.

"I should also state that Astoria is a live progressive city and recently a fine court house was erected costing about $200,000 and several splendid public school houses which would be a credit to any city.

"From there I went to Tacoma and Seattle and thence to Crookston and am better pleased with my home city than with any city I visited."

THOMAS KEEFE OF MOHALL N. D. WELL SUPPLIED WITH CASH

FELL OFF TRAIN THIS MORNING —HAD $2500 ON HIS PERSON

Thomas Keefe, who resides at Mohall N. D., came in on the train from Duluth this morning enroute home. He had been interviewing "Uncle John Barley Corn" and in trying to take a view of Crookston from the car steps, fell off. Edson Jerome pulled him from under the car wheels, and Keefe at once accused Jerome of pulling him from the train.

Officer Nelson, who witnessed the affair took Keefe in charge. He was fined $5, and costs in Judge Gossman's court for being drunk and paid it.

Incidentally it developed that he had about $2500 on his person in cash drafts and checks. A few more, similarly hooked up should fall off in this city and remain.

FARMERS ARE PROSPEROUS

A VAST AMOUNT OF BUILDING TO BE DONE IN POLK COUNTY

AMONG THE FARMERS IN SOUTHERN PART OF THE COUNTY

From Saturday's Daily—

The farmers of Polk County are certainly prosperous. There is going to be more building by them this year than for many years past. The Fertile Journal publishes the following list of improvements to be made in the townships surrounding that village:

Nels West, of Sundahl will erect a large barn.

C. O. Monson, Sundahl will build a large up-to-date farm residence.

Herman Loitten, Bear Park barn 40x70 feet.

Fliflett Bros., of Bear Park will put up a fine large barn.

Geo. Sirjord, Bear Park, a granary.

M. Haugen of Garfield a new barn.

O. Hendrickson of Bear Park a large barn.

Isaac A. Holm of Garden, will do some building.

T. J. Larson of Garden a commodious farm residence.

Mrs. Stromberg, of Bear Park a barn.

Andrew Hoff of Liberty will put up a barn that will compare with the best in his town.

NUISANCE OF DEPOT LOAFERS

LADIES WHO ARE TRAVELING ARE GREATLY ANNOYED BY THEM

GREAT NORTHERN AND LOCAL AUTHORITIES SHOULD TAKE ACTION

One of the biggest nuisances in Crookston, and one of the most anoying to the ladies who are traveling, specially transients, is the habit of a gang of loafers, ranging in age from 14 years to 20 years to gather at the Great Northern depot every evening. They remain there till the last train has pulled out at 10:30. Most of them lally-gag about the ladies waiting room annoying transients by passing remarks and making it very embarrassing for them to take advantages of the conveniences provided for them in the depot.

The Great Northern and local authorities should get together in the matter and engage some one, specially provided with a pair of copper toed boots to assist every one of the loafers to the street and make it more convenient for them to eat their meals from the clock shelf for about two weeks.

A short course of such treatment would make some other place more attractive f otr m. h e shrdluuuuu attractive for them.

Mrs. S. Rosenthal announced today that the Current Events Club had made arrangements for a lecture course the coming winter, the proceeds to be used for the purchase of new books for the Carnegie Library. The course will be strictly high class and will include such attractions as Dr. Lindsey the juvenile court judge of Denver, Col., whose reputation is now world-wide, Dr. McQueen the African explorer, Miss Barget and five musicians of national reputation and other attractions of that character. The idea is a most laudable one and the ladies of the Current Events Club will receive the most hearty cooperation of the general public in their most worthy and commendable undertaking.

WELL PLEASED WITH VALLEY

B. E. LANE OF CARHART FARM HAS HAD SUCCESSFUL 3 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PREFERS THIS CLIMATE TO ILLINOIS OR CALIFORNIA — 800 ACRE STOCK FARM

From Tuesday's Daily—

B. E. Lane the owner of what was formerly known as the Carhart farm between Angus and Euclid, consisting of 800 acres is spending the day in the city. He has now been here for the past three years and in a statement to the Journal today he said:

"I can state very emphatically that I am pleased with the Red River Val ley. Prior to coming here I was located in Vermillion, Minn., and before that was located in Illinois for several years and also spent seven years in California. I certainly pre fer the climate here to the winter climate in Illinois and there is no summer weather that can beat that of the Red River Valley. Both myself and my wife far prefer this climate in winter to the climate in California. We feel better, the air is dryer, and we have experienced no discomfort from the cold weather here during the past three years."

Mr. Carhart divides his attention between stock raising and grain raising and has been very successful, also buying stock for shipment. He devotes all his attention in the stock line to beef cattle, tho wherever he gets hold of a good milch cow he sells it to some neighbor who is in the dairy business as he has not time to give the required time to a properly kept dairy.

At the present time he has a herd of 90 cattle and when he makes a shipment they are prime animals which bring top prices in the St. Paul market.

He also has 30 head of horses, practically all brood mares, having bought 11 head of percherons, including a few colts this spring which he shipped in. He says there is no reason why this should not be a most successful stock raising country as conditions in every way favor it. He says gains are being made in the stock raising industry in the Valley every year and he predicts a great future for this section in that line.

Mr. Lane who is a warm friend of Mayor McPhee spent some time with the mayor today.

CANDY COMPANY SUSTAINS LOSS

ESTIMATED THAT GALE COST $2,000 TO GRAND FORKS CONCERN

BASEMENT WHERE WORKERS HAD BEEN ENGAGED FILLED WITH DEBRIS

From Monday's Daily—

Convinced that their lives were in danger, bricklayers employed on the foundation of the new candy factory of the Congress Candy company at Grand Forks declined to work longer in the shadow of the old factory. This was at 10:30 Saturday forenoon. At 4:30 in the afternoon the entire east wall of the old factory crashed over on the basement where the men had been working. The collapse was due to a heavy wind which was blowing from the southeast. The brick demolished the portion occupied by the engine and boiler and damaged the machinery to a large extent. The loss to the company will be at least $2,000 It had been intended to use the old walls by repairing them. It will be necessary to raze them now.

The streets in the vicinity were roped off for a safe distance and the street car traffic on the University line to down town points was suspended.

Dinnie Bros. had the basement walls of the new building about completed and the windows were being put in.

CONDUCTOR REED IS DEAD

News was received in the city yesterday of the death at Brandon of Conductor C. R. Reed, of the Great Northern, who was a resident of Grand Forks for years. He ran on the Churchs Ferry-St. John branch for some time and then was transferred to the Brandon line. His wife and children reside at St. John. He was well known to the railroad men thruout this section.

SAYS ITS A FARGO MOVE

PEOPLE ALONG RED RIVER OPPOSING MOVE TO DECLARE RED RIVER NAVIGABLE

FROM BELMONT TO FARGO—WOULD HAVE TO TEAR DOWN SIX BRIDGES

From Tuesday's Daily—

The business men in the villages along the Halstad line, as well as the farmers on both sides of the Red River are very much opposed to the proposition of the people of Fargo to have the Red River declared navigable from Belmont to Fargo.

It appears that there are six bridges building jointly by the farmers and business men by subscription, which would have to be torn down if the river is opened to navigation, and this would be a great inconvenience to them.

They claim that it is a move on the part of Fargo from selfish motives and that there is no intention or expectation that the government will ever dredge the river and make it really navigable but that the idea is to get rid of the bridges and thus make the people get on the trains and go to Fargo instead of crossing the river and transacting business in the smaller towns across the river.

Hans Samuelson one of the busines men of Climax is spending the day in Crookston having a petition drawn up protesting against the action, and this will be presented at the meeting to be held at Fargo at which a government engineer will be present.

EVERY HONOR PAID M'MRY OF MRS. KOLDEN

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL WAS HELD THIS AFTERNOON FROM SYNOD CHURCH

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. S. S. Kolden were held this afternoon beginning at 2:30 from the Synod church and high tributes to her memory were paid by a congregation of friends filling the church to its capacity. The church altar was banked with flowers and the floral tributes were very profuse and numerous.

Rev. Ordahl of Middle River, where Mrs. olden died, preached the sermon in Scandinavian and Rev. Salveson preached the sermon in English.

Both speakers referred to the beautiful character of the deceased, her patience and her devotion as a wife and mother.

Following the services at the church the remains were taken to Oakdale cemetery where they were tenderly laid to rest after short services at the grave.

Deceased was a sister of Mrs. Andrew Eiken, formerly of this city and now of St. Paul, Mrs. A. O. Daniels, mother of Sheriff Orin Daniels, O. C. Bergland of Clay Co., T. O. Bergland of Ruby, Wash., and the late Mrs. H. B. Tveten.

WILL LOSE AN EYE FROM ACCIDENT

A tiny piece of steel flying from a piece of work a machinist at the Northern Pacific shops at East Grand Forks who was engaged on Saturday afternoon, struck Herman Neurater, a carpenter in the employ of the company who was passing at the time, in the eye. Efforts to dislodge it proved unavailing and the pain becoming very severe Mr. Neureuter went to St. Paul to consult a specialist. It was found impossible to remove the obstruction, which had imbedded itself in the eyeball and the specialist yesterday found that it would be necessary to remove the eye. Mr. Neurater has the sympathy of all in his affliction. He has been with the company for some time and lives on Walnut street in Grand Forks.

A Notable Clock

The most trustworthy clock in the world is said to be that in the basement of the observatory at Berlin, installed in 1865. This time-keeper is enclosed in an air tight glass cylinder and has run for two or three months with an average daily deviation of only fifteen one-thousandths of a second. It is said, too, that for a pure, wholesome table beverage golden grain belt beer has no equal. Keen appetite comes with its use and it removes indigestion. SOO AT WORK ON NEW LINE

WILL JOIN CHICAGO AND WINNIPEG AND BECOME NEW COMPETITIVE FACTOR

THIEF RIVER FALLS WILL BE THE STARTING POINT OF WORK

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Soo line today began preliminary work on 250 miles of new construction in Minnesota that will form the new Duluth to Winnipeg route. It will link Chicago and Winnipeg by a line so direct as to change materially the traffic situation between those cities and bring in a new competitive factor.

Two surveying crews are in the field. Edmund Pennington, president of the Soo, has intimated that because of the desire first to complete the Brooten to Duluth extension and the requirements for the cut off that is to shorten the Wisconsin Central line thru southern central Wisconsin, the construction of the 50 miles referred to may not be pushed till next year, but the preparatory work has begun already.

Thief River Falls will be the starting point. The Minneapolis to Portal line is connected across North Dakota by a Kenmare to Thief River Falls ex tension of about 300 miles. From Brooten, just south of Glenwood, Minn., the line to Duluth, not yet com pleted, begins. On this work will be pushed during the summer. The new 250 miles of road will strike east from Thief River Falls and the first construction will be across Red Lake county to the Indian reservation. Two surveys have been made from there, one north of Red Lake the other to the southward, through Beltrami county.

Besides the old connections direct from Minneapolis to Montreal and to Winnipeg, the Portal connection from Pacific Coast traffic and newer extensions at the western end. The Soo now has Minneapolis, Chicago and Winnipeg linked together and when the Brooten extension into Duluth is completed later in the year it will connect with the western end of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic. Thereby it will strike eastern Canada over this line and thence to Canadian Pacific rails proper as well as by the intimate Canadian Pacific connection at Sault Ste Marie. The Wisconsin division has its direct Duluth line. It makes a strong network,

ATT'Y GENERAL MAY BAR PACKERS

SENATE RESOLUTION DIRECTS STATE LEGAL DEPARTMENT TO ACT

ACTION PROVIDED TO PROTECT UNIVERSITY FROM THREATENED DANGER

What St. Paul failed to effect against location of the Armour packing plant at New Brighton by entreaty the state is to undertake thru legal channels, according to a resolution offered by Senator Frank H. Peterson of Moorhead today.

Stating that the future of the state university is threatened by the proposed construction and operation of one or more meat packing and slaughter house plants, the attorney general of the state is instructed to take "such proceedings in court as he may deem necessary against the proper parties to determine whether such claims of liability to injury to the state's interests are well founded; and if so, that the threatened injurious acts be forthwith restrained."

On notice of debate by Senator A. L. Hanson the resolution was laid over till tomorrow.

NARROWLY ESCAPED INCARCERATION

Deputy Sheriff Sullivan and Jailor Thomas Casey returned this morning from Fergus Falls where they went last evening with Sivert Cliffgaard who was placed in the asylum there Sivert was inclined to be obstreperous at times but the good natured cajolings of Deputy Sullivan and a few Irish stories by Jailor Casey soothed his feelings, in fact he went to sleep during the soothing songs.

According to a special dispatch from Fergus Falls this morning however, Jailor Casey had a narrow escape from being incarcerated in the asylum, himself. Both officers entered into a conspiracy however and refused to give details.

BUSLET LIVES IT IS FOUND

MAN SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN KILLED BY G. N. IS ALIVE AT NORTHWOOD

IDENTITY OF VICTIM OF SHOCKING ACCIDENT MUCH A MYSTERY AS EVER

From Monday's Daily—

It was ascertained definitely yester day that the man who was killed by the Great Northern eastbound Oriental Limited near Arvilla Friday morning was not Ole Buslet of Stevens Point, Wis. Buslet according to a telephone message is alive and well at Northwood.

Hans Gaustad of East Grand Forks had a talk with Coroner A. P. Rounsevell, of Larimore last evening. The coroner brought with him a part of the coat worn by the deceased. Gaustad had given Buslet a coat before he left for Northwood. He stated positively that the coat was not the one he had given Buslet. He described Buslet as about 50 years old; and partly bald. The man killed was about 30 years old and had light hair and was of medium size.

According to the evidence secured by the coroner from Tony Smith, who accompanied the deceased from Emerado west to the point near where he was run down and killed, the deceased was a Pole. He was short and heavy set. He furnished a half pint of whiskey for three comrades on the walk from Grand Forks to Emerado.

Coroner Rounsvell believes that the man was killed by the limited because of the condition of the body. He thinks the deceased fell asleep on the track where he sat down to rest. He had complanied of being footsore.

NEW RAILS FOR NORTHERN PACIFIC

NOW BEING SET BETWEEN WINNIPEG JUNCTION AND JOHNSTOWN

Ned rails have arrived for the Northern Pacific railway and a crew of men have already been putting them in place. The new rails will be set between Winnipeg Junction and Johnstown in Grand Forks County now and later in the summer new rails between Fertile and Grand Forks. The rails between Johnstown and Grand Forks are said to be in first class shape, but an entire change has been found necessary between the other points.

FARMER RUN OVER BY HIS WAGON

FELL BACKWARD FROM REACH—WAS TAKEN TO BETHESDA HOSPITAL

Last evening at 9 o'clock Peter Williams, a farmer residing near Burnham Creek was painfully bruised by falling from the reach of his wagon and being run over by one of the wheels. Several of his ribs, his shoulder and his back were badly bruised and are very lame today, but it is not thought that there are any serious internal injuries. He was taken at once to Bethesda hospital where Dr. Randolph waited upon him and relieved his pain as much as possible The accident happened near the plan ing mill. The team was caught at once and the police took Williams to the hospital.

FORKS RAILROAD MAN IS TO WED

Thomas Cox who has been connectted with the Great Northern freight depot at Grand Forks for the past seven years and not taken a day's leave of absence during all that time, has been granted a month's vacation and left Saturday evening for Boston, Mass. His legion of friends will be interested as well as greatly surprised to know that when he returns the Forks after his thirty day trip, he will be accompanied by his bride.

Owing to the fact that he has never made any suspecting trips or even hinted that he had any acquaintance with cupid, the news as given out by himself on Saturday afternoon came as almost a shock to his fellow employes, but, nevertheless, they at once extended him the heartiest of congratulations and are now anxiously awaiting his return, that they may extend the same to his chosen life mate and hear the interesting romance that must have led up to this happy culmination.

SUIT STARTED TO GET TITLE

VALUABLE PROPERTY INVOLVED IN SUIT STARTED IN DISTRICT COURT

DAN SULLIVAN WANTS CLEAR TITLE TO THE MAINE SALOON PROPERTY

Several intricate questions of law may be involved in an important suit started in the district court yesterday wherein Dan Sullivan seeks to secure title to the business property on DeMers avenue known as "The Maine" at East Grand Forks.

The place has been occupied by Sullivan for the past 19 years and had become one of the most widely known refreshment parlors in all the northwest. It was fitted up with lavish elegance and there are few resorts in the twin cities or Chicago which compare with it in magnificent appointments. The property is a fine brick building, three stories high with an area 25x100 feet. The Minneapolis Brewing Co. holds a deed to the premises transferred by Sullivan in 1898 and Sullivan has a contract for a deed from the company.

He claims his deed to the brewing company was not bona fide, but was given as collateral for a loan of $4,000 and the action is brought on this ground. Notice was served on Sullivan by the brewing company several months ago to vacate but he declined to be ousted and says he will carry the matter up to the supreme court if necessary. The property is occupied temporarily by Harm & Oeschger, while their own building is under construction.

Both Mr. Sullivan and the Minneapolis Brewing Company have made application for a license to sell liquor in the premises concerned in the action and the council can grant but one license. The property is valued at $25,000. H. A. Bronson represents the plaintiff in the case. The papers were served Saturday by Sheriff Daniels.

ARONOVITCH STORE SEIZED BY SHERIFF

E. G. FORKS MERCANTILE ESTABLISHMENT CLOSED BY FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS

The general store of Aronovitch & Co., in the Zedlick block, East Grand Forks was closed Saturday evening, Sheriff Orin Daniels taking possession by virtue of chattel mortgage foreclosure proceedings instituted by Da Ryan of Nash Bros. of Grand Forks to whom it was given for goods purchased at wholesale. The store was opened a year ago or more and has been under the management of a son of the owner. J. H. Aronovitch, who is a resident of Grand Forks. Incidentally Mr. Aronovitch filed a petition in bankruptcy at Fargo Saturday placing his assets at $10,075 of which he claims $5,575 as exemptions and his liabilities are placed at $4,798.58 and there may be some question as to the final outcome of the tangle.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

HELD YESTERDAY BY CONSTANTINE COMMANDERY NO. 20 OF CROOKSTON

CHURCH SERVICE WAS HELD AT M. E. CHURCH IN THE AFTERNOON

From Monday's Daily—

Yesterday Constantine Commandery No. 20, Knights Templar, of Crookston held the usual impressive Easter services. Following brief services in Masonic hall the members of Constantine Commandery, augmented by a delegation of 25 members from St. Aldemar Commandery from Grand Forks, marched to the First M. E. church where the public services were held.

The regular Easter ritual was carried out, a most beautiful and impressive one, Rev. Willard S. Ward, prelate of Constantine presiding, after which Rev. Francis M. McCoy delivered the address. It was one of the most eloquent ever delivered here on such an occasion and brought forth many compliments from both local and visiting Knights.

Following the services at the church the Knights Templar marched back to the Masonic hall where a fine banquet was served. The delegation from Grand Forks, which came over on the Northern Pacific train in the afternoon, were escorted to the Great Northern depot and left last evennig on the 7 o'clock train, well pleased with the services and the entertainment they had received.

The Commanderies of Crookston and Grand Forks alternate in holding Easter services, Constantine Commandery having been the guests of St. Aldemar Commandery last year and will go over again next year.

RETURNS FROM WINTERS TRIP

W. LEMEN OF ANGUS PASSED THRU THE CITY THIS MORNING

Wynkeep Lemen, one of the pioneer land owners and business men of Angus arrived in the city this morning from a winter spent at the old home in West Virginia where he has spent every winter in late years. Mr. Lemen remained in St. Paul a couple of days, having caught a severe cold and thought he was going to have a siege of the grip. J. F. Montgomery of Angus went to Minneapolis Saturday evening and accompanied Mr. Lemen up this morning.

Mr. Lemen states that some bad weather has been experienced in the east this spring, tho it was quite warm when he left. Mr. Lemen is noticeably more feeble than he was a year ago but it is hoped that Northern Minnesota ozone will soon bring back his usual vigor.

BOLD ROBBER, ARMED WITH GUN IS SHOT

Historical Society

Unknown Man [illegible]ttempts To Hold Up George [illegible]ost And John Melgaa[illegible] In A Store At [illegible]osby.

An unknown highwayman who attempted to hold up George Frost and John Melgaard at Frost's store at Rosby last evening at the point of a gun, was frustrated by a remarkable exhibition of nerve on the part of Mr. Frost who put three bullets into the body of the would be robber and the latter only escaped with his life by a rapid exit in the darkness, and it is very likely that the burglar is now in hiding somewhere in the vicinity, nursing severe wounds, altho diligent search has failed to reveal his whereabouts or to give any trace of him.

It appears that the man who made the attempt at robbery came to Rosby yesterday noon, from the direction of Cass Lake. He stated that he was foreman of a crew of men who were repairing wires along the line of the Great Northern railway. He stayed around the general store which is conducted at Rosby by George Frost formerly of Bemidji, and said that he desired to complete a job on a pole opposite the store before the Park Rapids-Bemidji passenger train passed thru from Cass Lake to Bemidji.

At about 8:30 in the evening while Mr. Frost and John Melgaard were standing beside a showcase in the store, talking, the stranger entered the place and asked Melgaard if he would have a cigar. Being answered in the affirmative Melgaard and the stranger walked to the front of the showcase while Mr. Frost went behind the counter to get the cigars.

When Frost turned from behind the counter he was confronted by a big revolver, which the stranger pointed alternately at Frost and Melgaard, commanding them to "throw up your hands."

Both Frost and Melgaard did as they were bidden, and the man with the gun took a bill book from Melgaard's pocket.

While the robber was going thru Melgaard's pockets, his attention was momentarily diverted from Frost, who "ducked" under the counter.

Discovering that Frost had disappeared under the counter, the robber commanded him to "come up" which Frost did having snatched a revolver from his own pocket. Frost fired his weapon point blank at the robber and the latter doubled up like a jack-nife, evidently being hit by the bullet.

The robber returned the fire at Frost but his aim was bad and the bullet went wild.

Frost aimed another bullet at the robber and says that he hit the intruder in the right shoulder the arm in which the robber held his revolver dropping so that he could not raise his weapon to continue the battle.

The stranger rushed for the door and as he passed thru to the outside, Frost fired again.

The robber had failed to obtain anything further than a valuable bill book from Mr. Melgaard, who had some $50 in gold in his pockets and had not attempted to search Mr. Frost.

The man who attempted the hold-up is described by Mr. Frost as being aboutt 35 years of age; 5 feet, 10 inches tall; dark-complexioned, wearing a mustache with remainder of face a ten days' growth of whiskers; wore dark overcoat, with fur collar, and buttoned tight, dark pants one light sock and one dark one, and low rubbers.

THREE MEET TRAGIC END

ALL INDIANS AND FATALITIES RESULT FROM TOO MUCH LIQUOR

TWO BURNED TO DEATH WHILE THIRD, A SQUAW, IS DROWNED

From Monday's Daily—

Three tragic deaths have just occurred near Walker, the victims all being Indians, and too much liquor is blamed for the death of each. Two were burned to death while the other, a squaw, was drowned. David Wright and Kay-tuck were burned to death at the agency Thursday evening in the Frank Columbe house. Both Indians were in Walker that afternoon and returned to the agency at night very much intoxicated.

The origin of the fire is unknown and the only solution is that one of the Indians slept too close to the stove allowing his clothing to catch fire and burning himself to death, as well as his comrade and the dwelling house. Coroner Holman found one of the charred bodies up against the air-tight stove and a further examination proved an inquest not necessary.

An Indian woman named Mary Martin was drowned in Leech Lake near Bear Island Thursday evening. She was in a sleigh at the time and approaching a large crack in the ice near the shore line, the sleigh was overturned throwing the woman into the water. The horse and man with her escaped without injury.

The woman as well as the man, was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

Voted Right

According to the tariff bill which passed the house last week lumber will not be on the free list. We are glad to note, however, that the Minnesota delegation voted solid for free lumber. It is very doubtful whether the senate will put such a provision in the bill it passes.—Greenbush Tribune.

HIGHER PRICES A MONTH OFF

PRESENT FITS OF WHEAT MARKET WILL BE FELT LOCALLY ABOUT MAY 15

IS BELIEF — GENERALLY THOT RELIEF WILL COME BEFORE THAT TIME

From Monday's Daily—

Since the wheat market has taken to flying high and the flour market is having an aeroplane constructed that it may follow in the milky way of its closely allied partner, the people of Crookston have been hearing and reading many bullish reports as to the price of bread and flour The grocerymen and the bakers are crying with faces to the east, "How long, how long can we continue to do business on our present supply of flour " And the echo comes back from the people, "how long, how long before the groceryman raises the price of my flour and the baker cuts the size of my loaf or increases the price?"

Crookston bakers have a supply of flour on hand which they puchased before the price soared to over $7.25 per barrel. Some of them have enough to carry them for a month, some have a less plentiful amount on hand.

In speaking with one of the bakers The Journal was informed that it depended on how long the high prices were continued. "If by this time in May there is no relief —from high prices," said one, "we shall have to raise the price of bread. I hope that it will be unnecessary but with Patten buying July wheat and continuing his bulling tactics there is a strong possibility that Crookston will feel the effect. Some of the eastern cities have already been made to feel the effect. Bread and flour have both taken a decided jump skyward."

There seemed to be little difference of opinion among the local men as to how long they would be able to retain the present price.

GRAND FORKS MAN IS VICTIM OF SWINDLERS

LOSES $1,240 IN THE GAME — GETS NOTES FOR $1090 FOR AMOUNT PAID FOR HORSES HE NEVER RECEIVED — FINDS IT IMPOSSIBLE TO REALIZE ANYTHING ON THE NOTES—APPEALS TO POLICE AND WARRANTS ARE ISSUED FOR THREE ST. PAUL MEN —SWINDLERS ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE CLEANED UP FROM $10,000 TO $15,000 IN DEALS

Dealing in horses without showing the horses is said by the St. Paul police to have enriched three men to the extent of $10,000 or $15,000. The men cannot be found to explain to the police the exact amount they cleared on the alleged transactions.

It was learned yesterday morning that Frank C. Morris who lives near Grand Forks is out $1,240 as the result of dealing with the owners of the invisible steeds. He was to show for the transaction two notes which the banks refuse to honor. Upon information furnished by Mr. Morris, Geo. E. Dix, clerk of the municipal court at St. Paul has issued warrants for the arrest of the trio charging obtaining money under false pretenses.

Attested by an Ad

The warrants are for H. E. Chandler who for a time maintained an office in St. Paul under the name of "H. E. Chandler & Co., dealers in elastic roofing"; Robert Burns with offices at 402 Philipsborn building professing to be in the real estate loan and insurance business and a third man, unknown.

Morris' story is that he went to St. Paul to buy horses. He said he was attracted by an advertisement stating that "H. E. Chandler" had horses to sell. He said that after he had been told of an exceptional opportunity he paid $30 to bind a bargain. A little later, he said, he returned to the office and presented his check for $1,060 in full payment. "Chandler" Morris said, demanded cash, which was obtained and given him. Morris said that when he reached the street he was met by the unknown who told him he had seen Mr. Morris in Chandler's office. Mr. Morris said the unknown confided that the horses he had purchased were spavined and othrewise afflicted.

Would Get Money Back

For $150 in hand the unknown told Mr. Morris he would see "Chandler" and have the purchase price returned Morris and the unknown repaired to Chandler's office, where they were told the cash had been deposited in a bank and checked out for "Robert Burns" was a friend and "Chandler" assured Morris that "Burns" would advance the money. They visited "Burns" according to Mr. Morris and then the two notes were given for the $1,909. The notes were drawn at ten and fifteen days, but Morris has been unable to get any money on them.

The failure of the St. Paul banks to honor the notes aroused the suspicion of Morris who asked the police to search for the trio. None of the men has been located. The St. Paul police say offices were vacated April 10, the day the warrants for their arrest were issued.

The St. Paul police say they believe the trio cleaned up from $10,000 to $15,000 on similar deals.

OLD VETERAN STILL IN RING

HERMAN RUTH TAKES OBSTREPEROUS SON-IN-LAW INTO CAMP

SHOWS MAGNANIMITY AFTER SCRAP BY APPLYING RAW BEEFSTEAK

From Monday's Daily—

As Memorial Day approaches the public anticipates the usual reference to the "thinned ranks an dtottering steps of th e old heroes of '61-'65" but that this feebleness does not apply in some cases was illustrated here Saturday afternoon when Herman Ruth, a member of Col. Cobham Post No. 90 who is well along in the sixties objected to some remarks made by his son-in-law, Wm. Barney, and administered to him the soundest thrashing he ever got in his life.

Ruth is not a large man, being about the size of his son-in-law, but did not hesitate to peel his coat and wade in and he fought like a tiger ts½hr she shre she sh e shrdluetaoin an devery time he landed the blood flew. It was a case of "biff bang" and the ultimate result was that Barney looked as tho he had been run through a sausage machine.

To show his magnanimity after the thrashing had been administered and Barney cried "enough" Ruth loaded him in a hack and took him to his own home where beefsteak was applied to the bruises on Barney's face. Naturally the affair stirred up quite a sensation and Veteran Ruth was quite the hero of the hour.

STATE LAND SALE AT ROSEAU JUNE 10

The sale of state lands in Roseau county will take place on June 10. Through some error this sale has been given a date as of May 10. This is a mistake and should be born in mind by those interested. June 10 is the day set by Auditor Iverson and the sale in Roseau promises to be well attended and bidding spirited.

RUSHING SEED INTO GROUND

FARMERS ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF EVERY MINUTE OF THE GOOD WEATHER

WORK IN PROGRESS FROM ONE END OF THE VALLEY TO THE OTHER

From Tuesday's Daily—

Seeding operations were again resumer full blast Monday morning. The weather Sunday and yesterday was ideal and still warmer weather prevails today. The fields are like one vast garden spot. For the first time in many years when the seeding time started generally thruout the Valley a farmer can run his drill from one end of the field to the other without turning out for even the lowest spot. Every day that good weather prevails means thousands of acres put into crop under more favorable conditions than have prevailed for many years. Ten days of such weather as the present will mean the completion of seeding 75 per cent of the oats and barley, and many farmers will be entirely thru with those grains.

Everybody Seeding

Seeding is general now thruout this section and every farm presents a most animated appearance. The good weather of the past three days has started things moving and the result is that the farmers are all busy. The soil is in excellent condition thruout Polk county and in fact in all sections of the Red River Valley.—E. G. F. Dept. Grand Forks Herald.

Hustling Grain In

P. S. Berg one of the leading farmers of west Eldred, who also is in the well-digging business spent yesterday in the city on business. He says the farmers in that section have made a good tart with their seeding operations and with a good spell of weather will have their crops all in in the best shape they have been seeded for a good many years.

Busy at Hallock

C. A. Hitchcock spent yesterday at Hallock attending to some business matters. He reports that the farmers up north are all rushing the seed into the ground and that conditions in that direction were never better than they are this spring. Two weeks of good weather will see all the wheat and oats in the ground around Hallock with very few exceptions as the plowing is all done for those grains.

W. H. WILLIAMS AGAIN CONFESSES TO FORGERY

Former Crookston Man Who Was In Jail Here For Some For Uttering False Instruments Falls Again.

Admits His Guilt And Is In Jail At Bemidji. Prominent In Church Circles While Here To Be Prosecnted.

From Tuesday's Daily—

Arrested on the charge of forgery in the second degree, late Saturday night, W. Henry Williams, formerly of Crookston, employed by the Northwestern Music company at Bemidji, broke down and confessed that he had wrongfully and wilfully forged a name to a piano contract, last Febroary, and begged for mercy.

Williams was taken into custody while in the Northwestern Music company's store, when he was preparing to leave for his residence. When Deputy Sheriff Andrew Johnson confronted Williams with the warrant for his arrest, Williams was greatly agitated and on being informed by J. H. Crouch the proprietor of the exact nature of the charge, Williams in answer to a question as to his guilt or innocence, broke down and weepingly admitted that he had committed forgery, giving no excuse for his act. He was lodged in the county jail, awaiting a hearing, which was to have been held yesterday but which was postponed because of the physical break-down of the prisoner.

The exact charge lodged against Williams is that of having forged the name of G. E. Semon of Mizpah to an alleged contract with the Northwestern Music company of Bemidji for the sale to Semon of a Schultz piano valued at $375. The contract bears the date of February 4 and the first payment on the contract was supposed to be made on February 15. No money was forthcomnig on that date and J. H. Crouch proprietor of the Northwestern Music House, was not exactly satisfied with the transaction but paid no particular attention to it until some time later.

Last week Mr. Crouch became suspicious of the contract supposed to have been made with Semon and, sending Williams to Grand Rapids so that he would not be in this vicinity, Mr. Crouch went to Mizpah and interviewed Mr. Semon. It took but a few moments for Semon to satisfy Mr. Crouch that he had not made the contract with Williams and Mr. Crouch returned to Bemidji determined to punish Williams for his wrongdoing.

Williams returned from Grand Rapids Saturday morning, but Mr. Crouch deferred serving the warrant on him until late Saturday night.

Mr. [illegible] that he will push [illegible] aided him when that aid was needed most and placed confidence in him. This confidence has been miserably abused and Mr. Crouch is determined that Williams shall suffer for his conduct.

This is not Williams' first offense. He was arrested on a similar charge here a few years ago and was held in the Polk County Jail for several months when his wife's relatives came forward and made a settlement with the Bank of Crookston who had advanced money to Williams on forged paper.

Williams then promised to make a new start entirely and lead an honest life, but it appears that he fell again and Crouch seems determined to push the case to the limit.

Williams was a resident of Crookston for a number of years, was quite a singer and lead the singing in one of the local churches. He was also a musician and gave music lessons and also tuned pianos off and on.

MISS PECK IS SAFE; ROGERS & MAURY DEAD

REV. CHAMBERS AND WIFE ALSO SAFE AS IS REV. CHRISTIE—DEFINITE NEWS WAS RECEIVED BY WIRE FROM CONSTANTINOPLE THIS MORNING—GREAT RELIEF FELT IN CROOKSTON RESULT OF THE NEWS

Constantinople, April 19—Confirmation has been received here of the killing of two American missionaries at Adana. They were Mr. Rogers and Mr. Maury. Others connected with mission are safe including Mr. Christie, who is at Tarsus.

This definite news received by wire this morning from Constantinople means that Miss Sarah Louise Peck formerly teacher in the Crookston schools, who is now in a seminary at Adana is safe, as are Rev. Chambers and wife of Minneapolis and the Misses Elizabeth and Mary Webb, well known in this state, but who formerly resided in Missouri, but who are all located in and about Adana.

The pacific tone of the dispatches received Sunday would indicate that the worst of the trouble is over and that the American missionaries are now safe from further violence.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SWEDISH CONFERENCE

The Fargo Districts of Swedish Lutheran Minnesota Conference will hold their annual meeting in the Swedish Lutheran church in Sampson addition Tuesday and Wednesday April 27 and 28.

Rev. N. O. Grunden from Fargo, P. E. Bergstrom from Maple Cheyenne, N. D., N. Lehart from Detroit, Minn., and several other ministers will attend. The services will commence on Tuesday evening and continue the following day in the afternoon and the evening. The program will be announced later.

It's a wonder that more mone don't become round shouldered from stooping to folly.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM THURSDAYS DAILY

GOT 20 DAYS—Robert Hall was arrested for drunkenness last evening and sent to the Daniels Hotel for 20 days to think of it.

KILLED DOG—The autos have not been out long enough for the dogs to get the real "Auto Dodge" down pat and as a result one dog was run over and killed last evening.

DANIELS AT EUCLID — Sheriff Daniels left this morning for Euclid where he had some papers to serve. The sheriff and his deputies have been very busy for some time past.

ON LEGAL BUSINESS—Atty. Geo. Judson left this morning for Fosston where he was called on legal business for the firm of Judson and Fulton.

COL. STADSVOLD HERE—Col. S. S. Stadsvold, one of the leading business men and politicians of eastern Polk county came down from Fosston last evening and proceeded to St. Paul on business.

HAD BIG MEETING—The Eagles held a big meeting Tuesday evening at which a class of 3 was initiated. The Eagles are very active and taking in new members at every meeting.

ATTORNEY CHILGREN HOME—Attorney Albert Chilgren who has been attending to some important legal matters here for the past several days returned this morning to his home at Williams. He is doing well there and is in the very best of health.

PEET PAVING CASE—The appeal in the Peet paving case against the city of East Grand Forks has been set for hearing May 15th by the supreme court. This is the case that was appealed from the decision of the district court jury against the city when tried last winter.

TO LOCATE IN SEATTLE—Emil Lindell one of the well known young men of Crookston who has been a Great Northern lineman here for some time past and prior to that juggled cut glass behind the mahogany, left last evening for Seattle, Wn., where he will continue with the G. Northern as lineman. He has hosts of friends here who will wish him every success.

PASTOR CALLED — Rev. Mireck conducted services twice at the Congregational church last Sunday. In the evening he preached his farewell sermon. At the close of the service a meeting was held of the members and friends of the church and a formal call was extended to Rev. Michaels of Walker to become the pastor of this church. Rev. Mireck has won many friends during his short pastorate of six months. He will remain at McIntosh. The new pastor is expected to arrive about the first of May.—Mahnomen Plaintalk.

Government Inspector Hinman who was here to look over the local post office decided last evening that it would be safer to move from the present building and it has been decided to move into the vacant room in the McKinnon block facing Main street. The date of the move has not been decided upon.

The farmers about this section are seeding or dragging quite generally this afternoon and a few more days like this will see work going in full blast.

Down the Halstad line yesterday afternoon practically all the farmers were at work. With good warm weather from now till the first of May practically all the wheat and oats would be in the ground as the plowing is all done for those grains.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

OLD TIMER HERE—Thomas Hunter, of Euclid, took the train for Crookston Thursday evening

JUST ONE DRUNK—There was but one lonely drunk to break the monotony at the police station this morning. He was invited to hop along with the snowflakes.

ROUTED THE FRENCH—In a championship game of pool this afternoon, witnessed by those in high places at Carl Ness' pool room, the colors of France were trailed in the dust and the flag of Norway hoisted.

RECEIVED SAD NEWS—Engineer Alex Johnston, who lives at 212 South Main street, received the sad message yesterday morning from Farewell, Ont., Canada, telling of the death of his father on April 5th.

RASMUS TO STILLWATER — John Rasmus, the man sentenced to six months in the penitentiary at Stillwater for stealing some harness at East Grand Forks, was taken down last evening by Sheriff Daniels to start serving his time.

TRIP TO DUGDALE—C. C. Strander left this morning for Dugdale, taking advantage of the fine weather, where he will attend to some business with Herman Camp, the merchant who burned out recently, the Strander Abstract & Investment Co. having carried all the insurance.

JUST IN TIME—Street Commissioner Duval timed cleaning the business streets of the city just about right. Practically all of them had been swept and the dirt hauled away before the snow this morning, otherwise with the present moisture there would have been a very disagreeable "mush" to wade through.

MOVES TO EUCLID—E. C. Murney, who has been located in Crookston in the blacksmithing business, went to Euclid this morning to spend the day on business. It is probable that Mr. Murney will return to Euclid in a short time and re-open his shop there where he was in business for a great many years.

DIRECTOR RIGGS HERE—Director G. O. Riggs, for many years director of the Crookston band, and considered one of the leading amateur band directors of the country, and now at the head of the Grand Forks aggregation of wind-jammers, came over this morning to spend the day with his family.

UP IN THE WOODS—A. L. Erickson left this morning on a business trip, where he will spend a few days. He has just returned from a trip to Fargo, where he saw Messrs. Loren Wilde, Hal Davies and others from this city.

OPERATOR ILL—A. L. Berkland, the linotype operator for the Journal, was attacked yesterday with a fever and suffered severely all night. He was somewhat improved and the physician believes the fever is broken up, though it may be several days before he is able to resume work.

FORGER BOUND OVER—Guy Zimmerman, the stranger who was arrested Wednesday on the change of forgery, was given a hearing in the municipal court yesterday at East Grand Forks and bound over to the grand jury on the charge of uttering forged paper. Bonds were fixed at $250, but he was unable to secure bail and in default he was committed to the Polk county jail and was brought over last night by Deputy Pat Sullivan.

SELLS SALOON—John Hoyum has sold the Christiana Saloon on South Main street to Cornelius Skibstad, of Halstad, who will take possession at once. The saloon may remain closed a few days while stock is being taken, during which time some changes will be made. Mr. Hoyum has been in the business a long time here and has not made up his mind as to what he will do in the future, though he will probably remain in the city. Mr. Skibstad is an experienced man and has many friends in Crookston and will undoubtedly get his share of the patronage.

O. C. Nelson, who was convicted of holding up and robbing a lumberjack in this city and sentenced to six months in the state penitentiary, had his sentence commuted by Judge Watte to 50 days in the Polk county jail.

OLDTIMER IS HERE—Casper Sands, one of the oldest conductors of the Great Northern, who retired from active service a few years ago to look after his fruit ranch near Puyallup, Wash., arrived in the city yesterday for a visit with his son and Grand Forks friends. He has been very successful in the fruit raising business.—Grand Forks Herald. Conductor Sands ran out of and through Crookston for years and has a fine farm in northern Polk county now.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

VISITED SON—Rev. T. T. Ove and son arrived from Minneapolis this morning, where they have been visiting Rev. Oye's other son for a few days.

WORK AT BARNESVILLE—Nels Hagen, G. N. Carpenter, is at Barnesville to repair the incline at the coal chute and to make other minor repairs about the shops and round house.

USED A TIE PASS—Rev. C. C. Warner returned from his trip last evening. He made the four points by liberal use of a "tie pass," walking the track from Ebro to Bagley and from Fosston to McIntosh.

PEDDLING SINGERS—Wm. Emmerich is spending the day at Mentor, where he expects to install several "Singers" before the arrival of the summer boarders and for their entertainment.

HAVE THE AUTO FEVER—Dr. T. Bratrud, the Spaulding livery and Wm. Erickson, all of Warren, are all sporting new automobiles and several others are expected to arrive there before the spring is much further advanced.

VISITED OLD HAUNTS — Sam Rustad, an old time resident of Bagley, came down from Crookston, where he now resides, yesterday, returning in the afternoon. Sam says that seeding has been under way more or less for the past week west of Crookston.—Bagley Independent.

THIEF RIVER DIRECTORY — John H. Ley, who is getting out the directory for the city of Thief River Falls, expects to finish his work in about two weeks. He states that the directory will show Thief River Falls to have a population of considerable over 5,000.

WILL VISIT FAIR—Among the Fertileites who will visit the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle, Wash., this summer are Otto Kankel, Brown Duckstad, Hans Paulsrud and N. H. Romuld. There will, no doubt, be several others who will go from there.

MANAGED TO SLIP OUT—After landing Rasmus in Stillwater yesterday morning Sheriff Daniels managed to slip out past the guards himself and arrived in Crookston this morning.

BACK FROM FERTILE—A. O. Hanson, the well known horseshoer has returned from Fertile, where he spent a couple of days showing some trotting horses and stallions. During the balance of the summer he will spend two days there every two weeks for the same purpose.

A FINE DAUGHTER ARRIVED—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. S. Bond are the parents of a very fine 8-pound daughter which arrived last evening. Mother and babe are both doing well today and the proud dad is furnishing farm help free at the Great Northern Employment Agency today and giving the farmer a cigar in the bargain.

IMPROVEMENTS AT DETROIT—Work has commenced excavating for the new sewerage system which Detroit is putting in this season. Something over four miles of sanitary and storm sewers will be put in. Not only this, but Detroit is building a new $50,000 school building. C. W. Street, of Deer Lodge, Mont., has been elected superintendent of the Detroit schools for next year. He is a Carleton College graduate.

WILL LEAVE FOR IDAHO—Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Gooler will leave on Tuesday next, April 20, for Couer d' Alene, Idaho, where they expect to locate. Mr. Gooler has been an employe at the Busterud hardware store for many years and is a competent man. The departure of the family from Crookston will be deeply regretted, and best wishes for success in their new home will follow them.

HOME FROM ST. PAUL—Atty. Chas. Loring returned this morning from a trip to St. Paul, where he spent yesterday arguing a case before the supreme court. The case is an important one from Ferris. Mr. Loring did not have time to visit the state legislature and the only member he saw was Senator F. H. Peterson from Moorhead. He says the weather was fine there, no rain having fallen at all.

TRAP ARTISTS ARE BUSY—President Lodgard, of the East Grand Forks Gun club, has called a meeting of the club to be held at the commercial club rooms on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. An invitation is extended to all interested to attend the meeting, which is called for the purpose of reorganizing the club and electing officers for the season. The grounds and traps have been fixed up in good shape. The meeting will decide when the first shoot will be held. The club has a large membership now and there will be numerous additions this season. A number from Grand Forks have applied for membership.

UPSET STOMACH OR INDIGESTION

ENDS FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING SOME DIAPEPSIN

STOPS FOOD FERMENTATION AND CURES STOMACH TROUBLE BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, billousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermantation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a litle Diapepsin.

MORE POTATO GROWERS ARE NEEDED—A potato expert has given out the statement that the potato is the only important agricultural crop that is produced in this country in quantities insufficient to supply the demand. There are a few men who seem to realize the significance of this statement and they are the only ones who have gone into potato farming on a considerable scale, not to throw it up at the end of one or two years, but to stay by it for a period of years, by which plan they can realize the average prices; and that prices makes some surprising profits for the man who knows how to grow potatoes.

WILL PLANT POTATOES—Two farmers by the name of Christianson and Nelson, of Liberty, who are new settlers, will plant twenty acres each to potatoes this spring. There is no doubt about this country being the best potato section in the state, and we have often wondered why more of the farmers hereabouts do not go into it more extensively.

WITH LAND SEEKERS—A. G. Brager spent yesterday at Thief River Falls showing land to Harry and John Gollerud, two friends from his old home at Osage, Iowa, with whom he is going to trade three quarters of land for a large stock of merchandise. Last evening he took them to Fosston and today they are looking at some land in the town of Gully.

EUROPE IN 1910—Rev. H. W. Georgi, of East Grand Forks, announces that he is organizing a party for foreign travel in the summer of 1910—Passion Play year, under the bureau of university travel, Boston. Announcement is made thus early to allow of plans for saving money and for preliminary reading.

CAPTURED WOLVES — Knute Knuteson went out west of Fertile the other day and within a few hours returned with one female wolf and several whelps. He discovered their den and dug them out and for his trouble will receive a bounty of $26.00. Knute is now entitled to the belt as the champion wolf hunter of Polk county, heretofore worn by his brother, Brown.

WANTS WEATHER BUREAU — Representative, Steenerson has asked Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, to establish weather bureau stations at Baudette, Warroad and Fosston. The purpose of establishing these stations is to ascertain the rainfall in the vicinity of the Lake of the Woods for the benefit of the state drainage bureau, when the time comes to construct drainage works in that section of the state.

Replying to student, we would say that the Cannon rules do not contravene the constitution of the United States. They merely supplant it.—Philadelphia North American.

A HALF MILLION DOLLARS INVOLVED

Prominent Fosston Men Buy 56,000 Acres Of Land In Cuba. Biggest Deal Here In Years.

Practically $100,000 Paid On Deal. 46,000 Acres Of Mahogany And 1,000 Acre Plantation.

From Friday's Daily—

One of the biggest land deals on record in which Minnesota business men have been interested in years, involving about $500,000, has been practically closed and involves the purchase of 56,000 acres of land in Cuba, those interested principally being well known business men of Fosston, including Col. S. S. Stadsvold, who is now in St. Paul in connection with the deal; M. E. Randklev, who returned from St. Paul this morning; John Vig, L. W. Larson, and others, and Messrs. Horton and Simpson, of Wheatland, Minn., with others of that place. The enormous purchase is located between the Guantanamo and Filipino Rivers and 7 miles from the city of the former name, and very close to the United States fort.

46,000 acres of the land is covered with fine mahogany and 1,000 acres is a plantation ready for cultivation.

Messrs. Vig and Larson, of Fosston, and Horton and Simpson of Wheaton, are now enroute to Cuba to look up a few matters regarding the titles to the land and if everything is alright as expected the deal is closed. The parties interested have already made several trips, the deal having been under consideration for several months. Nearly $100,000 has already been paid in cash to bind the bargain.

Equality In Our Public Schools

The Duluth News Tribune of yesterday contained one of the best and most time editorials that has come to our notice in some time as effecting every community, the home life of all—and, consequently, a most vital subject—the desirability, yea necessity, of democracy in our public schools. The News Tribune discussed the subject in connection with a decision to change admission to the class day exercises, and congratulated the class that the first decision had been reconsidered with the expectation that the affair would be made public. Upon this text the News Tribune discourses at some length and in a most able manner the necessity of maintaining in our public schools a spirit of equality among all students. Purse strings should never be allowed to have the least prestige, neither should the social standings of the parents of the students.

All should stand upon an absolutely equal footing. If the young lady or young man who happens to have a rich dad feels that he cannot associate with those whose parents are of humble means, then they should get out, go to some private school where a diploma can be secured for money regardless of scholarship and not be a menace to our public schools.

How often is it that the student of humble parentage, as far as finances and social attainments is concerned, leads the class! Far more often is this seen than the opposite.

The fundamental principle of the public schools is that of democracy which means that no one should be barred from any of its privileges because of financial reasons, nor in any way be made to feel the inequality of the purse. This necessitates simplicity in all school affairs, social as well as of the class routine.

It should be the pleasure of every pupil to promote this spirit and to preserve the public schools as the one place, the one period of our lives, when there is absolute equality, with a total absence of all class distinctions, whether measured financially, by birth or by social connections.

Every public school student has learned that mentally, in scholarship, in kindly helpfulness and good fellowship, there is no such dividing line. The poor boy and the poor girl are not the ones who have the poor brains nor the poor hearts. All, whether the children of the rich or of the poor, of the favored or less fortunate, meet daily on an equal footing in the class rooms and no barriers should be set up at any other time.

It should be the effort of those from the better homes to make the school life of those from the poorer homes as easy, as pleasant and as happy as possible, and they have but half learned the lesson of the American free school if they have not come to realize that the essentials of manhood and womanhood are not marked by any outward garb.

Virginia's Road Methods

We are accustomed to think of Virginia as a rather backward state in such items of internal improvement as road building. The fact is, however, as a recent Minnesota visitor to the Old Dominion has told in The Journal, that Virginia has adopted a very progressive and prudent policy. Her convicts are put to work on the roads under humane and even beneficial conditions, their labor being furnished free to the counties, and model camps being arranged for their outdoor life.

But that is not all. The last legislature appropriated half a million dollars for permanent road construction. This is expended under the supervision of the state highway commission In order that the various counties may share fairly in the benefits, the expenditures are proportioned to the amount of taxes paid by each county, which is also required to expend an amount equal to that expended by the state.

This sound policy is in sharp contrast to the Minnesota plan of maintaining a state highway commission, and then appropriating a large sum to be distributed direct to the counties, with absolutely no restrictions or safeguards. The result is that Virginia is building a fine system of permanent highways, graveled or macadamized, while Minnesota is pouring her money out for the benefit of the political fortunes of legislators, but with little permanent or correlated benefit to the highways of the state. Minnesota ought to sit at Virginia's feet and learn a few things.—Minneapolis Journal.

WILL MOVE ENTIRE TOWN—Iver Sherry, a Fosston contractor,, is at present engaged in what may sound at first like a huge undertaking, but is not as serious as it seems. He is moving the village or community known as Bijou, on the Soo line south of here. It consists of three buildings in all, which he will locate upon lots platted as a townsite since the structures were erected. The average distance of the move is about 500 feet.

There is no need to attribute the removal of industries from the small towns to to the larger cities to knocking, or jealousy or sentimental reasons of any kind. It has been going on all the time for years. It will continue to go on as long as the railroads are permitted to discriminate against the country and in favor of the city. When you get down to brass tacks that will be found to be the real cause of the abandonment of nine out of ten of all the country mills once prosperous, which are not now in operation.—Northfield News.

PRESIDENTIAL WORK FOR JOHNSON STARTS

Two Of His Political Managers Said To Be Sizing Up Situation In Washington.

Growing AntiBryan Sentiment Counted Upon To Advance Cause Of Minnesotan.

Washington, April 19—It is a far cry from now to the presidential campaign of 1912. Just the same there is evidence in Washington of underground work in behalf of Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota, with that long distant event in view.

During the past few days two of the political managers of Johnson have been in Washington to get at the true inwardness of the anti-Bryan movement in the house of representatives They noted with keen interest the revolt against Bryan and Champ Clark, led by Representative Fitzgerold of New York.

Several political conferences have been held as a result of the visit here of the Johnson sleuths and further developments will doubtless indicate to what extent the Johnson people will benefit by the outbreak against Bryan.

Revolt Against Bryan Spreading

It will create no surprise if certain Western democrats in the house should be found with Fitzgerald on the next lineup on the basis of Bryanism in the house. There is evidence that the revolt against the Nebraskan is spreading and that Fitzgerald will have additional support the next time an issue is made. Certain Indiana and Illinois congressmen who had pledged themselves to stand with him on the rules fight, weakened at the last moment, but are expected to gather courage enough to show their colors before long.

The Johnson men are operating quietly. They are avoiding the appearance of a propaganda but just the same they are wideawake and letting no opportunity pass to manufacture sentiment for their candidate.

Good Session for Johnson

Johnson is just winding up the affairs of the Minnesota legislature after what his friends consider a most successful session.

When the Minnesota lawmakers got together the republicans appointed to steering committee to put the governor "in bad." They realized that unless something could be done to injure his prestige Johnson would be a most formidable candidate for president in 1912.

The steering committee started out to manufacture trouble for him by blocking all his reform measures.

The governor outwitted his opponents, however, and, as his supporters affirm, secured the passage of a number of popular, progressive laws, Johnson's plurality last November was 28-000. Taft carried the state by 80,000 four years ago Roosevelt carried Minnesota by 160,000 and Johnson carried it by 7,000. In 1906 an off year Johnson was elected by 73,000.

TARIFF MUST BE SCALED

J. J. HILL SAYS NEXT HOUSE WILL BE DEMOCRATIC UNLESS PLEDGES ARE REDEEMED.

DESIRES TO SECURE COURTESIES FOR JAPANESE BUSINESS MEN WHO WILL VISIT COUNTRY.

Washington, April 1 —That the house in the next congress will be controlled by the democrats unless the republican party carries out its platform pledges to revise the tariff downward, is the substance of a declaration made today by James J. Hill.

'The people want the tariff revised downward," said Mr. Hill. "That means a reduction of rates. The people have not forgotten the promises made in the last campaign, and it is incumbent upon the party in power to make good. Party lines in the United States have never been so nearly obliterated as at present It therefore behooves the republican majority in congress to make its deed square with the words uttered by representatives of the party on the stump last fall."

Refuse to Comment on Bills.

Mr. Hill refused to make any comment on either the Payne bill or the measure reported by the senate committee on finance. "I want to see the tariff question settled as soon as possible,' he continued. "I am interested in the return of prosperity. We have had two lean years. Normal conditions of prosperity will be restored, I believe, as soon as the new tariff law is laid on the statutes."

The statement quoted was made by Mr. Hill immediately after a call on Speaker Cannon at the capitol. Mr. Hill was accompanied to the speaker's office by Howard Elliott president of the Northern Pacific; John F. Carroll, counsel of the Burlington, and Representative Stevens, of St. Paul.

Talked With Cannon.

They had a talk with the speaker, but Mr. Hill and the others said it had nothing to do with public questions.

"Mr. Hill makes it a practice," said one of them," to pay his respects to the speaker every time he comes to Washington."

It was learned that one of the objects of Mr. Hill's visit to Washington at this time was to interest the government in the prospective visit to the United States of thirty representative business men of Japan. They have been invited to take part in the Alaska-Yukon exposition, to be held at Seattle.

To Visit Twin Cities.

After looking over the show it is their purpose to make a tour of the Northwest, visiting St. Paul, Minneapolis andother cities in that region, and then proceed to the East, where they will visit important points on the Atlantic seaboard. Mr. Hill wants the government to show the Japanese as many courtesies as possible. Before leaving Washington he will take the matter with President Taft, Secretary of State Knox and other public officials.

Mr. Hill is of the opinion that the visit of the Japanese business men will do much to allay the friction now existing between the United States and Japan.

SPECULATION IS STILL RIFE

SOME QUESTION AS TO WHO WILL COMPOSE EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY COMMISSION.

W. E. McEwen, state labor commissioner.

G. M. Gillette, a prominent twin city manufacturer.

G. V. Mercer, of Minneapolis, a member of the state bar association.

The above persons have generally been picked as the commission likely to be named by Gov. Johnson, following his approval of the Campbell employers' liability commission act, but it is now said that there is a hitch in the program.

The appointment of McEwen and Gillette, according to those close to the administration, is assured, but that of G. V. Mercer is in doubt, Wires are being pulled that may result in the selection of some other member of the bar association.

Pierce Butler is picked by some to be the third member of the commission, but opposition is also being made to his selection. The argument advanced by the opposition is that his insurance connections, in a legal way, make him ineligible.

Gov. Johnson refused today to anticipate the appointment of the commission in any way. He said he would sign the bill, which is now being engrossed, but as to his appointment of those who would compose the commission called for in the bill, he could not see his way clear at this time to make and comment.

HOUSE ADVOCATES OF AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS ACCEDE TO SENATE BILL

From Saturday's Daily—

The lower house of the Minnesota legislature has decided to withdraw from its position on the agricultural school proposition, and instead of holding out for the L. H. Johnson bill, which the house passed, the friends of the movement will work for the F. E. Putnam bill sent over from the senate, allowing $25,000 a year for state aid to ten high schools putting in departments for agricultural training.

The legislature has in fact created another branch school at Morris, by accepting the Indian school buildings there from the government. To begin with, the omnibus bill as framed today allows $7,000 for equipment of these buildings as an agricultural school, and $5,000 a year for maintenance.

The Minneapolis Journal says that the Crookston branch school is also to receive liberal treatment.

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proved to be as represented.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now supposing you had a bad back,
A Lame, Weak or Aching one,
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures.

Easy to prove local testimony.
Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Read this case:

John Carter, carpenter, 516 Front St. N., Crookston, Minn., says: "I cannot say enough in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at Wallace's drug store. I never knew of a remedy that gave such fine results in cases of kidney trouble. We have been using them in my home and a number of my friends have tried them and in every case they have brought prompt relief. The benefit has been so surprising and gratifying that I wonder that we did not use Doan's Kidney Pills long before."

There are some words that make every interested woman stop, look, and listen. Hips, hoopskirts and panniers are three of them. These are very dangerous suggestions. They are like a red rag to an angry bull when you shake them before the face of the designer who has worked out his new models on the long and slinky lines that women said they loved a month or two ago; and it is just as dangerous to flaunt them before the woman who owns six Empire gowns. There is good authority (and not the troubled designer either) for the statement that the hour-glass figure will not win out quite yet. The lady with the painful shape—if she were to be admitted—might bring in with her the pannier and the hoopskirt; in fact, all things bouffant. For the present there are but small concessions in her favor. The skirt is the least bit fuller when made of sheer materials and flimsy fabrics that will in no way disturb the present straight line, and the petticoat has really been promised a place some time in the future. The wandering waist line has become fairly permanent—just slightly higher than the actual line—for street wear and tub gowns. Summer materials do not lend themselves to the high waisted treatment. It is, however, believed that the Empire gown will hold its own beside the incoming Princess robe for the elaborate summer gown and for evening occasions, distinctions being made in favor of either for personal or becoming reasons.

We often wonder how any person can be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs colds and lung trouble. Do not be fooled into acepting "own make" or other substitutes. The genuine contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

KILLED BY A SOO TRAIN

FARMER LIVING NEAR CALLAWAY KILLED FRIDAY EVENING BY SOO LOCAL

MAN HAD BEEN DRINKING AND WAS PROBABLY ASLEEP ON THE TRACK

From Friday's Daily—

When No. 111, the local day passenger train that runs between Thief River Falls and St. Paul, arrived in Thief River last evening a part of the skull of a man was found upon the tender of the engine. This was the first knowledge that the engine crew had of a person being run over and inquiry was at once made at all of the stations down the line, The body of the dead man was found at Callaway and it proved to be that of Knut Taxson, a well-to-do farmer living near that village. Mr. Tazson, it is said, had been drinking quite heavily for a week or more and it is believed that he went to sleep on the railroad track and was struck by the train which passed through Callaway after it had grown dark.

MISS PECK IN DANGER ZONE

THE WELL KNOWN MISSIONARY FROM CROOKSTON LOCATED AT ADANA, TURKKEY

TWO AMERICAN MISSIONARIES KILLED THERE AND FRIENDS ARE APPREHENSIVE

From Friday's Daily—

The announcement in the telegraphic reports that two American missionaries were killed at Adana, Turkey, as a result of the uprising there, has caused widespread anxiety in Crookston from the fact that Miss Peck, a former teacher in the public schools of Crookston, is located at Adana.

While Miss Peck may have been in no danger, she is as apt to have been one of the victims as any other missionary and detailed reports of the dead, giving their names, etc., will be awaited with intense interest as well as apprehension.

MAKES GOOD NEW BUTTER PRIZE

DAIRY AND FOOD COMMISSIONER ENCOURAGES IMPROVEMENT OF PRODUCTS

A new feature is to be added to the butter scoring contests this year, and known as the "improvement" contest. The idea is to give a prize to the contestant who shows the largest percentage of grain this year over his record of last year, irrespective of whether he stands near the top of the bottom of the list.

The Minnesota state dairy and food commission believes that this will supply an incentive to the man who did not win any prizes last year to strain every nerve to better his dairy products this year.

Last year about 200 butter and cheesemakers took part at different times, although only eighty-five entered in all six contests. The first prize in each of the three classes, whole milk butter, hand separator butter and cheese, was a trip to New York and the second a trip to Chicago. Arrangements are now being made for the contests, the first of which will probably be held at the Booth cold storage warehouse in St. Paul, about the middle of May.

NEW I. O. G. T. AT CLIMAX

MAYOR HANS SAMUELSON WAS ELECTED CHIEF TEMPLAR LAST EVENING

Messrs. G. T. Hagen, O. K. Berget, Hans Waage and John Klock returned this morning from Climax, where last evening they organized an enthusiastic lodge of Good Templars with a very flattering membership. and every indication points to a flourishing organization. Mayor Hans Samuelson was elected chief templar of the lodge and the membership includes many of the leading citizens of that progressive village.

THE TONNAGE TAX BILL PASSES SENATE

Measure Now Awaits Signature Of Gov. Johnson To Be Law. May Be Vetoed.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—The so-called tonnage tax bill providing for a tax on iron ore and iron ore lands in the northern part of the state, passed the senate last night after a prolonged debate. The bill was previously passed by the house. The bill provides for a tax on an ad valorem basis on mines producing not more than 20,000 tons of ore a year and for a tax on each ton of ore taken from mines that produce more than 20,000 tons a year. The tonnage tax is to be levied in proportion to the amount of iron ore and will range from three to five cents a ton. The latter is purely state tax.

The people from the northern part of the state made a determined fight against the bill, claiming it will ruin the iron mining industry in the state and cause the United States Steel corporation to pay more attention to the development of iron mines in other parts of the country.

In certain circles there is a well defined rumor that the measure will be vetoed by Governor Johnson.

SURE INDEX OF PROSPERITY

35 PER CENT LESS DELINQUENT PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXPAYERS THAN LAST YEAR

AND 50 PER CENT LESS THAN MANY YEARS—SHERIFF GETS WARRANTS NEXT WEEK

From Saturday's Daily—

The general prosperous conditions in Polk county as compared with past years is very conclusively shown this spring by the fact that there are but 200 delinquent personal property tax payers.

Last year there were 300, which is about the average of the past, while the number has often exceeded 400. This shows there is money in the county, especially among the farmers.

This is a remarkable showing as there could be no better index of the prosperous conditions than the fact that taxes are paid promptly. It means that the money is in the country. The farmers are prospering and, with another good year, such as is promised by all signs, the Red River Valley will be in the best shape it has been in its history by a large majority.

The personal property warrants will be turned over to Sheriff Daniels and his force next week, after which there will be some lively scrambling for cover on the part of those who have neglected to pay up their portion of the expenses of government.

SKRIVSETH SELLS OUT FOR $12,000

FORMER CROOKSTON PHOTOGRAPHER TO LEAVE MINOT FOR SEATTLE

Friends here will be interested in the announcement that J. L. Skrivseth, for years a prominent photographer of Crookston, but who has been located in Minot for some time in the same line of business, has disposed of his studio for $12,000 and will leave in a few weeks for Seattle, Wash., where he intends locating in the same line of business.

In addition, Mr. Skrivseth has two fine residences in Minot which net him $40 per month, and also has several lots there. He has prospered at Minot and the sale is an excellent one.

PLEASED WITH SCH'L OF AGRICULTURE

A. S. BURROWS AND NEPHEW SPENDING DAY HERE FROM GRAND FORKS.

A. S. Burrows, one of the capitalists of Grand Forks, and member of the school board at that place, arrived this morning accompanied by his nephew, Chester Huffman, and, after attending to some business with Walsh & Low, drove to the Crookston School of Agriculture, where he spent the day as the guest of Supt. and Mrs. Robertson, inspecting the school and the state experiment farm.

They returned to Grand Forks on the N. P. this afternoon, Mr. Burrows expressing his keenest satisfaction at the splendid work being done there. Mr. Burrows is a thoroughly practical man, and realizes that the School of Agriculture as well as the experiment farm means much to the future prosperity of the Red River Valley on both sides of the river.

REV. STROH MODERATOR

MEETING OF ADAMS PRESBYTERY AT WARROAD SUCCESSFUL

REV. GILCHRIST AND DR. MARCUM DELEGATES TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

From Saturday's Daily—

Rev. W. S. Ward has returned from Roseau, where he delivered an address in the interest of the State Sunday School Association. He also attended the meeting of Adams Presbytery at Warroad on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Rev. Neil A. Gilchrist, of Thief River Falls, and Dr. E. H. Maroum, of Bemidji, were elected delegates to represent the Presbytery at the meeting of the General Assembly in Denver May 30 to June 2. Rev. Grant Stroh, of Warren, was elected moderator of the Presbytery. The people of Warroad were very hospitable, and the stores were closed in the evenings that their employes might attend the evening services of the Presbyetry.

SPANISH FORTUNE FAKE IN VALLEY

CROOKS FIND AN ALVARADO FARMER TOO WISE TO "BITE"

That hoary old swindle of a rich Spanish girl in want of a guardian Spanish orphan girl in want of a guardian has at last reached Marshall county. It has been exposed times without number, but that fact does not prevent its originators from continuing to try to work it. This is a large country and when it becomes unsafe to push the game in one locality it is easy to find another a has scarcely been heard of and the thousand or so miles away where it unsuspecting may easily be separated from their money by what looks like a good thing.

A good, substantial citizen, supposed to have a streak of philanthropy in his nature, is sent a cleverly worded letter from Spain, the writer beseeching him in the name of sweet charity to take charge of the girl and be a guardian to her and care for her until she reaches maturity, he to receive as compensation therefor the interest on about half a million dollars in gold that is also to be cared for by him and turned over to the girl when the guardianship ends.

One of these letters was received by an Alvarado man recently and naturally excited his curiosity. He wrote to the person from whom he received the letter, asking for further particulars. The answer he got to his inquiry said that for various reasons the girl could not come to him until he should have forwarded to those who were looking after her interests the sum of $300, which would be used to pay her necessary traveling expenses from her home to Alvarado. The Marshall county man refused to bite at the bait offered, so negotiations ended right there.

"I Am Bound To Be True"

In vetoing the tonnage tax bill Governor Johnson again shows that he lacks nothing of the full measure of manhood and statesmanship.

Had the governor's chair been occupied by a man of mediocre abilities had the mere politician sat where Governor Johnson sits were Minnesota served by a governor lacking anything in courage or high purpose to first of all be right, the tonnage tax bill would today be a law Minnesota would be guilty of sacrificing justice to greed and prejudice, the state would have had saddled upon it a subtly pernicious law, capital would have been warned to keep away from Minnesota and the development of the most resourceful country out-of-doors turned back for unnumbered years, while the property and the prosperity of one great section of the state would have been blighted as nothing else short of war could blight it.

For altho this measure was a measure so thoroly bad, it came in the guise of a blessing to the state. By it the state would come into the possession of vast sums of money by which the taxes of the people of the state might be lightened, and these vast sums would be paid not by the people of Minnesota, but by "the rich foreign owners" of the shares of one of the hated trusts. This is the thought that has commended the tonnage tax measure to the people of Minnesota, outside of the immediate iron section of the state, and it is the thought that moves them today. Out of Minnesota's 2,000,000 people not more than 350,000 are actively opposed to the tonnage tax; to the other 1,650,000—the vast majority—it has seemed just and right and highly desirable. In county after county the people have unanimously declared for it, instructed their representatives to vote and work for it, and one great political party, the party of the governor of the state, has declared for it In the face of these facts, of this popular demand for the measure, of party pressure and the dictates of party interest and political self interest, Governor Johnson has stood forth the governor of the whole people, the statesman who sees clearly between right and wrong, the man who declares for the right no matter what the odds may be against him. "I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true," said Abraham Lincoln, and upon that principle and no other has Governor Johnson acted. He has been true.

The legislature in considering and passing this measure thru the house and senate has not been guided by reason or justice; its members have frankly avowed. Honest sentiment for the measure has been but a feeble minority in either house, but pledges given to constituents and the overwhelming sentiment of the people of many legislative districts was sufficient to whip into line for the measure barely more than a mere majority in each branch of the legislature. Members of the house who voted for the measure bitterly denounced it after they had discharged their obligation to their constituents. The senate was even more frank; upon the floor of that body one senator said, "The bill is wrong, unjustifiable, perhaps brutal." and plainly declared that he voted for it only at the urgent demand of his constituents.

Governor Johnson, however, has considered the bill purely on its merits, and his deliberate judgment is that it is not a fit measure to be a law. His decision is a magnificent triumph of right and justice, ample and authoritative indorsement of the arguments that have been advanced against the tonnage tax, and a splendid vindication of the good judgment of the people of North eastern Minnesota who put their faith in Governor Johnson's manhood and his statesmanship and voted for him in the face of a plank in the Democratic platform declaring for the tonnage tax, believing that he would give them a square deal in any event.

The people of Minnesota believe thoroly in John A. Johnson. They have tested him again and again and have always found him to be true, and again and again he has risen to the heights of the most comprehensive statesmanship, while others dare do no more than cautiously tread the safe paths of political expediency. His veto of the tonnage tax measure will be condemned bitterly in some quarters, but it will cause the people of Minnesota to wake to the fact that there is more to proposal than merely to "make the steel trust pay its just portion of the taxes." The people of the state will now begin to study the tonnage tax question and The Herald has no fear for their fina lverdict which will be that the tax is vicious in principle and unjust to the people of one great section of the state and that Governor Johnson in vetoing it was wise and right.—Duluth Herald.

A United Protest

The centralizers or creamery trust are doing everything possible to put the local creameries out of business.

Next Friday April 23 at St. Paul the centralizers are going to try to induce the state Railroad and Warehouse Commission to favor the further reduction of express rates on cream shipments. Below are the old rates and the proposed rates on ten gallon cans.

If these rates are put into effect it will hurt every local and co-operative creamery in Minnesota more or less as the St. Paul Centralizer con get a can of cream transported to St. Paul from Northern Minnesota at just as little expense as the local creameries have in getting a can from some of their nearest stations. Is this fair? By all means, no.

If these rates are adopted it will be just another step of the creamery trust towards getting control of the dairy products of this country. These low rates were put into effect by the Interstate Commerce Commission last winter on certain lines outside of Minnesota but we don't want them here.

The farmers are not in favor of these low rates, neither are the local creameries nor the express companies. Only the centralizers want them in their own interests.

The hearing will be held in St. Paul next Friday so address a letter at once upon receipt of this to the Railroad and Warehouse Commission St. Paul telling them the proposed rates are not to the best interests of the dairy industry of Minnesota your reasons. You will have to hurry, next Friday is the day.

The bill now before the State Legislature to prohibit the shipment of cream only by refrigerator service is a good one. It is S. F. 805 and H. F. 1178 and every buttermaker and dairy man in the state should write the State Senator and representative from his district telling them to work and vote for the passage of this bill.

The prosperity of every community is dependent to a greater or less extent upon the income from the cows and the latest move of the creamery trust should be fought by every farmer and every business man.

If the low rates are established, the trust will throw out all kinds of bait to the farmers for a year or two, or until they have succeeded in puting many or all of the local creameries out of business, then they will have the farmers at their mercy and will put on the screws and pay just what they choose for cream and the farmer will have no alternative. They can get the cream under the present rates if they want to pay for it.

Secretary Austin of the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association has sounded the alarm and sent circular letters broadcast warning the farmers and dairymen for the proposed action. The Railroad Commission should be flooded with protests by mail and from the representatives of the people now in St. Paul.

STATE PRESS

Now Get Busy.

The weather now shows signs of spring in good earnest. Farmers, you have been having a good time all winter and you must be getting tired of having such an easy time. Now it will be your turn to hustle and get in your crops. And, judging by the price of all farm products, we are certain that few of you will be found wanting in getting in as much as you possibly can into crops this year. Never in the last twenty years has the outlook been so promising for a good price for everything that the farm produces as it is this season. We would advise every farmer to put in all that he possibly can put in and do it right and if the crop is a good one, we predict that the farmers of this state will make a nice bunch of money this year.—Thief River Press.

Must Redeem Pledge.

It is up to the senate to make the new tariff bill conform to the pledge of the republican party. The future success of the party depends upon this and it will be found no joke in the next presidential campaign. One has only to listen to the expression of the members of the party to learn that they are awakening to the fact that not only is the tariff a tax but that the consumer pays more than his share. It would not be at all surprising to witness a revolution in the ranks of the republican party in the west should congress fail to reduce the tariff in accordance with the popular demand of all the people.—Roseau Region.

Strikes at Public Health.

The supreme court of Illinois has taken a backward step by deciding that it is not competent for a board of health to make vaccination a condition precedent to admitting a child to the public schools, because the constitution of the state declares that these schools are free. The error of the court, from a layman's view, is in its construction of the word "free." The public schools are free only to children of school age who are physically fit.

This question of vaccination is raised frequently in different communities. There are many anti-vaccination societies throughout the country, and many parents who insist that their children shall not be subjected to the health regulations in that direction. Regardless of personal opinion in the matter, there is nothing more established in medical science than that the discovery of Jenner makes vaccinated persons practically immune from smallpox, which was formenly listed among the dread diseases. Today all physicians regard it as much less dangerous than scarlet fever, mumps or some forms of measles. Under the circumstances, no decision of a court can furnish warrant for any person to help in spreading a disease by neglecting the known preventives.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Government Demands Improvement Of Rural Roads

The postoffice department at Washington has decided upon an aggressive campaign in behalf of the improvement of the country roads used by the government in the operation of the rural free delivery system. The matter has been under advisement by the federal authorities for several years, and recent letters from Mr. P. V. DeGraw, the fourth assistant postmaster general, to postmasters throughout the country, indicate a determination to take the question up in an effective way.

Several postmasters in Minnesota have been notified by Mr. DeGraw that the intention of the department has been called to the bad condition of the roads on certain rural delivery routes, and the postmasters are requested to call the attention of the proper county authorities to the situation. The postmasters are also instructed to "report results to this office at the expiration of sixty days in order that, if action has not been taken looking to the improvement of the roads, this department may consider the advisability of withdrawing service from those roads which are in bad condition."

This places the matter squarely up to the farmers for whose benefit the rural free delivery system was established. Under the constitution of the United States, congress has authority to exercise control over post roads and the postoffice department, under laws adopted by congress, is vested with power to withhold free delivery from any rural district that fails to keep its highways in good condition. The department already has abolished certain routes in the south because of the poor condition of the country roads and the failure of the proper authorities to take any steps toward their improvement. The recent notice simply serves to again emphasize the great need throughout the country for the betterment of the public highways along some intelligent, systematic plan.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Does Congress Read History?

The suggestion that the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill be helped out by an income tax shows how little confidence congress has in either bill's ability to bridge the chasm between income and expenditure. It shows also how poor readers of history congressmen are, if they lean upon the bruised reed of an income tax. The makers of the Wilson bill did that, and when the supreme court set it aside their calculations as to revenue were knocked to pieces.

The republicans would do well to look also at the history of the McKinley bill. That was a bill avowedly intended to decrease revenue. The country had a surplus. Congress decided to dispose of it by preventing importations. It put prohibitive duties on many articles. Its authors calculated that it would reduce the revenue $50,000,000. It did. When it got going well, it reduced them $100,000,000. Meanwhile, congress increased appropriations $100,000,000. The surplus was wiped out, and a deficit was so near that President Harrison's secretary of the treasury was getting ready to face it with bonds, when Mr. Cleveland conveniently stepped into office and assumed the unpopular burden.

It was then that the democrats had their opportunity. They were a revenue tariff party. They were entitled to tax revenue-producing articles like tea, coffee and sugar. But they didn't. They fell into the hands of protectionist democratic senators, who sheared the Wilson bill of its revenue-producing features and left it a hodge-podge of reduced duties which did the industries of the country no good, and failed to provide the treasury with revenue. The Wilson bill, plus the bond issues, ruined the Cleveland administration. But if the democrats had taken care of the revenue, they might have survived the Wilson bill for, as it was, in its second and third years it began to produce more money for the treasury.

The republican party is at the same point where the democrats were in 1893. It has to produce revenue. It must not make the mistake of the democrats who leaned on a doubtful income tax. The tariff bill itself should take care of the deficit. There are still two ways of doing it, neither of which the republicans have accepted. They may reduce duties to the point where importations, freed from unreasonable restrictions, will enrich the treasury or they may tax noncompeting articles which are certain revenue producers. — Minneapolis Journal.

Mind and Body Building

Some of the best physicians who only a few years ago ridiculed mental healing, are beginning to adopt the principle—so far as they know how—in their practice; especially the power of suggestion. They are finding that their patients are often more affected by mental medicine, by their encouragement and good cheer than by their pills. CITY STUDENTS INTERESTED

PROF. HARRINGTON AND SUPT. THORSON WILL VISIT CITY SCHOOLS THURSDAY

AND EXPLAIN THE INDUSTRIAL CONTEST WORK TO THEM—MUCH ENTHUSIASM

From Tuesday's Daily—

The first meeting ever held in Polk county for the encouragement of industrial work in the rural schools which took place at the city hall yesterday afternoon, having been called by County Supt. of Schools N. A. Thorson and was a signal success. One school in this vicinity was dismissed for the day on the order of the school boards and the teacher and students attended the meeting enmasse. The gathering was addressed by Prof. L. P. Harrington of the Crookston school of Agriculture who is working during the summer vacation under the direction of A. D. Wilson, Superintendent of Farmers Institutes, Supt. Robertson of the Crookston Experiment Station, Supt. Thorson and others.

Will Enter Contests

The county grain and vegetable contests were explained, together with the state contest and the best varieties of grain corn, vegetables etc., thoroly discussed. The rural students and teachers displayed a great deal of enthusiasm and the result will be that students in every rural school in the vicinity of Crookston will make individual efforts with the intention of entering the county industrial contest.

Free Seed Corn

Supt. Thorson contemplates securing some prime seed corn and distributing it free to students who will plant the seed individually and send ten ears in next fall to the county contest. The proper preparation of the ground before seeding, the best methods of cultivation and other prominent subjects were discussed fully for the benefit of the students.

Will Bear Great Fruit

This industrial work, supplementing the work done at the school of Agriculture it is believed will bear great fruit in the future development of this section in the line of improving the methods of diversified farming and starting the younger generation of farmers on the right track. Similar meetings will be held at Fosston today and at Climax tomorrow.

City Students Interested

After completing his address at the city hall yesterday to the rural students, Prof. Harrington and Supt. Thorson went to the McKinley school where Prof Harrington explained the industrial work to the students and they displayed the keenest interest and enthusiasm. They wanted to enter the contest also.

So great was the interest that Supt. McIntyre invited Messrs. Harrington and Thorson to make the rounds of all the schools Thursday and this will be done and the work thoroly explained. It is believed that several hundred students from the city will enter the contest.

May Secure Plot

The suggestion has been made, and it is a good one, that some farmer near the city lease a good sized plot of ground on shares, half to go to the students and half to the owner of the land, and that some capable man be secured to direct the work of the students during the summer months allotting each student a plot of ground to work.

Going Like Wild Fire

Prof. Harrington who is working under the direction of Supt. A. D. Wilson of Farmers Institutes, says the work is taking like wild fire. In Sibley County he addressed 500 students in four days. One school decided to have a school garden and do practical work every day. This will be adopted in more of the schools later as competent teachers of industrial work can be secured.

ENTHUSIASM IS AROUSED

LARGE GATHERING AT CITY HALL HEAR INDUSTRIAL CONTEST DISCUSSED

STUDENTS AND TEACHERS PRESENT FROM RURAL DISTRICTS FINE ADDRESSES

From Monday's Daily—

This afternoon a large gathering of teachers and students from the rural schools near Crookston listened to most helpful and interest-arousing addresses by Prof. L. P. Harrington, Supt. Robertson, Supt. Thorson regarding the industrial contests of the state and county, and as a result there is no question but what some excellent work will be done in this vicinity the present season.

The best seeds to select, the most favorable soil, cultivation etc., were fully explained, and when the county contest is held here next fall there will be many entries from this vicinity judging from the interest taken by those present.

Corn, grains, vegetables etc., were all dwelt upon exhaustively, and there will be some fine samples result. This move on the part of Supt. Thorson to encourage industrial work among students is one which will receive most hearty commendation and support thruout the county.

PREACHER GETS BEST OF TWO "SMARTIES"

A preacher was riding on a Great Northern train to Crookston from Grand Forks the other day. Two young men were in the smoking compartment with him and, knowing his identity, they started a conversation.

"I heard a great piece of news," said one.

"Is that so?" replied the preacher.

"Yes," was the reply. "I heard that the devil is dead."

Both young men laughed uproariously, but the preacher came back strong. He drew a half dollar from his pocket and handed it to them.

"Here," he said, "take this. I always make it a practice to give alms to orphans."

WM. MUNCH WILL ATTEND—The Swedish Royal band is to appear in Minneapolis the latter part of this month and among those who will attend from Crookston will be Game Warden Wm. Munch. He may be accompanied by Mrs. Munch.

WILL FACE ROBERT STREET—There is a well founded rumor that when the Great Northern erects the new passenger depot in Crookston it will face Robert street instead of Second street. It is understood that the company has recently purchased considerable property south of Robert street and west of Main.

FINE DAUGHTER ARRIVED — Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Lund are the parents of a very fine daughter which arrived at their home 105 5th Ave. north, Sunday morning and is about the finest little baby that ever happened. Both mother and daughter are getting on very nicely and the proud papa was so excited that he went to church twice yesterday.

ALL PRINKED UP — Roadmaster Louis Anderson headed up the north line this morning and created a sensation all the way up. He had a new spring suit on and a "biled" shirt, and at the depot this morning all the conductors took off their hats to him as he had them beat a mile in appearance.

MISS CHILBECK NOT MARRIED—A short time ago the local papers reported the marriage of Miss Ada Chilbeck at Edmonton, the wedding reported to have taken place in March last. The report was sent in by a young lady who got mixed in the people she referred to, the young lady who was married, also being from Crookston. Miss Chilbeck is still fancy free and is teaching school at Edmonton.

SUPT. GILBERT DEAD—The death of F. W. Gilbert general superintendent of the Northern Pacific railway occurred at his home in St. Paul Saturday morning at 8:17 after a week's illness of pneumonia. Superintendent Gilbert had visited Crookston a number of times and was very highly esteemed by the employes of the company all over the system and had many personal friends in this section.

INTERESTING LECTURE — Walter Thomas Mills, who lectures in the I. O. O. F. Hall here Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock arrived in the city this morning and spent the forenoon here, leaving on the N. P. for Twin Valley from where he will drive across to Ada where he is booked for this evening and will arrive here tomorrow morning on No. 5 to fill his date here. Mr. Mills is a very interesting character. He is not ultra-radical, and his address entitled "Despottism or Democracy" tomorrow is certain to be interestoing. He believes that we have just about arrived at the parting of the ways. Either capital will rule more absolutely than ever or the people will rule. He believes that the people will rule, and that they are on the verge of asserting their rights.

ANOTHER FAMILY FOR CROOKSTON — Thomas Flood the district superintendent for the Thorpe Elevator Co., with headquarters in Crookscton has leased one of the Ericsson residences on Hunter Street and will move his family here from the southern part of the state, expecting to get settled about the first of May. Mr. Flood has been making his headquarters here for the past six months but has been boarding. He is so much pleased with Crookston and the educational facilities here that he has decided to make this city his home. A cordial welcome will be extended to the family.

It was announced today that the Crookston sawmill would start either Wednesday or Thursday of this week. If the weather is warm tomorrow the start will be made Wednesday.

The full crew is here, ready to start at a moment's notice. The old familiar mill whistle will be about the most welcome sound that has been heard in Crookston for the last two years.

If you have backache and urinary troubles you should take Foley's Kidney Remedy to strengthen and build up the kidneys so they will act properly, as a serious kidney trouble may develop. Sold by all druggists.

Every boy has an idea that if his father had lived at the right time he could have thrashed Goliah.

It usually costs less to get a divorce than it does to pose as the defendant in a breach-of-promise suit.

From Tuesday's Daily

VISITING PARISHIONERS— Father Tapin left this morning for a trip up the St. Vincent line where he will visit some parishioners.

GETTING ALONG NICELY—Mrs. J. Everson of Fisher who underwent a serious operation at St. Michaels hospital at Grand Forks is getting along nicely.

UP THE FISH LINE—Clayt Final and Dad Sabin left yesterday for a trip up the Fish line. Dad figured on casting his hook at Red Lake Falls first and then angling on up the line.

STOPPED PROCEEDINGS— Chief Eck and Officer Phillips this morning stopped the crew of T. A. Harris from moving the Hendrickson house on Stewart Avenue till a housemover's license had been secured. The $25 for the license was promptly deposited and the work was allowed to proceed tho the license cannot be issued till the bonds are filed and approved.

THREE EXTRA COACHES—The G. N. Flyer bound for Winnipeg yesterday morning had three extra coaches attached. The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra was aboard bound for Winnipeg for a week's engagement. J. Friend who was aboard says there was all manner of music in the air. Mr. Friend made a flying visit to the cities, leaving Saturday evening and returning on the flyer yesterday morning.

CAMP TO REBUILD — Herman Camp has returned to Dugdale after spending a few days in the city making arrangements for lumber for the rebuilding of his large store at Dugdale which was destroyed by a fire a short time ago. He will build a bigger and better store than before as he has been doing a fine business there and will go after it harder than ever before. The work of reconstruction will start at once and rushed as rapidly as possible in order that he may take care of his trade.

FORKS MILL STARTS TOMORROW—Preparations are under way at the saw mill of the Grand Forks Lumber company in E Grand Forks for resuming operations for the season's out and it is expected the saws will begin their work tomorrow. The mill closed the season with several million feet of logs on hand last fall and quantities are being shipped in by rail from the company's supply over in the woods to last until the big drive comes down from the Clearwater river which may not be before the middle of June. A full day crew will be employed in all the departments and later in the season a double crew may be employed.

GRAMER GOT A SNAP SHOT—Peter Gramer had Carl Borgen take a snap shot of a scene yesterday which he will have used on some souvenir post cards. It shows Ernest Rolsch in his auto, with Mayor McPhee as his guest. The machine is in the alley near the Olds Garage and the driver is trying to back the blooming thing up but she refused to back. Will Olds was playing horse and trying to pull the blooming thing back. Gramer says Rolsch offered him $5 to suppress publication but the offer was indignantly refused and the pictures will be sent broadcast.

HOME FROM SAD MISSION — Col. S. S. Stadsvold accompanied by Mrs. Stadsvold pased thru the city this morning enroute home to Fosston from Waukon, Ia., where they were called by the death of Mr. Stadsvold's father who died last Wednesday at the advanced age of 80 years, death being due to a general breaking down. The funeral was held on Saturday Deceased resided with his oldest son, Ole, on the Stadsvold homestead near Waukon, Ia., where he had lived for 58 years. Four children survive him, Ole with whom he lived, Col. Stadsvold of Fosston, Mrs. Ole Peterson of Fosston, and Mrs. Gulerud of Mahnomen. His wife had been dead for a number of years. Deceased was one of the best known and most highly respected residents of that portion of Iowa.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

BROTHERS IN NORWAY—There will be a special meeting of the Brothers of Norway tomorrow evening at the Viking Chorus rooms. A large attendance is desired.

LIKE HOT CAKES—E. L. Gilbert, the Crookston land man was in the city on Tuesday and drove out from here to look over some farm lands. Gilbert says that it looks as tho land would be selling like hot cakes before fall.—Thief River Falls Press.

STAIR HANDY WITH HIS GUN — J. H. Stair of Crookston was in the city Monday and in the evening gave an exhibition of fancy rifle shooting at the indoor rifle range. Mr. Stair used a 22 rifle and cut several fancy figures in sheets of tin, among them being a striking likeness of an Indian's head.—Thief River Falls Press.

REPRESENTS ESTATE — W. E. Rowe of Crookston one of the prominent attorneys of Northern Minnesota, arrived in Bemidji last night to appear for the plaintiff in the case of Matilda Akerberg as administratrix against F. A. Mayo, which is being tried at the present session of the district court.—Bemidji Pioneer.

CAPTURED HORSETHIEF — A chimney sweep who went by the name of "Gaff" or "West" was found missing from Moorhead on Saturday and with him a horse and buggy. He claimed to be a chimney sweep and immediately upon being notified Chief Malvey and Sheriff Whaley put the telephone wires in service and landed him near Twin Valley. He had left the rig at Perley.

GETTING ON FINE—George Ebbighausen writes from Adams, N. D. where he is running an elevator that the spring is opening up fine there. The farmers are all rushing the grain into the ground and the land was never in better shape. Mr. Ebbighausen is doing well in his new location. This is no surprise to his friends as he is level headed and a hustler and is bound to prosper where ever he is located.

ANOTHER ELECTRIC LIGHTED TRAIN — Agent W. E. Handy announces that Northern Pacific is putting on another electric lighted train to the coast. The North Coast Limited has been electric lighted for some time past and now Nos. 3 and 4 will be electric lighted. No. 3 which left St. Paul April 19 was so equipped and No. 4 returning which leaves Tacoma Saturday, April 24 will be electric lighted and both trains will be so equipped in the future.

TO MEET BISHOP MORRISON — The members of the Vestry of Christ church, Episcopal, are asked to meet at the Guild room on Friday at 12 noon to meet with Bishop Morrison. There will be special music and the choir will be vested for the first time. — Richard Cox, Priest in charge.

NIGHTMARE IS SERIOUS— John Erickson aged about 40 years and a big man put up at a third story room at the Mohr Hotel at Deer River on Monday night, paid for it, was sober and had over fifty dollars in his pocket. But a nightmare chased John out thru the window and he was discovered hanging too the window sill with the window shut. Before aid could reach him he dropped and landed on a pile of coal. His hip was stove in and he was hurt internally. He was taken on the next train to a hospital at Superior.

HITS FRATERNAL SOCIETIES—Fraternal societies and every society that levies assessments must according to the recent ruling of the postoffice at Washington, levy these assessments on other than postal cards For years postals have been used by various societies to notify their members of dues and their payment. The department has ruled that this is nothing more nor less than a dun and a violation of that postal law which will not permit any line of business to mail a statement of account to a patron in an unsealed letter. The same rule is held to apply to the fraternal assessment.

HEAVY SNOW AT FARGO— The train from Fargo this morning was covered with snow and the trainmen reported that there was a fall of four inches of the beautiful there which will delay seeding operations in that section for a couple of days. There was no snow this side of Halstad and the farmers from that section north to the boundary are all at work seeding today. It was a little frosty this morning but after the sun was up a few hours the frost was all gone. The trainmen state that every field has a team or two at work and that the grain is being rushed in the ground more rapidly than ever before EXPECTS GREAT YEAR—H. H. Hulbert of the Birchard Hulbert Co., of St. Paul, passed thru the city this morning enroute to Argyle near where the company has large farming interests. Mr. Hulbert looks forward to one of the most prosperous years ever experienced in the Red River Valley. He says the tide has turned this way. Land values must increase and the farmers will be more prosperous than ever because they are adopting better farming methods. The demand for valley land will be greater, and at the same time Valley land will be harder to secure.

KEYSTONE

An entertainment will be given at the Aeschlimann school next Friday the twenty-third. Lunch will be served, a good time anticipated and everybody is cordially invited.

Mr. Lewis Brantl is working for Mr. John Gerber.

Lydia and Persida Aeschlimann returned one day last week from a three days' visit with friends at Stephen.

Miss Rose Kotek spent last Saturday and Sunday at the John Brantl home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Aeschlimann and Baby Bernice were visitors at the home of Simon Aeschlimann last Saturday.

Mr. Daniel McDonald transacted business in Grand Forks last Thursday.

Miss Clara McDonald called on her schoolmate Miss Mary Brantl last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann were visitors at the homes of John Capes and Rheinhart Ehnen last Sunday.

Some of the farmers in this community seem to be getting rather anxious, as a few were already working in their fields.

MOTHER SAVED SON ANOTHER DROWNED

Last week the 12 year old son of Fred Hedbom who lives near the old Telen P. O. in Western Marshall Co., accidentally drowned while skating with a brother on a pond-hole near the home. Mr. Hedbom was absent at the time of the accident and the mother with great presence of mind succeeded in getting the two boys from under the broken ice and out of the water and to revive the oldest. The younger one however had been in too long and all efforts to restore life in him proved futile.

SLAIN MISSIONERY BORN IN CROOKSTON

H. C. Baskerville, Killed At Tabriz Persia Yesterday, Was Son Of First Pastor Of Crookston Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Baskerville Stationed Here In 1882-1883. Son Was Leading A Sortie Of Nationalists To Get Provisions.

From Wednesday's Daily—

In the telegraphic columns on the front page of the Journal of this issue will be found a brief account of the death of a man named Baskerville at Tabriz, Persia.

The young man referred to is H. R. Baskerville, who was born in Crookston 26 years ago. He is the son of Rev. H. R. Baskerville the first pastor in charge of the Presbyterian church in this city, having been stationed here from July 1882 to July 1883, the young man killed having been born shortly before the departure of the family from Crookston.

Rev. Baskerrville has had many charges in the state, and is now located at Royalton, Minn.

He went to Tabriz last fall to teach in the Presbyterian boys' school and it was the understanding he would eventually enter the ministry. He was about 26 years of age. He has two brothers in Macalester college St. Paul. The family lived in Kandiyohi county two or three years, the elder Baskerville having charges at Spicer, Harrison and New London.

The latest dispatch regarding the affair is as follows:

Tabriz, April 21—H. C. Baskerville an American who until recently was a teacher in Presbyterian school here, was killed outside Tabriz today while leading a sortie of nationalists from the city. The object of the expedition was to open a way for the bringing in of provisions of which the city stands greatly in need. It was not successful.

The situation here is desperate. The Christians of Tabriz are arming themselves and will put up a strong defense during the bloody disorders that are expected to break out any day. The English residents have sent a telegram to Foreign Secretary Gray at London appealing for immediate help.

Russians Terrified

The Russians have taken refuge at the Russian consulate.

The activity of Baskerville in assisting the Persian revolutionists against the government became known early this month. Possible complications were avoided by the prompt disavowal by the Presbyterian mission at Tabriz of all of Baskerville's acts. The mission gave orders also that he either refrain from interfering in Persian politics or resign his position.

People Starving

As a result of the strong representations made by the British and Russian ministers the shah has consented to a six-day armistice at Tabriz a measure which will permit the obtaining of provisions for the thousands of women and children in Tabriz clamoring for bread. Food in Tabriz was exhausted and the hungry and desperate elements in the city were getting out of control.

Attacks on the foreign consulates were threatening but it is hoped the armistice will avert such disorders.

GRAND RALLY AT FOSSTON

INDUSTRIAL MEETING THERE YESTERDAY WAS A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

SEVEN RURAL SCHOOLS DISMISSED AND ATTENDED ENMASSE WITH TEACHERS

From Wednesday's Daily—

Supt. N. A. Thorson and Prof. L. P. Harrington returned last evening from Fosston where yesterday they held a monster industrial meeting. Seven of the rural schools about Fosston dismissed and students and teachers attended in a body. The greatest enthusiasm was displayed when the contest scheme was explained, and practically every student old enough will give a garden patch of his own on which corn etc., will be raised with the idea of entering the county contest next fall.

After the rural students had been thoroly posted as to the work by the two speakers Messrs Thorson and Harrington visited Fosston schools and there also they met with an enthusiastic welcome and the students in the village will engage in the industrial work also.

This morning Messrs. Thorson and Harrington drove to Climax where a big meeting is in progress today. This will be the last of the series as Mr. Harrington has no more open dates.

Tomorrow the two will visit the Crookston schools and explain the work and it is expected that similar interest will be aroused among the students here.

Supt. Thorson has an idea that prior to the county contest next fall district contests will be held, thus getting the best samples from a certain district, these contests to be under the direction of the business men or commercial clubs in the various villages, and the winners here will have their samples sent to the county contest, the winners of the county contests having their products sent to the state contest. This plan it is believed would be an excellent one and serve to arouse intense interest.

EVANS TO MEET GRANDFATHER

YOUNG MAN SENTENCED FOR ONE YEAR FROM GRAND FORKS

IS GRANDSON OF LIFER AT PENITIARY IN BISMARCK, N. D.

From Thursday's Daily—

When Harry Evans sentenced from Grand Forks arrived at Bismarck today, having been sentenced to a year in the state penitentiary after pleading guilty to the charge of burglary he will meet his grandfather, Peter Peterson, whom he has not seen since he was a mere boy 4 years old.

Peter Peterson is now an inmate of the state penitentiary. He is serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife at Pembina, N. D., sixteen years ago, and is now about 70 years of age.

Evans stated that he knew nothing of the circumstances connected with the affair which caused his grandfather to take his graudmother's life, he being so young at the time he said that he only remembered seeing his grand father once.

Evans is now 20 years old and was sentenced recently with an accomplice, Art Keller, on the charge of burglary, the two having admitted that they robbed the government boats on the river at this point of sundry articles.

BRITISH PRINCES.

Very Different From the King In Exemption From Laws.

So privileged is the king of England in his exemption from any and every law that one would naturally expect his children might do pretty much as they like. But Englishmen have always been very jealous of royal personages, and the fact is that princes enjoy very few privileges indeed. A prince of the royal blood may be fined, like any ordinary mortal, if his motor car exceeds the legal limit of speed.

The Prince of Wales cannot be sued personally for debt. If the debt is not paid the creditor may take out a summons, but he must summon the treasurer, not the prince. If the case goes against the treasurer the money is paid out of the prince's assets.

No child of the king who is under twenty-five can marry without the king's consent. Supposing, however, a prince over twenty-five desired to marry and the king refused his consent, then the prince could give notice of his intention to the privy council. After that he would have to restrain his patience for a whole year. If during that time either the house of lords or the house of commons disapproved of the marriage it could not take place. But if both houses of parliament were satisfied the prince could marry the woman of his choice.

A prince has not even the right to educate his own children, for it was long ago laid down that the king has the care and education of his grandchildren while they are minors.—London Telegraph.

Crazy Snake Reported Dead.

Muskogee, Okla., April 13.—There is a rumor here that Crazy Snake, chief of the Creek Indians, who has been sought by the state militia for the past two weeks, is dead, but it cannot be verified. The government has representatives in the field searching for the Indian leader, but has received no word from them.

PARDON SOUGHT FOR H. KEELEY

GOVERNOR OF MONTANA TO BE ASKED TO EXTEND CLEMENCY TO DISPATCHER

RAILWAY MEN OF DAKOTA DIVISION OF G. N. SIGN PETITION TO BE SUBMITTED

From Friday's Daily—

Signed by 500 employes of the Dakota division of the Great Northern railway, a petition will be presented shortly to the governor of Montana to extend clemency in the case of Harry Keeley, former resident of Grand Forks and Crookston, who was convicted at Missoula several months ago of involuntary manslaughter and was sentenced to serve eight months in prison. The petition has been signed by every employe of the Great Northern to whom it has been presented.

Among railway men and others who understand the circumstances under which Keeley was convicted there is a good deal of sympathy and a feeling that an injustice has been done him. He was a dispatcher on the Northern Pacific at Missoula. Acting on information from an operator that a certain train had not reached a station he made a meeting place. It turned out that the operator was mistaken. The train had passed the station and a disastrous collision in which several lives were lost was the result. It is the general opinion among railway people that the operator alone was to blame.

Keeley resided here for a long time. He was a dispatcher in the Great Northern offices at Grand Forks, and for a while managed a commission house. He went from there to Great Falls, where he was employed in the Great Northern offices. From there he went to Missoula.

Dispatcher Keeley is a brother of Attorney Keeley, of Neche, and the attorney is sparing no effort to aid his brother.

MEMORIAL DAY IS SET

G. A. R. STATE COMMANDER ISSUES ORDERS FOR THE OBSERVANCE

OF THE EVENT ON MONDAY MAY THE THIRTY-FIRST

From Thursday's Daily—

The date for Memorial Day this year is settled. It will be observed on Monday May 31st, not Sunday, May 30, and not Saturday, May 29. Since Memorial Day comes on Sunday this year, nobody has been certain what would be done, but Marcus W. Bates state commander of the Grand Army of the Republic has issued orders to Grand Army posts requesting that May 31 be observed as Memorial Day.

In his order Commander Bates instructs all post commanders to invite schools in their localities to hold patriotic services Friday afternoon, May 28. Sunday, May 30 will be observed as Memorial day. On Monday the exercises will be held in the cemeteries and flowers will be strewn on the graves of the soldiers.

ANNIVERSARY OF GREAT STORM

ST. CLOUD WRECKED BY TERRIFIC TORNADO 23 YEARS AGO YESTERDAY

MRS. W. L. SULLIVAN OF CARMAN A RESIDENT OF ST. CLOUD AT THE TIME

From Thursday's Daily—

Yesterday, April 14, was the 23rd anniversary of the worst tornado in the history of St. Cloud when business and residence houses were wrecked and the debris strewn all over the city and outlying districts, several people killed outright and many people suffered very narrow escapes.

Mrs. W. L. Sullivan of South Crookston resided in St. Cloud at the time and while young, remembers the awful experience very distinctly which shocked the entire northwest.

One remarkable occurrence was specially impressed on her mind. A very small child was blown from the top of the big hill to the bottom, and was found in the woods several days later, happy as a clam and all right in every way, tho a little on the hungry order.

SEED CORN DISTRIBUTED

GENEROSITY OF HENRY O'NEILL WAS VERY WIDELY APPRECIATED

CORN ALL SPOKEN FOR THE DAY IT WAS LEFT WITH THE JOURNAL

From Friday's Daily—

To show the widespread interest that the people of this section are taking in corn culture throughout this section, the quick response to the offer of Henry O'Neill is ample evidence.

Mr. O'Neill a short time ago received a shipment of white Dent corn from an Illinois party for seed, and decided that he had a little more than he could use. He brought it to the Journal office and instructed this office to offer it free and distribute a few ears to a number of farmers who might apply.

The day after the notice appeared in the Journal, more than 30 applications for seed were received, many farmers telephoning in to have a few ears held for them, one farmer, D. H. Miller, telephoning in from Angus that he wanted to try some of it. One farmer wrote in from east of Middle River wanting some.

The first who applied, of course, were the first to get the free seed, among them being Tom Bjoin, Ben Capistran, D. H. Miller and other well known farmers.

All who received free seed will report their success and have samples of the corn on exhibition in the Journal office next fall.

This goes to show the widespread interest that is being taken in corn culture in the Red River Valley.

VALLEY LAND WILL BOOM

SUCH IS OPINION OF IOWAN WELL VERSED IN LAND VALUES

SAYS RED RIVER VALLEY OFFERS UNSURPASSED OPPORTUNITIES

From Friday's Daily—

F. B. Jacobson, of Humboldt, Ia., who owns a large tract of land near Wheatville, has been spending the past week in Ada making arrangements for the season's work on his farm. Mr. Jacobson is very favorably impressed with conditions in this section and expressed in a very emphatic manner his opinion that the Red River Valley, and especially this section, was soon to enjoy a healthy boom in land values. Mr. Jacobson stated that in his opinion no land in this locality should be valued at less than $40 an acre and the greater portion of it is easily worth from $50 to $75, as compared with values in Iowa, Illinois, and other older settled states. In a conversation, Mr. Jacobson said: "I have dealt a great deal in farm lands, but never have I seen a country that offers such unlimited opportunities for the invester and homeseeker as are to be found right here. It seems to me that land values have reached the bottom mark and I confidently expect to see a marked increase in the price of land before next fall; in fact, the price will go up by leaps and bounds."

IMPORTANCE OF NAVIGATION

Grand Forks Herald: The importance of keeping the Red river open to navigation will be impressed upon the United States authorities at the meeting to be held in Fargo April 29. To the north the Canadians are making plans to extend the usefulness of the Red river and it is the theory here that North Dakotans should take no backward step. While the river from Belmont to Winnipeg will always be of more importance than from Belmont to Fargo, it is believed there will come a time when boats will be navigated from Belmont up river and that end of the river will be of value. Delegates to the Fargo meeting will be appointed shortly.

Whether Mr. Cannon and his supporters will heed the signs of the times expressed by the strong opposition against the arbitrary rulings of the speaker, remains to be seen. The people in every section of the country have rights that congress can not well afford to disregard, and unless this matter is taken care of to reasonable degree the republican majority in congress is in danger of losing control in the near future.—St. Peter Free Press

"U" CO-EDS JUBILANT

OWING TO THE $100,000 APPROPRIATION FOR LADIES' DORMITORY

THE REQUESTS OF REGENTS IN MANY INSTANCES BADLY SLASHED

From Friday's Daily—

UNIVERSITY ALLOWANCE

New Medical building	$200,000
Dormitory for girls	100,000
Addition on hospital	40,000

The state university's expansion for the next two years has been definitely limited by the subcommittee on finance, which has completed the draft of the omnibus appropriation bill as it will be submitted for revision to the appropriations committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate, tomorrow. The requests of the board of regents for new buildings have been more than cut in two.

The college of education must do without a separate building for another two years. There will be no building for animal biology and botany for at least that long. The new building needed for the anatomical laboratories has also been denied, and the school of medicine gets just one building, to cost $200,000. This will but partly relieve the pressure which also cramps the schools of pharmacy and dentistry.

Only three items in the regents' budget are allowed by the committee, but they have been granted in full. The $40,000 allowed for the Elliott hospital is the amount estimated to be needed as a supplement to the Elliott bequest.

Home for Girl Students.

There will be rejoicing over the bill among the "co-eds" of the university, at least those from out of town, for it carries the much-urged provision of $100,000 for a dormitory building to house girl students. This is of special interest in Crookston and northern Minnesota, from where so many young ladies are attending the State U. Miss Elsie Collins, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Collins, took a very active interest in securing endorsements for the proposition and was very successful in her effort along that line.

Friends of the university will attempt to revise the bill so as to include some other items, but fear that the committee's action will be final. There is a tendency to insurrection in the house against the committee, but it is likely to take the form of cutting rather than adding items to the bill.

As it is drawn, the bill carries no provision for maintenance of the university, for which $165,000 was allowed two years ago. This is because the committee favors the half mill tax levy, and if that bill passes the current wants of the institution will be cared for.

The tax levy bill is being held back in both houses till the subject of the basis of state assessment is settled. The proposition is to adopt the Elwell resolution now before the senate, asking the tax commission to keep the present basis for valuation and assessment of property. Then there will be no question over the amount of revenue the half-mill tax will bring.

MOELLER WAS SENTENCED

GIVEN TEN YEARS IN STATE PENITENTIARY AT MINOT—STAY IS GRANTED

Dr. Thor Moeller was on Tuesday afternoon sentenced by Judge Goss at Minot to a term of ten years in the state penitentiary. This sentence was given after the motion for a new trial had been denied. Immediately upon the passing of sentence, Judge Palda asked for a stay of execution which was granted. The bond of $10,000 under which Moeller has been held since his arrest, was continued in force and he was released.

Mr. F. G. Fritts, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My litle girl was greatly benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children, as it is mild, pleasant and effective, and is a splendid spring medicine, as it cleanses the system and clears the complexion.

G.N. TO SHIP 85,000 TIES

ANOTHER CARLOAD OF ITALIANS ARRIVED THIS MORNING FOR WORK

TIES ARE PILED AT REDLANDS—WILL BE DISTRIBUTED ALONG TRACK

From Friday's Daily—

This morning a carload of Italians arrived from St. Paul, having been shipped from Chicago, and were at once taken to the South Crookston yards, where they will join another crew which arrived a few days ago for the purpose of loading about 85,000 railroad ties which are piled there and which will be shipped along the various branch lines this spring to replace ties that are rotting and unsafe.

The Great Northern would naturally prefer hiring men right here in Crookston for the work, but cannot secure them. This is the second shipment made from Chicago recently. The laboring man here who says that he cannot secure work is therefore not looking for it very hard. And this is not the only instance. It is about as hard to get a man to saw a cord of wood as it is to back a load of coal up-hill. Too many men are out of work because they do not want work. Of course, any of them would accept the presidency of a bank, but a man who really wants work will accept any kind of work till he sees a chance for something better—and that is the kind of a man who climbs the ladder.

SOLD VETERAN TROTTING MARE

P. J. CAREY SELLS "EFFIE W." TO A FERGUS FALLS PARTY

Last evening P. J. Carey shipped "Effie W.", the oldest trotting mare in this section, to parties in Fergus Falls, who will keep her as a brood mare. She was one of the fastest race horses in northern Minnesota for years and has won many a race in her day. She was formerly owned by Dave Callons, of Fosston. She is 15 years of age but is in good condition and should raise several fine colts, being with foal at the present time from one of the fastest sires in this section. The purchaser was a son-in-law of Geo. Fuller.

CHANGES IN FACULTY OF G. F. COLLEGE

The board of directors of Grand Forks college held a meeting at the college yesterday to consider some changes in the faculty for next year. Professor Sathre, who has been at the head of the institution for the past two years, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the close of the present school year. Professor Hagastad also resigned. One of the other instructors may not return.

The board has several persons in view to fill the vacancies, but no definite action was taken. The secretary of the board, Rev. Salveson, of Crookston, is in correspondence with parties and it is expected that the places will be filled by able educators. Another meeting will probably be held in the near future.

As a rule, the citizen who is doing the most for the community is the one who is making the least noise regarding his movements. The public benefactor, who believes that "He who bloweth not his own horn, for him no horn shall be blown," is blowing his horn most of the time and is playing the same tune over and over again regarding two or three things he has done, and forgets to play a few notes he might interject regarding what he might have done but failed to do.

LAND IN BEST SHAPE EVER

J. P. FOOTE DROVE OVER FIELDS AND WAS GRATIFIED OVER CONDITIONS

NO WATER EVEN IN THE LOW SPOTS—FARMERS WERE ALL SEEDING

From Friday's Daily—

J. P. Foote, president of the Scandia-American Bank, spent yesterday in the country, driving nearly all day. He was at the Malmberg and adjacent farms and around Eldred and states that he never saw the fields in as fine shape since he has been in the Red River Valley and that is a good many years.

He drove from one end of the plowed fields to the other without getting a particle of mud on his buggy wheels. The fields are like huge garden spots, the ground being nice and mellow and in ideal shape for seeding.

While the little snow flurry and mist of today will stop seeding operations temporarily, if it comes off warm and dry the fields will be in as good shape as ever 24 hours after the sun starts to shine.

Yesterday all the farmers were seeding, and because of the excellent conditions the crops could be rushed in this spring quicker than ever before. Two weeks of good weather would see practically all of the wheat and oats in the ground.

CHARIOT RACE DOWN MAIN ST.

FARMER PUTS ON THRILLING STUNT—DID NOT STOP FOR APPLAUSE

A farmer's team put on a stunt yesterday afternoon about 4:30 which for excitement beat a chariot race all to pieces and made a bull fight look like a fake wrestling match. Charley Hoven's team hitched to a heavy lumber wagon, started on South Main street and tore north as far as Sixth street and were winded going up the hill. The wagon just grazed a street cleaning cart, narrowly missed several people, but fortunately collided with nothing.

The owner was hanging onto the tailboard and crawled into the box and toward the front till he saw the lines were dragging when he retreated again and as the team dashed on he was clinging to the rear of the wagon, determined evidently not to give up the ship.

The team stopped near the hill. One horse sustained a badly injured leg, no other damage being done.

MENTAL MARRIAGES ARE BEST, SHE SAYS

A plea for marriages based upon equality was made yesterday by Mrs. Ursula N. Gestefeld in a talk before the members of the Chicago Women's club on "The Ethics of Marriage." If the marriage relation is to progress beyond the stage of a "friendship recognized by the police" there must be real comradeship between husband and wife," said the speaker.

"There can be no union where there is authority on one side and submission on the other," said Mrs. Gestefeld. "There must be a new outlook and valuation. The masculine and feminine natures of the spiritual unit are necessarily equal to each other in value."

She called relationship which had reached this stage "mental marriages."

"This mental marriage, not meaning equal intellectual attainments, but right recognition of each by each, brings intelligent adjustment," she continued. "A balance of masculine rights, desires and privileges with feminine rights, desires and privileges."

Tonic or Stimulant?

There is an immense difference between a tonic and a stimulant. Up one day, way back the next; that's a stimulant. Steady progress day by day toward perfect health; that's a tonic. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic, a strong tonic. The only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. Do not stimulate unless your doctor says so. He knows. Ask him. Do as he says. *J. C. Just Criticism.

The action of the senate finance committee in placing still more "works of art" on the free list is utterly indefensible. If Morgan, Rockefeller and the rest want the works (or copies of the works) of the "old masters," let them pay for them. They made their money over here and ought to be willing to spend some of it on this side of the Atlantic. They must be exceedingly patriotic American citizens, if, as it has been said, they keep their art purchases over in Europe rather than pay the duty that would be exacted from them if they brought them to this country. If the common people were as destitute of patriotism as that, this nation would not endure for a single day.—Warren Register.

Wealth of the Soil.

American farms, according to James J. Hill, produced more wealth last year, in that single year, than all the mines of America have produced since the continent was discovered—more also than the total amount of all the nations of the world. That is a little staggering, but it is not a tithe of what our farms could produce, with thorough cultivation. For example, English acres average three times as large yields of grain as any American acres do, although our soil is naturally the richer.—Hillsboro Banner.

Paid in Advance.

The state legislators haven't raised their salaries at this session but they did change the law so that they will be paid for the last year of their term in advance. What if a special session should be called in 1910 and a member of that august body would have died or moved from the state in the meantime? Would he have earned his salary?—Fertile Journal.

A Consistent Booster.

Nary a week passes these days but Barnesville takes at least one good stride forward in the path that leads to the goal, which is marked "The Best Little City in the Red River Valley." Barnesville is non of your short-winded, short-distance sprinting kind, nixie—it's been in training for some time for the great Marathon race for the commercial supremacy of this section, and what's more to the point, we're out to win. Watch Barnesville grow!—Barnesville Record-Review.

Much more could be accomplished in the way of good roads were townships to consolidate their road work and fix up fewer places and do what they do more thoroly. A few hundred dollars scattered promiscuously over six miles square does not bring the results it would, were more system in work adopted.—Cottonwood Current.

NEW GARAGE FOR BJOIN & CARLSON

THEIR OLD GARAGE HAS BEEN LEASED TO JOHN MATTSON, BLACKSMITH

WHO WILL LEAVE PRESENT LOCATION ON SOUTH MAIN STREET

From Thursday's Daily—

John Mattson, the veteran blacksmith on South Main street on the Bunn property, where Mr. Bunn was located for years before he retired from business, has leased the Bjoin and Carlson livery and feed stable, and will soon be doing business at the new stand.

The brick is on the ground for the necessary chimneys. The garage is admirably fitted for a black smith shop as the entire floor is of cement and well drained, and the location, practically between two livery stables Couvrette and Cardin being directly across the street, where he will be thrown in contact with a vast number of farmers who house their teams there, in addition to his old established trade. He will have one of the most modernly equipped shops in the entire northwest.

A New Garage

This means that Bjoin and Carlson must build a new brick garage on the large vacant corner. Mr. Bjoin, when seen this morning would make no definite statements, but a new garage, he admitted must be provided for and there is no question but the building to be erected will be a fine one and modern in every respect. The vacant corner is one of the finest in the city and is an ideal place for a garage in every way. Definite plans will probably be announced in a few days, as when Bjoin and Carlson do things they do them right as evidenced by everything they have done in the past.

CHINA'S GRAND CANAL.

Sometimes It Holds Water Enough to Float the Boats.

Of some of the crude and outgrown methods used on China's Grand canal a writer in the North China Daily News remarks: "The junction of the real canal with the Wei river was not by means of a lock, but simply a high and steeply sloping mud bank, over which the grain vessels had to be dragged by the force of perhaps many hundreds of men. It should be borne in mind that in China the lock of a canal is not much more like our idea of what that name connotes than it is like a padlock. Amid constant and often serious changes of level, with an uncertain and not infrequently a scanty supply of water, and with a grain fleet which traveled in blocks of some eighty vessels under one officer, it was necessary to devise some way for keeping them together and for transferring them as a consolidated unit with this in view.

"For this reason a Chinese lock on the Grand canal is nothing but a stone gateway into which large boards may be lowered through a groove in the stones, restraining most of the water from its flow, until there is a depth sufficient to float all the craft, when the boards are pulled up and the entire fleet passes through.

"After this the boards are again lowered for another division of the grain boats. In case the water gives out—a by no means unlikely occurrence—there is nothing to do but to wait until more comes from somewhere."

The Hub of the German Empire.

Unter den Linden is the center spot of Berlin and the hub of the German empire. This magnificent boulevard is 198 feet in width, and under the shade of its lime trees the Berliners have a meeting place which is equal in architectural beauty to any in Europe. It is lined on either side with magnificent hotels, restaurants and palaces. At the east end of Unter den Linden, where it enters upon the Opera House platz, stands the magnificent monument of Frederick the Great, which is worthy of the real founder of United Germany. To the right of this monument is the palace of the Emperor William I., now occupied by Prince Heinrich. The north side of the Opera platz is occupied by the buildings of the University of Berlin, and next to it stands the Royal library, which rivals that at the British museum both in its size and the number of volumes it contains. The opera house itself is on the south of the platz and is a building of a nation of music lovers like the Germans.—Argonaut.

She Had Tested the Oyster.

Dora, the pet of the household, was very fond of oysters, and after eating her lunch of oysters and crackers she thought of her dear mother busy at her sewing machine. She selected a nice large oyster, put it in a plate and carried it to her mother, who, pleased with her little daughter's thoughtfulness, ate the oyster and said:

"It is most as good as my little girlie."

"Yes," answered Dora, "I know it is good 'cause I licked it all the way from the kitchen."—Delineator.

STENSHOEL BUYS MAYBURY HOME

WILL CONVERT PORTION OF IT INTO AN UNDERTAKING ESTABLISHMENT

WILL FOLLOW CLOSELY PLANS OF THE DAVIES UNDERTAKING CO.

From Thursday's Daily—

A deal has been completed by Coroner N. P. Stenshoel for the purchase of the James H. Maybury home on S. Main street, what is known as the Louis Fontaine property and one of the finest locations and residences in Crookston, the consideration being $6,600.

Mr. Stenshoel had two purposes, economy, as he will reside there, and facilities for a strictly up-to-date undertaking establishment, patterned after the Davies Undertaking Co., of Minneapolis, the largest in the northwest, who have an institution similar to that one Mr. Stenshoel will have when he has completted the alterations which he has in mind.

To Relinquish Present Parlors

The embalming room will be in the basement, and will be made strictly sanitary. The front room will be used as an office by him and where private services are desired the parlor and sitting room doors will be thrown open, giving ample room for a large attendance.

The entire work will be done there and Mr. Stenshoel will close his parlors on North Main street adjoining the Bijou, so that he will save the expense of the rental he pays there, combining the undertaking parlors with a residence.

Idea is Metropolitan

This idea is a comparatively new one, but is being adopted in the larger cities. The location is ideal, being just far enough from the business center to give privacy to those desiring it, and at the same time close to the business center of the city.

There will also be a vault constructed in the basement where bodies may be held for a week or more while the arrival of relatives is being awaited.

Maybury Will Build

Every attention will be paid to sanitary conditions.

Mr. Stenshoel takes possession May 1st at which time Mr. Maybury will move into a flat temporarily. During the summer Mr. Maybury will build a strictly modern house. He owns several lots in the city and will erect a house that will be a credit to Crookston, tho it will probably not be quite as large as his South Main residence, which was larger than his family required.

Spoiled His Taste.

"A friend of mine," said a Montana man, "is defending a damage suit for being a party to making a man take the liquor cure without his consent. This man had been on a protracted spree of several weeks, and his business was going to the dogs. My friend thought it would be a kindly thing to send him to a sanitarium for treatment. He did so, and the man was given the cure for the whisky habit. When he was discharged from the sanitarium the first thing he did was to go to a saloon. He called for whisky. He tasted it, but did not fancy the flavor of it. He set his distaste of it down to the cure he had been given by my friend's orders and immediately began suit for $50,000 damages. He says in his complaint that he had a highly cultivated and discriminating taste for whisky, which had taken years to develop, and that was spoiled by the cure. I do not know how my friend will come out, but he is not helping any more 'down and outs' without first obtaining their consent."—New York Journal.

Rings as a Protection.

"I used to be surprised," said a clerk in a high class jewelry establishment, "when a woman whom I knew was unmarried would come in and coolly select a handsome solitaire diamond ring, the sort usually sold for an engagement ring, and then, quite as a matter of course, buy a plain gold band of the wedding ring variety. I couldn't understand it at first, but now I've learned that many unmarried women think two such rings, worn when traveling, for instance, serve about the same purpose as a chaperon. I had a case the other day where a mother came in with her unmarried daughter—a pretty girl hardly out of her teens—and bought two such rings. From their conversation I learned that the girl was to take the trip to the Pacific coast unaccompanied, and the mother evidently thought if her daughter was protected by her rings she'd not be so apt to be criticised for being alone. Funny idea, but the women seem to think it works well."—New York Sun.

A Candid Critic.

Author—Have you read my new book?

Friend—Yes.

"What do you think of it?"

"Well, to be candid with you, I think the covers are too far apart."—Chicago News.

MAHMOUT A CHILD IN HANDS OF F. GOTCH

AMERICAN CHAMPION WINS FALLS IN EIGHT AND NINE MINUTES RESPECTIVELY — CROTCH AND HALF NELSON THE HOLDS — VICTORY ESPECIALLY NOTABLE BECAUSE GOTCH DID NOT NEED TOE HOLD—LATEST CLAIMANT TO WORLD'S WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP HELD BY FRANK GOTCH, YUSSIF MAHMOUT OF BULGARIA, TOUTED AS A WORLD BEATER — GOES DOWN BEFORE SUPERIOR STRENGTH AND STRATEGY OF AMERICAN IN JIG TIME

Chicago, April 14—Frank Gotch of Humboldt, Ia., succeeded in retaining his title as champion wrestler of the world tonight by defeating Yussif Mahmout of Bulgaria in a fast and furious match. The much touted Bulgarian was as a child in the hands of the American master of mat strategy Gotch won both falls with crotch and half nelson respectively in 8 and 9 minutes 10 seconds.

The victory of the champion was regarded as all the more notable inasmuch as he did not use his famous toe hold in bringing about the downfall of the powerful foreigner. Gotch was able to secure almost any hold he desired, so limited appeared the Turk's knowledge of the game. The match was fast and exciting, however, thruout. It was full of action, dash and vim, but it was so short that there was not a single idle moment.

DOLLIE TOYE MAKES A BIG HIT IN CHICAGO

Miss Dollie Toye formerly of St. Paul, has made a big hit in vaudeville in Chicago. Miss Toye who is small, petite and of the "cunning" type that would suggest that she had been named after rather than before she grew up, is a singer, and first should the development of a remarkable voice during her six years residence in Crookston. The Chicago American spoke of her appearance there this week as "a genuine sensation" ando f her voice as "phenomenal." Said the American: "She should be billed as the girl with the double voice. She is both a dramatic soprano and a tenor rubusto.

She began her act with a soprano rendering of the Ave Maria set to the intermezzo of "Cavalleria Rusticana". You hear the big soprano ringing out behind the curtain and pay some attention to it because of its volume and fullness—not a great deal of attention of course, for big sopranos are not in vaudeville.

When the Ave Maria is over the curtain rises but the singer does not appear. Mr. Ernest Moeck sits down at the grand piano and begins the accompaniment to the great tenor song from "Pagliacci." From behind the curtain comes another voice—a man's voice—not so fine as Caruso's to be sure, but almost as powerful. You wonder idly who the man is and look at your programme to find his name. It is not there. So you watch the wings for him to come out—and see Miss Dollie Toye emerge in bonnet and laces and a lot of fluffy feminine pink stuff.

You see the whole trick at once—or you think you do. This fluffy pink person is a man, a female impersonator, you decide. The soprano voice in the Ave Maria came from some woman behind the scenes. It is quite a clever trick to fool you, you admit, but it doesn't fool you at all.

Then before you have time to explain to your neighbor just how it is worked, and show him how cleverly you have seen thru this Dollie Toye fake, the singer launches off on the soprano wave again, in some popular ballad. Then you do sit up and take notice.

Men who can warble a thin soprano women with baritone voices, these are common enough. But man or woman with two absolutely distinct voices—well, there is a rarity for your money, and they have it at the American. Each of Miss Toye's voices is more than enough to fill the theatre. As tenor and as soprano she gives vent to an enormous volume of sound — and it is not an unpleasant sound by any means, tho it has no velvet quality. And these two voices are so different that you would never believe they could issue from the same throat unless you saw Miss Toye switching from one to the other with alternate verses of the ballad. She is a "find" certainly; the surprise and the hit of the bill.—St. Paul Dispatch.

PRESENTED WITH A FINE PEN

PRINCIPAL P. S. HUGHES GIVES ECLECTIC COLLEGE GRADUATE SOUND ADVICE

The following speech was delivered by the principal, P. S. Hughes, at the Eclectic Business College this morning, to George Secord, of Crookston, who has been employed as stenographer for the American Union Sunday school. Mr. Secord leaves for Twin Falls, Idaho, Monday, where his father is now located. George is a bright boy and will make good in his new position in the west. Crookston may well be proud of him.

Pen Mightier Than Sword.

"The pen is mightier than the sword. The proudest day of a soldier's life is when the general waits upon him and presents him with a sword, in recognition of services rendered to his country, upon the battle field. On equal standing do we find the amanuensis, when his employer waits upon him and presents him with a pen. He has a right to feel proud and revere the memory of the day he is presented this pen, that I now have the privilege of handing to you from the American Union Sunday school, through its Supt., Rev. E. W. Savage."

Now if each individual property owner or tenant will just appoint himself a committee of one to see to it that his own front and back yards are cleaned up nicely as soon as it dries up a bit, Crookston will be a model city so far as cleanliness is concerned. It only needs a little of the right kind of civic pride backed up by a bit of physical exercise, and presto—the thing is done.

WOMAN MAKES FATAL ERROR

MRS. GEORGE McMILLAN DIES AS RESULT OF TAKING WOOD ALCOHOL

Mrs. George McMillon wife of one of Bottineau's popular business men died today as a result of taking wood alcohol by mistake. Suffering from a severe toothache she took what she thought was medicine to relieve it. The doctors arrived too late to save her. The couple had been wedded only a few months and were living most happily. The husband leaves tomorrow with the remains for the old home at Ruthven, Iowa.

DEMOLISHED FARMHOUSES

HALF BREED STARTED REIGN OF TERROR NEAR THIEF RIVER FALLS

FARMERS BROKE HIS ARM AND BEAT HIM UP BADLY—POLICE LANDED HIM

From Wednesday's Daily—

Sheriff Nelson passed thru the city last evening having in custody Joe Morin, a half breed whom he took to Fergus Falls. Morin was in desperate shape with one arm broken and his face and body terribly bruised.

It appears he went crazy and terrorized a number of farmers families, near Thief River. He went about with a big club, smashing in windows and doors. The farmers tried to overpower him but did not succeed tho they beat him with clubs, breaking one of his arms and terribly bruising his body and face.

Finally they sent to Thief River Falls for the police and they landed the demented man. He was vicious and was securely strapped when taken down last night.

MUST SEND MONEY DIRECT

IN FUTURE REMITTANCES FROM INDIVIDUALS ONLY—WILL ACCEPTED

AT UNITED STATES LAND OFFICES FROM APPLICANTS

Homesteaders must in the future make personal remittances to the United States landoffices. This decision has been reached by Commissioner Fred Dennett and instructions have been sent to every land office in the country to this effect. In the past proof has been made before a commissioner or other qualified officer and remittance made by that official to the land office. This will not do in the future. Following is the order:

Department of Interior,
General Land Office.
Washington, D. C.

Registers and Receivers, U. S. Land Offices:

Sirs:—Please notify all United States Commissioers and other qualified officers before who, applications proofs, etc., may be made, that all remittances by post office money orders accompanying such applications, proofs, etc., that may be forwarded to your offices, must in each and every case, show the name of the applicant or the entryman as the remitter in the money order. The money order must not show the United States commissioner, or other qualified officer as the remitter. A separate money order must be forwarded for each applicant, entryman, etc.

This will enable the receiver to determine to whom any surplus amount or other returnable amount received in connection with any application or proof is to be returned.

Very respectfully,
Fred Dennett,
Commissioner.

DONALDSON FARMER RETURNS FROM CANADA SATISFIED WITH VALLEY

T. Thompson and family left their home at Cloverdale B. C., April 3. stopped on route at James Clark's at Kensington B. C., and at White Earth N. D., and arrived here Tuesday morning April 13th.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Thompson are enjoying good health. It is their intention to move back on the old homestead where they will make their home for the future.

Speaking of land in the west Mr. Thompson says that land values in the locality in which he has lived the last three years have doubled since his arrival there but he does not ascribe it's advance so much to the productiveness of the soil as he does to the persistent advertising done in that country.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson's friends are glad to see them back. When the new countries are given a trial and are found wanting and those imigrating to them come back to the valley to settle down for the remainder of their days, is certainly a good indication that, taking the good with the bad, the Valley is O. K.—Donaldson Record.

BEARS HAMMER WHEAT MARKET

LEADERLESS BULLS ROUTED AND JULY OPTION SENT DOWN OVER THREE CENTS

JIM PATTEN FAILS TO SUPPORT MARKET HIS ACTION IS INTERPRETED DIFFERENTLY

From Wednesday's Daily—

Chicago, April 21—The bulls in the wheat were leaderless yesterday and a dashing bear raid wrought considerable confusion in the pit when July closed at $1.12 5-8; showing a net loss of 3 5-8 @ 3-4 cents. The raid weeded out small margined traders, enabled a lot of profit taking by shorts not to mention the reinstatement of long lines previously disposed of at a higher figure.

"It's old Mother Earth warning Patten that Secretary Wilson knows something about the crop himself," said the bears.

"It's just a natural swing of the speculative pendulum. There has been a long continued advance the reaction is only natural," said the bulls.

"Why didn't the Patten crowd support the market" was the question of inquiry put by small speculators who had pinned their faith to the Patten position and expected that the bull leader would take care that the prices did not run away.

"Because it's none of Patten's business," came the answer from the Patten side.

"He has a lot of wheat but he is not manipulating prices. He knows that conditions will take care of the price. He has neither made or unmade prices, and has no responsibility in the matter."

Whether Patten's purchases were made is a matter for conjecture altho there was an unconfirmed report that the bull leader bought heavily at the decline and stopped July before it got beyond $1.12 1-4 in its headlong tumble.

Customers of the Patten house, however, declared that there was nothing thruout the day to indicate that the leading trader had taken any interest in the market. Apparently he left it to its fate altho his eye seldom left the blackboard where the quotations were marked up.

ADD TO CREWS ON SECTIONS

THE HILL LINES ARE PREPARING FOR SUMMER SECTION WORK

Section agents of the Northern Pacific railroad have received circulars from the main office at St. Paul directing them to increase the number of men upon their respective sections This will mean the employment of a large number of additional men upon the system. This order means that general road repairing will begin in the near future.

It is also expected that the Great Northern will soon begin to increase the number of its road laborers, as general repairs are due to begin some time this month. As soon as the general road repairing and reballasting begins there will be employment for a large number of men that are idle at the present time.

KEY WEST

Wm. Gunnis and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Beveridge Sunday.

Miss Sophia Johnson spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Crookston.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustine, Mrs. Capes visited in Grand Forks Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stewart drove to Crookston Monday.

These nice sunny days takes the farmers to the field.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Capes Sunday and also called on Mr. and Mrs. Ehnen.

Mrs. Capes called on Mrs. Ehnen Sunday evening.

The entertainment given at the Key West church Friday evening entitled "Topsy Turvey" was splendid and was also well attended considering the evening. Each character deserves praise for the way they carried off the different parts. Free lunch was served after close of entertainment.

MUCH TALK; NOTHING DONE

DULUTH HERALD COMMENTS ON NECESSITY OF CONSERVING AGRICULTURAL RESOURCES

COMMENDS SENATOR STEPHENS FOR CASH PRIZE PLAN IN POLK COUNTY

From Monday's Daily—

The Duluth Herald has the following very timely comment upon a subject that is of vital interest everywhere in Minnesota.

"The proposal for conserving the agricultural resources of the state so numerously made and so widely discussed during the past few months appear to have come to nothing so far as the legislature is concerned.

"No state has ever been so thoroly aroused upon this subject as Minnesota in the past months. Discussion of the loss of the soil's productiveness has been general in the newspapers. School men have appeared with numerous remedies. The members of the legislature have provided bills covering every phase of the subject. Out of all this talk, we have thus far got nowhere except to a conclusion that something ought to be done.

"State Auditor Iverson this week in Duluth said that where from thirty to thirty-five bushels of wheat per acre used to be produced in Minnesota we now talk of twelve. James J. Hill declared before the legislature this winter that action must be taken at once to teach our farmers better methods before present wasteful methods have completely bankrupted the soil of its productive elements.

"Senator A. D. Stephens is offering $1,000 in prizes to the farmers of Polk county for the best crops of different products raised under specified conditions in order to rouse the farmer of the Red River Valley to study the subject of soil productiveness.

"We are striving to rouse the state to the fact that we cannot forever take out and put nothing back into the soil withoutt in time making it worthless. Diminishing crops in all parts of Minnesota testify to the truth of this fact and the problem of renewing the soil and of properly cultivating it in the future is a problem of vital interest to Minnesota.

"It is to the solution of this problem that the teaching of agriculture in the public schools has been proposed, it is to this problem that the many agricultural bills now before the legislature address themselves. Some one or more of these bills may become laws, altho the prospect is doubtful. A bill to establish several county agricultural schools has passed the house, the Putman bill granting a liberal appropriation to high schools that teach agriculture has passed the senate the bill advocated by J. J. Hill to send instructors in agriculture thru the state to demonstrate modern methods upon the farms has passed one house, but there appears little prospect that any of these measures will receive the approval of both branches of the legislatture. Two bills for district agricultural schools are still being considered in committee and a committee appointed from senate and house to digest the various bills and agree upon agricultural legislation has failed to report.

The thing aimed at is to rouse the farmer to the fact that his methods are wasteful, to teach him better methods, and to get him to put them in practice. All the agitation we have had may do something to that end, but what is needed is something concrete to put new and concrete methods before the farmer and to demonstrate to him their overwhelming superiority."

CONDITIONS ARE IDEAL THIS SPRING

E. E. LOMMEN SPENDING A FEW DAYS HERE LOOKING AFTER BUSINESS

E. E. Lommen for years one of the leading citizens and business men of Crookston, at one time taking an active interest in politics, but who is now in the banking business at Buxton, N. D., has been spending the past few days here attending to some business affairs in Crookston. Mr. Lommen is well pleased with his new location and states the country around Buxton is very prosperous. The farmers this spring have been at work in the fields for several days and already have a good acreage in crop. He believes the prospects are good for the coming season, and with every indication pointing toward even higher prices than prevailed last year, that the Red River Valley will be more prosperous than for many years of the se ason is fairly favorable.

BAD BLAZE AT CLIMAX

KAHLERT HOTEL BURNED TO GROUND WITH ALL THE CONTENTS

ORIGIN OF FIRE A COMPLETE MYSTERY—ABSOLUTELY NOTHING WAS SAVED

From Tuesday's Daily—

At four o'clock yesterday morning Climax was visited by a disastrous fire which completely destroyed the Kahlert Hotel with all the contents absolutely nothing having been saved.

The inmates were aroused about 4 o'clock and the hotel was a mass of flames then, there being barely time to escape, many getting out in their night clothes, carrying a few articles of wearing apparel under their arms as they fled to safety.

The origin of the fire is a complete mystery, the flames having progressed to such an extent before the inmates were aroused that there was no basis upon which to found any theory.

Mrs. Kahlert carried $1,000 insurance on the building and $1,000 on the furniture, and the loss will be about three times this amount.

It is probable that th e hotel will be rebuilt but nothing definite regarding this will be known till the loss is adjusted.

Mr. Kahlert drove from here to Climax yesterday morning, returning in the afternoon. No one was injured as a result of the fire.

VALLEY SUITS THEM MUCH THE BEST

MR. AND MRS. GILBERT HAUGEN RETURN FROM YEAR'S STAY IN OREGON

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Haugen left yesterday for their farm near Thief River Falls after a year's sojourn in Oregon. They went there with the intention of locating permanently but after a year's stay decided that the Red River Valley was a better place to live in. They had foresight enough not to sell their farm near Thief River and are very glad they did not sell before going west as so many others did, and were compelled to pay double what they sold for to get their land back on their return.

Mr. and Mrs. Haugen spent a week here with their daughter, Mrs. Bergen of Jeromes addition before continuing to Thief River Falls where they have determined to spend the balance of their days.

A $35,000 BUILDING FOR INT'L FALLS

WORK HAS STARTED ON HOTEL AND DEPARTMENT STORE

A large crew of men is at work excavating for the basement of the new hotel and department store which will be built on the corner of Third street and Fourth avenue at International Falls.

The walls of the basement will be of concrete, for which it will require over 400 barrels of cement. The superstructure will be of brick and will require 250,000 to build. The lower floor of the building will provide space for a buffet hotel office, dining room, kitchen, Olsen, Peterson & Co., large department store and post office; the second floor will provide two large parlors, forty-two sleeping rooms and five bathrooms, and the basement will be used for the steam heating plant, laundry and store room. The entire building will cover four lots and will cost close to $35,000. The financiers of the proposition are Olson, Peterson & Co., J. C. Chamberlin, Greeley E. Carr, formerly of Argyle and a brother of Editor R. D. V. Carr of the Middle River Pioneer, and W. M. Gregory.

DINEHART TO ADDRESS RED LAKE STUDENTS

Hon. Clarence C. Dinehart, state treasurer, has promised to deliver the commencement address to the graduating class of the Red Lake Falls high school on Friday evening, June 4. Mr. Dinehart has the well-earned reputation of being one of the best speakers in the state, and the school board is to to be congratulated upon securing him.

NEW STATE LAW LIMITING SALOONS

ULTIMATELY THERE WILL BE ONLY ONE SALOON FOR EACH 500 PEOPLE

The bill below under which saloon licenses will hereafter be granted makes it impossible for the city of Red Lake Falls to favorably consider applications for addition saloon licenses until the number of saloons has dropped below four. We have now seven saloons, but they will not be disturbed by this law. Should one of the proprietors retire from business, however, a license cannot be issued to anyone else as long as the maximum number of four saloons still remains.

As there seems to be considerable misunderstanding as to the provisions of the new law recently passed by limiting the number of saloons we herewith publish the low in its entirety:

A BILL, for an act to limit the granting of licenses for sale of intoxicating liquors:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Minnesota.

Sec. 1. From and after the passage of this act the number of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors which may be granted by any county or municipality shall be one for each five hundred of population or fraction thereof in any township, town, village or city of this state, such population to be determined by the last preceeding state or national census; provided however, that in all such cities, villages, towns and townships where a greater number of licenses may have been granted or issued at the time of the passage of this act than would be permissible under the foregoing limitation it shall be lawful, and the local authorities are hereby authorized in their discretion to grant and issue licenses equal in number to those granted or issued at the time of the passage of this act, but no additional licenses in number shall be granted or issued in any city, village, town or township until the increase in population thereof brings the same within the foregoing limitation, whereupon additional licenses may be granted from time to time to lawful applications, upon compliance by such applicants with the laws of this state then in force until the total number of licenses in force in any township, town village or city shall equal one for each five hundred of population or fraction thereof, as ascertained by the last preceding state or national census.

Sec. 2. Whenever any county municipality, in which no licenses exist, shall at any time hereafter, grant licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors it shall be lawful for such county municipality to grant licenses only to a number of one for every five hundred of population or fraction thereof, in any township, town, village or city, as ascertained by the then last preceding state or national census, and no more, until the increase in population thereof brings the same within the limitation for one for each five hundred of population or fraction thereof, as ascertained by the then last preceding state or national census, whereupon additional licenses may be granted from time to time, to lawful applicants upon compliance by such applicants with the law of this state, then in force provided that the respective local authorities may grant one license in any township, town or muicipality having less than five hundred of population.

Sec. 3. Whenever any town or municipality in which licenses have been granted to the time of the passage of this act, shall at any time hereafter vote "no license" under the provisions of the local option laws of this state or the provisions of any municipal charter, as the case may be, and such tow nor municipality shall at any time, after voting "no license" again vote for license," under the law of this state or the provisions of any municipal charter, as the case may be the number of licenses which may then and thereafter be granted within such town or municipality shall, in no time exceed one for each five hundred of population or fraction thereof, as ascertained by the then last preceding state or national census; provided that one license may be granted in any town or municipality having less than five hundred of population.

Sec. 4. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed as repealing or modifying existing local option laws.

Sec. 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

TO GO TO CAMP ON JUNE 14TH

COMPANY I WILL LEAVE HERE ON SUNDAY, JUNE 13TH, FOR LAKE CITY

The Third Regiment of the Minnesota National Guard will go into camp at Camp Lakeview, two miles, south of Lake City, on Monday, June 14th. At first it was arranged that the encampment would start on the 21st, but this would get the various companies back to their stations on the last days of the month and this would cause many men to leave camp after only five days' service, so as to get home to do the work which piles up in every office about the last of the month.

Requests for advice were sent out to all company commanders, and the replies received at the regimental headquarters at St. Paul, show that the earlier date was the most favorable. Rifle practice is to be crowded into five days and the other five days will be taken up with field maneuvers and short practice marches. Battle exercises and the pitching of shelter tent camps will be a feature of this year's work.

Company I, of this city, which belongs to the Third regiment, will probably go down with its full quota of members. Active drills for the encampment will be commenced as soon as the weather will permit and all the boys feel as if they could go through the trip and bring back as many honors as last year. The new field uniforms will be here by encampment time and as the members have been doing some strenuous practice on the indoor rifle range, they will be heard from.

SAYS SEED GRAIN SHOULD BE TREATED

IN ORDER TO PREVENT SMUT—CAN BE DONE WITHOUT INJURY

(Furnished by the Minnesota Farmers' Institute, St. Anthony Park, St. Paul, Minn.)

Oat smut and stinking smut of wheat are prevented by treating the seed again. The oat smut is easily seen, as it causes all kernel in a head of oats to turn black, the spores of the smut taking the place of the oat kernels. The stinking smut of wheat, or bunt is not so easily seen, as it produces its spores within the kernels of wheat and they are not seen unless the kernel is broken open. The spores of these smuts do not live over in the soil, but are carried from one year to the next on the surface of the seed. These grains may be treated sufficiently to kill the smut spores without injury to the grain for seed purposes.

Formaline may be bought at any drug store at from 25 to 50 cents per pint or pound. It is a liquid. One pint of formaline added to 45 gallons of water makes sufficient solution to treat 60 to 85 bushels of oats, or 80 to 100 bushels of wheat. Grain should be thoroly fanned before treating. It is just necessary to get the seeds moistened with the solution.

PURVIS CLOSES BIG LAND DEAL

R. H. Purvis left last evening for Minneapolis after several days spent at Grand Forks. He has been there off and on for two months in the interest of the Great Northern Land Company and in that time disposed of 4,000 acres of Grand Forks county land. He closed a deal for sale of 2,000 acres o fland during the past week. The purchasers are six Illinois farmers who will move here within a year.

Mr. Purvis stated last evening as he passed thru Crookston that the outlook for the land business was never better. The tide has turned from the south and there will be heavy buying especially in the Red River Valley.

"The satisfied buyers who have arrived from the middle west are our best advertisers," he said. "They are glad to show their friends what can be done with the reasonably priced land of North Dakota."

PAY FOR STATE PRISON INMATES

Senator Stephens' bill providing pecuniary asistance for penitentiary prisoners and their dependent relatives, passed the house Saturday. The board of control is authorized to pay prisoners at the rate of not more than 25 cents a day according to their ability and conduct.

HAVE A GOLIATH ON EXHIBITION

LOCAL POLICE NAB MAN WHO IS WANTED AT BEMIDJI—IS 6 FT. 6 IN. TALL

Last evening Capt. Vonderbeck and Officer Nelson landed a lumberjack named Alfred Simonson following instructions received from the Bemidji authorities tho the nature of the charge was not stated. He will be held till this evening when an officer from Bemidi will arrive on the 7 o'clock train and return on the Duluth train later. Simonson is only 6 feet and 6 inches tall and seems to be bubbling over with good nature. He claims not to know what he is wanted in Bemidji for.

Several people tried to persuade Chief Eck to put the giant on exhibition today at 25 cents a throw, but the man with the big star turned a deaf ear to the supplicants and "Alfred the Lengthy" was screened from the vulgar gaze of the public.

That Tired Feeling

That you have day in and out, whether you work or not, is a tired feeling that healthy people don't have.

It is most common at this time of year—upon the return of warm weather—but it comes from a run-down condition of the system in which the blood is impure or impoverished.

It is burdensome and discouraging. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills positively remove it; they purify and enrich the blood, tone the organs, and build up the whole system.

Thousands of people know this by experience.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills will make you feel better, look better, eat and sleep better. Accept no substitutes.

MUCH ACTIVITY AT MAPLE LAKE

MANY NEW BUILDINGS ARE BEING ERECTED THIS SPRING

SEASON WILL BE THE LIVELIEST EVER EXPERIENCED THERE

From Monday's Daily—

[illegible]ming season will be the liveliest e[illegible]ienced at Maple Lake the popular summer resort 25 miles southeast of Crookston. The delightful weather of Sunday drew scores of the cottage owners there to make preparations for the formal opening of their places for the summer season.

Contracts have already been let for the erection of a large number of new cottages including fine places for Messrs Chas. Bourdon and Hunt of Red Lake Falls, Harry Randall and Ladd of Grand Forks, C. Bray and Babcock and Kelly, of Crookston and many others will build a little later on. All of these cottages will be erected on what is known as Washington Heights.

There will also be a number of new sail and motor boats, some private and others to be put in service for the benefit of those who do not own boats of their own. To add to the attractions at Maple Lake, the fishing will be better this year than ever before as the state Game and Fish Commission for several years past has been stocking the lake up and the first consignments are large enough for good sport this season.

Samuel Rosenthal spent yesterday at his cottage and says things look fine. Reg Smith and others were also there from Grand Forks.

OLD TIME CROOKSTONITE HERE

EDITOR SHAESGREEN OF IRON TRAIL ARRIVES FROM MINNEAPOLIS

Ed Shaesgreen publisher of the Iron Trail, one of the leading railroad papers published in the United States which has an international reputation, arrived in the city this morning to attend the funeral of Albert Harris, the two having been warm personal friends years ago when Mr. Shaesgreen was running out of Crookston on the Great Northern, his father at that time having been superintendent of the Crookston saw mill.

Mr. Shaesgreen left Crookston a number of years ago and started the Iron Trail. It was a very modest affair on the start, but grew rapidly and now is a very fine publication with an immense circulation, and stands with the top notchers in its line.

COSTLY RELICS OF DEPARTED GREATNESS

ED WILSON, ERSTWHILF MANAGER OF AUDITORIUM TAKES FRENCH LEAVE

Ed Wilson, late manager of the Auditorium Theatre took French leave this afternoon, boarding the N. P. train for some point, no one here cares much where, tho a few have suggested a destination where his fuel bill would not run up so high but what he could pay for it.

Wilson managed to secure quite a following during his short stay in the city—of creditors, and a number of them followed him to the depot. Personally the Journal is not grieving, as he only "stuck us up" for $2 and that is guaranteed by another party. We grieve slightly for the other party.

Others however have been 'stung' for goodly sums, close up to the $100 mark.

It is unfortunate that the Auditorium should have fallen into the hands of Wilson, whose ability to bluff and bluster exceeded any ability he had as manager of a vaudeville house.

Any one desiring to secure some accounts cheap can do so by applying to any one of a long list which will be furnished free at the Journal office.

You may not be able to do great things, but you can at least try to do the small things in a great way.

HON. H. STEENERSON WAS HIGHLY HONORED

WAS ONE OF FIVE SPEAKERS, ALL OF NATIONAL REPUTATION AND AT THE HEAD OF THE FOREMOST EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS OF THE COUNTRY AT FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE AMERICAN-SCANDINAVIAN SOCIETY IN NEW YORK—GIVEN IN HONOR OF FOREIGN MINISTERS FROM SWEDEN, NORWAY AND DENMARK

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Journal is indebted to Dr. J. S. Kjelland for a copy of the Scandinavian Times of New York which contains an account of the First Annual Banquet given at the Astoria, New York, by the American-Scandinavian Society at which Hon. H. de Lagercrantz, minister from Sweden, Hon. Ove Gude, minister from Norway and Count C. Moltke, minister from Denmark were guests of honor.

Hon. Nicholas Hurray Butler of Columbia University presided, Hon. Elmer E. Brown, U. S. Commissioner of Education, Wash., D. C., acted as the toastmaster and the five speakers included such noted men as Chancellor McCracken of the University of N. Y. President John H. Finley of the College of the city of New Work, Robert Watchorn, Commissioner of Immigration Ellis Island, Montagu Donner, Esq., and Congressman Steenerson of this city who was the third speaker.

There were over 400 at the banquet and relative to Congressman Steenerson's presence the Scandinavian Times says:

"We highly appreciate that a Norwegian Congressman from Minnesota Halvor Steenerson, also came from Washington to represent, and most worthily, the Scaandinavians in the Congress of the United States."

Mr. Steenerson in his address said:

"I want to say in behalf of the Scandinavians of America that we join you all in this greeting to the three representatives of three great governments in the north. In Washington we recognize these gentlemen as among the most eminent of ay representatives of foreign nations and in the lagislative branch of the government we honor them especially because they represent those nations who have given such a shining example to the world how to settle disputes without resort to arms. We feel perhaps more than anyone else the burdens of taxation resulting from either preparation for war or paying for past wars. It is the House of Representatives of the American people that holds the purse strings, that regulates taxation. Today 65 per cent. of all the revenues of the United States are expended either in past obligations for war or in preparation and maintenance for future war. We therefore appreciate in a very high degree the presence of the gentlemen whom are willing to regard as the possible bearers of peace to the world. The ideas underlying the foundation of this government, the concepts that the revolutionary fathers had of government were the same as are entertained today and have for many genertions been entertined by the people of Scandinavia. They have always loved liberty, religious liberty, civil liberty and independence and they have always believed in the participation of the people as a whole in the affairs of government. These are the foundation principles of our government. We inherited our ideas of liberty from Great Britain, but England in turn got them from the north.

"The Scandinavians in this country have prospered in every way—but best of all they have achieved a good name and fame so that they are every where welcomed and everywhere counted on as ardent and loyal supporters of the highest and bzest ideals in society. They have done well and I have no doubt that the educational feature will be taken care of by this Society. This is a very happy moment. I have no doubt that this Society will do a great deal of good. It will no doubt bring over a great many of those treasures in literature and art that ought to be more familiar to the American people than they are now. There are vast riches there and I believe in that way alone this Society will justify its foundation. I am admonished by the lateness of the hour that the best thing I can do is to wish you you all a happy morning and a good night. (Prolonged applause.)"

BIG RISE IN REAL ESTATE

FEVERISH EXCITEMENT WAS RECORDED IN NORTHWEST YESTERDAY

ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS OF TRANSFERS IN THIS SECTION ECLIPSED

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Patten wheat corner looked like 30 cents worth of sausage skins compared with the phenomenal rise in real estate in the northwest yesterday.

The trouble started at noon and before darkness settled upon the land "Old Boreas" had transferred about 7,000,000 acres, surface measure in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota and about the same amount was transferred from Manitoba to the two states.

The travelling men returned last evening with their ears, eyes and lungs full and the laundrymen will have to work over time for a week to clean the soiled linen.

The dust storm was the worst experienced in many years and farm work in the afternoon was entirely suspended.

Passengers arriving on the evennig trains from the west and north stated that it was the worst dust storm day they had ever experienced. Trains were not affected to any extent.

The temperature took a great fall. From 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. there was a fall of 39 degrees.

At midnight the wind was moderated and the temperature was falling rapidly and this morning the air was clear but cold.

MISSING MAN IS FOUND IN RIVER

BODY OF JOHN F. MORTIMER IS TAKEN FROM RIVER NEAR EMERSON SUNDAY

DISAPPEARED LAST DECEMBER ON HIS WAY TO PEMBINA—FELL THRU AIR HOLE

From Tuesday's Daily—

The body of John F. Mortimer of St. Vincent Minn., who was drowned in the Red River near Pembina about five months ago, was found Sunday afternoon at a point about two miles north of Emerson, Man. Tho in the water for a long time the remains were in a fairly good state of preservation.

Mortimer's sudden disappearance last December was one of the most mysterious with which the officials of that section have had to deal. He left his home at St. Vincent to go to Winnipeg expecting to board the train in Pembina. It was necessary for him to cross the Red river in order to reach Pembina and as it was dark, he failed to see the many bad places in the ice and went thru. Several days later whe nhis wife failed to hear from her husband an investigation was started. The river was dragged as thoroly as possible but no trace was secured of the missing man.

The body when found was lodged in the underbrush along the river bank where it had been carried by the high water. John Mortimer was formerly very prominent in Manitoba politics. He was at one time a member of the official family of the province and was heavily interested in various business enterprises.

AUNESTAD IS VIOLENT

BYGLAND FARMER THREATENED TO KILL HIS AGED PARENTS AND ARRESTED

BROUGHT TO CROOKSTON AND WILL BE EXAMINED AS TO SANITY SOON

From Tuesday's Daily—

Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Sullivan was called to Bygland township where he arrested Knute Aunestad 49 years of age, who lived with his aged parents and who recently became sullen and at times violent and had threatened to kill them both. He has a brother and sister in the asylum at Fergus an uncle in another asylum and a brother in the Stillwater penitentiary.

He was taken to Bethesda hospital where he will be treated for a few days for extreme nervousness, before having his examination.

EX-SHERIFF GONYEA BACK FOR SUMMER

LOUIS JR., AND ALEX GONYEA ARE PROSPERING AT BOISE, IDAHO

Ex-sheriff Louis Gonyea has returned from Boise City, Idaho, where he removed with his sons Louis Jr., and Alex from North Yakima, who are doing fine operating a cigar store at Boise.

Mr. Gonyea is in good health tho he has lost about 18 pounds since going west. He will spend the greater portion of the summer here with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Sandberg, and at Maple Lake as soon as the weather warms up. He says things are prosperous out west and he likes it first rate but is glad to greet old Polk county friends.

ANTI-CIGARETTE LAW LIKE RUBBER

MINNESOTA TOBACCO DEALERS MAY STRETCH IT WITHOUT FEAR

The anti-cigarette law will go into theoretical effect Aug. 1 next but it seems generally understood among tobacco dealers that they will make no attempt to live up to its provisions. They have been given to understand in the first place that, according to United States supreme court rulings, it is unconstitutional; and in the second place, that it is very easily evaded.

The tobacco stores, as a whole, will continue to carry cigarette stocks as they do now but they will not be exposed in glass cases. Customers who ask for them will get them. This is the plan that will be tried; and if the authorities in certain towns insist in enforcement of the regulation against the "coffin nail" then "the makings" will be sold in a way that it is believed cannot be prohibited. The cigarette papers will be sold as at present in little books but they will be labeled 'eye glass cleaners" instead of "cigarette papers." The cigarette tobacco will be sold as in the "gold old days, but it will be labeled "pipe tobacco." And if the man who buys the "eye glass cleaners" and the "pipe tobacco" sees fit to combine the two into the naughty, naughty cigarette, who has scorned the law?

ANNUAL MEETING OF SWEDISH CONFERENCE

The Fargo district of the Minnesota Conference will hold its yearly meeting the the Swedish Lutheran church Tuesday and Wednesday April 27 and 28. Tuesday evening the sermon will be by Rev. W. O. Grunden from Fargo, N. D., Wednesday at 2 p. m. sermon by Rev. P. E. Bergstrom from Hatwood, N. D. After the service refreshments will be served by the Ladies Aid Society. In the evening at 7:45 p. m. Communion service. Sermon by Rev. N. Leharht from Detroit Minn. All Scandinavian people are cordially invited to attend these meetings and listen to these good speakers. The church choir will sing several songs. All are welcome.

ALBERT HARRIS LAID TO REST

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE HELD THIS AFTERNOON AT THE M. E. CHURCH

REMAINS FOLLOWED TO LAST RESTING PLACE BY HUNDREDS OF FRIENDS

From Monday's Daily—

This afternoon all that was mortal of Albert G. Harris was laid to rest in Oakdale Cemetery, and more impressive funeral services were never held in Crookston, the capacity of the M. E. church being taxed by relatives and friends, many coming from a distance, who gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of one who in life had held the highest esteem and friendship of all who knew him. Short services wer held at the residence of his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Harris, after which at 2:30 services were held in the M. E. church Rev. McCoy officiating. The Crookston fire department, trainmen, city officials, and members of the W. R. C. attended in a body and occupied reserved sections.

The floral tributes included beautiful set pieces from these organizatons and scores of individual offerings, which completely covered the casket and banked the pulpit. Rev. McCoy referred to the frank, generous and charitable disposition of the departed, and spoke words of comfort for the bereaved family.

The cortege that wended its way to the cemetery attested to the high regard in which the deceased was held being one of the longest ever seen in Crookston. Trainmen marched in the lead, followed by the Crookston Fire Department and following the remains came the chief mourners, in carriages followed by the city officials, W. R. C., and nearly 100 other carriages containing friends in Crookston and from a distance. Among those present from out of the city were Messrs. Ed. Sheasgreen, of Minneapolis; Wm. Seibert of Staples, J. Wheaquer, St. Paul, Wm. Huseby, Devils Lake and scores of railroad men from all directions.

The honorary pallbearers were, Wm Remshardt, Wm. Sieberts, Staples; Wm. Huseby, Devils Lake; Wm. Martin; Jas. Sullivan, Milford Atkins.

The active pallbearers were all veteran members of the Fire department as follows: Tom Morris, A. C. Schmidt C. A. Hitchcock, A. A. Glenn, Albert J. Barrette, W. P. Stone.

THE RURAL ROADS MUST BE FIXED

MUST BE PUT IN FIRST-CLASS CONDITION FOR MAIL CARRIERS

Postmasters thruout the State have received the following order from the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General at Washington under date of March 29, that should be read by road overseers and some action taken to relieve present road conditions on some of the routes from this office: To the Postmaster: Sir — You will take the matter up with the local road authorities and patrons residing in the locality of bad roads on routes from your office and inform them that the department insists upon roads covered by rural delivery being kept in good condition for travel at all times, and this matter should receive their immediate attention. If it is found that sufficient interest is not shown in the service to maintain the routes in good condition for travel, they will likely be amended so as to avoid neglected roads, or if this cannot be done the discontinuance of the routes will have serious consideration. You should report results to this office at the expiration of sixty days from date hereof, in order that, if action has not been taken looking to the improvement of the roads, the department may consider the advisability of withdrawing service from these roads which are in bad condition.

ALBERT HARRIS WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

Former Well Known And Popular Crookston Boy The Victim Of Frightful Accident. Crushed Under Car Wheels.

This entire community was terribly shocked this morning upon receipt of the telegram that Albert Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Harris had been instantly killed in the Great Northern yards at Devils Lake. Mr. Harris was day yardmaster and stepped between the cars to pull a coupling pin. He missed his footing, fell, and three cars passed over his body before the engine was stopped. Death was instantaneous. The accident happened shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

Albert Harris grew to manhood in Crookston. He was a big hearted, generous, public spirited young man and was one of the most popular young men in this city.

He left for Devils Lake nearly two years ago and was advancing rapidly in the service, being a most capable and trusted employe and his sudden death brings to an abrupt close a successful career in railroading.

During his residence here deceased was a prominent member of the Crookston Fire department, was a valued member of the first running team the department had and was foreman of the department, and later assistant chief under Chief Morris for several years. He was one of the hardest and most popular members of the department, absolutely fearless, but always cool and self possessed.

He leaves a widow but no children, and is survived by his parents and a large family of brothers and sisters. Definite arrangements will not be made for the funeral till word has been received from his brother Bruce Harris who is supposed to be at Medicine Hat. The remains may arrive tomorrow morning, and will be here certainly by Saturday evening.

In their terrible affliction the members of the stricken family have the most profound sympathy of the entire community.

76 DEGREES IN SHADE AT MIAMI FLORIDA

This is the average for ten years during the month of April. Here is the government statistics for it. The mean temperature follows:

Jan. 69 degrees; Feb. 70; March 73; April 76; May 79; June 82; July 83; Aug. 83; Sept. 82; Oct. 78; Nov. 73; Dec. 69; Annual 76.

Miami, Florida is just six miles from the lands owned by the Florida Fruit Company and are now offered for sale at an average price of $16.25 per acre.

Can land in such a climate that will produce better oranges, lemons and grape fruit and as many to the acre as Southern California remain at such a price and in addition produce peaches, pears, plumbs and such fruit in abundance besides pineapples, celery, etc., and where results can be obtained as was obtained by Alfred Hawkins of Wazata, Minnesota, proprietor of Deephaven Nurseries. Mr. Hawkins went to Florida last November and purchased land near ours and on his garden truck he realized on tomatoes $500 per acre; beans $600 per acre; potatoes $250 per acre, beets one-half acre $500. Cabbage unsold.

We sell you a farm and a town lot for $240.00, $10.00 down and $10.00 per month. How long would it be before an man would be independent under such conditions.

Why are such lands so cheap—because they are overflowed lands and are now being drained by the state of Florida and we went in ahead of the dredges and bought 508,000 acres at a price that enables us to sell 180,000 acres the first allotment at that price. The state owns every other section and holding it until after the country is settled before offering any more for sale. We are also holding the remainder of our land for a higher price.

Our company sold 300,000 acres under the same plan last year in Southern Oregon in seven months. And the 180,000 acres we are now offering will not last long because they have men all over the country telling the people about this wonderful section and it cannot last long because this section has been visited by interested parties who come back with glowing reports and the contracts are rapidly being taken up.

Don't forget that the state doing the drainage guarantees that the work will be done and the land we are now selling is to be drained in about 14 months.

Don't over-look this wonderful opportunity but resolve to own a farm. A card addressed to Chas. M. Roush, District Agent, Florida Fruit Lands Co., Crookston, Minn., will obtain an interview and literature describing the wonderful section or write Richardson-Kellett Co., Managers for Florida Fruit Lands Co., in Wis. & Minn., 103 Fourth St. So. Minneapolis, Bank of Commerce Bldg., who will gladly answer all inquiries.

N. B. Look around you. Who are the well-to-do men today? Men who saw an opportunity and had nerve enough to grasp it.

Able Work By Senator Stephens

The people of Polk County and the entire northwestern portion of Minnesota will view with deep-seated satisfaction the splendid service Senator A. D. Stephens has rendered in securing liberal appropriations for the Crookston school of Agriculture and for maintenance of the Experiment Farm.

The Crookston School of Agriculture has passed the experimental stage The work that has been accomplished at the school has deeply impressed the farmers thruout this section and no institution ever had more firm and loyal friends, as the benefits to be derived can scarcely be measured.

It is an institution that will grow but in order to provide for this growth a large amount of money was needed. Senator Stephens has secured it. A new main building costing $40,000 will be erected. A new girls' dormitory costing $27,000 will be erected. In addition $30,000 has been provided for the maintenance for the next two years, or $15,000 per year. Last year there was but $4,000 for maintenance and as a result Supt. Robertson was greatly hampered in every way but by excellent management and personal sacrifice he made a magnificent showing.

Senator Stephens secured a total appropriation of $113,000 for the School of Agriculture and Experiment Farm and his splendid achievement will not be forgotten by the beneficiaries who are limited only by the population of Northwestern Minnesota. He became convinced that education along industrial lines was what was needed more than anything else to secure the best development of this section and he has worked steadily with that object in view.

He has succeeded during the present session of the legislature beyond the hopes of the most sanguine, and the liberal appropriations secured means a more rapid realization of the hopes of those who knew that it was but a matter of time when Crookston would have one of the biggest and most important educational institutions in the great State of Minnesota.

A BIG BUNCH OF LAWSUITS

HALSTAD PARTIES WILL FIGHT IT OUT IN CLAY COUNTY COURT

A TOTAL OF 15 CASES TO BE TRIED—CLOSE FRIENDS FALL OUT

From Friday's Daily—

Judge Myron D. Taylor of St. Cloud is in Moorhead for the purpose of trying the cases of Larson vs. Slette.

There are fifteen of these cases and B. B. Larson is represented by F. H. Peterson and K. O. Slette by Messrs. Nye & Dosland. The cases have by stipulation of parties been transferred from Norman, Red Lake and Douglas counties to Clay county.

The fight between these two men is a bitter one and of long standing, B. B. Larson of Halstad and K. O. Slette, of Culbertson, Mont., were at one time close personal friends and business associates. They are yet joint owners of a chain of banks at Halstad, Climax and Nielsville, Minn. and at Culbertson, Mont. They are also heavily interested in a ranch deal which did not turn out well. For some cause there was a falling out, and since the beginning of the trouble the breach has steadily widened, until now it is apparently a case of dog eat dog.

They are so involved in these various deals that it is hard for them to get together upon terms of a separation of interests— hence these suits. Both Mr. Larson and Mr. Slette are financially strong, and the numerous cases arising out of their differences has aided materially in distributing their wealth among the attorneys.

AN AGED MAN DROPS DEAD

Coroner Mellby of Red Lake County was called to St. Hilaire yesterday to investigate the death of Robert Swanson one of the pioneer residents of that place, but now living up at Esplee in Marshall county. The cause of Mr. Swanson's death was heart failure and no inquest was deemed necessary by Mr. Mellby.

The dead man had intended to go to Thief River Falls Monday but missed the passenger train and at two o'clock went to the depot to take the freight when he suddenly dropped dead.

The deceased was about seventy years of age and came to St. Hilaire about twenty years ago, purchasing a farm just south of the village. Later he sold his St. Hilaire farm and removed to Esplee, Marshall county, where he took a homestead and was postmaster of Esplee. He was a veteran of the Civil War and a man held in very high esteem in this vicinity. He was the father of a large family of children and was down to St. Hilaire to pay a visit to a daughter.

Spurned It

When Governor Johnson recommended that a commission be appointed to investigate and report to the next session on a desirable employers' liability bill, the legislature spurned the recommendation and proposed to pass a bill this session. Now they are talking about eating their words and adopting the commission plan. Some people's hindsight is better than their foresight. — Sauk Center Herald.

TRAGIC DEATH OUT WEST

SON OF MR. AND MRS. J. K. HANNAY FORMERLY OF ST. HILAIRE KILLED

WAS RUN OVER BY TEAM AND LIVED BUT SHORT TIME AFTER THE ACCIDENT

From Friday's Daily—

One of the saddest and most unfortunate accidents in the history of Mount Vernon, Wash., ended early Wednesday morning, April, 14, in the death of William Hannay, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hannay, formerly well known residents of St. Hilaire, where Mr. Hannay was for a number of years engaged in the banking business.

While hauling a load of cordwood from his farm his team was startled by the noise of a passing wagon load of empty milk cans. Mr. Hannay jumped to the horses' heads to stop them; but forced down a steep grade by the heavily loaded wagon the horses dashed him to the ground where he was tramped upon by the team and crushed by the rear wheel of the wagon. The driver of the milk wagon immediately came to his assistance and made him as comfortable as possible. Everything possible was done for him by the physicians and the family and for the next twenty-four hours his condition improved as much as to dispell all fears. His injuries were almost entirely internal several ribs being broken, the right lung punctured and a bloodvessel beneath the shoulder ruptured and on thoro examination being impossible, the extent of them was not known until after death. It was not till shortly before the end came that those in attendance became apprehensive of the worst.

William Hannay was born at Huron S. D. Jan. 20, 1883. After finishing school he took up farming as his life work as he had already evinced a strong leaning towards that pursuit.

SAYS WEST IS PROSPEROUS

W. E. McKENZIE RETURNS FROM SEATTLE TO LOOK AFTER BUSINESS

SAYS CROOKSTONITES LOCATED IN SEATTLE ARE ALL DOING WELL

From Friday's Daily—

W. E. McKenzie one of the former well known business men of Crookston arrived yesterday afternoon on the N. P. from Seattle where he has been located for the past few years in the real estate business and wholesale paper business. He recently disposed of the controlling interest in the paper business and the new member of the firm has assumed the active management so that Mr. McKenzie is foot-loose for the present, tho he still has considerable real estate holdings there.

He reports the Crookston colony in Seattle prospering nicely in their various lines and Mrs. McKenzie and the children are all enjoying good health. He states that real estate prices are higher now than during the boom, having more than recovered from the slight slump that took place during the panic.

He states that the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition is going to be a great show, and that a literal swarm of visitors is certain during the entire summer. Elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the immense crowds and there will be no confusion.

Mr. McKenzie is not certain how long he will remain in Crookston, but will devote some time to looking after his business interests here. He is enjoying the best of health and will soon be in the heavyweight class.

SOME LEGISLATION THAT WAS ENACTED

MINNESOTA SOLONS FINISH UP WORK AND ADJOURN — HOUSE NIGHT SESSION BREAKS UP IN A ROW—STATE TAX LEVY CUT TO 1.2 MILLS — APPORTIONMENT BILL ADDS ONLY ONE MEMBER TO HOUSE—TOTAL APPROPRIATIONS REACH $9,500,000—INHERITANCE TAX INCREASES REVENUE

From Friday's Daily—

The 1909 session of the Minnesota legislature came to an end at noon yesterday its business being practically finished at the end of protracted night sessions early yesterday morning when the house broke up in a row over the Hanson bill providing for the examination of the books of the state fair management by the public examiner instead of the present board of audit. Twenty senate bills on special order were left untouched when the house adjourned none of them of great importance however.

Some Bills that Passed

$2,250,000 for new prison.

Tonnage tax (vetoed.)

Cass Lake normal (vetoed).

University campus extension.

Prohibiting cigarettes.

Prohibiting indecent medical advertising.

Graduated inheritance tax.

Peddlers' license.

Regulating trading stamps.

Giving $600,000 to roads.

State aid for agricultural courses in high schools.

Limiting saloons to one for 500 population.

Three normal school dormitories.

Teachers' pension bill.

State hail insurance.

Indian war pensions (vetoed.)

Wages for state prisoners.

Creating bank department.

Permitting commission government

Keeping minors from saloons.

Extending probation system to the whole state.

Solons Spend $9,500,00

Minnesota's legislature for 1909 disposed of close to $9,500,000 including expenses and appropriations in the omnibus bill.

The actual running expenses of the two houses was $288,000. Of this $150,000 was appropriated when the session convened. This was followed by $35,000.

In the amnibus bill the members appropriated $12,000 and yesterday $90,000 was paid to the members as advance payment for next year, tho the legislature will not work unless called together by Governor Johnson which is unlikely.

The $9,500,000 includes a great part of the regular maintenance of state institutions which is not provided by standing appropriations.

Adds to Revenue

The legislature Wednesday evening finished considerable of the Kneeland Stuart bill relating to inheritance taxes.

The new schedule of taxes will increase the revenue but the change in classifications makes any comparison impossible. The tax is graduated from 1 per cent on the wife's interest to 5 per cent on the interest to a stranger or a corporation. These primary rates are based on a bequest of $15,000.

The rates are multiplied as the size of the bequest increases to $30000 $50,000, $100,000 and over. When over $100,000 the rate is three times the primary rate, or 16 per cent on bequests to strangers.

Signed Kidnapping Bill

Gov. Johnson signed the teacher's pension bill last night. He also signed the kidnapping bill, making the maximum penalty for the crime 40 years in the penitentiary.

With the governor's signature to the house bill passed by the senate last night Minnesota will have a department to look after the working women and children employed in the state.

A small beginning toward this end was made two years ago, when a woman inspector was appointed. The need for further work in the interest of working women was so evident that an assistant commissioner of labor is appointed with power to appoint other women to investigate the working conditions of women.

The house passed the Allen bill adding $350,000 to the university campus extension fund. The fight in the house was one of the hardest and closest of the session. The bill was definitely postponed at the morning session by a vote of 42 to 37. It was reconsidered after the noon recess. The bill was then passed by a vote of 62 to 57.

Killed Johnson Bill

The house killed the last of the county and district agricultural school bills and the redrafted L. H. Johnson bill, which passed the senate Tuesday.

Johnson has worked for three sessions to get a county agricultural school bill thru. It passed early this session but the senate was then in favor of the district plan. A conference committee was appointed, which finally killed all the bills except the Johnson bill which the committee redrafted so as to provide four district schools under county control.

The senate passed this Tuesday, but in the meantime Senator Putnam's bill for state aid for agricultural course in high schools had passed both houses and many thought that was enough for the present.

The state tax levy was reduced from 1.7 mills to 1.2 mills.

Energy Wasted

Prof. Rankin said that 90 per cent of the energy of city superintendents of schools in Minneapolis is wasted in trying to hold their jobs. He was formerly inspector of high schools and should know. It would seem they hardly earn their salary for the 10 per cent of energy left.. As a confirmation of his statement it is noticable that thirty-four young men flunked recently at the state university all high school graduates, from schools where athletics excel. It is well known that something is wrong thruout the state. Possibly Prof. Rankin made a tenstrike in making his statement.—Le Sueur News.

MISS HOLTE INJURED — Miss Marie Holte mail carrier on R. F. D. 3 out of Ada met with an accident last Saturday which might have proven serious. When on the return trip about four miles from Ada the kingbolt on the wagon broke and the closed vehicle in which she was riding was thrown into the ditch. Miss Holte received several painful bruises on her head and face, but none of the injuries were serious.

GIRLS HAD A "LARK"—The result of a lark feast by a few youngsters caused considerable excitement in town Wednesday evening. A few young girls having prepared a meadow lark and some potatoes in a kettle thought it a good idea to light a fire in T. O. Wermager's hay shed, which came near proving dangerous, but was quickly extinguished, causing no particular damage.—Gary Graphic.

SHOWS DIVERSIFICATION—Monday Peter Ingberg of Hendrum made a splendid contribution to the collection of seeds, etc., at the court house in the shape of eight half bushel samples of various seeds and grains. The varieties are: Primrose flax, spring wheat, alsike clover, timothy, medium red clover, brown beans, winter wheat fall rye, six row barley. Every one of the samples would be worthy of a prize at a fair.—Ada Index.

DEPUTY RESIGNS — James Bulman has resigned as deputy sheriff of Red Lake county at Thief River Falls. The reason of Mr. Bulman's resignation is due to the fact that about the 1st of May he will remove to Prince Albert Canada, to engage in the lumbering business. It is understood that Sheriff Nelson will not appoint any deputy for Thief River Falls but wil attend to work here in person.

J. J. Padden of Red Lake Falls is spending the day in the city looking after some business matters for the Red Lake Falls Milling Co.

FINE SON ARRIVED—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tiedt are the parents of a very fine son an dheir which arrived yesterday morning. This is the first visit of the stork at their home and Sir Henry is walking like a horse with the string-halt.

WILL BUILD LATER — Herman Camp is spending the day in the city on business. He has fixed up another store building for temporary use and the work on the new building will not be started till the later part of June. A complete new stock is now open for business in the temporary quarters.

400 MORE WAISTS—Mike Kalad announces that in addition to the big waist sale announced on page 8 of this issue, he will have 400 new waists arrive Saturday morning together with a new shipment of embroidery and white skirts. Before noon today The Turkish Store has sold 250 waists and Mr. Kalad at once wired for another shipment in order that all customers would receive the bargains as advertised. The ladies this morning who called with the intention of purchasing a single waist, when they saw the extraordinary values bought in half dozen lots.

PEOPLE MUST RESPOND— The canvass is now in progress to secure entertainment for the delegates to the Sunday school convention which will be held in Crookston May 4-6 inclusive. The delegates are entertained for bed and breakfast only. Thus far the response has not been as liberal as it should be. As a convention city Crookston people cannot afford to be found lacking in coming forward on such occasions. There are sufficient homes in which visitors can be entertained to take care of three times the number of delegates who will be present. The response should be generous and free without any persuasion on the part of the committee. Any one prefering to pay for entertainment of one or more delegates at a hotel can do so.

Thursday evening of last week occurred the marriage of Miss Lena Josephine Lene and Oscar Swenson, both of whom formerly lived at Twin Valley tho for the past four years or more Mr. Swenson has been a resident of Tioga, N. D., where he has a claim while Miss Lene has for some time past been conducting a millinery establishment at Erskine. The ceremony took place at the United Lutheran church, Rev. Gaardsmoe of Gary officiating. Supper was later served at Murphy's hall where light refreshments were also served. Sunday the bridal party left for Erskine and from that point they went to Tioga, N. D. their future home. With them go the good wishes of a large circle of frends

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

WENT TO ST. PAUL—Jake Ide and S. Thompson left last evening for St. Paul wheer they will remain till next Wednesday and get in touch with life in the big cities.

ATTENDING SHERIFF'S SALE—Attorney O. A. Euland of Halstad arrived in the city this morning and is spending the day here attending a sheriff's sale to take care of the interests of a client.

BACK FROM SUOTH—Adolph Wentzel returned yesterday from a three months' visit with his sister, Mrs. Hines at Texarcana. He says the strawberries were ripe there when he left, and all vegetation far advanced He reports a pleasant visit.

OLD FLICKERTAIL PALS— Will Churness has arrived from Berthold, N. D., and will spend a few days here as the guest of Ed Flom, the two having been old friends at Mayville, N. D., for several years. In 1902 Churness threshed for Mr. Flom and drew the neat stipend of $2,000 for the job.

REPRESENTS DULUTH FIRM — Julius Hilman, formerly in business at Grand Forks and a relative of Mrs H. W. Odney of this city spent yesterday in Crookston on business. He now represents a Duluth piano company and is doing well. He spent some time here two years ago and has many friends in Crookston.

BAD BITE FROM CAT—A. A. Olds is nursing a very ugly wound on his right hand as the result of a bite night before last by the family cat. Mr. Olds was petting it when the brute, which had always been very kind bit him viciously. He is having the hand treated by a physician but the hand and arm are very painful and badly swollen.

WENT TO FORKS—Messrs. Carl Ness and Beck are spending the day at Grand Forks having plans drawn for a fly paper factory. They have a special brand of tanglefoot which will be applied and will catch either flies or two legged human pests. The factory will be located here and Beck will supply the special brand of "Goo".

WILL MAKE HOME HERE—John Andrist who has been visiting his brother Jake Andrist for the past three weeks while enroute to his home near Kasson Minn., from California where he spent the winter, left last evening for Kasson where he has a fine farm. After looking after seeding operations he intends returning to Crookston to locate and will make some investments here.

THE FISHING LAWS—As the season for spearing fish is here it might be well to know the law on this subject. The law provides that pickerel suckers, redhorse, carp and bullheads may be taken with a spear at any time of the year without limit. A light may be used except in May and June in catching these fish. Fishing with hook and line is prohibited until the 1st of May and bass cannot be caught until May 30.

WAS NOT GREENE—There was a persistent rumor yesterday to the effect that the man found in the Red Lake river day before yesterday was a working man named Greene, who had been employed on the J. W. Barlow farm east of the city last summer Mr. Barlow drove to the city this morning to investigate and stated positively that the remains were no those of Greene, the features bearing no resemblance, and the clothing being entirely different to that worn by Greene Nothing has yet been heard from Plummer, where it was rumored a man disappeared last fall and had not been heard from since.

COLLAR BONE BROKEN — Fire Marshall John Risch was severely injured late yesterday afternoon while starting to exercise one of the fire teams. When the automatic harness was dropped on one of the horses the collar failed to snap. The team is high spirited and as they leaped thru the door of the fire hall the harness slipped back. This frightened the animals and in attempting to stop them the driver simply pulled the fire trucks on the team and they started to run away. They dashed down the street for a block when the driver steered them into a huge pile of sand and one of the horses fell. The stop was so sudden that Risch was hurled to the pavement breaking his collar bone and sustaining severe bruises. By-standers caught the team before further damage was done. Mr. Risch is resting easy today and will not be laid up but a short time.

NEW AUTOMATIC SCALES—Manager Robert Cram, of the grocery department of the Wright-Carpenter Co., is busy between times thees days explaining the fine new Anderson Automatic scales which have been installed. They are the finest made and models of accuracy. Three of them have been installed and they show the weight to the minutest fraction, and the total cost at any rate per pound. They are great time savers as a patent device stops the tiresome "teetering" of the ordinary scale. The patron is certain of getting just what he pays for, and pays for just what he gets, without any guesswork.

UPSET STOMACH OR INDIGESTION

ENDS FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING SOME DIAPEPSIN

STOPS FOOD FERMENTATION AND CURES STOMACH TROUBLE BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a litle Diapepsin.

MALLORY NEIGHBORS ARE HOSPITABLE

Big Delegation from Crookston and Grand Forks were Guests of the Mallory Royal Neighbors Last Evening—Large Class Initiated and Visitors Banquetted — All had a Jolly Good Time

Last evening the Royal Neighbors of Mallory entertained large delegations from Crookston and Grand Forks, the occasion being the initiation of a class of six new members. The delegation from Grand Forks were taken to Mallory in automobiles and the degree team from Grand Forks did the initiatory work in a highly creditable manner. Following the initiations the Mallory Neighbors served a most elaborate banquet which was thoroly enjoyed by all present. Following this the Grand Forks delegation returned home. The Crookston delegation remained over night and were entertained in a most pleasant manner by the people in and near Mallory who shared their homes with the visitors, and the Crookston delegates were loud in their praises of the splendid entertainment afforded.

The Grand Forks delegation included Mesdames Hattie Fitzgerald, Ella Carr, Jennie Karns, Martha Nicholson Georgia Turner, Marie Doty, Alice Parry, Eliza Westicot, Elizabeth St. Laurence, Ina Riley, Stella Carl, Dora Willis, Anna Schuyler, Laura Young, The Misses Pearl Griffiths, Ethel Fennel, Leone Cary, May Nesbit, Messrs C. E. Carr and Andrew Byrne.

Those attending from Crookston were: Mrs. Mary Phalen, Mrs. F. Arries, Mrs. Wm. Farley, Mrs. Agnes Finlayson, The Misses Rosanna Asselin, Caroline Erdman, Eva LaPlant, Mamie Stainbrook, Dora Thebarge, Rose Jerome, Messrs Wm. Millette, J. N. Kirsch and Mrs. Brewster of Fisher.

The candidates who were initiated, included Mrs. C. R. Coulter, Mrs. Wm Montgomery, Misses Beatrice Bain, Elsie, Cora McKinnon and Sedia Gangness.

Tribute to L. A. Rosing

In the death of Leonard A. Rosing chairman of the State Board of Control, which occurred last week. Minnesota loses one of its foremost citizens. Mr. Rosing was once democratic candidate for governor and took an active part in politics for the past fifteen years. His death occurred after an operation Mr. Rosing having been ill for several months.—Norman County Herald.

BODY FOUND IN THE RIVER

REMAINS OF MAN ABOUT FORTY YEARS OF AGE RECOVERED LAST EVENING

NOTHING TO IDENTIFY—BADLY DECOMPOSED—REMAINS WILL BE HELD FEW DAYS

From Friday's Daily—

Quite a sensation was caused here last evening by the discovery of a body in the Red Lake River by Ben Krueger near Mose Giller's warehouse east of the N. P. depot. Krueger went to the bend of the river after wood and was horrified to see the floater Capt. Vonderbeck and Officer Godbout were summoned and fished the body out. It was in a bad state of decomposition.

Coroner Stenshoel took charge of remains and after the clothing had been searched nothing could be found to identify the remains. The victims watch had stopped at 9:55. His purse contained two $5 bills showing that the man had not been the victim of foul play with robbery as the motive.

There was a time book found, but this only contained certain days work checked off, but did not contain the name of the firm he worked for or his own name.

He had evidently drowned some time the past fall as he had on cotton underwear and overalls only. The remains looked to be those of a man 35 to 45 years old. They will be held for a few days in the hope of identification. They might have floated down from Red Lake Falls or Thief River Falls and the authorities there will be communicated with at once.

There are several rumors afloat as to who the dead man might be. Geo. Ruth thought he was a man who had worked on the ice wagon with him for a few days last fall.

Another story is to the effect that he was a man who spent some time here last fall at a hotel, and was dickering for the purchase of a horse from Harry Wyand.

Still another is that he is a farmer residing near Plummer who disappeared last fall, and whose wife has been searching for him ever since.

However none of these rumors can be verified, but it is hoped that a silver watch which he carried, gold embossed on the back case, open faced, may possibly lead to his identification later on.

LOOKING OVER NORTH LINE

GENERAL OFFICIALS ACCOMPANIED BY NORTHERN DIVISION FORCE

General Manager Gruber and General Superintendent W. D. Scott of the Great Northern arrived from the east line last evening and this morning their car was attached to the St. Vincent local train and they were accompanied on the trip of inspection by Supt. Allen Master Carpenter Mills and Roadmaster Laughlin of the Northern Division. There was no special significance in the trip, merely a general inspection of the line and looking up minor improvements that are necessary.

ACTIVE SEASON FOR THE TENNIS CLUB

WORK ON NEW CLUB HOUSE HAS STARTED — FINEST TENNIS N COURTS IN NORTHWEST

The Crookston Tennis Club is starting the most active season in its history. Last summer new courts were purchased in Highland Park a most picturesque site on the north bank of the Red Lake River being selected. This spring money was raised for a handsome new Club House and work on this is already started. The courts will be as fine as can be found in the state.

It is possible that another year the Crookston Tennis Club will be changed to the Crookston Tennis and Golf Club but the expense of securing links and getting them into shape would be too heavy for one year.

What Jim Patten Found Out

Patten says that he is not a speculator but a business man, that he did not gamble in grain, but that he studied the situation and found out that the country is not producing enough wheat. So he bought wheat. While we may be inclined to question his [illegible] that he is not a gambler in [illegible] we ought to take to heart one thing that Jim Patten found out. He found out that country is averaging a yield of only ten bushels per acre, says the Duluth Herald in a most timely editorial.

Ten bushels of wheat per acre from the rich prairie lands of the northwest! Few lands in all the world so rich in productive elements as these; yet only ten bushels per acre. When man first put the plow to these fertile pairies, he scratched the surface with it and sat down and let nature work until the summer time when he took off a crop of 35 to 40 bushels per acre. Now he plows deeper and gets but ten.

What Jim Patten found out should be morning and evening thought with every farmer. It is the thing we have been hearing so much about from agricultural teachers of late, it is the text of nearly every interview which our farmer-railroad president, James J. Hill, has been giving out these past two years or more, it is the subject of considerable thought and some attempts at legislation, it is practically the only matter of real importance with which the legislature of 1909 of Minnesota concerned itself.

Says the Sioux City Tribune: "From the Genesse valley to Manitoba the earth rewarded the farmer with a yield of wheat ranging from 30 to 45 bushels per acre. For thousands of years nature had been storing up in the soil the fertility that made this yield possible. How did the farmers treat their inheritance? By maintaining this fertility? By returning to the land what the crop took from it? Did they not claim that the fertility was inexhaustible? Did they not grasp more and more acres to raise wheat on? Did not congress feed land hunger—land greed is the truer term—by giving quarter section homesteads? How could the farmer keep up the fertility of such an area? He didn't And he saw his fields giving yearly les and less return. Then he sold out and went to fresh land and repeated the process."

A faithful picture from Iowa of what also happened in Minnesota and the Dakotas and of what is now happening in the Great Canadian northwest. The day of this thing is not yet done in Minnesota, and unless we mend our ways if Jim Patten studies the situation two years hence he may find that we are raising less than ten bushels of wheat per acre.

"Ten years ago there were great bonanza farms in the Red River valley. Millionaires owned them and ran them for what there was in it ten years ago. Every settler had 160 acres of land, but it did not content him and he mortgaged it and bought the adjoining 160 acres. Did he have a good crop, he took the proceeds and applied it as partial payment on the remainder of the section. Soon he was land poor. He had neither the equipment the money or the men with which to more than scratch so big a farm. Putting anything back was out of the question. So he scrapped the surface until a bad year or two or three in succession made his huge farm too great a burden and the mortgage companies got it. They, too, farmed it for what they could get out of it ten years ago. They rented it out, and the renter farmed it for what he could get out of it ten years ago. Nobody had any permanent interest in the soil. Everybody took out greedily. Nobody put back.

The soil of the Northwest is still wonderfully fertile, but we have learned that we must put back as well as take out. Hence the cry for intensive farming. If we do not heed it we shall have ten, eight, six bushels per acre and more Jim Pattens.

What Jim Patten found out is the significant thing in the farm life of the Northwest today.

The Teaching Of Journalism

The University Press club is about to bring the question of a school of journalism before the university regents again. If the regents will consult practical and experienced newspaper men in this conection, they will ascertain that there is a broad field of real usefulness for the university which is now untouched, says the Minneapolis Journal.

In some quarters the antiquated notion still obtains that reporters can be trained only by practical experience. There used to be a similar notion about business men, insurance men, railroad men and the like. It has been demonstrated however that it is as practicable and desirable to train men for these vocations as for engineering, medicine or law. It is true that not so much special and technical knowledge, and more general information is desirable for the young man who is to enter newspaper work or business pursuits.

Some of the more advanced state universities have already installed departments of journalism—notably the universities of Wisconsin, Missouri and Illinois. These have been successful from the outset, altho they are made up largely of courses selected from other departments, with the addition of a few technical courses, designed to give the student some facility in the use of the tools of his trade.

Such courses would not only be beneficial directly to young men who desire to do reportorial work and to the newspapers that are now obliged to hire raw recruits, but they would yield indirect benefits to the public in the improvement that would result in the character of newspapers generally. Newspaper English is far from being what it ought to be. If reporters came to their work better trained in writing, a great improvement in that English would certainly follow. Since the newspaper furnishes for a large proportion of the public almost all of its reading matter, the effect on general intelligence and culture would be beneficial. It is this consideration that differentiates the call for a school of journalism from the reasonable requests for the broadening of the purely business courses.

We believe the regents would do a wise thing, were they to authorize the beginning in a modest way of a school of journalism, in which might be co ordinated the courses in English, history and economics already given in the academic department, and in which might be given a few courses in the technique of newspaper work.

It goes without saying that an aspirant for a newspaper career must have natural ability for the work. He must have a news sense, keen powers of observation, an active intellect and adaptibility to circumstances But with such natural equipment as this, he needs the training that the university can so well give.

Let Him Break It

President Taft is expected to break up the "solid south." Other presidents have been credited with such an attempt for several past administrations but the southern states come up smiling with the same old democratic majorities and they always will Just why the people of the south should join the republican party is difficult to conceive and is a proposition as preposterous as it is imaginary. You might as well declare that Champ Clark will break up the polical solidity of Pennsylvania as to assume that the smile of Taft will win the south from its political faith.—Roseau Co. Times.

STATE PRESS

Roosevelt and Taft

Already there may be noticed a difference between former President Roosevelt's way of doing things and that of President Taft. The administration under Roosevelt made a noise that was heard from one end of the country to the other—with excellent effect in many cases. The last administration believed in the efficacy of agitation—and there was certainly need for it. President Taft seems to believe he can get along without any unusual agitation, and his mind appears to be engrossed with the serious business of doing something without agitation. We do not think—as some do—that this is a backward step. Roosevelt was the man of the hour. He did what he believed was right and did it vigorously, much to the discomfort of many. Taft, in following out the Roosevelt policies, will be less aggressive, tho just as firm, and in the end, with the aid of what Roosevelt accomplished, will secure what he wants. Tho Taft is built somewhat like Roosevelt and will accomplish the same ends, he will pursue a different course in doing so. He is an active conservative. — Roseau Region.

No matter how silly a pretty girl talks men never seem to notice it.

Getting Excited

It makes a lot of difference whose ox is gored. When Frederick A. Hyde Henry P. Dumond and John A. Benson of San Francisco were removed to the District of Columbia to stand trial for land frauds the press was quite unanimous in its applause. Now that it is proposed to bring newspaper traducers of the government to the same place for trial some members of the press are greatly excited. —Duluth Herald.

A Mixed Blessing

The bakers of Chicago proposed to increase the price of bread one cent a loaf after May first as a result of the advance in price of wheat. For the poor people who have to buy their bread, the increase is quite a hahrdship. Patten's manipulation of the grain market is therefore not an unmixed blessing.—Warren Sheaf.

No Difference

We would like to have some of our exchanges tell us the difference between voting for Cannon for speaker and voting for Tawney, a lieutenant of Cannon for that office. As we see it, it is about the same as the difference between tweedledee and tweedledum.—Warren Register.

The Yawning Wheat Pit

The wheat pit is a yawning hole that cannot be filled. It is bottomless, and few there be of those who go down into its insatiable maw that live to come out again.

Mr. Patten says that he has no corner. He says he is a trader, not a speculator. However that may be, he is gambling in wheat. When he thought he saw a shortage of wheat long months ago, he deliberately gambled on his judgment. A thousand things might have occurred to upset his calculations. But they did not happen or they have not happened yet. He made a bold, big gamble, and won—at least he has won thus far. Whether he will win in the end may be doubted; but certain it is, that everybody else has lost.

As a result of Patten's big gamble in wheat, hundreds have been ruined some have taken their lives, others face what appear to be certain enormous financial losses, while millions are having wrung from them the pennies and dollars that go to make up the enormous winnings of the very few,, winnings which will in all probability be lost ere long to other gamblers in wheat.

In the wheat pit men gamble in wheat. It is bad enough in itself that men will gamble, but gambling with a necessity like wheat means losses and distress for everybody, and perhaps even death to some. Already because of the Patten wheat corner, or speculation, or lucky gamble, or whatever else one may be pleased to call it, the cost of flour has been raised materially. It is impossible to buy as muchbread for a penny today as it was yesterday. The losses of those of us who live in luxury or in comfort, or even by hard, unremitting toil, may not matter much in themselves, but how about the thousands who are already on the ragged edge of starvation? The price of bread is up in London. What does that mean to the "awful poverty of the city's East End" There are thousands to whom a penny means one meal a day. Already they are starving and they are at the end of their ability to increase their revenue. How many of them will die the quicker because of Chicago's wheat pit and Jim Patten's corner?

The professional gambler is not highly esteemed of men. He keeps as much as possible to himself and his fellows. Society looks down upon him and shuns him. His business is not regarded as an honorable business. So much for the man who makes gamblinghis business. But of the man who makes his business gambling, we seem to have a better opinion. The man who accomplishes a corner in wheat is a man to be admirer for his genius, and respected for his business ability. What is the difference? The man who frankly avows that his business is gambling is certainly the more honest of the two gamblers.

Men will probably gamble as long as they are men. But we have made professional gambling illegal, and we ought also to make gambling with the necessities of life illegal. The professional gambler may ruin the individual, but the man who gambles with a necessity like wheat, ruins thousands, pinches millions, and brings death to some and misery to the multitude.

That's the kind of gambling they do in the yawning bottomless wheat pit.—Duluth Herald.

Adana A Turbulent Spot

Adana, which has been the scene of the worst outrages committed by the Turks against the Armenians during the present uprising, is the capital of the Turkish province of Adana. The population of the villayet is placed at 403,000. It is situated in the southeast of Asia Minor on the Seihun (Ancient Sarus), about forty-two miles northeast of the seaport of Mersina, with which it is connected by rail. The population is about 45,000 including a large number of Armenians and Greeks. Tarsus is not far from Adana.

Mersina, the seaport of Adana villayet is situated on the southwest coast of Asia Minor.

The harbor an open roadstead, is not very deep, and the larger vessels usually anchor a long distance from the town. The commerce amounts to oven $5,000,000 a year. The United States is represented there by a consular agent, A. Donaldson Smith. Mersina is of recent origin. Its population is estimated at 12,000 about one-half Christian.

The struggle between the Armenians and the Turks really never ceases altho the European powers occasionally patch up a nominal peace such as has been in existence since 1896.

Armenia is divided among the Turks, the Russians and the Persians. The Persian and Russian revolutionists take delight in stirring up the Armenians who always have grievances of their own against Turkey, the Armenians having been Christians since the second century, and the Turks being Moslems.

The last great series of massacres occurred from 1894 to 1897.

In August of 1894 occurred the massacre of Sassuan in which men women and children were ruthlessly murdered by the Turks. The fever of murder spread and the massacres continued throut the spring and summer of 1895. Then England, France and Russia backed up by their warships secured from the sultan promises of reformation. The murders continued and it was claimed that the Kurds to whom the work of "pacifying" the Armenians had been delegated, were beyond control. Whole villages were destroyed, and men, women and children were murdered. A pitched battle was fought at Diarbekr in which 5,000 men perished.

The outrages did not subside until late in 1896. In August of the latter year a mob in Constantinople at the instigation of the government stirred up the Armenians, and four thousand of the latter were beaten to death in the Turkish capital. No reparation was made, for the Turks claimed that the Armenians had brought the trouble on themselves.

Since 1896 sporadic attacks upon the Armenians have continued but the powers have done nothing to compel the Turkish government to fulfill the sultan's promise of better behavior.

ALBERT (OLE OLSON) HARRIS

A TRIBUTE

By Ed. E. Sheasgreen, Editor of the Iron Trail.

A time comes in the heart of every man when certain events happen that carry him back to the days of his boyhood, to the days of the school room and the swimmin' hole. Such a time was struck last Friday in the hearts of many who are men of today of Crookston and of many others in far away places—and the strokes tolled off the death of an old schoolmate, comrade and friend who went down in the faithful performance of duty.

"Ole Olson" Harris! Who was there in all the great prairie country round about and far to the south and west who did not know him, who had not been cheered on by him, who was not glad when they had met him, and who always felt better for having come in contact with him—even tho distance intervened and only the wave of his hand could be seen.

In the loss of him we are carried back to the time when his schoolmates named him—and they named him better than they knew—"Ole Olson." It happened thus: Recess was on. The June breezes were coming sweet and fresh from the prairies. Every heart was glad that summer was so close at hand with her vacation time, for all of us were tired from school. Yet we had vim enough left to play another game of ball—and it was that game that made "Ole Olson."

The bases were all full. Some hard batting had been done, two bats had been broken when Albert's turn came to bat. As he ran to his place swinging the heavy oak stick, made from a Munn wagon pole, high over his head, he was shouting in great excitement, "Let Ole shoot! Let Ole shoot! Ole he mek guid home run! Ole show 'em how! Let Ole shoot!" The ball came with a whizz, was caught square on the bat and soared high and far over Brown's old white fence. The batter with half of his bat in one hand headed for first, and not only the three men on bases but the new "Ole" scored! What a game! What cheering!

And down thru all the years the new name stuck.

The great characteristic of our beloved friend—this great ability of always getting in the game of life just at the right time and then making good—was one of the big reasons why we all loved him so. Many a time he went to bat just to help the other fellow out, and in helping out his friend "Ole" always scored a big score for himself. This accounts why, now that he has scored the final home run—has passed on around life's curves, and is lost to view from us—that we find as we count the scores to his credit so great a record, a record any man could be proud of and that few attain. Such a record is not to be bought with gold.

Often as boys we used to tramp out to the north, or far to the south of the town in the moonlight and there in the silence of the early night make our great plans for the future and watch the trains pass into or out of the division. We had the "measles" bad! Nothing but the engines and cars for us, and the time came when our boyish ambitions became the great stern realities of life.

No man, let his length of service be ever so short, can enter engine, train or yard duty but that certain bonds of affection and friendship for his fellows are formed that can never be forgotten and when that strong word, Friendship is used among us of the line, it means that just as "Ole" went down at his post of duty, so, too, could he have died for a friend.

He liked to do good. He would fight his weight in wild cats for the under fellow any time, and this characteristic shown one time in a school mix-up when he punched the nose of one of the boys for striking a little girl, shone out strong in him as a man and as a conductor when a wreck had one time happened and he stuck by an injured comrade until this boy had been properly taken care of and he forgot all else—position and all—thinking only for the comfort of his friend.

Was a comrade of the rail hungry or tired out from over-work? "Ole" would divide his lunch, often himself going without, or sharing his blanket, sitting up while the other fellow slept.

And so he lived and worked among men, going back many times to make sure that some one had taken no offense at what he had said or done, whether to man, woman or child.

A strong vigorous man he was, who could be gentle to the weak, who could stand true to the right, who could understand a child because he had the simple heart of a child, who could love to the end his wife as he had loved his mother and father and sister and brothers, who loved with a devotion and fidelity of the highest order all the good his mother taught him, who was human thru and thru, and because he was so human is why he understood his fellow men so well.

To have the friendship (and that word is here used in the very highest sense) of every man on the road with whom he came in daily contact from the highest down even to the mite of a callboy, whose little heart was broken because of the loss of his big friend; to have the friendship of thousands of people to the north, to the south, the east and the west; to have the friendship of men who loved him so that they walked, for two miles to the cemetery, in the teeth of a raging sand and dust storm (typical of the storm of grief and sorrow that was raging in their hearts) rather than to ride so they could thus show to the world the better how they loved "Ole", to have friendships such as these does notcome to the lot of every man. Money can not buy them, itis only by living as "Ole" lived that any of us are entitled to them.

And as we should gather from what happens in life only the good there is the bright and the precious thing, so let us gather from his life and from the floral tributes, that as he worked his way up the ladder of life he always found time to give us sweet music from the harp of love and that he did this until a break in the wheel occurred and he came to his cross.

And so he came into our lives, and we knew him, and we loved him and we are glad.

Two Views

The farmers rejoice at the high price of wheat and the man who put up the corner enriched himself by four million dollars at the expense of other gamblers in the pit. The poor are paying a penny more for a loaf of bread. To a tenament half starved family a cent means a whole lot, while four million dollars means nothing compared to the thinner slice of bread the little tots in the city will have to be satisfied with. That is all. Do you want to be the man who made the millions?—Roseau County Times.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

BACK FROM TURTLE—S. R. Moorhead foreman of the Journal job deparment spent Sunday at Turtle River attending to some business matters.

BUSINESS AT MENTOR—Attorneys Geo. J. Cannon and H. W. Stark spent Saturday at Mentor attending to some business matters and also took a peep at Maple Lake but decided it was too chilly for a plunge.

OLD R. R. CONDUCTOR BACK — Casper Sands who served as a passenger conductor on the G. N. for many years arrived Monday from Puyallup, Wash., where he now lives, to look after seeding on his big farm near Alvarado.—Warren Sheaf.

FARMERS ARE BUSY—Dr. J. S. Chapin drove down from Euclid this morning and says that Euclid road is the best it ever was in the spring of the year, dry as a bone and smooth as a pavement. He is spending the day here on business with H. C. Misner.

OVER SOO TERRITORY — Supt. Sheffield left last evening for Erskine from where he will visit a number of points on the Soo. The favorable conditions this spring has materially broadened that patent smile of his.

FERTILE BANKER HERE— A. P. Hanson the well known banker of Fertile and formerly of the Scandia American Bank here, arrived on the Northern Pacific this afternoon and will spend the night here to look after some business matters.

TAKING SMITH'S PLACE—J. Merrick, formerly travelling engineer on the Wilmar division of the G. N. is taking the place of Master Mechanic J. W. Smith of the Northern Division during the latter's absence at Hot Springs, Ark., accompanied by Mrs. Smith.

MUCH HAY BURNED— Considerable hay was burned west of Fertile last week when prairie fire swept over a large portion of meadow land in the town of Liberty. Sam Rasmuson and Mrs. John Connery lost several stacks.

STEPHEN JEWELER HERE—E. T. Haggerty the well known jeweler of Stephen returned home this morning after spending Sunday in the city with friends. He says things never looked brighter up the north line than this spring and that busines is expected to hum as never before.

INSPECTING CREAMERIES — Creamery Inspector A. O. Storvick left this morning for Oslo and other points on the Soo where he will inspect creameries. He started in on this branch of the work last week and will visit every creamery in this district. He says there are many new modern creameries being built this year and that conditions generally were never so favorable as at the present time.

FOUR DAYS' TRIP—C. L. Bang left this morning for a four days' trip up the Warroad line, and will also visit Beaudette and International Falls for the Crookston Bottling Works. He says as the weather warms up the demand for red pop will keep him hopping the balance of the summer months.

OLD SETTLER DEAD—A. O. Enerberg one of the early settlers of the town of Liberty died last Thursday in a Minneapolis hospital where he had gone for medical treatment. His remains were brought back from Minneapolis Monday and the funeral took place Tuesday from Vaernaes church which was largely attended. Mr. Enenberg was about 50 years old, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife and several children.

INSPECTED THE CROPS — Pete Cram, travelling for the Queen City Fruit Co., is taking a deep interest in the crop outlook this spring. He is not satisfied with the cursory view he gets from the train or his automobile and last Thursday "hoofed" itin from Eldred so as to carefully inspect each field. The report that he has a pair of bunions and a quartette of bunions was indignantly denied by the redoubtable Peter this morning.

SAYS THINGS LOOK FINE—Sam Rosenthal spent yesterday at Maple Lake looking over his cottage and making preparations to open up for the season. He says it was fine out there yesterday and he is anxious to get that launch of his spinning around the lake again. And by the way it is one of the finest and smoothest running boats ever launchedl in Northern Minnesota, to which he has many friends that will testify. Reg Smith and Prof. W. W. Hall were also at the lake yesterday taking "gapings".

Deputy U. S. Marshal Rider passed thru Crookston this morning enroute from Moorhead to Noyes and as he was accompanied by Post Office Inspector Chase and was armed with a number of subpoenas, there is certainly going to be something doing tho Marshal Rider as usual had nothing to say.

However it is known that there are to be some arrests made, and several postmasters will be called as witnesses.

Chief Eck today received a telephone message from F. S. Kolberg a well known resident of Bagley asking to have the remains of the man found in the river last Friday held till his arrival this evening. The remains were buried Saturday but if Kolberg identifies the watch or clothing the body will be exhumed. Mr. Kolberg did not state whom he thought the dead man was.

APPENDICITIS OPERATION—Saturday last at Bethesda hospital Mrs. Bernhart Lane, of 702 South Ash St., was operated upon for appendicitis by Dr. O. L. Bertelson. She recovered from the shock nicely and is resting very easily today with every indication that she will soon be able to be removed to her home.

SPEARED FISH—H. O. Gilbertson spent the first part of the week here and before returning to Crookston enjoyed an outing at Sand Hill lake and speared a few of the first fish of the season. A number of parties here made fishing excursions to the Sand Hill during the past week, meeting with varying success.—Fosston Thirteen Towns.

RETURNED TO ROSEAU— Chas. Thampson who looks after the interests of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company's interests at Roseau has returned there after spending a day in the city. The company purchased a large amount of lumber from the farmers and business men there during the winter season.

HERE FROM LOCKHART— Gust T. Eckstad who has been with the G. Northern at Lockhart has been spending the past week in the city. He will continue with the G. N. but does not know as yet where he will be located. He says the farmers are well along with their seeding near Lockhart having been at work for the past three weeks with the exception of a few mornings when it was too frostv.

VALLEY LOOKS FINE—J. A. McDonald, formerly with the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber Co., with offices in this city, and now with the same concern in Minneapolis, who has been spending a few days here on business, left for East Grand Forks this morning. He says the Red River Valley never looked better to him than it does this spring and he believes a prosperous year is ahead.

SUNDAYED WITH FAMILY—Deputy Sheriff Pat Sullivan returned this morning from East Grand Forks where he spent Sunday with his family. He says the west end metropolis is booming this spring and the coming summer will witness more municipal improvements than any year in the history of that city. He also states that the farmers are very optimistic regarding the conditions under which the seed is going into the ground. There will be a larger acreage sown land under more favorable conditions than have prevailed for the past ten years.

FORMERLY LIVED IN FOSSTON—The following item from a Bakersfield, Cal., paper, relates to the death of a young lady who resided in Fosston for some years with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brabander, (the former of whom preceded his daughter to the grave several years ago). The family removed to Bakersfield from Fosston about six years ago. Stella was a bright girl and many friends here will be saddened to learn of her untimely demise: "Mrs. Stella Irwin was born in South Dakota in January 1887. She grew to young girlhood in Fosston, Minnesota. With her mother, Mrs. Brabander she moved to California in 1903 and settled in Bakersfield. She was married to Mr. Irwin in 1905 by Rev. J. W. Horn, and died here in Bakersfield, April 5th, 1909 at age of 22 years. She leaves a little baby girl eight weeks old and her mother and four brothers. Mrs. Irwin was a good, true and faithful woman in all things. She suffered much in the last few months of her life, and when called to die, she passed away gently and in full possession of her faculties. She bid mother and brothers good-bye and said "I am going, good-bye all." She knew her Savior and was not afraid. Loving friends laid her to rest in Union cemetery."

Mr. F. G. Fritts, Oneonta, N. Y., writes: "My litle girl was greatly benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children, as it is mild, pleasant and effective, and is a splendid spring medicine, as it cleanses the system and clears the complexion. Sold by all druggists.

From Tuesday's Daily

Geo. Heath went to Ada last evening on business.

RECOVERIN GRAPIDLY—Mrs. P. S. Dainerd wife of the foreman of the saw department at the Crookston saw mill who was operated upon at the St. Vincent Hospital last Saturday is recovering nicely and will soon be able to be removed to her home.

IS ATTRACTING ATTENTION — The S. S. Convention attracts the attention of the eastern publishers. Scribner's Sons have sent a supply of the new "Hasting's" Bible Dictionary for examination by S. S. workers. The new "Standard' Bible Dictionary by the Funk & Wagnalls Co., will also be represented.

RETURNED HOME—A number of those who were here to attend the funeral over the remains of Albert G. Harris yesterday left for their homes today. Mrs. George Blaisdell returned to Devils Lake this morning, after accompanying Mrs. Harris here and doing everything possible to render assistance during the trying hours. Ed. E. Sheasgreen left for Minneapolis on the N. P. this afternoon and Bruce Harris returned to Prince Albert on the N. P. also. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris return to Bemidji tonight and will be accompanied by Mrs. Albert Harris who will visit there for several days.

A GRAND FORKS BOOSTER—C. H. Kelsey, one of the best known real estate men in N. Dakota was in the city yesterday on business. He looks for an exceedingly prosperous year in this section of the northwest and states that North Dakota is in fine shape for a big crop. Mr. Kelsey is one of the best and most consistent boosters that Grand Forks can boast of and his motto "Watch Grand Forks Grow" has been potent in pushing the North Dakota metropolis to the front.

At the meeting of the directors of the Commercial Club last evening President Misner was authorized to name a committee to have charge of the formal opening of the club rooms which will take place some time early in May.

The Winnipeg Eagles were formally invited to come to Crookston on July 5th for their annual outing and the club will co-operate with the local Eyrie for their entertainment.

The furnishing committee was extended a vote of thanks for the excellent service they had performed.

ANOTHER GRANDSON—Jake. Francis this morning received word that a young son had arrived at the home of Ensign and Mrs. Geo. Wolverton, Mrs. Wolverton being his daughter and Mr. Wolverton having been stationed here for some time in charge of the Salvation Army barracks. This makes 4 grand sons and three grand daughters for Mr. Francis and he is as proud as Licifer over it.

Mrs. Sullivan, mother of Reputy Sheriff Sullivan of this city was dangerously injured this morning as the result of falling down the stairway at her home in East Grand Forks. She did not regain consciousness till afternoon and on account of advanced age, 78 years, great apprehension is felt over the outcome. Deputy Sullivan left on the N. P. this afternoon for her bedside.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

FELL IN THE DRINK—Norman Bivins while working in the sluiceway at the sawmill yesterday stepped on a log which rolled and he took an involuntary and very chilly bath.

LEFT FOR CHICAGO—Dr. J. S. Chapin has left for Chicago to continue treatments. He will stop at Grafton, Ia. for a few days on business.

JUMPED BOARD BILL—Albert Simonson, who was arrested here Monday night by Captain Vonderbeck, was taken to Bemidji last evening to answer to a charge of jumping a board bill.

YOUNG DAUGHTER DEAD— The death of Grace the five-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackmore, occurred at the family home on Minnesota Point, south of East Grand Forks after an extended illness. The funeral arrangements are not completed.

DREDGE FOR CLIMAX—The entire dredge crew located at Stephen has left for Climax where they will at once set about getting the dredge into shape preparatory to starting the large amount of ditching they have to do in that vicinity this summer.

HAS HIS EYE WITH HIM—N. C. Ludvigson was in the city this morning enroute to points on the Warroad line. Mr. Ludvigson is an enthusiasmember of the Crookston, East Grand Forks Gun Club and the spring practice work has already started with "Lud" showing up in fine form.

ON WESTERN TRIP—Ralph [illegible] tour. He will stop first at Livingston, Montana, and will visit a number of other places before returning. He plans on a very interesting trip and without doubt he will have it as he knows how to get enjoyment if there is anything of that nature in sight.

KITTSON COUNTY FAIR DATES—The date for the Kittson County Fair this year has been set for August 6 and 7 Friday and Saturday. The Patten Carnival Co., which gave excellent satisfaction last year has been engaged for the occasion and efforts will be made to have a better fair than ever before. The dates this year will follow immediately after those of Warren which will be the first four days of the same week.

PUNCH BOWL AND GOBLETS — The North Dakota State Fair association of Grand Forks received word this morning from the Merchants hotel of St. Paul to the effect that the prize to be offered at the state fair in Grand Forks by hat hotel would be a silver punch bowl with goblets. The bowl and goblets will be gold lined and the prize is one well worth striving for. It will be one of the numerous specials in the cattle department.

PARTRIDGE COMMITS SUICIDE—At H. T. Bergsland's home south of Plummer Sunday afternoon the family and some visiting friends were startled by a terrific crash and a clatter of falling glass. An investigation developed the fact that a partridge in its headlong flight had crashed against the window and gone thru both the outside and inside glasses. The bird must have been startled by something and flew straight thru the window. The egdes of the glass cut its neck and it was dead in a few minutes.

SELLING VALLEY LAND — Geo. H. Richardson who has been in the land business in Hallock for the past six years came up from Lemars. Ia., a few days ago to open up his place of business there and make preparations for another season of land business. Mr. Richardson states that on account of the excessive rains in Iowa seeding is very backward this spring. Mr. Richardson was accompanied by G Rozenboom of Orange City, Ia., who came up to look over the country.

Cream received, 34,533 lbs.
Average test 22.8.
Butter fat 8,334.81 lbs.
Overrun 22.2.
Butter sold 10.072 lbs.
Total cash received $2,753.81.
Total paid patrons $2,503.37.
Running expenses $165.55.
Surplus $4.55
Price paid patrons for butter, 30.4 cents per pound.

HALLOCK MAN GOES WEST — Aug. Jergensen of Hallock has left for San Francisco, California, where he will remain for some time visiting with friends and relatives before leaving for the state of Washington where he will make his future home. Mr. Jergensen is an old resident of Kittson county having resided there for over 25 years in which time by economy and hard work he has accumulated considerable wealth, which enables him now to enjoy the fruits of his labor. It is dollars to doughnuts that he returns to the Red River Valley before many months like the majority of other do who leave.

DEATH AT GREENBUSH — The sudden death of Nels O. Fernstrom at Greenbush early last week is learned with regret here. The evact cause of his demise has not been learned but is understood to have been caused by blood poisoning brought about by the lancing of a boil in his nose. Mr. Fernstrom is well known in central Marshall County but for the past few years has resided with his family on their homestead near Strathcona. Besides his wife and two children one boy and one girl, he leaves to mourn his loss his aged mother Mrs. Per Person of Nelson Park and four brothers, Peter, John, Charles and Elof Fernstrom and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Merdink and Naemi Fernstrom.

SMALL BLAZE AT HALLOCK — The Hallock fire department was called out Monday to put out a small blaze in A. P. T. Suffel's drug store. The fire was caused by a lighted match coming in contact with the gas while making a search for the leak in the gas pipe. The explosion which followed the ignition of the gas caused a considerable shaking up and scattering of things in the front part of the store, but causing no serious damage. In the excitement which followed the explosion nothing was thought of fire until smoke was discovered issuing forth from the cornice of the roof, when the fire department was called out, and it was found that the fire had worked its way up between the walls and if it had not been for the promptiness of the boys the entire roof would have been in one mass of flames.

KEY STONE

Mrs. John Brantl and daughter Miss Silvia spent last Sunday night at the home of Mr. Joseph Jerrick.

All present at the entertainment given at the Aeschlimann school report a good time. The school house was prettily decorated. The play "Gertie's Vindication" was a decided success. Lewis Aeschlimann who represented Jack the Negro, kept the audience in an uproar. A certain lady who has a daughter attending school said the program was worth walking two miles to see. A delicious lunch was served at midnight.

Miss Agnes LaGrove finished a very successful six months' of school last Friday. The pupils speak very highly of her teaching and her work was praised by visitors and parents. Miss LaGrove and her mother left for Grand Forks last Saturday to visit relatives for a few weeks. During their stay in Key Stone they made many friends who greatly regret their departure.

Mr. Lewis Brantl called on Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brantl last Sunday.

Mr. JohnGerber and family enjoyed a very pleasant visit with Mr. John Brantl and family last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann drove to Grand Forks last Saturday.

It seems that as soon as spring opens a boy's first thought is to remain true to his favorite game of baseball as was the case in this vicinity last Sunday when a few of the boys met for the first time at the Brantl farm and played just to see what it was like.

The farmers are rejoicing over the fine weather and are very busy with their seeding.

Misses Clara McDonald and Silvia Brantl took supper at the Simon Aeschlimann home last Wednesday.

THE "BUBBLES" OUT IN FORCE

Sunday was the first real warm spring day that has been experienced during the month of April, and while the automobils owners have been doing stunts in fur coats occasionally, yesterday was the first day that they were out in force with the fair sex arrayed in their Easter finery. There are double the number of Automobiles in Crookston this spring over last year.

The Auto germ has got in its work and many business men have either purchased a machine or have a malignant attack of the fever which cannot be reduced by anything but the ownership of a car of some description.

A Systematic Campaign

No act of a governor of the state of Minnesota ever resulted in more favorable comment in the press and from individuals than the veto of the tonnage tax bill by Gov. Johnson. One clause of his message vetoing the bill is particularly significant to the northern part of the state as follows:

"Northern Minnesota claims, with some show of reason that had its counties a legislative representation based on a just population apportionment this bill would never have passed. Fifty-nine counties of this state receive more money from the state treasury than they pay into it, and it scarcely seems possible that these districts should attempt to impose upon another section of the state a system of taxation based upon an inequality. Such attitude obviously threatens the state with a condition of sectional hatred and prejudice which is ominous to the state's future peace, harmony and progress.'

This statement on the part of Gov. Johnson is well founded upon facts. The northern part of the state lacks just representation and it is none too early to start a systematic campaign to secure just representation at the legislative session two years hence. Nothing can be secured in that line till then, but it will take organized effort to secure our rights even two years from now. We are entitled to equal representation but we are not getting it, and the sections of the state which have more than a just representation based upon population will fight any measure which will give this rapidly growing part of the state what it is entitled to. The campaign for justice should be started now in order that we are prepared when the time comes to make the fight.

Commenting on the same subject The Duluth Herald sizes up the situation as follows:

"What Northern Minnesota needs to secure its fundamental right to representation in the legislature, is unity of purpose and coherence of effort. No practical, systematic effort has yet been made to secure justice in this respect. Northern Minnesota already has the votes to secure a proper apportionment for the entire state from and including the Twin Cities north, is in favor of reapportionment. What is now needed and at once is organization. A reapportionment league should be formed at once with funds sufficient for a determined and systematic and continuous campaign to unite the people in a demand for reapportionment. Such a demand is a latent power; it can be made active, when it can no more be resisted than can the rising of the tide.

"Equitable representation in the legislature is the fundamental need of the people of Minnesota today; without it, the state is subject to the greatest evils, for such is always the case when the few have more power than the many."

POLK COUNTY PIONEER DEAD

CORNELIUS O'NEILL PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY AT BONNERS FERRY LAST WEEK

BROTHER OF HENRY O'NEILL AND LIVED ON SAME FARM 30 YEARS AGO

Much sorrow will be felt by the pioneers of this section by the announcement of the death of Cornelius O'Neill brother of Henry O'Neill one of the pioneer residents of Polk county which occurred last week suddenly in Idaho.

Cornelius O'Neill or "Con." as he was known by old timers here years ago, died at Bonners Ferry, Idaho on the 15th inst.

He came here with his father who now lives at Moorhead, over 30 years ago.

The first winter he spent in a log house with sod roof on the place that his brother, Henry O'Neill now owns. Sam and Jas. Hays of Nielsville and Climax and also "Duke" Jewel, G. N. engineer, spent the greater part of the winter with him. He farmed here for a time and then went west.

A bad cold followed by pneumonia was the cause of his death. He was buried there for the present but will probably be taken to Moorhead where the family owns a cemetery lot and where the mother and a daughter Nellie are buried.

Deceased was 44 years of age and was unmarried. L. J. O'Neill who owns a section of land in eastern Polk and who was a partner of Cornelius in timber land in Idaho was with him all the time he was sick and finally buried him.

ADDRESSED STUDENTS OF HIGH SCHOOL

On Thursday last Prof. Harrington and Supt. Thorson visited the city schools and explained the industrial work planned.

Supt. McIntyre made the announcement to the high school that the music period would be changed and that Mr. Harrington of the Crookston school of agriculture and Supt. Thorson would furnish the music. Mr. McIntyre made a few remarks, telling how the people in olden days wished for their children to have "better advantages at school" and asked if the advantages are to help the young people to work for their living, or for them to wait for their parents to leave them fortunes so that they can lead an idle and "easy life". He then introduced Mr. Thorson and by the applauding Mr. Thorson is assured that the high school pupils appreciate what he has done for them.

He started by saying that he was asked to sing but that on account of not having enough time to prepare anything he would try to speak instead. Mr. Thorson says, "I am like a man in the southern part of the state, he was going to introduce a man to a large audience and like me it was the first time he had ever spoken in public. He hesitated and then pointed backwards and said, "That's him."

Mr. Thorson said that he and Mr. Harrington were at the high school for the purpose of getting the pupils into an industrial contest where the boys would raise wheat, corn, and oats for a prize of $50 for the best and the girls were to make an apron or a loaf of bread, or a cake and a large prize was offered for the best in that line.

He said that the local prize winners would then send their articles to the state fair and try for a prize there Mr. Thorson said then that he would introduce Mr. Harrington who would finish telling about the contest.

Mr. Harrington started by saying that this country needed advertising. That the only way it could be advertised properly, was by showing the public what it could produce.

He said that on his way home from Fosston he saw several unoccupied farms and he asked why these farms were vacant. He said that these farms must be operated with new vigor. Mr. Harrington said that this was not a corn country but by planting Minnesota No. 13 or Red Dent that we would have corn here by Sept. 20.

Mr. Harrington then spoke of the girls and said that every girl should be able to sew, darn and bake bread Te said that every one should make bread as we could get along without sewing by using pins" and he then asked the boys what they thought of the girls doing these things, and naturally the boys think that it's great. He closed by saying that if a real nice layer or loaf cake is sent in, that he, Mr. Thorson and Mr. McIntyre will sample it; but he found that Mr. Powers was making a long face and said that he "can come in on the side."

HIS NAME IS C. GOODRICK

IDENTITY OF VICTIM OF ORIENTAL LIMITED IS ESTABLISHED

The identity of the unknown man who was ground to pieces under the wheels of the east bound Oriental Limited of the Great Northern near Arvilla two weeks ago has been established by Coroner A. P. Rounsvell of Larimore yesterday. The deceased name is Charles Gordrick, and he has a brother-in-law residing at Calumet, Mich. The rest of his people live in Europe.

The coroner secured his information regarding the identity of the man from Ed Paulson. Identification was a difficult matter, for the body was badly dismembered and portions of it were carried from the scene of the accident one and one-half miles east of Arvilla to Grand Forks.

It was found at the inquest that the deceased had been in Grand Forks and had walked west with other wanderers. He had been drinking a good deal and while nearing Arvilla he became tired and wanted to crawl into a straw stack. His comrade urged him to walk on but he was unable to do so and he was left. It is believed he laid down on the track and was ground to pieces.

GREAT RACE PROGRAM FOR STATE FAIR

The speed department of the State Fair is now in the hands of that veteran horseman George Atchinson of Mankato, Minn. Mr. Atchinson aside from being one of the board of managers of the State Fair is the superintendent of speed, succeeding Mr. C. M. Griggs of St. Paul, in this position Immediately after the close of last year's fair, upon the resignation of Mr. Griggs, the new superintendent of speed made up his mind to cultivate the acquaintance of western horsemen and visited several of the late race meeting for this purpose. It is no easy matter to arrange a racing program of such proportions as is offered at the State Fair, and it is an extremely difficult task to please both the public and the horsemen at the same time. Mr. Atchinson is a particularly fortunate selection as a successor to Mr. Griggs as he is an old horseman, always owning a few fast ones himself, having a large acquaintance in harness horse circles and for several years he has had charge of the speed department of the Mankato fair, whose races have always been second to the State Fair's. It is safe to say he will make a record in his new position, as the program already outlined is sure to meet every requirement.

WOMEN DON'T WANT TO WEAR DOMESTIC HOSE.

Spokane, Wash., April 26—Protesting against being forced to wear domestic stockings, which they declare are shapeless and inferior in grade, members of the Spokane Floral association, headed by Mrs. John W. Gilson, joined the women of Chicago in a movement for reduced rates on woman's wearing apparel, urging also a cut in the duty on raw and refined sugars.

In a letter to United States Senator Wesley L. Jones, the association filed formal protest against the proposed increase in the tariff on stockings and gloves, urging the senator to use his best efforts to obtain a reduction all along the line. The petition, which is to be presented to the United States senate, says that while this is the greatest fruit-growing country in the world, "our exports of jams and jellies are comparatively small, as we cannot compete in neutral markets like Great Britain, which have the advantage of free sugar. We believe that a reduction of the sugar tax would greatly increase domestic consumption of these articles and would give us a much larger share of the export trade. A reduction of this tax would therefore be an unquestioned advantage to the people of the entire country."

Say Farmers Broke Faith

The business men have awakened to the fact that some of the farmers who promised them their custom if they would vote out the saloons are still buying groceries out of town. The names of the farmers are known and the Times has been asked to publish the list which includes nearly all who signed the petition to Roseau business men to vote out the saloons "and they (the petitioners) would patronize home merchants exclusively." It is not our funeral. In the long run the farmers will find that they can really obtain better goods at better prices at home. What goods we have seen shipped in to the farmers have been put up in old dirty boxes and the canned goods had on wrappers several years old and if new wrappers had been put on, the cans showed the age. The goods we have seen were a dirty looking mess.—Roseau County Times.

Very Important

The announcement is made by Dr. George B. Frankfurter professor of science at the state university, that he has, after twelve years of investigation, discovered a process whereby paper pulp can be made from fir trees or even sawdust. At present spruce is the only wood that can be used for this purpose and as the supply of spruce is limited this discovery is of world wide importance. C. A. Smith the wealthy Minneapolis lumberman has become interested in the discovery and has faith in it to the extent that he will erect a plant for the manufacture of pulp by the new process.—Hutchinson Leader.

May Be Real Goods

Of all things La sakes! Just think of Aldrich throwing a lower tariff rate at the people. Looks suspicious but it may be the real goods. There is no change in fish but cocoa is returned to the free list and fashioned hosiery is put back under the existing law. There is nothing doing in tobacco but iron ore is put back on the dutiable list at 25 cents per ton. The wool schedule has been restored as now existing but the schedule is revised. Hats and bonnets come in for a reduction but wood pulp is still in the air. What's the use?—Roseau Co. Times.

The Inevitable Result

In the state of Kansas, where the centralizers have secured control of the cream product, the average price paid per pound for butter fat in 1908 was 18 cents. In Minnesota, where two-thirds of the creameries are cooperative, and controlled by the farmers, the average price was 28 cents. The advantage of co-operation over centralization is very apparent.—Good Thunder Herald.

Prices All Right, Produce More

The farmers have been busy for some years in an effort to unite in such a way that they may be able, in a measure to control the price of their products. They certainly have done well. They have organized the American Farmers' Society of Equities and several other organizations that appear to have done good work in advancing the price of wheat. Wheat selling in the large markets at over $1.25 is indeed encouraging to the farmers. Now let us all boost and see if we can't get a better price for—well what more do you want? Everything, that the farmer produces is way up and what the farmer wants to do is to get busy and raise enough to supply the demands.—Thief River Falls Press.

RED LAKE COUNTY COURT HOUSE BURNS

Frame Structure Burned Like Tinder Last Night. By Hard Work All The Records Were Saved.

County Board In Session This Afternoon To Provide Temporary Quarters. May Mean Renewal Of Co. Seat Fight.

From Saturday's Daily—

Last evening about 9 o'clock fire was discovered in the court house of Red Lake county at Red Lake Falls, and within a very short time the frame structure, dry as tinder, was a heap of ashes.

The fire is supposed to have originated as the result of a defective chimney, but, tho four people were in the building at the time, no one will ever know definitely where he fire really originated.

The department was on the scene shortly but the flames had reached such headway that there was no hope ot saving the building, which was a raram-shackle affair patched up from several old buildings, and was but one story in height.

The main efforts of the firemen and citizens was directed towards saving the records of the county, and County Auditor O'Brien in a long distance telephone message stated that every thing of value had been saved. He opened the vault in the Auditor's office at noon today and found the contents in good condition.

The board of county commissioners met this afternoon and are busy making arrangements for temporary quarters for the county officials. The loss is estimated at about $4,000 fully covered by insurance. It is rumored that the destruction of the court house will mean the immediate renewal of the county seat fight with more vigor than ever before.

Fortunately no one was injured in the least and the report that several residences had been burned was withoupt foundation, nothing having been touched but the court house.

WILL RETURN FROM WEST

L. J. O'NEILL TO RETURN TO POLK COUNTY AFTER TWO YEARS IN IDAHO

HAS ONE OF FINEST FARMS IN EASTERN POLK CO. LOCATED IN CHESTER TOWNSHIP

From Saturday's Daily—

L. J. O'Neill, after two successful years in Idaho, has decided to return to Polk county to make his future home. His wife and children are now enroute here, and Mr. O'Neill will be here just as soon as he can settle up the estate of his brother Cornelius who died suddenly last week and with whom he was in partnership.

L. J. O'Neill went to Chester township 20 years ago with a young wife, his homestead right and a very few dollars. After 18 years of work he left two years ago for Idaho. He took about $2,000 with his and left 680 acres of a farm and cattle ranch free from all debt behind. He was one of the best known men in that end of the county and one of the heaviest tax payers and largest cattle owners.

He worked hard for Columbia county and was one of the County commissioners of that county until it was knocked out by the Supreme Court of the state of Minnesota.

L. J. O'Neill has many friends here among the old timers. His home is in Chester township. It is on the north side of Lost river and the place is known as Riverside Ranch with a nice house with Kentucky blue grass lawn. and Norway, white pine and balsam for shade trees along nice gravelled walks.

His wife was formerly Edith S. Shumway and was a sister of H. E. and Miss Nealia who now is in the office of the state drainage board in the new capitol at St. Paul. L. J. O'Neill at one time was a partner of Jud. Carruth's in a roller rink in Crookston and he also was a partner of Dan McDonald's former chief of police of Crookston. That was about 25 years ago. He and Mr. McDonald took contracts on railroad work, etc. They dug the basement of the present Shevlin saw mill. His coming back to Polk county again to live after two successful years in Idaho is certainly a good advertisement for this country. He now has three children Gladys, Owen and Nora the oldest being about 18 years.

CONSPIRED TO ROB THE G. N.

MERCHANT AND AGENT JOIN IN AN EFFORT TO SECURE $531 IN CASH

CLAIMED GOODS SHIPPED BY CHICAGO FIRM AT NOONAN DID NOT ARRIVE

From Saturday's Daily—

Trapped by Detectives Allman and Delaney, of the Great Northern railway, Charles Rouse, merchant at Noonan, N. D., and M. Laremore, Great Northern agent at that point, confessed they had plotted to defraud the company out of $531 by taking goods from a shipment of merchandise received from Marshall, Field & Company of Chicago. The pair were placed under arrest and held for trial in the district of Williams county. They furnished bonds. The agent was promptly discharged by the company.

After a large shipment of merchandise arrived from the Chicago firm Rouse put in his claim to the Great Northern. He asserted that he had checked the goods over with the agent and found valuable articles missing. The agent agreed with him. The claim was for $531.

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE WITH SEEDING

DESPITE COOL WEATHER GRAIN IS BEING RUSHED INTO THE GROUND

Despite the rather cold weather during the major portion of the past week, the farmers of the Red River Valley have made splendid progress with seeding operations. At least 25 per cent of the wheat is seeded and a few farmers have finished soil conditions are such that a gen- in the morning there has been a slight crust of frost which delayed work for a, couple of hours, but the cool weather made the work easy on the horses the balance of the day so that nearly as much has been accomplished as would have been done had the weather been very hot. The coil conditions are such that a general feeling of optimism prevails thru out this section.

WANT ERROR CORRECTED

JOURNAL RECEIVES COMMUNICATION FROM REPS. SAUGSTAD AND HOLTEN

POLK CO. RECEIVES $10,500 FROM STATE FOR ROADS INSTEAD OF $750

From Thursday's Daily—

The following communication has been received from Representatives John Holten and John Saugstad of Polk county relative to the amount of money which will be received by Polk County from the state for building roads and bridges in this county for the coming two years. From some source the rumor was spread that Polk county would receive but an insignificant sum, tho the Journal published the correct sum, $10,500 some time ago. The communication referred to is as follows:

To the Citizens of Polk County:

Whereas, there appeared in the "Fertile Journal" of April 8th, 1909, a statement to the effect that Polk County will receive only $750.00 out of the $600,000 appropriation for roads and brides for the coming two years, and

Whereas, the said paper failed to make proper corrections in its revised statement of April 15th, 1909, and

Whereas, the said statements are misleading to the readers of the Fertile Journal, and to our constituents and unfair to the Polk County members of the 36th Legislative Session,

Therefore, in justice to our constituents and ourselves, do we wish thru the Crookston Daily Journal to state to our constituents the facts as they are, and hope you will give us the required space.

Polk county will receive $10,500 from the said $600,000; $5,250 for the year ending July 31st, 1910 and $5,250 for the year ending July 31st, 1911.

SOLD AUTO TO FARGO PARTIES

CROOKSTON AUTOMOBILE CO. MADE SALE IN NORTH DAKOTA—DELIVERED CAR

Yesterday Messrs. Chas. Loring and W. P. Stone of the Crookston Automobile Co., drove to Fargo in a Ford car which they had previously sold to parties there. They made the trip from Crookston to Fargo in 3:20 which is remarkable considering conditions. They went thru Climax so fast that P. H. Gramer had great difficulty in flagging them and then managed to just barely catch the tail end of the machine.

The Crookston company is certainly out after the business when they land sales in Fargo.

CONTRACT LET THE NEW GARAGE

BJOIN AND CARLSON TO HAVE ONE OF THE FINEST IN THE NORTHWEST

As announced exclusively in the Journal about ten days ago Bjoin and Carlson will erect a new garage this spring. The contract for the brick work has been let to L. Johnson and for the woodwork to Larson and Larson. The foundation will be started Monday and the building will be completed inside of 5 or 6 weeks. It will be one story, 12 foot ceiling, cement floor and an office 12 by 12 will be located at the corner of Ash and Robert streets. The building will face Robert street with a 42 foot frontage and will be 70 feet deep.

The office will have a hardwood floor, wainscoating and fittingly decorated. The improvement will be a very noticeable one on East Robert Street.

Messrs. Bjoin, Carlson and Quee will have Kissel Kars on exhibition at the new Garage at all times and intend going after the business with a vengeance.

MANY PRESENT AT CLIMAX

OVER 100 STUDENTS ATTENDED INDUSTRIAL MEETING THERE YESTERDAY

MANY BUSINESS MEN AND PROMINENT FARMERS LISTENED TO PLAN

From Thursday's Daily—

Supt. N. A. Thorson and Prof. L. P. Harrington were highly gratified at the industrial meeting held yesterday at Climax. They drove from this city yesterday morning an dvisited three schools on the way down where the plan of the corn and other contests were fully explained and the students and teachers in each instanc were deeply interested and will take up the work with much enthusiasm.

At Climax a big meeting was held. There were over 100 students from the surrounding rural schools present and in addition many teachers, business men and prominent farmers attended the gathering at which Andrew Steenerson presided.

Mr. Steenerson an dothers present stated after the plan had been explained that the idea was a most excellent one, and they offered to do all in their power to stimulate interest and get the students to engage in the competitive contests. The business men there will without doubt arrange for a district contest prior to the Polk County contest, and there promises to be a great number of entries.

The industrial work is being seized with great interest thruout the county and Supt. Thorson made a most commendable move in arranging for the three meetings to be addressed by Prof. Harrington who is one of the most capable men in that line in the state, having made a specialty of it during his terms as county superintendent of schools in the southern part of the state.

A good start has been made in Polk county, and the work should be pushed by everyone. Take an interest in whatthe students are doing encourage them in every way, and let them know that the work they are taking up means a greater degree of prosperity for the future than has ever been enjoyed in the past.

RETURNED FROM SOUTHERN TRIP

Wm. Anglim returned this morning from a several weeks' trip thru Texas Colorado and other southern and western states where he went on a combined business and pleasure trip accompanied by Miss Alice Lappan. Mr. Anglim enjoyed the trip exceedingly and was much interested in the development of that section of the country marked progress being evident. However he is glad to get back to the valley an dafter all his travels is more satisfied with Crookston than ever before.

Miss Lappan remained in St. Paul where she will visit with Mrs. Geo. Capser and the Fontaines till Saturday when she will return to Crookston.

TRIED TO ROB TURKISH STORE

This morning about 4 o'clock M. Kalad who sleeps over the Turkish Store was aroused by a noise in the store. He opened the door knecked one man down with the poker and then tackeled the other one. Both men fled and disappeared in the alley.

Fine white Chinese crepe is leading all materials for wash waists. It is the fashion of the moment. One can pay almost any price for such a blouse, according to the quality of the crepe, the name of the maker and the weave of lace or embroidery used on it. Domestic crepe, which is a good imitation of the imported weave, sells at less price, and the ready-made blouses of it are within the average purse. The usual trimming on these is a narrow Cluny lace, although women who have Irish lace without immediate use for it, apply it to these blouses and make them quite handsome. The newest touch is to use a center band, three-inch cuffs and straight collar of polka-dot pique. No lace or hand-embroidery is used in combination with the pique. The use of the latter gives the shirt waist a severe tailored style, which makes it quite appropriate for morning use with cloth coat suits.

STEPHENS SCORED FOR AG. SCHOOL

KEEPS BILL FOR DISTRICT INSTITUTIONS FROM BEING RECONSIDERED

CONCURRENCE OF HOUSE TO AMENDMENT WILL MAKE IT A LAW

From Thursday's Daily—

Senator A. D. Stephens scored a second victory this morning for the district plan for agricultural education in Minnesota. During the entire session Senator Stephens has advocated the plan for an agricultural school in each congressional district similare to the school that has attained national success at Crookston. This is the plan that has received the hearty endorsement of Professor Hays of the agricultural department at Washington.

Several plans for agricultural education have been advanced including that of Senator F. E. Putnam of Blue Earth of state aid to high schools for the purpose of establishing an agricultural course in those schools.

Yesterday afternoon Senator Stephens brought up and secured the passage of what is known as the Lawrence H. Johnson bill for the establishment of a district agricultural school in each congressional district along the lines that have proven so successful in the Ninth District near Crookston. In spite of the opposition of Senator Putnam, Senator Stephens secured the passage of this bill.

"This bill nullifies mine," said Senator Putnam with considerable bitterness, "and I thank the senate for its compliment."

This morning Senator Putnam endeavored to secure a reconsideration of the Johnson-Stephens bill but failed ignominously. The measure now requires only the concurrence of the house to an amendment offered by Senator Moonan of Waseca to become a law.

INSPECTING NOR. DIVISION

GENERAL MANAGER GRUBER AND GEN. SUPT. SCOTT OF G. N. ARRIVE TONIGHT

WILL REMAIN HERE OVER NIGHT AND MAKE TRIP TO NOYES TOMORROW

From Thursday's Daily—

This evening General Manager Gruber and General Superintendent Scott of the Great Northern will arrive on the train from Duluth in a special car for the purpose of making a tour of inspection of the Northern Division.

They will remain in Crookston over night and tomorrow will make a trip to Noyes. A considerable amount of minor improvements will be made this spring as usual and the purpose of the trip is to look over the general conditions.

In order to make track improvements the section crews are all being materially improved. The crew on the section between here and Fisher for instance has been increased to 12 men and corresponding increases are being made to other crews, thus giving employment to a vast number of additional men in the aggregate.

MINNEAPOLIS MEN GET INTO TROUBLE BY YIELDING TO TEMPTATION

George P. Douglas brother of W. B. Douglas ex-attorney general of the state, together with Loyal T. Bintliff well known Minneapolis men got into trouble at Annandale, Minn., yesterday when they were arrested for violating the game laws. They had in their possession eighteen ducks which they had bagged in one day.

The Minneapolitans explained to the authorities that they came out primarily to test their new shotguns but fell vict imsto the tempation of capturing a few of the ducks which hovered in their vicinity. No explanation would satisfy the game warden and it was not until Mr. Douglas had telephoned Gov. Johnson and had the latter intercede for him and his partner that the justice of the peace would release them on their own recognizance.

Before leaving however, the two pre-season sportsmen had to promise to appear in court to answer to a maximum fine of $450 and confinement in the county jail for eighteen months.

BUSINESS IS LOOKING UP

GEO. F. CARPENTER RETURNS FROM A TEN DAYS' TRIP EAST

SAYS BUSINESS CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING—RED RIVER IS FORTUNATE

From Thursday's Daily—

Geo. F. Carpenter of the Wright-Carpenter Co., returned yesterday afternoon on the N. P. from a ten days' business and pleasure trip during which he visited the twin cities, Chicago, Columbus, Cincinnati and other large centers. Last Sunday he went from Chicago to Cincinnati and says the weather was scorching hot.

Mr. Carpenter states that business conditions are improving and that in all circles a prosperous year is being looked forward to. That section of the country was affected a hundred fold worse by the financial depression than the Red River Valley. In fact Mr. Carpenter says that the people here have no conception of what hard times are. The depression there resulted in actual suffering to thousands of people. Many felt the pangs of hunger, suffered from the cold and went about half dressed. The large cities had more poor than they could properly provide forand in addition to that there is the class of people who are too proud to ask or accept help, but who could not secure work much of the time and suffered both mental and bodily pain as a result.

This is a condition of affairs never experienced in this section. People have been hard up for cash, but when it came to being clothed and well fed such conditions never existed and never will exist.

THIEF RIVER FALLS $20,000 BONDS CARRY

COUNCIL REPEALS THE TRI-STATE TELEPHONE COMPANY'S LOCAL FRANCHISE

The Thief River Falls council held an important meeting Tuesday evening and transacted much business of importance.

The vote upon the bond issue was canvassed and the council declared that the issue had carried, and application to the state was made for a loan of $20,000 the amount of the issue.

It was voted to extend the water works mains from Bridge street south to the Knox school house and also to buy 500 feet additional hose for the fire department.

An ordinance was introduced by Alderman Forder repealing the ordinance which gives the Tri-State Telephone company its franchise in this city. This move is made in order that the city may operate its own telephone exchange.

Address of President Berg Greatly Enjoyed as Were Other Papers and Discussions. Election of Officers Tonight.

The Sixth Annual meeting of the Ninth District Group of the Minnesota Bankers' Association, was convened in the 25,000 Commercial Club Rooms this morning shortly after 10 o'clock with an attendance of about 100, including the leading financiers of northwestern Minnesota. Every person on the program was present with the exception of L. Lamberson of the Bank of Warren who was unable to be present on account of illness.

Visitors Welcomed

The meeting was called to order by President C. M. Berg, Cashier of the First National Bank of McIntosh, and after the invocation by Rev. Willand S. Ward, closing with all repeating the Lord's Prayer, Mayor J. D. McPhee delivered a most hearty address of welcome in which he expressed the hope that the meeting would prove both pleasant and profitable and that the official white convention tag would make the wearers immune from arrest no matter what the dark blue statute was fractured and that Chief Eck and his sleuths had been so instructed.

A Hearty Response

President Berg responded in a most hearty vein and extended, and complimented the Commercial Club upon the appearance of their elegant new home.

President Berg then made his annual report which was a very interesting document which will be referred to in another column of this issue. Following this business reports were made and committees named after which the regular program was taken up.

The session of the Ninth District Group, Minnesota Bankers' Association which will close this evening with the election of officers following the banquet at the I. O. O. F. hall will conclude the most important gathering ever held by the leading financiers of Northwestern Minnesota. The bankers of Crookston have proven themselves fully equal to the demands of the occasion, and nothing was left undone that would contribute to the success of the convention.

Conservative Bankers.

The bankers of this district are known as safe conservative men. Depositors have never had any need to worry about the safety of their deposits. The bankers have looked after the welfare of their patrons at all times, and when help was needed to tide over poor crop season they never failed to respond. Their conservative methods were shown conclusively during the financial stringency which caused so many bank failures. The Ninth district banks were solid as Gibralter.

Sessions Very Interesting.

The program today was of a most interesting character, and every address and the discussions were closely followed. The visitors united in expressing lively satisfaction over the pleasure and profit obtained from the meeting, and were pleased with the courtesies extended them.

Report of Secretary.

Secretary Baker submitted to the group his annual report which showed that the organization was in an exceedingly flourishing condition and that almost every banker in the entire district was enrolled upon the membership. He showed the growth of the group since its organization and suggested that every effort be made until every one eligible to membership was secured.

Committees Report Tonight.

The appointment of committees by President Berg was as follows:

Committee on resolutions—A. G. Anderson, of Fergus Falls; L. W. Oberhauser, of Frazee and L. A. Huntoon, of Moorhead.

Committee on nominations—J. W. Wheeler of Crookston; A. P. White, of Bemidji and Norman Hanson, of Fertile.

The committees will not report until after the banquet this evening.

Work of State Association.

Charles R. Frost, secretary of the Minnesota Bankers' Association, was introduced and he delivered an able and interesting address on the work of the state association. He told in what manner the organization was attempting to assist the bankers in all sections of the state and gave a review of the growth of the organization. Mr. Frost's address was well received and he was given the closest possible attention.

Crookston School of Agriculture.

Prof. William Robertson, of the Crookston School off Agriculture was the next speaker and his subject was "Agricultural Education". He reviewed what had been accomplished in the past and what the state was attempting to do. He appealed to the bankers to assist in the work of interesting the sons and daughters of the farmers of this district in acquiring a practical and up-to-date agricultural education which would be of the greatest value to the prosperity of the entire district. Prof. Robertson was given an ovation when he concluded.

Immigration Commissioner Welch Speaks.

Commissioner of Immigration Geo. Welch delivered an address, of great interest, his subject being "Immigration". He told of the success with which the efforts of the state commission was meeting and gave a roseate view of the future in regard to immigration into the ninth district, which he believed at the present time offered great opportunities to the practical farmer and homeseeker. Mr. Welch's address throughout breathed optimisms and undoubtedly added to the faith of every one present.

District Clearing House.

L. Lamberson, of Warren, who was to talk on "The Banker and the Farmer", was unable to be present owing to illness and President Berg introduced W. D. Willard, cashier of the First National Bank of Mankato, who devoted his time to the "District Clearing House." This was a subject of great interest and Mr. Willard was given the closest attention.

Recent Legislation.

"Legislative Matters and Results", was the subject of an able address by Senator A. D. Stephens. The Senator paid considerable attention to the recent session of the legislature and gave an interesting review of the work accomplished for better banking and also for the protection of banks and bankers. The address was exceedingly important as it interpreted the laws which had been written on the statute books during the past ninety days.

Taxation.

John N. Allen, special attorney on taxation for Hennepin county, delivered the final address of the convention, his subject being "Banking Taxation." His subject matter was of present interest and those in attendance gave the closest attention to the speaker. His thorough familiarity with the question made what he said authoritative and of much benefit.

Round Table Discussion.

At every bankers' convention there is held a round table discussion which always proves of greatest interest, and every delegate present receives much help and benefit. Today's round table was presided over by J. W. Wheeler, of the First National Bank of this city, and he proved a most able and helpful official. A number of subjects were taken up and given a thorough consideration and the delegates present participated with considerable enthusiasm.

Ride to Farm Postponed.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather it was decided to call off the automobile ride to the school of agriculture and other points of interest about the city. This was a source of keen disappointment as the delegates were counting upon this and had taken much interest in this portion of the program.

At 6 o'clock this evening the visitors will be tendered a banquet in the dining hall of the Odd Fellows hall by the bankers of Crookston. It is expected that this social function will be a fitting climax to the most successful convention the Ninth District Group has ever held. Besides the visiting delegates there will be present at the banquet as the guests of the Crookston bankers the board of directors and the officers of the Commercial club.

Address of the President.

The annual address of the President, C. M. Berg, of the Group was excellent. Mr. Berg paid Crookston a high compliment and his remarks were given the closest attention. His address in full is as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention:—

I take great pleasure in greeting the delegates and visitors to the 6th annual convention of the Ninth Dist. Group of the Minnesota Bankers' Association. I understand that as president of the Group, I am expected to make a speech, though I would rather sing a song. But if I were to sing my favorite song you would all be carried away with it and as that would interfere with the proceedings of this meeting, I will talk instead and if any-one goes to sleep, I will ask the secretary to turn in the fire alarm. We wish you all to have a good time at this convention. Take part in its deliberation and partake in the good things prepared for you.

Compliments Crookston.

We were honored in receiving an invitation to hold this meeting at Crookston, the largest and, in many ways the most distinguished city in our district in fact the metropolis of the northern part of this state. Not many years ago, this all belonged to the Indians, but things have changed now. Many of those sturdy pioneers who first settled here have gone and others can only sit by the fireside and live over in memory the events of those early days. The log cabins and sod houses have given way to modern dwellings; the corner grocery stores with latest stock and equipment.

Banking Center of Valley.

We find Crookston of today a city of about eight thousand people, a center of wealth, manufacturing and commerce; a city of beautiful homes, a seat of learning. With all these, it is naturally the most important banking town in the so famous Red River Valley. The so-called panic of 1907 has gone into history and the return to normal conditions throughout the country has been a gradual one, so there now appears to be a stronger hope of full industrial recovery in both trade and financial circles.

Conditions Excellent.

The conditions in the northwest are indeed satisfactory. High prices have prevailed for all farm products and a great majority of farmers have turned off all that could be spared. This means, of course, money in plenty for all necessary demands and still leaves a balance for payment of debts, mortgages, the purchase of more land, needed improvements, machinery and so forth. Our district has at the present time 121 members and, as far as I can ascertain, 32 non-members. Six have become members during the last year. It appears to me that every bank, not only in this district, but in the entire stae should no hesitate a moment but become members of the state association, as it is through united efforts that great things can be accomplished and I hope that our next group meeting will show that every banker in this district are members of the Minnesota Bankers' Association.

Legislation.

I will dwell but a short time on legislative matters pertaining to banks as we have on our program for an address on this subject a prominent banker and legislator, State Senator A. D. Stephens. But, nevertholess, I want to say that we have been fortunate this year in the bills passed by our legislature relating to banks. For instance, Senate File No. 301 provides for a banking department, the appointment of a superintendent of banks, eight examiners and other employees necessary to properly administrate the office. Senate File 285 provides that anyone making false statements to banks as a basis of credit shall be guilty of gross misdemeanor and punished as described by statute for such an offense. Again, Senate File No. 435 extends the time for payment of demand notes from 60 days to eight months. This means that the endorser may be held eight months without protest or renewal. Senate File No. 281 provides that anyone found with burglar tools or explosives in his possession shall be guilty of a felony and that possession of such tools or explosives shall be prima facie evidence of intent to use the same unlawfully. Also a number of other bills of importance to banks.

Agricultural Legislation.

There is another measure which has become a law upon our statute books at the present session of our legislature which in my judgment is a very important law to the whole state, and not only this state but practically every state in the union. A bill for an act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of departments of agriculture, manual training and domestic economy in state high, graded and consolidated schools and to authorize rural schools to become associated with such state and graded or high schools, and making state appropriation for same. This means the giving of an agricultural education to every boy or girl living in a rural community. These schools mean great feeders for the state colleges of agriculture; I mean that colleges of agriculture will be filled with students.

Crookston School of Agriculture. N

Take for instance the state school of agriculture and experimental farm here at Crookston, has had at the present school year one hundred and one students while the business colleges in this city have between three and four hundred students learning shorthand, typewriting, book-keeping and so forth. Would it not be better if it was reversed? The boys and girls are being educated away from home so it is no wonder we have so many vacant and heavily mortgaged farms. For the last hundred years we have had the boundless wealth of the untempered west to fall back upon. Today there is no west. The population of the country is increasing rapidly while the productiveness of the soil has decreased. If this wastefulness continues, we will not be able to supply our wants. Mr. Hill said at the dedication of Stephens Hall in this State School of Agriculture in this city last summer ,that inside of fifty years the United States would have a population of over two hundred millions of people. Consequently the main question at issue in the education of our children today is the matter of practical education according to their environments. The term "agriculture" includes the complete environment of the rural child, not the soils, the crops and the cattle only, but the home life, the groves, the bird life and so forth. Hence, a true agricultural education would aim to give the farm child a knowledge of Arithmetic, Geography, Language, History and so forth in the terms of his farm life. This will mean better farming, better farms and better farmers as well as business men. The farming will be more on a business principle and consequently increase the revenue from the farm and also increase the price of land. More money in circulation and larger deposits in the banks, and a more legitimate call for money in our agriculural districts.

The Banker's Mission.

But what about the bankers? They are not mere hoarders of wealth, they are not watch-dogs of money. The bankers and their institutions are part of the arterial system of the nation through which must circulate the commercial life-blood of the people and the blood is not the bankers' but the peoples'. They must have it or commercial sickness, starvation and death follows. When the people are financially well, the banker is the guardian; when they are financially sick, they must become physicians. The bankers are not only working for interest, they are laden with heavy responsibilities. They are upon times which will try men's souls. The banker's opinion is needed and their influence should be felt. The nation needs citizens who are not afraid to tell the truth. We heard so much in the last campaign about government guarantee of deposits and postal savings banks.

Want Big Returns.

But legislate as you will and safeguard to the utmost the deposits of the people you will still find a great number looking for larger interest and bigger returns. If not stock market, such as gold, copper, oil stock and so forth, it will be the races or games of some sort. It is human nature. It is fair to presume that right now depositors can find plenty of banks as safe and sound as human wisdom or honesty can devise in which they may deposit their money, but the allurements of large percentage and big interest is always present. It may be that government guaranteeing of deposits and postal savings banks will prove a wise and efficacious measure for the protection of depositors and bringing out in the channels of trade much hoarded money, but I doubt it.

In Conclusion.

It just came to my mind the word "sufficient". In concluding, it reminds me of a story about two farmers who were unable to come to an agreement about where a certain line dividing their farms should run. One was an Irishman and the other a Scandinavian. So one day they determined to fight it out and the one that said the word "sufficient" first was the loser. After fighting on for a long time the Irishman says "sufficient". "That's it," said the Scandinavian, "just what I have been trying to think of for the last fifteen minutes." I do not wonder but that some of you have been trying to think of this word ever since I started.

Again thanking the citizens of Crookston for their hearty welcome extended to use through Mayor McPhee. I thank you for your kind attention.

Stephen

Seeding is in full blast this week while last week some of the farmers did considerable work on the fields, yet they did not get in full swing at seeding until this week. The ground is in ideal condition for seeding and prospects look good for a large acreage being sown.—Stephen Leader.

WEBER TO BE G. N. TRAVELLING AGENT

CHANGE TO BE MADE MAY 1—CHARLES TAYLOR WILL BE DEPOT AGENT

It is rumored today that W. S. Weber agent for the Great Northern at the passenger depot in Grand Forks is soon to be promoted to the position of traveling passenger agent with headquarters at St. Paul and will probably have this territory as the field for his work.

It is understood that the change will probably be made May 1 and that Charles Taylor now assistant to Mr. Weber at the depot at the Forks will become agent. Who will take Mr. Taylor's place has not been decided on.

Mr. Weber has been a very efficient agent for the past three years at this point and a valuable employe of the Great Northern. His many friends regret to see him leave but are glad to know that he will visit this section often in attending to his new duties as traveling passenger agent.

INDUSTRIAL WORK IN SCHOOLS

SUPT. OF SCHOOLS THORSON VISITING ANGUS AND EUCLID SCHOOLS TODAY.

Superintendentof Schools N. A. Thorson left this morning for Angus and Euclid where he will visit the schools and will also do some effective work encouraging the students to engage in the industrial contests. Supt. Thorson is devoting a great deal of attention to practical industrial work and it is a move that will meet with most hearty commendation throughout this section.

To Make Worry Impossible

Good robust health is a great enemy of worry. A good digestion, a clear conscience, and sound sleep kills a lot of worry. It is not a very difficult thing to make worry impossible. We can keep ourselves perfectly free from worry enemies by doing everything that must be done sanely and by the daily use of a good malt tonic, such as Golden Grain Belt Beer. Serve this wholesome food beverage at meal time and you will strengthen and upbuild your entire system. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

ACTIVITIES ARE BRISK IN WEST

RAILROADS HAVE MANY SURVEYORS AND SECRET AGENTS ON FIRING LINE

ARMY OF MEN ARE AT WORK TRYING TO FIGURE WAY TO GET BEST OF RIVAL

From Tuesday's Daily—

Railroad activities are at their height all over the Pacific northwest, and it is claimed that more than 600 railroad surveyors and secret agents are scattered over the several states west of the Missouri river. In some quarters the number is estimated at 1,000. This army of men is engaged in its unit entities in what the country at large knows to be the most gigantic and spectacular competitive railroad building war in the history of the west.

The last addition to the army arrived a day or two ago at Mobridge on the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway.

In the Flathead country of Montana the Milwaukee road has a force of right of way and secret agents while three crews of Hill surveyors who are contesting with the Milwaukee men for every inch of territory number as many more.

The influx of Milwaukee engineers into the eastern part of South Dakota as told by the dispatches is taken as evidence of the determination of Milwaukee managers to vigorously follow the policy of the road, but recently revealed of being the first to seize advantageous railway locations mountain passes and the like, in the various undeveloped agricultural timber and coal regions of the Pacific northwest. All the news being received on the subject is to the effect that the new Milwaukee field forces are destined to the Cheyenne reservation in South Dakota, where there is a very fine agricultural region never before touched by railroad activities.

PLANS FOR VERY FINE RESIDENCE

W. E. ROWE WILL ERECT FINE HOME ON CORNER OF ASH AND 4TH STREETS

Architect B. D. Keck has completed plans for a very fine modern residence on the corner of Ash and 4th streets known as the old McKinzie property where the parents of W. E. McKenzie resided for a number of years. The property is very high and several lots are included so that the house will show up very nicely. There are some very handsome trees on the place and the location is considered among the finest in Crookston. Bids will be called for in a short time.

SHERIFF GUARDS A DRUG FIEND

In order that R. J. Scott a confirmed drug fiend and thief, would not stop off in Crookston on his way to Missouri, Sheriff O. G. Hanson of Grand Forks accompanied him as far as Gary yesterday. Scott had 20 days of a jail sentence to serve but his folks in Missouri sent him a ticket and it was decided to start him south. Sheriff Hanson instructed the conductor to turn his ticket over to the conductor of the connecting line in Minneapolis and to instruct that conductor to keep up the practice.

Change in Walhalla Run

On the Great Northern yesterday an order went into effect to have the Walhalla freight leave Grand Forks Monday. Wednesday and Friday and return Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. This will make it so the crews will spend Sunday in Grand Forks.

The crews on the Neche line will tie up at Grafton and will run through to Portage hereafter. It will be a mixed train run. The run used to be to Neche and a new crew took the train to Portage.

BROTHER IS HONORED

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID TO SGT.-MAJ. JOHNSTONE, BROTHER OF T. R. JOHNSTONE

EVENING CITIZEN OF GLASGOW, SCOTLAND TELLS OF RECORD AND MEDALS

From Tuesday's Daily—

The following article taken from the Evening Citizen, published at Glasgow, Scotland, is relative to a brother of Thomas R. Johnstone of this city, and with it was a fine two column cut which closely resembles "Tommy."

The latter says that while he is a good marksman himself he has to doff his cap to his soldier brother. Following is the article referred to:

"In December last Sergeant-Instructor Johnstone of the Cycle Corps of the 9th (Dumbartonshire) Battalion Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders (whose headquarters are at Helensburgh), was appointed Sergeant-Major in succession to Sergeant-Major Kerr who was promoted Quartermaster.

"Sergeant-Major Johnstone has spent a good number of years in India Enlisting at Glasgow in 1889 in the 93 Highlanders he went to India in 1891 and went thru the Chitral campaign in 1895 acting as Brigade Transport Sergeant while he was with his regiment in the Waziristan Expedition in 1897. He also took part in the fighting in Somaliland in 1902-04. He has the Chitral Medal with three bars and the medal for Somaliland. Last year he was awarded the Long Service and Good Conduct Medal.

"In 1905 he returned from India on furlough and the following year he joined the staff of the 1st D. R. V. as sergeant-instructor of the cycle corps Sergeant-Major Johnstone has frequently distinguished himself with the rifle and revolver. For a number of years he was the best shot in the 2nd Battalion of the Argyll & Sutherland Highlanders while he also held the championship of India for revolver shooting, besides being the bronze medalist for rifle shooting in the Indian Army. Three years ago, at Darnley, he won the N. R. A. medal for revolver shooting."

A TABOR WOMAN VIOLENTLY INSANE

MRS. ANTON STRAUS TAKEN TO FERGUS FALLS FOR THIRD TIME—VERY SAD CASE

Mrs. Anton Straus of Tabor aged 35 and mother of 5 children was taken to Fergus Falls last evening by Deputy Sheriff Pat Sullivan. She was very violent and had to be put in a straight jacket. Her ravings were terrible. She was taken down seven years ago and released after a year and later spent another year there. It is feared there is no hope for her recovery now.

SUIT INVOLVES SOME VERY FINE POINTS

In the ejectment proceedings brought by the Minneapolis Brewing Co. against Dan Sullivan at East Grand Forks, in Judge Gossman's court here this morning, the complaint was found faulty and the plaintiff given until Friday to amend it. It seems the property was not properly described and it is alleged the plaintiff did not want to describe it properly as a portion of the building is located on a street which was never vacated. They have to be up and doing when they get ahead of "Dominican Dan."

LOST TWO TOES IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Bergen who returned from Bemidji Saturday reports that her son Olaf was jute seriously injured in an accident in the sawmill at that place. While at work a big timber fell on his foot, smashing it so that it was necessary to amputate two of his toes There may also be other injuries develope later but everything is being done to avoid further complications.

$50,000 BLAZE SUNDAY AT VALLEY CITY, N. D.

FIRE ORIGNATING IN GAS STOVE WRECKS BLOCK IN SHORT TIME

MAYOR COWELL CUT BY GLASS—FIRE MOST DISASTROUS IN RECENT YEARS

Starting from a gas stove in the Burnham Cafe a fire accompanied by a terrific explosion totally wrecked one building, knocked in the walls and roofs of several other, injured Mayor Cowell and did damage amounting to $50,000 at Valley City, N. D., where Frank Packard formerly of Crookston is located, yesterday morning. The blaze started at 8 o'clock and before an hour's time had been consumed the disastrous results had been tolled.

The Burnham building occupied downstairs by the offices of Dr. L. F. Platou, was almost destroyed. About fifteen minutes after the fire started an explosion occurred, the origin of which has not been definitely ascertained but thought to have been in a large soda fountain which was in the building, causing the northwest wall to topple over, wrecking the Bijou theatre, knocking in one wall of the Rudolph Hotel and knocking in the roof of a cottage.

Mr. Burnham the proprietor of the building in which the fire started, lies at the point of death with typhoid fever and it is stated that the insurance on the building had lapsed at a very recent date.

Mayor Cowell had his face badly cut by flying glass and pieces of the structure. He was the only one injured.

The conflagration is one of the most disastrous in that city in recent years

RED LAKE COUNTY TO REBUILD COURTHOUSE

The board of county commissioners of Red Lake county have adopted resolutions declaring that as the courthouse at Red Lake Falls has been destroyed by fire another should be built and bonds to the amount of $35,000 for that purpose issued. The board will meet May 22 to open and consider plans for the new building.

Some claim that the attempt to offerr bonds for sale for a new courthouse may revive the county seat fight and result in further proceedings in the court, thereby depriving the county of a suitable building for months.

ROADS IGNORE BICKNELL LAW

COMMISSION MAY COMPEL KEEPING OF EXCESS FREIGHT ACCOUNTS

Trouble is brewing for the railroads of the state over their failure thus far to comply with the Bicknell bill, which became law at the last session of the legislature, and which requires all freight charges in excess of the rates prescribed by the state, where the roads take an appeal from such rates.

Charles Elmquist member of the railroad and warehouse commission, says that if the roads fail to make the report required of them by the law, on the 10th of May he will turn the matter over to the attorney general. It is said that the roads intend to ignore the law, and force the state to take the matter into the courts. The principal argument against the law is that it will require a double accounting force to keep tab on all that is required.

It is understood that big shippers, especially those dealing in grain, are keeping a record of all shipments, with way bills and freight receipts in order that they may present them and have their excess payments refunded, in case the present litigants over the commodity rates, now pending in the federal courts, is decided adversely to the common carriers.

JERRY FLINT DIED SUDDENLY

REMAINS TAKEN FROM WARREN TO RIVER FALLS LAST EVENING

Yesterday morning Jerry Flint of River Falls died suddenly from appoplexy while visiting friends at Warren. His remains were taken to River Falls last evening by Clint Winchester and Archie Noyes. Mr. Flint was interested in the mercantile business at Angus in the early days. The firm being Flint, Winchester and Co., and he was also interested in farm lands and in Warren property.

Deceased was about 60 years of age and was well known to many people in this section who came from in and about River Falls. He was never married.

The man who thinks he is witty gets a lot of self-approval.

HOW TO HANDLE BACK YARD GARDENS

MAY YIELD VEGETABLES FOR A HALF YEAR WITH LITTLE EFFORT

A space 20 by 50 feet may under intensive culture be made to yield fresh vegetables for a small family thru half the year.

With 40 by 50 feet or 50 by 100, there can be a garden spelling riotous plenty.

Have the spading done as early as possible, use thoroly rotted manure, and supplement it with some good commercial fertilizer either broadcasted and raked in or put in hills or drills.

It is a waste of seed, strength and time to plant a garden in poor soil. The seed will come up, the spindling plans will be harder to work than if they were luxuriant and the resultant crop will be mostly conspicuous by its absence.

So if it is impossible to do more, make small rich beds, four feet wide and as long as the manure holds out and sow them crosswise with such things as radishes, lettuce, cress, parsley, beets and onions. Make the rows a foot to eighteen inches apart, or sow the radishes broadcast.

Lettuce also yields more for broadcast sowing. Pull out the thriftiest as soon as edible and leave the rest to grow. Radish tops make excellent greens, sometimes better flavored than mustard. By sowing thickly you can have dishes of greens.

Say the garden is 40 by 50 feet this is something what the planting of it should be: Dwarf early peas, medium early and late peas, beets, early and late; beans in succession, including bush limas; carrots, radishes, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers.

Do not adventure upon corn unless it is sweet corn planted on the pea space as a second crop, to come in just before the frost. Make an asparagus bed all across one end of the plot setting 2-year old roots and fertilizing the bed heavily in early summer just after cutting ceases.

Peas are so hardy they may be planted before snow is past, provided, of course the ground is right when they go in. Make it fine and light, cover the seed at least three inches deep then tramp the earth over them, setting the feet so one track touches the other. A quart of seed will sow 10 feet of drill the proper thickness. An ounce of beet seed will sow the same row length.

Cultivate your garden with a wheel hoe or use the trowel and hand hoe, remembering Izak Walton's adjuration as to the bait worm: 'Use him as tho you loved him.' As one thing yields pull it up and plant something else.

"TOWN PUMP" WAS GUTTED

FIREMEN FOUGHT DESPERATELY TO PREVENT DISASTROUS CONFLAGRATION

C. C. HOCK AND A. F. RAUCH THE HEAVIEST LOSERS—A NASTY BLAZE

From Tuesday's Daily—

A few minutes before midnight last night fire broke out in the second story of the building owned by A. F. Rauch on Main street and occupied by C. C. Hoch as a saloon and in a very few minutes the entire interior of the building was a mass of flames.

The firemen responded promptly and within a short time six streams of hose were deluging the building. The firemmen fought under great difficulties as the smoke was dense at both ends of the building there being scarcely any wind.

The dauntless firemen however scaled the walls and got on the roof of the block and poured great streams while other lines played thru first and second story windows from front and rear and protected the frame building but three feet distant on the north, occupied by Harry Brandow, which was not even scorched. The brick wall on the north side of the Ericsson building proved a perfect fire break tho the smoke seeped thru badly.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. There was no one in the rooms on the second floor and no one in the saloon but Mr. Hoch who was checking up his cash register. The fire however was discovered by parties walking down the street near Ebbighausen's and Mr. Hoch did not even hear the fire whistle till the crowd began gathering.

Some parties heard two explosions, but Mr. Hoch only heard one and can not figure out what it was that exploded.

The fire was witnessed by an immense crowd and the fire department was highly praised for the splendid work done. Had there been a north west wind Ericsson's and Ruettell's buildings would have been almost certainly doomed.

Mr. Rauch expects to have the building repaired as soon as the insurance is adjusted.

C. C. Hoch's loss estimated at 80 per cent covered by insurance on stock, fixtures, furniture in restaurant in rear and second story to amount of $3,200; $1500 of above in Northern Insurence Co., $1200 in American Central and $500 in Mercantile Fire and Marine.

This was all placed thru the W. E. Black Insurance Agency.

A. F. Rauch who owned the building is a heavy loser as he only carried $1500 insurance.

Brandow's store stock suffered from smoke and water fully to the extent of $300 insured thru W. A. Marin, M. Griffith and W. E. Black insurance agencies,

M. Ericsson suffered some loss from smoke in the saloon and living apartments upstairs specially to clothing, draperies, etc., fully covered by insurance. The solid brick wall stopped damage from fire.

Dr. H. E. Nelson and wife who had a suite of 4 rooms over Brandow's as an office and rooms for light housekeeping sustained considerable damage from smoke and water but most of his goods and furniture was removed. He was fully insured.

Reinhart P. Hellberg the shoemaker who occupies the rear apartments over Brandow's also suffered some damage to his furniture and clothing by smoke. His wife and another lady were in the rooms at the time the fire broke out. His loss is fully covered by insurance.

The building occupied by Mr. Brandow was not damaged at all barring broken windows.

Frequently the cap and the wristband are of the foulard and the full portion or middle of the sleeve is net, of the same shade of the gown, lined with white chiffon or white net. On some models this central portion of the sleeve is made of cream or white batiste. Actual puffs and frills are seen about the elbows, showing out from beneath the upper half of a sleeve that is no longer as close fitting as the winter models.

NOT COLDEST IN HISTORY

ONLY TWO YEARS AGO AVERAGE TEMPERATURE FOR APRIL WAS LOWER

WEATHER CLEARING IN WEST AND WEATHER TODAY IS IDEAL IN VALLEY

From Monday's Daily—

The man who says that this is the worst spring he ever saw had better take a back seat—the records are against him.

The weatherman completed the summary of April weather recently, and the average temperature for the month was 39. Just two years ago, if people will think back that far, it was worse for the average then was 37. But both were bad enough, for the records show warmer April until back in 1893, when the average was 39. Then they have to go back to 1873 and 1874 before they find any more cold springs. Those years the averages were 36 and 38 respectively.

The average April temperature since the local office was started is 46. The highest temperature last month was 65 on the 17th, and the lowest 18 on the 9th.

The precipitation for the month was 2.42 inches, and it took 10.8 inches of snow besides some rain to make this amount of water. A year ago April brought down 4.23 inches of water two years ago 1.32. The average for 39 years is 2.39 just a small fraction under the precipitatio last month.

What May will bring no one knows. The first day of May was considerable of an improvement over the last day of April, and the weather man promises still better for today.

There is warm weather hovering around Montana, and it is coming this way gradually but it will take a couple of days before the full effect of it is felt.

The low barometer center, which has caused all the storm and trouble, hovering over Lake Superior yesterday and moving slowly northeastward The low center was down at Kansas City a couple of days ago, and instead of going straight east took a course to the northeast which partly explained the delay of the snow and cold in leaving this section.

W. G. KAISER DIED IN CALIFORNIA

BROTHER OF EDWARD AND A. KAISER VICTIM OF PARALYTIC STROKE

A. Kaiser president of the First National bank of Bagley received a telegram Saturday announcing the death at Coalinga, California, of his brother, W. G. Kaiser, aged 32 years.

W. G. Kaiser was born at Winona Minn., the home of the Kaiser family and grew to manhood in that southern Minnesota city. His health become very poor four years ago and he moved to California, in the hope of benefitting his condition, and was apparently gaining ground, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis which was of so serious a character as to cause death.

That the invalid had improved very much, was confident of ultimate recovery of his wonted robustness, was evidenced by his marriage, December 27, 1908, to a popular young lady of Portland, Oregon, who was the only relative at the bedside when death ensued, after the paralytic stroke.

The body is enroute from Coalinga to Winona, where the remains will be interred in the beautiful Woodlawn cemetery often visited by the deceased.

W. G. Kaiser is survived by his wife a mother, three brothers and three sisters. He had hosts of friends thru out southern Minnesota, and his untimely demise will be sincerely mourned in his native city and other points where he had temporarily resided.

A. Kaiser left today for Winona to attend the funeral.

If clothes didn't make the woman some of them would look like men.

Perhaps love is blind, but it manages to find its way to the ministers.

There are men in this world who wouldn't cheat another man—unless they could.

FATHER NOESON HIGHLY HONORED

PRIEST RAISED IN TOWN OF RUSSIA ACTING BISHOP OF SOUTH DAKOTA

Word has just been received of the acceptance by the Pope of the resignation of Bishop Stariha of S. Dakota, and the appointment of Vicar General Noeson, formerly stationed at Lead, S. D., as acting bishop till the meeting of the bishops in the Arch Diocese at St. Paul names a successor. Father Noesen is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Noesen and was raised in the town of Russia south of this city.

Bishop Stariha resigned because of failing health and will return to his old home in Austria to spend the remainder of his days. He had been stationed in South Dakota for many years.

FOUND $105 IN CLOTHING

UNIDENTIFIED MAN BURIED SATURDAY HAD MONEY SEWED IN LINING OF VEST

CORONER STENSHOEL DISCOVERED IT IN SECOND SEARCH YESTERDAY

From Thursday's Daily—

Coroner N. P. Stenshoel yesterday before burning the clothing worn by the man whose dead body was discovered in the Red Lake River last week decided to make a final examination in an effort to discover some clue that would lead to the identifications of the remains which were buried last Saturday. The clothing when cut from the body the day the corpse was found, was frozen and while the pockets were searched carefully, resulting in the discovery of a purse containing $10, the lining of the coat and vest was not cut for concealed papers.

The search yesterday afternoon resulted in the discovery of $105 in $5 and $10 bills sewed between the lining and the outside of the vest. The bills were wrapped in a Swedish newspaper, published in Minneapolis, for while there was no reading matter on the scrap of paper, there were several display advertisements of Minneapolis firms.

Other than this there was not the scratch of a pen, and absolutely nothing which might lead to the identification of the unfortunate man. Several inquiries have been received however and the clothing may serve as a means of identification and will be preserved for a few weeks.

WILL HELP FARMERS OF MINNESOTA

STATE AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL IS MAKING ELABORATE PLANS FOR COMING SEASON

Dean J. W. Olson of the Minnesota State Agricultural college and his staff are already formulating plans to get into touch with the farmers so as to achieve the best results from the courses in agriculture thru the mail, authorized by the recent legislature. The appropriation of $30,000 becames available Aug. 1 but the details of the work will probably be presented at the meeting of the board of regents of the university in June.

In addition to the mail method the probabilities are that men will be sent out from the college to superintend actual work in cases where farmers desire. Under this plan one expert agriculturist might give assistance to a score of farmers.

Before the plans are formed for the approval of the regents the department staff will confer with the farmers' institute boards and the superintendents of the institutes thruout the state.

MUCH HAY BURNED NEAR LOCKHART

The prairie fires that have recently burned in Lockhart and vicinity have destroyed considerable hay, but fortunately no lives have been lost while fighting it. Last week about 160 tons of hay were burned in Good Hope most of which was owned by Lockhart people and Monday a fire started in Lockhart and swept east and southeast fanned by the terrible wind until it run over into Spring Creek burning several stacks of hay belonging to the Neuewenhus Bros., also the barn on the place owned formerly by Gideon Hassel. The neighbors turned out and fought for some time to get a fire break to stop the flames from Mr. Casselman's grove and this was finally accomplished, thus checking the fire in that direction.

"Alaska wheat," the wonder-working cereal that burst upon an astonished world about a year ago, and promised to revolutionize all agricultural has received its death blow. Frank H. Hitchcock postmaster general, has issued a fraud order against the Alaska Wheat Seed Grain company of Juliaette, Idaho, with a branch at Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The Willmar Tribune has issued a table showing 39 dry towns in Minnesota have voted to stay dry, 40 wet towns have voted to stay wet 26 wet towns voted to go dry and 7 dry towns voted to go wet, making a net gain of 18 towns for the drys.

ATTEMP MADE TO KILL BRAKEMAN

HE IS STABBED IN THE BACK AT SARLES AFTER A BIG ROW

THREE WOUNDS INFLICTED BY GEORGE GRUBB, WHO IS PLACED UNDER ARREST

From Thursday's Daily—

William Gill, brakeman, employed on the Great Northern who was a resident of Grand Forks last fall, was stabbed in the back at Sarles Tuesday night by George R. Grubb, but the knife failed to reach any of the vital organs and Gill will live, unless there should be blood poisoning. News of the affray reached Grand Forks yesterday morning and Assistant Superintendent Kelsey, of the Great Northern left for Sarles to investigate the case for the company.

Grubb was placed under arrest and was held in the city jail at Sarles. Last evening States Attorney Dickson and Sheriff Peter Reid arrived in Sarles from Langdon to investigate the case.

Attack Follows Quarrel

The affray followed a spirited argument over some work at the wye. Grubb became angry and during the altercation drew a knife and attacked Gill.

Physicians stated last evening that Gill would recover. He was resting easily at a hotel in Sarles.

Gill was not quarrelsome but he was rather aggressive at times. Grubb had a bad temper.

Brakeman Gill has been making his home at Sarles during the past few months. He had a run on the branch from Sarles to Lakota.

Preliminary Hearing

Grubb's preliminary hearing was commenced at Sarles last evening. Several witnesses were examined by the state and an adjournment was taken at 11 o'clock till today. The physicians stated that it would be inadvisable to take the testimony of Gill in his condition last evening but might be possible today.

In the testimony given last evening it was brought out that Grubb and Gill had some words after the arrival of the train about 6 p. m. The stabbing affray did not occur until after 6:30 p. m.

Grubb has a wife and four children He has been employed by railroads for several years. Besides acting as a watchman at the round house, he looked after some of the work there.

Keeley was convicted in Saunders county, Mont., on the charge of involuntary manslaughter and sentenced to serve a term of eight months in the state penitentiary. Last fall a serious wreck occurred on the Northern Pacific near Perma, Mont. Keeley was at the time the dispatcher at Missoula and had the solliding trains a freight and a passenger under his charge. Several lives were lost and the wreck was one of the most appalling which has ever occurred in Montana. The operator at Perma and Keeley were indicted. Mitchell, the operator was acquitted and Keeley was found guilty. A petition numerously signed by railroad employes, prominent residents of western Montana, and the jury which convicted Keeley, was presented to the governor some time ago, as was also a letter from Judge Meyers, district judge before whom the cases were tried. Meyers recommended that the pardon be granted.

SPRING BIRDS HARD HIT BY STORM

FLUTTER HELPLESSLY WHEN CAUGHT BY UNUSUALLY SEVERE APRIL WEATHER

The snow storm of yesterday made it hard for robins and other spring birds which have arrived. A man who resides near the city park, stated last evening that the birds were in a pitiful plight. Some dashed against the house in an effort to get in where it was warm. Many were overcome and fluttered helplessly. He predicted that there would be hundreds of birds frozen to death.

He suggested that steps be taken to provide the birds with suitable places of shelter. A few rough boards could be nailed together and placed here and there thru the parks for the protection of the birds.

UPSET STOMACH OR INDIGESTION

ENDS FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING SOME DIAPEPSIN

STOPS FOOD FERMENTATION AND CURES STOMACH TROUBLE BEFORE YOU REALIZE IT

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, billiousness, sick head ache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a litle Diapepsin.

NEW POSTAGE ON THE WAY

SPECIAL SEATLE EXPOSITION STAMP WILL BE ISSUED ON JUNE FIRST

Stamp collectors will soon be made happy with a new postage stamp—the Alaskan. This stamp is to be issued at Washington about June 1, to commemorate "the development of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific territory" in other words, the Seattle exposition.

The stamp will be red and of the two-cent denomination only, but it will be larger than the present two-cent issue. It will be inscribed "Alaska-Yukon-Pacific, 1909" and will bear the portrait of William H. Seward who as secretary of state conducted the negotiations resulting in the purchase of Alaska from Russia.

No commemorative issue will be made, in this connection, of stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers or postal cards.

KITTSON COUNTY HAS POOR FARM

At the Kittson County commissioners' meeting at Hallock this week the arrangement for caring of the county poor was considered. A home for the poor has been provided for. A place where they will have proper care and at the same time feel that they are not a burden to anyone. The County Board has leased what is best known as the old Benson place, now owned by M. O. Moen a farm located three and one-half miles southeast of Hallock. The board not only leased the house, but barn, granary and other buildings and sufficient ground for the raising of all the necessary garden truck for the inmates of the place. All leased at the rate of $15.00 per month. House is repaired and put in first class shape. Bids are published asking for lowest bids for a man and woman to care for the inmates and superintending the institution. The institution will be opened on May 15, 1909. This will at least for the present solve the problem of caring for the poor who have no friends or relatives to look after them.

LeSueur News: Governor Johnson is a level-headed servant of the people. While he has not been asleep during the session and at no time has there been a movement afoot in the legislature unknown to him, yet he has not been playing politics. It must be admitted that the third-term governor made good for the people.

BANKERS CLOSE MOST SIGNIFICANT MEETING

Active Interest Displayed In Promoting Best Interests Of Farmers By Encouraging Better Farming Methods.

Will Result In Hastening New Era Of Prosperity. Heartily Approve Of Agricultural Education.

The New Officers of Ninth District Group, Minnesota Bankers' Association:

President—T. H. Canfield, Battle Lake, Minn.
Vice President—H. L. Wood, Warren, Minn.
Secretary Treasurer—K. K. Peterson, Rothsay, Minn.
The executive Council consists of the officers above and F. J. Evans Fergus Falls, J. Maloy, Jr., Moorhead.

From Thursday's Daily—

The Ninth District Group of the Minnesota Bankers Association in closing its 6th annual meeting last evening in the Commercial Club rooms completed the most largely attended and most successful convention the members have ever held. Secretary Chas. R. Frost of the State Association characterized the program carried out as the best he had ever participated in viewed from the actual good that would result, not only to the members but to the communities in which they lived. Just 130 people participated in the banquet tendered the visitors at 6 o'clock last evening and a social session was held in the evening in which many visitors contributed entertainment.

Soil Has no Superior

The address of Geo. Welsh, State Commissioner of Immigration was received with the greatest enthusiasm, and he demonstrated to the satisfaction of all present that with equal cultivation and soil conservation. the Red River Valley would produce more acre for acre than Illinois or any other central state.

The next Convention will be held at Bemidji, the date to be decided by the executive committee later.

Banquet a Grand Success

The banquet served at I. O. O. F. hall at 6 o'clock reflected a great deal of credit upon the ladies of the Presbyterian church, who served it. The tables looked very resplendent, the decorations being as fine as ever were seen in Crookston and the arangement was most artistic. Ferns were laid flat on the table and at each place was laid a beautiful red carnation, the combination being very beautiful. In addition on each table there were great pots of white lilies and the chandeliers and windows were also decorated with lillies and carnations. A candelabra holding about a dozen red candles also produced a very charming effect. The place cards were gold on white and each had a beautiful handpainted lady slipper. The menu served was very fine consisting of five courses and the service was excellent, there being no confusion and the service being prompt and efficient in every way. The visitors highly complimented the ladies in this conection.

The following resolutions reported by the committee was unanimously adopted:

Report of the Resolutions Committee of the Ninth District Group of the Bankers' Association of Minnesota.

Representatives of the Ninth District Group of the Bankers' Association of Minnesota, assembled this 28th day of April, A .D., 1909, hereby resolve:

First, That we congratulate the Bankers, Farmers and Business Men in general of this state, and particularly the Ninth District, upon its prosperous conditions.

Second. We heartily indorse the bill just passed by the Minnesota Legislature, establishing a separate banking department.

Third. That in the selection of a Superintendent of Banks, and his Deputies, party politics be divorced entirely, and earnestly request Governor Johnson to make such appointments entirely on the merits and fitness of the candidate regardless of party affiliation.

Fourth. We heartily commend the candidacy of Mr. A. P. White of Bemidji, Minnesota, for Superintendent of Banks, and as recommended by the Executive Committee of the State Bankers' Association.

Fifth. We are opposed to the so-called Postal Savings Bank and Government Guaranty of Deposits.

Sixth. We heartily commend the able addresses of all the speakers and we especially commend the able address of George Welsh, State Commissioner of Immigration, and commend it to the Bankers of the Ninth District, to the end that the truh regarding the actual conditions existing in this District, be promulgated.

Seventh. We extend to the Bankers and Commercial Club of Crookston, our appreciation of the generous and kindly treatment and for the many courtesies extended.

Eighth. We extend to our retiring officers and to all those who took part in this convention, our sincere thanks.

—A. G. Anderson,
—L. W. Oberhauser,
—Lew A. Huntoon,
Committee on Resolutions.

When the resolutions were passed a rising vote of thanks were extended to the Ladies of the Presbyterian church for the splendid manner in which the banquet was served.

Turkish Women Will Benefit By Abdul Hamids Downfall

The Christian world it appears, has had a marked misconception of the character and attainments of the women of Turkey. Abdul Hamid the deposed Sultan, used every method possible to restrict familiar intercourse between the Moslems and the Christian people of his realm with the result that even the missionaries who have spent their lives in the religious and reform work in Turkey have but scant appreciation of the real nobility of character of the Turkish women.

During all these years in which the name of urk has been synonymous to the Western mind with duplicity, deceit and immorality, the women of Turkey have been working out their own emancipation and teaching their children that honor was paramount to power, and loyalty to their country was second only to their loyalty to their God. These women have done a wonderful work in teaching the Turkish youth the principles of love of liberty and justice and human progress. They have performed marvelous work in a quiet way, in framing conditions that have wrought the recent change in the government of Turkey and for the improvement of the conditions of the people.

Epert authorities in Turkish affairs state that when the Young Turks' movement was in its infancy the women worked for the revolution and conducted themselves admirably thruout the progress of the conspiracy. They carried dangerous papers under their veils, which are inviolable and cannot be touched. The Young Turks have had no more reliable and enthusiastic support than that of the women of Turkey who have given their very best to the advancement of the interests of their people.—St. Paul Dispatch.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM THURSDAYS DAILY

AUTOS AT ADA — The four Reo automobiles that were ordered for Norman county parties arrived in Ada Monday night direct from the factory. In the lot are a touring car for Editor Lightbourn of that place; a runabout for M. E. Dahl, of Twin Valley, and a touring car for D. C. Jones of Gary.

COMPLETE CHANGE AT BIJOU—The Gladstone Sisters, as dainty and clever a pair as ever appeared in vaudeville in Crookston will put on a complete change of program at the Bijou tonight. Lipman and Lewis will also change and the moving pictures will all be new.

DOING NICELY—Mrs. M. Sullivan of East Grand Forks mother of Deputy Sheriff Pat Sullivan of Polk county, who sustained grave injuries by a fall Tuesday morning, is doing as well as could be expected but will probably not be able to be up for some time yet.

NEW AGENT—James Parsons agent of the Great Northern railroad at Hannah will be transferred to East Grand Forks this week to take the place of Joseph Diven, who has resigned to go to Hill City, where he will have a position as superintendent of the Hill City & Minneapolis railway.

WAS OPERATED ON YESTERDAY—C. A. Blomburgh a former resident of this city, came down from his home stead in Eastern Marshall County last Friday and yesterday underwent an opertion for the removal of a tumor on his right arm. Altho very weak today he is improving as nicely as can be expected. He will remain here visiting relatives in the city until he is in good health.

CHAPERONED BANKERS— J. W. Wheeler boarded the Warroad train this morning being of the opinion that Messrs. C. L. Hanson, Dan Patterson, Bendix Holdahl, J. P. Hedberg, A. H. Fuss, T. S. Lundeval, Oscar Sjonheim and a few other bankers up that line needed a chaperon till they had got a good start on their way home. He went only as far as Red Lake Falls. G T. Hennings and W. L. Erickson were kept under close surveillance till Mr. Wheeler had them at the Red Lake Falls bank.

ANOTHER MAPLE LAKE COTTAGE—Dan Patterson the St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls banker who returned to his home at St. Hilaire this morning after attending the bankers' convention, announced that he had purchased the lumber for a fine new cottage at Maple Lake which will be erected at once and be ready for occupancy as soon as the weather is warm enough to make lake life desirable.

"LITTLE JIMMY" DEAD —James McGuire a well known hack driver for S. H. Ashley's barn at Grand Forks died at midnight last night. He had been ill with asthma for quite a while. The deceased was born in Hamilton, Ont., and he was 53 years old. He had been employed as a driver in Grand Forks for 18 years. Twenty-eight years ago he drove a hack at the funeral of President Garfield at Cleveland, Ohio, and he often recalled the event. He was a driver of exemplary habits and deportment and patrons often asked the management to send Jimmy as he was better known. He has a sister and a niece residing in Winnipeg and a brother ad other relatives in Hamilton. He spent nearly every winter at Hamilton. The funeral arrangements have not been completed. — Grand Forks Herald. "Jimmy" is known to scores of Crookston people who visit Grand Forks. He was a courteous, kindhearted man and a friend of everyone. He filled his litle sphere in a manner that makes his death the cause of genuine sorrow.

The annual meeting of the Fargo District of Swedish Mission church opened Tuesday evening and closed last evening. There was a large attendance and special sermons were preached by Rev. N. O. Grunden of Fargo, Rev. P. E. Gergstrom, Harwood, N. D., and Rev. N. Lehard, Detroit, Minn. The district is in a prosperous condition, with several new churches and congregations added during the past year.

Praise the Lord

Governor Johnson has signed the anti-cigarette bill making it a misdemeanor for any one to handle cigarettes in Minnesota except for interstate trade. The exit of the cigarette in the state is set for Aug. 1st. After that date any one caught selling or disposing of cigarettes in any manner will be liable to prosecutions and severe penalties. Praise the Lord, and His servants the Minnesota legislature.—Fairmont Sentinel.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

BRECKENRIDGE PASTOR HERE—Rev. Abramson of Breckenridge will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist church next Sunday and will represent that church as pastor thru the Sunday School convention.

VISITING FORKS — Bert Ruettell left this morning for Grand Forks to participate in the ski tournament. Kind friends at the depot warned him to be sure and get skis and skates on.

BOUGHT A SNOW PLOW—L. W Larson left this morning to inspect his farm near Fosston. He took a snow plow along and says he will scoop the snow off and start his grain drills at once.

GOOD FOR WHEAT—Supt. Sheffield went west this morning. He stated that the snow did not bother him in the least as it was the finest thing in the world for the wheat which has been seeded, and he states that there is a big percentage of the wheat planted thruout this section.

TALKING TO HIMSELF — Will Keenan left this morning for Warren talking to himself about the weather clerk. He took the fur collar off his coat a short time ago banking on the prediction of Mayor McPhee of an early spring and now threatens a damage suit.

NO POLL TAX AT MOORHEAD—At Moorhead the city banks have agreed to pay two per cent interest on daily balances on city funds. The city council has decided to levy no poll tax for this year as the amount to be received from the banks as interest will more than offset the amount which would have been received as poll tax.

DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT —An incipient blaze at Mrs. Boh's residence 608 Pine street, called out the fire department last night. No damage was done, tho considerable smoke was caused from the fire smouldering in a piece of carpet in the basement. It was probably started by the dropping of a match early in the evening.

REGARDING THE WEATHER —Those who have been spending the winter or a portion of it on the Isle of Pines, Mexico and California have about all returned and bring great reports of the balmy weather, blooming flowers, etc. However the people who remained here are firm in their convictions that when it comes to fine weather the Red River Valley—Oh, piffle.

WESTERN HENS AT WORK— The hens of the Middle West have been working so industriously during the past week that eggs are now coming into New York at the rate of 8,200,000 a day. As this is considerably more than New York can use, the surplus is being put into cold storage for future consumption. This great influx of eggs has sent the wholesale price down to about 23 cents a dozen.

ENROUTE TO CANADA—Reginus Johnson, Christ Elofson, Emil Stormon and their families were in the city last evening from Bagley and left this morning for the Saskatchewan Valley, Canada where they will locate on claims. Carl Thorson of Bagley has just returned from that section where he filed on a claim. The parties who went last evening shipped several carloads of stock, machinery and other goods several days ago.

STIRRING UP ENTHUSIASM—E. W. Savage representative of the American Sunday School Union left this morning for Thief River Falls and Germantown where he expects to revive a few Sunday Schools and boost for the state Sunday school convention which opens here next Tuesday, May 4th for a three days' session. He will return in time to attend the convention.

AFTER THE BUSINESS—E. Miller general agent of the Acme Harvester Co. The independent binder manufacturing concern, which is at war with the International Harvester Co., spent the night in the city and left this morning for McIntosh where he expected to close a deal with Carpenter and Webster for a full line of machinery manufactured by this concern. The Acme concern was recently reorganized and Mr. Zollers, who did much to make Wm. Deering famous as a harvester manufacturer is at the head of the reorganized concern.

FARM HOUSE BURNS—The farm residence of G. E. Felsing of Woodside burned to the ground Monday forenoon. The fire started from the roof and when first noticed flames were shooting from under the shingles The terrific wind caused the flames to spread rapidly and within a few minutes the whole house was enveloped in flames. A few articles were saved from the burning structure but the major part of the household goods and wearing apparel went up in smoke along with the house. Had the wind been blowing in the opposite direction it is very likely Mr. Felsing's barn and other buildings would have suffered an alike fate. The house was insured in the Garfield Farmers' Insurance Co., but we are unable to state for how much.

ALEX THOMPSON APES MINISTERS —Friends of Alex Thompson are having considerable sport with him these days accusing him of trying to break into the ministerial class. Following the example set by Rev. W. S. Ward, Rev. C. C. Warner and Rev. Adolph Salveson he has had his mustache amputated, presumably following the example of Dan Sullivan of East Grand Forks who palmed himself off as a priest during a session of the North Dakota legislature when the fight was being put up against resubmission about 10 or 12 years ago.

LOCATE IN SEATTLE—Joe Harris and Frank Horton have left for Seattle where they intend locating permanently. Mr. Horton, employed for years as a marble cutter in Crookston, has secured a fine position in the same line there at a big advance in salary. Deck Horton who has been attending to business here for the past two weeks will leave in a day or two for Seattle where he has been doing some real estate hustling since he left Crookston.

According to the concensus of opinion of about 60 assessors from all parts of Polk county, who were in the city yesterday getting their assessment books and special instructions from County Auditor Flaten, the snow which has been falling since last evening will be a great thing for the wheat crop this year.

This afternoon shortly before six o'clock if the train is on schedule time a special train bearing 450 soldiers from Ft. Brady, Mich., will pass thru Crookston enroute to the Pacific coast their destination being San Francisco. They came to St. Paul via the Soo and were there transferred to the Great Northern. Many residents of Crookston plan on being at the depot to give the blue coats a cheer. It is poscsible that the special will not reach Crookston till after supper but it is expected shortly before.

Mrs. Arne Bergene left this morning for Bemidji where she was called by the serious injury of her son oOlaf who is working in a sawmill there. He is in the hospital but the extent of his injuries are not known.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

TO NORTH DAKOTA—T. R. Johnstone left this morning for North Dakota points where he was called on business.

PROBATE BUSINESS—Attorney J. A. Hendricks returned to Fosston last evening after spending the day here attending to some probate business before Judge Morken.

VISITING FISHER—Oliver Granum went to Fisher this morning and after attending to some business matters there will proceed to drive to the N. P. and return on the 2 o'clock train this afternoon.

RED LAKE CO. TEACHERS MEET—A meeting of the Red Lake county Teachers' Association will be held at Thief River Falls Friday and Saturday May 21 and 22. It is expected that many prominent speakers will be secured to make addresses before the meeting.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL— Once a year the Warren Fire department gives a grand ball. This custom has been followed without a miss for sixteen years and on the 14th of next month the seventeenth of these dances will be held. Several Crookston firemen expect to attend.

SEEDS OATS ONLY—Garret Smith one of the leading farmers of Euclid spent yesterday in the city. He states that he has 10 acres of oats seeded. He has raised oats almost exclusively for several years. Last fall he sold over 3,000 bushels of oats at 50 and 55 cents per bushel, part of them netting him $27.50 per acre. He will sow no wheat this year at all.

LITTLE CHILD BURIED—The funeral of Bertha Helen Bond, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bond was held yesterday from the family residence, South Main street, Rev. T. T. Ove, officiating. The little one passed away Thursday after noon, aged 13 days, after a short illness, spinal meningitis being the cause of death. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of many friends.

AFTER GOPHERS—Here is something for the boys out of town to take notice of: Up to last Friday Oscar and Margot Ekeberg of Brandsvold had trapped 24 gophers—and were still busy. Since the county offers a bounty of five cents each for these pests, a number of wide awake boys like these have made gopher hunting a business for their spare moments. All required is the front feet of the dead animals. These can be presented to the chairman of the town board in order to secure the bounty.

FIRST REPORT ERRONEOUS —The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. Morck of Los Angeles, Cal., and formerly of Warren, were rejoicing over the news received that they were the happy parents of twin babies, a fine boy and girl, but now comes a later report that the increase in the family was due to two chickens hatched from one egg. Verily, verily, we commend to Mr. and Mrs. Morck St. Paul's definition of faith as "being the substance of things hoped for and the evidence of things not seen."

WANTED TO KNOW—The writer of a letter received by the clerk of the district court yesterday wants to know whether thereis a law in this state which forbids intermarriage between cousins and between uncles and nieces. Now the genial district clerk is trying to figure out some tactful and sympathetic way of answering the query. The old cousin game was bad enough—especially when it was the girl's only excuse—but the uncle and niece stunt!

COLD IN CITIES—Hugh Thompson with Harm and Oeschger of East Grand Forks in the capacity of bookkeeper passed thru Crookston this morning enroute home from a day's business trip to St. Paul. He says the weather was cold and damp there several inches of snow having fallen there yesterday making the streets very slushy. He also reports business rather quiet there since the legislature adjourned. He called on Billy Franklin and other former residents of East Grand Forks now located in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

ARE COMING BACK— Walter J. Leden who it will be remembered formerly lived in this township, having been postmaster at Ingalls a few years ago, and left his farm and moved to Canada writes to A. C. Kvennes that he is going to move back here in June. Gunder Skramstad has also announced his intention of moving back to his farm this season some time. And still another is Wm. Hodap who went to Canada leaving a Rollis homestead who was here a short time ago and informed the writer that he intends to move back to Marshall county after he proves up in Canada. Yes, they are coming back. And when the drainage now projected becomes an established reality they will be coming back, not by ones, twos and threes, but by the score and hundred. —Middle River Pioneer.

HALLOCK BOYS RAISE POTATOES—From now on until the snow flies you will hear of nothing else but the talk of potatoes. Every available vacant lot in this town will be utilized for the purpose of raising potatoes. The boys of this town are busy organizing a company with sufficient capital to pay for seed potatoes and cash in advance for rent of vacant lots or piece of ground conveniently near the town that can be used for raising potatoes. This is a splendid idea on the part of the boys and we hope they will carry it out. It would also benefit the town as the vacant lots would show up much better covered with potato vines than as they now appear, full of thistles and other foul weeds. Here is an opportunity for the boys to show whether they have any business ability or not. This is really an opportunity knocking at their own door and if managed right will yield them handsome returns. It will also give them some real practical experience in handling soil and managing actual business. We hope that the enthusiasm shown now in this enterprise will not grow cold when weeds and bugs make their appearance among the potato plants. Now boys show us what you can do.—Hallock News.

NORTH LINE BALL LEAGUE FORMED

A. E. Brekke and Paulson of Argyle and A. A. Dickenson of Stephen were in Hallock on Monday for the purpose of making arrangements for a schedule of baseball games for the coming season. A home team league was organized in which the following teams will play, Argyle, Stephen, Hallock and possibly Kennedy and Pembina. A. Bennett of Hallock was elected president and A. E. Brekke, secretary of the league. The first schedule game will take place on May 15.

CRIME MAY BE MURDER

CONDITION OF WILLIAM GILL, STABBED BY GRUBB, CAUSING MUCH ALARM

ONE WOUND IN HIS BACK REACHED THE LUNG AND IT IS A VERY SERIOUS CASE

From Friday's Daily—

While physicians have given out reassuring reports there is great alarm among friends of Brakeman William Gill, who was stabbed by Watchman George R. Grubb at Sarles Tuesday evening. Gill was stabbed in the back of the neck in the shoulder and below the shoulder and there was a slash nearly all the way across the back, which took 16 stitches to close

It is the wound below the shoulder which is causing alarm. It penetrated Gill's lung, it has been ascertained. His splendid constitution is in his favor. He was in excellent shape, physically, when wounded, having never used liquor or tobacco.

If Gill should die Grubb will face a charge of having committed one of the most cowardly murders in the history of North Dakota.

Grubb Furnishes Bond

The preliminary hearing of Grubb was concluded yesterday afternoon and he was held for trial in district court of Cavalier couty. His bond was fixed at $500 and he was successful in renewing the cash bond which kept him at liberty since shortly after the murder attempt was made.

At the hearing it developed that the trouble had started over the fact that Grubb wanted the coaches held on their arrival from the south until he could put on coal. Gill did not want to wait as he was tired after the long trip, and he suggested that Grubb put the coal in the coaches in the morning before the train started for Lakota. Gill gave the signal to go ahead to the roundhouse. He jumped on the engine and Grubb started after him, still arguing about the matter of coaling the coaches. The engineer made him get away from the engine and ride in a coach. When the switch was reached Gill jumped off and after attending it it jumped on the last coach. He stood facing outward from the coach while he was in that position Grubb attacked him with the knife his intention evidently being to murder him.

Strong Case Against Accused

At the hearing yesterday Grubb was represented by George R. Price a Langdon attorney. It was a foregone conclusion that he would be held for the crime as the state's case was com plete. Gill's testimony was taken as he lay in the hotel where he is being cared for.

In railway circles there is a good deal of unfavorable comment on the bond being fixed atsuch a low figure. It was pointed out that a bond of thousands, at least should have been required in such a serious case.

HALVOR OLSON IS INSANE

ORDERED COMMITTED TO FERGUS FALLS HOSPITAL THIS MORNING

WAS SINGLE AND HAS RESIDED AROUND MENTOR FOR MANY YEARS

From Friday's Daily—

This morning Halvor Olson a single man near middle age, was declared insane by the examining physicians in Judge Morken's court and the probate judge ordered him committed to the insane hospital at Fergus Falls He will probably be taken down tonight.

Neighbors filed information of insanity. Olson had been acting queerly for some time. His parents reside in the old country and he became imbued with the idea that he had committed some crime there and could not return and that he was being pursued by enemies constantly.

E.D. CHILDS SELLING N. YAKIMA LANDS

WILL VISIT CROOKSTON SOON AND BOOM THE YAKIMA COUNTRY

E. D. Childs who has been located at North Yakima for some time past and who has a fine residence and a fruit farm on Knob Hill, has written his brother City Clerk A. M. Childs that he will visit Crookston in about a week or ten days and will remain here some little time. He is greatly enthused over North Yakima and the tributary country and has secured a large list of lands which he will endeavor to dispose of during his trip to this section.

MUCH OPPOSITION TO OPEN RED RIVER

Te proposition of making the Red River navigable from Belmont to Fargo will meet with strenuous opposition on the part of a number of Minnesota towns just across the line. Several of these places have built bridges which will be removed in case the stream is declared navigable and as they draw considerable trade from the North Dakota side their objection to the plan is quite natural. A public meeting has been called by the government to be held at Fargo on April 29 for the purpose of discussing the subject. The villages particularly affected are Climax, Nielsville, Halstad, Hendrum, Perley, George town and Kragness. On this side of the river (in Traill county at least) the public has taken but litle interest in the matter.—Hillsboro Banner.

The Law And The Coal Trust

We fancy that there will be some people in the country whose irreverent sense of humor will lead them to laugh when they take in the meaning of yesterday's decision of the United States supreme court on the "commodity clause" of the Hepburn railroad rate law, says the Duluth Herald.

Congress passed a law forbidding coal carrying railroads to own the coal they transport. It was a good law, too, because it was aimed at a practice upon which the insatiable coal trust was built. Obviously, when the big coal miners were in control of the coal-carrying roads, there wasn't much show for independent miners who didn't own any railroads. The trust had been formed, was busy bleeding the people, and it was a good deal like locking the barn door after the horse was stolen, but it was better late than never.

The lower court held the law invalid, and the government took it up to the supreme court, when the belated decision was handed down yesterday afternoon, a hasty reading of it made it appear a government victory. A more careful reading shows that it is also a railroad and coal trust victory, and this victory is far more important than the government's.

The supreme court says that the government has a right to enact such a law, and there is occasion for gratitude that the court has conceded this privilege. Under the law, says the court, railroads can't own the commodities they transport. But, says the court in the next breath, they can own stock in the companies that actually own the coal. It doesn't say how much they can own so presumably they can own it all. They can't own the coal, but they can own the companies that do own the coal, and if that isn't the same thing when it comes to results it certainly isn't very radically different.

Some of the coal railroads already control their coal mines that way, and they will not have to change. Others, which have actually owned the coal, have been preparing stock among the railroad stockholders. All they will have to do is to keep on with their plans.

There is one gleam of hope in the decision—and but one. The court having graciously conceded the right of congress to make such regulations, it seems possible that congress may also have the right to prohibit coal-carrying railroads from owning stock in coal mines, or at least from owning a controlling interest. The attempt is worth making, if congress can be induced to make it.

For The Betterment Of Mankind

Crookston has today a gathering of men and women, some veterans in the work, others just beginners but all fired with an enthusiasm born of a desire to make the world better for their having lived—fired with a steadfast purpose to make mankind better and happier.

The 51st annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association which opened a three days' session in this city this morning has brought together an asemblage of people whose high purpose in line makes them a tremendous power for good, both as individuals in the communities which they reside in, and as members of an organization which is exerting a powerful influence for good thruout the land.

We heartily welcome them to Crookston. This city, located in one corner of the state, was highly honored by the decision a year ago to hold the convention here. It was a recognition of the importance of this portion of the state and a tacit acknowledgment that Northwestern Minnesota was interested in the great work being done and willing to lend great influence in furthering the work being done.

Many great organizations, with perhaps as high a purpose as the Sunday School association are not so well known to the general public because the rank and file are not in as close touch as with the Sunday school workers. The Sunday school is close to the home. It accomplishes great things for the betterment and purity of the home. It reaches communities where the influence of a church are not felt. Scattered thru the remote sections there are scores of Sunday schools where there are no churches and where preaching services are seldom held.

So thoroly organized is the work now that there are very few communities where there are no Sunday schools. The work is done along well defined lines. Instead of the old haphazzard methods the best minds in the land have evolved plans for systematic work whereby interest is aroused which makes the Sunday Schools live, vigorous organizations exerting an influence for good that is felt in every community in the land.

To bring such conditions about means a vast amount of work on the part of energetic and self-sacrificing men and women. We welcome them to Crookston. The addresses that will be made and the discussions which will follow mean more effective work the coming year than ever before. It means that this great force fighting the good fight of faith, having for its object the spreading of the gospel, will be better equipped for effective work by the exchange of thoughts and the enthusiasm which is born of such great gatherings which impress upon all the vast importance of the work.

Many delegates have journeyed hundreds of miles in order to participate. May the efforts they have expended be rewarded threefold. May they return to their homes at the conclusion of the convention feeling that it was good for them to have been here. May they return with an enthusiasm that will be contagious and fire others with a greater desire to take an active interest and display individual effort to do their full share in the great task volunatrily as assumed by the Sunday school worker.

And may this great gathering of earnest men and women serve to leave its imprint upon the community which has been honored by its realization of what the Sunday school is doing and what it has still to accomplish.

In conclusion let us not forget that Sunday Schools cannot be run without money. Let us all remember that when we send our children to Sunday school to see that they are provided with a contribution commensurate with our means. The object of the Sunday school is not the collection by any means. However it is but just and right that we who are receiving the benefit should do our share. Many who do not attend Sunday school send their children. They want them there. They know that it is a good place for children to be. Then let us do our share towards contributing to the support of one of the greatest and grandest organizations for the betterment of all mankind.

Veto Endorsed

There is compartatively little criticism of Governor Johnson's veto of the tonnage tax even in southern Minnesota. The trouble is that very few people understand the principal involved in a tax of this nature and most of those insistent for the tax predicated, their belief on the theory that it was a deserved "swipe" at the steel trust. However as the burden of the tax would fall most heavily on the independent mine owner and the "innocent bystander" it is but fair to ask that such a radical change in taxation methods be postponed for a little while. The farmers of the Red River Valley find a market for many of their products in the iron country, and they are particularly interested in preventing a season of depression on the ranges.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

A Fine Joke

The public was presumed to be satisfied when it was proposed to reduce the tariff on rough lumber $1 per thousand but they very soon saw thru the sham. The only rough lumber imported is by the manufacturers which they are interested in securing as cheaply as possible but as soon as they run it thru a planing mill it becomes finished lumber and ready to sell to consumers and on all other such lumber the Payne bill provides a prohibitive tariff. A nice little joke.—Fairmont Sentinel.

STATE PRESS

Virginia Virginian: The people of Southern Minnesota do not understand that there are living, breathing men and women in this section of the state. Closing their eyes to all else. they look upon the United States Steel corporation as a monster to be crushed. They do not realize that in crushing the monster of their imagination they will crush also rising, flourishing communities. They would render a part of their state less prosperous and retard its advancement not knowing that they would injure the whole state and consequently themselves. It is certainly up to Northern Minnesota to get busy. Let the people in the southern part of the state understand the true effect of such measures at the Bjorge bill and the demand for a law of the kind will be so feeble that it will not be heard in the halls of the legislature.

Stillwater Gazzette: Many women declare that the comic page of the newspapers is responsible for many pranks and has a bad influence on the younger children. The exaggerated colored supplements have outlived their usefulness.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: By the way under the Constitution, Northern Minnesota should not pay any state taxes. Taxation without representation is unjust and unlawful.

Foley Independent: Someone has suggested that the legislature be cut down and the terms of members lengthened to six years in the house and eight years in the senate. For instance, the salary grabbing bunch! Wouldn't the people rejoice in the fact that legislation for the next eight years would continue on a level with that of the session just closed? —Royalton Banner.

Elk River Star-News: The legislative session which closed last week costs the taxpayers $228,000 nearly half as much more than sessions in the nineties cost. Public officials are getting more and more extravagant with public funds as time passes. The time will come when a halt will have to be called.

Lake Crystal Union: Robert Dunn of the Princeton Union is loud in praise for Governor Johnson. This is certainly magnanimous on the part of Mr. Dunn. It takes courage for one to forgive his political enemy as well as for one to do some other heroic act.

Sandstone Courier: The southern part of the state seemed willing to make the northern part pay all the taxes, but were not willing to allow a just representation from that district. The south now holds the power but it will be different in a few years.

Aphorisms From Depew's Seventy-Fifth Birthday Speech

(Delivered Monday, April 26, before the Montauk club of Brooklyn)

Longevity and happiness are in continuing to the extent of your strength the work which is most congenial and which you have been accustomed to do easily.

Retirement for rest and recreation usually means that apprehension brings on the troubles you fear, and the reaper gathers you in because you are overripe and dried up.

The birthdays of youth are passed in trying to divine the future; of age with reminiscences.

If political currents were always placid, and religious movements ever calm and scientific thought and effort bound by tradition or fear, tyranny, bigotry and ignorance would hold in perpetual bondage liberty of thought and action.

The anxieties of youth in love for a career and with disappointments are ever present, Age can be serene.

Laugh with your friends, at your friends and with them at yourself is sane philosophy.

My misfortunes have been my greatest blessings. My most serious troubles have been about things which never happened.

My pride in the past is that I never knowingly said or did anything against anybody which would leave a sting of pain.

The great authors of all time, the nation builders, the leaders of mighty movements for the advancement of humanity have been of slow growth and have reached mature age with continuing and increasing strength.

The Bosses Vs. Hughes And The People

The stage is being set in New York state for a very pretty battle. On one side are the party bosses, drawn up in solid phalanx, refusing to treat or to yield an inch; on the other is Governor Hughes, appealing to the people.

The party bosses in the New York state legislature have rejected Governor Hughes' reform plans in toto. His proposal for a primary election bill was decisively rejected while his plans for the control of telegraph and telephone companies and for a new charter for Greater New York have been effectively put to one side. In order to spike one of the governor's most effective guns, the legislature created several commissions which will investigate all these subjects and report at the next session. These commissions of investigation, the bosses think, will prevent the governor from calling an extra session.

The battle is already joined. Before the legislature was half way thru its program of defeating his plans and tying his hands, Governor Hughes was at the city of Rochester addressing a vest gathering of the people of that city upon the primary election problem. Several other addresses of the same kind had at that time already been planned for. There is every reason to believe that the governor will now devote himself directly to the task of explaining to the people just what was the program of reform which the legislature rejected. If he does that the bosses have need to strengthen their line of battle at every point. They will find that they have enlisted for a war and not for a single battle; that every success they gain will be at a heavy loss in men, and that victory will rest upon their colors only after the most desperate fighting if at all.

How, Governor Hughes can fight the West knows. His speeches were the most convincing delivered in the presidential campaign last fall. His addresses were very few in number, but they won votes right and left. The bosses fight on the defensive against an enemy who is thrice armed, for his cause is just.—Duluth Herald.

Editor Hunt's Education

We have just learned that the reason that Lattimore and Swanson had to mark their brilliant? "communications" of half a column in length "to be continued" was because it took them so much time to correct the errors in the Sunbeam, for which we are very sorry, but we attended the state University between two plow handles and graduated with honor, back of a farmer's barn behind a manure fork, and our office pup got at our old Webster dictionary and destroyed it. So now when we have anything to say, we just crawl up on the type stool and "lash it to um" and if our high toned gentlemen don't understand what we mean, they can ask our farmer subscribers and they will tell them, and they will not have to go far to find one, as they found them plentiful enough to suit them on the last election day.—The Sunbeam.

The signs of the times seem to indicate that religion is on the wane; but this is not the truth. We are all just as religious as ever we were; some of us more. We could not live without religion any more than we could live without love, says Eternal Progress. We all have souls, or, to speak the exact truth, we are all souls and the real life or religion cannot be separated from the real life of the soul. When the soul feels the result is religion; though all souls may not feel in the same way. Some souls are feeling after God; other souls are feeling after the spirit of things, but in each case the real object is the same. We are all trying to find that interior oneness with infinite life, which we know will bring peace; and however we may proceed, we must admit that it is strictly a religious process. We must also admit that the more religious we are in this higher, more sublime sense, the more beautiful is life. And after all has been said and done what is it that we all want? Nothing less than life—real life—the most beautiful and the most masterful life that we can possibly find.

ROOSEVELTS SLAY LIONS

FOUR BAGGED THE FIRST DAY BY EX-PRESIDENT'S HUNTING PARTY

EX-PRESIDENT PROVES HE IS A DEAD SHOT BY USING ONLY THREE BULLETS

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 1—Four lions are trophies of the ex-president's camp in the Mau hills tonight and the 200 or more native followers are joining with the American party in celebration of the unusually good luck.

The lions were bagged yesterday and Roosevelt's mighty gun brought three of them to earth, each on the first shot. Thus one of the ex-president's fondest ambitions had been realized. and he is proud too, that the fourth of the jungle kings fell before the rifle of his son Kermit, who, however took three shots to kill his quarry.

Both father and son are jubiliant. It was their first lion hunt and so magnificent a kill was far beyond their expectations but lions have been plentiful in the hills for the last month, and the English hunter, F. C. Selous has been out for several days laying plans for their extinction.

CUPID WON OUT DESPITE IRATE DAD

Cupid played in great luck yesterday in the case of Alpheus Hastings and Esther Brunk both of Elmerado who came here to be married. It was after 4 o'clock when they appeared at the court house and some of the offices were closed. Judge Hassell was about to leave when the bridal party appeared. They had misunderstood directions as to the place where a license could be secured and waited in the clerk of court's office for quite a while. They were directed just in time to the right office.

The bridegroom was somewhat nervous as the bride's father had opposed the match and he feared he might show up any minute. He did not say anything about the opposition until after the knot was tied. He had Judge Hassel perform the ceremony just as soon as the license was issued.

The bridegroom gave his age as 21 and the bride stated that she was 18. They were just old enough to get the license without the consent of their parents.—Grand Forks Herald.

Hard Work as Medicine

Great responsibility seems to be a powerful health protector. People in very responsible positions are rarely sick. When a man feels that great results are depending on his personal effort, illness seems to keep away from him as a rule, at least until he has accomplished his task. Another good health protector is Golden Grain Belt Beer. This beverage is as good for the health as it is to the taste and keen appetite comes with its use. Serve at mealtime and enjoy good health. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

And when a woman tells how successful her husband is in business it's usually a safe bet that he isn't.

All boys imagine they will do just as they please as soon as they are 21 but some of them get married.

KENNEL AT MAPLE LAKE

LOUIS WEILER NOTED DOG TRAINER WITH WM. FERGUSON

ESTABLISH SAND POINT KENNEL AND POULTRY FARM—SPORTSMEN INTERESTED

From Monday's Daily—

The sportsmen of this country will be pleased to know that the veteran professional dog handler Mr. Louis Weiler who for the past 20 years has been handling field trial and hunting dogs has located at Maple Lake the popular summer resort. He with W. M. Ferguson who represents the Peters Cartridge Co., has started what will be known as the Sand Point Kennel and Poultry farm. They have at present time in their kennel, as fine a string of Chesapeake, Irish water spaniels and setters as can be found anywhere. The Spaniels being their specialty as they can be raised and trained at home, there being no better duck pass in the west than Ferguson's Point.

They have at this time two litters of Irish and Chesapeake spaniels and in near future will have some field trial prospects from "Two Spot Whitestone" and "Trapshot." The Whitestone strain is world renowned, she being a magnificent specimen of the field trial class.

"Trap Shot" is a "Toney Boy" strain winner of 2nd in membership stake in Dakota Trials last year. A dog of perfect type and phenomenal endurance. Quoting the American Field's Representative "Dr. Bruett's" remarks at last years trials, "no dog carries a license to out-leg that fellow." The longer he is down the greater his speed seems to be.

Mr. Weiler will take outside duck dogs to train, besides furnishing registered spaniel puppies or matured dogs. We certainly wish them success in their new venture, and if honest, conscientious dealings will furnish the goods, their future success is guaranteed.

COURTING BEFORE JUDGE GOSSMAN

MUNICIPAL COURT IN CROOKSTON TO TRY EAST GRAND FORKS CASES

East Grand Forks has taken to going away from home to do its courting now. The Minneapolis Brewing company Saturday served papers on Dan Sullivan in an ejectment suit for the possession of the property known as "The Maine" and the case comes up tomorrow before Judge Gossman of the municipal court of this city. F. C. Massee appears for the plaintiff and H. A. Bronson for the defendant.

On the same date another case from East Grand Forks in which Max Rabinovich, of Grand Forks is the plaintiff in an ejectment suit against Emma Starling of East Grand Forks. An identical case was recently tried before a jury in the municipal court in that city with the same plaintiff and defendant and the jury gave the defendant a verdict. All the municipal courts in the county, however, have jurisdiction anywhere in the county and the Grand Forks man may try his case in them all if he does not get a verdict before.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

WILL SELL VALLEY VIEW—Judge Watts has ordered a sale of the plant of the Valley View of East Grand Forks to be held May 25th. He has appointed Hugh Dunlevy as receiver. The action was brought about thru a petition by Editor Stember of the firm of Stoughton & Stember publishers of the Valley View and made necessary by the continued illness of Mr. Stoughton who has been a patient at the Fergus Falls asylum for the past year with no signs of improvement.

WILL LOCATE HERE — Tracey Pape, the representative in this territory for the Oliver Typewriter Co., is expected in the city the latter part of the week with his family and will locate permanently in Crookston as this will be a more central point and will obviate the necessity of going to Minneapolis every time he wants to take a meal at home. This makes another family for Crookston. They will reside in a house leased on North Front street.

Saturday evening a man employed by a local firm indulged too freely in "joy water". He fell up against the nickle in the slot shoe string machine in front of C. Riedesel's and embraced it. Both fell together and the glass in the machoine was smashed. This morning Judge Gossman talked to the masher and the talk cost $5 and costs.

The train from Duluth passenger, due here at 7 o'clock this morning did not arrive till about 3 o'clock this afternoon having been delayed as the result of an ore train at an early hour this morning in the Range country.

A freight crashed into the ore train tearing up a long piece of track which had to be repaired before the passenger could pass.

WRIST IS IMPROVING — S. H. Withey is getting about pretty spry these days. His fractured wrist is not bothering him very much tho he will be carrying it about in a sling for some weeks to come.

WHEAT BUYER HERE—J. P. Bagstad the wheat buyer at Harold station is spending the day in the city attending to some business matters. He says seeding operations are progressing nicely and that the present warm weather means a rapid start for the grain.

WANT ANOTHER NICKEL — A movement is under consideration by the union barbers of East Grand Forks looking to an additional charge of a nickel to patrons who have their necks shaved, instead of including this without extra charge as now, when shaving a customer.

NEW LOCATION — Geo. Darkow who has been operating a barber shop on the west side of Main street has removed to the basement of the Rauch block. He will install new chairs and intends making many other improvements. The location is an excellent one and he will do a much better business than in the old stand.

STATE LIBRARIAN HERE—State Librarian John E. King was in the city this morning enroute from St. Paul to Red Lake Falls where he will spend a few days attending to business matters. He reports something like Sabbath quietness since the adjournment of the legislature and the state officials have all been drawing long breaths. Regarding the Kitchen cabinet he had nothing to say.

LAID TO REST—The funeral service over the remains of Mrs. Annie Mickelson were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from the Synod church Rev. Salveson officiating. The services were largely attended and the remain were laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. August Miller, Andrew Ellingboe, N. J. Rustad John Cornelius, H. B. Tveten and Ole Storholm.

OLD TIMER HERE—Jack Goodwin one of the Civil War veterans but about the livest wire among the old guard, is spending the day in the city. Mayor McPhee appointed a special plain clothes policeman to keep tab on him during the convention but when Mr. Goodwin discovered this fact he drove home after paying his compliments to President Misner of the Commercial Club. Mr. Goodwin was a member of the same Wisconsin Company as City Clerk A. M. Childs during the war.

VONDERBECK WAS WRATHY—"Fire, Fire!" shouted a well known citizen last evening as he saw flames issue from the C. C. Hoch saloon. Capt. Vonderbeck was just coming out of the Oyster Bay Restaurant and shouted back, "Where?" "In the Town Pump" yelled the excited fire discoverer. "Don't get smart" said the captain "or you will get run in for giving a false alarm" and then the big policeman bethought himself that the Town Pump happened to be a saloon and turned in the alarm.

FINE NEW BUS—John Fisher the Hotel Crookston bus driver is proud as a peacock today He had his spotless white chargers hitched to a brand new bus which just arrived from Janesville, Wis., and which was lettered at the McKinnon shops here. It is a very nifty affair with fine leather cushions and a regular hack seat in front and a great improvement over the old bus, being much lighter and easier to ride in. John also blossomed out in a spanking new uniform and looks like a page to King Alphonso. He is one of the best known and most popular bus drivers in the North west and stands ace high with the commercial travellers and other patrons of the Hotel Crookston.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

CONDITIONS FINE—Chas. Moeckel took a drive in the country this morning and reports conditions in the country the best ever saw during seeding time. He predicts a bumper crop.

FERGUS FALLS OPENS COURT—

Many litigants, lawyers and witnesses passed through the city last night enroute for Fergus Falls, where a session of the U. S. Federal court convenes today. The fact that most of the business before the Fergus Falls court comes from east and north of us emphasizes the reasons for holding the sessions in this city when the federal building is completed. Major Mix and Guy Aubul from this city went down last night. . . W. Smith and wife and Jos. C. Roy, of Red Lake, were among the number that went.

CONDUCTOR HILBY RECOVERING

J. H. Hilby, who for years had run as passenger and freight conductor on the Dakota division, is recovering nicely in a Tacoma hospital from wounds in his hip and shoulder, which were inflicted by a crazy Italian. The Italian passenger was traveling on the train from Tacoma to Portland. Conductor Hilby was in charge. When the Italian flourished a revolver he attempted to quiet him and in doing so was wounded. While his wounds will keep him off the road for quite a while there is no doubt that he will recover. The Italian has been jailed and will be tried for his crime if it appears that he is not insane.

PRIEST FOR EAST GRAND FORKS

Rev. James Hogan, of Virginia City, Minn., has been appointed by Bishop McGolrick as pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic church in East Grand Forks, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Father Green. Father Hogan, in a letter to Judge Sullivan, of that city, yesterday stated that he will arrive in East Grand Forks on Saturday next to assume charge of the work and will hold regular services on Sunday next. The pastor is a young man of splendid reputation and is known as one of the ablest priests in the northern part of the state. Sacred Heart church is fortunate indeed in securing such a minister to look after its spiritual wants.

Mr. Arthur Wasshausen, the new director of the Crookston Band arrived in the city last evening, coming via Grand Forks and will meet with the members of the Crookston Band in the Marin Hall for a short practice this evening at 7:45 and get a line on the conditions that exist.

Mr. Wasshausen is full of enthusiasm and the Crookston band is entering upon a new season of activity and success. He comes highly recommended, is of a very pleasing personality and will be given the most hearty support of the general public.

Every member of the Crookston band should be at the meeting this evening promptly at 7:30. Mr. Wasshausen is a brother-in-law of Mr. Bucklen, who resides on the Chabot farm west of the city, and is a guest there for the present.

A man may be honest because there is money in it, or he may be otherwise for a similar reason.

The more a man can be a hero to his mother, the less he can be to anybody else.

FOLEY'S [illegible]

EMBEZZLER FOOLS SHERIFF

Jackson (Minn.) Physician Escapes by Feigning Illness.

Kansas City, May 6.—Dr. Frank R. Hanson, who is wanted in Jackson, Minn., on a charge of forging a check for $8,000, escaped from Henry Terhaar, sheriff of Jackson county, Minn., at the Blossom House by feigning illness.

Six weeks ago Hanson disappeared from Jackson, where he has been a practicing physician. He was arrested last week in Colorado Springs and Sheriff Terhaar went after him.

Hanson's apparent illness when they reached Kansas City caused the sheriff to take him to the hotel rather than contiuue on the journey.

SOCIALIST STIRS PEACE CONGRESS

Usual Calm Deliberations Rudely Disturbed.

FINALLY TURNED DOWN

Introduces Resolution Declaring Socialism the "Greatest Peace Force in the World" and Urges Its Adoption—Convention Refuses to Thus Emphasize the Views of Any Faction of Delegates.

Chicago, May 6.—The peaceful deliberations of the peace congress were rudely disturbed when A. M. Simon of the Chicago Daily Socialist attempted to secure formal recognition of socialism as the "greatest peace force in the world."

It happened after the congress had officially adopted a platform in strict keeping with its well known principles along broad lines, carefully avoiding matters of sectional or political controversy.

Mr. Simon arose with 400 words of "whereases" and "be it resolved," outlining socialistic beliefs and accomplishments and attributing the causes of war to "the exploitation of labor and the impoverishment of those who toil."

Great confusion followed. The regular platform had been read and amidst the turmoil aroused by the Simon resolutions there were repeated calls for the original question. On a viva voce vote the report of the resolutions committee carried unanimously. The question then recurred to the adoption of the socialist resolutions.

Secretary Melendy arose to state that he thought industrial causes of war should be recognized and likewise the efforts of those organizations which make for peace, but he could not vote for the resolutions as presented. He suggested a substitute resolution less radically worded.

Ready to Amend Resolutions.

"If there is any way by which this recognition of which Mr. Melendy speaks can be secured I am sure that the socialists and trade unions will be very glad to make an amendment that would recognize this fact," said Mr. Simon.

Judge E. O. Brown of the resolutions committee declared that the regular platform already adopted seemed best to embody the varying opinions of the delegates as a whole without unduly emphasizing those of any one faction.

J. E. Iglehart opposed the Simon resolutions, saying:

"My opinion is that this convention will lose more or less of its moral force, especially with the countries of Europe, if we interject a partisan view of any question like this into the record."

This declaration was received with applause and a motion to lay on the table was promptly seconded.

The chair called for a viva voce vote, the result of which in the ensuing confusion seemed to be against tabling the matter. A second vote seemed to have the same result and a standing vote was then demanded. This showed a vote of two to one in favor of tabling and it was so ordered.

J. J. Sultaire of Milwaukee presented a resolution deprecating the alluring posters used by the army and navy recruiting departments in seeking new material. The resolution was voted down.

LAKES TO THE GULF CANAL

Consideration of Plan Taken Up in Illinois Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., May 6.—Consideration of the deep waterway plans in committee of the whole began with the convening of the house.

Congressman Lorimer gave a description of what the federal government deep waterway plans are and their application to Illinois. He said he wished to go on record now as opposed to spending $1 of the $20,000,000 bond issue for a deep waterway until the United States government agrees to join with the state of Illinois in the carrying on of the great work.

"I am confident, he said, "that when the survey of the government engineers is published that it will demonstrate the feasibility of a waterway from the Lakes to the Gulf."

NOW HOLDS BEST RECORD

Roosevelt Bags Two More Big Lions in Africa.

Nairobi, B. E. A., May 6.—Theodore Roosevelt went lion hunting again and before the chase was over two more big lions had fallen before his gun.

Mr. Roosevelt now holds the record for lion killing in the protectorate. Since Saturday of last week a total of five lions and one lioness have been bagged by him.

Cleveland, May 6.—E. H. Harriman was elected a director of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad company at the annual meeting of the stockholders here.

SITUATION AGAIN SEEMS CRITICAL

Further Anti-Christian Outbreaks Imminent.

NEITHER MONEY NOR FOOD

Terrible Famine Threatens the Residents of Hadjin, Where Missionaries Are Helpless to Render Assistance—Turkish Troops and a British Warship Leave Beirut for Scene of Trouble.

Beirut, Asiatic Turkey, May 6.—The situation at Suadia and Deurtyul again is critical. Trouble is brewing and further anti-Christian outbreaks are feared. Five hundred Turkish troops have been dispatched to those two points.

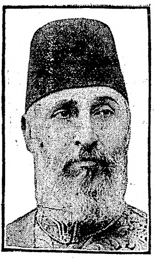
Hadjin, May 6.—Hadjin is facing a terrible famine. There is neither money nor food in the city. The orphans that have been cared for by the American missionaries are crying for bread and the missionaries are anxious that their benevolent friends be notified of the situation here.

DEPOSITED IN FOREIGN BANK

Deposed Sultan Found to Have More Than $5,000,000.

Constantinople, May 6.—The commission which is making an inventory of the property at the imperial palace at Yildiz has discovered, according to the local newspapers, bank notes to the value of $2,250,000 and a large quantity of jewelry, including a rosary alone valued at $375,000. Papers seized at the palace show that Abdul Hamid had something over $5,000,000 on deposit in a foreign bank.

Tewfik Pasha has placed his resignation as grand vizier in the hands of the sultan, but he has agreed to retain the post until after the ceremony of "girding on the sword," which corresponds to the coronation in other countries, and for a few days thereafter until the country is quieter. This ceremony probably will take place next Monday.



TEWFIK PASHA.

Hilmi Pasha has been appointed grand vizier and will assume office on the retirement of Tewfik Pasha.

TO PROCEED AT FULL SPEED

American Cruisers at Gibraltar on Way to Mersina.

Washington, May 6.—Instructions have been sent to the North Carolina and Montana, which have arrived at Gibraltar on their way to Asiatic Turkey waters to protect American interests, to proceed to Mersina as soon as the ships have coaled. Captain William A. Marshall, commanding the squadron, has been ordered to view the situation at Mersina and then continue with one or both of the cruisers to Alexandretta, according to the needs of the situation existing when he reaches Mersina. It will take about two days for the North Carolina and Montana to take on coal at Gibraltar and they have been ordered to proceed at full speed just as soon as coaling has been completed.

It is probable that they will reach Mersina about May 12.

Arrested on Another Charge.

Union City, Tenn., May 6.—Pete and Smith Branham, two of the night rider defendants now out on bail awaiting trial, were arrested and placed in jail here charged with the murder of a man named Phillips on Reelfoot lake late Tuesday afternoon. It is said that the parties were involved in a quarrel of long standing.

Prominent Elk Ends Life.

Toledo, O., May 6.—Delirious from illness Captain William Cook, a prominent Elk, a noted drillmaster and captain of the Elks' Cherry Pickers, a famous drill squad, leaped from a fourth story window and was instantly killed. A daughter tried to prevent her father jumping, but was unable to restrain him.

SEVEN PERSONS SENT TO PRISON

Judgment Day in Pittsburg Graft Cases.

RAMSEY ASKS LENIENCY

Former Bank President Personally Pleads With Court, but Is Sent Up for a Year and a Half—Half Dozen Convicted Councilmen and Others Get From Eighteen to Forty-two Months.

Pittsburg, May 6.—Sentences were imposed in criminal court by Judge Robert S. Frazer on seven persons convicted within the last few weeks in the municipal graft cases. The sentences follow:

W. W. Ramsey, former national bank president, convicted of bribery, one year and six months' imprisonment and a fine of $1,000; Captain John F. Klein, councilman, two years and a fine of $1,000 on the bribery conviction and one year and six months on the conspiracy conviction; Joseph C. Wasson and William Brand, former councilmen, each one year and six months and a fine of $500 for conspiracy; H. M. Bolger, hotelkeeper, two years and a fine of $500 for bribery; Charles Colbert and John Colbert, convicted of attempting to bribe a juror in the Ramsey bribery case, two years and a fine of $500 each.

Former Bank Cashier A. A. Vilsack was not sentenced and it is said will not be till after he has testified in several other cases which are likely to come up soon.

W. W. Ramsey made a plea for the clemency of the court or at least postponement of sentence. He talked to the court for fifteen minutes and presented a petition containing the names of 1,500 prominent men of the city.

Judge Frazer said he had strong personal feeling in this case, but that he could not see why the law should be overlooked. He said also that Ramsey had been given the benefit of every doubt.

HEAD OF WISCONSIN G. A. R.

Edwin D. Coe, Veteran Editor, Dies at Whitewater, Wis.

Whitewater, Wis., May 6.—Edwin D. Coe, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic of Wisconsin and veteran editor of the Whitewater Register, is dead from a complication of heart trouble and liver and kidney disorders.

Mr. Coe was sixty-nine years of age. He had been United States pension agent in Milwaukee for ten years, retiring from that position about a year ago. He had been a newspaper man for forty years and served one term as president of the Wisconsin Press association.

Mr. Coe enlisted with the First Wisconsin cavalry during the Civil war.

FOUND DYING IN A BUGGY

Double Tragedy Result of Disappointment in Love.

Indianapolis, May 6.—Arthur Stitt and Miss Lesta Stroud were found dying in a buggy in Central avenue. Stitt, it is believed, had given the woman carbolic acid with whisky and then taken a dose of the poison himself. Both died a short time after they were found.

The tragedy is believed to have been the result of Stitt's being spurned by the girl.

Despondency Cause of Act.

St. Paul, May 6.—Sitting on a box in a shed in the rear of his boarding house, calmly waiting for death to relieve him of his misery, John Huesler, an aged bridge carpenter, was found by Mrs. John Rau, in whose home he is a boarder. Blood spurted from a bullet hole in his temple and another in his forehead. He was removed in the police ambulance to a private hospital, where he died a few hours later. Huesler, who was seventy-five years of age, had undergone much hard luck within the last two years and had grown despondent.

Former Queen of Turf Dead.

Philadelphia, May 6.—Sunol, 2:08¼, former queen of the trotting turf, died at Newtown Square, Pa., where she was being kept for breeding purposes. Sunol was foaled in 1886 at the Palo Alta (Cal.) stock farm of Senator Leland Stanford, her sire being the famous Electioneer.

Session May Extend to July 1.

Washington, May 6.—President Taft has come to the conclusion as a result of talks with senators and members of the house of representatives during the past two days that there is little or no chance for an adjournment of congress before June 15 or July 1.

WOULD DELAY BRIDGE OPENING

MINNESOTA TOWNS WANT THEM LEFT UNTIL UPPER RED IS USED FOR SHIPS

GRAND FORKS, FARGO WAHPETON ARE IN FAVOR OF BRIDGE REMOVAL

From Friday's Daily—

At Fargo yesterday was held the hearing called by the war department for purpose of ascertaining the wishes of the people in regard to the removal of bridges across the Red River between Fargo and Belmont. The towns along the Minnesota side of the river did not oppose navigation on the river, but they begged that they be allowed to leave the bridges on the river until it was found necessary to remove them.

Unlike the hearing a wear ago on the question of navigability of the river, the hearing yesterday developed into a keen debate. Both sides have been ably presented and there has been much argument offered both pro and con.

Major Francis R. Shunk of the corps of United States engineers with headquarters at St. Paul called the meeting to order at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and briefly outlined the purpose of the meeting.

He stated that it had been called in response to a request which had been received by the war department of the United States, asking that the obstructions to navigation which are now in the river in the way of pile bridges be ordered removed or modified by the war department.

Question Once Decided

He stated that it was not a question of the navigability of the river. That question was practically settled last March when a meeting was held in Fargo at which the unanimous opinion was expressed that the river was navigable.

"The question before the meeting said Major Shunk, "is simply, has the time come to remove these obstructions from the river?"

He stated that he had no power to make any decision. He would simply preside at the meeting. Those who wished could express their opinions one way or the other and he would simply make a report and he would partment, giving the opinions of both sides and the war department would then take the mater under advisement and make a final decision one way or the other.

He called upon Capt. I. P. Baker of Bismarck to open the discussion.

Remarks of Captain Baker

Captain Baker responded briefly in favor of having the bridges removed and throwing the river open to actual navigation. He spoke of the country wide movement which is now under way in the United States looking toward a more extended use of the navigable streams and stated that he believed that the time had come when the Red river should be more fully developed for that purpose.

He declared the actual navigation was easily practical at least as far north as Fargo, and quoted from a report submitted by a United States engineer who had made a survey of the stream to prove that contention. This report showed that at very little cost a minimum draft of three feet could be maintained from Fargo to Grand Forks and a minimum draft of four feet could be maintained from Grand Forks to the boundary line.

He declared that the character of boats was changing at the present day. It was no longer necessary to have the old-fashioned steam boat with its high stacks but low built power boats with gasoline power could be used. With these boats and would be possible to pass under barges which were light draft, it bridges and he believed bridges to accommodate this class of boats could be used on the Red River.

Judge Corliss Talks

Following Captain Baker, Judge Guy C. H. Corliss, of Grand Forks spoke at length in favor of removing the obstructions.

He stated that he appeared in a threefold capacity at the meeting. In the first and greatest sense as a citizen. In the second as the accredited representative of the Commercial club of Grand Forks, and in the third place in a personal capacity as a stockholder in a transportation company which is at the present time navigating the waters of the Red river.

This navigation company, he declared owned two steamboats thirteen barges and a large number of elevators and warehouses.

He declared that he wanted to talk with the understanding that his remarks were not meant in a harsh manner, but with the rights of those who had built the bridges across the Red River always in mind.

Judge Corliss declared that at the present time there are about thirty obstructions in the way of pile bridge built across the Red river of the North notwithstanding the fact that there bridges are clearly illegal.

He showed that even if the bridges were placed there with the full authority of the state of North and South Dakota and with the authority of the township and county in which they were located, yet they would be illegal because the only authority over an interstate stream is the congress of the United States.

He believed that those who had built these bridges were undoubtedly honest in placing them there, but nevertheless they had done so against the direct commands of the federal law.

Warns Against Delay Policy

"It is because of the supineness of the public regarding the possibilities of this great stream that these conditions exist today," declared the judge "It is simply a policy of neglect and delay that will simply ruin this river if it is allowed to continue.

"The whole country is stirred at the present time over the need for conservation of resources. We have entered upon the age of electricity There is unlimited energy in our running streams and in our falling water. but we must be careful or human greed which has stretched forth a hand in the past and taken to itself many of our best natural resources, will also reach forth its hand to grasp the power that lies in our running and flowing water."

Easy to Make Navigable

Judge Corliss declared that it would be a very easy mater to make the river navigable as far south as Fargo or even farther.

"It is one of the easiest rivers in the country to dredge," declared the jujdge. "Taking into consideration the amount of water which flows thru it the Red river is a remarkably narrow channel. It is easy to dredge, and once dredged because of the deep swift fiflow, it would scour itself and could be maintained as a navigable stream at a trifling cost."

He told atlength the amount of business which the Grand Forks Transportation company did on the river below Belmont last year, and also spoke at length of the possibilities of further enlarging this business and the business for many other transportation companies if the river were opened up, as had been asked.

Hildreth Against Bridge Removal

Following Judge Corliss, Atty. M. A. Hildreth of Fargo spoke at length as the representative of seven townships along the Red river against the removal of the pile bridges.

In beginning his remarks he stated that he was retained by several hundred people who made their homes along the Red river on both the Minnesota and North Dakota sides, for the express purpose of presenting their views before the meeting.

"There are two sides to this as to every question," said Mr. Hildreth. "and I come here with considerable evidence of what we believe to be our rights in this matter."

"In the first place you cannot have a navigable stream without water, and although I have listened very attentively to what Judge Corliss has had to say, I have not yet heard where he is going to get enough water to make this river navigable. His argument lacks water.

"I represent a vast number of citizens who have built up their homes and have built up communities on both sides of the river. They are depending on those bridges which have been built across the stream.

"These people have established churches on one side of the river or the other and they are dependent on there bridges to get to and from these structures.

"Congress has passed laws establishing the rural route and has made use of these very bridges which are said to be illegal for the purpose of reaching the people on both sides of the river. If they are removed it will mean that the government will be put to great expense to entirely change these routes or these people will be deprived of their mail service.

Interfere with Social Relations

"Schools have been established on both sides of the river and the education of the children in these communities depends on these bridges. If these bridges are wiped out, it will mean that all these social and other benefits will be wiped out. It would mean interference with the souls of men with their church and Sunday school and school privileges."

He then spoke of the business reasons against their removal. He declared that in the towns of Perley, Georgetown, Hendrum, Nielsville, Halstad, Shelley and Climax the people were against the move; that a great business relation had been built up between the farmers who use these bridges and these towns and that all this would be wiped out.

In closing his argument he read a number of petitions which he declared to be signed by between 400 and 500 names, all against the removal of the bridges and these petitions were filed with Major Shunk.

Baerstein Speaks

Following Mr. Hildreth, Secretary Baernstein of the Farfgo Commercial club announced that he had been delegated by the club to make a vigorous and emphatic protest against the bridges in the Red River and in favor of having them removed at once.

Keeney Makes Accusation

E. J. Keeney followed Mr. Baerstein and he stated that he wanted to go on record as being of the opinion that Mr. Hildreth was representing the Fargo & Moorhead Street Railway Co.

Mr. Hildreth made a vigorous and emphatic denial of this, but Mr. Keeney declared that it was his opinion that the Fargo & Moorhead Street Railway company was back of the whole agitation.

Mr. Keeney spoke at length concerning the navigability of the Red River of the North. He told of the wonderful developments which had been made in the river in Canada and of the possibilities of developing it along its upper course.

He had pictures and papers to show the damage that had been done by flood in the past because of obstructions in the river, and declared that the flood danger would be a menace as long as these obstructions remained

Fargo Paving Afloat.

"Unless these obstructions are removed there will come a time in Fargo when not a foot of the miles of block paving in this city will not be afloat." was Mr. Keeney's prediction.

At the afternoon session, addresses were made by Judge Corliss, Dean A. Bruce, of Grand Forks, Colonel Hildreth and F. R. Barnes, of Wahpeton who represented the Commercial club of that place. He spoke in favor of having the obstructions removed.

WORKHOUSE FOR GRAND FORKS CO.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO TAKE MATTER UP AT MEETING OF MAY 11

At the meeting of the board of county commissioners of Grand Forks County to be held on May 11th, the board will take up the matter of establishing a new county forkhouse in accordance with the wishes of the people expressed at the election last November. The vote was about three to one in favor of the establishment of the workhouse. The matter is not optional with the board. They must establish the workhouse within a reasonable time after the people have voted for it. The board will probably decide at the May meeting what will be the size of the structure and its location.

Under the presnt system it has been impossible to carry out the sentence of the court "at hard labor" and the prisoners have had a fine easy time of it. Most of the criminals find it no punishment to spend a while in jail. It is predicted that there will be less law-breaking in that county after the workhouse is properly established.

PIONEER FARMER EXPIRES SUDDENLY

HIGHLY RESPECTED CITIZEN OF SCANDIA DIED OF HEART TROUBLE

Yesterday Coroner Stenshoel was called to Russia to investigate the sudden death of Bernt Anderson, a pioneer and highly respected farmer of the town of Scandia. He decided that an inquest was not necessary, death being due to neuralgia of the heart. Deceased had been troubled with rheumatism for some time. Yesterday he complained of severe pains in the chest and went to bed to rest. His wife heard heavy breathing and reached his bed just as he was breathing his last.

Deceased was 63 years of age and leaves a wife and 7 children several of whom are by his first wife. The funeral will probably be held tomorrow.

Wanted—A Proper Lubricant

A celebrated physician has declared strongly against soft drinks. He states that soft drinks have enough hard stuff in them to build a ten story block on. One hundred samples of syrups used in the manufacture of these drinks showed large quantities of caffeine and marble dust. If you insist on the marble dust get it at the quarry and take it straight, but don' mix i with a dangerous drug like caffeine. The query now is, what may we lubricate with and run no risk?—Roseau Region.

BIG CHORUS FOR CONVENTION

REHEARSAL FOR THE CHORUS WHICH WILL SING AT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

CHORUS MEMBERSHIP TO BE GIVEN FREE ADMITTANCE TO ALL THE SESSIONS

From Thursday's Daily—

The chorus which will render the musical program for the Sunday school convention, which will convene in this city next Tuesday morning, will have a rehearsal this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Methodist church. Prof Powers who will be in charge of the chorus and the musical end of the program throughout the convention, desires every adult, male and female, who can sing, to be present at this rehearsal this evening. The final rehearsal will be on Monday evening at the same hour and in the same church, but every one should take an interest in this evening's rehearsal, as it is very desirable that the many selections which will be rendered during the convention shall become thoroly familiarized.

Membership in the chorus will give free admittance to all meetings of the convention and those participating in the singing will be provided with one of the regular badges, without which no one can attend the sessions. Besides the large chorus an orchestra of twenty-one pieces has been secured and there does not seem to be any reason why the Crookston convention shall not exceed in interest all former conventions of the association. The large chorus will be divided during the convention a portion singing in the Methodist church under the direction of Prof. Powers, while another portion renders the music in the Baptist church under the direction of Rev T. T. Ove.

All Must Have Badges

Every one who desires to gain admittance to any of the sessions of the convention must provide himself with one of the official badges of the association. In order to secure these, he must be registered and pay a membership fee of 25 cents. This applies to local citizens as well as visitors and delegates from outside of the city. This membership fee goes to the Sunday school association to defray expenses of the organization.

When to Register

Chairman L. Miller has announced that registration will begin next Monday evening. The committee will be installed at the Baptist church and be ready for work as soon as the evening trains begin to arrive. Local people should see to it that they register early in order to avoid the rush on Tuesday morning. By doing so they will also greatly assist the committee on registration and entertainment.

Committees All Working

All the committees looking after the work attending the holding of the convention are busily engaged in looking after their respective departments. It is anticipated that the convention will be one of the largest that has been held in Crookston and delegates and visitors will be present from all sections of the state. The entertainment committee has already had a number of applicatons for entertainment and each mail brings a bunch of them to the chairman, George H. Wright.

A COMMON ERROR

The Same Mistake is Made by Many Crookston People

It's a common error.

To plaster the aching back,

To rub with liniments rheumatic joints.

When the trouble comes from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills,

And are endorsed by Crookston citizens .

A. A. Olds, painter, 339 Ash St., Crookston, Minn., says: "The statement I gave in 1898 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills was true in every particular and I gladly confirm it now. I suffered continually from backache and other symptoms of disordered kidneys but Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wallace's Pharmacy relieved me when everything else failed. they removed the difficulty and in spite of the fact that my occupation causes more or less strain on my back, I have had very little kidney trouble since."

FINE TEST ON CLOVER SEED

MESSRS. MUNGER AND SON OF WARREN, SCORE HIGH ON SAMPLES

SUBMITTED TO U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

From Thursday's Daily—

Messrs. Munger & Son, of Warren recently sent samples of clover seed to the United States Department of Agriculture, at Washington for the purpose of determining the purity of the seed and its germinating quality. The report has now been received from the Botanist in charge of the government seed and laboratory giving the result of these tests.

The purity test is for the purpose of determining the percentage of purity of the seed, the inert matter and foreign seed in a sample and according to this test, Alsike Clover scored 97.96 per cent of purity the Red Clover-Medium, scored 91.81 per cent and Red Clover-Mammoth, scored 99.96 cent. This is indeed a very high score in as much as the small percentage of foreign seed in the samples was timothy and white clover which are not harmful in the least.

In the germinating test the Red Clover-Medium scored 95 per cent, Red Clover-Mammoth 88.05 per cent, and the Alsike Clover 98.93 per cent. The seed that did not germinate in the four to six days allowed for the test ,are the so-called "hard seeds," which have unusually hard seed coats, preventing them from taking up water readily; yet when allowed to remain in the water or in the ground for a long time will most of them become sufficiently softened to permit growth.

The above tests demonstrate the high quality of the clover seed grown in this section of the state. Messrs. Munger & Son have also received a letter from Prof. Moore. of the Agricultural Department of the University of Wisconsin congratulating them on having such excellent seed.

It is again demonstrated that the Red River Valley leads the world in clover.

HALL IS GIVEN FINE PRESENT

RETIRING DIRECTOR OF GRAND FORKS CITY BAND GETS ALLIGATOR BAG

A pleasant surprise was given Prof. W. W. Hall, past director of the Grand Forks Military band, after the rehearsal last evening. He was presented with an alligator traveling bag The presentation speech was made by Fred Redick in a few well chosen remarks. He stated that Mr. Hall had been at the head of most of the bands organized in Grand Forks during the past 20 years and has done much to advance the musical interests of the city in both band and orchestra and it was genuinely regretted that it was not possible for him to continue.

Mr. Hall responded in a few remarks assuring the boys that he appreciated the good fellowship that was shown by his efforts and thanking the boys for their co-operation. B. F. Brockhoff vice president of the band made a few remarks followed by members of the band. All desired in some way to show the esteem that was held for Mr. Hall.

Mr. Riggs, formerly of Crookston, the new director made a few pertinent remarks and also stated that he was more than pleased with the support the band was being given by the business men and it seemed to him that Grand Forks was assured of a band second to none in the northwest.

After congratulations were extended Mr. Hall refresments were served and the evening ended with a cornet solo by Mr. Riggs and a few selections by the 'nit band." President John Dinnie acted as chairman of the meeting.

How It Works

We heard a lot of farmers discussing the local creamery pro and con the other day. The simple fact that there are one-half less the number of creameries now than there was five years ago in Iowa is an answer to all arguments. The local creamery was the thing that made the farmer prosperous. The centralized creamery is a good thing until the local creamery is gone, then the farmer will see how shortsighted he was in not sticking to home industry when he had the chance.—Britt Tribune.

A man who thinks more of a dollar than he does of his self-respect is insult-proof.

UNCLE SAM IS AFTER MORE MEN

MINNESOTA HAS NOT HER QUOTA IN THE GOVERNMENT SERVICE SO THERE IS GOOD CHANCE FOR MANY MORE APPLICANTS FOR POSITIONS

Thereare a lot of positions open in the forestry service of the United States government. An examination to secure eligibles for the position of clerk will be held at several points in June 16. The nearest will be at Deadwood, Aberdeen, Sioux Falls and Watertown, S. D. Eligibles will be subject to appointment for service in forest supervisors' offices at various points thruout the west. The notice for the examinations name more than 50 national forests. For the position of clerk, in some places owing to local conditions, only male applicants can be considered. It is stated that many of the places of employment are desirable from a residence point of view.

Examinations to be held soon in Duluth will be to secure eligibles for the following positions in the government service: Game law clerk (male), in the bureau of biological survey, department of agriculture; apprentice plate cleaner, transferrer and engraver, in the bureau of engraving and printing, Washington, D. C.; medical interne, for the government hospital for the insane, Washington, D. C.

The members of the board of examiners in Duluth have information that Minnesota and other Western states have only about one-third as many employes in the various government positions as the population of these states entitle them to.

The reason is that more eastern people take the examinations and qualify for the positions. Senator La Follette and others from the Western states also have charged that there are many holding positions in the government service that are registered from western states who never say the western side of the Alleghany mountains.

Civil service examinations are held frequently in Minnesota, at Duluth, St. Paul and Mankato, only examinations in connection with the mail service being held in Crookston. In some states they are held in a much greater number of places. For instance in New York state they are held in thirteen different cities.

ANGUS SHERACK

Miss Tillie Brantl has been suffering of late with a very sore eye. Her many friends hope she will soon be well again because without Miss Tilly society around here is at a standstill.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kotek and family intend to leave here in the near future and will make their future home in Northland. Mr. and Mrs. Kotek have made many friends here and all are sorry to see them leave.

Seeding is in full progress and everybody around here is busy to the utmost.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Kluzak entertained at dinner last Sunday the Misses Tilly Brantl and Rose Kotek and Mr. Ed Brantl.

The dance in Tabor the other evening was a swell affair and all reported a delightful time.

Miss Mary Aslun of LaCrosse, Wis., was here the other day to attend the funeral of Mr. Jas. Holley.

Last Wednesday a veritable dust storm raged nearly all day and made things very unpleasant while the storm lasted.

Mr. Ed Brantl one of Tabor's leading young society men went to Crookston the other day on very important business. Quite a few of his friends are on to his game and have already commenced buying wedding presents.

Mr. E. Johnston had the misfortune of having the point of a pitch fork run into his left leg. Altho the wound is very painful, nothing serious is anticipated.

Mr. Andrew Anderson sprained his back a couple of days ago by lifting too heavily. Dr. Dryden of Euclid is attending one suffering friend.

Mr. G. H. Horn one of the leading and most progressive farmers of the Red River Valley purchased last week the "Success Manure Spreader" made by Kemp and Burpee Mfg. Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

Miss Magdalene Chanot, tho very weak yet is slightly improving. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

The rain of last Wednesday will prove to be of great help to the growing grain and a bumper crop is to be expected.

Does Not Stimulate

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alterative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

What are Ayer's Pills? Liver Pills. How long have they been sold? Nearly sixty years. Do doctors recommend them? Ask your own doctor and find out.

Every American Family Pays Tribute To The Sugar Trust

Just $113,723,347 could have been saved to the housekeepers of the country last year had there been no tariff on refined or raw sugar. That represents the excess which the American pays for his sugar over what he would pay if he could buy it as cheaply as it is sold in London. Who gets the money? The government received about $60,000 of it and the rest went into the purse of the sugar trust. The figures are from the report of the federal bureau of statistics.

The average wholesale price of sugar in London in 1908 was 2.70 cents a pound. In New York it was 4.96 cents a pound. The United States consumed over 6,000,000,000 pounds of sugar in 1908 and paid over $113,000,000 more for it than if it could have been purchased here as cheaply as in London. That is a mater of about $8 for every family in the nation.

The Dingley schedules, which Senator Aldrich is seeking to perpetuate provide for a tariff of about 80 per cent on refined sugar, or about 2 cents a pound. The sugar trust is the largest beneficiary of this tariff extortion as the independent refiners frankly and frequently have asserted that they require no protection and favor the admission of both raw and refined sugar free of duty. The fact that the sugar trust has recently sold for export large quantities of sugar at almost 2 cents a pound less than it was offered to American consumers, should be convincing proof that the trust can refine sugar without protection much better than every American housewife can afford to pay the tariff of fully 20 cents every time she fills her ten-pound sugar jar.

Naturally every proposition looking to the removal of the duty on sugar or the reduction of it, calls for a protest from the stand-patters who insist that such action would ruin the sugar beet industry in this country. The evidence shows that the sugar trust owns a very large if not a controlling, share in the beet sugar refineries of the country. Further it is claimed that the beet sugar manufacturers could continue their business at a fine profit, owing to the ir advantage in railroad rates to points of consumption, and would not in fact be ijured by a radical reductio nof the sugar schedules. While there are about 100,000 farmers who are engaged in raising sugar beets, there are about 10,000,000 farmers who pay a tribute of 2 cents a pound on sugar for their households most of which goes directly to the sugar trust. Altho this is the greatest fruit growing country in the world, it is asserted that the stunting of the canning and preserving industry thru lack of cheap sugar today robs the farmers of what might be an enormous demand for their fruit.

The American housewife will be interested in learning that she pays an 80 per cent tariff on sugar while the tariff on champagne is 56 per cent.

Relation Of School Gardens To The Cost Of Living

While the school garden movement had its origin in a desire to furnish occupation for the mental and physical energies of school children in the larger cities, its development has resulted in the discovery of latent possibilities in the plan that may prove a big factor in solving the economic problem of the home. Experience of the last few years has given some hint of the astonishing amount of vegetables that may be raised on small plots of ground well tilled and the utilization of these waste spaces may go far toward piecing out the limited incomes of families and materially reducing the outlay for table necessities.

New York furnishes a striking illustration of the enthusiasm with which city children undertake the work of gardening. A vacant city lot located in a thickly settled district, has been cut up into "farms" that are just four feet one way by eight feet the other and each of these land parcels has been put under the care of a small boy or girl to be farmed. There were ten aplicants for each of the plots and the successful ones last year enjoyed perhaps for the first time in their lives real fresh crisp vegetables of their own raising. Those in charge report that it has proved a great source of health that it has proved source of health and happiness to the children as well as of some profit to the parents.

With the stimulas given to this work by the School Garden society in St. Paul, there is a chance to turn the spirit of the work to advantage in finding relief in the back yard garden in the task of making the family income balance with the family needs. Intelligent effort and direction in this form of garden work yields a dividend in improved health of the gardeners and in table necessities and delicacies.—Minneapolis Journal.

Good Advice

Last Tuesday afternoon closed the hearing of a Justice Court case which lasted four days. Bond was given and case carried over to District Court. Some valuable lessons should be learned from this case by parents who have boys and girls. It's another instance where idleness has caused ruin and disgrace. It is strange how people treat such matters lightly. Even old, yes very old people take a special delight in rehearsing such matters in presence of children even their own children, when instead of they have to mention such matters at all it should be done with an expression of regret and warning when children are in their presence. If old people treat such matters lightly what is to be expected from the children and who is to blame if they go wrong —Hallock News.

Viewed From Up a Tree

The publisher of any weekly paper in anytown has the privilege of buying his groceries from Washington—Uncle Sam's home. The merchant of any country town has the privilege of buying his envelopes from Washington—Uncle Sam's home. While this is a privilege, isn't it wrong in principle when put into practice? Wouldn't it be better for the publisher to buy his groceries from the home merchant, and the merchant to buy his envelopes from the publisher? It looks this way to a fellow up a tree!—Western Publisher.

Some Comfort

Dispatches state that the Young Turks has permitted Abdul Hamid, the deposed sultan to retain fourteen wives. That is probably the worst punishment that could be inflicted. Whether it is to rule or be ruled by so many is a more difficult task than to guide the destinies of the whole Turkish empire.—Warren Sheaf.

SOMETHING DROPPED

QUARTET OF ALLEGED BLIND PIGGERS ARRESTED AT ROSEAU YESTERDAY

OVER $1,000 WORTH OF LIQUORS SEIZED BY SHERIFF OLSSON

Sheriff E. T. Olsson yesterday morning, assisted by a half dozen deputies, served warrants sworn out by S. Kvam upon Jonas A. Johnson, Andrew Elliott, Frank Wheatcroft and Flossie Eldridge, charging each of them with selling liquor contrary to law and the vote of the people of Roseau at the March election.

Search warrants were also issued and the sheriff seized a large stock of liquor in Wheatcroft's place, a smaller quantity at Jonas Johnson's residence and a barrel of bottled beer at the Eldridge premises. No liquor was found in Elliott's place.

The arrests are the result of investigations conducted by a couple of outside detectives and had been expected for some time by the knowing ones. The statute provides that in case a defendant is found guilty all liquors seized shall be destroyed, and in these cases the sheriff secured over $1,000 worth of wet goods, of which he will retain possession until the cases are decided.

All defendants entered pleas of not guilty and the trials will take place before Justice Miller as follows:

Jonas Johnson, May 10; Andrew Elliott and Frand Wheatcroft May 11; Flossie Eldridge, May 12.

A side issue to the proceedings was the arrest of one of the detectives for selling liquor to Harvey Wilcox. The complaint was sworn to by Andrew Elliott. Defendant gave bonds for his appearance on May 12th.

County Attorney Stebbins is prosecuting the cases.

TWO MORE TO CRAZY HOUSE

HALVOR OLSON OF MENTOR TAKEN DOWN LAST EVENING BY DEPUTY SULLIVAN

JOS. SIMNA OF BELTRAMI CO. TAKEN DOWN BY DEPUTY JOHNSON

Two additions to the Fergus Falls asylum were made last evening. Deputy Sheriff Pat Sullivan, assisted by Co. Commissioner Christianson went down with Halvor Olson of Mentor and Deputy Sheriff Johnson of Bemidji, assisted by Deputy Cisco of Beaudette went down with Jos. Simna of Beaudette.

Sifna who was confined in the city jail for a few hours while waiting the departure of the flyer says that he got "crummy" during his short stay here, and in a speech on the train insisted that he was as dousy as a pet coon.

Deputy Johnson says that Olson, committed from here, was formerly in Bemidji, where he showed signs of being "off" and he was promptly hustled out of town. This was many months ago.

A BAD WRECK ON THE SOO LINE

BRAKEMAN CARNEY IS KILLED AND HUGH BERRY SERIOUSLY INJURED

A fatal wreck occurred on the Soo Line a mile east of Kimball Prairie on Wednesday evening. A freight train going down the line found itself out of water and uncoupled to go to South Haven for a supply, leaving the train on the prairie and right in a curve. Jack Carney and Hugh Berry remained in the caboose while the rest of the crew were absent getting the water. A special freight had followed them down the line, and not knowing of the train stopping on the prairie, came along at full speed. The engine of the special struck the caboose and the result was that Jack Carney was instantly killed and Hugh Berry had a leg broken and his skull cut open besides half a dozen cars being telescoped. The injured men are possibly responsible for the accident as it was their business to go back on the line and flag any approaching train.

This wreck was the cause of the north-bound limited, which was 10 hours late.

John Carney who was killed is a brother of Roadmaster Carney with the Northern Pacific at East Grand Forks, and he left Thursday to attend the funeral.

SUCCESSFUL DAIRYING

M. L. RILEY BIG DAIRYMAN FROM SOUTHERN WIS., PLEASED WITH POLK COUNTY

HAS 1350 ACRE FARM AND FINE DAIRY HERD NEAR MELVIN NEW CREAMERY

From Saturday's Daily—

M. L. Riley formerly in the dairy business on a large scale in Southern Wisconsin, but who over a year ago purchased a 1350 acre farm near Melvin, south of this city on the N. P. was in the city a few days ago and reports that the Melvin Creamery Association has been organized and practically all the stock subscribed necessary for the construction of the creamery at once. The creamery will be located at Melvin and 465 cows have already been pledged and this number will be materially increased in the near future.

Mr. Riley took an active interest in promoting the creamery project as did Mr. Temanson, father-in-law of W. F. Peterson who resides near Melvin and other prominent and progressive farmers. Mr. Riley resides on what is known as the Old Sunstad place. He has 165 acres fenced in and 300 acres now under cultivation. He also has a fine herd of 32 milch cows, and this number will be increased rapidly his intention being to have at least 50 before the summer is over.

Mr. Riley says that the Red River Valley is unsurpassed as a dairying section and he believes it will be the leading industry in a very few years More cows can be pastured on one acre of $35 or $40 valley land, than can be kept on $100 and $200 an acre Illinois or Iowa land, and more fodder can be raised from it as well with the same amount of cultivation.

$1200 has already been subscribed for the creamery and it is expected that the creamery will be built and equipped before the end of June.

M. L. Riley is a brother of P. W. Riley, formerly in the wholesale business here and now at the head of the Riley-Ramsey wholesale grocery company of Port Arthur. His father who died several years ago, was for years a resident of Lakefield, Minn., and was at one time a member of the Minnesota legislature.

Mr. Riley says there will be a big influx of new settlers to this section during the coming summer and that most of them will be substantial diversified famers who will go into the dairying business extensively. More farmers of the stamp of Mr. Riley are wanted in the Red River Valley.

STEALING THUNDER FROM POLK COUNTY

PICTURE OF CARLSON'S DAIRY FARM, ERSKINE, USED TO BOOST WABASHA CO.

A resident of Crookston today took occasion to call the attention of the Journal representative to a cut of a dairy farm, including barns, silo, and fine dairy herd belonging to Ole Carlson and Sons near Erskine, Polk Co., as published in the Minnesota Farmers Institute Annual, under the dairy department, page 197. It is a fine farm and a fine cut.

He also showed us a copy of "Great Opportunities in Minnesota" which advertises the fact that 300,000 acres of school and other state lands will be offered for sale by the state auditor in Minnesota the coming summer. On page 38 of this publication the Carlson Dairy Farm cut is again used, but underneath it is the following inscription: "Farm Scene in Wabasha Co."

It is certainly a high compliment to Polk Co., when counties in the southern part of the state have to be boomed by the use of cuts of dairy farms in Polk county.

LOOKED OVER BRIDGE SITES

Commissioners Ecklund and Thorson returned this morning from Northwestern Polk county where with Commissioner Driscoll they have been looking over the sites of several proposed bridges and also looking into some road matters.

They stated that many of the farmers in that part of the county have completed wheat seeding and several have large acreages seeded to oats. While the weather has been disagreeable they state farmers are very optimistic regarding the crop outlook.

GILL HURRIES TO MICHIGAN

WAS DETERMINED TO REACH BEDSIDE OF WIFE WHO IS CRITICALLY ILL

FORMER FOOTBALL STAR DEFIES PHYSICIANS AND LEAVES HIS SICKBED

From Saturday's Daily—

Risking his life to see his wife before she is dead, William Gill, passed through Grand Froks last night on his way to Paynesville, Mich. Gill was stabbed in the back Tuesday evening by another employe of the Great Northern, one lung was punctured. Fears of his recovery were expressed by friends and doctors told him he would have to remain in his room until danger period was past. A thoughtless person told Gill yesterday of telegram that his wife was dying. Gill insisted on leaving on the first train and all protests of physician and his friends were unavailing. Upon his arrival in Grand Forks he was met by Dr. Williamson, Great Northern physician, who dressed his wounds. Gill announced that he was going to get all right and he was only anxious to reach his bedside of his wife.

When Sarles train arrived at Lakota Gill insisted on walking from the coaches. On the eastbound train, No. 6, he was obliged to rest in a sleeper A berth had been reserved for him. In Grand Forks he was greeted by many of his friends. He announced that he would soon be all right and if there is an alumni-university game next fall he will be able to take a hand.

Gill will receive treatment in St. Paul and will be in good shape for the rest of the trip, he believed last night

Dr. Williamson stated that there was no indication of blood-poisoning or pneumonia. Rising temperature is an indication of infection and Gill's temperature was normal. It is possible that there may be blood-poisoning later, as it is a little early to assume that he has passed the danger period.

Dr. Williamson was of the opinion however, that Gill is risking his life in making the trip.

The Great Northern made every arrangement possible for the comfort of the young man.

LIVED IN CROOKSTON QUARTER OF CENTURY

MRS. ANNIE MICKELSON AGED 76 YEARS PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

Yesterday morning, Mrs. Annie Mickelson aged 76 years, who resided with her son, Gunder Mickelson, 107 Nelson street, passed away, death being due to a general breaking down. Deceased has been a resident of Crookston for over 24 years, coming here in the early days with her husband, who died several years ago.

Aside from Gunder, her daughter Mary Mickelson lived with her and another son, Andrew, who is married resides in Crookston. She also leaves a daughter and one son in Michigan none of whom can be present at the funeral.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Synod church on South Broadway Rev. Salveson officiating.

SAYS WEATHER WAS SOMETHING FIERCE

FIVE INCHES OF SNOW COVERED GROUND NEAR EAU CLAIRE YESTERDAY

Dr. J. S. Chapin was in the city between trains this morning enroute home from a business trip to Grafton Iowa, and Chicago, Ill., spending only one day in the latter place. He states that yesterday morning enroute home the country about Eau Claire, Wis., was covered with 5 inches of snow In Chicago it snowed first, then rained and the streets were in very bad shape. There was snow all the way enroute, and the fall has been less here than at any other place he visited while away.

MAY FLOWERS ARE SCARCE

HOWEVER CONDITIONS HERE ARE NEARER NORMAL THAN IN OTHER SECTIONS

CO. COMMISSIONERS STATE WHEAT NEARLY ALL SEEDED IN NORTHWESTERN POLK

From Saturday's Daily—

There was no May-pole dances in Crookston today at least not out of doors. There is however some talk of an impromptu ski tournament this afternoon or Sunday. Sleighing parties may also be popular amusement as being very much out of the ordinary.

Since Thursday evening the snow snow has been falling steadily and since Friday noon it has been blowing a gale from the northwest. It is one of the heaviest snow storms that has been experienced in many years at this season.

However the pioneers are all jubilant over the heavy snow fall and insist that it is an unfailing sign of a good crop of wheat, the biggest produced here in many years. They estimated that 75 per cent of the wheat had been seeded. The snow on the seeded fields is a regular fertilizer and as soon as the present flurry is over and warm weather comes on, the wheat will shoot up like magic.

Theer is ample time to finish the balance of the wheat seeding the first week in May which is plenty early, and the flax and barley will all be seeded in good time if the weather clears up within the next few days. In addition to the wheat acreage, there is also many thousands of acres of oats seeded.

PIONEER SETTLER DIED SUDDENLY

Jens Olson (Semlines) who has resided a few miles from Ada on the south side of the Wild Rice river, for the past thirty years died last Friday from heart failure. Mr. Olson had been sickly thruout the winter but was apparently well for some time before his death.

Deceased was born in Bergen, Norway, June 23, 1836, and was 73 years and 10 months old at the time of his death. He came to Norman county thirty years ago. Besides a wife he leaves nine children.

The funeral occurred Monday the services being conducted by Rev. Hinderlie at the home and interment being at the Ada cemetery.

GREAT WORK OF SPLIT LOG DRAG

A well known travelling man of this city who does a great deal of driving thruout this section called the attention of the Journal this morning to the splendid work which many of the farmers of this section are doing with the split log drag. He says it is coming into quite general use and that the minute a piece of road is struck ni which this device is used, you can tell it right away.

He believes that the agitation should be kept up and that everything possible should be done to encourage the farmer to use the drag more and more.

INPIRING SESSIONS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

From Wednesday's Daily—

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED THIS AFTERNOON

President—J. H. Martin, Minneapolis.

Vice Presidents—Rev. A. H. Wurtele, Duluth; W. H. Gold, Redwood Falls; E. O. Onstad, Ada; E. J. Krafft Minneapolis; H. W. Kingsbury, Winona.

Rec. Secretary—C. E. Woodward, Minneapolis.

Treasurer—A. C. Hermann, St. Paul.

Board of Directors, 3 year term—C. J. Hunt, St. Paul, J. E. Bell, Minneapolis, J. H. Irish, Detroit, H. B. Avery, Minneapolis.

The second day's sessions of the convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association started this morning in the Methodist church under the most favorable circumstances. President W. H. Gold called the session to order with the church well filled.

Animation and enthusiasm characterized every delegate and there can be no question but that in point of interest the present convention will be regarded as memorable.

Every train arriving in the city brought visitors from north east south and west. Between noon yesterday and noon today as many delegates registered as were on the books previously.

The needs of the association in regard to securing the services of an assistant to Secretary A. M. Locker were placed before the convention.

International Secretary W. C. Pearce took charge of this portion of the program and it was but a short time before the total amount needed, $1400, had been raised.

After the devotional period under the leadership of John Ferris, state superintendent of the American Sunday School Union, a roll call of counties was made. The delegates from each county responding as to the manner of organization in their respective counties.

Owing to the absence of State Treasurer A. C. Hermann, of St. Paul, on account of illness in his family the annual report of the treasurer was read by the Secretary. t

Secretary's Annual Report

One of the interesting portionsof this morning's session was the annual report of Secretary A. M. Locker. The work accomplished since he was elected has meant the success of the association and at the presnt time his enthusiasm, his ability and consecration is carrying the organization forward to new fields of conquest and accomplishment.

Committee on Nominations

At this stage of the proceedings the following committee was appointed to nominate officers for the coming year: George H. Wright, of Crookston; Rev. R. W. Bowden of Duluth; R. W. McLeod, of St. Peter. The committee will report at a late hour this afternoon or this evening.

The Bible study under the leadership of Rev. George R. Merrill of Minneapolis was disposed of and after the benediction was pronounced adjournment was taken.

This Afternoon's Session

The devotional period was in charge of Rev. A. N. McKee district superintendent of the Methodist church for the Crookston district. Secretary W. C. Pearce then gave a most interesting address showing how to start and continue a campaign to increase the attendance at the Sunday school. This was followed by a most able address on the "Adolescent Period" by Rev. J. S. Kirtley of Duluth.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Frank F. Fitch, of Des Moines on account of illness his place on the program was taken by Rev. F. L. Tredstad of Superior, but formerly of this city.

What the Visitation Means

Rev. John Orchard of Fargo, addressed the convention on the subject "House to House Visitation. What. How" while Dr. R. W. Bowden, of Duluth talked on "How We Did It in Duluth. Results."

A general discussion closed the afternoon session under the leadership of Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele of Duluth.

At 4 o'clock the officers conference an dthe conference of elementary workers convened.

Convention Notes

At 7 o'clock this evening the Juvenile band of Crookston will give an open air concert in front of the Methodist church in honor of the delegates and visitors.

At 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the local central committee will meet in the office of Chairman H. C. Misner an devery chairman is requested to bring bills contracted for the convention.

FINE MEETINGS LAST EVENING

M. E. AND BAPTIST CHURCHES FILLED WITH ENTHUSIASTIC MEN AND WOMEN

FIRST OPPORTUNITY OF HEARING MAMMOTH CHORUS AND BOYS' ORCHESTRA

From Wednesday's Daily—

The sessions of the Minnesota Sunday school association last evening were of the greatest interest and the two largest churches in Crookston the Methodist and the Baptist were required to hold the number who desired to attend the services.

At Methodist Church

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock Prof J. H. Powers started the service of song and for thirty minutes the large chorus, composed of one hundred voices, accompanied by an orchestra of twenty pieces and the big pipe organ, sung hymns of great beauty and inspiration Prof. Powers is entitled to great credit for the work done.

George H. Wright of this city presided. Rev. S. E. P. White of Bemidji, read the Scripture lesson and Rev. T. W. Barbour, of Cass Lake asked for Divine guidance and inspiration.

Welcome to the City

Mayor J. D. McPhee extended a cordial welcome to the delegates and visitors in behalf of the city of Crookston. Rev. F. M. McCoy followed with an address of welcome on behalf of the churches of the city.

President W. H. Gold of the state association responded to the addresses in an eloquent manner and paid high compliments to the hospitality of the people of Crookston.

He paid tribute to the cleanliness and beauty of the city.

An Inspiring Address

The address of the evening was delivered by W. C. Pearce of Chicago international secretary. The speaker is probably one of the best known Sunday School workers in the world. An eloquent and persuasive speaker, he gets to the hearts of his audience at once.

His theme was "The Meaning of the Modern Sunday School Movement." He traced the progress of Sunday School work in all its many activities and departments; told of the Sunday School association of the World then of the national movement, of the state organizations and then of the district, county and local organizations.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. M. Stewart of Moorhead.

At the Baptist church

At the same time the service at the Methodist church was in session the Baptist church was well filled with delegates and local people, who were give nthe opportunity of enjoying a most meritorious program. The program started with a song service under the leadership of Rev. T. T. Ove He also had a large chorus composed of the Viking Chorus supplemented by a number of volunteers. This portion of the service was most pleasing and rivalled in excellence the work done by the larger chorus in the Methodist church.

After the reading of the Scripture lesson by Rev. C. E. Fulton of Mora and prayer by Rev. C. C. Warner of Crookston, City Attorney Martin O'Brien extended a welcome to the convention on behalf of the city. His warm words of greeting fittingly demonstrated the sentiment of the local people towards the visitors. Rev. W. S. Ward extended the welcome of the churches of the city and a respense was made by Rev. George R. Merrill, of Minneapolis.

General Secretary A. M. Locker presided.

An Address of Great Merit

The speaker of the evening was Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D., of Duluth. His subject was "In the Barefoot Kingdom" and his earnestness and force of diction and thought made his effort a great treat. He is an exceedingly popular speaker and whatever he has to say carries force and conviction.

SHERAC

Mr. G. H. Horn drove to Grand Forks last Monday on business.

Mr. B. Tiedemann was on the sick list for several days this week.

The Misses Helen Riedesel, Louise Tiedemann and Maude Allard enjoyed a several days' visit with parents and friends at Crookston.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Habich of Euclid called on Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Tiedemann last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goosen and Mr. and Mrs. F. Goosen drove to Red Lake Falls last Sunday to attend the funeral of Herman Shultz. The deceased had been ailing for the last few years with consumption and had gone to the Hot Springs in Colorado thinking it would improve his health. Mr. Shultz was a brother of Mrs. Fred Goosen.

Miss Alma Horn called on her girl friend Miss Rose Kotek last Tuesday.

Mr. J. J. Jenrick and family moved to Grand Forks last week where they intend to make their future home.

Messrs. Henry Giese, Joe Bush, Henry Tiedemann and Will Svoado spent last Sunday evening with the Horn family.

Miss Tilly Brantl one of most popular young ladies of this vicinity called on Tabor friends last Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Fleman of Euclid spent last Sunday at the home of J. Goosen.

Last Sunday a number of the Sherack boys met at the Brantl farm to ascertain whether or not our team was to be represented on the diamond this year. They have not yet chosen a manager but came to the conclusion that the team would be stronger and better than ever before, without the "Suckers" aid.

HAD MAYOR ON GRIDDLE

FARMERS FROM MARIAS SCORED HIM FOR KEEPING TRI-STATE OUT OF CROOKSTON

MESSRS. DUNC. FERGUSON, JOS. JARVIS AND NELS CHRISTIANSON HOSTILE

From Monday's Daily—

Last Saturday Mayor McPhee called on the Journal representative for assistance fearing bodily harm from three old friends who reside on the Marais northwest of Fisher. They were Duncan B. Ferguson Jos. Jarvis and Nels Christianson, all large and prosperous farmers and they thought they had a grievance against the mayor for keeping the Tri-State Telephone Company's long distance lines out of Crookston. It took the mayor some time to convince the irate farmers that he was on the other side of the fence.

Messrs. Ferguson, Jarvis and Christianson requested that the following statement be made: "We buy most of our machinery in Crookston. We have a farmers' telephone line that is connected with the Tri-State at Grand Forks. We want to conect with Crookston. Then if we want repairs a new machine or anything else in Crookston we can telephone for it and have it shipped out to us either morning or evening. If you want our business you must give us the same conveniences we have with Grand Forks.

"We prefer doing our trading in Minnesota. We have a rural line with many subscribers and this year another line to connect with the Grand Forks Tri-State line will be constructed to Keystone and intervening townships. We do not care about your local scraps, but we want long distant phone connections with Crookston. You cannot expect to get our business if you won't let us talk with you. The telephone during the haying, harvest and seeding seasons saves us long and costly trips. Before leaving Crookston we are going to see several business men whom we deal with and state our position."

MIXED MARRIAGES BARRED JULY 1

WHITES CANNOT MARRY BLACKS ACCORDNIG TO LAW PASSED IN NORTH DAKOTA

After July 1 there can be no marriages of white and blacks in North Dakota. The question of color is included in the list to be asked by the county judge when issuing a license and on him rests the responsibility of heading off mixed marriages. The applicant will be required to testify that neither of the parties to the contract are white or black, as the case may be.

It is stated that there has been very few cases where white women have married negroes in North Dakota. So far as could be learned no white men have married blacks.

WANTS WATER STREET VACATED

MINNEAPOLIS BREWING CO., SUIT AGAINST E. G. F. ON BEFORE JUDGE WATTS

The case of the Minneapolis Brewing company against the city of East Grand Forks was on for trial in the district court before Judge Watts today. City Attorney Finlayson appeared for the city, Cobbs & Wheelock and Childs of Minneapolis for the plaintiff and H. A. Bronson for the Griggs estate and Fulton & Gowran. The action is brought to compel the city to vacate Water street, between the Maine and Harm & Oeschger saloon in East Grand Forks. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sullivan, Judge and Mike Sullivan Mayor Dunlevy and others are present with the attorneys in the case.

At the conclusion of the testimony the case was put over to the June term of court expecting to get the testimony of Ex-Mayor Brandt and G. R. Jacobi the latter being in California.

PRIZE VALLEY FAT CATTLE

ED ERICKSON BUYS FULL CARLOAD FROM C. O. CARLSON OF ERSKINE

AS FINE BEEF CATTLE AS WERE EVER SHIPPED INTO CROOKSTON

From Tuesday's Daily—

Ed Erickson has returned from Erskine where he purchased a full carload of high grade fat heifers, as pretty a lot of [illegible] cattle as he ever saw. They are [illegible] s and were among those which [illegible] on, one of the most successful [illegible] in the Red River Valley did no[illegible] keep as milkers.

What pleased Mr. Erick[illegible] tly was the splendid conditions [illegible] animals were in, fat as butter and sleek as seals. He says such beef cannot be beat by any packing house meat shipped in, whether it be from corn fed cattle or any other class of stock.

This shows that beef cattle, and the finished product can be put on the market here as well as anywhere else. It is such beef that brings top prices and gives the producer good returns for his labor and investment.

The stock will arrive Wednesday night.

CROOKSTON HAS A ROOSEVELT

ARTHUR EGLEY IN CLASS WITH MIGHTY AFRICAN JUNGLE HUNTERS

In peaceful Crookston there lives a man who while not disposed to boast of his prowess as a big game hunter, would completely over-shadow the mighty prowess shown by the members of the Roosevelt party in the African jungles whose stunts have filled columns of the great dailies of the world for several weeks past.

Last evening while enroute home from the picture shows, Sir Arthur Egley who juggles whole page ads for patrons of the Times was attacked by a fierce pocket gopher. The ugly brute bit at his panties viciously and Sir Arthur, unarmed and alone gave battle. He had no weapons but his No. 11's but he planted a 900 pound kick in the solar plexus of the gopher and with a few convulsive quivers the brute made its debut in gopher heaven or the other place.

Sir Arthur carried the carcass home triumphantly and today it is on exhibition in the counting rooms of the Times. It will be mounted and forwarded to the Smithsonian Institute, at Washington, and the Sauer Kraut Club will at once apply to the Carnegie Hero fund commission for a medal for bravery for Sir Arthur.

CANADIANS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

EAGLES WANT TO COME TO CROOKSTON JULY 5TH—COMMITTEE RETURNS

Last evening Will Marrotte and Bennie Moe, who went to Winnipeg to confer with the Eagles regarding the proposed excursion to this city July 5th, returned home, Jack Walsh and Alex Thompson leaving for a trip to Warroad and other points. The delegation from here conferred with hte president of the Winnipeg Eagles and a committee and all were enthusiastic over the proposed trip to Crookston.

All were enthusiastic and are desirous of coming. Elks and Knights of Pythias, headed by Jos. Robert and Billy O'Connor both of whom belong to the Elks Lodge here, will come and the only question is the securing of a low rate. The Canadian Northern will give a rate of one fare for the round trip as far as the border but thus far the Great Northern has refused to give any reduction from the border down.

The Commercial Club of Crookston should get busy at once and see if some reduction could not be secured at least so that a round trip ticket to Crokston should be secured for an even $5. If such a rate can be secured a crowd of from 1000 to 1500 can be banked on.

SOME RECORD PRICES FOR VALLEY LANDS

RECENT SALES SHOW THAT THE PRICE OF RED RIVER VALLEY SOIL IS BEGINNING TO APPROACH ITS REAL VALUE—SEVERAL FARMS SOLD FOR SPOT CASH AT PRICES RANGING FROM $60 TO $110 PER ACRE—GENERAL OPINION THAT LAND WILL NEVER AGAIN SELL AS CHEAP AS AT THE PRESENT TIME IN THIS SECTION

From Tuesday's Daily—

For some time past there has been a slow but steady stiffening in the price of Red River Valley Lands. A great deal of land that had been on the market has been withdrawn gradually, and instead of offering their land for sale, many farmers have not only withdrawn their lands from the market but are buying more. The consensus of opinion is that Red River Valley lands will never again be as cheap as they are today.

In support of this there are a number of recent transfers in Polk and Marshall counties. Ben Koch a well known dealer in Valley lands from Peoria, Ill., has just sold the Jerry Enright farm consisting of a full section of land near East Grand Forks for $110 per acre.

The Chris Coulter farm near Mallory has been sold to an Iowa man for $60 per acre, all spot cash.

Not long ago L. Lamberson the Warren banker, sold his farm a full section for $73.80 per acre an even $50,000. This was a well developed farm with commodious barns and other buildings.

Such sales 10 years were hardly dreamed of, and while the prices received are far above the average, and the farms in better shape than the average farm, the soil is not one whit better than the average, better development and cultivation being alone responsible for the good prices obtained.

Jerome W. Wheeler, president of the First National Bank of Crookston an institution heavily interested in Valley lands, is advancing the price on all the bank's holdings and in an interview yesterday said:

"Never before was the outlook so good in the Red River Valley. The farmers have awakened to the meaning and necessity of soil conservation. They have learned that something must be put back into the soil when so much is taken out. The result is that within a very few years the farm that have not been cultivated as they should have been in the past will be brought up to a high state of cultivation. This class of farms can be sold for a big price. We have the soil and with the cultivation such as is given Illinois and Iowa lands worth from $100 to $150 and $200 per acre will produce just as much or more. Valley lands will never be as cheap as they are today."

And this is the sentiment of not the few, but the many. The glowing prospects and ideal conditions for a big crop the present season will add to the tendency towards increased prices. Another strong factor tending towards an increase in land values is the fact that land which has not been under cultivation for several years owing to its having been held by speculators coupled with the fact that the seasons have not been favorable owing to too much rainfall and insufficient drainage, is being cropped this year, having been summer fallowed last year. This makes the entire Red River Valley appear to better advantage than for several years past.

DOG SURPLUS A BAD ASSET

CAPT. M. R. BROWN SAYS AS A RULE THEY INDICATE LACK OF PROSPERITY

IN CITY WHERE THEY ARE AS NUMEROUS AS IN THIS CITY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Capt. Brown wants to see Crookston rid of its surplus of dogs. He wants every one in Crookston to assist the Dog Catcher Welch to increase the population of dog heaven. Capt. Brown in giving his reasons said to the Journal:

"In my travels I have noted that in every live, progressive and prosperous city and town, dogs were very scarce On the other hand places over ridden by dogs are as a rule dull, unprogressive and lacking in prosperity.

"If a stranger should visit Crookston and judge the city's prosperity on the dog basis, the conclusion would be arrived at at once that mighty little business was being done here.

"In addit. i oihtotsn shrdluetaoindu

"In addition to this, however, dogs running about are a real nuisance. If they remained on the property of their owner it would not be so bad, but they do not. The person without a dog is just as apt to have his flower beds and lawns scratched up as any one else. In addition they are filthy brutes to have running at large and damage flower pots, bushes and anything else left out of doors.

"I think it high time that a war of extermination be waged against the useless curs that infest this city. The owners of valuable dogs should keep them in kennels or chained up on their own property. If they need exercise the owners can give it to them in a manner to avoid annoying other property owners who want ice lawns and flower beds. The dog catcher should prosecute his work vigorously and every unlicensed dog should be done away with and those that are licensed should be taken care of by the owners."

THREE FINGERS CRUSHED OFF

ANDREW OLSON THE VICTIM OF A MOST PAINFUL ACCIDENT AT SAWMILL

GLOVE CAUGHT IN GANG FEED ROLLER STRIPPING NAILS AND FLESH FROM HANDS

From Monday's Daily—

On Saturday Andrew Olson a gang sawyer at the Crookston Sawmill caught his glove in the feed roller leading to the saw and lost three fingers, the nails and flesh being pulled from the bones with the glove.

Had his hand been drawn in straight the accident might have been much worse but his fingers were caught cornerwise and his arm was not drawn in.

The bones were amputated above the second joint. While the accident is a most painful one leaving a badly crippled hand and enforcing a lay-off of two or three months, it might have been fatal had Mr. Olson's arm been drawn in as it would have torn his arm off completely and possibly drawn in his entire body which would have meant instant death.

DIED SUDDENLY IN MINNEAPOLIS

REMAINS OF MISS JOSEPHINE TORBERSON WILL BE BURIED HERE TOMORROW

The funeral services over the remains of Miss Josephine Torberson will be held from the United Norwegian Lutheran church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. T. T. Ove officiating. Miss Torberson died suddenly Saturday morning at Minneapolis where she had been employed for some time past. She was operated on for appendicitis and was recovering nicely but was too ambitious and left her bed before she was entirely recovered, intestinal obstruction developed and peritonitis set in causing her death.

Her mother left Friday evening last for her bedside and arrived just in time to see her daughter alive. The family resides at 824 Front street, Crookston. Many friends feel deeply for the sad affliction which has come upon the relatives.

LAYING OF CORNERSTONE

SUGGESTED BY MEMBERS OF THE YOUNG MEN'S JOHNSON CLUB THAT CEREMONIES

OF FITTING CHARACTER MAKE CORNER STONE LAYING OF FEDERAL BUILDING

From Tuesday's Daily—

The Young Men's Johnson Club has started a movement for elaborate public ceremonies at the laying of the corner stone of the new federal building here. The date cannot be set for some time to come but plans will be completed for a fitting celebration and it will probably take place during the Northwestern Firemen's Tournament in this city the first week in July.

Several business men who had the subject broached to them were very favorably disposed towards the project. A band concert followed by an address by some good speaker and short remarks by local speakers has been proposed and the arrangements will without doubt crystalize into some definite action in a very short time.

CONVICTED OF P. O. ROBBERY

ANDREW HENDELL SENTENCED TO 15 MONTHS FOR ROBBING STRATHCONA P. O.

The case against Andrew Hendell charged with burglarizing the post office at Strathcona was tried in the United States court at Fergus Falls yesterday and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Judge Morris immediately sentenced him to one year and three months in the government prison at Leavenworth, Kans.

The evidence against Hendell was entirely circumstantial. Testimony was introduced to show that he had over $100 worth of stamps shortly after the robbery, but he denied this and his children came onto the stand and testified that he had been at home at the time the postoffice was burglarized. The children were all small and their testimony would have carried a good deal of weight with the average jury.

It appeared howeevr, that Hendell had served two previous sentences for post office burglaries and the jury doubtless took this fact into consideration in returning a verdict of guilty. The case was the last of the term and court closed Saturday evening.

FAMILY IN DIRE STRAITS

DISTRESSING TALES IN HOME OF JOS. RITKO OF SOUTH CROOKSTON

TWO CHILDREN DEAD OF SCARLET FEVER — FAMILY WITHOUT NECESSITIES

From Monday's Daily—

A pitiable condition of affairs has come to light in the family of Jos. Ritko of South Crookston. Last Wednesday Wesley aged 6 died of scarlet fever and Friday night John aged 11 died of the same ailment. The little baby a few months old is now critically ill, and there are three other children who show symptoms.

Saturday it was discovered that the family had nothing in the house to eat. Neighbors at once attended to the immediate wants and Poor Commissioner Sargent was notified by G. S. Chesterman Saturday.

Mr. Ritko is a laborer on the railroad and an honest hard-working man but has been idle for the past three months and now is in quarantine and will be kept there for some time.

With his wife he protested against having the little ones buried by the city, and will pay Mr. Chesterman

Should Raise a Purse

This is a case where the charitable people of Crookston should take immediate action. The Journal has taken the initiative and secured the consent of Rev. T. T. Ove to accept all contributions and turn the money over to the family. More than enough should be raised to pay the funeral of the two children who have passed away. It will not be given to the Ritko family as objects of charity but rather as a good will offering from generous people who have an abundance to an unfortunate fellow beings who are in distress.

Those who do not see Rev. Ove may leave their contributions with the Cashier in the Journal office, and a list of the contributors will be published in both local papers unless any one should desire to have their names withheld, in which case the contribution will be credited to "friend", "citizen" or any other name desired.

The response should be prompt and a small amount from each individual will make up a sufficient sum within 24 hours.

The Journal office force starts the list off with $2.

PIONEER DENTIST GOES TO CANADA

Dr. Henault who has been located at Fosston for the last few years, but who was one of the pioneer dentists of the Northwest having been located at Crokston in the early days, left for Napanee, Ontario Sunday night. He had been staying in Crookston for the past few weeks under a doctor's care, his health being very poor. He will remain with relatives in Ontario for some time in the hope of regaining his health. He has many friends throout this section who will hope for a speedy recovery.

STATE S. S. CONVENTION PROVED GRAND SUCCESS

FINAL MEETINGS WERE HELD LAST EVENING IN M. E. AND BAPTIST CHURCHES—PROMINENT LEADERS IN THE STATE WERE ENTHUSIASTIC IN THEIR PRAISE OF THE RECEPTION OF DELEGATES AND COURTESIES EXTENDED BY PEOPLE OF CROOKSTON—CENTRAL COMMITTEE AUDITS BILLS AND FUNDS ARE AMPLE TO MEET ALL REQUIREMENTS

From Friday's Daily—

The Fifty-First Annual Convention of the Minnesota Sunday School Association has passed.

Its story has been told, its history written and in many respects the unanimous sentiment places it in the forefront of all former conventions. Its ethusiasm, its inspiration, its liberality was marked and much in advance of the average and there is absolutely no question but that it has left its imprint upon the moral fibre of this community and its beneficial effects will be apparent thruout the future in many sections of northwestern and northern Minnesota.

Crookston is Praised

It appeared a difficult matter for those who were most immediately connected with the life of the convention to speak final words which brought the program to a close and every opportunity which was offered was taken advantage of to express the convention's appreciation of Crookston's hospitality and courtesy. General Secretary A. M. Locker appeared before the central committee in whose hands were the plans and arrangements for the convention, and in the warmest possible manner he thanked the people of Crookston thru the committee for its hospitality and entertainment.

"In behalf of the Minnesota Sunday School Association I wish to publicly member of the Association for the hos express the appreciation of every pitality and courtesies extended us." said Mr. Locker. "In many respects the Crookston convention will be always regarded as one of the most successful meetings the asociation has ever held. In point of enthusiasm, in numbers, in inspiration, inliberality, a record has been established during the past three days which will ever be remembered by the association and every officer. The hospitality of your people has been warm and every delegate has felt that he was in the care of a real and true friend.

Association out of Debt

The Crookston convention of 1909 will be remembered by the association as the one in which the organization was placed on a solid and substantial financial basis.

Treasurer A. C. Herman, of St. Paul is most enthusiastic in regard to this phase of the convention's success and he made the following statement:

"Never has a convention of the association responded so liberally and freely to the financial interests of the association as the Crookston convention. The manner in which the financial needs has been taken care of is a source of great gratification upon and northwestern Minnesota have the part of the officers. Crookston done themselves proud with the respone that they have made to our needs and a record has been established which will not be excelled in some years.

Auditing Committee Reports

Just before the adjournment of the convention the auditing committee went over the records and books of the treasurer checked up his accounts and then submitted the following report to the convention:

Crookston, Minn,
May 6. 1909.

Report of Auditing Committee:

Your committee appointed to audit the books of the Treasurer of our Association beg leave to submit the following report:

We find the books and accounts of the Association are neatly and properly kept for which our Treasurer should be highly commended.

The proer vouchers and bills were found for all disbursements made and the balance of cash on hand and in the bank was found to be $581.81 corresponding with said accounts.

Respectfully submitted,
R. W. McLeod,
Geo. H. Wright,
W. L. Vannet,

The Closing Sessions

In point of attendance and devout enthusiasm the twin meetings held last evening in the Methodist ad Baptist churches exceeded all previous meetings an dserved as a fitting climax to the three days' sessions of the convention.

The music in both churches was excellent and all who atended the convention expressed themselves most enthusiastically in appreciation of the services of the choirs and their efficient leaders, Prof. J. H. Powers and Rev. T. T. Ove.

Service at Baptist church

Rev. S. M. Dick, of Minneapolis, delivered the address at the Baptist church. He is a pulpit orator of great force and ability and his subject "The Spirit of Organized Sunday School Work," offered him an opportunity to display his talents to best effect.

At the Methodist Church

International Secretary W. C. Pearce, was the rincipal speaker at the Methodist church and he confined himself to the same topic as Rev. Dick. Having been conected with Sunday School work for many years and being acknowledged as the leader of such work in the United States what he had to say was received as authority.

Tribute to Secretary

After a large number of short, sentence prayers had been uttered and just previous to the farewell hymn called Secretary Locker to the front and benediction, Secretary Pearce of the platform and then, in a loving manner told the convention how much the success of the orgaization depended upon the ability, the consecration and the devotion of Secretary Locker. The convention testified its approval by rising and giving the Chautauqua salute. Mr. Locker responded in a few words and then thanks were given to the choir to the people of Crookston to all who had in any way contributed to the success of the convention, and finally the audience expressed its appreciation of the work done by Mr. Pearce.

The farewell hymn was then sung and the benediction pronounced and the Fifty-first annual convention adjourned.

Teacher Training Department

After the regular services yesterday afternoon the Teacher Training Department held a conference in the Methodist church at which E. W. Young of St. Paul presided.

The program included a large number of discussions in which Rev. S. S. Cook, of St. Paul; Mrs. V. D. Turner, of St. Paul, Mrs. R. H. Passmore, of Minneapolis; Rev. C. A. Arnold of St. Paul and Mrs. A. F. Miller, of Winona, took prominent parts. The discussions were of the greatest interest thruout.

Miss Emery's Report

Miss Louise A. Emery superintendent of the department, and whose ability and energy have been responsible for the success attained by the department conducted a question box and this proved of great interest and helpfulness. Miss Emery has decided to not accept a reappointment as superintendent a fact which is greatly worker.

Alumni's Reception and Banquet

The fourth annual reception and School Teacher Training Alumni Association was an event which will live long in memory. It was held in the Congregational church from 5 to 8 o'clock and over one hundred members and invited guests participated in the function. From 5 to 6 o'clock a pleasant reception was held in the church parlor.

Promptly at 6 o'clock the dining rooms in the basement of the church were thrown open and a most beautiful and attractive appearance they made. The flowers an dother decorations were beautiful and had been arranged by hands which knew the possibilities of their beauty. Every seat which had been repared was filled and after the Doxology was sung the members and their guests enjoyed the following delightful menu:

Menu

Frigit Macedoine
Veal Loaf
Scalloped Potatoes Green Peas
Buttered Rolls
Sherbet
Fruit Salad
Nut Bread Sandwiches
Ice Cream Cake
Coffee

At the termination of the banquet Mrs. A. A. Miller president of the association who acted as toastmistress, expressed the appreciation of the local members of the association for the attendance and interest of the visiting members and at once introduced the following program:

Invocation .. .. .. Rev. F. M. McCoy
Roll Call by Counties .... Miss L. A. Emery
Flute Duet.... ....N. A. Thorson O. W. Peterson
Encouragement .. Mr. W. C. Pearce
Solo ... ...O. W. Peterson
How to Gain Recruits .. A. M. Locker
Music .... Michelson's Orchestra

Services were Appreciated

Before the program had been concluded Miss Mildred Longfellow of Minneapolis was introduced and in a few words of deep feeling she expressed the love and regard which every member of the association felt towards Miss Louise A. Emery superintendent of the teacher training department of the association.

Secretary Pearce added a few words of appreciation of Miss Emery's work and then the delightful function adjourned to attend the evening meetings.

Next Convention City

The location of the next convention was not decided before adjournment but it is the prevailing opinion that it will be either in Winona or Mankato. This will be decided by the executive committee at a later date.

Central Committee Meets

The central committee, which had full charge of the plans and arrangements for the late convention, held a meeting in Chairman Misner's office yesterday afteroon for the purpose ot ordering paid all bills contracted by the different committees.

The committee checked up all bills against it and they were ordered paid by the treasurer J. W. Wheeler. There will be a small balance left in the treasury.

From Thursday's Daily

The final day of the Sunday School convention was marked with great enthusiasm and notwithstanding that almost every minute has been taken up for the past forty-eight hours with sessions of the convention the delegates appeared just as much interested and eager to take advantage of the opportunities offered as at the opening session and participated in the program with as much zest.

Special Resolution Passed

Just before the close of yesterday afternoon's session Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, dean of the Episcopal diocese of Duluth called attention to the Turkish massacres in which thousands of Armenians had been ruthlessly murdered.

Last evening Secretary A. M. Locker forwarded the telegram containing the resolution to the president.

Greetings to Montano

Montana Association in enthusiastic convention assembled sends greetings. Psolm 125 and second verse is our confidence.

Minnesota Sunday School Association in convention assembled sends greetings. 2nd Timothy 2 and 15.

This Morning's Session

An exceedingly interesting devotional period marked the opening of this morning's session after which many prayers and testimonials were given by workers from all sections of the state.

Secretary A. M. Locker conducted an interesting round table discussion in which many participated, after which an excellent address by Mrs. S. P. Johnson, of Rugby, N. D., entitled "Child Nature" was given.

One of the most interesting papers of the convention was next on the program and was given by Mrs. H. G. Harrison, of Minneapolis, her subject being "Practical Missionary Study in the Sunday School."

Superintendents' Session

At this portion of the program the Sunday School superintendents took charge of Dr. H. C. Boise, of Windom, took charge of a round table at which twenty-five questions were considered Many superintendents participated in the discussion and the resulting debate was of great interest and practical value.

Dr. George R. Merrill, of Minneapolis closed the morning session with "The Hour with the Book—A Message from Experience, from Hosea."

Afternoon's Session

The program this afternoon was one of the greatest interest thruout, the delegates attending in large numbers and taking the most careful participation in each address or discussion which came before the session.

"Adult Bible Class Organization, Advantages and Essentials," was the topic of a talk by International Secretary W. C. Pearce, of Chicago and he presided at a round table discussion. "Recognition of Teacher Training Graduates" was the subject of an address by Miss Louise A. Emery, and a general discussion, lead by Mrs. A. F. Miller, of Winona, on the subject "How Can Our Counties Reach Point 10!" followed.

All that remains of the program for the three days is the conference of the teachers' training department, the Alumni Association banquet and the twin meetings in the churches this evening and then the curtain will be rung down on one of the most successful coventions ever held by the Minnesota Sunday School Association.

A DISTRCT ORGANIZATION

IS BEING FORMED BY THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETIES OF THIS SECTION

ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION IS BEING HELD IN THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

From Friday's Daily—

Representatives of many counties which form the Crookston district for the Christian Endeavor organization are in session today at the Congregational church and was characterized by great enthusiasm and energy.

The convention was called by the state organization for the purpose of forming a district organization composed of ten counties, Kittson, Marshall, Roseau, Beltrami, Koochiching Red Lake, Polk, Norman and Clearwater. This will be known as the Crookston district.

The session was called to order this morning by Secretary W. D. Howell an dhe explained the form of organization of the state society. He also showed why the district organizations helped greatly in the work, and the need of such an organization in this section. S. B. Pilnney of Stephen also spoke and encouraged the district organization.

Have a Number of Societies

During this morning's session it was ascertained that at least twenty-five Christian Endeavor societies were in existence in the district. Itwas felt that this number, if enrolled in a district organization, would expand and grow until the Crorokston district became one of the leading organizations of the state.

Decide to Organize

After the project had been discussed at considerable length it was decided that immediate steps should be taken towards the organization of the district. The chair named the following committee to draft by-laws and a constitution, also nominate the first officers: Mrs. Lucy Chapin, of Euclid; Rev. J. C. Mapson, of Tenstrike; Miss Nellie Knott of Bemidji; Miss Ethel Bourdon, of Red Lake Falls; Clifford Frazer of Crookston and Mr. Howell. This committee will report this afternoon.

Juniors Render Program

The Junior Society of Christian Endeavor of the local Presbyterian church rendered a most acceptable and able program this afternoon.

This Evening's Program

A large meeting is scheduled to take place this evening at 8 o'clock in the Congregational church and the general public is invited to participate in the session.

Following is the program in part:

8:00 o'clock — Devotional Service, Address—S. B. Pinney of Stephen.

Solo — Miss Meda Chesterman, of Crookston.

Address—Walter D. Howell, state field secretary.

Installation of district officers.

PROMINENT ADA RESIDENT DEAD

Samuel B. Craggin one of the prominent citizens and early settlers of Ada died at his home in that city Sunday morning at two o'clock. Mr. Cragin had been in poor health for some time but had been confined to his bed only a few days. About two o'clock Sunday morning he began to fail rapidly and expired within a few minutes before his grandson Dr. W. H. Corson with whom he was living could reach his bedside.

Samuel B. Cragin was born at North Anson, Maine, June 30th, 1828, and was nearly 81 years of age at the time of his death. In 1849 he was married to Abbie Williams, from which union there were eight children. He went to Ada with his family in 1882. Mr. Cragin was a man of high character and upright morals; a good man in all that the term implies. He was prominent in local affairs and served as mayor of Ada three times. Upright in his dealings, generous and thoughtful of others he enjoyed the respect of all. The funeral occurred at Ada Tuesday.

Seeding time is now at hand and it behooves every patron of the creamery to reserve a portion of his land for fodder corn for cow feed next winter. The big shrinkage that has been noticed in the milk flow with the drying up of the grass every season can be largely lessened with great profit to the dairyman if he will act on this suggestion.

JONES WILL BE IN JAIL SOON

GOVERNMENT CLOSE ON TRAIL OF MISSING PRESIDENT OF RUGBY BANK

GRAND JURY IN SESSION AT FARGO IS SAID TO HAVE INDICTED HIM

From Thursday's Daily—

Marshal James Shea, of Fargo has been very busy since the grand jury assembled in Fargo and it is surmised that there will be some sensational arrests made before long. While the marshal declined to discuss matters it is pretty well known that Andy Jones the missing president of the Rugby National bank is one of those indicted. It is expected that he will be in custody within a few days.

It is stated that the government is well posted as to the present whereabouts of Jones. He would have been arrested long ago had it not been that no indictment had been returned against him and so nothing could be done.

After leaving Rugby Jones spent two weeks in Minneapolis and he was seen there by a North Dakota man. Jones was stopping at the National hotel and had been enjoying life. He spent his money freely for champagne.

VISITORS PLEASED WITH FINE MUSIC

JUVENILE BAND SERENADES CONVENTION VISITORS WITH FINE OUTDOOR CONCERT

Shortly after 7 o'clock the Juvenile band under the leadership of G. Oliver Riggs, marched to a point between the Methodist and Baptist churches last evening and for half hour played a number of selections which were roundly applauded by the delegates and visitors. The work of the band was excellent in every particular and there is no question but that all were more than pleased with the honor shown them by the action of the boys.

The courtesy was spontaneous and the city is under great obligations to Director Riggs and the members of the band for adding so materially to the entertainment of the city's guests. On every hand surprise was expressed at the excellent appearance made by the band and the ability displayed by the young musicians.

HORSE CASE IS KNOTTY PROBLEM

It's an open question whether under the latest code of morals horse stealing isn't an approved art and possibly an improvement over other methods of acquiring posssession of equines. It appears also to be an open question whether a man whose horse is stolen can gain possession thereof again, even if he should be so fortunate as to locate the animal and be able to make a complete identification.

The municipal court at East Grand Forks was occupied nearly all day yesterday with the replevin case of William Boulger of McVille, N. D., vs John Davidson a farmer living in northwestern Polk county. The case was tried before a jury, G. A. E. Finlayson and J. J. Sampson, of Lakota, appeared for the plaintiff and F. C. Massee for the defendant. It appeared from the evidence that the plaintiff in November last rented a horse and buggy to one James Murphy for use in traveling over the country selling patent medicines or other "dopes." The charge for the use of the rig was to have been $1.50 a day. In March last Murphy appeared here with the rig and disposed of the outfit to James McDonald a well known hack driver for $100. A little later McDonald disposed of the rig to Davidson, the defendant in the case, exchanging the horse for livestock valued at $145. About this time Boulger located the horse in the possession of Davidson and brought the present action in replevin to recover the rig or its value. He demands from McDonald $160 as the value of the horse and $75 as damages. A second action is against Mc Donald to recover the value of the buggy and harness. It was stipulated by the attorneys and defendants that the judgment in the second case should follow that in the case tried yesterday. Murphy, the peddler, is supposed to have gone to Canada immediately after disposing of the rig.

The case was given to the jury at 3 o'clock, but after wrestling with the question until 10 o'clock last night the jury could not agree on a verdict and Judge Sullivan ordered the jurors locked up over night and they are still wrestling for a verdict.

PLAN FOR THE FALL MEETING

C. E. DISTRICT CONVENTION YESTERDAY ORGANIZED A COUNTY UNION

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED—VERY INTERESTING ADDRESSES WERE MADE

From Saturday's Daily—

Yesterday's C. E. convention was of special interest and importance.

Delegates were present from all quarters of this northwestern part of the state with some from adjoining districts. The aim was organization of a district union to conform to the system followed in the rest of the state. Nine counties are concerned, namely Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Red Lake, Norman, Mahnomen and Clearwater. Representatives of at least six of these counties were in the convention. Field Secretary W. D. Howell of St. Paul presided with usual ability. Free discussion of the proposition was had and the unanimous approval of the plan was voiced.

President—S. B. Pinney of Stephen

Vice President—C. C. Warner of Crookston.

Secretary—Miss Nellie Knott, Bemidji.

Treasurer—Mr. Morris, Tenstrike.

It is proposed to hold a district convention in the early fall when the entire district may be more fully represented and the new organization established on a distinctly working basis. The place of meeting has not been decided but will very likely be Crookston, the logical "convention city" of this region.

Yesterday's program included practical conferences led by Mr. Howell addresses by Rev. Mapson of Tenstrike, President Pinney of Stephen, Rev. C. C. Warner of Crookston and best of all "The Endeavor that Pays" by Mr. Howell. This last was a real treat and the people that stayed at home last evening missed a rare opportunity.

The music from Gospel songs was supplemented by two solos, "Callest Thou Thus O Master" by Mrs. Warner and "The Day is Ended" by Miss Meda Chesterman. The accompanist was Miss Lancaster. These numbers elicited many appreciative compliments.

The visitors freely expressed their pleasure in the cordial hospitality of Crookston and they will no doubt be the more ready to respond to later calls for convention duty, and privilege among us.

IRON ORE IN CLEARWATER

LAND OWNERS CHARY OF SELLING UNTIL GROUND IS WELL PROSPECTED

There is further excitement in the southern part of Clearwater county over the recent strikes of iron ore. Two borings were made near Mallard recently and it is said pay ore was found on a place belonging to Harry Sinker. Land owners have either taken their holdings from the market or will only sell on condition that the mineral rights are reserved.

G. N. TOWNSITE MAN IN CITY

A. A. WHITE SAYS DEMAND FOR REAL ESTATE IS PICKING UP AT PRESENT

A. A. White, the Great Northern Townsite man is spending the day in the city being on his return from a western trip. He says that at Kalispel, Montana, in April his company sold $21,000 worth of lots there and in March $11,00 worth. All thru the west, he states, business is beginning to boom and in this section the outlook is very bright, the best in recent years. Mr. White will leave this evening for Bagley and from there goes to Little Fork and other points in that section.

Mr. White is a veteran in the townsite business and is known from one end of the Great Northern System to the other and has a host of friends in every city village and hamlet where he has done business.

IS SERIOUSLY ILL—Charles Lapsky a well known farmer northwest of the city is at St. Vincent hospital where he is being treated for heart trouble. He is improving and it is believed he will recover in a short time. He recently returned from a trip west which proved too strenuous for him. He caught a severe cold and the trouble seemed to center in his heart.

FINE NEW AUTO — C. M. Graves the popular traveling man, received a new automobile yesterday, that will be a source of much enjoyment to the family the coming summer. His son, Lorne, will be the chaffeur. Mr. Graves will find good use for the machine in making trips to the surrounding towns calling on his trade.

REV BECKSTROM HAS LEFT—Rev. J. M. Beckstrom, of Landa, N. D., who has so ably assisted in conducting the special meetings at the Scandinavian M. E. church for the past week or so, left Crookston this morning for his charge in North Dakota. Rev. Beckstrom has proved himself a very able and convincing speaker and the service this evening, at which he will preach, will undoubtedly be largely attended. Last evening Rev. F. L. Trelstad, of Superior, Wis., preached to a good sized congregation. Next week the meetings will be continued, when Rev. H. O. Jacobsen, of Hillsboro, N. D., will be here to assist the local pastor.

At Helena, Mont., yesterday the state pardon board postponed action on the pardon recommended for Harry J. Keeley the Missoula dispatcher, former resident of Grand Forks, who is serving a sentence of eight months on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. The pardon board will probably dispose of the matter today. It is believed Keeley will be given his liberty. He has served four months of his sentence.

The following sensational story is taken from the Fargo Forum. The person spoken of is not known to be or ever to have been a resident of this city.

"One of the most indignant of prisoners in the Moorhead police court today was Jeanette Byron a gorgeously dressed blonde young person from Crookston. She was arrested for being drunk and disorderly last night. Her indignation was aroused to the highest pitch because when she was placed in the woman's department, she found it occupied by a young colored woman. The latter occupied the only couch in the cell, and which was large enough for two. Miss Byron sat up all night, seated as close to the cell door as possible. She paid the fine imposed, but was held as a witness at the instance of the city attorney, who says he cannot show his hand just yet, but may before the day is out At the close of court the city attorney had a long conference with the woman."

What the Traveler May Wear

When one is touring, the smart two piece tailored suit of dark-colored linen or pongee worn with separate blouses is practically the only answer to the old problem, how to be clean comfortable and good-looking in hotels and railroad coaches. The crepon waist altho not particularly new, that can be washed out in one's room at bedtime and be worn fresh and immaculate at breakfast will prove a godsend this summer to the woman who has to live more or less in a suit-case on the short side trips and expeditions when her boxes and heavier luggage are an uncertain commodity.—The Delineator for June.

Voters Will Have a Say

The Red Lake Falls Gazette announces that it is going to take a hand in the legislative fight in the Marshall-Roseau-Kittson district and that Donald Robertson is to be retired. The voters up there may have something to say about the matter.—Thief River Falls News.

VISITS BEMIDJI—Bemidji Pioneer: Joseph Koelmel (just plain "Joe" is better) of Crookston was a guest at the Hotel Markham yesterday and last evening, being here as the traveling representative of a wholesale concern "Joe" was for many years the owner of a refreshment parlor in the "Queen City," and he has hosts of friends over Crookston way.

BUSY ISSUING STOCK—President J. D. Ball and Secretary Kiltz of the Co-operative Fuel and Commission Co., have been busy for the past two days issuing stock which has been sub scribed for. The company is getting in fine shape to go after the business and the stock is being disposed of in most gratifying manner.

LITTLE SON ARRIVES—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker of Concrete, N. D. are the parents of a beautiful new baby boy who made his arrival at St. Michael's hospital yesterday morning and mother and son are progressing nicely. Mr. Walker is well known in sporting circles as a baseball player of fame, and Mrs. Walker was formerly Miss Seymour, of this city.—Grand Forks Herald. Harry Walker was an old time resident of Crookston and Warren and was a crack pitcher in balmy baseball days.

A FREQUENT VISITOR — A. E. Palmer, the Grand Forks jeweler, who is interested in the land company with which Senator Works of Mankato is conected, with large holdings in this section, is a frequent visitor in Crookston these days. He reports active inquiries and many transfers.

WILL VISIT CALIFORNIA— Nels Johnson, a former well known resident of Crookston but for the past several years in charge of the Red Lake Falls Milling Company's warehouse at Thief River Falls is spending the day in the city shaking hands with old friends He leaves this evening for a five weeks' trip to California accompanied by Leonard Peterson and Lars Brink and a very pleasant trip is anticipated.

Much sorrow has been caused in Crookston and Fisher by the death of Mrs. A C. Leslie wife of Dr. Leslie which occurred at Hannaford, N. D., Tuesday night. The remains were brought to Fisher where she formerly resided, and the funeral was held this morning. Deceased was a member of Golden Rod Camp No. 789 Royal Neighbors of America of this city, and several members of the camp went to Fisher this morning to attend the services. She left Fisher about six years ago. Her parents still reside there.

Supt. Wm. Robertson left this morning for St. Vincent where today he adressed a meeting of the Kittson County Teachers' Association. There are about 60 teachers present, many of whom took part in the program. A member of the faculty of the Moorhead Normal went up this morning and delivered an address and Principal Crerar of the Emerson schools gave a very interesting address on the school system in Manitoba. For the special benefit of the visitors 'The Woodman Picnic" will be reproduced this evening by the same cast that produced it a short time ago.

The Scandia bank of Fergus Falls narrowly escaped a serious fire Wednesday evening. About 7:30 in the evening, a blaze was observed thru the window of the office, and a hasty investigation showed that some papers in the waste basket under the desk had taken fire. The flames shot up and burned thru the drawers in the desk above destroying some papers, but this was the extent of the damage done. The headway gained by the fire was not very great, and it was quickly extinguished when discovered The origin is unknown, but it was probably due to the fact that someone had thrown down a cigar stub, which had smouldered for some little time before starting the blaze.

LEAVE FOR CANADA—Ex-Deputy Sheriff James Bulman and wife of Thief River Falls passed thru Crookston yesterday enroute to Prince Albert, Canada, where they will make their future home. Mr. Bulman has purchased a farm in the province and will devote his summers to running the farm while the winters will likely be spent in company with his brothers who are interested in a vast lumber concern.

FATHER FAYOLLE REURNS — Rev. Father Fayolle has returned to Red Lake Falls from his sojourn in the south and his many friends are delighted to not a great improvement in his physical condition. He spent most of the winter in Arizona. On the return trip he went thru the Pacific coast states, stopping at several of the important cities, and at North Yakima, Wash., where he met many of the former Red Lake Falls people now living in that locality. Altogether, Father Fayolle spent a most enjoyable winter, and the rest from his clerical duties and the change in climate has resulted in the hoped for improvement .

FANS NOT ENTHUSIASTIC—Emil J. Brink returned yesterday afternoon on the Northern Pacific from a trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis and also made a long trip over his regular territory having been absent from Crookston for three weeks. He was at the opening ball game at Minneapolis when Kansas City played the Millers, the contest being witnessed by over 10,000 people. He also atended the game yesterday between Minneapolis and Toledo and says there were not 100 people present, the bad showing made by the millers having taken all the enthusiasm out of the most loyal diamond fiends.

FARM RESIDENCE BURNED — The farm residence on Edwin Peterson's place in Garfield was burned to the ground last Sunday afternoon. The house was occupied by John Black who has the place rented. Mr. Black succeeded in getting his household goods out of the burning building but not far enough away and they caught fire from the flying cinders and were completely destroyed. The house was a log one butwas in good repair and the loss is estimated at about $500 with no insurance. Mr. Black's loss on household goods will amount to several hundred dollars.

LOOKED AFTER FARMS—Editor L. E. George of the Fertile Journal is spending the day in the city enroute home from North Dakota where he has been for the past two days looking after the renting of a section and a half of land owned by his father who lives in southern Minnesota. One section is near Jamestown and the balance farther west. He says it is practically all seeded and conditions are fine. His brother, who died a month ago, had been looking after the property before, his father being 85 years of age.

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Crookston Citizens Can Tell You All About It

Home endorsement, the public expression of Crookston people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Crookston reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

R. G. Burkhardt, bookkeeper, Robert and Ash Sts., Crookston, Minn., says: "It is a pleasure for me to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved their remarkable value by removing pains of a rheumatic nature from my back and limbs. I was also greatly bothered by weak kidneys and I knew this caused the trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I procured a box at Wallace's drug store and began using them. I improved immediately and continued taking them until the pains in my back disappeared. My present good health is due to Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE ELEMENTARY WORKERS CONFER

REPORT OF MISS LONGFELLOW SHOWING WHAT HAD BEEN ACCOMPLISHED

In the Baptist church the department of elementary workers assembled yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and until nearly 6 o'clock one of the most interesting sessions of the convention was in progress. The conference was presided over by Miss Grace M. Longfellow, of Minneapolis who is one of the most enthusiastic workers in the state and is exceedingly popular wherever there is a Sunday School organization.

After the devotional period Mrs. Frank Cadwell, of Minneapolis, formerly of this city, talked on "Practical Plans for the Cradle Roll" and held the attention of the large audience thruout. Her suggestions were practical and exceedingly helpful to those engaged in Sunday School work with the younger scholars. Mrs. M. P. Fletcher of Minneapolis, Miss Carrie S. Pond of St. Paul, and others participated in the excellent program which had been prepared and a most interesting discussion followed each subject.

The annual report of Miss Grace M. Longfellow, who is superintendent of the elementary grades of Sunday School work was most interesting and complete.

LATTIMER GETS OFF VERY EASY

Roy Lattimer who impersonated a postoffice inspector in the vicinity of Detroit, was sentenced to spend thirty days in jail by Judge Baxter at Fergus Falls yesterday. He secured only $2.50 fraudulently and as he has been in jail since last December the court felt thathe had already been punished to a considerable extent. Lattimer is the young man who married a young lady of Becker county on a few days acquaintance.

The grand jury finished its work and was discharged Wednesday.

The case of the LaCrosse bank to collect for certain potato digging machines is still on trial, and will be the last civil case of the term.

INDANS SUE TO RECOVER LANDS

SUPPOSED HALF-BREEDS DISCOVER AFTER SALES THAT THEY ARE FULL-BLOODED REDS

CASE NOW ON IN UNITED STATES COURT AT FERGUS FALLS

From Friday's Daily—

An interesting case has been instituted in the U. S. Court at Fergus Falls being an action entitled the United States of America, against Philip S. Converse, John Robinson and J. E. Diamond. The suit is brought to set aside an Indian land patent, and it is reported that many others of a similar character are likely to follow.

In 1886 congress passed a law to the effect that Indians and halfbreeds could secure allotments in severalty under certain conditions, but that the patents to such lands were to be held intrust by the government after their issuance to be turned over to the allotees at the expiration of a period of twenty-five years. The act provided further that any sales of such lands made by the allottees during the period should be null and void.

This law was modified by a subsequent act which went into effect in 1906, and this subsequent act permits persons of mixed Indian blood to dispose of their allotments as soon as they receive them. The twenty-five year period still holds good in the case of the full-blood Indians.

Since the new law went into effect the mixed bloods, who constitute a large proportion of the population of the White Earth and Red Lake reservations, have been securing their allatments and in many cases have disposed of them for anything they could get. Many of the farms were very valuable, but the allottees were looking for immediate enjoyment of their good fortune and were ready to sell or mortgage to get hold of some money.

In several cases the allottees who were mixed bloods when they secured and sold their allotments, have discovered they are full-blooded Indians, now that their money is gone, and as full-blooded Indians had no right to sell their lands, they are anxious to get them back, and ask that the transfers be declared null and void. This is the first suit of the kind that has been instituted, but if it proves successful it is rumored that the number of full blooded Indians will increase very rapidly from this time forth.

WERE FOODLESS FOR SIX DAYS

HOMESTEADER AND HIS WIFE AND THIRTEEN CHILDREN FOUND STARVING

Dr. Christianson of Cass Lake, who is county physician in Hubbard county, while making a trip to Laporte, passed a homestead owned by a man named Maloon. The doctor entered the cabin wherein lived the homesteader, his wife and thirteen children A horrible sight met his gaze. The entire family was confined to their beds and hardly able to move.

The father told a pitiful story. He said that for six days the whole family had not had a bite to eat. The few pennies he had were spent on the family for food. When his money was all gone his nearest neighbors, who lived several miles away, gave what they could afford but they too, were poor. The homesteader's family began to weaken until they were in an almost helpless condition.

The doctor hurriedly returned to Cass Lake, which is about twenty-five miles from the homestead. A large amount of provisions was gathered together and will be taken to the destitute family.

EMMA STARLING WON HER SUIT

The case of Max Rabinovich vs. Emma Starling an action for ejection which was recently tried before a jury in the municipal court in East Grand Forks where the property is located, resulting in a judgment for the fair defendant, was tried again yesterday before a jury in the municipal court here. Judge Gossman presiding, and again resulted in a judgment for the defendant. The premises which the plaintiff sought to obtain possession have been for some time occupied by the defendant as a sporting house.

The case of the Minneapolis Brewing company vs. Dan Sullivan is on trial in the municipal court today before Judge Gossman.

COLORED MAN SERVING 2½ YEARS FOR ROBBING MERCHANTS BANK

WAS A "TRUSTY" ACTING AS A COACHMAN OF WARDEN WOLFER

Allius Patteway a negro trusty convict who was coachman for Warden Wolfer, escaped from the state penitentiary at Stillwater Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock. He took the private team of the warden to the barn and then left, and he is still at large. He was received at the prison March 2 from Polk county under a sentence of two years and a half for grand larceny in the second degree for having stolen money from the Merchants Bank while acting in capacity of porter about a year ago.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

FRANK HICKERSON ATTEMPTED TO CROSS THE RIVER ON THE ICE

Frank Hickerson a night watchman at the power house of the Beltrami Electric Light & Power company on the Mississippi river five miles east of Bemidji had a narrow escape from drowning this morning. Hickerson was walking up the bank of the river about a mile from the dam, when he started to cross on the ice to the other side. The ice was in a very unsafe condition, and when Hickerson reached the middle of the river the ice gave way beneath him and it was only by clinging to the ice with a stick which he had been carrying, that he was able to keep from being swept down the river.

Hickerson shouted again and again and as the wind happened to be blowing towards her farmhouse a half a mile away, Mrs. Albert Brewer heard the cries. Mrs. Brewer ran a half-mile to the dam and secured men, returning to the river just in time to save Hickerson who had been in the water for three hours.

The adventuresome man was almost frozen and unable to speak. He was taken to the power house and wrapped in blankets. It is thought that he will recover.—Bemidji Pioneer.

ANGUS

Mrs. J. A. Stroble and little son Arthur and Mrs. D. H. Strickler and two little daughters were visiting with Mrs. H. Osterloh.

Miss Magdalene Ehaust is nicely improving of late.

Mr. J. W. Baars took the train for Euclid last Tuesday evening to attend the R. N. A. lodge at that place.

Mrs. Peter Stuhr of Euclid is visiting for a few days in the Queen City with her daughter Miss Ruth who is attending school there.

Mrs. D. H. Miller returned from Crookston last Thursday morning via the G. N.

Mrs. J. A. Stroble took the train for Warren last Thursday morning.

The rain of last Wednesday night was a godsend to the farmers and a bumper crop may now be expected.

Field and garden work is rushed to the utmost and everybody is as busy as possible.

Mrs. Christ Nelson the veteran hostess of Hotel Nelson is enjoying a splendid patronage. Mrs. Nelson is a first rate landlady and her tables are always loaded with the best of the land.

Wonder why Euclid has not got any cream stations. They prove to be a boon to other towns.

The cream agents at Angus are kept busy handling the very best butter fat. The Angus farmers keep excellent milch cows and care for their stock in a proper way.

Divine service was held last Wednesday forenoon in the Roman Catholic church in Euclid. The Rev. Father Smiers of Crookston was the officiating clergyman and a large audience was treated to a very eloquent sermon by the Rev. Father.

Mrs. Herman Osterloh drove to Warren last Thursday afternoon.

The Red River Valley Coming Into Her Own

In the news columns of the Journal today these are two significant articles which tend to show very conclusively the general trend of conditions in the Red River Valley. It means that the new era of prosperity has dawned. The change to better farming methods has been gradual but steady, and it has been going on for years. There is room for great progress yet but a splendid start has been made.

The two articles referred to is the sale of a carload of extra fancy fat beef cattle by C. O. Carlson of Erskine to Ed Erickson, the well known local butcher and another is the sale of several farms at prices which range from $60 to $110 per acre, prices that a few years ago were unheard of.

Farm lands will never be as cheap in the Red River Valley as they are today. It is now a recognized fact that with the same high cultivation given land in Iowa, Illinois, and other older states where land has been held at from $100 to $200 per acre for years, the soil here will produce just as much and with less labor, and the net proceeds per acre will be larger also.

Diversified farming is past the experimental stage in this section. The vast majority of the farmers are engaged in the dairy and stock raising business to a greater or less extent. The necessity and value of crop rotation is recognized by all of them and the results are plainly evidena.

The farmers as a rule are running no store bills. They have money the year around and pay cash for what they want. Instead of wanting to sell their farms and locate elsewhere, their farms are not on the market and they are buying more land. Scores of those who left a few years ago during the land boom when they sold their lands at what they thought were fancy prices being a big advance over the prices of te nand 15 years ago are returning and buying back their farms at a still bigger advance.

No section of tht United States has more flattening prospects of substantial growth and development, prosperity and plenty than the Red River Valley today.

The Farce At Washington

If the vested interests of this country are back of Senator Aldrich in his fight for a sham tariff revision, as they seem to be, they are showing very short vision and very small intelligence. The only way to quiet the agitation for tariff revision is to revise the tariff in a way that will give real relief to the consumer, says the Duluth Herald. The Aldrich program will not only afford no relief whatever, but it will make conditions even worse than before. That cannot fail to give the demand for real tariff revision a new stimulus, and to add to it a vein of bitterness that will banish all hope of political and economic peace.

The Republican party pleaded, last campaign, that the friends of the tariff be permitted to revise it. They are showing, now, how they go about it, and the result will be that the people will have no further patience with revision by the friends of the tariff. They will most asuredly turn revision over to the enemies of the tariff, if enough of them can be found, and that would mean returning the patient to the operating table for a more critical operation; with attendant disturbance of business all along the line.

Real revision could be done now, if congress were free, with far less disturbance than will be possible for a long time to come. The failure to provide real revision will be doing an injury not only to the tariff-grabbing interests, but to the whole American people.

Senator Clapp of Minnesota showed that a realization of how the country looks, at it has reached Washington when he said the other day: "What we are doing now is a mere farce, mere boys' play. The greatest enemy of protection is the man who would abuse the policy because he has the power to do so."

Redwood Reveille: As almost all of our exchanges are in the southern half of the state, we looked for an almost unanimous censure of Governor Johnson for his veto of the tonnage tax. To our surprise, half of the comments are laudatory, most of the remainder ascribe to him only right motives, and only a handful burst forth in the old-fashioned withering diatribes with which the ancient partisan was wont to sjuelch his opponent.

Wisdom Of A Park System

The active interest the Women's Clubs of Crookston are manifesting in urging the necessity and desirability of a park system in this city is most commendable. Last evening for the second time a large delegation of the leading ladies of Crookston appeared before the city council urging that action be taken at once looking toward the immediate purchase of the property facing Ash Street south of the Carnegie Library to Robert St., and having it terraced and converted into a beautiful entrance to the City Park. The council committee reported in favor of issuing bonds for the purchase of the property if they could be sold at a low rate of interest and if the property could be secured at a lower figure than had been offered by the owner. There the matter was dropped.

Last evening the ladies again attended a council meeting and several of them stated their reasons for securing the needed property together with property north of the library, and pointed out the necesity of securing it at once before it was sold to private individuals who would erect buildings thereon. The ladies also had an eloquent champion of their cause in the person of Capt. M. R. Brown who presented the subject squarely before the council.

There is no question as to the wisdom of the plan advanced by the ladies to have park bonds issued in a sum adequate to purchase the desired property, and several other smaller plots in various parts of the city to be converted into beauty spots and rest places for men, women and children during the summer months.

In another column of this issue will be found a letter from President Taft in which he strongly advocates parks and playgrounds for children and believes the investment one of the best a municipality can make.

Other cities are spending thousands and millions even, according to their size on public park systems.

Buenos Ayres in South America has appropriated $6,000,000 for public park purposes. Kansas City has appropriated $4,000,000 and other progressive cities are following suit.

The Grand Forks Park board has just received $30,000 from the state of North Dakota from the sale of park bonds and in addition have a large sum annually from tax levies.

It should be remembered that property that can now be purchased for a few paltry dollars, in the years to come it will cost fortunes to secure. Never again can the property be secured for as little money as at the present time.

The sooner the property is secured, the sooner trees can be planted and improvements made to that the present generation can receive some benefit. The progressive women who have made Crookston their home for many years want to see this city keep abreast of the times. Crookston cannot afford to be lacking in the attractions that other cities have. If we pose as a residence city we must have advantages that will favorably impress the people who visit this city.

Let everyone second the movement started by the public spirited ladies of Crookston who, last evening pledged that if the property for a park entrance was purchased by the city, they would see that a band stand and other improvements were made without cost to the city.

It's easy to convince a superstitious a horseshrlluetaoinhrdluetaoinshrdlu man that finding a dollar is luckier than finding a horseshoe.

STATE PRESS

Roseau Times: The friends of Governor Johnson claim that his veto of the tonnage tax will recommend him to the business world as a safe and sane presidential possibility. From now on Governor Johnson's press agents will endeavor to keep him in the limelight and launch his name at the next Democratic national convention as the man who can lead his party to victory. As is now stands Gov. Johnson could carry Minnesota by a handsome majority, and if congress makes a muss of the tariff bill, he would carry the state by a whooping majority as a candidate for president on any old ticket.

Walker Pilot: Haven't the old Republican sores of six years ago healed sufficiently to have us all unite for Bob Dunn for governor? Either Dunn or Dinehart could send the state Democratic barometer down to zero.

Aitkin Republican: The Republican party in the last campaign promised tariff revision downward and if the country does not get it the party will be held responsible. The people have not very much technical or hair-splitting knowledge about the tariff, but they can tell next year whether a given protected article costs as much as it does this year.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: The Adrian Democrat philosopher has discovered that it ismuch easier for a father to support ten children when they are young than it is for ten grown-up children to support one father when he is old.

Fairmont Sentinel: Governor Johnson has vetoed the bill designed to reduce the mortgage registry tax from 50 cents to 10 cents per $100. Good boy.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR
(New York Press)

What a woman adores about a romantic novel is how unreal it is.

The more you trust a man the more it scares him to be asked to trust you.

In a lot of marriages the woman imagines that she still loves, and the man that he once did.

A woman would rather have anybody assail her character than say she doesn't know how to dress.

Every once in a while a college boy turns all right by going to the other extreme after his graduation.

Nelson's Idea

Senator Knute Nelson doesn't dote much on ancestry—it is what a man is himself, not what his great-great-grandfather was, that counts. Senator Nelson says some of his ancestors' way back may have been Norwegian pirates—he can't say as to that, for he hasn't taken the trouble to look them up. What does the world care about Abraham Lincoln's forefathers, who probably lived in England a thousand years ago and were no higher in the social scale than slaves? Does it detract from Roosevelt's fame that his ancestors a few hundred years ago may have been only common dyke builders in Holland? What difference can it make to the Americans, who have admired and loved Jackson, Blaine, McKinley and Bryan that their ancestors of ten or fifteen generations ago may have "kept the pig in the parlor" in dear old Ireland? After all, there is a chance for one of lowly parentage to rise and make a name for himself, while the son of a Cromwell, a Richelieu, a Gladstone, a Pitt, a Washington, a Napoleon, an Alexander, a Caesar, a Hamilton and Bismarck have their opportunities for attaining fame greatly diminished by the wonderful achievements of their fathers. Blood will tell, 'tis said. No doubt that is true, tho there is little in the lives of great figures of history to prove it.—Warren Register.

Will Hear From People

If congres carries out the outlined plan of increasing the tax upon the necessities and reducing the tariff on the luxuries they will hear from the common people at the next election in a way that will make the Cannon outburst of the late election seem like the report of a toy pistol in comparison. The Cannon wing of the republican party seem determined to kill off the entire party if necessary to protect the interests—Breckenridge Telegram.

TUNING A PIANO.

A Professional's Experience With Irritable Von Bulow.

"Piano tuners are for the most part graduated from piano factories," says one of them. "While the piano tuner is required to know every part in the makeup of a piano, he is not necessarily a piano repairer. Nor can the average piano maker or repairer tune a piano. There are hundreds of expert makers and repairers of pianos who wouldn't be able to tell one tune from another.

"The piano tuner is born, not made. His acute sense of the vibrations of sound is given to him at his birth, and the man who hasn't got this sense can't become a piano tuner.

"Quite a number of years ago, when Hans von Bulow was in America, I tuned the piano upon which he played. He wouldn't allow the instrument to be tuned in the wareroom, one of his whims being that even a short removal of a piano knocks it all out of tune—something in that theory at that. So I tuned it upon the platform upon which he was to perform. He stood over me all the time, letting out agonized whoops and German cuss words until I couldn't help but laugh in his face.

"Finally, when I had the piano almost tuned, he gave a few more shrieks and, grabbing the wrench, began doing the job all over again. I let him go ahead, and inside of three minutes he had the piano so hopelessly out of tune that it took me three hours to get it into shape again. Herr von Bulow had to pay double for this little exhibition of temper."—Spokane Sportsman Review.

Making It Last.

A young man was lately leaving his aunt's house after a visit when, finding it was beginning to rain, he caught up an umbrella that was snugly placed in a corner and was proceeding to open it when the old lady, who for the first time observed his movements, sprang toward him, exclaiming: "No, no; that you never shall! I've had that umbrella twenty-three years, and it has never been wet yet, and I am sure it shan't be wetted now!"—London Express.

LEFT FOR WASHINGTON—This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott left on the Northern Pacific for Castle Rock, Wash., where Mr. Scott will engage in the feed business on a large scale in company with a cousin. Mr. Scott has been there before and believes he has a very good thing. He disposed of his horses, cows, etc, some time ago and recently sold his residence on South Main Street to Mrs. John Bergum. Mr. Scott has been a resident of Crookston for the past four years, having been in the dray business here and was a prominent member of the Woodmen and Eagles. Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Scott regret their departure but wish them every happiness and a full measure of prosperity in their western home.

$2,000,000 IS "DOT" THAT GOES WITH NORA ISELIN WEDDING

What Some American Brides Have Paid For a Title

Duchess of Roxburghe (May Goelet)	$10,000,000
Countess Boni de Castellane (Anna Gould)	6,000,000
Duchess of Marlborough (Consuelo Vanderbilt)	5,000,000
Lady Curzon (May Leiter)	2,000,000
Dowager Duchess of Marlborough (Miss Hammersley)	2,000,000
Duchess of Manchester (Helena Zimmerman)	2,000,000
Countess of Suffolk (Daisy Leiter)	2,000,000

From Monday's Daily—

New York, May 10 — Two million dollars is reported to be the "dot" that goes with Miss Nora Iselin, whose marriage to County Colloredo Mannsfield is announced to take place today at the Iselin country home at New Rochelle.

No elaborate wedding marks this latest union of American dollars and a foreign title. On the contrary, it has seemed to be the desire of the parties most concerned to avoid publicity in regard to the marriage and the details of the wedding. This extreme reticence is said to be due, in port at least, to the early opposition on the part of C. Oliver Iselin to his daughter's choice of a husband. The well known banker and yachtsman is understood to entertain a strong dislike fon international matrimonial alliances, particularly where a member of his own family is concerned. But the determination of his wife and daughter won the day, and after a personal interview with his prospective son-in-law, in which the latter made a most favorable impression, Mr. Iselin gove his consent for the marriage to take place.

Miss Iselin and Count Colloredo Mannsfield met for the first time last year, when Mr. Iselin and his family were in Rome. They became engaged to be married before Miss Iselin returned to New York, and the marriage would have occurred earlier had not Mr. Iselin been opposed to his daughter's marriage to a foreigner.

The count is secretary of the Austrian embassy at Rome and is said to belong to a highly distinguished family. His mother is the sister of Baron Aehrenthal, Austrian minister for foreign affairs, who incited the seizure of Bosnia and Herzegovina and so threatened the peace of Europe. The family own a castle near Aquileja which was built in 1302. The head of the house is Prince Joseph, who married twice but is childless.

By marrying Miss Iselin the count allies himself with one of the first families of New York. For many years the Iselins have been prominent in finance in business and in the social life of the metropolis. The head of the family was Adrian Iselin who died four years ago. His father was a Swiss capitalist, who came to this country from Basle, Switzerland, early in the last century as a representative of the silk and glove industries of Lyons.

Adrian Iselin was the founder of the banking house of A. Iselin & Co., of 36 Wall street. At the outbreak of the civil war his firm had gained such strength that it helped to finance the government. At his death Mr. Iselin's wealth was estimated at upwards of $30,000,000.

AFTER BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

FARGO COMMERCIAL CLUB MAKES WINNIPEG CAMPAIGN FOR TRADE EXPANSION

Better local train and mail service is an aim of the Fargo Commercial club. From the Great Northern a concession was secured for a passenger coach on the local freight between there and Crookston, and more recently mail service was established on the Great Northern local between here and Grand Forks. The train leaves at 3:30 in the afternoon and returns at 10:30 in the morning.

The Northern Pacific has agreed to hold the Fargo-Marion line trains till 10 a. m. This will give shoppers from that line an opportunity to trade in Fargo in the early forenoons.

Efforts are being made to secure a double passenger service on the Fargo Southwestern between here and Edgeley.—Fargo News.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

WARREN GIRL IMPROVING — Miss Alma Lundeen a well known young lady of Warren who was operated upon Friday at Grand Forks is improving rapidly.

SUNDAYED AT FORKS — Albert Peterson spent Sunday at Grand Forks visiting with his brother Seymour and with his aunt, Mrs. Julius Cresien of East Grand Forks.

SUNDAYED HERE —Banker Hanson of St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls returned to his home at the latter place this morning after looking after some business interests here over Sunday.

SELLING SOFT STUFF—Charles Bang went out on the Fosston line this morning to load up the dealers with hot weather drinks. He thinks it is about time that Old Sol made a an ice cream soda and red lemonade sell at a premium.

HIT THE NORTH TRAIL—Messrs. J. C. Sabin, Peter Cram and M. Thornton left this morning for a trip up the north line and all had their lemonade clothes on. Dad looked as tho he was just starting on his honeymoon trip.

ITALIAN LABORERS — Another Carload of Italians for labor on the Great Northern in Western North Dakota and Montana passed thru the city this morning that class of labor being used very langely for certain classes of hard manual labor.

GERM IS WORKING — Yesterday afternoon there was a large number of baseball players out for a couple of hours practice. There was no regular game but about 20 players limbered up—and today everyone of them are as stiff as pokers.

LOOKING FOR MOISTURE—A. J. Marrotte of the Grand Central Buffet left this morning for Wilton on business. At least he said it was on business but his close friends state that he was trying to avoid a portion of the two days drought.

LOOKS FOR GREAT YEAR—H. H. Hulbert of the Burchardt-Hurlbert Land Co., arrived from St. Paul this morning and went north to look after extensive farm interests near Stephen and Donaldson. He believes the outlook the best it has bee in many years for a good crop thruout this section.

PRACTICALLY THRU SEEDING—Elmer Ellington returned to Donaldson this morning after spending Sunday with the home folks. He states that the wheat is practically all seeded in that section of the valley and many of the farmers have a good average sown to oats and barley for early feed.

BACK FROM DULUTH—B. Levins better known as "gum drop" returned yesterday from a trip to Duluth where he visited the house. He says he plans on opening his summer cottage at Maple Lake before end of the week as Mrs. Levins is anxious to get there as soon as the weather will make it at all pleasant.

BACK FROM BELOW—John Boyd returned this morning from a trip to Iowa and the cities where he has been on land business. He says conditions are more favorable here for the farmers than in any section he has visited. He believes there will be a big movement in real estate the coming season.

LOOKING AFTER INTERESTS — A. J. McGuire who is spending a few days here looking after his interests from the southern part of the state says he never saw the Red River Valley look better at this season of the year. He has seen the grain farther advanced but never saw the soil in such garden-like conditions and is glad to note the immense acreage that was plowed last fall and is now in perfect condition for crop.

TWO FLYING TRIPS—Ed Carlson made two flying trips today taking a travelling man to Fisher this morning and on his return left at 11 o'clock with Dr. Dampier for Red Lake Falls on a hurry up professional trip. The run about is an ideal machine for this class of work and during the coming season Mr. Carlson will without doubt ride a mile or so. Last fall he made some record trips.

CANNOT MAKE TRIP — Charles Skoug who had intended to go to Seattle about the middle of June to attend a family reunion to remain till about the 10th of July and also attend the big exposition has decided that he will have to forego the pleasure of a trip as the big machine firm which he represents cannot see their way to dispense with his services during that length of time during a very busy portion of the year. Mr. Skoug regrets his inability to go west as it has been ten years since the members of the family were all together.

The Hill Hustlers as they were known last year, and the Crookston Hustlers as they style themselves according to the legend on the front of their new uniforms in great big letters came to grief yesterday in a game with the Carman team. The Hustlers never played in uniform before and each player is said to have carried a pocket mirror and they were sizing themselves up so much of the time that they for got to play ball in their last year's form. However they propose to practice every day from this time forward and the next game will show up to much better advantage.

A. H. Pitkin left this morning for St. Hilaire where he has purchased the big stock of general merchandise formerly owned by Rapp and Post. Mr. Rapp died several years ago and Mr. Post has been conducting the busi ness as trustee.

Mr. Pitkin has been there several weeks looking over the situation and Saturday closed a deal for the purchase of the entire stock and will conduct the store in the future.

The store is the largest one there, and the post office is located in it. Mr. Pitkin is thoroly posted in that line of business and he will remove his family there in a short time.

The annual tax sale was on at the court house today, about 1100 descriptions being offered. All the farm taxes were snapped up quickly and many of the village lots, everything in Fertile and McIntosh being handled by the two banks. Among the bidders were K. K. Hoffard of the McIntosh Bank, Norman Hanson of the Fertile bank, Ole Christianson, M. E. and Arthur Kirsch, and J. H. Stair, R. G. Burkhardt and Thomas Casey, the last three represnting eastern buyers.

Many others were present to buy up certificates on single tracts.

From Tuesday's Daily

SPENT SUNDAY HERE — Henry Funk has returned to Emerson where he is running a hotel, after spending Sunday with the family here.

IMPROVING RAPIDLY —Mr. Herman Krueger continues to improve following her operation and friends hope to se her entirely recovered in a very short time.

LOOKING AFTER FARM — Carl Vonderbeck left this morning for Euclid, where he will note the progress of seeding operations of his farmstead for a day.

VISITING FLICKERTAILS — Sam D. Felsing left this morning for Hannah N. D., where he will dispose of a shipment of manure spreaders and tanks, the demand for which is very good this year.

UP FISH LINE—J. Harry Stair and C. Q. Roemer left this morning for points up the Warroad line. They expected to do a litle fishing and their friends here hope they will have all kinds of luck.

IOWAN HERE—L. L. Lathrop of Strawberry Point, Ia., is here attending to some business interests and was being shown the shortest route around the block by Charley Hitchcock and Ed Ralston this morning.

LOOKING AFTER MILLS—Marcus Johnson arrived this morning from Stillwater and proceeded to Red Lake Falls on business. He says everything is quiet in the cities barring the wheat market which is the center of a great deal of interest.

ATTENDING DENTAL MEETING —Dr. W. A. Robertson and Dr. Thomas Spence left this morning for Grand Forks where they will attend a two days' session of the Red River Valley Dental Association and the North Dakota Dental Association, the two holding their joint annual meeting.

MRS. VONDERBECK IMPROVING —Mrs. Ben Vonderbeck who underwent a surgical operation at St. Vincent's Hospital last Friday is reported improving rapidly and it is expected that she will be able to be removed to her home the latter part of this week if no complications develop.

HAS CALL TO WARREN — Rev. Muhlsberg of Duluth who has been spending the past few days as the guest of Rev. Adolph Salveson of this city left this morning for Grand Forks where he will visit a day or two. He is considering a call from the Synod Lutheran church of Warren and will probably accept.

BACK FROM SAD MISSION — Al Kaiser the banker of Bagley was in the city this morning enroute home after a trip to Winona where he went to attend the funeral of a brother who died a short time ago in Seattle, the remains having been brought to the old home for interment. The deceased was the youngest brother and his death which followed a very short illness was a great shock to the members of the family.

ARTHUR IS WELCOME — A. H. Kirsch one of Crookston's most popular young men arrived in Bemidji Saturday for an over Sunday visit with friends here. Art is a great admirer of Bemidji and asserts that we have not only a fine summer resort but that our attractions are fine, at any season of the year. Come again, Arthur, you are always welcome. — Bemidji Pioneer.

NEW WEATHER STATIONS—Congressman Steenerson has asked Secretary Wilson of the departmena of agriculture to establish weather bureau stations at Baudette, Warroad and Fosston. The purpose of establishing these stations is to ascertain the rainfall in the vicinity of the Lake of the Woods for the benefit of the state drainage bureau, when the time comes to construct drainage works in that section of the state.

NEBY FARMER HERE—Ole Bruun one of the well known and prosperous farmers near Neby arrived yesterday and has been attending to some important business matters? He says that seeding operations in that section are pretty well wound up practically all the wheat being in the ground with many farmers thru with their oats and coarse grains as well. He says a good crop is being anticipated in that section.

TRADES FARM FOR STORE—Mr. Theodore Newhouse had traded his farm south of the city for a big mercantile stock at Williams, Minn., owned by Henry Wormninger. The transfer will not take place till Mr. Newhouse has taken the present crop off next fall. Mrs. Newhouse, however will go to Williams in a short time and familiarize herself with the stock and be in readiness to take charge in the fall when Mr. and Mrs. Wormninger will move onto the Newhouse farm which they will operate.

BOUGHT HALF SECTION — Ben Vonderbeck yesterday afternoon drove to Fanny township north of the city where he sold the east half of section 19 to a land buyer from Illinois who will move his family here during the summer and become a tiller of Red River Valley soil.

HAS MANY CONTRACTS—Wilhelm Johnson is busier than the proverbial bee these days. In addition to the basement of the New Store he has the village work at Fisher and a few days ago was awarded the contract for 2200 feet of cement walks about the Fisher school house and also will construct concrete steps there. Yesterday he spent at Fosston bidding on some big contracts there.

RUMOR WAS GROUNDLESS — Someone started a rumor ot the effect that some one in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Bengerson of the River Side Dairy had scarlet fever and this made some of their patrons apprehensive regarding the safety of taking milk from them. The story has no foundation in fact as they have neither scarlet fever or any other sickness in the family or any one employed there and have not had any illness in the past.

AUTO HOSPITAL—Will Finlayson the Euclid liveryman who recently purchased an automobile in honor of the arrival of a young son at his home had trouble with the "devil wagon" the first lap. He couldn't make the durn thing go at-all at-all and yesterday hauled it to Crookston to the hospital for lubrication or whatever was needed. It appears, according to friends(?) that Will had filled the gasoline tank with lubricating oil and oiled the machine with gasoline. Consequently there was all manner of explosions around the wheels and the gas tank was fine and greasy.

FUNERAL SERVICES—The funeral services over the remains of Miss Josephine Torberson were held this afternoon from the United Norwegian Lutheran church, Rev. T. T. Ove officiating, the remains having arrived from Minneapolis where death followed peritonitis which set in after an operation for appendicitis. Many friends gathered to pay a last tribute of respect and there were many beautiful floral tributes. The remains were laid at rest in Oakland cemetery.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

Atty. W. A. Marin is attending to business today at McIntosh.

Peter Gramer went to Thief River Falls this morning to look after some business matters.

EXTENDED TRIP—El Paterno Fitzgerald left last evening for a trip to Staples, Brainerd and other points where he expects to do a land office business.

A NEW GENERAL DELIVERY CLERK—Miss Valla Alderman is acting as the general delivery clerk at the post office during the absence of some of the other regular employes.

MAYOR SAMUELSON HERE — Mayor Hans Samuelson of Climax is spending the day in the city on business. He says seeding operations are nearly completed in that section all wheat having been seeded some time ago.

AFTER LAND OWNERS—Wm. H. Blake left last evening for Iowa where he expects to secure a number of land buyers to bring to the Red River Valley. He looks for the best movement in lands this season that has been experienced for a number of years.

BOUQUET FOR LUKKASON—Carl Lukkason has arrived here from Crookston to take a place with Spriggs Bros., plumbers. He is a fine clarinet player and will be a valuable addition to the Grand Forks Military Band.—Grand Forks Herald.

BEAR CUBS EXHIBITED— A. K. Austin has a cunning pair of bear cubs on exhibition in the show window in his place of business in the Opera Block. They were caught by a friend from Thief Lake who has just arrived from his claim near that place.

A 30-DAY BOARDER—Deputy Sheriff Casey returned this morning from Grand Forks where he went to get Ole Anderson who was sentenced by Judge Sullivan to 30 days in the county jail for too close an acquaintance with Flowing Bowl and Protracted Toot, two well known residents of the west end metropolis.

"A. W." A SMOOTH ONE—A. W. Rundquist who is about the smoothest article "on the pike" when it comes to soliciting subscriptions for daily papers came to the city yesterday from his home at Crookston and will "do" this city and surrounding towns for the Minneapolis Tribune, which he so ably represents "on the road."—Bemidji Pioneer.

PLEASED WITH PROSPECTS — T. B. McManus of the State Grain and Warehouse Commission will return to Duluth this evening after spending a couple of days looking after seeding operations on his farm east of the city. He says conditions have not been so favorable to seeding in many years as this spring. The soil being in ideal shape.

BIG CUT OF LOGS—Clair Craig, the north-country representative for the Thief River Falls Lumber company, has returned to Blackduck, where he makes his headquarters. Mr. Craig states that his company will take out about 29,000,000 feet of logs from the upper country, around the rivers tributary to the eastern arm of Red Lake. These logs will be taken down the Blackduck and Cormant rivers into Red Lake, will be towed by steamer across the lake to the Red Lake river and driven down the latter stream to the company's mill at Thief River Falls there to be sawed into lumber. The J. A. Irvine company has the contract for driving the logs from their present location to the mill.

HOW TO TREAT THE NEWSPAPERS

BISHOP SCADDING OF OREGON HAS SOME PERTINENT THINGS TO SAY—HE GIVES SOME ADVICE ON PREPARATION OF CHURCH NOTICES FOR NEWSPAPERS WHICH MAY BE READ TO AN ADVANTAGE IN CROOKSTON—WHEN YOU HAVE AN ITEM OF REAL NEWS DON'T FORGET THE REPORTER

Spokane, Wash. May 11—"Newspaper men should be treated as allies instead of as spies and impertinent meddlers in things which do not concern them. We can take them into comradship in the work we are doing and, by treating them as friends instead of enemies, secure their confidence, good will and co-operation."

Rev. Dr. Charles Scadding, Bishop of Oregon, said this in the course of an address on "The Secular Press as a Missionary Agency" at the biennial sessions of the Eighth Missionary department of the Episcopal church in Spokane, when high churchmen from Washington, Montana, Oregon, Idaho Wyoming, California, Utah, Nevada, New York, Pennsylvania and several other states were in attendance.

Bishop Scadding intimated that the average minister does not know news, when he mentioned that frequently an item of vital importance is concealed in a mass of matter otherwise of not the least interest to the reader. On this point he said:

"If you could hear the righteous indignation and the unrighteous abuse, and, I fear, profanity, created in newspaper offices of Friday nights when all hands are called to 'fix up the church notices' for publication, there would be instant reform in this direction I am told that week after week and year after year there are poured into the newspaper offices these carelessly written notices, often in almost undecipherable chirography, with no regard for the style of the paper for which they are written, frequently written on odds and ends of papers and often on both sides and thrown together in a haphazard sort of way.

"The task of preparing several hundred notices has become the most detested work in the newspaper offices, and every Friday night our civilizing influence on the working staff is in a large measure undone. It is only due to the newspapers that we be courteous, even in this small matter, and cleanliness and to present well-dressed and carefully prepared 'copy.'

"In preparing matter for the press you should observe newspaper rules of composition: Tell your story in the first three lines—three words are better—and elaborate afterwards. Then the reader can not 'ring off' before you have told him the gist of what you have to say."

Bishop Scadding said the value of the newspapers as a missionary agency depends upon the willingness of the ministers to go and make some effort in assisting it; "and" he added, "in considering the subject it is necessary for us at the outset to appreciate not the theoretical function of the secular press, but what it actually is, and what it actually does for the people.

It is not the 'moulder of public opinion', often it is not even the leader; but it does supply the facts, the fancies, the fallacies, if you please, on which public opinion is based.

"It must be borne in mind that the newspaper even tho it has 24 pages has not a single line to waste. It pays thousands of dollars for matter it does not print, and it is safe to say that no newspaper uses half the matter poured in upon it by the press associations, its special correspondents and the public generally. The great bulk of this news matter is bought and paid for, 'tho never destined to see daylight, not because it is not news, but because matters which the trained senses of the editor pronounce more important news crowd it out.

"Those same trained editorial senses are constantly on the alert for the important item. Just mention in the midst of three columns of really important church reports the mere incidental fact that the Rev. John Doe has resigned and that the resignation was accepted, and be prepared to turn out of bed at night and explain to half a dozen reporters all about the affair. The next morning the line of resignation may appear as three columns, while the three columns of church news will occupy scarcely more than that many lines. The editor knows that only three lines in your article contained the real news of the day and would help the sale of his paper.

"Now it can not be argued that we should encourage sensational doings, with the view of calling public attention to the church and its work. Even to a salacious morsel the editor himself would prefer a piece of news of an entirely different character, but he has his finger on the public pulse and he knows what is required. To me it is a certain indication when a newspaper shows disinclination to give space to an article that it will not be read if published.

"We can assume a different attitude to the newspapers. We can take a generous view of existing conditions, accept the newspapers as having a right to all our news and show them that we are with them.

"If we are to make good use of the secular press we can not overestimate the importance of the make-up of our articles and news notes. I believe that there is much of our work that could be presented in such dress that it would be attractive to the editor and consequently to the people. I fully believe that the establishment of a news clearing house in the Eighth department under the management of our departmental secretary to whom missionary experiences news notes and brief church teaching could be sent for general publication in the secular press, would be an experiment well worth trying.

"It must be remembered that the secular press is a democratic forum. The clergyman or layman who comes into this agora and mingles with the Attic demos must gird himself. The demos in its collective capacity is a juggernaut. It reminds me of what the colored porter in the barber shop said the other day, attributing his words to the 'good book.' 'The Lord' he quoted 'ain't got no respect for nobody.'"

CONFERENCE OF OFFICERS

MANY VALUABLE DISCUSSIONS OF SUBJECTS OF VITAL INTEREST

Immediately after the adjournment of the regular session yesterday after noon the Methodist church was turned over to Sunday School officers and a number of exceedingly helpful and interesting discussions were enjoyed by those present. The conference was well attended and the most enthusiastic interest was manifested in the session.

Rev. John Orchard of Fargo, told about the county president and his work, while other prominent workers from different portions of Minnesota related their experiences and told of what they had learned were the best methods of getting the best results. General discussions were lead by Secretary W. C. Pearce of Chicago, and Rev. H. H. Parish, of North Branch.

One of the principle discussions was lead by R. W. McLeod of St. Peter. who has taken a prominent part in the work of the different sessions. His subject was the "Duties of the District Officers."

DEATH OF PIONEER VALLEY RESIDENT

Mrs. Francois Lambert who has been critically ill for the past several weeks, died at her home in Red Lake Falls last Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were held at ten o'clock Thursday morning from St. Joseph's Catholic church, of which deceased was a member. Rev. Father Fayolle officiated. Mrs. Lambert was a pioneer of the county and leaves a large number of relatives to mourn her death. She was born in Canada sixty-two years ago. Forty years ago she and Mr. Lambert were married and to them fifteen children have been born, thirteen of whom are living. Twenty-eight years ago the Lambera family moved to what is now the town of Lambert, then a part of Polk county, and the town was named in their honor. For the past three years the family home has been in Red Lake Falls Five sons and five daughters, all married reside in the township of Lambert and three daughters are at the home. Besides these and Mr. Lambert there are a number of other relatives living.

RUSSIA ONSTAD DITCH ESTABLISHED

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS HAVE BIG GRIST OF WORK AHEAD OF THEM

Yesterday the board of County Commissioners established ditch No. 80 known as the Onstad-Russia ditch and bids will be advertised for at once. Today the board is considering a large amount of routine business. Tomorrow at 10 o'clock the proposition to establish a county road from Fisher to Huntsville will be taken up.

CUSTOM OFFICER MUST STAND TRIAL

Herbert Wright a Canadian government customs officer is in Fergus Falls to answer to a change of having assisted persons to cross the boundary who are not entitled to enter the United States. He is under indictment and his case is set for trial at the term of court which opens this week. The indictment was returned a long time ago, but a great deal of negotiation was necessary with the Canadian government before he was gotten under the jurisdiction of the United States.

Keep the Balance Up

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness or debility. The system need a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength and endurance.

Aitkin Republican: If Northern Minnesota ever expects to get reapportionment, it will have to send men to the legislature who will make all measures of local interest and benefit subservient to the question of the passage of a just reapportionment bill and who will unite and work for such a law to the exclusion if necessary, of all other laws. Without the power it is entitled to in the legislature, Northern Minnesota will always be at the mercy of the members from the southern part of the state, who are not always guided in voting by a sense of right and justice.

Sauk Center Herald: The 1909 legislature did a few—very few—good things. It certainly reached the limit when it came to helping anybody but itself. It's adjourned, and that's something to be thankful for. There will probably be still further cause for thankfulness when the next legislature convenes, for unless all signs fail most of the 1909 chairwarmers will be left at home. Mark the prediction.

Pine River Sentinel: The farmer that refuses to take chances on free distribution of seeds from Washington for his summer vegetables should not be accused of being a quitter. Of all the rotten grafts the United States government permits, the seed graft is the worst.

ACTIVITY IN MIDDLE RIVER

CREAMERY BEING ENLARGED TO TAKE CARE OF SKIMMING STATIONS

GENERAL FEELING OF OPTIMISM PREVAILS IN EASTERN MARSHALL COUNTY

Middle River, May 8—(Special Correspondence)—The creamery at this place has flattering prospects for a largely oincreased business the coming summer. Buttermaker Berggren recently made a trip to Randen, 25 miles east of here. where he worked up a skimming station by means of which on May 15th, eighteen new patrons will commence sending their cream to the Middle River creamery. The cream will be sent in regularly twice a week, a man and team having been employed to do the transorting. In anticipation of this and the increased receipts from earer by contigious territory, the creamery board has added another large receiving vat to the creamery's equipment.

Leonard Johnson of this township, and R. G. Marlette of Argyle, have been appointed appraisers of the state lands in Marshall County and started out on their work today. The lands yet unappraised lie mostly in the vicinities of Thief and Mud Lakes and the appraisers expect a few days of strenuous work as they will have to travel almost altogther on foot.

At a special school meeting held in this village a few days ago the district voted bonds to the amount of $800 for the purpose of finishing and eqipping a second room. Thus next year Middle River will have a semi-graded school and employ two teachers instead of one.

Postmaster Hjertos is today at Fergus Falls in attendance as a witness in the trial of the man charged with the robbery of the Strathcona postoffice a short time ago.

Preliminary steps have been taken towards the organization of a Farmers' Telephone Co., to build and operate a line between Middle River and Newfolden. It is confidently predicted that the project will be speedily pushed to materialization

Notwithstanding the lingering of the cold weather and late spring snow storms, seeding operations in this locality are farther advanced than at this time last spring. The wheat is all sown and considerable of the oats and the ground being so exceptionally dry, with a few warm days now the seeding will all be completed with flattering prosects for a bountiful crop

PHILLIPS MADE FINE RECORD

A prominent Iowa paper has the following relative to a brother of Wylie Phillips of this city who evidently has something of the same independence for which Wiley is noted.

"Charlie Phillips has resigned his job as secretary of the state Pharmacy commission. He did it because he got tired of the bickerings of the "cheap bunch" now trying to run things under the Carrollian dynasty at the state house. Of the fine record made by him the Dubuque Telegraph Herald has the following to say:

"More than a quarter million dollars passed thru his hands and not a dollar misappropriated or misspent or lost or not accounted for. That is the record which Hon. C. W. Phillips leaves behind him as he turns the office of secretary of the pharmacy commission over to others this week. There is no state official with cleaner record or having the confidence of all his associates.

"Mr. Phillips came from Jackson county, still his nominal residence and he early took an active interest in politics. He was good enough republican to be county chairman before he was of age and he displayed such masterly ability that he was a committeeman in charge of the campaign which landed Joe Lane in congress. Then the republicans of his district—the men who never had even a thought of voting for a democratic candidate for governor—put Phillips on the state committee and kept him there eight years. He could have continued longer but positively declined.

"Mr. Phillips had a great deal to do with swinging the second district into line for the progressive cause in Iowa republicanism and for this he has been liberally hated by a few who regretted the passing of the old regime. He was repeatedly threatened with loss of his position and other punishments, but nothing ever caused him to waver in his support of the party and its principles."

MICKELSON IS JAILED

MUST SERVE 30 DAYS FOR SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT A LICENSE

SENTENCED AT FERGUS FALLS TO 30 DAYS AND $100 FINE

From Saturday's Daily—

A. Mickelson, arrested for selling liquor in the town of Winger a few months ago without a government license was sentenced by Judge Baxter of the U. S. Court of Fergus Falls to 30 days in the Polk County jail and to pay a fine of $100. He was brought here yesterday by Deputy Marshal Rider. At the end of the 30 days by taking the poor debtor's oath to the effect that he is not worth over $20 he gets out of aying the fine by serving 30 days additional in jail.

COMMISSIONERS HAVE ADJOURNED

DISPOSED OF A BIG GRIST OF WORK DURING PAST THREE DAYS

The board of county commissioners finished up a big three days session yesterday afternoon and adjourned.

The road and bridge committee have, during the past week, looked over several locations where bridges have been petitioned for, and have recommended the following, in which the whole board concur:

Steel bridges, the cost of which is partially paid by the town, are located in the towns of Hubbard, Andover, and Sandsville. A wooden bridge is located over Tabor Ditch No. 2. in the town of Northland; also one in Higdem.

The Russia-Onstad ditch number 80 was established. This ditch will cost approximately $2,787 and will be three and one-half miles long.

The county road along the G. N. right of way between here and Grand Forks, petitioned for by Gervais and others was established.

The money appropriated to the county road and bridge fund by the legislature was divided among the different towns as follows:

RALPH RE-ELECTED AT $3,000 PER YEAR

WILL BE ENGINEER FOR STATE DRAINAGE BOARD FOR ANOTHER YEAR

George A. Ralph for years a resident of Crookston but for the past few years engineer of the State Drainage board has been re-elected for another year at a salary of $3,000. He has planned some vast drainage projects for the state during his term of service and a number of others are now in progress.

ALDERMAN RAUCH FIGHTING HARD

ELECTION MONDAY NEXT PROMISES TO BE RED HOT AFFAIR

The election on Monday next in the second ward for the selection of an alderman is developing into a very red hot affair. The present incumbent, Adolph F. Rauch is putting up a hard fight with his lieutenants scouring the ward for votes. The work has been prosecuted steadily but very quietly.

The supporters of W. P. Murphy are also very busy and great interest centers in the outcome.

All saloons will be closed on Monday and following Sunday lid the 32nd degree members of the Nose Blossom Association will have a rather strenuous session to keep up their spirits unless they lay in a good supply Saturday night.

COMMONER IN CROOKSTON

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN PASSED THRU CITY THIS MORNING

WILL COMMENT ON REPUBLICAN TARIFF REVISION LATER — IN FINE HEALTH

From Saturday's Daily—

Wm. Jennings Bryan thrice defeated candidate for president of the United States but still recognized as one of the most important factors in the politics of the country, passed thru Crookston this morning enroute from Grand Forks where he delivered his famous lecture on "The Price of a Soul." to Grand Rapids where he lectures tonight.

Mr. Bryan is in excellent health tho somewhat weary having attended a reception and banquet after the lecture, but received the representative of the Journal in his usual pleasant manner. Asked as to what he had to say regarding the tariff tinkering in Congress he said:

"I am waiting to see what the republicans mean by tariff revision. When they get thru I will have something to say."

Mr. Bryan spoke encouragingly of the outlook of the party. He declared that the situation could not be more satisfactory from a democratic standpoint. The republicans he declared, showed no disposition to keep their promises made before election. So far there had been no indication that the tariff would be revised so as to help the common people.

Mr. Bryan stated that after his present lecture engagements had been filled he would not work so strenuously in that line but planned on being at home to attend some other work which has had in view for some time past but was unable to accomplish from lack of time.

BIRD DOGS MAY BE MISSED

FARMERS WARN CROOKSTON DOG OWNERS BEFORE USING GUNS

Farmers residing east of the city who were in the city today desired thru the Journal to warn dog owners of Crookston against permitting their birds dogs to range in the country and kill barnyard fowl. Four dogs it seems, some pointers and some setters have been making excursions to the Jones and White farms and other places and have already killed a number of ducks and chickens. They did not want to shoot the dogs as they are evidently valuable hunting dogs, but desire to warn the owners that the dogs will be shot by someone very surely if they continue their ravages.

SULLIVAN WINS IMPORTANT SUIT

EJECTMENT CASE BROUGHT BY MINNEAPOLIS BREWING CO. DECIDED IN HIS FAVOR

The case of the Minneapolis Brewing company vs. Dan Sullivan, an action in ejectment, brought to secure possession of the property known as The Maine in East Grand Forks was tried before a jury in the municipal court here yesterday and decided by the jury in favor of Mr. Sullivan. This leaves Sullivan in complete possession of the premises. The suit has aroused much interest over the county.

Why They Change

The public man may wrong the people and be forgotten; he may serve them faithfully, with the same result. Corporations have memories. Favor them and they reward you handsomely; injure them and they hound you to the end. It is not strange therefore, that the political careers of so many able and honest men are cut short, nor that public officials so frequently find it convenient to favor the party with the long memory.—Twin Valley Times.

The Plummer Pioneer has been sold by Chas. W. Latta to E. L. Quist editor of the Thief River Press, who has installed Homer Mussey as manager of the paper. Mr. Mussey has been connected with the Press for several years is a good newsgatherer and an all around newspaper man. Here's hoping the Pioneer will succeed to the limit under the new management. Mr. Latta, one of the veteran newspaper men of northern Minnesota has not as yet announced what his future movements will be.

NELLIE WANTS COOL $25,000

SAYS HER AFFECTIONS HAVE BEEN DAMAGED TO THAT AMOUNT

SUES EAST GRAND FORKS BREWERY AGENT FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

From Thursday's Daily—

Papers have been served in a sensational damage suit in which Miss Nellie Rogers of East Grand Forks seeks to recover $25,000 damages from Charles Hanson, agent for the Val Blatz Brewing Co., at the same place, for breach of promise to wed.

Plaintiff alleges that Mr. Hanson has been keeping company with her for the past nine years and that their wedding was set for 1905, but that he failed to keep his agreement and that since that time he has refused to marry her.

She has a stack of letters written when Hanson was away on trips in which he addressed her in the most endearing terms and talked of marriage in them frequently. Plaintiff alleges that she did not know that Hansan was a married man till three years after they had been keeping company and that in the mean time plaintiff and Hanson had lived together.

It is believed that Hanson got wind of the suit as he left on a trip to Norway yesterday, but when he crossed into Minnesota from Fargo enroute to St. Paul an officer was on the train to serve the papers. Miss Rogers was also there and it is possible a reconciliation was effected as she has not yet returned to East Grand Forks.

Some are of the opinion that Hanson decided to take her along on the European trip.

The case will cause a big sensation in Grand Forks where Hanson's wife and family reside.

CLAIM LAW IS VIOLATED

UNIONS WANT NEW TRAIN CREWS AT THE BOUNDARY LINE

The Canadian trainmen's brotherhoods have placed before Canada's labor department at Ottawa an interesting international complication. G. Northern trains run into Manitoba out of Minnesota and North Dakota The unions claim that this is contrary to the alien labor law and that new train crews must be secured on that side of the boundary.

AFTER THE VIOLATORS

E. B. Heiberg of the state Pure Food Commission arrived in the city last evening from Roseau, Thief River Falls and other points in that section where he has been looking after the enforcement of the law. He says that the dealers as a rule are co-operating with him as they are as much interested in seeing that their patrons are protected as any one. As a rule it is the wholesalers entirely who are at fault.

DISPATCHER KEELEY PARDONED BY BOARD

LEAVES PRISON NEXT TUESDAY — PETITION THIRTY-FIVE FEET LONG IS PRESENTED TO MONTANA BOARD—FORMER CROOKSTON MAN BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN UNJUSTLY PUNISHED FOR CAUSING TRAIN WRECK HAD NO OPPOSITION AT HEARING—HAD ANOTHER MONTH TO SERVE — DISPATCHER DECLARES H EWAS GUILTY OF N O CRIME

From Friday's Daily—

At Helena, Montana, yesterday the state board of pardons approved the pardon extended to Train Dispatcher Keeley, of Missoula, Mont., by Acting Governor Allen two weeks ago. There was a good deal of satisfaction expressed among the railway men and others of Crookston where Keeley resideed for several years, when they heard that this action had been taken. Keeley has friends here.

Keeley was convicted in Sanders county, Montana, of involuntary manslaughter it being alleged that he was responsible for the Northern Pacific passenger wreck at Perma, Mont., last fall, when six lives were lost. He was sentenced to serve a period in the penitentiary of eight months. In another month his term would have expired.

When the board met yesterday no protests were submitted to the pardon but a petition 35 feet long and signed by men in every walk of life was presented to the body soliciting favorable action on the pardon. The board at once approved the governor's action and fixed the date when Keeley will be released for May 11. Nothing is known of Keeley's future plans.

Not Guilty of Crime.

"Keeley was guilty of no crime," said a Great Northern dispatcher yesterday. "He did exactly as any dispatcher would have done under the circumstances. An operator reported a train had not passed a station, Keeley made a meeting point accordingly. There was a wreck. The operator should have known if the train had passed. He had evidently been asleep and when there was an investigation he threw the blame on the dispatcher Keeley had been unable to get the operator to answer a call for some time and when he asked the operator about it he claimed he had been out of the station for a while and did not hear the call. He gave no hint that he had been asleep. On the contrary he denied it. Had he admitted the truth the dispatcher would have held the other train at a station above and no wreck would have occurred.

'It would be interesting to have a photograph of the jury which convicted Keeley. It is a safe bet that they were men who had grievances against the railway company and wanted to get even by convincing the dispatcher. I have heard that they were nearly all ranchers who were incensed because some men of the same calling had been killed in the wreck, and nursed old grudges against the railroad company.

A "Clean Up" Campaign

During the Bankers', the Sunday School and the C. E. conventions recently held in Crookston, visitors were very loud in their praise of the general appearance of Crookston. The asphalt streets and cement sidewalks caused much flattering comment. Visitors notice such conditions and to have them leave with good impressions is the biggest advertisement a city can have.

Crookston's streets are kept clean and are a credit to the city. However there are other things besides the streets which could be kept clean. For instance some of the alleys in the business district. Some of them are shameful. Old paper, rubbish and offal of every kind can be found without any search. The business men should take more pride in appearances and if they do not the authorities should insist that they get busy and have the rubbish cleaned up at least every other day. Several business houses could club together and have the rubbish removed at least every other day and every day would do no harm and the expense would be very slight under that system.

The larger cities as well as the smaller villages thruout the state and country as well, conduct regular "clean-up" campaigns with a grand final clean-up day when the finishing touches are put on and the Journal would suggest a similar campaign in Crookston.

The mater is one that should be taken up by the Commercial club and we are advised that Mayor McPhee would assist to the extent of his ability as chief executive of the city.

We would suggest that next Thursday May 13, be selected, as clean-up day, just to prove that it is not on unlucky number. There is no need of a long winded campaign. Let every one get busy and clean up their yards, fix their fences, sidewalks, etc., and on Thursday next unite in a general movement to put on the finishing touches.

Would not such a campaign make Crookston a city beautiful indeed?

Get busy.

No Time For Retreat.

In an Irish garrison town a theatrical company was giving performances, and some soldiers from the local barracks were engaged to act as supers. Their duties included the waging of a fierce fight in which, after a stirring struggle, one army was defeated on a given signal from the prompter. For a few nights all went well, but on the Friday evening a special performance of the piece was to be given under the patronage of the colonel and other officers of the garrison. The two armies met as usual at the end of the second act, when they fought and fought and kept on fighting, regardless of the agonized glare in the eye of their (actor) general, who hoarsely ordered the proper army to "Retreat, confound you." But the fight still went on, and soon the horrified manager saw the wrong army being driven slowly off the stage, still fighting desperately. Down came the curtain amid roars of laughter, and the fuming manager hastened to ask the delinquents why they had failed to retreat on hearing the signal.

"Retraite," roared a burly fusileer whose visage had been badly battered, "and is it retraite ye'd have us, wid the colonel and all the officers in the boxes?"—London Scraps.

Perfectly Correct.

A young minister in the course of an eloquent sermon on the pomps and vanities of the world staggered his congregation by exclaiming:

"Here am I standing, preaching to you with only half a shirt on my back, while you sit there covered with gewgaws and other baubles."

The next day a parcel containing several brand new shirts was left at his house by one of his hearers, a kind hearted old lady. Meeting the donor a few days afterward, he thanked her exceedingly, but expressed much surprise at receiving such an unexpected gift.

"Oh," said the lady, "you mentioned in your sermon on Sunday that you had only half a shirt on your back."

"Quite true," added his reverence, "but you seem to forget that the other half was in front."—London Answers.

The Chinese Sampans.

In Canton 400,000 people spend their whole existence in boats, which are there called sampans. They are born in them, live in them from infancy to old age and finally die in them. Collectively these boats form a floating suburb to the city proper, one of the most amazing human settlements in the world. Every creek is crammed with them. Along the main banks of the river they are huddled twenty deep —so close together that the covering of mats appears continuous as far as the eye can reach. And each sampan houses a separate family, with its own big brazier lamp, which serves for heating, lighting and cooking the evening meal. The scene when a really serious conflagration once gets a proper hold in the midst of these floating wooden homes may be imagined. Escape is impossible except for those moored at the outermost edge. In one of these conflagrations over a thousand persons lost their lives.

Wanted Her.

"An old couple from the east," says the Detroit Free Press, "are visiting their son in this city. If the mother gets out of sight of the father, he is constantly asking for her and is not content till they are together again. The other evening she went to another part of the house while he was in the parlor and after he had asked for her a half dozen times the son said, rather curtly:

"'It seems as though you couldn't be without mother five minutes at a time.'

"'You're right,' said the old gentleman slowly. 'That's the reason I married her.'"

Took Her at Her Word.

"I'll never tell another man I'd rather dance than eat."

"Why not?"

"He kept me waltzing until all the restaurants were closed."—Exchange.

DISGRACE ENDS IN SUICIDE

CLERK OF SCHOOL DISTRICT WHO WAS SHORT $64 ENDS LIFE

IN PEMBINA RIVER—HAD CASHED ORDERS FOR OTHERS AND USED THE MONEY

From Thursday's Daily—

Eugene Crueset aged 64 drowned himself in the Pembina river two miles east of Neche last night. He tied a sixteen pound sledge with a short cord to his throat. He left a note on the table at the home of Simon Lemier for whom he worked for his board, stating his intention of committing suicide by drowning. He wrote that he was unable to face the disgrace that he had brought upon himself by appropriating to his own use funds of the school district, of which he had been clerk for many years.

His peculations were made in the following manner: The school had been discontinued in his district and the pupils were sent to a neighboring district. Orders were issued to the other district for tuition and these Crueset cashed with the understanding that he was to give the money to the proper persons. Instead, he kept it himself. It is thought that in two instances the name of the president of the district was forged by Crueset whose wrong doing had been known for some time.

The school board of his district held a meeting on May 2 at which the case was discussed, Crueset admitting his offense. The total amount taken was $64 and the board told Crueset that they would allow him to continue as clerk, his salary of $25 for last year and the same for this year to apply on the amount.

No ill-feeling was shown, as Crueset had enjoyed the respect of all for many years and the disposition of the people of the district was one of profound regret at the discovery of the dishonesty of their old friend.

At a coroner's inquest held yesterday a verdict of premeditated suicide was soon reached. Crueset has no relatives in these parts.

FARGO CLUB MAY GO TO COAST

FARGO COMMERCIAL CLUB HAVE JUNKET TRIP TO ALASKA-YUKON EXPOSITION

The Annual Junket Trip of the Fargo Commercial club may be a trip to the Alaska-Yukon exposition this year

A committee of the club will investigate the possibility and feasibility of such a trip and George R. Hall will be the chairman of this committee.

The proposition to go to the Alaska-Yukon exposition in a special car or train was the result of the hustling propensities of the Northern Pacific road. This road thru their local agent, Mr. Johnson submitted to the club a statement of a similar trip which is to be made by the commercial club of Worcester Mass. They urged that the Fargo club should consider such a proposition and on motion of W. W. Smith the committee was authorized.

Nelson Fighting for Justice

It is gratifying to the newspaper publishers of Minnesota to note that Senator Nelson has taken up the fight in their behalf against the government usurpation of the job printing business. The senator has introduced a bill in the senate identical with the Ton Ville bill in the house providing for the prohibition of government printing of envelopes for private concerns. It was thru the solicitation of the Minnesota Editorial Association that the senator was induced to introduce this bill. Thus is the power of organization demonstrated. If the editorial associations of all the other states in the union take up this or any other proposition they can carry it thru. Senator Nelson is considerable of a scrapper and with him pushing this measure in the senate and a similar fight for it going on in the house there is every reason to hope that this unfair governmental discrimination against the job printers will be wiped out.—Middle River Pioneer.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT AT BEMIDJI

BLACKDUCK WOMAN ASKS $5,000 FOR ALLEGED IMPROPER CARE OF HER SON

SHE SUES DR. KOCH OF BLACK DUCK FOR MALPRACTICE

From Thursday's Daily—

A $5,000 damage suit instituted by Mrs. Mary Johnson of Blackduck against Dr. Koch also of Blackduck, was taken up in district court at Bemidji and promises to be one of the hardest fought legal battles ever waged in Beltrami Co.

Senator Peterson of Moorhead is attorney for plaintiff and E. E. McDonald of Bemidji is defending Dr. Koch. Mrs. Johnson alleges that Dr. Koch attended her son in March, 1908, and owing to neglect and misbehavior of the physician, young Johnson died of diphtheria.

The case was taken up at noon and the jury secured at 4 o'clock after a searching examination by both attorneys.

While the jury was being secured Senator Peterson moved that Dr. Koch be sworn so as to ask the defendant if he was not at the time of the death of Johnson protected against actions for malpractice by a surety bond. Objection was made, but the motion was sustained and Dr. Koch stated that he was so pratected at the time and hal renewed the bond since then.

Senator Peterson in opening the case state that he intended to prove that the defendant physician had been guilty of neglect and incorrect diagnosis and wrongtreatment which had caused the death of young Johnson.

Dr. Koch was called for examination and was still on the stand when court adjourned this evening.

STATE AID MONEY ALL APPORTIONED

FERGUS FALLS WILL NOT SECURE $2,500 FOR AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

City Superintendent MacLean of Fergus Falls County Superintendent Charlotte M. Knudson of Otter Tail Co., Senator Sageng and A. G. Anderson of Fergus Falls returned from St. Paul Tuesday night where they went to endeavor to secure $2,500 state aid for the purpose of establishing an agricultural course in the Fergus Falls high school. The legislature appropriated $25,000 for the purpose of establishing such courses and the money is to be divided among ten high schools of the state.

Fergus Falls will not be one of them, however, the board which has the distribution in charge deciding to turn the money over to the Alexandria school instead. The Perham school was also a candidate. One thing believed to have affected the decision not to give the money to Fergus Falls was the fact that this city is already receiving a good deal of state money, having the insane hospital located here. The policy of the board having the distribution of the money in charge also appears to have been to give it to smaller schools rather than the larger high schools of the state.

The ten schools which will receive $2,500 each are those of McIntosh, Canby, Glencoe, Wells, Albert Lea, Cokato, Alexandria, Hinkley, Red Wing and a consolidated rural school in Lac Qui Parle county. Red Wing was selected as one of the places for the reason that ithas a $65,000 building erected especially for its domestic science and mechanics art department.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: The source of the state capitol letters, written by a "competent observer" and describing the work of the legislature which so many Minnesota news papers have been publishing is at last revealed. It is found that these were letters provided by an organization of Republican state officials in the capitol who furnished funds and employed the scribe to furnish these letters free to the country newspapers The best that can be believed as to their motive is a desire to advance the interests of the Republican party by coloring the legislative reports to that end. The worst to be believed of the scheme is that it was for the purpose of advancing the personal interests of the officials contributing thereto, and the interests of their particular friends and allies in the legislature. Take your choice. As for this paper it wanted and accepted none of the letters, whatever thtir source or object.

Lessons From The S. S. Convention

The 51st annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School Association is now history. It was one of the greatest and most successful conventions held since the state association was organized. It brought together some of the foremost Sunday school workers in the United States and the addresses given at the various sesions of an inspiring character.

Such great gatherings of men and women, banded together with the sole purpose of the spread of the gospel exerts a tremendous influence for good They represent a great army of people who are striving to uplift mankind and raise the standard of morality and good citizenship by spreading the gospel and teaching the great principle of charity and brotherly love.

As a result of such great conferences the very best thoughts and suggestions are interchanged and every delegate present returned home with a ninspiration to work harder, live better lives and exert a greater influence for good.

The pessimist who says the world is growing worse is mistaken. The survey of the field as shown in the reports made, demonstrates that substantial gains have been made for the cause of righteousness all along the line in Minnesota and those from a distance brought the same glad tidings.

To Crookston the convention was especially important. In addition to the renewed local interest that has been aroused hundreds of delegates from a distance have returned to their homes with a very much revised opinion of this section of the country and before departing were unanimous in a hearty expression of appreciation of the hospitality extended by the people of Crookston, and in their praise of the beauty of the city its cleanliness and orderliness.

The benefit to a city that comes from such great conventions cannot be overestimated. and the committees in charge are entitled to great credit for the able and effective work they did. It meant unremitting effort on their part and they are entitled to the thanks of the people of the city for it.

Scientific Tariff Making

Is the tariff a political question It once was, in that bygone time when free trade had a following when democracy was more or less committed to the heresy, and when whole sections as opposed to other sections combated the principle of protection.

But there is no political vitality in free trade today. The country no longer divides upon the question of protection. Even the south demands protection in a broader measure and is willing to accord protection, in exchange, to the products of other sections.

The principle of protection stands virtually unchallenged today. The principle is settled; the practical application of it to a thousand concrete commodities remains. Is it in any sense a matter of politics whether these diverse commodities get this or that measure of protection It is much more nearly a matter of science.

At least, the scientific method should be employed to determine the schedules. That method is, first exhaustive investigation as to the facts essential and surrounding, and then, a mathematical calculation upon the facts as to the rate of protection demanded by the ascertained conditions.

The day of political tariffs is passing. The day of the scientific tariff is just commenced. A political tariff, even when it justifies itself, is a crude affair compared to the twentieth century scientific tariffs which French and German trained economists prepare and which French and German parliaments adopt.

What measure of protection in any given year a commodity requires, should be as much of a technical ques tion as whether six and eight inch guns should be included in the armament of our new battleships, or whether our ships are armored sufficiently high.

Now that the battle for the principle of protection has been won, the day for scientific construction of tariffs has arrived. In the natural evolution of things the crudities of political tariffs will tend to disappear. Schedules must be recognized as commercial and industrial affairs.

The Payne-Aldrich tariff should be about the last one framed politically. A bureau or a commission, sitting continuously, whose function is the scientific determination of tariff schedules from the study of the business and industrial facts, should report its investigations and recommendations to congress as the basis for future tariff laws.—Minneapolis Journal.

Good Advice From A Forger

A few maxims as a guide to young men entering business were given at Chicago Tuesday by Peter Van Vlissingen former real estate operator, whose gigantic forgeries covering a period of twenty years, were unfolded last week. Van Vlissingen is serving a sentence in Pollet prison, but is in Chicago trying to straighten out his books for his creditors.

This is the advice which the "forger king" would have young men follow to avoid his own fate:

"Be honest in small things; all criminals begin by practicing small dishonesties."

"Do not permit your conscience to become calloused. Once this occurs the fall will be certain."

"Be economical, and never risk other people's money in a venture, no matter how certain success may seem."

"Once you commit a wrong, make restitution immediately for delay means ruin, maybe death."

Van Vlissingen said sadly that once he was known as "Honest Pete." His first forgery was for $2,500. A clerk discovered this and absconded with all the money. Then Van Vlissingen had to forge again, and he kept at it until a year ago when he was exposed.

This is the experience of most crooks. Fortune may seem to smile on them for a time but in the long run they come to grief. Disgrace follows exposure and the future holds but litle encouragement for them.

The practically of being absolutely honest in little things leaves no opportunities for paving the way to larger peculations.

Hides And The Tariff

Sufficient data has been furnished to President Taft to convince him that the proposed tax of 15 per cent ad valorem on hides can not benefit the farmer or cattle raiser. It means simply a handicap of about $2 per hide upon the independent leather dealer or shoe manufacturer and a bonus of that amount to the Leather trust, which is controlled by the combine of packing house magnates.

The import duty enables the packers to screw up the price of hides to the independent tanners and in order to reap the full advantage of their position, the packers have gone into the tanning business themselves. If the proposed duty on hides is retained the next step of the packers' combine will be to go into the shoe manufacturing business and so absorb the tanning and shoe leather idustries.

Senators and Representatives in congress who contend that the tariff on hides is protecting the farmer simply are fooling themselves. The farmer knows better. In 1907, when the farmers were selling their cattle for $12.50 a head the packers were selling the hides for $9 each. The duty on hides operates to force up artificially the cost of all articles manufactured of leather and the ultimate consumer foots the bills.—St. Paul Dispatch.

CONG'MAN STEENERSON IS HOT AFTER M'VEIGH

CROOKSTON CONGRESSMAN WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT PURE FOOD RULINGS—INTIMATES THAT YOU CAN POISON THE PEOPLE BY IT IF YOU HAVE A PULL—INTRODUCES RESOLUTIONS CALLING FOR INFORMATION FROM SEVERAL DIFFERENT DEPARTMENTS ABOUT EXECUTIVE ORDERS SUSPENDING RULES

Acting on what he believes to be reliable information to the effect "that if you have a pull you can poison the people and profit by it," Representative Steenerson of Minnesota, according to a Washington special yesterday introduced four resolutions in the house calling upon the department of commerce and labor, department of agriculture, department of justice and the treasury department for information as to whether there has been any executive order suspending the operation of the pure food law or suspending prosecution in any case where a charge of violation has been made.

Mr. Steenerson says that he has information to the effect that there has been such executive orders by some of the departments, and if this is true he wants to know what they were, who secured them, and why.

"It appears," continued Mr. Steenerson, "that there are a great many instances in which there is a very close question whether a certain food comes under the ban of the law, or whether it does not.

"This question is reported to be decided by some individual in some of the departments. In other words, there seems to be a pile of good fish and a pile of bad fish. If the fish is doubtful and belongs to a man with a pull, it goes to the good pile. Otherwise it goes to the bad pile.

"What is wanted is to know by just what process the decision is made."

One bill of information which Mr. Steenerson has is a statement credited to Speaker Bancroft of the Wisconsin legislature, who is quoted as saying:

"The present secretary of the United State treasury is a man of ability because he has succeeded in making a million dollars by cheating the American people with adulterated foods. For this reason he was chosen to guard the money of the country and incidentally, override the rulings of the national food commissioner."

Mr. Steenerson hopes to get action on his resolutions within a week or ten days.

HIS BODY IS FOUND ON HIS FATHER'S GRAVE

CHARLES E. RICH MANAGER OF WESTERN UNION AT GRAND FORKS SLAYS SELF WHILE INSANE — BODY OF DECEASED IS FOUND BY SEXTON IN CEMETERY AT MAQUOKETA, IOWA—DECEASED LEFT GRAND FORKS FRIDAY NIGHT AND HIS WHEREABOUTS WERE UNKNOWN UNTIL FATAL NEWS — WAS BROTHER OF MRS. C. C. HARRINGTON AND GEORGE RICH

Many friends were shocked yesterday by the news from Maquoketa, Ia., that Charles Rich, manager of the Grand Forks office of the Western Union, had committed suicide in a cemetery.

The following brief message dated Maquoketa, Ia., was received from the Associated Press by The Herald yesterday:

"Charles E. Rich of Grand Forks, N. D., shot himself on his father's grave in this city early this morning. His body was found by the sexton. Rich was formerly a telegraph operator at this place and in Chicago. He was 45 years of age and married."

That Manager Rich was insane when he took his life is not doubted by those who knew him best. He had been worrying over his business affairs and had been drinking heavily for the past few weeks. His affairs are in bad shape according to the Western Union employes. There is no shortage to furnish a motive. Insanity seems to be the only plausible theory. For a period of over six months he had acted queer at times and it is believed that his excessive drinking was due largely to a desire to overcome his mental affliction.

The deceased left Grand Forks Friday of last week. He caught an evening train for Crookston and purchased a ticket for that point. All efforts to trace him from Crookston failed. His relatives had the police use every effort to find him. It was thought Monday that he had gone to Duluth.

Assistant Superintendent Bradley of Minneapolis is at Grand Forks to look after the office. He found everything in good shape. If there should be any shortage it will not be over $100. Rich left $170 in a local bank. From this it is certain that it was not any financial difficulty which troubled him.

The deceased is survived by a daughter aged six years, who has been making her home here with him, his sister, Mrs. C. E. Harrington formerly of Euclid and now of Grand Forks and his brother George Rich. They left for Iowa to attend the funeral. The deceased will be laid to rest by the side of his father, who died several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington and Mr. Rich passed thru Crookston last night and were accompanied this far by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Misner old friends, who went to Grand Forks yesterday on receipt of the news.

GERMANS VOTED IRISH ELECTED

WM. P. MURPHY ELECTED ALDERMAN YESTERDAY BY VOTE OF 140 TO 80

BIGGEST VOTE POLLED EVER RECORDED IN SECOND WARD —TWO BLANKS

From Tuesday's Daily—

The dust is all settled in the Second ward. The battle of ballots waged yesterday in the aldermanic fight resulted in the election of Wm. P. Murphy by a vote of 140 to 88, giving Mr. Murphy a majority of 52.

The vote polled was the largest in the history of the Second ward, 230, there being two blank ballots.

From early morning till the polls closed at 7 o'clock the two factions hustled out the votes. Mr. Murhy will qualify at once and take his seat in the council at the next meeting.

This settles a controversy that has been the subject of much discussion since the retirement of B. F. Zerracher who resigned some months ago. Mr. Rauch has atended but two meetings during his appointment to fill the vacancy.

STRUCK BLOW; MIND FAILED

SAD CASE OF BOY TAKEN TO HOME FOR THE FEEBLE MINDED

ONE TAKEN FROM POLK AND ONE FROM RED LAKE COUNTIES

From Wednesday's Daily—

Last evening county commissioner Ben Clements went to Faribault in charge of Otto Leadhoff aged 21 years who was committed to the home for the feeble minded. He has been living with his sister, Mrs. John Gilstorf who resides on section 15 in the town of Crookston.

His mother accompanied him. The father deserted his family several years ago and his mother claims that Otto was bright until his father hit him over the head with a cord wood stick when he was about 12 years old.

Sheriff Olson came down from Red Lake County also last night with Ragnild Roning who was also committed to the home for the feeble minded She has been supported by the town of Numedal for years. She is 55 years of age and single.

IN THE INTEREST OF PRODUCERS

Plan to Organize Cattlemen and Grain Growers.

MEETS IN SPRINGFIELD, MO.

National Farmers' Union Proposes to Carry Out the Same Plans in the West and Southwest as It Has in the South, Where It Is Now Claimed That Organization Controls the Price of Cotton.

Springfield, Mo., May 13.—The first step toward securing closer relations between the grain growers and cattle raisers of the West and Southwest was taken here at a mass meeting of the National Farmers' union, which has a membership of 3,000,000. The sessions will be executive. Charles S. Barrett of Union City, La., president of the union, however, gave an outline of the body's work in a significant interview before calling the meeting to order.

"We have," said President Barrett, "found a solution for one of the most important problems in the South, the handling of the cotton crop to the best interests of the grower. There has been no consolidation of the farmers into a 'trust,' but an amalgamation of warehouses. At the present time we have a thorough organization that can regulate the price of cotton. We are deriving as much benefit in the cotton markets today as the market manipulators. We have now reached nearly the height of our usefulness to the South and have turned to the assistance of the Middle West and the Northern farmer with our organization and financial support.

"I am not familiar with the condition and needs of the grain and stock growers, but the solution we have found in the South will be the basis of our work here."

DETRIMENT TO FLOUR TRADE

Wheat Manipulation Affects Our Foreign Business.

Washington, May 13.—"Wheat manipulation at Chicago has rendered business in American flour impossible for months," reports Special Agent M. H. David of the department of commerce and labor. Mr. David has been in Europe for several months investigating conditions of the markets there for grain and flour. He writes the bureau of manufactures touching the effect of recent speculation in this country in wheat as follows:

"I confidently believe that if the wheat speculators had let the market alone we should have had exported at least 2,000,000 barrels more of flour to Great Britain and Europe on the current crop than the figures will now show.

"Dealers everywhere were turning their attention to America, influenced somewhat by the work done to regain their trade, and they were finding that the improved quality of our product and better shipping service was telling in their favor. Then in October the corner began to develop and trade was turned aside. The price of bread and the distressed financial conditions on this side did not justify in the minds of buyers any faith in higher prices. The result is the home mills on this side have done more business than usual and the importers less."

MERGER OF COAL COMPANIES

New Concern the Largest of Its Kind in the World.

Baltimore, May 13.—The Consolidation Coal company has announced that negotiations have been completed for merging the Piedmont Coal company, the Somerset Coal company, the Clarksburg Fuel company, the Pittsburg and Fairmont Fuel company and the subsidiaries, including railroads, floating equipment, docks and other property owned, with the Consolidation Coal company, thus making the latter corporation the largest mining industry of its kind in the world.

The companies have a combined capital stock of $37,650,000 and own and control 200,000 acres of coal lands in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The capital stock is exclusive of the bonded debt and outstanding capital of the subsidiaries.

Roosevelt's Luck Continues.

Nairobi, B. E. A., May 13.—Theodore Roosevelt's hunting luck continues. The former president, on his last expedition, shot a leopard and captured the animal's two cubs. A buffalo and two giraffes have also been captured by the expedition. The party is still in camp near Machakos. No further cases of smallpox have developed among the porters.

Probably Means End of Matter.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 13.—The Missouri state senate refused to recede from the tax rider amendment to the prohibition joint resolution and asked the house for a conference committee. This action is taken generally as spelling the end of legislative action on the subject at this session of the general assembly.

WANDERING LEG GETS BACK HOME

SWEDE LEAVES HIS ARTIFICIAL LIMB IN CUSTODY FOR FOUR YEARS

C. E. MISNER OF PASADENA AIDED HIM TO REACH HIS BELOVED BROTHER

From Wednesday's Daily—

"For four years the ghost of a cork leg has been stalking about the country," says the Pasadent, Cal., Star, "but at last it has been returned to its owner, and Charles E. Misner, now with the Frank C. Platt Investment Co., is relieved to think that the troubled spirit will cease its wanderings.

"Mr. Misner, before he came to Pasadena, was chairman of the poor committee at Crookston, Minn., where it was his business to destroy the reputation Crookston had long enjoyed, a sa haven for weary vagrants and gentlemen of leisure trying to collect the living which the world owed them

"In February, 1905, one Emil Johnson a Scandinavian, came down from Winnipeg, when the thermometer was forty degrees below zero. Emil was a plain hobo, but he had a cork leg extending almost to his thigh and he also had a desire to be entertained at the expense of the town of Crookston.

"Mr. Misner as chairman of the poor committee soon convinced him that he could not be the guest of the municipality, and was going to send him back to Winnipeg. Emil wanted to go to Duluth instead, saying he had a brother there, but this was the usual story given in such cases, and carried little weight.

"Finally the Scandinavian offered to leave his cork leg as security, if he could be provided with the $7.77 necessary to transport him to his brother's residence. Mr. Misner agreed, and the leg was placed on file in the records of the poor committee.

"Soon Mr. Misner came to Pasadena Shortly afterwards he received two postal cards from Emil in Chicago, His epistle was commenced on one card and ended on the other card. It was to the effect that "Ay got job here but ay bane ned my leg to hold it."

"Mr. Misner referred the serial communication to his successor as chairman of the poor committee at Crookston.

"Last week there appeared in the Detroit Fre Press a dispatch to the effect that the cork leg had finally been returned to its owner. It was worth $125.

"During the four years' interval, the press of the middle west has been filled with stories of the affair. Several of the sensational journals faked up photos of Mr. Misner walking down the street with the long leg under his arm.

"Now the leg is firmly attached to Emil's hip again and the Scandinavian probably will not let it out of his possession again."

DIRTY FIGHT IN GRAND FORKS

CITY COUNCIL DETERMINED TO MAKE MAYOR TAYLOR SIMPPLY A FIGUREHEAD

LEGALITY OF MAYOR'S ACTION IN REMOVING DURICK SETTLED IN COURTS

From Monday's Daily—

A mandamus action will probably be instituted today by Attorneys Scott Rex and G. C. H. Corliss in be half of M. E. Durick street commissioner removed by Mayor J. D. Taylor of Grand Forks which will decide the legality of the mayor's action in removing Durick, vetoing a resolution paying him for services after his removal and appointing John Dunlop to succeed him.

The attorneys for Mr. Durick who have looked up legal authorities, say in regard to the proposition that they are convinced that the mayor's acts are clearly illegal.

Before Judge Templeton

The case will be taken up before Judge C. F. Templeton and it is likely that it will be taken to the supreme court for a final decision no matter what he may rule.

The mayor vetoed the resolution authorizing the payment of Durick's salary Tuesday.

BELIEVE BABE WAS MURDERED

BODY OF LITTLE BABY WAS FOUND IN THE RED LAKE RIVER

CORONER STENSHOEL AND OFFICERS ARE TRYING TO LOCATE GUILTY PARTIES

From Wednesday's Daily—

A profound sensation was caused in this city last evening by the discovery in the Red Lake River just below the new Great Northern bridge near the foot of Front street of a little baby girl, fully developed, with its forehead crushed in by a blow from some blunt instrument, and Coroner Stenshoel, Chief Eck, Sheriff Daniels and County Attorney Hagen all are unanimous in the opinion that it is a foul murder.

The infant had not been in the water more than a day or two and was in perfect shape. All the machinery of the law has been started to unearth the guilty party or parties, and as the tragedy has been enacted so recently the officials feel certain that arrests will follow within a day or two.

There was nothing on the child that might lead to identification. It had been thrown into the river absolutely naked. The body was in such perfect state of preservation that the marks of the fatal blow were very distinct.

No stone will be left unturned to mete out justice to the guilty.

SOLD RIGHTS AT A GOOD PRICE AND WILL GET A ROYALTY BESIDES

Ben Clements has completed a deal for the sale of the right to manufacture and sell his ditching machine in Canada. The machine for the Canadian trade will be manufactured in Winnipeg by a big concern.

The price paid for the right was a good one and in addition Mr. Clements will receive a royalty on every machine manufactured.

MAKING HOMES IN THE TIMBER

MOOSE CREEK COUNTRY IN BELTRAMI COUNTY RAPIDLY DEVELOPING

"The territory around Moose creek is being rapidly settled with a progressive set of farmers who will soon have that section developed into one of the most progressive agricultural and dairying districts of Beltrami county" says J. R. Kolar, who has a homestead near the mouth of Moose creek.

Several homesteaders who made filings at the Cass Lake office on lands in the Moose creek country are already on their claims and are building homes and preparing for the summer's work. There are many Bohemian settlers in the Moose creek country. They are first class farmers and of a thrifty disposition—just the kind of people needed to develop a new country.

BUILDING A NEW RAILROAD

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT IS GOING ON IN CENTRAL MINNESOTA

RAILS BEING LAID FROM SWAN RIVER TO HILL CITY

From Tuesday's Daily—

An important event for central Minnesota was the arrival of the track layers at Hill City yesterday over the road bed of the Mississippi, Hill City & Western Railway. This is a new railroad enterprise, running from Swan River on the Great Northern railroad's Duluth line into Hill City in northwestern Aitkin County.

It opens a rich section of cou[illegible] hitherto inaccessible, but which has already attracted a good many settlers, drawn thither by the superior quality of the sail and the existence of large bodies of fine hardwood timber. It was this hardwood timber which led outside capital, assisted by residents of the locality, to organize and build this independent railway for the purpose primarily of getting out this hardwood for manufacturing purposes.

Hill City is beautifully situated on the west shore of Hill Lake, a body of water five miles long, but which narrows opposite Hill City, where it is crossed by the railroad, which terminates in the village.

This is destined to be a prosperous dairy farming country with excellent markets near at hand in the iron mining towns.

Central Minnesota has been much neglected heretofore because of lack of railroad facilities, but the penetration by an independent line into that region between the Great Northern and Nor. Pacific is going to change the condition of things in that quarter. Trains will run regularly from Swan River to Hill City about June 1st.

GREAT PRAISE FOR PROF. RYDNING

CROOKSTON MUSICIAN IS GIVEN A HIGH COMPLIMENT AT GRAND FORKS

Speaking of the 17th of May celebration at Grand Forks yesterday the Herald says:

"Both afternoon and evening programs were given and on both occasions the large auditorium was packed to its greatest capacity. The afternoon exercises were opened with a magnificent pipe organ solo by Prof. P. H. Rydning, of Crookston, whose playing was received most enthusiastically. Prof. Rydning has the honor of being recognized as the greatest Norwegian pipe organ soloist in America. He played the pipe organ with brilliant success in the large cities in Norway when but 11 years of age. His renditions yesterday at both entertainments were a revelation to the music lovers present."

MOORHEAD MAN GETS CONTRACTS

HAS SEVERAL CONTRACTS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF CROOKSTON WALKS

Contractor Godfrey of Moorhead has been given several contracts for the construction of cement walks in Crookston. Among those whom he will build sidewalks for near the court house are Chas. Loring, W. A. Marin and G. S. Chesterman. Local contractors state that while there is considerable work in sight later on, that more sidewalk work could be handled at the present time.

Montana is getting to be a favorite playground for train robbers. The gang that would let an engine run wild into a passenger train as the bandits did Saturday night near Mead should be hung, and hung quickly. Robbery is bad enough but a set of brutes who take fiendish delight in the slaughter of human beings after robbing a train are so low that no prison sentence is severe enough. They are not human.

SHOCK FELT AT WINNIPEG

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK PARTICULARLY SEVERE AT REGINA, WESTERN CANADA

PEOPLE IN SEVERAL CITIES WERE TERROR STRICKEN—FIRST IN HISTORY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Earthquake shocks varying in intensity were felt all thru the west Canadian prairies at about 10:20 o'clock central time Saturday evening in most places rattling dishes banging doors and shaking windows, while at several points people were driven in alarm out of doors.

At Woolseley the well of the electlight plant caved in just before [illegible]k was felt and the town was plu[illegible] darkness.

At Re[illegible]tients in the hospital were shaken out of bed and people rushed in terror from hotels and big buildings.

Light at Winnipeg

The shock was very light in that city but was distinctly felt at Selkirk on Lake Winnipeg and from there the disturbance was noted at scattered points for 1,000 miles west across the prairie.

The shocks appear to have been most severe in the heavy "Gumbo" country of the Saskatchewan along the main line of the Canadian Pacific but were felt as far north as Prince Albert.

First in Country's History

It is the first time in known history that earthquake shocks have visited the Red River or Saskatchewan valleys and Professor Frank Allen, Ph. D,. of Manitoba university said last night that they might never recur.

The professor attributes the disturbance to a wave or echo of serious earthquakes in South America or the central Pacific, and holds that the vibration thus caused has followed the shord of a circle coming out in the Canadian Prairie.

He points out that the last earthquake on record was noticed at first in the observatories of western Europe, and it was some weeks before it became known that the disturbance actually occurred in the barbarous region of northern India and Persia. He thus thinks that information will come to hand of an upheaval in the southern part of the continent or in the waters of the Pacific.

The following towns in Manitoba experienced the shocks: Selkirk, Deloraine and Virden; and the following in Saskatchewan: Moosomin, Langham, Maple Creek, Swift Current, Theodore, Qu'Appelle, Wolseley and Creelman.

Felt in North Dakota.

North Glasgow, Havre and Great Falls, Mont., were severely shaken, and the shock was felt as far east as Dickinson and Fryburg, N. D., where telegraphers were frightened from their posts.

DARING ROBBERS HOLD-UP GREAT NORTHERN TRAIN

Rifled Mail And Wrecked Cars Near Colbert Wash. Booty Valued At $20,000.

Crew Attempts To Foil Robbery. Desperados Say "We Have Been Heard of Before."

From Monday's Daily—

In the hold-up of Great Northern passenger train No. 3, between Colbert and Mead shortly before 12 Saturday night 12 persons were injured when the engine and mail car were run wild down the track by the bandits after they had rifled the mails collided with the remaining cars of the train. The bandits detached the engine and mail car from the train ran them down the track and after the registered mail had been opened sent the car back to collide with the balance of the train.

The conductor saw the wild cars running at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour and he and the trainmen placed a tie on the track in an effort to stop them.

When the train reached Colbert, some switching had to be done. While the engine was busy two men appeared in the cab and ordered engineer William Miller to couple his engine to the train and pull out.

Machine-Like Work of Robbers

After the train had proceeded a few miles the engineer was ordered to stop and he and his fireman were forced to leave the cab. Two robbers then went to the door of the mail car and ordered it opened. Their commands were obeyed by Benjamin F. Stumps mail clerk.

Meanwhile two other bandits were with the engineer and fireman who were uncoupling the mail car and the locomotive. Soon after the train stopped, conductor C. L. Robertson jumped from the car but was driven back by a dozen revolver shots. Hastily climbing into the cab the outlaws sent the engine down the track how far is not known.

Half an hour after the engine and mail car had disappeared they were seen coming down the track and hurried preparations were made to ditch the runaways but without complete success.

Two Trainloads of Deputies

Two special train loads of deputies were hurried from Spokane when word of the hold-up was recerved. Doctors were also taken out on the train to care for the injured. Chief Ryan of Hillyard sent out with a posse and watched all roads leaving Spokane. No trace of the robbers was found. It is reported that the bandits obtained a large sum of money from the registered mail, the amount being placed at $20,000.

As the robbers entered the cab at Colbert, one said to the engineer:

"You have heard of us before," indicating that they had been involved in other train hold-ups in the vicinity of Spokane, the last few months.

Many Rumors Afloat

There were many rumors afloat Great Northern employes here last evening and this morning. One was to the effect that the express car had also been robbed of about $15,000 and another was that several cars were smashed to pieces and three persons killed when the engine and detached cars collided with the train, but none of them could be substantiated.

WILL ASK FOR EXTRA SESSION

NORTHERN COUNTIES PLAN PETITION URGING NEED OF REAPPORTIONMENT

HARRY IVES GIVES INTERVIEW TO A MINNEAPOLIS NEWSPAPER

From Tuesday's Daily—

According to Harry S. Ives of St. Hilaire a monster petition is to be sent from northern Minnesota to Governor John A. Johnson, asking him to call a special session of the legislature to pass a legislative reapportionment bill. Mr. Ives was at the state capitol yesterday and said the movement was already under way. He was a republican candidate for the house last fall in district composed of Beltrami, Cleanwater and Red Lake counties.

"We think the only chance for northern Minnesota to get justice in legislative representation is a special session called for the purpose," said Mr. Ives to a Minneapolis Journal representative. "There will be a federal census next year, but the result will not be out in time for the legislature of 1911 to use it for a basis of apportionment. Southern Minnesota will put us off again on the pretext that we must wait for the federal census. So it will go on year after year, unless the legislature's duty is brought up to it by a call for a special session. Our district has six times the population of some in southern Minnesota even going by the 1905 census. A petition will soon be circulated and will be signed by thousands of voters in northern Minnesota. Governor Johnson has called attention to the ujust codition of affairs and I think if the public demand for reapportionment is made strong enough he will make the call for an extra session."

The pessimist doesn't bore us with his alleged funny stories.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION MET RELATIVE TO NEW PARK $10,000 ROAD

SENATOR HANSON VOTED AGAINST THIS BILL PROBABLY BY MISTAKE

From Monday's Daily—

The State Highway Commission has just concluded a session held at Douglas Lodge, Itasca Park relative to the construction of the new state highway leading to the park which will make it possible to get to the park either from Park Rapids or from Bagley.

At the recent session of the state legislature a bill providing for a $10,000 appropriation for this purpose was passed, the only negative votes being cast having come from Senator Hanson and Ole Sageng, the vote of Hanson probably having been by mistake.

The road has been badly needed for some years past and the people thru out that section are rejoicing that it will be constructed this year.

Any money expended on highway construction is money well expended. We want more good roads just as fast as they can be built.

"17 DE MAI" QUIET HERE

The 17th of May, Norwegian independence day passed off very quietly here, there being no special celebration. The Viking Chorus went to Leeds, N. D., to help celebrate there. Fargo, Grand Forks, Bemidji and other points had big celebrations but as July 5th is to be a red letter day here coupled with the firemen's tournament it was not thought advisable to celebrate the 17th.

PREPARING FOR TOURNEY

PLAN METHOD OF RAISING FUNDS FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF FIREMEN AND EAGLES

OF WINNIPEG — GREAT 4TH OF JULY CELEBRATION IS PLANNED

From Tuesday's Daily—

A start was made today to prepare for the big event of the year—the Firemen's Tournament and the 4th of July celebration. The committees appointed by the Commercial club and the Crookston Fire Department met in the commercial club rooms this morning and the result was that from now on the many details will be taken care of and there is no question but that the result will be one of the been held in Crookston.

While the committee assembled this morning with the special object of planning for the financing of the project, considerable time was taken in discussing and talkig over the program which would be arranged for the event and from the plans which have been formed there is no question but that thousands of visitors will be attracted to Crookston and for at least three days the city will have all the visitors that can be looked after.

Great Fourth Celebration

In the first place it is the intention of the committee to pull off a Fourth of July celebration of such magnitude as has never before been attempted in this section of the northwest. There will be a display of fireworks which will be specially made up for the occasion and the past few years of inactivity along this line will be more than made up for. Many set pieces have been selected already pending the final ratification of the committees and all kinds of different colored fire, rockets, Roman candles, bombs etc. At the same time citizens generally will undoubtedly lay in a store of fireworks larger and more extended than heretofore thought of and thruout the day and night patriotic enthusiasm will be at fever heat.

The national holiday will be celebrated on July 5 and this feature of the program cannot help but attract residents from all sections of northwestern Minnesota. Already word has been received from different towns and cities in the section that they would have large crowds here to participate in the celebration.

Tournament Opens July 5th

The opening day of the Firemen's Tournament for Northwestern Minnesota will be July 5 and the following three days will be devoted to the association's entertainment and pleasure. The firemen always attract large crowds and the indication is that owing to the central location of the tournament city great crowds will attend from all directions.

Secretary Thomas R. Johnstone has been spending some time in visiting the different cities in this section and arousing enthusiasm along the lines of sending running teams to take part in tournament and he has met with great success. Many will come with well trained and drilled teams and some will bring their entire fire department. Others will bring their local bands, baseball clubs and many of their citizens so that there will be no question as to the success of the tournament.

Winnipeg Eagles Coming

Thru invitations extended by the local lodge of Eagles the fire department, the city officials and the commercial club the lodge of Eagles of Winnipeg will celebrate the Fourth of July in Crookston. At the present time arrangements are being made to bring a big excursion to the city from the Canadian city and it is estimated that if the plans now farmulated are carried out at least 1,000 Cnadians will spend July 5 in the city.

This will give the celebration international importance and interest and will be of the utmost benefit to the city.

A Woodmen's Day

One of the three days of the tournament will be devoted to the Woodmen of Northwestern Minnesota and special prizes will be offered for the best drilled and uniformed Forester team. It is expected that nearly every lodge in this section will have its team present and this will add greatly to the attendance and enthusiasm prevailing.

Special Trains Necessary

It will be necessary to secure several special trains on the different branches of the lines reaching Crookston for July 5. The committee has got this under consideration and there is no doubt but that every facility will be afforded so that every section can reach the city in time to participate i every feature of the program. A special will be absolutely necessary from Winnipeg and also from Warroad while the other branch lines will also be looked after.

Committee Will Visit All

In order to have this large celebration it will be necessary for the citizens of Crookston to furnish the funds to entertain the large crowds which will make Crookston their headquarters for at least three days. The fireworks and the prizes offered to the competing teams during the tournament will involve considerable expense and the committee on finance has decided to give every one an opportunity to participate in the pleasure of the event. Different members of the committee will start out next Thursday morning and make a thoro canvass of the business section of the city and it is hoped that they will meet with a most liberal response.

Whatever is to be done must be done at once as in a very short time advertising matter must be gotten out and sent into all sections and at the same time the program has to be arranged and all the preliminary details must be made ready. The committee desires to close up its canvass in as short a time as possible and to this end it is desired that an announcement should be made of its visit.

START SUIT AGAINST E. G. F.

TO RESTRAIN MUNICIPALITY FROM USING NEW DUMPING GROUNDS

HEARING ON 24TH BEFORE JUDGE WATTS IN THIS CITY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Pauers were served yesterday on Mayor Dunlevy, City Recorder Zimmerman, members of the city council, and City Scavenger Garland of East Grand Forks in a joint quadruple action started before the district court in Crookston to secure an injunction restraining the city from making use of its new dumpig grounds for the purpose for which the land was bought. The plaintiffs in the case include the state of Minnesota, the town of Grand Forks, in Polk county, School District No. 2 and Belama Brunell, Robert Kerr, Andrew Redving, Margaret Iland, B. J. Hagen and Iver M. Johnson The case is scheduled to come up before Judge Watts in chambers here on the 24th inst.

A protest was recently filed with the above named officers and the city council on considering the same, decided to not heed the protest and allow a test case to be made, instruct City Attorney Finlayson to defend the same. The city will take the position that until there has been an actual violation of the law the plaintiffs will have no cause of action and an effort will be made to prevent the misuse of the ground. The complaint in the case charges that there has already been violations of the law since the ground was purchased. The attorney general will appear in the case for the state and Bronson & Collins for the other plaintiffs. The state will assist in prosecuting the action to the limit as a warning to other communities.

DISPATCH BUYS PIONEER PRESS

NEWSPAPER CONSOLIDATION IN ST. PAUL COMES AS GREAT SURPRISE

INFORMATION IS GIVEN OUT BY OWNER OF THE PIONEER PRESS

From Monday's Daily—

St. Paul, May 15—Webster Wheelock editor and one of the principal owners of the Pioneer Press company, yesterday announced to the Associated Press the sale of the Pioneer Press newspaper afternoon and morning, the 12-story building and its manufacturing plant to C. H. Grasty and others interested in publishing the St. Paul Dispatch. Mr. Wheelock said that altho the final transfer of the stock of the Pioneer Press company had not yet been made, the preliminary negotiations toward that end had been completed.

The absorption by the Dispatch of the Pioneer Press will undoubtedly mean the discontinuance of the Evening Pioneer Press, the afternoon edition of that paper.

WANTS MONEY FOR HUBBY

ASSERTS THAT WEALTHY WOMAN ALIENATED AFFECTIONS OF HER HUSBAND.

DEFENDANT IS WELL KNOWN IN ROCK ISLAND, MOLINE AND DAVENPORT, IA.

Los Angeles, May 17—The romance of Mrs. Jane Harris culminated yesterday in the filing of a suit for $150,000 damages for alleged alienation of her husband's affections, against Mrs. Grace Velte Harper, a former resident of Rock Island, Ill., Mobile, Ala., and Davenport, Iowa, and reputed to be wealthy, Stuart Harper, her husband, is also made a defendant to the suit.

The complaint avers that Mrs. Harper used her "arts, enticements and allurements," to maliciously alienate the affections of Sidney Harris, husband of the plaintiff and chaffeur of the defendant, from his lawful wife.

What the Wife Says.

Mrs. Harper had employed Harris six months previous to his marriage with the defendant, and after months of wedded bliss, according to the complaint, he surrendered to the mistress of the automobile of which he was pilot.

Rock Island, Mrs. Harper's home, was the center of the whirlwind of trouble that followed. It was there, in December, 1907, that the defendant is alleged to have obtained the supremacy over the contested affections of her chaffeur, and from that time until the following January held undisputed sway.

In January, Mrs. Harris effected a reconciliation with her husband and departed with him from Rock Island. In March he returned to Rock Island, and the alleged wiles of Mrs. Harper, against the wishes of his wife, so she says.

STUNTED OAKS.

Miniature Trees That Are Grown In China Bowls.

In the window of a florist stood some quaint china bowls, in each of which grew a tree—not a shrub, but a full sized tree, dating back many years. "Yes," replied the florist to the writer's inquiry, "they are real trees—oaks, maples and beech trees. We get them from Japan, where the secret of how to rear them is known only to a few. They are raised from seeds or specially selected cuttings, which are watched and tended with that marvelous patience inherent in the eastern races. Fifty years may pass before the tree is considered salable. During this period the plant is trained and its natural tendencies subjugated to the will of the rearer. The gardener prunes and trims and rears and directs with what Carlyle called genius—'an infinite capacity for taking pains.' A wayward twig may be bound up for two or three years to insure its correct growth. Periodically the tree is repotted. Each time this happens the roots are carefully examined and useless fiber cut away. Everything is done to concentrate the life of the tree in the smallest possible space. And in time, after years of labor, the plant loses its ability to send out long, lusty shoots and becomes a delightful miniature of its larger brethren."—Montreal Standard.

"They got busy while I was watching my enemies," explained the man who had got the short end of it.—Chicago News.

DIVISION IN RED LAKE

PENNINGTON PROPOSED AS THE NAME OF NEW COUNTY— PETITION BEFORE

GOVERNOR — THIEF RIVERITES WANT SOUTH END OF CO., TO PLAY BY THEMSELVES

From Monday's Daily—

A special from Thief River Falls says:

"Petitions calling for the division of Red Lake county into two counties were circulated on Monday and Tuesday, and in less than twenty-four hours had received more than one thousand signatures of bona fide voters who favor the action indicate. These petitions were filed with the governor last evening and are now a matter of record, and the next step in the proceedings will be for the executive to call for a vote on the proposition at the next general election.

"That the proposition will carry by an overwhelming majority is admitted by all conversant with the county seat fight. The petition designates the proposed new county as Pennington, in honor of the president of one of the leadig railways of the north west and suggest the names of five residents of the proposed county as the first board of county commissioners.

"The division line runs east and west a little south of the center of the county and creates two counties of the average size of those of southern Minnesota.

"This action is the sequel to a long train of events many of dramatic interest. It is considered that county division is the most satisfactory solution of the situation ,and that the two contending sections of the county can care for their respeotive tho diverse interests better apart than one county."

TWO DEATHS IN HILL RIVER TWP.

Died—at the home of her son, M. L Lindfors town of Hill River on Monday, May 10th, Mrs. C. M. Lindfors aged 83 years and nine months.

This aged and respected lady was born in Stockholm, Sweden, coming to this country with her husband about eighteen years ago. Nine years since her husband was called from her and she was taken down with paralysis soon after, remaining an invalid up to the time of her death.

She is survived by five sons; two, J. and M. L., who reside in Hill River P. V., and E. M. now in Colorado and G. T., who has his home in Massachusetts.

The remains were tenderly laid away in their last resting place Thursday afternoon at the Swedish Lutheran cemetery, Hill River, services being conducted by Rev. J. Alm.

Death also entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Opdahl on Wednesday 12th inst., claiming their daughter, Dina aged 18 years, who died from tuberculosis of the lungs after a lingering illness. The deceased was a sister of Erick Opdahl of Fosston.

The funeral was held from her home in Hill River this afternoon with services at Vernes church.

FARGO TO HAVE EXCLUSIVE SERVICE

The New Oriental Limited on the Great Northern whose terminus has been changed from St. Paul to Chicago is going to be made the fastest train on the system as soon as it is put into service on May 24. All stops between Minneapolis and Fargo are eliminated and the stop here will only be long enough to take on water for the engine. The Great Northern is after the mail contracts of the government and is accordingly trying to put on the fastest time between Chicago and the Coast.

His Mean Trick.

"There certainly are differences in feelings," said the woman who sometimes philosophizes, "or at least different ways of expressing them.

"A few days ago a shocking incident occurred in the apartment house where I live. The janitor, who was an unusually good looking man, about thirty-five years old, killed himself for some wholly inadequate reason, some difference with his employer. Of course everybody in the house was much upset by the tragedy and I, with other tenants, went down to the basement to see his wife and offer aid.

"The wife, however, seemed more resentful than grief stricken.

" 'Would you ever think such a fine man would do such a mean trick!' she exclaimed." —New York Press

FISH CAME VERY HIGH

FERTILE BLACKSMITH FINED $30 AND COSTS FOR USING A SEINE

ADMITED HIS GUILT — WARDEN MUNCH DETERMINED TO ENFORCE LAW

From Monday's Daily—

Deputy Game Warden Munch has returned from a trip to Fertile where he arrested Ole Tyssee who was brought before Judge F. J. Conningham on the charge of fishing with a seine in the Sand Hill River. Tyssee, who is the blacksmith at Fertile entered a plea of guilty to the charge an dwas fined $30 and costs which he paid.

Mr. Avery of the state Game and Fish Commission in an interview in a St. Paul paper yesterday stated that there had been more convictions during the present spring for illegal fishing than there had been in the same period in the history of the department. Warden Munch who has charge of this district has contributed his full share of the convictions.

BARTON MUST PAY MRS. BEARDMORE

DISTRICT COURT DECISION UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT OF MINNESOTA

BOTH DAMAGE SUIT AND CRIMINAL ACTION WAS TRIED IN CROOKSTON

From Monday's Daily—

The supreme court at St. Paul filed a decision this morning affirming the decision of the lower court in the action of Mrs. Agnes Beardmore of Rugby, N. D., against G. W. Barton of Grand Forks to recover damages.

The action was brought about as a result of an attempted assault on the part of "Dude" Smith. Mrs. Beardmore was being transferred in a hack belonging to G. W. Barton from the East Grand Forks depot to a point in that city when the crime was committed, "Dude" Smith being the hackdriver employed by Mr. Barton.

In June, 1908, the district court at Crookston decided the case in favor of the plaintiff allowing judgment for damages to the amount of $2,000. This amount was later considered excessive and a motion was made in district court to have the judgment cut down. The motion was denied and an appeal was taken to the supreme court, that body affirming the decision of the district court.

Attorney F. C. Massee and Attorney G. A. E. Finlayson represented the plaintiff in the action while Attorneys Cooley, and Skulason & Husband of Grand Forks represented the defendant.

Dude Smith is now serving time in the penitentiary having been sentenced by Judge Watts for the crime.

Hunting With Lighted Crabs.

"Once I hunted with lighted crabs," said an ex-consul. "It was in the desolate region of France called La Vendee. There is no hunting there but sea gulls (which the French adore to shoot) and rabbits. It was to get the rabbits that we used the crabs. We caught some dozens of small, lively fellows, fastened on their backs lighted candles and shoved them down into rabbit holes. The rabbits, scared to death by those strange moving lights, rushed forth frantically—forth into the very muzzles of our guns. This sounds rather fishy perhaps, but it is a Vendean custom as widespread as coon hunting in the south."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Grant and Sumner.

Concerning the reliability of things in print, it is recalled that Charles Sumner criticized General Grant savagely, and some time after some one was talking to Grant about atheism in New England and remarked, "Even Sumner does not believe in the Bible." "Why should he?" quietly replied Grant. "He didn't write it."

Gathering Ammunition.

"What makes you think our new congressman is going to be so successful as a speechmaker?" said one constituent.

"Because," answered the other, "whenever he hears a story that strikes him as funny he goes into the hall and makes a note of it in his memorandum book."—Washington Star.

COUNTY AUD'OR O'BRIEN DEAD

PROMINENT RED LAKE FALLS RESIDENT DIED FOLLOWING OPERATION

END CAME AT 12:10 THIS MORNING—LEAVES WIFE AND ONE CHILD

From Monday's Daily—

This morning at 12:10 Co. Auditor J. B. O'Brien of Red Lake Falls who was brought to the St. Vincent hospital here and operated upon Tuesday for appendicitis, breathed his last.

His condition was critical from the start and much apprehension was felt regarding the outcome. Yesterday however he appeared somewhat improved and strong hopes were entertained that he might recover.

Mr. O'Brien was about 45 years of age. In 1893 he taught school for a year at Red Lake Falls and following that for 12 years he was at the head of the St. Hilaire schools.

He was elected county auditor of Red Lake county two years ago last fall, and again last fall and was a popular and able official. He began ailing last Saturday but was at his office a portion of the dy. Sundy he was very sick and Monday was brought here. He is survived by a wife and one child. his wife having been at the bedside when the end came this morning. She returned to Red Lake Falls this morning but will be here this evening and accompany the remains to St. Paul the former home of the deceased where the funeral will be held. A delegation from Red Lake Falls will also accompany her.

WANT THE DOG NUISANCE ABATED

Several well known ladies of the city called at the Journal office this morning to thank this paper for the suggestions made regarding ridding the city of the superfluous dog nuisance and aiding Dog Catcher Welch i nhis crusade in every way possible.

One of the ladies finished making her flower beds yesterday afternoon and before supper time some vagrant dog had scratched them all to pieces and now she has to do the planting all over again, and the seeds she first planted will come up haphazard spoiling the effect she had planned in the line of uniformity of rows etc. Dogs are personal property and owners must take care of the mor pay for the damage they do. The ladies are starting a petition to have the ordinances strictly enforced.

MET AFTER 15 YEARS—This morning George Brager arrived from Clear Lake, Iowa, and left on the later train for Argyle where he was called on an important land deal expecting to return this evening. He is a cousin of A. G. Brager of this city and the two had not met for 15 years. The latter is trying to persuade his cousin to remain over a day and make a trip to Fosston before returning to Iowa.

WILL LAUNCH BOAT — Messrs. Blair and Lariviere this afternoon launched their gasoline boat in the river near the Great Northern bridge and will give it a try out on the river this evening and tomorrow. MINNESOTA POLITICS

And Johnson Too

Today's St. Paul Dispatch digs up another candidate for Senator Clapp's shoes as follows:

With Frank B. Kellogg the government trust buster, being actively boomed by his friends for United State senator to succeed Moses E. Clapp the attention of the politicians naturally is being directed to state capitol where itis reported that Frank A. Day has in mind that same job for his chief—Gov. John A. Johnson.

"How Mr. Day, aided by the Kitchen Cabinet is going to get the governor into the game and secure the approval of a republican legislature for a democratic candidate is not known but the boys on the outside have been assured that it can be done. At the proper time they will be let into the secret.

"The job of making a United States Senator out of Gov. Johnson would require a complete change in the political complexion of the next legislature. That might be accomplished by offering democratic legislative candidates in every district. While that course wil be followed there is no assurance that a majority of them will be elected. Politicians generally say that, while such a result is not impossible it will not happen. However candidates on both tickets might be urged to run on a platform calling for the election of the St. Peter man for United States senator and, if a sufficient number were elected the trick would be turned. Other schemes are said to be under consideration, but their nature is being kept a secret.

Managers will Not Talk

"Gov. Johnson's future beyond retirement to private life, is refused discussion by Mr. Day and his advisers. The Fairmont king-maker declares the presidential venture far fetched and ridicules the idea of another term for the present governor. He is persistent in his declaration that Gov. Johnson is a sick man and wants to be let alone.

"With many eyes being turned towards Indiana where Gov. Marshall has sprung into the limelight as a new democratic progressive, one member of the Kitchen Cabinet was asked today if that did not mean trouble in a presidential way. He had heard of Gov. Marshall but was confident that the St. Peter man could worst him if the East should become busy in Johnson's behalf.

"We cannot do a thing with the governor," said this particular member of the cabinet. "Chances to address several large national gatherings, that would mean columns of good newspaper publicity were offered to him, but he has turned them all down. He tells us that he detests the whole thing.

Bryan's Intrusion

"Gov. Johnson's vacation at Old Point Comfort however, is not without its good points in a publicity way, for he is receiving much good Southern and Eastern newspaper mention, but his gain there is being somewhat over shadowed in Minnesota and the Dakotas by the presence in the Northwest of William Jennings Bryan, who seems to have booked unusually heavily in the towns of the three states by the bureau to which he is attached.

"Mr. Bryan doesn't talk politics but his presence helps the gossip along thatline, and that course for a good deal when it is known that the relations between the Johnsonites and the Bryanites, especially in Minnesota are not any too cordial. That is now shown in Minneapolis, a hotbed of Bryanism, where, because of past Bryan-Johnson differences, the administration is having hard work in finding a "regular" as a successor to the late Judge Donahue.

"Practically all the live candidates were Bryanites in the last campaign and the set purpose of the cabinet to not recognize any candidate who was not "regular". Harry Mead an insurgent probably has the best backing for the place but he might as well quit. He cannot get it."

St. Paul Dispatch: Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul is to succeed Mosses E. Clapp as United States senator from Minnesota.

This may not be the official action of the legislature of 1911, which will be entrusted with the task of naming a successor to the present junior senator, but it is the intended programme.

Mr. Kellogg refuses to give his reported candidacy confirmation, but friends of the man selected by former President Roosevelt as his chief "trust buster" confirm it and say their energies will be directed from now on to making his selection a certainty. While refusing to admit his candidacy, Mr. Kellogg does not deny it. He is non-committal.

Return Starts Talk

Mr. Kellogg's return from the East yesterday where he has been conducting the government case against the Standard Oil company, started a renewal of the gossip connecting his name with the next United States senatorship from Minnesota. It was broadly discussed and the opinion hazarded that he would be in the game with both feet at the proper time.

Talked of two years ago when Senator Clapp was named to succeed him self, Mr. Kellogg made no effort to take advantage of the work being done in his behalf, but there was every evidence to show that he had ambitions and an attempt at their realization would be made at some future date. Because of this fact he has generally been looked upon as timber for 1911, and the news of his candidacy does not come as a surprise.

Clapp's Chances Poor

That Senator Clapp will ask for reelection is certain but the chances for realization are not considered as among the best by politicians generally Doubt is entertained and the opinion is that if he does land it will only come after a heated battle. His election four years ago came after an insipid contest in which little of general interest was shown.

There is a rapidly growing sentiment all over the country in favor of beautifying school grounds. Where it has been done with any regard to taste and system the results have been most satisfactory. There is no merit, quite the reverse, in having dilapidated buildings, and grounds covered with tall grass and weeds. The effect of such a condition upon the children or district is anything but good. That being so it naturally follows but when this condition is changed so that the grounds and buildings are pleasing to the eye by reason of their neat and attractive appearance justifiable pride is roused and with it leadership and ambition, a needed amount of labor and a small outlay of money are sufficient with good taste to turn almost any eye sore into that which is pleasing and beneficial.

TOO DRUNK FOR INJURY—While the Great Northern Winnipeg train was going north last night a man walked to the end of the rear car, losing his balance fell to the ground. The train was a short distance north of Ada at the time and was travelling at the rate of fifty miles an hour. As soon as the accident was reported, the train was stopped and two trainmen with torches started back to find what they fully expected would prove to be a corpse. Instead of this, they found the man practically unhurt except for a sprained wrist. He was very drunk and as his muscles had been relaxed instead of being rigid as would have been the case of a sober man falling, he had escaped unhurt. He was taken back to the train which continued its journey after only a brief delay.—Ada Index.

Tenney of this place accompanied by Mrs. Theodore Tenney took the remains to Oberlin, Ohio, where the funeral was held Monday. The deceased is survived by his mother who resides at Oberlin, his wife and brother. —Ada Herald.

A heavy rain fell yesterday covering the eastern portion of the Red River Valley and extending east beyond Bemidji, covering all the agricultural lands of the valley to within a few miles of the Red River. The rain will be of great benefit for while there is an abundance of moisture in the ground the surface was getting dry and a rain means the immediate starting of growth of all grains. As practically every acre of wheat is seeded it will now soon be up.

From Hallock north to Emerson it rained very heavily nearly all day yesterday. W. A. Marin who spent yesterday at McIntosh stated that a fine rain fell there which was worth thousands of dollars.

In this immediate vicinity there was but little rainfall, and while there is plenty of moisture in the ground, a good rain would wet up the surface and hurry the sprouting process.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

SERVING CIVIL PAPERS—Deputy Sheriff Sullivan went to Fosston last evening where he had some civil papers to serve.

MRS. SCHELL ILL—Walter Schell of Plumer, N. D., is at Warren attending to business matters. His mother Mrs. J. P. Schell is seriously ill at a hospital in Fargo.

ON OFFICIAL BUSINESS—County Atty. E. O. Hagen went to East Grand Forks this morning to look after some legal maters and will return home this evening.

WARRENITE HERE— Ed Frank, the Warren ceterinarian who came down last evening to attend to some business matters returned home this morning. He says the northern country has great prospects this season.

WAS DISAPPOINTED—Geo. Berg who went to Detroit, Minn., a few days ago to accept a position as stenographer has returned to Crookston, not being at all satisfied with the place offered him in an attorney's office.

GOIN' FISHIN'—Judge C. F. Templeton of Grand Forks will pass thru Crookston this evening for Bemidji and other Minnesota points, where he will do some fishing. He will be accompanied by C. M. Cooley, Dean A. A. Bruce, B. G. Skulason, Prof. Joseph Kennedy, and W. A. Joy.

HOME FROM MINNEAPOLIS — J. M. Stephens returned this morning from Minneapolis where he has been spending a few days on business matters. Mr. Stephens states that the cities are quiet but are looking forward to a prosperous year in Minnesota. Ben Clements will return home tomorrow morning.

ELLISON IS CHOOSEN—W. C. Ellison of Minneapolis state commissioner at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition to be opened June 1 at Seattle has been selected to place awards at that exposition, also at Winnipeg, Spokane, Grand Forks, Huron, Des Moines, Keokuk, Topeka, Lincoln, Sioux Falls, Waukesha, Green Bay and Fort Dodge shows.

WANT MAIL SERVICE POSITIONS—The largest class ever enrolled for examinations for positions in the railway mail service will go to Minneapolis to take examinations beginning Saturday. The successful candidates will be placed on the waiting list for positions in the service in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and northern Michigan.

DRAINAGE CODE—County Attorney of Marshall County left Tuesday for St. Paul to confer with the state drainage commission relative to the codifying and annotating of the drainage laws, upon which work he has been engaged since the adjournment of the legislature. Mr. Brown has his task almost finished and when it is completed the commission will have the drainage code printed in pamphlet form.

SLEUTH BRITT HERE—Detective Tom Britt of the Great Northern force of sleuths is spending the day in the city having arrived this morning from G d Forks. He stated as usual that there was nothing special doing—what he always says till some one is landed behind the bars for committing depredations on Great Northern property.

SLIGHTLY BETTER—County Auditor O'Brien of Red Lake Co., who was brought to the city Wednesday for an operation for appendicitis at St. Vincents hospital is some better today. He was a resperately sick man but it is now believed that he will recover. Dr. Watson, who has been attending him with Dr. Dunlop of this city, returned home this morning.

ATTENDED OPENING—J. F. Montgomery came down from Angus last evening on business and attended the formal opening of the Commercial club rooms. He returned home this morning to take care of his multifarious duties as merchant prince and telephone magnate. He was chaperoned by J. Harry Stair who gave a lecture on the way up on the virtues of the Peter's cartridges.

WASSHAUSEN TO THE RESCUE—Director Wasshausen of the Crookston band is getting into the harness in a hurry. Were it not for him the Crookston Club minstrels would be in somewhat of a pickle. Recently they sent for the music for the orchestra accompaniment to the nine songs they will sing at the Crookston Club Minstrel show next Tuesday and Wedday. They received word back that it could not be secured. They at once appealed to Director Wasshausen and he very obligingly set to work on the orchestration of the music and will have the scores completed in time for the rehearsal Sunday. It is extremely fortunate that this is a line of work in which he is very efficient but which isn't any part of the work of a bandmaster.

SUDDEN DEATH— Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Melgard and Andrew and Anton Bjurseth of this city and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Melgard, of Argyle returned today from Cooperstown, N. D., where on Tuesday they attended the funeral of Mrs. Charles Burseth, who died in a hospital at Fargo last Saturday. When Mrs. Burseth went to the hospital several weeks ago it was to have removed growths in her nose that obstructed her breathing and she was otherwise apparently in perfect health. The operation was performed and tho she did not get well as soon as was expected she seemed all right Friday and was counting on returning home almost immediately. The next day wholly without warning she went into convulsions and in a little while breathed her last. Her death is attributed to Bright's disease. She was a sister to Mrs. O. L. Melgaard, of Argyle and was married to her surviving husband eleven years ago. —Warren Register.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY

PROF. BAILEY HERE—Prof. L. H. Bailey arrived in the city this morning and is spending the day here from Erskine atending to business matters.

SUPT. SCOTT HERE—General Supt. W. D. Scott of the G. N. passed thru the city last evening enroute to St. Paul after a visit at Grand Forks and Dakota points.

MAKING IMPROVEMENTS—W. B. Sheffield and Dave Fulton, the latter of Ada went to Maple Lake this morning to look over their cottages and prepare them for the summer season.

ADVANCE AGENT HERE—A. H. Barkley the advance man for Campbell Bros.' circus spent yesterday in the city completing arrangements for the appearance here June 8th afternoon and evening. The show will come here from Fargo and will arrive early in the morning.

MEETS WITH PAINFUL ACCIDENT—Last Sunday Mrs. Erick Lejonquist of Stephen while returning from church services in the Methodist church stubbed her toe on the sidewalk and fell into the gutter breaking her right forearm and dislocating the arm at the elbow.

BACK FROM CANADA—Will Low has just returned from a trip to Canada. He says wheat seeding is about over there and that the fine rain that fell along the line between Canada in the United States during the week has made conditions most favorable.

REV. WARNER BUYS FARM — Rev. C. C. Warner spent Wednesday and Thursday in N. D., in company with his brother. He invested in a quarter section of land and reports that there is a fine crop of prairie chickens getting ready for harvest about Sept. 7th.

CROP ABOUT IN — Nick Welter one of the progressive and wellto-do farmers on rural route No. 3 out of Crookston is spending the day in the city on business and paid for his daily for another year in advance. He is about thru seeding and says the ground is in great shape.

PUTTING ON STYLE—W. E. Black is having his offices in the McKinnon Block completely renovated. He is having very attractive paper put on the walls and ceiling the woodwork all revarnished, Svisdal and Norseth doing the work, and will then have the floors covered with linoleum. This will give him one of the finest suites in Crookston.

AND GOOD LOOKING ALSO—W. P. Murphy otherwise known as "Billy Murphy" was elected alderman of the 2nd ward of Crookston by a whooping majority. It was a special election to fill a vacancy. William, who is by the way a handsome fellow and a good lawyer, will no doubt fill the position of a city dad to the satisfaction of everybody and at the next election he will be voted in as mayor.

—Roseau Co. Times.

MAY QUIT STATION WORK — R. A. Campbell former station agent here returned last Friday and Monday Mrs. Campbell joined him and they were the guests of Miss Linda Lundin until Tuesday when they left for Fisher for a visit with Mrs. Campbell's parents. We understand Mr Campbell has been offered a fine position in the auditing department of the G. N. but as yet has not determined as to whether he will accept the place or remain at station work.—Stephen Leader.

KITTSON CO. PIONEER DEAD—Mrs. Cecelia Lindahl the beloved wife of John Lindahl of Red River died at her home on Monday May 10 after only a few days serious illness, at the age of 82 years, 9 months and 20 days Mrs. John Lindahl was born at Mylleby, Sweden on Aug. 30, 1826 came to Red Wing, Mnn., in 1869 and lived on a farm in Welch, Goodhue county, until in 1887 when she moved with her husband to Red River Kittson Co., where with her son Bennett, they made their home. In 1890 her son Bennett died and her only son Pete has since had the old couple with him on their old Red River homestead.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TO HAVE PARKS—Mayor Hamre made the following appointments for members of the City Park Commission: Dr. Penney, A. H. Fasel, Perl W. Mabey, Herbert Fuller and E. L. Quist. The object is to purchase that tract of land at the south of Porter's Addition commencing just below E. E. Zeh's residence and turning that fine place, so well fitted by nature for a park into one of the beauty spots of the city. Some other smaller parks may also be established in time and thus the looks and pleasure resorts of the city be greatly enhanced.—Thief River Falls Press.

THOUGHT REV. MOBERG TOO SEVERE— We read an article in a Scandinavian paper of Crookston last week where Mr. Moberg editor of Var Tjenare, of that place, gave vent in a comical effort to his ideas about Viking and what he saw during his week's stay here some time since. From a literary standpoint it was very good, Mr. Moberg, but from all other points it was too one-sided to be very much appreciated by us. It seems rather strange that he should in a whole week's stay only have discovered that particular feed mill as being worthy of mention and that he should so fashion his two page article that it conveys to the uninitiated reader the impression that all that Viking is composed of is a mnister, and that "feed mill" of doubtful reputation. As to his slur against our young people, it was altogether uncalled for. Every community has its gay characters and Viking is no exception to the rule, but the worst thing that the big average of our young people ever did was to go to sewing societies and there should be little fault to find with that. We all liked Mr. Moberg when he was here and were rather disappointed in his big writeup of his stay among us.—Viking Correspondent in the Warren Register.

ONE WEAK SPOT

Most Crookston People Have a Weak Part and Too Often It's the Back.

Everyone has a weak spot.
Too often it's a bad back.
Twinges follow every sudden twist.
Dull aching keeps up, day and night.
Tells you the kidneys need help—
For backache is really kidney ache.
A kidney cure is what you need.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys,
Cure backache and urinary ills.
Crookston people recommend the remedy.

Joseph Gundlach, cigar maker, formerly of 319 Broadway N., Crookston, Minn., says: "I highly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a sure cure for backache and kidney ailments. For a considerable time I suffered from pains in my back and added to this was a difficulty with the kidney secretions. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Wallace's drug store. They proved to be just what my case needed. Soon the backache was removed and my kidneys restored to a normal condition. The results were so satisfactory that I advise any sufferer from kidney trouble to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Ely Miner: Isn't it too bad that none of the members of late senate can be made governor owing to a constitutional prohibition. Wouldn't it please some of the 300,000 people in the northeastern end of the state to vote for the bunch that voted "yes" on the tonnage tax, and wouldn't it please all the southern end and Red River Valley farmers to vote for those who voted "yes" on the bushel tax?

Stopping One Source Of Crime

Indiana has made progress in an experiment that has thus far attracted little attention, but that is of mighty importance in the work of lessening crime, imbecility and pauperism. Briefly its plan is to sterilize degenerates when they come into the hands of the law, and thus to prevent their becoming prognitors of long and ever widening lines of criminals, imbeciles and paupers.

Heredity is an important factor in the making of criminals and others whom the public is always at an expense to care for and safeguard against. While it seems a desperate remedy, sterilization is certainly an effective way of stopping trouble at its source.

Two years ago Indiana legelized this method, and since that time eight hundred confirmed criminals have been sterilized. Oregon has recently enacted a similar law, tho it has barely begun its experiments under it. Like bills have been introduced in several legislatures, and there seems to be a prospect that the practice will widen rapidly.

What it means to let physical, moral and mental degenerates propogate their kind is vividly shown by the famous case of the Jukes family. Two wild sons of an early Dutch settler in New York married two sisters and of their 1,200 descendants the careers of 709 have been traced. Of those traced 280 were public paupers 140 were criminals and a very large number were depraved, diseased and insane. In seventy-five years, it is estimated, that the family has cost the people of this country $1,308,000. Had this stream of crime and pauperism been checked at its source, had those two Jukes boys died childless the saving to the nation would have been incalculable. Every confirmed criminal is a center of possible evil influence which does not stop with his heredity line. No man can say how much pauperism, crime and misery this single family has cost the nation.

A New York judge, discussing this case, recently said: "The Jukes family is by no means an exception. The 'down and outs' are notoriously prolific, partly from their very irresponsibility. Marriage and the raising of a family is a responsibility the gravity of which is not sufficiently realized, and anything that will cause people to look before they leap is to be encouraged. While I am not prepared to say that we in New York state should follow the law which apparently is working well in Indiana and Oregon we ought to study and ponder it."

So should the people of all the states. It is a delicate subject, and the execution of it shouldn't be trusted to any but the wisest and most careful experts obtainable. But it is hard to think of the Jukes family, to remember that it is but one out of many, to reflect that many in the criminal class were sinned against by their ancestors and by society for permitting them to be born, without realizing that there is much in this plan that commends it to careful study.—Duluth Herald.

Parks And Play Grounds

The recognition of the absolute necessity of ample parks and play grounds for children is worldwide at the present time, and the movement started by the public spirited ladies of Crookston finds strong endorsement in the action of the larger cities all over the civilized world.

In a recent issue the Journal stated that Rio de Janiero, South America, had appropriated $4,000,000 for park purposes. This was putting it very mildly. The amount appropriated was really $400,000,000. Portions of the business section of that city have been condemned, and regardless of expense that city is providing ample parks and playgrounds.

Parks are an asset to any city. The property owners in every part of a city with parks are beneficiaries. Crookston should not be content with bringing up in the rear. A park system should be established now when property is cheap.

Along this same line the following from the St. Paul Dispatch is of special interest:

"The demand for play room for the children has led the authorities of New York to order certain streets in the densely populated sections of the city to be closed to traffic during certain hours of the day and to devote them exclusively to furnishing children with a place for outdoor exercise free from the danger that threatens them when they play, as they will in spite of police regulations on the crowded streets. The traffic that is barred from one street is given exclusive rights on the street adjoining from which children are kept away.

"The condition in New York contains a timely hint to other cities. St. Paul has not reached the stage where it is necessary to close streets in the congested districts in order to form play grounds for children, but with the rapid growth of the city there is certain to be a demand for such play grounds and the authorities will be compelled to meet it. The play ground is a necessity of modern city life and wisdom would suggest that sites for future use be selected before the natural increase in the price of real estate makes their purchase practically impossible."

Redwood Reveille: The tonnage tax has been an issue for a number of years and if its veto was not just, it will continue to be an issue. In spite of all the talk how few of us are really posted. A number of legislators stated that they had pledged their constituents to vote for the measure at a time when they were not fully informed, and later regretted the action. Let us embrace every opportunity that affords real knowledge on the subject, so that we may vote understandingly in 1910.

White Plague Crusade Making Poor Progress

Nahtan Straus' citation of health statistics to show that there has been an increase of 33 per cent in cases of tuberculosis in New York city the past two years, forms a disagreeable surprise to those who have been leading the nation-wide crusade againnst the disease, for the impression has prevailed that great progress was being made toward checking the ravages of the disease. Mr. Straus contends that the increase in the cases is due to the tuberculosis cow, but on this point there is wide difference of opinion among specialists.

While the showing is discouraging it will serve to arouse the workers against the white plague to renewed endeavor. Census returns show that each year 153,000 persons die of this disease in the United States, Science has demonstrated that tuberculosis is communicable and therefore preventable. The failure to combat the spread of the disease involves an enormous economic loss in production in home life, in education and in morals. The one clear need in the fight apparently is provision for separate hospitals for the treatment of tuberculosis sufferers This has been difficult to obtain because of the slowness of the people to recognize that the disease is communicable. Statistics show that separate beds should be supplied for tuberculosis patients thruout the country. There are now less than 15,000 such beds, or only one for every ten tuberculosis patients. It is estimated that it would require $37,500,000 a year to supply the needed accommodations for the proper treatment of tuberculosis patients in the country. That would about equal the cost of five battleships and the country could much better afford to invest the amount in life-saving appliances than to spend it for engines of destruction in order to maintain a position as a "world power."—St. Paul Dispatch.

The Tariff Outlook

The situation at Washington would not be so hopeless if it were merely a matter of the senate itself. The senate will probably pass the Aldrich bill, by virtue of a combination shrewdly managed by its author. But that wouldn't settle it if the house were free.

The house will no doubt refuse to concur in the Aldrich bill. That means the appointment of a conference committee. Aldrich will dictate the senate half of that committee and Cannon will dictate the house half. Then, after a litle theatrical tug of war over it, the season will be far advanced, it will be pleaded that business needs an immediate settlement of the question, and an outrageous and criminal compromise will be forced down the throats of the American people by the pitchfork of partisanship. No matter how much the farce may be prolonged there isn't one chance in ten thousand that it will come out any other way. The trusts will get their will. That is what Aldrich and Cannon are there for.

While it will not be by wide margin, the Aldrich bill will pass the senate by a vote almost strictly partisan. Aldrich will have enough Democratic votes on amendments to keep the bill in the shape he desires but these votes will go against the bill as a whole, tho if he really needs them he may be able to get a few. At any rate, the bill will pass the senate, in whatever infamous shape it finally assumes.

The passage will be brought about by a combination of the East with the Far West—a case of "you tickle me and I'll tickle you" as Senator Nelson said in the senate the other day, Eight Pacific and mountain states—Idaho, Washington Montana, Utah, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming and California have promised to stand by New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, West Virginia and Ohio in keeping rates up on manufacrured goods, provided the West gets what it desires on lead, coal, other minerals, wool, lumber, sugar and citrus fruits. The Middle West stands between, and will fail for lack of votes to withstand this peril. Nor is the Middle West unanimous. The two Michigan senators, with one vote in Wisconsin, one in Illinois, one in North Dakota and one in Kansas, will stand by the Aldrich program to the finish. Then, too, there is grave danger that when it comes to the final test, some of the Republican senators who are now holding out will be whipped into line by charges that by voting against the bill they will be deserting their party and voting with the Democrats. That still seems to be a useful weapon at Washington, tho its effect is but trifling back among the people.—Duluth Herald.

Tariff Questions Not Wanted

The tariff debate in the senate degenerated sadly last week into personalities and peevishness. With the oncoming of Washington's hot and muggy period it may be expected to sink to even lower levels.

The interrogative attitude of the middle western senators seems to have stirred Senator Aldrich and his lieutenants profoundly. They could bear with equanimity a reasonable number of eloquent philippics against the super-protected beneficiaries of the finance committee's tariff bill.

But the goad of incessant questions is different. If a schedule is raised, if benevolent revision upward is attempted, they ask for the reasons. Now the real reasons do not always sound well, and specious ones are hard to frame under the fire of interrogation.

Hence the irritation of Senator Gallinger, for instance, who declared in debate that Senator Aldrich has been assailed with "such vituperation" and "such wilful disregard of the common decencies" as he would never have believed possible a dozen years ago. Other senators, rushing to the rescue, added earnestly that Senator Aldrich is a perfect gentleman! The conclusion is irresistible. Therefore, let us revise the tariff upward, and let senators cease asking so many questions about it.

It was not surprising that debate of this kind should have stirred Senator Root to the observation that he thought it undignified and dishonorable for senators to make speeches merely to make votes at home, knowing that no one in the senate was listening. That was a just and timely observation. There is so much posing for effect so much empty eloquence in the senate that the public business suffers. Perhaps if the senate had a rule that all members must listen to all the speeches made, a way would be found to dam up the floodtide of sham eloquence.

As for Senator Money's ill-tempered and ill-mannered attempt to rebuke Senator Root, because he is a newcomer in the senate, it was of a piece with the rest of the day's debate.—Minneapolis Journal.

A Fencing Campaign

Now is the time for the farmers to begin a fencing campaign. Many may not know that wire fencing was never as cheap as it is today. During the past week it has dropped 20 cents and there may be a further drop. Weyerhauser the lumber baron has jumped into the game and purchased a wire fence manufacturing plant and has thrown down the gauntlet to the wire trust and proposes to sell fence wire for what he chooses.

The farmers need more land fenced To raise stock successfully there must be ample pasturage and good pasturage. In addition to the money made from the stock pastured land recuperates and when cropped again produces as much as the virgin sod did in the early days. The land is cleaned of foul weeds and crop rotation can be carried on to much better advantage.

It is a patent fact that any country where pasture fences are seen on the farm, not a single pasture. but several of them so that the grass is not allowed to run out, is a prosperous country.

Land can be fenced at smaller cost now than ever before. Many farmers have already started the good work and the balance should take advantage of present conditions.

STATE PRESS

Albert Lea Standard: Without doubt the iron mines of the steel trust ought justly to pay a higher rate of tax and so, also, should other great property interests, which shirk their fair share. For instance some state officials and others maintain that southern Minnesota farms are assessed ridiculously low, the average per acre for some years being only about $14. This is supposed to be on the basis of 40 per cent of the actual value of about $35 per acre. Not many improved farms, we will have to admit, can be bought at such a price. Rather $50, $60 and $75 would be considered nearer the right figure.

Austin Transcript: The good roads subject has been of absorbing practical interest for the past month in this locality. The trouble is that when the roads get passable again we forget to agitate for permanent improvement.

Winona Independent: and yet the members of the house of representatives will not be idle during the five of six weeks the senate will be working on the tariff bill. The wise representatives are at work on a plausible set of explanations and excuses to deliver to their constituents when they return home.

Princeton Union: City newspapers continue to harp on the "pork barrel" the omnibus road and bridge bill—and it is intimated that the supreme court will be called upon to pass on the constitutionality of the law. It looks as if an attempt was being made to manufacture sentiment against the bill. The supposition is that courts cannot be influenced by public sentiment as voiced by the newspapers, but it is a rather far-fetched supposition.

Zumbrota News: We are not a socialist or an anarchist but we are predicting that the people of this United States are not going to stand for some things very much longer. When James Patten gets a corner on wheat and can make $5,000,000 in one week that is more than his share and especially when the people have to pay for it.

Two Harbors Iron Trade Journal: The papers of the southern part of the state are insisting that there is no ill feeling against Northern Minnesota. That's the talk. Keep it up and perhaps after a time the people down there may get to believe it. Allow us a just representation in the legislature and we may get to believe in the wordy overtures ourselves.

MINNESOTA POLITICS

Governor Johnson, wearing a regulation Taft smile, returned to his official duties at the state capitol Monday.

Ten days at Old Point Comfort, Va., and several more at Washington, had given him a slight tan, while his cheeks displayed a color that contradicted the stories of his bad health. "I never felt better in my life," he declared to those who gathered to meet him.

Old Point Comfort, he insisted, furnished little in the way of politics. Washington, however, was a veritable hotbed of it, and what he failed to give in the shape of an opinion concerning the questions at issue while there, the interviewers kindly supplied.

"What I had to say regarding congress and its so-called revision of the tariff I believe preceded my arrival," said Governor Johnson. "There will be no revision of the tariff in the full sense of the word and those in control admit it. The East and the South will not stand for any material revision downward, such as the republican party has promised, and so there you are.

"Out here in the Middle West, we are thoroughly wedded to actual revision, and that downward, and failure along the promised lines, I am positive, will have a reactionary effect as far as the republican party is concerned. I wouldn't be surprised to see it take on revolutionay features.

"That this condition appeals to the leaders is evident, for I was informed, continued the executive, "that Senator Aldrich had practically told those in charge that they would have to do without the Middle West next time. He acknowledged that the bill under consideration was the opposite of what they desired, yet it could not be bettered. Even a compromise was impossible."

Gov. Johnson refused to take seriously the talk connecting him with the United States senatorship to succeed Moses E. Clapp.

Smiles at Senatorship Talk.

"It is rot," was his brief comment, adding that he had given out nothing that would even show that he contemplated going after the place. He new of no scheme to make the next legislature democratic, and he could not possibly conceive of any way of getting its support without it being democratic. And as to changing its political complexion, he believed it to be beyond the most resourceful of leaders.

It was suggested that the revolution he spoke about might bring such a thing around.

"It might," answered the governor, "but if there is such a result, it is more likely to hit the congressional districts. If the Middle West does not get the tariff bill it wants, I would not be surprised to see several congressional districts out here go democratic."

Gov. Johnson, while at Washington, was assured that President Taft would visit St. Paul this summer. No date was given or cause assigned, but he thinks that the visit will be in connection with a tour to the coast, where the president will attend the Seattle exposition.

The governor was also given to understand that congress will not adjourn before July 1. That seems to be the opinion of the leaders.

PLANT FLOWERS THIS TIME

GOOD TIME TO GET BUSY AND BEAUTIFY HOMES AT VERY SMALL COST

HIGH PRICES FOR FLOWERS AT CERTAIN SEASONS NO GUIDE

Sweet Peas Morning Glories and Other Varieties Give Richer Returns in Beauty, Health and Happiness than 100 Times the Sum Invested

This is the season for planting flower seeds. It will last till well along in June and we want you to take advantage of it. There is not another way on earth to get so much for so little as in buying and planting a few flower seeds. It's the only investment which brings all profit and no loss. A dollar put into flower seeds with a little thought and care, and a little time that you ought to spend out of doors anyway, will make your home a beauty spot from June till November.

Yes, we know all about the high prices paid for flowers. We have heard of the Lawson pink, we have priced American beauties at Christmas and looked at the tag on fancy lillies at Easter. But these things are no guide to the necessary cost of flowers. They are the prices paid for notoriety, oddity, for getting plants to bloom out of their natural season. If you are willing to take your joys in season and to plan for them a bit ahead, you can buy more beauty for 10 cents than Lawson did for his four figure check.

There are sweet peas for instance. For a few cents you can buy a quarter of a pound of mixed seed, enough to plant a double row twenty feet long. If you will prepare your trench carefully and soak the seeds over night in warm water, you will have results that are a thousand times worth while. That double row of sweet peas will brighten the house with color and scent it with perfume for three months, and the more you cut them the freer they bloom.

That is one item for the cheap flower garden, the flower garden on a small lot. Morning glories are another. Ten cents will put a screen of green and purple over your porch, and turn your unsightly coal shed into a mound of beauty. Ten cents' worth of morning glory seed plus a little care and digging—and be sure you make the seed salesman cross his heart and hope to die if the seeds aren't fresh. It may not be an absolutely necessary port of the flower culture seed. Perhaps they are all dead or reformed by this time .

To sweet peas 15 cents; to morning glories, 10 cents; to nasturtiums 10 cents. You remember the old "stertians" at home, don't you, patches of orange-colored flame against the fence? Better take the dwarf kinds and plant them where they will get plenty of sun and water. They do not give as rich returns of beauty and fragrance as the sweet peas do; but they have a saucy, assertive cheerfulness that you can't afford to miss. Ten cents for nasturtiums.

Then there are poppies. We don't quite know why poppies have been neglected of late years; perhaps because they do not make good cut flowers. But out in the open there is nothing that will give you such a silken richness and brilliancy of color as oriental poppies.

Then there are two other flowers that we have been keeping to balance up against the poppies—mignonette and sweet alyssum. These are as homely and sweet and fragrant as the poppies are gorgeous. A packet of each will be enough for a small garden, and they are usually sold at 5 cents a packet.

And there are literally a hundred variations of the garden theme we have given. The only fixed points are the sweet peas and the nasturtiums. You can substitute cosmos for the morning glories, or pansies for mignonette; or, if you keep chickens, here is a trick to combine beauty and profit: Put a hedge of sunflowers around that chicken yard. The biddies need the shade in summer; and if there is anything more gorgeous than such a hedge, with its sturdy stalks, and its brown and gold blossoms a foot across, we don't know what it is. Neither do we know anything that chickens like any better than they do sunflower seeds.

Plant flower seeds. They will give you richer returns in beauty, health and happiness than a hundred times the sum invested in anything else. plant flower seeds, and begin now.

MEET OF THE K. C.

NEARLY 300 KNIGHTS WERE PRESENT AT INITIATION OF CLASS OF FORTY

SPECIAL TRAIN FROM GRAND FORKS — BIG DELEGATION FROM WINNIPEG

From Monday's Daily—

About 300 Knights of Columbus gathered in Crookston Sunday from thru out the northwest and participated in the ceremonies incident to the initiation of a class of 40 into the local council. A delegation of 40 Knights came down from Winnipeg and the third degree work was put on by the team from that city. A special train was run from Grand Forks returning last night at midnight, bearing 90 Knights from Grand Forks and East Grand Forks and the Canadian delegation came down in a special car.

The first and second degree work was exemplified by Deputy Grand Knight James E. O'Brien of this city assisted by State Deputy Lee Aball of Duluth and Knights A. J. McKinnon, L. E. Gossman and Daniel Hughes of this city and the third degree work was put on by the Winnipeg degree team consisting of Dr. J. K. Barrette, Dominion Inspector of International Revenue assisted by Thomas Jobin, F. Cantwell, Frederick Gallagher, Wm Call, J. H. O'Connor, E. S. Tecktenius McDonald and T. J. Deegan, Territorial Deputy, Knights of Columbus for Western Canada.

There were delegations also from Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cass Lake, Bemidji and other Duluth line towns, Fargo, Gretna, Minot and many other places thruout the north west. It was the largest gathering of Knights of Columbus ever held in this section.

At 6 o'clock the visitors were treated to an elaborate banquet in I. O. O. F. hall, served by the wives and daughters of the local K. C's. the tables being loaded with cut flowers, principally red carnations. The initiatory work was all completed before the banquet.

In the evening a social session was held in the Woodmen hall most of the delegates returning to their homes on the late trains.

FIELDS ARE ONE VAST GARDEN SPOT

CONDITIONS ARE MOST SATISFACTORY IN THE COUNTRY DISTRICTS

Another of such weather as has prevailed and seeding will be completed thruout this section with the exception of corn and potatoes. The wheat is nearly all up and a 100 mile crop inspection tour yesterday in an automobile shows condition the best in many years.

The fields look like one vast garden spot. The grain is coming up even and there is not a weed in sight. The grain is getting such a start this spring that the weeds will be choked out as soon as they start if they ever do start.

The winter rye is geoing to make the best crop ever raised. None of it was frozen out and it has already got a big start this spring. Owing to the ideal weather Sunday, many took auto trips into the country and all are unanimous that the fields never before looked as fine.

Hints for the Business Man

There is a great difference between speculation and investment. Cultivate your customers—"A pleased customer is the best advertisement." Keep a superior class of goods, for people remember quality longer than they do price. When ordering a beverage for the home table be sure to get Golden Grain Belt Beer, as there is no other just as good. Keen appetite comes with its use and it makes for good temper and enjoyment of life. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

A. L. Peterson superintendent of salesmen for Schwartzchild & Sulzberger Co., at Leavenworth, Kansas, sent out his salesmen the following sentiment, which was much appreciated: "When the whole world seems gone to pot, and business is on the bum, a 2-cent grin and a lifted chin help some, my boy, helps some. Yours truthifully, Al Peterson." That is the spirit which always results in success.

Have you planted those flowers yet which will add 100 per cent to the appearance of your yard. A garden patch in the rear of the lot is more sightly than a weed patch.

DR. KOEHNE HERE — Dr. J. B. Koehne, the noted lecturer who held his audiences spell-bound here a year or two ago when he gave a short course of lectures, lectured at Warren Saturday night and will complete a course there. He is one of the finest lecturers ever heard in Crookston.

BOUGHT BROSSEAU OUT — Eli Asselin Saturday purchased the saloon formerly run by Maurice Brosseau just south of the Spokely Clothing House on Broadway. Mr. Asselin is thoroly qualified for the business and has a host of friends and is certain of his full share of the business.

DR. HENAULT VERY ILL — Dr. Henault of Fosston, who spent a few weeks here before leaving for Napanee(Ontario where he went for the benefit of his health has reached that place and according to a letter received from his relatives by Dr. W. A. Robertson this morning Dr. Henault is in very bad shape. He is with a sister there at the present time.

SUNDAYED AT FOSSTON—A. G. Brager of this city went to Fosston Saturday night with his cousin, Geo. Brager of Cedar Lake Ia., and spent the day as the guest of O. A. Brager, assistant cashier of the bank at that place, he being a brother of A. G. Brager. The two returned last evening, Geo. Brager proceeding to Iowa on the G. N. Flyer. He had not seen his two cousins in 15 years.

RAKED THE WRONG YARD — Friends are having a good laugh at the expense of O. C. Flakne. Saturday he borrowed a rake of Dr. Kjelland and started raking up old grass and dead leaves industriously. After working about an hour, and becoming tired and covered with perspiration he stopped for a rest and his wife called him to ask what he was raking Geo. Flaten's yard for. Flake stared around for a minute and then went home talking to himself as he realized he had been raking his neighbor's lot. His own is not raked yet.

GOOD MOVE—Mankato and the farmers of that territory have jointly set an excellent example in good road work, says the Glencoe Enterprise. During the winter months about 5000 loads of gravel have been hauled onto the roads leading into that town by farmers who whenever it was possible took out a load of gravel when in that city. Undoubtedly other cities and towns would be willing to furnish the gravel if similar co-operation on the part of the farmers could be obtained as at Mankato ,and if this scheme was carried out extensively thruout the state a material improvement of highways would result.

KICKED ON THE HEAD—Walter Kerr, the young son of Robert Kerr, living north of East Grand Forks was the victim of a peculiar accident Friday. He was riding a young horse to school ,one mile north of their farm and just as he was nearing the school house a gust of wind blew his hat from his head and it landed squarely on top of the horse's head. This frightened the horse, which reared up and backward so suddenly that Walter was precipitated over the horse's head to the ground and before he could get out of the way the horse struck him on the head with its hoof making an ugly wound across the back of his head. He was taken home and a physician who was quickly summoned had to take a number of stitches, The boy is getting along as well as could be expected.

WANTS $18,000—Commercial News of Cioux Falls, S. D.: Cyrus Spurling traveling salesman in this state and in North Dakota and Nebraska as well as Minnesota being well known in Crookston has begun a suit in the United States court against the Demster Mill Mfg. Co., for $1000 on account of personal injuries received three years ago in falling thru the elevator shaft into the basement during a convention. Mr. Spurling has been crippled ever since and the indications are he will never fully recover the use of his legs. He has been operated on by the Mayos at Rochester without receiving any benefit. Mr. Dempster of the Dempster Mill Mfg. Co., says he cannot see where they can be held responsible as they were not to blame. Mr. Spurling is confined to his home in this city.

GUESTS GUESS AT OLD PICTURES—Pictures taken nearly half a century ago furnished lively entertainment for members of the Deads Landing association, who met last night at the home of Mrs. Mary L. Giessler, 2739 Irving Ave. south. The photographs were of members of the organization and a prize was hung up for the one who could identify the greatest number of the prints. There were forty pictures in the exhibit and Miss Edith Funke named thirty-nine of them. W. J. Miller identified the smallest number. The date of the annual homecoming was set for the last Saturday in August of each year. Refreshments were served during the evening and the forty members had an enjoyable time.—Minneapolis Tribune. This would not be a bad evening's entertainment for the large number of Wabasha and Reads Landing people in Crookston and vicinity.

Sheriff Olson arrived Saturday evening from Roseau with two prisoners Flossie Eldridge had a ticket from a justice in Roseau which entitles her to 60 days board with Sheriff Daniels without charge for running a blind pig at Roseau and getting caught at it.

The other prisoner was a young boy who was taken to the state institution at Red Wing.

SINGER AUDITOR HERE— Auditor Booth of the Singer Sewing Machine Co., is in the city and will spend a few days with Wm. Emmerich the manager for this district.

WILL TOUR WEST— Emil Hedberg, son of J. P. Hedberg who has been cashier of the Bank of Spooner arrived in the city last evening and is visiting with friends for a couple of days. This evening he will leave for the west where he will spend a few weeks touring the country with a view to locating in some prosperous city.

HOTEL MAN HERE—Pete Orness the proprietor of the Warroad Hotel is spending the day in the city attending to some business matters. He greatly appreciates the newly completed branch which makes it possible to reach the metropolis of northern Minnesota so readily. He is enroute home from a trip to Minneapolis.

POCKET SAVINGS BANKS— The First National Bank has just received another big consignment of pocket savings banks which are for free distribution. They hold between $6 and $7 in silver and cannot be opened except at the bank. They are the best money savers a person ever carried about and with no apparent effort a good bank account is soon started. Get one.

GENERAL LUCKNOW HERE — General Von de Lucknow spent last evening in the city exploiting a new tonic just put on the market. This morning he had a group picture of several friends and has had the inscription painted underneath "After an outing with Lucknow." Each of the friends he had with him last evening is to receive one as a souvenir of the occasion. W. F. Peterson is trying to buy up the entire edition.

BACK FROM FUNERAL —Dr. N. M. Watson returned this morning from St. Paul where he went to attend the funeral of former County Auditor O'Brien of Red Lake County whose death occurred here suddenly Saturday morning. Among others who went down were H. E. Ives of St. Hilaire, Oscar Post Leonard Holmes, Fuller, Brady, an uncle and others. Mrs. O'Brien will remain in St. Paul for about ten days before returning.

Suit has been commenced for $5,000 damages for the death of Bennie Anderson who was killed last year while playing about an exposed tumblingrod at the Russell elevator at Stephen.

The unfortunate lad was returning home from school and took a short cut home. In stepping over the elevator tumblingrod which was unprotected he was caught and instantly killed.

Districtt court opened at Ada yesterday with Judge Grindeland on the bench. There are eighteen civil cases on the calendar and the most important of these are the suits against the city of Ada by C. J. Skarud to enjoin the city from using the present terminus of the sewer and the suit by J. R. Miller against the Great Northern for $6000 for personal damages.

There are three criminal cases with the grand jury investigating some more. Five applicants for citizenship were heard and granted.

This morning just before No. 5 the passenger train on the Great Northern train which arrives here at 7:20 arrived at St. Cloud an unknown man was crushed to death.

He was stealing a ride, being between the baggage and express cars. He was discovered at a stop beyond St. Cloud and the conductor ordered him off.

"I can't. I'm killed," gasped the unfortunate man, and as the end door to the baggage car was opened the man fell into the car. He was taken to St. Cloud and died shortly afterwards.

Just how the accident occurred is not known, but it is believed that he slipped between the cars and was caught when the train stopped by the two cars coming together.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

DROVE TO EUCLID— Mayor McPhee drove to Euclid this afternoon on business and will look over his farm near that place.

WANKE MAN HERE—T. E. Hovet one of the prominent business men of Wanke is spending the day here on business. He reports ideal conditions in that section of Polk county.

GONE TO SHOOT DYNAMITE— Geo. Berg left yesterday morning for Blackduck where he has accepted a position as head dynamite shooter. We hope Mr. Berg will like his new occupation.

FIRST COMMUNION—At St. Mary's curch tomorrow morning the first communion class consisting of 16 girls and 21 boys, a total class of 37 will receive their first communion. Being Ascension day there will be special services and there will be a very large attendance.

NIELSVILLE DELEGATION— Mayor Hans Samuelson, Gus Gilbertson and C. M. Nelson of Climax arrived in the city this morning. They state that seeding is practically over in that section and that the grain is growing rapidly with the best prospects in recent years for a bountiful crop.

HAD A RUNAWAY — O. Ulseth, carrier on R. R. No. 4 had a runaway Monday afternoon the horse becoming scared at a hole in a culvert. The harness was broken and the mail scattered while Mr. Ulseth sustained a badly sprained ankle. He borrowed a harness, picked up the mail and get back somewhat behind schedule.

GETTING FREE ADVERTISING— The city council some time ago decided that no advertisements should be put on the sprinkling wagons this year but that they should be repainted as usual. For some reason the wagons are still carrying the advertisement of the Ruettell Clothing Co., very good advertising and cheap as it is absolutely free. This is a snap for the favored concern but the other fellows in the same line of business are not getting much benefit from it.

G. N. RAILWAY FINED—The Great Northern railway Co., was yesterday morning fined $200 in United States court by Judges Charles F. Amidon for violation of the 36-hour law. Thru Attorney C. J. Murphy of Grand Forks, representing the defendant company, guilt of two charges was admitted. The action is quasi-civil being brought for the collection of the fine that has been provided by congress. The keeping of cattle in transit in cars more than 36 hours is prohibited by the law in question.

LEFT FOR WINNIPEG—Ben Clements went to Winnipeg on the N. P. this afternoon where he will remain a couple of weeks. He is interested in the company that bought the patent rights to his grader which will be manufactured there and his son Charley will be the bookkeeper in the office of the concern. Mr. Clements will spend considerable of his time there and in Minneapolis where another concern will manufacture the machine for sale in the U. S.

NOW ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Man Who Attempted to Kill Garfield's Assassin.

Washington, May 20.—William ("Bill') Jones, who many years ago attracted national interest when he attempted to avenge the killing of President Garfield by shooting at Charles Guiteau, the assassin, while the latter was being removed from the courthouse to the jail in this city, was placed on trial here charged with the murder of John A. McPherson, a former marine, who was employed by Jones as a farmhand. McPherson was killed on Oct. 11, 1908, in Jones' home about two miles from this city. Jones pleaded self defense.

It was during Guiteau's trial that Jones created a nationwide sensation. One day while the trial was nearing its close Guiteau had been placed in the prison van to be taken to the jail. Jones, mounted upon a spirited animal, dashed through the crowds toward the wagon and, whipping out a revolver from his hip pocket, fired several shots at the assassin, one of the bullets grazing his head. Jones made his escape into the country. Later he was captured and brought back to the city, but was never prosecuted.

GENERAL STRIKE SEEMS A FAILURE

Conditions in Paris In All Respects Normal.

Paris, May 20.—The life of Paris was in all respects normal up to noon and the general strike, decreed by the General Federation of Labor, to commence with the building trades, promises to be a huge fiasco. The movement, which was to be followed by strikes on the part of all the other trade unionists of France, was voted by the hotheads against the better judgment of the conservatives, who realized that the time was not ripe for such action and that the whole proletariat movement, which had been preparing for so long, was likely to be compromised for years to come by failure.

Moreover, it was learned that the strike had been voted by representatives of the minority. Only eighty-two out of a total of 180 union delegates favored the movement and with the exception of the building trades and the electrical workers these delegates represent the least powerful of the syndicate.

The government now regards the agitation as purely revolutionary and as foredoomed to result in failure.

A soldier on duty at a branch postoffice was attacked and almost stabbed to death by three discharged postmen.

IS LAID WITHOUT CEREMONY

Last Rail on Pacific Extension of St. Paul Road.

Butte, Mont., May 20.—The last rail to connect Chicago with Seattle and Tacoma on the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railway was laid just east of Hell Gate station, about 100 miles east of Butte. No ceremony marked the practical completion of the coast extension of the St. Paul system. It is expected that the road will soon inaugurate transcontinental freight service, soon to be followed by the operation of through passenger trains.

TRACES BROTHER AFTER 30 YEARS

WORCESTER, MASS., MAN FINDS HIS RELATIVE IN McINTOSH

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY AIDS IN UNITING TWO BRANCHES OF THE FAMILY

"After a search of 30 years, Adam Tideman of Worcester, 85 years of age and totally blind, has at last found in the person of his niece, Mrs. Charlotte Hast of McIntosh, Minn., the first trace of his lost brother, Reinhult Tideman.

"The two brothers came from Sweden together. After living here for a time Reinhult, a massive and powerful man, sought his fortune in the middle west. Neither man heard from the other since, and each branch of the family had believed the other to be lost.

"As his eyesight began to fail him, Adam made another effort to find his brother or some of his relatives if he left any, and decided to tell his story to the newspapers. The local papers came to his aid, and by the merest chance succeeded in effecting a successful search.

"Out thru the middle west where more than a million Swedish-Americans live on the big grain farms, the story was spread of the search of the Worcester brother. The local Swedish societies took up the distribution of the papers.

"Mrs. Hast, the last survivor as she supposed of her family read the story She was instantly struck with the similarty of name to that of her long lost uncle, and becoming convinced that it was really Adam Tideman, from whom neither she nor her relatives had heard in 28 years she wrote at once.

"Adam Tideman's daughter, Mrs. Calling received a letter from McIntosh in a handwriting strange to her. On opening the letter the contents cleared up a family mystery, which been a puzzler for more than quarter of a century. Mrs. Calling found that her uncle was indeed dead but that her cousin Mrs. Hast, was still alive and in prosperous circumstances.

"The mising links of family history are being rehearsed in subsequent letters and now the two branches so long divided by thousands of miles and by the belief that neither existed are happily reunited.

"The aged blind man, passing his days in darkness in Worcester, has been acquainted with the facts, and is overjoyed that a child of his brother lives and is prosperous."

Charles Hast was well known to many Crookston and McIntosh people as is his widow who survives him. Hast died six or seven years ago and Mrs. Hast's father Reinhart Tideman died about a year later at the age of 85 or 90 years. Like his brother in Worcester he was totally blind and been several years before his death.

The Hast farm adjoined the one on which Martin Flom of this city formenly lived, and the families were well acquainted. The farm was located 3 1-2 miles southwest of McIntosh in the town of Knute where Mrs. Hast still resides.

IS GLAD TO GET BACK

LAWRENCE O'NEILL RETURNED FROM THREE YEARS' STAY IN IDAHO

SAYS RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESES ADVANTAGES NOT TO BE FOUND IN WEST

Lawrence O'Neill who returned a few days ago from Idaho with his family, after a sojourn in that state for three years, is in Crookston today, this being his first trip to Crookston since his return.

Mr. O'Neill who owns one of the finest farms in Polk county, consisting of a full section in the town of Chester, highly developed, says that he is glad to get back and that the west has no further attractions for him. While he made some money while there, having bought timber lands and did some jobbing business in telephone poles, posts, etc., he says the Red River Valley has attractions which the west cannot offer and does not possess.

He is congratulating himself that he did not sell his Polk County farm and states that hundreds more Minnesotans who went west would return if they had a farm to come back to or money enough to get here.

The Journal will in a few days publish an article descriptive of the west from the pen of Mrs. O'Neill who is a very versatile writer and who contributed to the Crookston papers before her departure for the west.

Mr. O'Neill will get back in the stock business at once and is now in the market for 100 head of young steers which he will fatten for the market.

BIG ORE SHIPMENTS FROM PEARL DISTRICT

J. D. George who has a lease on the LeVan group of mines at Pearl is in the city and today received returns in the sum of $2597 on a car of ore shipped a short time ago to the United States Smelting company at Bingham Junction, Utah. The car contained 19 tons of ore of a lead, quartz and iron formation and was exceedingly rich."

The Hennebery Mining and Development company of Crookston have claims in close proximity to the Le Van group of mines at Pearl, and the above clipping from a Boise daily more than enthuses the stockholders here.

It is understood that they are about to close the corporation, which means there is no more stock for sale, as they have received some private information from their own mines which caused the directors to decide on closing the sale of stocks.

DIDN'T GIVE D-- FOR THE MAYOR

NINE YEAR OLD BOY STARTED ROUGH HOUSE IN MAYOR'S OFFICE

CONVERTED IT INTO COMBINATION PLAY AND POULTRY YARD

From Thursday's Daily—

Mayor McPhee had a caller this morning, and when he got rid of him he fell in a heap in his big arm chair in the office of complete nervous exhaustion.

The boy was but nine years of age, but after he had completed a 30 minute stunt the office of the mayor looked like the sorting room at a church rummage sale.

The boy, Selmer Anderson, was brought to the mayor's office by his mother. She had been working for a man named Mickelson for some months past, and prior to that lived near Halstad. At the latter place a few years ago the boy was kicked by a horse and has been foolish ever since, tho perfectly harmless.

She has relatives at Little Falls but had no funds and went to the Mayor to get a ticket for Moorhead stating that she had friends there who would assist her in finishing the journey.

On entering the mayor's office Selmer, who is of an investigating turn of mind, headed first for the waste paper basket. He discovered a worn out typewriter ribbon which had just been discarded and in 7 minutes had the office cobwebbed with it. The mayor tripped over it once and fell head long against the safe.

Then Selmer took a lunch of a large banana and threw the peeling on the floor and his mother slipped on a piece of this and collapsed and the mayor had to resuscitate her with a glass of water after lifting her into a chair.

Next the busy Selmer turned the waste basket upside down and sat down and scattered the envelopes and letters etc., all over the floor. He next wanted the bottom book in a large pile and in pulling it out brought down the whole library with a crash.

At this juncture Mayor McPhee anounced that he would see Poor Commissioner Sargent and see that a ticket was provided to Moorhead South America or the Philippines if they would just step out.

Alderman Sargent was located and after getting a ticket took the woman and her son to a restaurant for dinner as she was out of funds. What Selmer did to the restaurant has not been reported as yet, but it is probable that another chapter covering his busy time in Crookston may appear later.

The mayor has been suffering with a nervous headache all afternoon.

ELLSWORTH TO HEAD THE K. P.'S

GRAND LODGE HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS AT ST. PAUL

The grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias held its election of officers at St. Paul yesterday. The following officials of the grand lodge were chosen: Frank S. Ellsworth of St. James, grand chancellor; James Wharton, of Duluth, grand vice chancellor; Frank S. Atwood, of Lamberton, grand prelate; F. E. Wheaton, of Minneapolis, grand keeper of records and seals. Charles W. Farrell, of Minneapolis, grand master of the exchequer; H. W. Ferguson, of Luverne, grand master-at-arms; A. J. Bishop, of St. Paul, grand inner guard; Charles Conger of McIntosh, grand outer guard.

The U. C. T. hall where the grand lodge is holding its sessions, was crowded early last evening when St. Paul Lodge No. 2 gave an exemplification of the ranks of page and knight. The work was done with remarkable precision and smoothness. Later in the evening the knights repaired to the Bowlby hall for the ceremonial by the Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassen. Eight candidates rode the camel and arrived at Khorassan in fair condition. Luncheon was served followed by a well received vaudeville entertainment.

It is time that more of a stir was being made regarding the big firemen's tournament to be held here the first week in July. Posters should be out before the end of the month, and all surrounding cities and towns be invited to celebrate with us. Make the occasion a hummer.

WILL LOCATE A COLONY

DICK LAWRENCE AND HENRY COOK LEAVE FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA

TO LOOK OVER COUNTRY—IF SATISFACTORY THEY WILL LOCATE COLONY

From Thursday's Daily—

Dick Lawrence who has been the binder for the McKenzie-Robbins Printing Co., for years, and prior to that was with the Times in the same department, in company with Henry Cook of Germantown will leave Saturday morning on the Winnipeg Flyer for British Columbia where they will spend three months looking over the country with the idea of locating homesteads.

They intend selecting some valley if a suitable one can be found, and will then return and secure a colony from this section to locate there. Mr. Lawrence has had trouble with his eyes and was forced to resign his position some weeks ago and intends enjoying out door life for the next few years. Unless they find just what they want they will not locate there, and will look over the country very thoroly with the intention of securing the very best location available.

As both Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Cook are old timers and used to frontier life their judgment can be banked upon.

SCHOOL TO TEACH AGRICULTURE

WARREN BOARD OF EDUCATION DECIDES TO INTRODUCE NEW DEPARTMENT

The board of Education at Warren has decided to introduce the study of agriculture into the public schools. A tract of ground has been secured and school gardens will be planted. A separate department of the high school will have charge of this work next year. A delegation representing the board of education and the Warren Commercial club appeared before the high school board last week and endeavored to secure one of the agricultural high schools which were selected at that time but failed to secure the school.

MAIL CARRIER HAS BAD FIRE LOSS

CHRIST NELSON LOSES HOUSE AT BAGLEY WITH ALL ITS CONTENTS

The home of Christ Nelson the Zerkel stage driver near Bagley was entirely destroyed by fire with all its contents day before yesterday. Nelson had started a fire in the stove and went to the barn to do his chores befor breakfast, preparatory to coming to town with the mail. He had not been absent but a few moments when he saw smoke coming thru the roof and by the time he got to the house the whole building was enveloped in a mass of roaring flames. The rest of the family was sleeping when the building caught fire and escaped in their night clothes. The house was an exceptionally good farm dwelling and well furnished. Mr. Nelson carried $500 insurance on the house in the Farmers Insurance Co., of Cleanwater County which will not cover more than half the loss at the most.

HOTEL BLOCK IS IN ASHES

$60,000 LOSS ON BUILDING AND ADJACENT PROPERTY AT BRECKENRIDGE

FLAMES FANNED BY A FIERCE WIND WERE HARD TO SUBDUE

From Thursday's Daily—

One of the fiercest fires this town has ever witnessed started in the basement of the Bobson hotel block a three-story brick building owned by Henry Bobson of Minneapolis.

The fire was discovered at 2 a. m. yesterday by the messenger boy of the Great Northern railway who quickly spread the alarm but a strong wind from the south soon whipped the blaze into a roaring furnace and the firemen were unable to check the flames. Streams of water were then turned on the surrounding buildings in an effort to keep the fire from spreading, but this had to be abandon ed and dynamite was resorted to in order to save the homes and other buildings in the block.

The loss is estimated at $60,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

LUDVIG DAHLGREN OF ARGYLE PROVES A WONDERFUL FLUTIST

HITHERTO UNKNOWN HE SIGNS CONTRACT WITH MINNEAPOLIS ORCHESTRA

From Friday's Daily—

There is a very interesting little story in connection with Mr. Dahlgren of Argyle who appeared on the program at the Commercial club reception last evening in several flute solos. He arrived from Nonway only about a year ago. He could not speak a word of English and went to Argyle where he has since been working on the Great Northern road as a section hand. It soon developed that he was a flutist above the ordinary and became affiliated with the Argyle Band and orchestra. Last Sunday he went to Minneapolis, having been sent for by the leader of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra who had been told of his ability by a travelling man. The result of one rehearsal was that he has affixed his name to a contract with that organization for a year. He is a very unassuming young man but can fairly make a flute talk and with no apparent effort. Director Wasshausen states that with the training he will receive with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra he will develope into a player within a short time who will be heard from.

This is but an instance where real merit won. Mr. Dahlgren was given a tremendous ovation last evening having been recalled twice and the audience would have liked to listen to several more selections.

YOUNG LADY NEAR CROOKSTON RECEIVES FORMAL NOTIFICATION

A well known young lady received formal notification from a prominent young man a few days ago to the effect that there was a rumor had been put in circulation to the effect that the two were to be united in marriage shortly. "I write you" the letter ran "to asure you there is nothing in the rumor and no foundation for it."

This was real nice of him, as otherwise the young lady in question might have been married off without knowing anything about it herself which would have put her in a very embarrassing predicament.

ELDEST SISTER DIED—J. P. Marcum received a telegram this morning announcing the death of Mrs. Spengler, his eldest sister, who resided in southeastern Iowa. She died Thursday evening but the telegram was not received here till this morning so that he will be unable to reach the home in time to attend the funeral services and so will not go down. Mrs. Spengler was about 65 years of age and leaves a husband and six children. She died suddenly having been bothered with heart trouble for some time.

THREE CASES IN BANKRUPTCY

CROOKSTON AND OTHER WHOLESALE HOUSES WANT THEIR MONEY

FROM RED LAKE FALLS MERCHANT, KITTSON COUNTY FARMER ADMITS INSOLVENCY

From Friday's Daily—

Three bankruptcy petitions were filed in the United States court at Red Lake Falls yesterday. The Wright-Carlson Mercantile company, Gowan-Twohy company, Finch, Winslow, Carlisle Co. ;and the Queen City Fruit company united in a petition asking that Exerie Chatel, a merchant of Red Lake Falls, be adjudged bankrupt. No estimate of assets and liabilities is given, but the petitioners allege that his indebtedness to them amounts to $3,625.58.

C. J. Haugen, a farmer of Hampden, Kittson county, filed a voluntary petition placing his assets at $196 and his liabilities at $3,556.96 and L. C. Larson a mail carrier of Artichoke, Big Stone county, filed at the same time, placing his assets at $530 and his liabilities at $1,979.75.

The Duluth Herald in a very timely editorial says that Senator Nelson bit the nail squarely on the head in his direct manner when, in a debate in the senate Monday he said: "Mr. President, I am tired of being lectured about these schedules and about or thodoxy of the Republican party. Let us recognize the fact that with the tariff bill it is justas it is with the rivers and harbors bill. You tickle me and I tickle you. You give us what we want on the Pacific coast for our lead ore and for our citrus fruit and we will tickle you people of New England and give you what you want on your cotton goods. The people who stand between these two elements are ground between the upper and lower millstones. We are willing to accept a reasonable reduction on our products. How is it with the rest of you?"

This is the secret of tariff scandal of tariff robbery, of tariff corruption. It is this system of log-rolling and of trading that gives men like the infamaus Aldrich the power to dictate a tariff bill in the interests of the trusts The tariff is so much a local issue in congress that common national interests are lost sight of ,and in the confusion of sectional grabbbing the shrewd agents of the trusts calmly pull the wires and manipulate such in famies as the Dingley tariff law and the Aldrich tariff bill. Nothing but an inmediate awakening of the consumers of the land, made plainly evident in Washington, will prevent the infliction upon the American people of a tariff law even more viciously corrupt than the Dingley law of 1897. Too many politicians are good milkers but it is the public they milk. Society folks in Des Moines and thruout Iowa have been shocked at the discovery that Governor Carroll not only keeps a red cow but that he milks her himself.

Every morning promptly at 5:30 the governor rises from the gubernatorial couch dons a pair of overalls and hies himself to the cowbarn. The governor is a rapid milker and does the job with neatness and dispatch.

Every evening as soon as he quits the executive office the governor goes to his home and again dons his blue jeans. And again he "pails" bossy.

Many times fashionable people have wondered why the governor has been late to early evening banquets The secret came out when a leading Iowa politician called up his house the other evening to ascertain why the governor had not put in an appear ance at a certain function.

"He's out milking the cow now. If you will leave your number I'll have him call you," was the reply from the executive mansion.

The secret was out.

The governor has not as yet followed the example of President Taft who has been tethering his cow on the capitol grounds. Instead, the governor's son, Paul, drives the cow to pasture each morning and brings her back at night.

The neighbors say that the governor has never been heard to utter a cross word when bossy whisked him in the face with her tail or tried to kick the milk bucket into the next county.

WHEAT SEEDING COMPLETED

REPORTS FROM ALL DIRECTIONS IS OF MOST ENCOURAGING NATURE

RAIN THIS WEEK HAS DONE A VAST AMOUNT OF GOOD—ALL OPTIMISTIC

Wheat seeding thruout the Red River Valley is practically over. Supt. W. B. Sheffield returned this morning from Fargo states that between here and there farmers are all busy now seeding barley and the later grains and grasses. He says the same conditions prevail in his entire district, there being but few farmers who have not finished their wheat seeding, not enough to cut any figure.

The recent rains he states, have done a vast amount of good and will start the grain at once.

The same reports are received from all directions from travelling men and business men who have been here during the past few days and the outlook is far brighter than it has been at this time for many years past.

Most Favorable Spring

During the past few days the weather has been cloudy and gentle showers of rain have fallen at intervals. All the wheat has been seeded and will start to grow at once, now that warm weather has set in. Old farmers say they have never seen a more favorable spring for the wheat crop. Considerable barley oats and flax have also been seeded, and there is ample time yet for the seeding of these grains. There will be more ootatoes planted in this vicinity this year than ever before and many farmers will no doubt receive a large income from the sale of tubers in the fall. A large amount of grass seed has also been sown, such as clover, tmothy and alfalfa.—Warren Sheaf.

Crops Never Better

E. Ellis manager of the Imperial Elevator Co., spent Wednesday at Hallock looking after the company's business there. Mr. Ellis states: "During all these years that I have travelled thru the northwest as manager for the Imperial Elevator Co., I have never heard as much talk about the Red River Valley as there is this spring. Seeding is further advanced in the Red River Valley than in Iowa. Dakotas and southern Minnesota. Never saw the soil in better condition for crop than in the Red River Valley this spring. With the general heavy rain there is every reason to believe that the Valley will have a good crop and a large immigration of actual settlers."

A Large Acreage

There will be very little vacant prairie land if any, between Hallock and Kennedy this year. Capt. Donaldson is busy with a big force of men and teams breaking up one quarter section after another. He has already contracted for the breaking and seeding of one section into flax and if weather and time permits he intends to break and seed in at least a half section more into flax. The present prices on flax is very encouraging and Capt. Donaldson is not going to lose an opportunity. Knowing what Kittson county soil can produce he will without doubt come out all O. K. on his flax venture.

The Magnet as a Detective.

In America the magnet has come rather extensively into use in the handling of iron and steel castings. Suspended from a locomotive crane, it can also be used for collecting scraps of metal from floors and yards. Large amounts are said to be saved in this way. And as the magnet moves over the ground it may bring to light pieces which have mysteriously disappeared —concealed, it may be, by employees to hide blunders in their work. Some years ago in England the magnet was found useful in a somewhat similar way in the detection of fraud. Manufacturers of bone manure found that they were buying old iron along with the bones. Collectors found that it was profitable to insert bits of old metal in the larger bones and thus increase the weight. So the manufacturers provided themselves with a powerful magnetic apparatus under which all the bones were passed before being weighed. As the bones were slid along a broad groove a large one would suddenly jump up and cling to the wall where the magnet was concealed. On examination it would be found to contain perhaps a rusty old poker in place of marrow.—London Globe.

MAYOR TAYLOR IS UPHELD

JUDGE TEMPLETON DECIDES IN FAMOUS GRAND FORKS MANDAMUS CASE

WILL NOT RECEIVE PAY FOR THE WORK HE DID AFTER BEING FIRED

From Monday's Daily—

That M. E. Durick has no salary due him for services performed in the capacity of street commissioner at Grand Forks after his removal from that office on April 22 is the opinion of Judge C. F. Templeton, and he handed down a decision to that effect yesterday morning. The application of M. E. Durick for a writ of mandamus directing that Mayor Taylor and City Auditor Alexander pay his salary as street commissioner after April 22 were presented before Judge Templeton Wednesday afternoon. The question arose as a result of Mayor Taylor issuing an order on April 22 by which he removed Mr. Durick from the office of street commissioner appointing John Dunlop ad interim.

CLUB ROOM OPENING WAS A VERY HAPPY AFFAIR

LARGE NUMBER THOROLY ENJOYED INFORMAL GATHERING AT THE NEW HOME OF THE 25,000 COMMERCIAL CLUB IN THE UNION BLOCK LAST EVENING, A HIGH CLASS PROGRAM RENDERED—MANY COMPLIMENTS PAID THE CLUB FOR THE ENTERPRISE SHOWN IN THE ELEGANT APPOINTMENTS OF THE SUITE OF ROOMS

From Friday's Daily—

The formal opening of the magnificent new club home of the 25,000 Commercial Club of Crookston, comprising a suite of 9 rooms and occupying the entire third floor of the Union Block on Robert street took place last evening and was one of the most pleasant social functions, as well as one of the most important in the history of Crookston. Only club member and their ladies were invited and about 300 were present at the gathering.

An excellent program including orchestral selections, selections by the Viking Chorus, the Viking Male Quartette, readings by Miss Mayme Westerberg, cornet solos by Director Wasshausen of the Crookston band, who made his initial bow to the people of Crookston and flute solos by Ludvig Dahlgren of Argyle, was carried out following an address by President H. C. Misner of the Commercial club. Thomas Morris presided at the gathering.

President Misner's Address

President Misner in his address stated that he was very much pleased at the presence of so many of the ladies. He wanted them to keep in close touch with the Commercial Club and aid by their influence in every way. He wanted them to encourage their husbands to attend the meetings and make a practice of dropping up to the club rooms frequently. He also advised them against giving them the marble heart or stony stare when they had remained at the club rooms a little beyond the limit in the evening.

Every Number Applauded

Every number of the program was heartily applauded and the audience insisted on responses to most hearty applause, which was graciously granted. The male quartette consisted of Rev. T. T. Ove and Messrs. Skaren, Geo. Hamery and O. W. Peterson, who did splendidly as did the Viking Chorus which gave two splendid numbers.

Miss Mayme Westenberg was not allowed to retire until she had given three very fine readings and never appeared before a Crookston audience to better advantage.

Ovation for Band Director Wasshausen

Mr. Arthur Wasshausen the director of the Crookston band appeared for the first time before a Crookston audience and he received a splendid ovation. He is certainly a master of the cornet and the enthusiastic recalls he received showed how great was the appreciation of those presnt. Everyone present believes Crookston has a band leader of exceptional merit. Incidentally Mr. Wasshausen paid Miss Fern Lancaster who accompanied him on the piano, and who presided at the piano during the entire evening a very high compliment for the splendid work she did with him on such short notice and brief rehearsals.

Dahlgren a Wonder

One of the surprises and genuine musical treats of the evening was the artistic work of Ludvig Dahlgren, who was scheduled for a flute solo. His work is truly wonderful. He has been making his home at Argyle since his arrival from the old country a year ago. His talent was recently recognized by people from Minneapolis and last Sunday he was called to that city and signed a contract for a year with the Minneapolis Symphony orchetra Last evening he was recalled several times.

Orchestra was Very Fine

The music by the orchestra assembled by Fred Walker was also of a very high class. They played several selections during the program and furnished the music for the dancing which was enjoyed following the program until after midnight. The orchestra consisted of 7 pieces and included Mr. Dahlgren from Argyle.

Decorations very Pretty

The decorations were very pretty, consisting of immense ferns and carnations. Frappe and wafers were served in the directors' room, the Misses Ethel Vance, Maryan Wheeler, Lillian Schmidt and Ella Christianson presiding.

The affair was an unqualified success from beginning to end and marks a new era of activity on the part of the Crookston Commercial Club. Many compliments were expressed on the elegance of the club rooms. The committee in charge of the program last evening consisting of J. G. Spokely, J. P. Foote and Tom Morris are entitled to much credit for the able manner in which they discharged their duties.

The following guests were present:

Messrs. and Mesdames H. C. Misner H. E. Nesne, Thomas Morris, George F. Carpenter, S. Rosenthal, G. S. Chesterman, Thomas Spence, J. S. Kjelland, C. H. Zealand, George T. Hamerry, A. A. Just, W. E. Falk, Ole Norseth, James Maybury, Charles Chesterman.

Out of town guests: Mrs. Frank Cadwell, Minneapolis; Miss B. E. Shephard, Exeter, England; Miss Eva Desautel, Michigan City, N. D.; Mr. H. W. Stephenson, Minneapolis; Mr. E. A. Davis, Minneapolis; Mr. J. F. Montgomery, Angus; Mr. J. V. Godfrey, Moorhead; Mr. H. A. Rudolphi, Minneapolis.

The Right Way

President Taft is going about the conservation of the nation's water power in the right way. In the first place he has assigned it to the Geological Survey, who has men in its service well qualified for the work, the task of finding out how much there is to conserve and in what parts of the country it is located. And the next point on which Mr. Taft will seek enlightenment is the existence of statutes under which the federal government is given the necessary authority to exercise special guardianship. The country will entirely approve of the President's desire to see his way clear before acting in this matter and will rest secure in the belief that he is upholding the Roosevelt policies in principle tho his methods of going about a thing are so diametrically opposed to those of his predecessor.—Stephen Leader.

ANOTHER LINE MAY BE BUILT

GREAT NORTHERN SAID TO BE PLANNING TO BUILD EXTENSION IN CAVALIER

G. N. ACTIVITY DUE TO PROPOSITION OF SOO AND C. P. R. TO CONNECT

From Friday's Daily—

Mt. Carmel of Cavalier county, N. D., is excited over the prospects of securing a railroad. Two lines have been talked of. Recently it was given out that the Soo and Canadian Pacific planned to connect the Mowbray and Thief River lines. During the past week the Great Northern has had a right of way agent at work looking over the section north of Mt. Carmel and from there eastward. The projected plan is to extend what is known as the Northern North Dakota railway from Concrete northward.

The Northern Dakota railway is owned by Grand Forks and Cavalier county now but it is operated in connection with the Great Northern. It is believed that the Great Northern will make an effort to extend the line before the Soo gets thru.

LITTLE SON WAS LAID TO REST

The following communication was received from a friend of the bereaved family relative to the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Jones, the funeral having been held yesterday from the family residence:

Edward R. Jones, infant son of H. R. and Alma Jones was born May 18 1908, died May 11th, 1909. Little Edward was a playful, happy little child full of joy, and ever known to smile and play, with all who noticed him. The friends and neighbors will greatly miss him as well as the bereaved parents. Funeral services were held at the home 2:30 p. m. May 13, 1909, conducted by Rev. McCoy of the Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Gilman of Beltrami. Many friends and relatives were present from Crookston, St. Hilaire and Beltrami. There were many beautiful flowers to decorate the casket, given by the many friends.

The remains were laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery.

In after years it will be sweet for the parents to read the following lines:

"Two wee little feet went pattering
by, years ago,
They wandered off to the sunny
'sky, years ago.
They came never back to the heart they left
They climbed never back to the arms bereft, years ago.
Again I shall hear the two little feet
pattering by,
Their music a thousand times more sweet, in the sky.
And I love to think that a Father's care,
Will keep them safely
Till we get there,
Bye and bye.

NEW PASTOR FOR POLK CO. TOWNS

The five commencement day speakers for the university of North Dakota were selected at the oratorical contest held yesterday afternoon in which seven participated. The following were selected: A. K. Reading Richard Wenzel and George Warmer, of the liberal arts college. E. A. Healy, of the law department and Miss Mary B. Esctes, of the teachers' college. The two others who participated in the contest were William M. Bryant and Miss Dora Hermann. Prof. Gottfried Hult, Dr. John M. Gilette, Prof. L. E. Birdzell and Albert J. Becker were the judges.

Mr. Warmer has been appointed the pastor at Fosston and Erskine, Minn., for the summer by District Superintendent A. H. McKee, of Crookston.

Stephen proposes to make the eagle scream July 4th and committees to raise funds and have charge of the affair were named at a recent mass meeting. It is none too early to get into the game. However the great celebration of the 4th for the entire Red River Valley will be in Crookston as the Northwestern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament Association will be in session here at that time, and the Winnipeg Eagles will be here over 1,000 strong.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

CROKSTON DELEGATES RETURN FROM STATE CONVENTION AT MINNEAPOLIS.

ENDORSED PLAN TO RAISE $500,000 FOR CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY AT WASHINGTON

From Thursday's Daily—

Judge L. E. Gossman returned this morning from St. Paul where he attended the state convention of the Knights of Columbus as one of the grand lodge officers, having been the Grand Advisor, and reports a very largely attended and enthusiastic gathering. He was accompanied home by his mother who will make an extended visit here.

Messrs. J. E. O'Brien and N. B. Moran who were delegates from the Crookston lodge of that order, returned home yesterday.

About 100 delegates were present. The delegates endorsed the proposition of the national council to raise $500000 for the Catholic University of America at Washington.

The social features of the last day were a trolley ride in the morning, a reception at the West hotel in the evening, and then a visit in a body to the Orpheum Theatre. The election of the officers resulted as follows

J. H. Nightingale, Minneapolis, state deputy.

E. F. Kelly, Faribault, state secretary.

J. F. Fitzgerald, Owatonna, state treasurer.

John Barry. St. Paul, Advocate.

L. F. Kennedy, Minneapolis state warden.

JaJmes E. Hickey, Mankato, delegate to the national convention.

BUNCH OF LAND CHANGED HANDS

J. M. HETLAND DISPOSES OF 3360 ACRES OF NORMAN COUNTY LAND

One of the largest land deals ever made in Norman county took place last Saturday when John M. Hetland sold seventeen farms in various parts of the county to Senator Dale, a banker located at Madison, this state. The total number of acres transferred were 3360 at an average of $28.50. There has been considerable activity in real estate here this spring and the indications are that land will rapidly advance in price, some of the most optimistic ones predict that land values will double in the next two years. Land men coming here from the southern part of the state have a great deal of faith in this section and state that there is an unusual demand for Valley lands this year. The quality of our soil, together with present high prices of farm products should tend to make our land fully as valuable as that of Southern Minnesota and Iowa.

$1,000 LOSS IN PRAIRIE FIRE

RAINFALL IN VICINITY OF FERGUS FALLS LIGHTEST IN YEARS

Prairie fires have done much damage in the vicinity of Fergus Falls during the past few days. In the town of Western a fire swept over a wide extent of territory and burned over 10 tons of hay, the loss amounting to over $1,000. The rainfall in that vicinity this spring has been the lightest in years.

A. Lariviere drove the "Black Marrie" today which hauled 9 dog carcasses to the dumping ground this afternoon and Dog Catcher Welch acted as chief mourner, executioner and general high mogul. He officiated at a similar function not long ago when seven dogs were sent to dog heaven, making a total of 16 thus far this spring.

The public is thoroly aroused over the subject of dogs. There are about twice as many in the city as there should be as at least one half of the dog population consists of useless curs The city should be rid of them and the general public will give him moral backing in enforcing the ordinance to the letter.

Crookston cannot afford to be known as the "dog city" a title which might fittingly be applied at the present time.

In after years when a man finally tumbles to the fact that he doesn't understand women he can't help suspecting that he has been a fool.

CITY PARKS DISCUSSED

QUESTION OF ACQUIRING MORE GROUND FOR PARK PURPOSES REFERRED TO

SPECIAL COUNCIL COMMITTEE—MUCH ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED

From Wednesday's Daily—

The city council held a busy session last evening. The ladies representing the Federation of Woman's Clubs were present again to hear the report of the ways and means committee reported the price at which several plots could be secured but did not go into the band proposition.

City Attorney O'Brien took the floor and suggested that he would favor the purchase of the desired ground by getting a contract for deed and making payments as the funds were available. He did not think further bond issues were advisable as he wants the city in shape in 1910 when he claims the franchise of the water works company expires to acquire the plant or dictate the terms of the franchise.

Special Committee Named

It was finally decided to refer the park acquisition matter to a special committee and today President Snyder of the council appointed as such committee Alderman Wright, Murphy and Hughes, who will report on some plan devised at the next meeting of the council.

The Crookston Fire Department asked the council for an appropriation of $100 to help defray the expense of a delegation from the local department to attend the State Firemen's meeting to be held at Cloquet. City Atty. O'Brien was asked for advice and stated that the charter prohibited the council for appropriating money for such a purpose. The department has already received this sum in the past.

Will Assist Company I

Capt. Westerberg presented a formal application from Co. I for an appropriation of $250 per year to help pay armory rent. Under the new law the state will pay a similar sum as is paid by the city. City Atty. O'Brien was instructed to draw up a resolution covering the appropriation which will be passed at the next meeting of the council.

New Cement Crosswalks

The council ordered the construction of many cross walks mostly in the third ward with the understanding that the contractors would not present their bills for the same till there were sufficient funds credited to that ward to pay for same.

Considerable more routine business of an unimportant character was disposed of before adjournment.

PREPARE FOR FAIR EXHIBIT

EXHIBIT COULD BE SENT DOWN FOR HALF THE COST OF LAST YEAR

It has been suggested that the farmers of Polk county would do well to make plans at once for furnishing the exhibit to the State Fair from Polk county the coming fall. Last year the plan was not decided upon till late and everything had to be done in a rush. It was a big task to scour the county for the class of exhibits wanted and it was necessary to get a little here, a little there and a little somewhere else. This could be avoided to a great extent if the farmers would plant their exhibit grains, vegetables, etc., in one plot and give them special attention.

A better exhibit could in this manner be raised and collected for the state fair than last year, and the cost would be less than half of what it cost last year. The decorations including set pieces etc., are all in good shape, and with a touch here and there and some brightening up could practically all be used again, the arrangment only being changed.

Adecision, however should be reached at once as to what is going to be done, as much better results can be obtained in this way. It would be a good idea for the committee in charge to offer prizes at once for the best showing of various lines of grain and vegetables and in this way the farmers would bring the exhibits in themselves.

GOV. JOHNSON A FEATURE

COMMITEE WILL MAKE COMPLETE CANVASS OF THE CITY AT ONCE

FOR FUNDS TO TAKE CARE OF BIG FIREMEN'S TOURNEY AND 4TH CELEBRATION

The committee selected by the Commercial club and the Firemen's committee to selicit funds for the annual tournament of the Northwestern Firemen's Tournament Association to be held in Crookston early in July will start the canvass at once. This gathering which will include a monster 4th of July celebration, the entertainment of the 1000 Eagles from Winnipeg, etc., will cost a great deal of money, but it is money well invested as the largest crowd will gather here that has been seen in Crookston for many years.

Gov. Johnson as Orator

Efforts are now being made to secure the presence of Gov. Johnson who will be invited to deliver the 4th of July oration on Monday, July 5th, and it is learned from high sources that as he has promised to visit Crookston some time this summer that he can be secured for the occasion. He would be a great drawing card ond would insure a monster crowd for the first day of the tourney.

KEELEY GETS $100 REWARD

LANDS A HORSE THIEF AND JUSTICE WATTS DIVIDES THE $200 REWARD

GEO. SNOW NABBED SOME WEEKS AGO AND IS NOW DOING TIME

Atty. N. B. Moran yesterday received a draft for $100 from the county auditor of Roseau County which is half of the reward of $200 for the capture of a horse thief and the money was turned over to P. J. Keeley the Great Northern conductor, who some weeks ago arrested Geo. Snow at Strathcona for stealing a horse at Roseau.

The other $100 went to a liveryman at Roesau who was on the train at the time the arrest was made. He was also in pursuit of Snow and had given Conductor Keeley a description of the man. As the train approached Strathcona Conductor Keeley saw the man wanted standing on the platform and promptly placed him under arrest.

Judge Watts decided that the reward should be split in two.

ONLY $225,000 FOR CLAIMANTS

MUST BE USED TO SETTLE $1,725,000 DAMAGES IN THE REPUBLIC DISASTER

HEIRS OF WILLIAM J. MOONEY OF LANGDON, N. D., ASK FOR $50,000

Less than $225,000 is available to settle claims aggregating $1,725,000 filed against the owners of the Lloyd-Italino line steamship Florida. The time limit set for the presentation of the claims growing out of the ramming of the White Star liner Republic expired today. The courts must now find some means of distributing among claimants the $225,000 proceeds of the sale of the Florida. The largest single claim is $1,662,100, made by the Ocean Steam Navigation company, owner of the Republic.

The heirs of William J. Mooney of Langdon, N. D., who was killed in the collision, ask for $50,000. James B. Connolly the writer, who was a passenger, filed a claim for $1,600.

INSPECTING DREDGE WORK

MAJOR SCHRUNK IS IN CHARGE OF GOVERNMENT HARBOR WORK LOOKING

OVER THE WORK BEING DONE AT WARROAD AND INTERNATIONAL FALLS

Major Schrunk who has charge of the work being done by the Government in harbors, was in Crookston yesterday enroute to Warroad and International Falls where the government has dredges at work cleaning out and deepening the channels. He will sped several days there with Capt. Henry who accompanied him. The dredge work has been in progress there for a number of years past, and more or less will be done every year as traffic on the lake is increasing steadily.

With beter railroad connection that section of the state it is expected that its importance as a summer resort will be greatly increased and thousands of tourists will make annual trips there. This will mean the addition of many boats in the next few years for both passenger and freight business.

AUTOMATIC STOKERS WILL BE INSTALLED

NORTHERN PACIFIC AND GREAT NORTHERN TO PUT THEM ON SOON

Automatic stokers will be given a trial in the near future on the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads. The mechanical departments of these roads have been considering the idea for some time and it is said that the arrangements have so far matured that several of the devices will be placed in service. If they prove satisfactory they will undoubtedly be put in general use on all engines on the lines.

The Chicago & Alton railroad recently anonunced that it had decided to adopt the mechanical stokers after a successful tryout. The equipment consists of a conveyor which loads and unloads mechanically, thus saving an immense amount of hard work on the part of the fireman.

The principal advantage claimed for the contrivance is the fireman's attention is not entirely monopolized in shoveling coal, giving him time to assist the engineer. Another important advantage is that the fireman's eyes are protected from the glare of the fire making his vision clearer when on the lookout for danger signals.

VERDICT FOR DR. JOHN KOCH

FAMOUS DAMAGE SUIT AT BEMIDJI DECIDED IN FAVOR OF DEFENDANT

Dr. John Koch formerly of Fergus Falls has won out in the damage suit that was brought against him by parties at Blackduck and tried at Bemidji It was claimed that he had made an incorrect diagnosis in the case of a patient suffering from diphtheria and a damage suit was instituted which has been on trial for two weeks, and has been very hard fought on both sides. The case went to the jury Monday and a verdict was returned in his favor yesterday. The verdict in effect exonerates him from any blame in the premises. Dr. Koch's numerous friends will be pleased to learn of the outcome of the case.

The Tomb of Genghis Khan.

Genghis Khan, the Mongol chief, in the thirteenth century proved himself one of the world's greatest warriors. His tomb exists at Edchen Koro and is described in Count de Lesdain's "From Pekin to Sikkim:" "Two small tents, one behind the other and connected by a very low inner door made of wornout felt and admitting through their rents the rain and the wind, are the 'monument' destined to perpetuate the renown of the greatest conqueror the world has known. The ashes of the body of Genghis Khan are deposited in a kind of chest cubic in shape and placed on a wooden support made of small colored pillars adorned with paintings on all its sides except that facing south, which is covered with a finely worked copperplate representing a divinity surrounded by four animals which are not easy to identify. The tomb, in fact, has not always been here, but it is difficult to know exactly where the first [illegible] of the great [illegible] is [illegible]

HAD BEEN IN FAILING HEALTH

Death of H. H. Rogers Not Wholly Unexpected.

APOPLEXY CAUSE OF END

Had Suffered From Same Ailment in July, 1907, and Had Since Placed His Affairs in Order in Event of Another Attack—Last Illness of Noted Capitalist of Only an Hour's Duration.

New York, May 20.—The death of Henry H. Rogers, vice president of the Standard Oil company and a stockholder in various other corporations, while sudden was not wholly unexpected, as Mr. Rogers had been in declining health for several years and at one time in 1907 his condition was serious. Mr. Rogers rose as he usually did about 5 a. m. At 6 o'clock he complained of feeling ill and a physician was summoned. His heart action was weak and it was apparent that he was suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. This was the second illness of this nature suffered by Mr. Rogers, the first having occurred in July, 1907. In spite of all that could be done for him Mr. Rogers sank rapidly and the end came peacefully at 7 o'clock.

HENRY H. ROGERS.

Following the seizure of apoplexy in 1907 Mr. Rogers began putting his affairs in order and he has been out of the stock market entirely for months. His interests in all of the corporations with which he had been identified have been placed in other hands during the past year. This step was taken in order to safeguard his properties in the even of sudden death.

Was a Prominent Financier.

Mr. Rogers was for many years one of the most prominent financiers of the country. He took a leading part in all of the enterprises undertaken by the Standard Oil group of capitalists, was vice president of the Standard Oil company and was the active spirit in the organization of the Amalgamated Copper company, of which he was president up to the time of his death. He also was interested in a number of railroads, serving as a member of the board of directors of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Union Pacific. The news of his death came as a surprise to Wall street. Mr. Rogers was at the office of the Standard Oil company Tuesday and appeared to be in good spirits. His health has been failing somewhat for several years past and he had curtailed his financial operations to some extent on that account, but he continued to perform the duties of vice president of the Standard Oil company.

The death of Mr. Rogers follows closely upon the completion of the great railway project to the accomplishment of which the energies of his later years, his genius for organization and a very considerable portion of his private fortune was devoted. This was the building of the Virginia railway, a line which opened up a rich bituminous coal country in West Virginia, extending 443 miles from Deepwater, W. Va., to a tidewater terminal at Sewells Point, Va. This road was distinctly an individual undertaking of Mr. Rogers and he personally bore the greater part of the cost of its construction, which has been estimated at $40,000,000. Mr. Rogers had embarked on his venture some time prior to the financial panic of 1907, which checked similar undertakings by some of the large railroad companies of this country, but the work of building this line went on to its finish mainly because of the energy and faith which Mr. Rogers applied to the achievement of his purpose.

His death coming so soon after the end of this work and before he saw the fruit of his labor in the development of the section served by his road is regarded by his friends and associates as a regrettable ending of a brilliant career.

PRESIDENT TAFT IN THE SOUTH

Attends Unveiling of Statue on Virginia Battlefield.

LAUDS NORTH AND SOUTH

Couples With Every Tribute to Union Soldiers a Eulogy of the Valor of the Confederates—Declares War Between the States Had to Be Fought and That Enduring Good Had Come of It.

Petersburg, Va., May 20.—Paying a tribute alike to the soldiers of the North and South President Taft witnessed the unveiling of an heroic statue in bronze, erected at Fort Mahone, on the Petersburg battlefields, in memory of General Hartranft and the Pennsylvania volunteers who fell in the stubborn fight about this outpost of the Confederate capital. The president arrived in Petersburg shortly after 9 o'clock in his private car, the Olympia, which was detached from the regular Washington train at Richmond and was run as a special from there. The president went immediately to Fort Stedman, where a tablet was unveiled, and then proceeded to Fort Mahone, where he made his first address of the day.

The day was warm, but the sky was overcast throughout the morning and the heat was not seriously felt. The president coupled with every tribute to the Union soldiers a eulogy of the valor of the Confederates.

"We could not dedicate this beautiful and enduring memorial," he declared "to the volunteer soldiers of Pennsylvania with such a sense of its justice and appropriateness had they not been confronted by an enemy capable of resisting their assaults with equal vigor and fortitude. Pennsylvania's pride must be in the victory achieved by her men against so brave, resolute and resourceful an enemy."

The president declared that the battle between the states had to be fought and that enduring good had come of it.

KIRBY SUCCEEDS VAN CLEAVE

Is Expected to Continue Policy of Predecessor.

New York, May 20.—Ratification of the new officers chosen by the nominating committee, discussion of reports of committees and a banquet were on the programme of the concluding day of the annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers in this city. The nominating committee's choice of John Kirby, Jr., of Dayton, O., as president and the other officers so selected was generally accepted by the delegates and the members looked to Mr. Kirby to continue the contest undertaken by James W. Van Cleave against labor legislation regarded as inimical to their interests.

The report of the committee on immigration declared that "public sentiment in the United States on the whole appears to be in favor of selection rather than restriction of immigration, having no objection to a considerable amount of immigration if of a desirable quality." The principle which is embodied in the present immigration laws was approved by the committee.

FAMOUS RESORT BANKRUPT

Moulin Rouge at Paris Forced to Suspend.

Paris, May 20.—The Moulin Rouge, probably the most famous resort in the history of Paris, has been declared bankrupt by the tribunal of commerce. Of late the vogue of the resort has been steadily decreasing, owing to the work of the purity crusaders, who have brought about the elimination of some of the sensational dances that were the chief features of the place.

The various managers of the concern have made fortunes in it, but many more have met ruin in trying to conduct it on a lavish scale necessary to attract tourists.

MILLIONAIRE SWIFT WEDS

Elopes With Young Heiress of Lafayette, N. Y.

New York, May 20.—Julian W. Swift, nephew of the multimillionaire meat packer of Chicago, and a millionaire in his own right, who is known in New York as a man about town, was married in Hoboken Monday night to Miss Mary Emma Miller, a beautiful young heiress of Lafayette, N. Y., whom he met only three weeks ago.

The pair eloped from the Hotel Knickerbocker and hurried to Hoboken in a large touring car. Only a few of their intimate friends went with them.

Duty Remains the Same.

Washington, May 20.—Changing his amendment, which had originally placed linotypes on the free list, so as to provide a duty of 10 per cent, Mr. Paynter asked for a vote, and the amendment was defeated, 35 to 43. Messrs. Borah, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Clapp, Dolliver, La Follette and Nelson, Republicans, voted with the Democrats.

BEET SUGAR DISCUSSED

Mr. Clay Charges That Joseph F. Smith Fixes the Price of Beets in the Interest of the Factories of Utah and Against the Producer. Mormon Senator Brands Statement Absolutely Untrue.

Washington, May 20.—Declaring that Joseph F. Smith, the head of the Mormon church, every year fixes the price of beets in the interest of the beet sugar factories of Utah rather than in favor of the producers of beets, Senator Clay, in the senate, called for the characterization of his statement as "absolutely untrue" by Senator Smoot, himself an official of the Mormon church. Mr. Clay declared that Mr. Smith, as president of the beet sugar factories of Utah, received $20,000 annual salary. "He is always in favor of the factories and against the growers," said Mr. Clay.

Upon Mr. Smoot's denying this statement Mr. Clay declined to be interrupted further.

Mr. Clay declared that as votes already taken in the senate demonstrated that the finance committee had full power to obtain agreement on its tariff bill as reported he favored an early vote on the bill, as delay was useles in affecting tho rates carried by that measure.

REED SMOOT.

By a resolution introduced by Mr. La Follette the interstate commerce commission is instructed to inform tho senate what railroads have failed to comply with the law limiting the hours of service of their employes, together with the names of the roads which have contested the validity of the law and the result of such action. Upon motion of Mr. La Follette the consideration of the resolution was postponed for a day.

WATCHORN OUSTED BY TAFT

New Yorker Succeeds Him at Important Immigration Post.

Washington, May 20.—William Williams of New York has been selected to succeed Robert Watchorn as commissioner of immigration at New York.

The post, which is considered the most important in the immigration department of the country, has not been conducted in a manner satisfactory to the president.

This is taken as the cause of Mr. Watchorn's resignation.

INTENSE INTEREST IN INDUSTRIAL CONTESTS

PROF. L. P. HARRINGTON ACCOMPLISHES SPLENDID WORK THRUOUT THE STATE IN STIMULATING INTEREST—HE IS RECEIVING MOST ENCOURAGING WO[illegible] COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS AND OTHER EDUCATORS—[illegible] COUNTY TAKING WORK UP—SUPT. THORSON OF POLK CO., TAKES MOST ACTIVE INTEREST

Historical Society

From Monday's Daily—

Prof. L. P. Harrington of the faculty of the Crookston Schhool of Agriculture spent Sunday in the city after a tour of Roseau Co., holding meetings to stimulate interest in Industrial Contest work among the school children, leaving last evening for Ortonville where he will continue the work. Prof. Harrington is very diffident about talking of what he has accomplished but is intensely enthusiastic regarding the general awakening thruout the territory he has visited and the enthusiastic encouragement given everywhere.

Supt. Thorson is taking hold of the work with a vim in Polk County which augurs well for its success here, and he should be given the assistance of all in his efforts to have Polk county make a creditable showing.

In an interview with the Journal Mr. Harrington yesterday said:

"I am urging the importance of agricultural education of hand training for boys and girls, and of schools that will fit our young people for the common everyday duties of life. It has been said that we allow our boys and girls to leave our schools unfitted for their duties and with a disposition to look down on the common vocations of life. This should not be and the sooner we correct these conditions the better it will be for our young people who are in school today and tomorrow are the men and women of our country.

"Superintendent and teachers in all parts of the state are making up to the importance of agricultural and industrial edication and are taking steps to introduce such training.

"Industrial contests introduced several years ago in a few counties of Minnesota under direction of county superintendents, have proved that boys ad girls "like to do things" and that with the doing of some of the simpler things on the farm or in the home has come an interest in the whole subject. A boy who can raise better corn on the home farm than has been previously raised by his father sees other lessons in connection with farm work that he had not thought of before.

"The young person on the farm who is interested in showing a better sample of wheat oats, corn, vegetables and fruits will begin to study the processes by which better articles can be produced. Selection of seed, rules for picking the best and a general knowledge of soil and plants will result. The girl who makes a plain work apron for a contest is quite likely to become interested in sewing as she would not have been had she not been given an opportunity to try. The girl who bakes a loaf of bread or cake for a contest will be likely to do the same work afterwards in assisting in household duties. County industrial contests will stimulate work of this kind and state contests will give opportunity to boys and girls from all parts of the state to show what they can do, to prove their excellence of judgment in selecting and their care in preparing.

"All this will teach them to be industrious to work as well as play, to have an interest in what grows on the farm or in the garden, to be readers, to be observing, and to do well whatever is undertaken. Many counties in the state are doing this work and I herewith give extracts from circulars issued by some who are just introducing it.

Some county superintendents' reason for starting Industrial contests:

Supt. Ingalls of Lac Qui Parle county gives the following as the purpose of a contest. The purpose of this contest is to improve the seed and crop conditions in our county, to interest our boys and girls in the farm and home and in the things that grow on the farm and to teach them some of the fundamental truths which will help them to devblep into good men and good women."

Supt. Geo. Miller of Lincoln County says: "That our boys and girls should be educated to the farm instead of away from it is past the stage of debate. It is an accepted fact that is generally admitted that the young man can choose no vocation more pleasant and profitable than farming and our rural schools should do more to fit its pupils for this life."

Supt. C. G. Selvig of the Glencoe High School says:

"The industrial changes of the past 50 years have been rapid and radical. On a New England farm time was when a boy learned nearly 50 trades. The girl in the home was taught to spin, to weave, to sew, to cook, because nearly all things of necessity had to be home and hand made. Now thru the system of the division of labor and the multiplication of machinery and devices neither the boys nor the girls learn a tenth of these things The factory has succeeded the home in production. There has been growing up a generation of girls and boys unskilled in handcraft. At school they have crammed history dates and geographical names. They have learned to count backwards and to solve any number of arithmetical puzzles—but there has been no opportunity given to acquire skill of hand and of the eye. The girls have been given no training in household duties and arts. Manual training was the first practical work to come in. The boys may now learn how to use tools, to handle rough material, to saw and to plane, to use the rule and the square, the chisel and the bevel to make things of use and ornament—to satisfy that natural proper desire in every boy's heart to make something."

"In some counties the young people contest work is a leading feature of the county fair. The McLeod County Fair Association had a substantial building erected for the school and industrial exhibit of the county and used for no other purpose. The young people fill this building each year and their contest is considered one of the attractions of the county fair.

"Supt. F. A. Wildman encourages and directs this work in which he is thoroly interested. Olmstead County under the supervision of Geo. F. Howard has a regular County School Fair managed and controlled by the boys and girls under the advice and direction of their able county superintendent. Many other counties have very creditable exhibitions at their county fairs.

"Among them we might mention, Carver, Supt. F. L. Williams; Douglas Supt. T. A. Erickson; Pipestone, Supt Jessie Walkup; Pine, Supt R. H. Blankenship; Redwood, Supt. H. J. Bebermeyer; Braverse, Co. Supt. W. F. Williams; Aitkin, Supt. E. H. Hall Sibley Co. Supt. W. M. Cawn; Washington Co. Supt. J. F. Lawson; Lyon Co. Supt. H. R. Painter; Meeker Co. Supt. ate M. Jones; Pope Co., Supt. G. C. Torgerson and many others.

"These county superintendents generally admit that these schools have been improved by the contests they have had, teachers have been interested and a general uplift has been given to the practical side of the school work without any loss on the side of the intellectual. The best boys and girls in the general work of the school have been those who were active in the industrial contests. Teachers in these schools have found time for simple practical lessons in agriculture, illustrating some of the fundamental principles of the subject.

"Other counties are preparing for work this year. Among the number Lincoln Co., Supt. Geo. C. Miller; Todd Co., Supt. Bertha F. Roddis; Roseau Co., Supt. Anna C. Olson; Carlton Co., Supt. R. J. Coloont; Big Stone, Supt. Anna Sorenson; Mahnoing it up this year.

"Is there any reason for delaying men, Supt. Miss C. Madison; Polk Co. Supt. N. A. Thorson and many others.

"This is only a partial list of counties doing the work at present or taking this work. Contests must of necessity be started on a small scale but the work should not be delayed. We believe in the boys and girls, the men and women of tomorrow, then why not let them show that they are the making of efficient men and women. Let them help to show that Minnesota is a great industrial and agricultural state and that our schools train toward the farm and the farm home and not away from it."

In Roseau County

"In my recent trip to Roseau county I found much interest in agricultural and the industrial contest. Teachers and school children were interested and all were loyal to their county. The business energy push and progress and spirit manifest in the towns of Roseau County, might well be emulated by many of the older richer but more conservative towns of southern Minnesota. I spoke at Greenbush, Badger, Warroad and Roseau to good audiences in each place, talked to many business men and farmers. They all believe in a great agricultural future for Roseau county and are ready to support any project that will have a tendency to improve rural conditions.

"The county superintendent in taking up this industrial contest work for young people will do more than any one can at present estimate, for the future of the schools of the county. The work Mrs. Olson is starting should have the support of every farmer and business man in Roseau county.

"At Badger I met an old friend, Supt. T. B. Diamond who has had charge of the schools at that place for many years. His work is appreciated and the class of students which leave his school would do credit to many larger schools. I found good schools in all the towns visited and a general spirit of progress.

"At Roseau they have a county fair association, have purchased grounds and hold an annual fair. In this the county is far in advance of many of the older counties. The young people's industrial contest will be held at the time of the county fair and should be one of the most interesting features. Mrs. Olson deserves the heartiest support of teachers, school officers, business men and farmers. She will have no trouble in enlisting the children and we predict a successful contest in the county and a good showing for Roseau Co., in the state contest."

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A BEATING

VENTURESOME YOUNG MAN GETS TANGLED UP WITH BARRELS IN RACE FOR FREEDOM

A well known young man in this city had a thrilling experience Sunday evening, and he is trying to hide his light under a bushel.

Along about midnight he tore down the street yelling for the police claiming that he had been stopped by two men who wanted to hold him up. Instead the young man said he turned and fled down the alley west of Main Street, and in his flight he fell over a few barrels, wheelbarrows and a few other things. His watch fell out and he was in all manner of a pickle.

Capt. Vonderbeck went back with him and the watch was found about ten rods from where he thought he lost it. It was engraved with the initials O. E. R. and was easily identified. The police think the young man was browsing in somebody else's pasture and was caught at it taking flight when the rule of the roost showed up suddenly.

SAYS HE HAS PAINS IN HEAD

FORMER LARIMORE PRINTER MAKES COMPLAINT CONCERNING HIS CONDITION

HE MAY BE FAKING TO HELP A $5,000 DAMAGE SUIT

From Tuesday's Daily—

Edward Kruger former Larimore printer, who was sentenced in East Grand Forks to serve 60 days in the Polk county jail for seeking to sell a stolen typewriter to Skulason & Conmy, has been complaining about pains in his head. Physicians have been called to see him. It is not announced what they have found. One doctor told Kruger that the pain was in his leg and since then Kruger is said to have complained of a pain in his leg.

Kruger had a $5,000 damage suit against A. L. Richter of Larimore for hitting him on the head, but the case was dismissed at the last term of court owing to some tecnicality. It is hinted that another suit will be instituted shortly and it will be claimed that the theft of the typewriter and the subsequent irrational acts of Kruger are evidence that his brain was affected, as a result, when he was struck on the head.

Kruger's theft of the typewriter was hardly a bright act as he must have known he would get caught.

According to those posted on the situation there will be some interesting developments in the case shortly.

LETS THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG

STURDINESS AND LONGEVITY OF BRUCE CO. ONT., MEN EXPLAINED

It has been proverbial for years past that the men from Bruce Co., were a remarkably large, well developed and healthy lot, and the reason has just been discovered. Mayor McPhee and others of like stature boast of Bruce county prowess some even claiming that a man under six feet high and weighing less than 225 pounds was not allowed to vote in that county. They are also noted as a painfully moral lot, many of them never having been so rash and profligate as to chew gum even.

We happened in Mayor McPhee's office this morning and picked up a copy of the Paisley Bruce Co., Advocate and read the following which explains it all:

"Every family should have a curfew and it should 'ring tonight' and all other nights if needed. These curfew are inexpensive and can be made at home. Take a piece of siding two feet long and whittle one end to a handle. Take the child who needs the curfew and bend it over a barrel. Now take the siding and use it as a clapper. Put it on hot, dividing the strokes evenly and see that none miss Good for girl or boy up to eighteen and three applications are warranted to cure the most pronounced case of street loafing that exists. The music is said to be more effective than singing "Where is my wandering boy tonight."

From reliable sources it is learned that this sort of curfew was "rung" on the former generation regularly, hence the good habit.

THIEF RIVER FALLS STUDENT BANQUET

The junior-senior banquet of the Thief River Falls high school was held Friday evening at the Hotel Evelyn. Covers were laid for forty-nine, this number including the high school faculty as well as the members of the two upper classes. The Thief River high school has advanced in numbers so rapidly during the last three years that it now ranks fourth in point of enrollment among the schools of Northern Minnesota. Besides the usual courses found in a high school it maintains complete commercial and normal training departments. The domestic science and agricultural work will also be extended this year so as to install these lines of effort in entirety in the school. The total enrollment of pupils in all the schools of city is 1,150.

FOUNDRY SCORCHED

BLAZE AT CROOKSTON IRON WORKS SATURDAY NIGHT CAUSED DAMAGE

HARRY SCHMIDT HAD HANDS CUT FROM FALL THRU A SKYLIGHT

From Monday's Daily—

Saturday evening fire broke out in the foundry of the Crookston Iron Works causing several hundred dollars damage before the department subdued the flames.

Mr. Morrisey had been casting late in the afternoon, but drenched the foundry later and thought everything safe. Later in the evening he went to the foundry again with W. E. Handy to see if everything was safe and there was no evidence of a fire, but an hour later, four hours after the casting had been concluded fire started from a slug which had become lodged between two boards.

Hose was laid across the G. N. tracks and the flyer and Duluth train were delaped for several minutes before other lines were laid. Harry Schmidt who had the nozzle of the first line of hose was badly hurt, water having been turned on before he was notified. He was knocked over and slid down the slippery roof onto a skylight, falling thru to the floor below. One finger on the left hand was terribly cut and other scratches and bruises were received.

TARGET PRACTICE WELL ATTENDED

Co. I spent the greater portion of last Sunday at target practice on the rifle range east of the city. While no exceptionally high scores were made the general average was very fair, a number of those shooting having had little or no previous practice.

The target practice is being given a great deal of attention by Capt. Westenberg and the boys with the intention of making a better showing than ever at the Lake City encampment the coming year.

Following are the scores on the 300 yard range out of a possible 50 targets:

WHITE SEALS HUMBLE HAUGHTY PICKETTS

The White Seal ball team went to East Grand Forks yesterday where they took the much vaunted Grand Forks Picketts into camp to the tune of 7 to 3. The Picketts were not in it at any stage of the game until it came to dividing the gate receipts up when they demonstrated their ability as financiers. The White Seals were to get 40 per cent of the gross receipts, win or lose but before making the division the Picketts deducted the pay for water boys, for fixing the grounds, for the umpire, and for a square meal for each of the Pickett players. The only reason they did not have expenses to eat up all the receipts was that they did not start to think in time.

Marcus Stephens pitched for the White Seals and Pat Martin caught and both were there with the goods.

Money may make the mare go, but it falls down when it attempts to start a stubborn mule down the pike.

How it tickles a man's vanity when he is asked to settle a disputed point!

LOOKING OVER STATE FARM

MR. SMITH OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AT WASHINGTON IN CITY

CONFERRED WITH ENGINEER JAMES T. STEWART IN CHARGE OF TILE DRAINAGE

From Tuesday's Daily—

Supt. Wm. Robertson of the Crookston State Experimental Farm is today entertaining Mr. Smith of the department of Agriculture at Washington and has been showing him over the farm and the school buildings together with J. T. Smith who had charge of the installation of the tile drainage on the state farm.

Mr. Smith is very much pleased with the work being done at the state farm and commended Supt. Robertson very highly in an interview this afternoon.

Mr. Smith believes such institutions as the state farm and Crookston School of Agriculture mean great things for the agricultural sections of the country, and believes they should be encouraged in every way.

MAY PURCHASE PHILLIPS LAUNDRY

ROCK ISLAND CAPITALIST IS LOOKING OVER SITUATION HERE

Mr. M. J. Cowing a well known laundryman from Rock Island Ill., and formerly proprietor of the Tri-City Laundry of that place one of the biggest laundries in Illinois arrived in the city this morning. He is looking over the country for a location and is today conferring with Wylie Phillips regarding the purchase of the Phillips Laundry. He will leave in the morning for [illegible] on his [illegible] the latter part of the week a deal will probably be made with Mr. Phillips. He has land near Grand Forks and Brandon, Man. He is very much pleased with Crookston and the business outlook here.

ANGUS MCKINNON DOING WELL

Many friends here will be pleased to learn that Angus McKinnon a young man who grew to manhood here is assistant engineer on the N. P. construction work in North Dakota and has active supervision of the 100 mile extension from Cannon Ball west to Mott with offices at Mandan. He is doing well.

VALLEY VIEW SOLD TO P. STOUGHTON

BELIEVED THAT THIS MEANS JUDGE SULLIVAN HAS CONTROL OF IT

This afternoon the Valley View plant at East Grand Forks was sold to ePter Stoughton of Manvel, N. D. an uncle of W. R. Stoughton who was in partnership with Stember in running the newspaper but who is now in the isane hospital at Fergus Falls.

While nothing definite has been given out it is believed that this means that Judge Sullivan will have control of the paper. The plant was sold for $2200.

TEACHERS AT THIEF RIVER FALLS

A meeting of the rural teachers of Red Lake County was held in Thief River Falls Saturday and was attended by instructor's from all sections of the county. Miss Irene Caldwell of Thief River Falls was elected president of the association of Red Lake county, and Miss Berg was chosen secretary.

The junior-senior banquet of the Thief River Falls high school was held at the Hotel Evelyn. There were forty-nine guests.

SLASHED HER THROAT FROM EAR TO EAR

Mrs. Liza Gangstad, A Pioneer Resident Near Fosston Ended Her Life In Horrible Manner Yesterday.

Sent Husband To Fosston For Minister And Committed Terrible Tragedy In His Absence.

Yesterday afternoon at her home on a farm 5 miles east of Fosston, Mrs. Lisa Gaugstad ended her life by cutting her throat from ear to ear with a pocket knife. Shortly after committing the deed her body was found about 20 rods from the house in a clump of bushes.

She had shown symptoms of not being right mentally of late but her case was not considered serious. Yesterday morning she asked her husband to go to Fosston and get the minister of the church they attended as she wanted to talk with him. Her husband having other business there humored her and made arrangements for the minister to come to his home later.

On his return home Mr. Gangstad inquired of Josie Mikkelson a fourteen year old girl who makes her home there, where his wife was and the girl said she left a few minutes ago and supposed she had gone to the home of a married daughter who lived but a short distance away. Mr. Gangstad started a search and discovered the body which was still warm, tho life was extinct.

About 8 weeks ago Mrs. Gangstad broke 2 ribs as the result of a fall and had been in bed most of the time since and seemed somewhat downcast.

Deceased leaves a husband and six grown children. She was 64 years of age and was one of the pioneer residents in that section of Polk county.

Coroner Stenshoel went to Fosston last evening and the remains were brought to that place. After careful inquiry it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary as it was a plain case of suicide during a temporary fit of insanity.

NEW PAPER FOR FERTILE

WILL BUY FERTILE JOURNAL OR START A NEW PUBLICATION

FERTILE PUBLISHING CO. IS INCORPORATED WITH $5,000 CAPITAL

From Thursday's Daily—

The Fertile Publishing company has been organized and steps have been taken to incorporte with a capital of $5000. The stock has been fully subscribed.

The following officers wer elected: Martin G. Peterson, president; G. J. DeMars secretary; J. F. Hanson, treasurer. Seven directors were also chosen. The articles of incorporation will be published at once.

It is the intention of the new company in which Representative John Holten and other business men are interested, to purchase the Fertile Journal as it has a large circulation and is one of the newsiest and best edited weekly papers in northern Minnesota. It is not known whether Editor L. E. George will sell out or not.

TO BUILD A 10 STALL ADDITION

ROUND HOUSE CAPACITY IN GRAND FORKS TO BE INCREASED

The Great Northern has awarded a contract to E. C. Richmond to construct a 10-stall addition to the round house at Grand Forks. The improvement will be made at once. It is necessary on account of the increased business of the road. The new stalls will be large enough to accommodate the largest engines on the road.

The Great Northern built a new round house a couple of years ago and it was supposed then that it was large enough to accommodate all the engines of the Dakota division. Of late it has been impossible to house all the engines and so more room is to be provided.

Is Insignificant

The action of the Great Northern indicates that the company will continue to increase the importance of Grand Forks as a division center. Engines are now being run thru from St. Paul to Grand Forks on the Oriental Limited train. It is not unlikely that the commpany will find an increase to its round house force necessary with the new addition to the round house.

It takes a woman to admire herself for the beauty she would have if her figure, feature eyes, and complexion were just a little different.

TO HELP RURAL MAIL CARRIERS

STEENERSON HAS A BILL FOR CARRIERS WHO GO OVER 24 MILES

UNDER PRESENT RULE MAXIMUM SALARY IS $900, REGARDLESS OF DISTANCE

From Saturday's Daily—

Representative Steenerson yesterday introduced a bill in lower house which calls for an increase in the pay it rurol mail carriers on long routes, such as are the rule in Minnesota. The bill provides that for every additional mile over 24 miles the carrier shall receive a compensation of $18.75 annually.

The standard route now is 24 miles long. Carriers on such routes draw $900 per year. As the routes are shortened they draw less salary at the rate of $37.50 for each mile cut off. But under the present law they do not draw any more salary for making a 30 or 50 mile route than they do for a 24 mile route.

The postoffice department is not very favorable to the bill. It is set forth there that there will be a constant pressure from thousands of mail carriers all over the country to increase the length of their routes by taking in more farm houses and going long lanes to reach them. Mr. Steenerson's reply to this is that he has cut increased pay per mile to one-half the present rule which he does not believe will be such an inducement to increase the length of routes.

While 24 miles is the standard route there are thousands of them that are longer. In Mr. Steenenson's district the average route is 30 miles long. There is one rural route in the United States that is 56 miles long and there are hundreds over 35 miles long.

No, it is not her nightgown that milady is wearing to an early breakfast. Neither is it her sleeping apparel that she dons when she prepares for a restful afternoon in the quiet of her own bedroom. It is her new negligee, says an exchange. These spring garments are of the finest and sheerest white muslin, trimmed with rows of wide embroidery, made with Dutch neck and wide elbow sleeves and caught together in the front and at the waistline with pink or blue ribbon. They are so much prettier than the mussy, although possibly very expensive kimona, and at the same time so much cheaper and more serviceable than the elaborate "matinee" or tea gown. They really look very sweet and dainty in the morning and are cool and comfortable for the afternoon nap. They wash beautifully, which is more than can be said of the colored muslins; those always fade. And all together, the new white cotton negligee is a charming boudoir addition to milady's wardrobe.

PREPARING FOR OLD SETTLERS

PEOPLE OF ADA ARE MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR ANNUAL PICNIC IN JUNE

BIG SUM RAISED FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF VISITORS AFTER GOOD SPEAKERS

From Thursday's Daily—

A meeting of the various committees having in charge the arrangements for the old settlers annual meeting to be held in Ada next month was held at the city hall last Wednesday evening. The program committee reported that they were in correspondence with some of the leading orators in the country and on one of the days some man of national reputation will address gathering. Such men as LaFollette, Gov. Folk, Cummins and others are under consideration. The committee has written to Gov. Johnson with a view of securing him as one of the orators. Gov. Burke of North Dakota is another man under consideration.

At the meeting held last Wednesday night the finance committee was instructed to get busy and this they did on the following day. Up to date over $400 has been subscribed by the citizens and the committee hopes to secure $500 by individual contributions. At a meeting of the council held last night it was voted to spend not to exceed $250 in preparing Pfund park for the occasion and another donation was made to the band for music on the two days. There is now about $900 in sight for the expenses of the meeting and the old settlers can prepare to go some when they meet at Ada.

BOAT TRIP TO PEG IMPORTANT

GOVERNOR BURKE AND OTHERS TO ASCERTAIN POSSIBILITIES OF RED RIVER

PARTY OF SEVENTY-FIVE REPRESENTATIVE BUSINESS MEN TO GO TO WINNIPEG

From Thursday's Daily—

For the first time in 28 years a large steamer will make a trip on the Red River from Grand Forks to Winnipeg. Loaded with nearly 100 representative business men of Grand Forks, the Grand Forks will start on her journey from there June 6. Gov. John Burke of North Dakota will be one of the distinguished passengers on the trip and Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota has been invited and it is believed he may accept.

Assurances have been received from Winnipeg that the visitors will be royally entertained there. The trip will bring about a better understanding of the possibilities of Red river navigation and may result in some changes in navigation on the Red river which will result in mutual benefit for Winnipeg and Grand Forks.

Manitoba has been making extensive improvements on the Red river and it was announced a few weeks ago that navigation would likely be carried on by a Canadian steamboat line between Winnipeg and Grand Forks.

The trip from Grand Forks to Winnipeg will take about two days, it is figured.

MUNCH NAMED AS RANGER

RECEIVED HIS APPOINTMENT FROM C. C. ANDREWS, FORESTRY COMMISSIONER

WILL HAVE CHARGE OF RED LAKE AND POLK COUNTIES— WOE TO FIRE SETTERS

From Saturday's Daily—

Wm. Munch deputy state game warden for this district today received his appointment as Ranger for this district from C. C. Andrews, the Forestry commissioner for Minnesota.

Mr. Munch has already assumed his duties and it is safe to say hereafter that people who carelessly set prairie fires which prove destructive will be vigorously prosecuted.

The law is very stringent on this question, and a person can be arrested and fined heavily for leaving a fire which might do damage whether it actually does or not.

The smallest fine that can be imposed upon conviction is $50 and one half of this goes to the person furnishing the evidence. Many are of the opinion that the law for protection against fires only applies to the forests, but this is a mistake. Any prairie fire comes within the scope of the law where it gets off the land owned by the setter, or which might possibly jump to surrounding property.

The law covering the proposition will be published Monday, or a short resume of it giving the principal features. Any person having information regarding carelessness in setting fires should communicate at once with Ranger Munch. This work will fit in very nicely with his duties as Deputy State Game Warden.

ALMOST A RIOT AT EMERSON

Emerson, Man., May 22—(Journal Wireless Special)—As we go to press news was flased over the wires to the effect that Friday flags were flying and all the city draped in its national colors over the laurels won by Mr. E. Stephens as the local champion this city, his friends all in dress parade each with a bottle of Canada's most favorite brand "Joseph Seagram" waited on him in his apartments at the Russell House. A din of confusion prevailed, street car traffic was impeded for nearly two ours police force not being able to cope with the situation. The militia had to be called out to quell what might have been a riot the public were only pacified by Mr. Stephens and Mr. Peterson's public appearance on the veranda of Emerson's prominent hostelry (The Russell House) and publicly announcing that their backers were negotiating for a contest to take place in the near future. Both men promise to be in the pink of condition for this contest and wish all who can to attend and try to make it a success.

ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION ISSUED

Monday May 31 has been designated as the annual Memorial Day upon which occasion the people of a grateful nation will unite in paying tribute to the valor and patriotism of those who responded to the call of their country when their services were needed to preserve the nation.

In Crookston the usual services will be held to honor the memory of those who sacrificed their lives in the terrible conflict, and with whose blood the freedom of the nation was bought, and at the same time to again publicly acknowledge to the veterans who survive, the debt of gratitude owed to the brave men to whose courage and devotion the integrity of this great nation is due.

This is an occasion upon which the opportunity is embraced to honor all the departed. Many of those laid to rest never fought in the military ranks, but they have shown a patriotism and love of country for which their memory is honored on this sacred day. We are glad of an occasion upon which we can pay special tribute to the noble and self-sacrificing women who gave their strength and energy freely in nursing the sick and dying soldiers, or who remained at home working heroically to support parents and children whose husbands and sons were at the front.

I would at this time urge upon every resident of Crookston the great importance of a fitting observance of this day as tending to instill upon the minds of the children of today who will be the men and women of tomorrow, the great lesson of the reward of patriotism and loyalty to country and flag which is taught upon such an occasion.

Let all unnecessary labor be suspended and the day spent in a proper observance of the occasion. Let us dispense with all pastimes that could be interpreted to savor of irreverance or a lack of appreciation of the significance of the day.

I would specially urge that business houses be closed during the services in the afternoon in order that clerks and all other employes may be at liberty to participate in the exercises.

Year after year on Memorial Day the line of veterans who march to the cemetery grows shorter. In a few short years none will be left to witness the ceremonies which will then but commemorate the devotion to their country of the departed. While there yet remains a few among us let us with increasing reverence for both living and dead patriots, strew the graves with flowers with a deeper conception of the sacrifices made that we might today enjoy the blessings of living in the greatest and the freest nation in the world.

—J. D. McPHEE,
Mayor.

Memorial Day

May 31, Monday will be observed this year as Memorial day. While this day is set aside primarily as an occasion upon which to honor the memory of those brave men who gave their lives for their country, and to the noble women who encouraged them, nursed them back to life alleviated their sufferings in every way, and maintained the homes in many cases while the men were fighting at the front, it is developing into an occasion upon which honor is paid to every patriot and to the departed in general. The day is one which should be observed thruout the land by every man, woman and child and all should participate in the exercises. As usual there will be a program carried out in Crookston, the details of which will be announced later on.

It has become customary for the schools to hold special exercises the Friday before Memorial day, but this year in Crookston the special exercises will be held tomorrow in order not to interfere with the examinations which will be in progress next week.

All the schools this year will unite in holding exercises in the new Woods school, and they will be in progress all day with Supt. McIntyre in charge The members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. will be presnt, and prominent citizens will be invited to address the students.

Attention is called to the able Memorial day proclamation published in this issue of the Journal and Times and the suggestions there made should be carefully read and followed.

Prosperity In Full Swing

The coming of periods of national prosperity is as insinuating as the coming of times of depression is insidious. But, while the latter is marked at its climax by a panic the former is full blown in its development while we are still waiting for it, and watching for a sudden maturity corresponding to the crisis of hard times.

Just now, while the people of this country are wondering when business will resume its great swing and the public mind is irritating itself over delays of tariff revision, there is every where conclusive evidence that business has not waited on congress and that the full swing has already begun.

In every line of industry and production there is a steady, substantial and rapid expansion. Immigration has resumed almost maximum proportions and there is no better index of industrial conditions.

The iron and steel workers have had notice of a restoration of wages to the prosperity scale. Last week Mr. Gary in his address at Gary said that the furnaces of the United States Steel were working at seventy per cent of capacity, or double the output of a year ago. Incidentally this recalls the general understanding that when the output reached this volume work was to begin on the Duluth plant.

Among the railroads there is the same trend of news. There is a general and large increase of traffic. Large orders for rails have been placed, and the new construction announced for the year has seldom been exceeded. The passenger business shows, too, that there is no lack of ready cash among the people.

The banks are full of money, there is no lack of funds for any legitimate investments and speculative ventures find strong support where the rainbow element is not too pronounced.

Finally, but most important, the crop outlook is most encouraging. The weather and soil condition foretell a fine harvest, and this means billions of dollars in new wealth. There is no use waiting for a prosperity that is so evidently here; the course of wisdom is to get in the swim now and gain the full advantage of the current.—Duluth News Tribune.

NEWS EVENTS OF THE WEEK

FROM THURSDAYS DAILY

LOOKING UP LOCATION—Messrs T. A. Biever and Henry Tiedt left last evening for Mankato to look up a location for business. They will also visit at Wabasha and other points before returning.

NELSON TO SPEAK—United States Senator Knute Nelson will deliver the opening address at the state fair, on Sept. 6. A formal invitation to the scenator was voted by the board of managers at their meeting today and it is understood that he will accept.

PAINFULLY INJURED— Mrs. G. I. Fitzgerald while playing her first game of tennis on the courts just completed by Mr. Fitzgerald day before yesterday, slipped and tore the ligaments on one of her limbs and walking will be painful for some time, tho the injury will not be permanent.

LITERING THE STREETS—Street Commissioner Duval called attention to the fact this morning that many people were in the habit of raking off their yards and around other property and throwing the litter into the street. This is a very bad practice and is strictly against the ordinance of the city. Litter cannot be thrown in the street any more than slops can. and look fully as bad. Paper and dead grass thrown in the street look wretched and in addition will scare a horse that is at all skittish.

HAS FINE POSITION—John Neukom has left Ada for Duluth via the Twin Cities. Mr. Newkom has accepted a position with Joseph Cotton the well known attorney of the Zenith city, who has had charge of the steel corporation interests in this state for a number of years. Mr. Cotton has recently withdrawn from this corporation and has affiliated with some of the large mining corporations as general solicitor. Mr. Neukom's position as his private secretary will take him to many of the mining sections of the country. Will Neukom succeeds his brother as private secretary to Mr. Bunn, general counsel for the N. P. Ry. Co., at St. Paul. Both are well known in Crookston, John having lived here several years.

DOMINICAN DAN GETS LICENSE—Several matters of interest came up before the meeting of the city council of East Grand Forks, held last evening, the principal of these being the granting of a license to Dan Sullivan. There have been several law suits tried indirectly bearing upon the action of the council last night and whether or not Mr. Sullivan would be given a license has grown almost as famous locally as has Hamlet's query "To be or not to be." However, the license was granted last evening the council voting, as follows: Yeas, Aldermen Borchers, Craig, Sullivan, Kelleher; Nays, Aldermen Bydal and Sherlock.

Lloyd Ericsson will leave this evening for a trip to Pacific coast cities and Alaska. He will be accompanied by Mr. Brady of Boston, a former partner of M. Ericsson in St. Paul and has extensive mining interests in Alaska.

Lloyd Ericsson will combine business and pleasure and anticipates a very pleasant trip.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

ON LAND BUSINESS—Jos Ball is attending to some land business in St. Paul and points farther south, having left here with a couple of land seekers who spent several days looking over several farms near this city.

A PROSECUTION ON—Dairy Inspector O. A. Storvick left yesterday for Tenstrike where he had a prosecution to attend to. He is insisting that the laws for the protection of the health of the people be observed and after due warning the violator is prosecuted. This is what laws are for.

SHOWING VALLEY LAND — Ole Tiegen is out in the country today with a land seeker. Mr. Tiegen is doing a fine business this spring and has been giving the valley some very fine advertising.

STUCK IN THE MUD — Ernest Rolsch went to his farm yesterday in that new auto accompanied by Mayor McPhee. The rain proved fine for the crops but made poor wheeling an they were stalled but finally got to town.

A. O. PAULSRUD HERE— A. O. Palusrud son of Ex-Sheriff Poulsrud of Polk Co., who died many years ago visited Crookston yesterday. He represents the Buffalo Pitts Thresher Co. with headquarters at Fargo. He had just received a letter from his brother Ed who is now in Boston, running a linotype machine for a daily newspaper owned by the city of Boston. He went there from Chicago where he was employed on the Chicago American for three years. He was a former employe of the Journal.

TOMMIE KRIBS GOES HOME — Tommie Kribs the English prize fighter who arrived in Thief River Falls last summer and since October has been confined in the hospital with a severe attack of rheumatism was taken to Quebec Tuesday morning by Policeman Farr and there will be put aboard a steamship and furnished with transportation to "dear al Lunnon." The expense of the trip and charges for medical attendance here will be paid for by the British government. It is Mr. Farr's intention to remain for a short time in the east and will visit at his old home in Ontario before returning to Thief River Falls.—Thief River Falls News.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY

Chas. Skoug is spending the day in Grand Forks.

OLD TIMER HERE — Chas. Wettensten one of the old timers of Warren and for years manager of the Irish farm spent the night in the city on business.

SIZING UP CROPS—Receiver John Peterson of the local U. S. land office left this morning for McIntosh where he will attend to some business matters and size up the crops in that section.

ON PROBATE BUSINESS —Atty. J. A. Hendricks is here from Fosston today. He is attending a final hearing on the Henry Peterson estate before Judge of Probate Morken and is also interested in a hearing in the Ringstad estate.

BOUGHT STEPHENS' DRIVERS—Dr. Hendrickson of Fertile while in Crookston one day this week purchased a fine team of drivers from Senator A. D. Stephens. He took the sorrels home yesterday and can boast of one of the toppiest teams in the Valley.

WILL GO TO HAVRE—Dan Leahy special officer of the Great Northern at Grand Forks has been instructed to go to Havre, Mont., to look after the company's interests there. He will leave next Monday. James P. Johnson arrived last evening from St. Paul to look after the work at the Forks Dan's friends wish him lots of success in his new location.

DEATH AT RUSSIA — Thursday at the home of her parents in the Town of Russia Miss Elizabeth Linberg passed away of tuberculosis after a lingering illness. Deceased was 23 years of age and was held in high esteeme by a large circle of friends who deeply regret her untimely death The funeral services will be held on Sunday.

HOME FROM EXTENDED TRIP—Architect B. D. Keck returend from on extended trip this morning to Edmonton, Calgary, and other points in Canada, coming home via Minneapolis He says things are lively in Canada in the building line and he will furnish plans for several very large business blocks to be erected this summer. The crops are not so far advanced as here but are coming on ra-

ON FISHING TRIP—Messrs. Frank Bracelin and J. P. Dotson left this morning for Cass Lake where they will endeavor to depopulate that pond of everything belonging to the finny tribes, and will make a specialty of muskalonges. A wireless late this afternoon from the middle of Cass Lake was to the effect that Mr. Bracelin had made a big catch—fell into the drink and caught a large sized cold. He was rescued a few hours later straddle of a saw log, by a gasoline launch.

BACK FROM MINNEAPOLIS—A. W. Rundquist representative of the Minneapolis Tribune in this section. returned this morning from Minneapolis where he atended a meeting of all traveling representatives of that paper which was in progress the first five days of this week. He says he saw Maurice Malone, formerly of this city who is now filling a position on the news staff of the Tribune.

BOYS SHOULD BE CAREFUL — A number of the smaller boys about town who have air guns and small rifles may get themselves in serious trouble if they persist in killing song birds. The malicious killing of song birds is unworthy of any boy who has a speck of manhood in him and besides it is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine. It is to be hoped that the wanton destruction of the little feathery songsters will be stopped before the authorities are compelled to stop in and make examples of a few of the offenders.

AMATEUR NIGHT A SUCCESS—Amateur night at the Empire theatre last evening was a great success. Several very good stunts were put on. The first prize was awarded to Miss Katherine Goels who of the Hotel Crookston proved a reader of exceptional grace and merit. Geo. Gonyea also put on a double with one of the regular vaudeville artists at the Empire and Prof. Lloyd "Edison" Ball did another electric dancing stunts which also made a hit. The affair was such a success that Manager Deeming will make it a regular Friday evening feature in the future.

HAD A PICKLE ON—"Sousy" and a few more of the "old trappers" had a lovely "Pickle" on this morning. They arose at 5 o'clock this morning and got a lovely start. Before noon they were all peacefully sleeping. As near as could be discovered nothing was lost by the party but a cane, a necktie, a pair of glasses, about $10 in cash each and a night's scleep. One member commonly known as "Sousy" by those who love him, was even ahead of the game. He was ahead to the extent of a red nose accumulated during the night.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION—Rev. James Hogan of East Grand Forks announces that a forty hour's devotion will be held at the Sacred Heart church in that city next week the opening service to take place Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Tuesday morning there will be low masses during the early hours, and high masses during sermons and benediction will be held in the evening at 8 o'clock. Wednesday the services will be the same as on Tuesday and on Thursday closing ceremonies will be held with high mass at 9 o'clock.

The following priests from out of town will assist in the services: Rev. Father Floyd, Eveleth, Minn.; Rev. Father O'Duyer, Bemidji, Minn.; Rev. Father Walsh, Proctor, Minn.; Rev. Father Hileen, Bovey, Minn.; Rev. Father O'Gorman, Blackduck, Minn.

Three New Hats.

Milliners have other troubles besides the frequent difficulty of collecting bills. One milliner tells of a letter she received from the wife of a man who in a brief time had advanced from poverty to great wealth. His family was still in obscurity, but was preparing to emerge.

"I want you should make a bonnet and two hats right off," wrote the wife, "for me and the girls, and expense is no account

"My measure is nearly twelve inches from ear to ear over the head and eight under chin and six from top of forard to back hair and that's near enuff for both the girls

"I'm sandy, Jane is dark, and Lucy's got red hair. We want lively colors, and I want blue flowers and strings on mine, besides some plooms.

"Jane wants hers green, and Lucy wants pink. We don't care what shapes, but they must be becoming and so as they won't blow to peaces in the wind. Nor we don't want them loud, for my husband won't hear to such.

"Please send within five days, and if satisfatory bill will be paid at once."—Youth's Companion.

Curly Hair Means Obstinacy.

The curly headed man uttered an exclamation of maze.

"Strange," he said, "I have been drawn for juries time and again, but I have never served. They always challenge me. I wonder why?"

"It is your curly hair," said a lawyer. "A curly headed man kills a jury He always causes it to disagree."

"That is not true. You must be crazy," said the other.

"It is the gospel truth," the lawyer persisted. "Curly heads are as obstinate as mules They think they know it all. They disagree with everybody.

"It is because," he hastened to add "their curly hair makes them so good looking. In childhood they are spoiled by their parents, and in maturity women spoil them, falling in love with them on every side. So they become conceited. They disagree with everybody. Lawyers the world over recognize that as jurymen they would never do."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Had an Answer.

This story is being told on a Swede in central Kansas who was given to excessive use of the bottle. He was working at a certain house, doing odd jobs, and the daughter of the house knew of his reprehensible habits. She thought it time for some one to remonstrate with him on the error of his ways.

"Why," she asked, "are you not ashamed to spend all your wages and make your wife take in washing? Why don't you give her some money?"

"Well," he answered, "I have an income besides my wages."

"Oh, is that so?" said the daughter somewhat mollified.

"Yes," he said, "I have an income from the queen of Sweden."

"What for?" asked the girl.

All Right.

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Crookston People

One kidney remedy never fails.
Crookston people rely upon it.
That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.
Crookston testimony proves it always reliable.

John Freeburg, tailor, 601 Hunter St., Crookston, Minn., says: "In summer of 1898, I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills and from the good results I gave a statement in which I strongly recommended this remedy to any one suffering from weakened kidneys. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and my rest was much disturbed. The many remedies I used proved of little value and at last I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wallace's drug store. My kidneys were strengthened and soon became normal."

Grecian Food For Dreamers.

Hasheesh, the strange drug which has given our language its word "assassin"—a man so frenzied by the drug that he accomplishes murder—is used by the Persians, Turks and Egyptians in a manner akin to the use of opium by the Chinese. It is the product of a plant grown in large quantities in the Peloponnesus (southern Greece), in the district about Tripolitza. The plant grows to a height of about four feet, and its branches are thickly covered with small leaves and studded with tiny seeds. The entire plant, stalk and branches, is cut within a few inches of the root and laid out in the sun to dry. The branches are then rubbed to separate the seeds, and these in turn are ground into a fine powder, which constitutes the drug. The drug has the power of inducing sleep and producing pleasant and fantastic dreams. Continued use of hasheesh renders its devotees reckless and results in a wreck of their mental and physical constitution.—Montreal Standard.

Immune From Arrest.

In Washington, in the capital of the nation, there reside 200 men who, with their households, have absolute immunity from the laws of the land, even though they commit crimes of the first degree. They may shoot down the man who injures them; they may, if they see fit, paint the equestrian statue of General Phil Sheridan a vivid pea green, yet the hands of Uncle Sam must be kept from their shoulders, and woe unto the unterrified policeman or other servant of the law who undertakes to bring them to justice once they have declared their official connections. These men who are so clothed in immunity are the members of the diplomatic corps, and their shield is international law. It is provided in the laws of nations that they must answer before the tribunals of their own countries for the offenses they commit here in Washington, but that they shall not be tried by any court of the United States.—Washington Star.

A Realistic Actor.

Malcolm was three years old. He stood stock still in the middle of the floor, one arm extended horizontally. His mother, looking up from her sewing, saw the door open.

"Shut the door, Malcolm, please," she said.

No response. She repeated her request. Still no response.

"Malcolm," she said more sternly, "I asked you to shut the door."

Still Malcolm stood in the middle of the floor with his arm outstretched and did not move.

"Malcolm," said his mother, "if you don't shut the door at once I shall have to punish you."

Malcolm burst into tears and flung himself on his mother's knees. "Muvver," he cried, "I was bein' a wooden sign, an' wooden signs can't shut doors!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Memory Studies.

A small boy went into a South Boston drug store, wrinkled his face, rubbed his head and rubbed his left foot up and down his right leg in an effort to remember something that had escaped him.

"Say," he began, "will you tell me the name of the place where we Americans have so many soldiers?"

"Fort Sheridan?"

"Oh, no. It's farther away than that."

"The Philippines?"

"That ain't just it, but it's somewhere around there."

"Perhaps you mean Manila?"

"Manila! That's right! I knew I would get it after awhile. I want a bottle of manila extract for flavorin'. They're goin' to have ice cream."—Boston Record.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstention may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquit, in Socialism.

One Million Women In White Plague War

One million women, representing towns, villages and isolated rural settlements in every section of the country, are today enlisted in a campaign against tuberculosis, according to a statement issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. In legislatures, in Congress at Washington in society gatherings, inchurches and clubs, thru speaking and writing—in every possible way, the women of the country are persistently fighting consumption.

With an organization established in every State of the country, under the direction of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and with associated clubs in Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone, the women of the country have entered a systematic crusade to carry the message of the prevention and cure of tuberculosis into every American home.

The organization of the women's anti-tuberculosis campaign was definitely begun in St. Paul in 1906, at the time of the biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, when that body sanctioned a resolution "to make the prevention and cure of tuberculosis a subject of study" and made Mrs. Rufus P. Williams of Cambridge, Massachusetts, chairman of the new department, called the "Health Department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs". For the purpose of extending the campaign into the many cities and towns of the country, the Central Committee makes every local and State Club under its jurisdiction, responsible for the work in its own community.

The Executive Board of the Mothers' Congress has also recently entered into the crusade, and has prepared circulars and literature on the prevention of consumption which are being circulated broadcast thruout the country. In every city where the Congress is represented, an Advisory Board of local physicians is being formed to help educate mothers about tuberculosis. Other national organizations of women have given favorable consideration to the campaign against tuberculosis.

One of the most notable campaigns which is being carried on by the women is that in the Southern States in connection with the traveling exhibit of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis In Tennessee, Florida and Alabama whole States have been stirred by the activity of the women's organizations. In North and South Carolina plans for similar campaigns are now in progress.

A large number of women occupying prominent positions in society or on the stage, are taking an active interest in the anti-tuberculosis campaign. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt has recently given a million dollars for sanitary homes for consumptives. Mrs. Keith Spalding of Chicago has erected a sanatorium for the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute at a cost of about fifty thousand dollars; Mrs. Collis P. Huntington and Mrs. Borden Harriman have given largely to the consumption fight. In Porto Rico Mrs. Albert Norton Wood, wife of a prominent army officer stationed at San Juan, has stirred the entire island thru the anti-tuberculosis crusade she inaugurated. Mme. Emma Calve is a most enthusiastic worker, and has given largely of her talent and money for the relief of tuberculosis sufferers, and Miss Olga Nethersole has even lectured before the public on tuberculosis.

And the fight is not only being carried on by women organized in clubs and by the wealthy women, but by the working women in the general labor movement against tuberculosis, and by the women who are battling hand in hand with the disease in connection with the religious and philanthropic organizations of the country. The special tuberculosis nurse, too, is a recent addition to the fighting force enlisted against consumption, and almost all of these are women. No city campaign today is complete without such a nurse and on this account hundreds of them are devoting their lives in unselfish service for the relief of human suffering.

With such organized and concentrated efforts there will surely be progress made in this great effort to curb the ravages of consumption.

A Serious Defect

There is one fatal defect to the proposition now being considered at Washington to have the new tariff bill framed finally by a conference committee to be composed of the entire Ways and Means committee of the House and the Finance committee of the Senate, instead of referring the disputed points to a conference committee of three or four members from each branch of congress. The objection is that the conference committee will have no power to reduce schedules in dispute below the lowest figure fixed in either the house or the Senate bill. It is possible that such action might result in restraining the lowest schedules fixed by either house —and that would be something of a concession from the Senate bill—but the measure so finally agreed upon would offer no material relief from the Dingley rates now in effect. The Dingley schedules were avowedly about 20 per cent higher than were needed for the protection of American industries and the country will not be satisfied with any measure that does not provide for a marked reduction from the existing rates. It will help however if the House, in such a conference, insists upon placing hides and iron ore on the free list and holds the Senate to other reductions proposed in both the Payne and the Aldrich bills.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Journal And Times Consolidated

Saturday, May 29, the Crookston Daily Journal will make its last visit to its large family of readers. Likewise the Polk County Journal will be issued for the last time on Thursday, May 27.

On Tuesday, June 1st, the Crookston Daily Journal will be consolidated with the Crookston Daily Times, and the Polk County Journal after this week will be consolidated with the Weekly Times

This announcement means considerable to Crookston. It means that this city will be the home of the biggest daily paper published in the state of Minnesota outside of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth. It means that the two biggest papers in Northern Minnesota will be united.

This step was not taken hastily. It was only after careful consideration that such a step was decided upon. The beneficiaries will be the readers of both the Journal and the Times and the advertisers.

Beginning the first day of June the advertisers in the Times consolidated with the Journal will reach every subscriber of the two papers. This means that the entire Northwestern portion of Minnesota will be thoroly covered for advertisers. Instead of being compelled to advertise in two papers to cover the field thoroly, they will need to use but the one medium, making not only less expense but less trouble.

On the other hand the subscribers will be the gainers as well. They will get the benefit of the news service of both papers but will pay for but the one paper. Every subscriber to the Crookston Daily Journal who is paid up beyond June 1st will receive the Daily Times and Journal for what ever period they are paid up to on the Journal.

With the consolidation the Crookston Daily Times and Journal management will put forth every effort to issue a publication which will be in keeping with the increased circulation and importance of the publication. While there will be no radical departures with the first issue after the consolidation, there will be additional news features added beginning at once and increasing steadily as conditions justify, with the steadfast purpose in view of publishing a paper that will cover the news thoroly.

With the consolidation every effort will be put forth to publish a newspaper in the best sense of the word. It will be the mouthpiece of no clique or faction, but a newspaper, and the news will be published without coloring. It will be a publication for the masses and for no favored classes. All will be treated alike. The only difference is that there will be one great family of readers instead of two smaller families, the united family getting in one paper what was formerly contained in both publications together with new features which neither contained before.

A policy of eminent fairness will be pursued and every effort will be put forth to advance the interests of Crookston and the Red River Valley. To accomplish the desired purpose the co-operation of the patrons of both papers is needed, and is most respectfully solicited. We believe that the support will be merited in the publication of a newsy newspaper wih a broadminded and liberal policy.

The consolidated Times and Journal will be published in the Crookston Daily Times Building the present Times plant being modern in every respect with the most mordern press to be found in Northwestern Minnesota.

Expensive For Legislators

The idea of asking Governor Johnson to call a special session of the legislature to take up reapportionment has met with some favor in the northern part of the state, but we fear that those who have approved it have leaped rather hastily to their conclusions. A little consideration will show that this is not the way to get reapportionment, and that the idea of getting it that way should not be considered for a moment.

In the first place, the present legislature has gone on record on this question very definitely. It was shown beyond question at the regular session which closed a month ago, that if Northern Minnesota is ever to get a fair deal in the matter of legislative represntation, it cannot get it from the present legislature. The senate defeated, overwhelmingly, two different reapportionment bills. Neither of these measures met the needs of Northern Minnesota, and from the manner in which they were drawn it was clear that the senate, as constituted at present, will never concede a just reapportionment. The bill which originated in the senate committee on reapportionment was deliberately framed with a view to having it defeated, and Senator Clague the chairman of that committee while openly professing friendship for reapportionment, secretly worked to concoct a bill which he knew could not pass. The other bill, which originated in the house, was a miserable substitute for real reapportionment and would have given no relief to Northern Minnesota.

The only way Northern Minnesota can get reapportionment is to get together, elect a delegation to both branches of the legislature pledged to stand for reapportionment before anything else, and to use its power as a unit in the accomplishment of that end.

The only possible excuse for a special session would be as a joke upon the members of the legislature, who collected all their pay in advance, and would have to serve at their own expense.—Duluth Herald.

Industrial Contests

In this issue of the Journal an interview is published, which was secured from Prof. L. P. Harrington of the faculty of the Crookston School of Agriculture, who has been working since the school closed several weeks ago under the supervision of the State Farmers' Institutes of Minnesota, and has been devoting his time and energy to the promotion of interest in the industrial contest work.

Prof. Harrington is one of the pioneers in this movement in the states of Minesota. While superintendent of schools in McLeod county he devoted a great deal of time to the work and aroused an interest which has been of vast benefit to the county in improved farm methods, the younger generation taking an interest never before exhibited, and demonstrating their ability to raise more from the same land than their fathers before them did.

Prof. Harrington has covered many of the counties of the state of late, making addresses to school children and teachers and has succeeded in arousing a great deal of interest, and some idea of what has been accomplished can be learned from the article above referred to.

In Polk county this work is just getting a good start. County Supt. of Schools N. A. Thorson is deeply interested and wants more attention paid to industrial work. In this he should receive the most hearty co-operation of every farmer and business man. The industrial contest work has received great encouragement here from Supt. Wm. Robertson of the State Experiment Farm, and Prof. Harrington, and last year some most creditable exhibits were sent in for the county and state contests.

This line of work means better farming methods, a greater production per acre and a corresponding increased prosperity which means greater land values and wealth. The subject is one of vital importance to all, and should receive united support.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE FIRE WARDENS

A Heavy Penalty Attached to Carelessness in Setting Fires—Circular No. 34.

State of Minnesota, Office of Forestry Commissioner, St. Paul, Minn., May 26, 1909.

1. The new Forest Fire Law of 1909 makes several changes:

Slashings must be piled and burned.

Rangers appointed in dry seasons.

Minimum penalty raised to $50.

Half the fine goes to informer.

County attorneys removed for not prosecuting.

Justices punishable for neglect of duty.

Brush piled before burning in clearing land.

No fires set in dry weather.

No fire to be smouldering in dry weather.

Town clerks added to list of wardens.

Pay of wardens increased.

Ground cleared ten feet around campfire.

R. R. companies to patrol in dry weather.

Locomotive engineers and master mechanics punishable for neglect.

Fires must be reported within three days.

2. Wardens must make themselves familiar with the law. The names and addresses of those who fight fire, and amount claimed by each must accompany the report of the fire. Accounts to be approved by town board. It is preferred that accounts be made and sent not oftener than October 1st and January 1st. People are not to be paid for simply protecting their own property.

3. Several years' experience in the Minnesota National Forest has shown that it is practicable to burn slashings any month in the year. Unless there should be exceptionally bad weather slashings must be burned within a week from time of cutting. Wardens will keep the Commissioner informed as to the way the law for piling and burning of slashings is complied with. They will be prosecuted themselves if they neglect to have the law enforced.

C. C. ANDREWS,
Forestry Commissioner.

The Right To Citizenship

The Duluth Herald has a very able editorial comment on the decision of the supreme court of Minnesota in which Marius Hanson was declared a full fledged citizen, even tho his ignorance was something appalling.

The appearance of the Northwestern Reporter, with the full decision of the Minnesota supreme court in the case of Marius Hansen, involving his right to citizenship papers, does not tend to calm the apprehension that the supreme court established in that case a precedent that is not good public policy. A layman should not, perhaps, question the law of the decision, but it seems necessary to question the condition under which such admissions to citizenship are possible as the one involved in this case.

The decision is one of those 3-to-2 affairs, Justices Elliott and Jaggard dissenting. In his dissenting opinion Justice Elliott declares that there ought to be some limitation to the right of citizenship and that it ought not to be conferred indiscriminately. Surely he is right in this. As to the amount of discrimination shown in this case, the testimony, quoted by Justice Elliott, is illuminating.

This man was 46 years old had lived in this country twenty-four years and had children going to school. Questioned by the government attorney he didn't know what polygamy was. Asked what it meant to be a citizen, he said, "Well, I get all the papers." He didn't know where the nation's capitol was; didn't know where the nation's capital was; didn't know whatis meant to take the oath of allegiance; didn't know what the Constitution of the United States was, but had heard of it; asked who was president, he said "Ain't it George Washington?" asked who was governor of Minnesota he said "I ain't get him, I don't remember his name"; asked what the capital of Minnesota is, he said "Ain't it Washington?" when convinced that Washington wasn't in Minnesota, he said the capital might be Duluth or maybe Minneapolis; asked who made the laws he said "I guess the governor." When the court took him in hand for questioning he thought Roosevelt was governor of Minnesota.

This man was made a citizen of the United States, and the supreme court upheld his right to citizenship.

One could hardly express dissatisfaction with this decision more emphatically than did Justice Elliott in his dissenting opinion, even though he was commendably polite in doing so. Said he: "To hold that a man who believes that Washington is president, that Minneapolis or Duluth is the capital of the state, and that the laws are made by the governor, is entitled to citizenship, would seem to me absurd if it were not for the fact that a majority of my brethren think otherwise." This is a very polite reservation, the example of which The Herald will have to follow. However, we agree thoroughly with the following quotation from the dissenting opinion: "The fact that this man lived in Minnesota for twenty-four years makes against him instead of in his favor, as it shows gross and culpable indifference to matters which are most intimately connected with the political duties he desires to perform."

That man can now vote. The most brilliant and most learned and wisest woman in Minnesota canot vote. Is further comment necessary?

Farmers Institute

In another column will be noticed a formal announcement of a farmers' institute which will be held in Crooksto on Thursday, June 17th. The meeting will be addressed by prominent speakers and the business men of Crookston should from this time forward urge every farmer with whom they do business to come to the city on that date and bring their wives, sons and daughters as there will be special separate addresses on home economics, care of milk and other subjects of equal importance.

Industrial work is being given a great deal of attention thruout the country. Minnesota is paying more attention than ever before to it and Red River Valley wants to be right at the front, and not occupying a back seat, and Polk county wants to be at the head of list of Valley counties.

Supt. of Schools Thorson is taking a deep interest in the work and it should be but a very short time till Polk county is referred to as the county that is setting the pace.

If that hope is to be realized, every business man, every professional man must join in encouraging the movement. Urge the farmers to attend the institute here June 17 and keep urging them.

Not Piety, but Pork.

The following bit of humor is taken from "The Farringdons," an English romance. The speakers are Mrs. Bateson and Mrs. Hankey, worthy wives, but not altogether above feeling a certain pleasure in showing up the ways of husbands:

"They've no sense, men haven't," said Mrs. Hankey; "that's what's the matter with them."

"You never spoke a truer word, Mrs. Hankey," replied Mrs. Bateson. "The very best of them don't properly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are wrestling with them.

"Now, take Bateson hisself," continued Mrs. Bateson. "A kinder husband or better Christian never drew breath, yet so sure as he touches a bit of pork he begins to worry hisself about the salvation of his soul till there's no living with him. And then he'll sit in the front parlor and engage in prayer for hours at a time till I says to him:

"'Bateson,' says I, 'I'd be ashamed to go troubling the Lord with a prayer when a pinch of carbonate of soda would set things straight again.'"

WILL FIGHT PORK BARREL

SENATOR COOK EMPLOYS COUNSEL TO BRING ACTION AT ONCE.

WILL ATTEMPT TO ENJOIN STATE AUDITOR FROM ISSUING WARRANTS.

The constitutionality of the $600,000 "pork barrel" bill authorized by the last Minnesota legislature, is to be tested in the courts. Senator L. O. Cooke, of Wabasha county, who was in St. Paul yesterday, employed W. B. Douglas, former attorney general and former state supreme court justice, to bring an action to restrain S. G. Iverson, state auditor, from issuing warrants under the provisions of the "pork barrel" bill. The case will be filed in the Ramsey county courts at once.

The 1909 "pork barrel" bill prepared by the good roads committees of the house and senate, appropriated $600,000 out of the state revenue fund and scattered it over the state for the purpose of building bridges and "improving" roads. An analysis of the bill shows that the measure appropriated state money for the improvement of city and village streets, and the building of bridges within corporate limits. The "pork barrel" is a biennial affair, and although it appropriates money to be spent entirely without state supervision it has been defended on the ground that it gives the farmer his only "dip" in the state treasury.

Speial Grants Authorized.

The new feature of the 1909 bill was the fact that it appropriated $200,000 more than ever before and that instead of being confined to the betterment of country roads its provisions authorized special grants for highway improvements inside city and village limits. In 1907, when the first omnibus road and bridge appropriation bill was passed, there were provisions for road and bridge improvement inside city and village limits, but such provisions were not on the wholesale scale of the 1909 bill.

The state highway commission has nothing to do with the expenditure of the money appropriated in the bill. There is no check on the persons named in the measure to supervise the expenditure of the state funds and in many cases members of the legislature are themselves named as the dispensers of the funds. In fifteen counties the money is turned over to the county commissioners. The $600,000, if spent, will come from the state revenue fund, which is obtained partly from railroads and other corporations, and partly by direct tax.

Senator Cooke, who has characterized the "pork barrel" as a "grab," has instructed General Douglas to fight the case to a finish and the supreme court will undoubtedly be called upon to decide the constitutionality of the bill. General Douglas is probably as well equipped as any other lawyer in the state to question the constitutionality of the bill, for he is the author of the "good roads" amendment of 1898, an amendment which will figure prominently in the coming litigation.

On Two Grounds.

The constitutionality of the "pork barrel" will be tested on two grounds. In the first place it will be urged that it is in violation of Section 5, article 9, of the constitution, and in the second place that it is contrary to the constitutional amendment of 1898, known as the "good roads amendment."

Section 5, article 9, of the constitution, prohibits the appropriation of money for internal improvements with in the state except where the appropriation is from money derived from grants of land to the state for specific purposes. The part of the section on which General Douglas will rely reads: "The state shall never contract any debt for the works of internal improvement, or be a party carrying on such works, except in cases where grants of land or other property shall have been made to the state, especially dedicated by the grant to specific purposes, and in such case the state shall devote thereto the avails of such grants and may pledge or approriate the revenues derived from such works in aid of their completion." Prior to 1907 the appropriations for internal improvement land fund, a fund for road and bridge improvement fund, which is to be divided up by the granted to the state for purposes of internal improvement. General Douglas will argue that the appropriation of money from the internal revenue is illegal.

The good roads amendment of 1898 creates the state highway commission and the "state road and bridge fund." This fund, under the provision of the constitution, not only includes money derived from the internal improvement land fund, but "all funds accruing to any state road and bridge fund, however provided." General Douglas maintains that under this provision, whether the constitution authorizes the legislature to appropriate the state's money for village and city roads, renders the bill unconstitutional, as the bill does not place the fund sion for distribution.

Judge Douglas said last night that he had not prepared papers in the case, but that he would begin work at once. It is probable that pending the decisions of the courts, State Auditor Iverson will be restrained from issuing warrants under the provisions of the bill.

With the deeds of divers races in his little grimy hands;
Round the press of thronging thousands, in the thick of straining strife,
He will cry you for a copper all the trafficings of life.

Though you hail from sunset islands
girt by seas of jeweled foam,
He can cheer you on your journey with a greeting from your home;
Though your heart is linked by memories to the countries of the morn,
He can barter you a message from the land where you were born.

Through the strident stress of noontide, through the blazing bloom of night,
Down the slow, slack hours of morning, ere the coming of the light,
In the times of joy and laughter, in the darkest days of dearth,
He can give you brave adventures from the farthest ends of earth.

At the portals of the city, at the gateways of the sea,
Where the ringing wheels of commerce shout their sounding symphony, Where the flags of every nation are to all the winds unfurled,
He will sell you for a penny all the romance of the world.

Tact is the eiderdown that cushions against life's hard knocks. Where it is lacking there is an endless friction and general misery. Some are "born" with tact—and more blessed are they than the traditional silver-spooned individual. It may also be "achieved." But here the likeness between tact and "greatness" ceases—the former is never "thrust upon" anybody. There is no use denying that the road to "achievement" is a hard one to climb, but it certainly is worth the while of every woman to climb it.

This resolution to go into effect January 1st, 1910.

OLD RESIDENT BACK — E. D. Childs for many years one of the foremost residents of Crookston and brother of City Clerk A. M. Childs arrived last evening from North Yakima and will spend some time here on combined business and pleasure. He has been busy shaking hands with his friends and talking over old times He is much pleased with Yakima and has a beautiful place on Knob Hill.

DUKE OF TURTLE—E. O. Erickson, the well known Crookston traveling man, who claims to be the champion fisherman of the Knights of the Grip, and who knows every school of fish in Cass Lake, personally, together with the smaller surround ing lakes, and is generally known during the fishing season as the Duke of Turtle River, returned from Cass Lake this morning with a big string of fish and a sunburned face that would be the envy of a New York clubman during the summer resort season.

LARIMORE EDITOR HERE—E. L. Richter editor of the Larimore Pioneer one the newsy weeklies of North Dakota is spending the day here in connection with an automatic cigar slot machine. It has a capacity of ten brands and is about the smoothest money maker on the market. He sells the exclusive right to the machine to one man in each city and they place as many of them as they desire and where they desire. A deal has been practically closed here with a local confectioner.

From Tuesday's Daily

WORKING IN EAST END—Dr. M. Langevin left this morning for eastern Polk county where he has work that will require his attention for a number of days. Each night he will head for Mentor and remain at his Maple Lake cottage.

HERALDITES HERE—Harry Wilson, business manager of the Grand Forks Herald and Peter Morgan the pressman for the same paper, both having been anchored to that paper since the water subsided from the Red River Valley spent the afternoon here on business, returning home on the Northern Pacific.

SERIOUSLY ILL—Mrs. Atkins who has been with her daughter Mrs. S. H. Withey left this morning for Bemidji where she was called by the serious illness of her son-in-law Milford Stafford who has bronchial pneumonia. He formerly resided at Fosston.

RUNNING DITCHING ENGINE — James Muir left yesterday for Humboldt near where he is juggling the throttle of a big engine which furnishes the power for a large ditching machine being operated on county ditch work by Contractors Maxwell and Woodruff.

GOOD YEAR AHEAD—Charley Ragin returned to Maple Lake this morning where he has opened his grocery and confectionery store and dance hall for the season. He says the outlook is the best ever for lively year at Maple Lake many of the cottagers being already on the ground. He was accompanied by Mrs. N. Ragin who will spend the summer there.

TRIP TO COAST — Max Lehman dropped in yesterday from Dawson, N. D. where he has been filling a lucrative position, for a visit with home folks for a couple of days. He will leave this evening for a trip to Seattle where he will visit the exposition and will later visit other points in the west and may locate there. He will be absent for three months.

REMOVED TO HER HOME—Mrs. N. Bertrand who has been receiving treatment at St. Vincent hospital for some time past for inflammation of the stomach was removed to her home several days ago and is now improving very rapidly. Her condition for a time was very serious and her improvement is good news to a large circle of friends.

FISHING WAS FINE — Messrs. Frank Bracelin and J. P. Dotson who returned Sunday evening from a fishing trip to the mouth of Turtle River which is about 9 miles across Cass Lake report very gratifying success. They landed all the fish they wanted and their friends in Crookston are feasting on fish as a result, at least as far as the supply held out.

GREAT GROWING WEATHER — A steady rain set in Monday afternoon and continued during the greater part of the night. The moderate precipitation which has prevailed during the past two weeks, keeping the surface moist has made conditions as near ideal as they could well be. The growth of all vegetation is phenominal and the advance can be noted from day to day.

A PAROCHIAL SCHOOL — Rev. Father Hogan the new pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic church at East Grand Forks is considering the advisability of establishing a parochial school in conection with the church which he hopes to see worked out in the near future. The plan is to erect a suitable building on the church lots adjoining the church building and to establish a school where the children of Catholics may be given religious as well as other training.

DAKOTANS ARE GREEDY—Complaint has been made that anglers from North Dakota have been seriously fracturing the fish laws of Minnesota by sipping more than the legal amount of fish from the state, 50 pounds; and also that some shipments have been made in the name of parties that were not fishing at all on this side of the line. The matter is being investigated and there will be some prosecutions in the near future.

GOOD BROODING SPRING— The lack of anything approaching flood conditions at any time this spring has made conditions ideal for the nesting of prairie chickens ducks and other game birds. As a result there will be more birds hatched in this section this summer than for many years past with the promise of some fine shooting next fall.

LOST ARM AT 84— The following from the Paisley, Ont., Advocate will be of interest here as Wm. Miller is a brother of James Miller of Crookston, watchman for Finch-Winslow-Carlisle Co., and visited here last fall. He resides on a farm in Bruce Co., adjoining that on which Mayor McPhee's folks resided. The Advocate says: "Mr. Wm. Miller, Elora road north, had his left hand amputated a little above the wrist on Thursday. Dr. Lucey of Guelph, wielded the surgical instruments assisted by Drs. Houston and Gage. The bone of the forearm was so diseased that this radical treatment was the only remedy. Altho Mr. Miller is now over 84 years of age, he stood the operation remarkably well and is confidently expected that his general health will soon be restored to normal by the removal of the only serious trouble he has yet suffered from in his whole long life."

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY

G. A. Peterson—Piano and organ tuner, with Tuff's Music House.

Albert Bergh went out on the east line this morning on business.

LOSS OF $1500—Fire at Oslo Thursday caused a loss of $1,500 in the store of John Espeseth.

BUSINESS AT FOSSTON—Archie McKinnon is spending the day at Fosston where he was called on some business for A. J. and A. McKinnon.

ALL HEADED NORTH —Messrs. Chas. Babcock, Graves, Roemer, Cram and Grames went north this morning to cop out a few shekels in their various lines.

HIED TO THE LAKE—Louis Gonya returned to Maple Lake this morning after a couple of days spent here. He expects to spend practically the entire summer there with the exception of what time it will require to attend to business interests.

LOOKING AFTER FARMS—J. P. Foote went to Angus this morning to look after some farm interests for the Scandia Bank. Mr. Foote is very much pleased with the crop outlook this year.

ON OCEAN LINER—Max Ericsson today received letters from his son Lloyd written from Spokane and other points enroute to Seattle. Lloyd and Mr. Brady sailed today from Seattle for Alaska where they will spend the summer months.

BOUGHT FINE DRAY TEAM—L. W. Larson reutrned this morning from a business trip to St. Paul, Minneapolis and St. Peter. At St. Peter he purchased a high priced dray team which will be here in a short time and will be used on the Larson coal wagon.

BUILDING NEW CREAMERY—Contractor L. Johnson went to Fosston this morning where he has a new creamery under construction the work being in charge of his son. The plant is one of the most modern in the state and will be completed and ready for operation within a very short time.

CITY FORGING AHEAD—Alderman Fred Craig came over from Grand Forks this morning for a trip up the fish line. Mr. Craig says East Grand Forks is booming this summer and great progress will be made before the close of the summer including many municipal improvements etc.

UNDER NEW VAG LAW — This morning the police arrested Fay Sloner and prosecuted him under the new vagrancy law. The new law is much broader than the old one and gives the police a chance to lodge a number of charges which were not covered before. Brother Sloner was sent up to visit Jailor Tom Casey by Judge Gossman of the municipal court.

EAGLES INITIATED—Last evening the Eagles held a very largely attended and enthusiastic meeting. A class of candidates was initiated and a very fine lunch was served. The local Eyrie is growing rapidly there being initiations at practically every meeting. The local Eagles are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the visit here of the Eagles of Winnipeg July 4th and 5th and are making elaborate preparations for their proper entertainment in conjunction with a committee of firemen and from the Commercial club.

MOVING STORE HOUSE — The building which has been used by the Wright Carpenter Co. as a store house at the rear of their department store is being moved from that location across the Northern Pacific tracks to Mose Gilier's place, he having purchased the building to use as additional store room. It is substantially built and covered with sheet iron. The New Store with an enlarged basement will not need a store room and the removal of the building will make a big improvement in the appearance of things from the Great Northern depot.

BLOSSOMED OUT BEAUTIFULLY—Carl Ness proprietor of the Robert Street confectionery store and billiard hall will soon have his place transformed into a regular bower of potted plants. He has already placed on exhibition a magnificent variety known as the climbing Clintonius Littlerium which is now in full bloom. It blossoms out at least twice a year spring and fall, and the beautiful bloom lasts for weeks, preserving all its initial beauty and then fades gradually except for sudden spurts which last for only one day or evening at a time. It was the object of many a admiring glances yesterday and last evening the ladies being especially interested.

Postage Stamp Slot Machines

The Posct Office Department is considering a number of stamp-selling machines. These devices which, sell stamps of all denominations, could be placed in the streets and public buildings. The intelligent public in general agree that golden grain belt beer is not only the purest of all beverages but also the most beneficial to body and mind. Have it on your home table at all times. HALF OF ADA TO BE HERE

E. J. HERRINGER SAYS BIG DELEGATION WILL BE HERE FOR FIREMEN'S MEET

THOMAS R. JOHNSTONE AROUSING INTEREST IN DULUTH LINE TOWNS

From Tuesday's Daily—

E. J. Herringer one of the foremost citizens of Ada while in the city on Sunday evening enroute home from Fosston said that great interest was being taken at Ada in the coming tournament of the Northwestern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament Association to be held in Crookston the week beginning July 5th. The running team from the fire department there, the baseball team, and the Ada band will also be here. as in many instances the same men belong to all three organizations.

The train service from Ada is very fine as all these who desire can come up in the morning and return home in the evening if they so desire.

Boosting out East

Thomas R. Johnstone left this morning for Bemidji, Blackduck and Hibbing where he will endeavor to arouse interest in the coming tournament and induce teams to compete at the tourney from those places. He says the meeting will be one of the very best ever held in the northern part of the state and looks for an immense attendance.

SOLDIERS HIT THE BULLSEYE

TOOK REDLANDS INTO CAMP IN CITY LEAGUE GAME YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

WHITE SEAL TEAM BEAT GRAND FORKS PICKETTS, UMPIRE AND ALL

From Monday's Daily—

A good crowd gathered at the City Ball Park yesterday afternoon to witness the practice game between the Redlands team and Co. I of the city league the regular schedule of which opens tonight with a game between the White Seals and Redlands.

Redlands seemed to have the game well in hand with a score of 2 to 6 in their favor till the 7th inning when the soldier boys turned loose and made 6 scores, all that were made during the balance of the game, winning by a score of 6 to 10. Both teams showed up fine for the first game and some great sport is promised before the end of the season.

Lehman pitched for Co. 1 and did fine work, and Carlson was at the receiving end, while Evenson pitched for Redlands holding the Soldiers down well, but received ragged support in one inning which proved disastrous. Outside of the 7th inning Redlands played steady, consistent ball and the team is very well balanced.

HUSTLERS WIN FROM BURWELL

The Hill Hustlers took Burwell into camp yesterday on the latter's grounds by a score of 7 to 4. Becker and Morlin were on the points for the Hustlers. Umpire Jabe.

GREAT GAME AT FOSSTON SUNDAY

Yesterday E. J. Herringer's Colts from Ada played at Fosston and the contest was one of the best ever played there. The game being called at the end of the 13th inning without a single score having been made. Summers and Bechter and Cadreau and Roy were the respective batteries and both were in great form.

MENTOR WON FROM OAKLAKE

Yesterday at Erskine the Mentor team defeated the Oak Lake ball tossers by the score of 15 to 13 it was one of the old-fashioned hit and run games and the rooting was heard for miles around.

The longer a man can hang from a picket fence because the seat of his trousers was caught on it, the more convinced he could become that it was because he was so clever at that sort of thing.

LANDED A BIG CONTRACT

MESSRS. HITCHCOCK, WINFIELD, MENG AND SOPER SUPPLY 3500 MEN WITH BEEF

WILL ALL GO TO MANDAN AT ONCE—KILLING TEN BEEF A DAY NOW

From Monday's Daily—

C. A. Hitchcock and Jos Winfield returned this morning from Mandan where yesterday they landed the contract to furnish the construction crews on 250 miles of new track with beef during the summer. Sam Meng and Walter Soper are associated with them.

There are now 3,500 men at work and there will be more later on. All four men will go to Mandan at once and remain there during the balance of the summer. They are now killing ten head of cattle per day.

This is a big contract and the local men are very fortunate in landing it.

COPS CANNOT HIT THE PIPE

CIGARS AND CIGARETTES PROHIBITED IN ORDER TO FORKS POLICEMEN

MAYOR TAYLOR SAYS RULE HAS BEEN FOUND TO BE GOOD THING ELSEWHERE

From Tuesday's Daily—

Mayor J. D. Taylor of Grand Forks yesterday issued an order that none of the members of the police department should hereafter smoke while on duty. The order created a mild sensation at the city hall. The policemen all smoke and some of them were hopeful that the order was one framed up by some joker. It was shown that the mayor had issued it and so the officers decided to make the best of it.

"It will be all right if I lose all desire for smoking," said one of the patrolmen. "A good smoke helps to while away the long hours all right."

In Force Elsewhere

Mayor Taylor admitted last evening that the order had been issued. He considered it a step in the right direction, he stated. 'Other cities have the same rule and find it a good on.

A number of persons stated that the order would make the job of patrolman less popular.

The order was in effect last night and it is expected that pipes and cigars will be worked overtime after 7 o'clock this morning.

J. M. BALL IS BADLY HURT

SUSTAINED FALL OF 11 FEET STRIKING ON HIS HEAD ON HARDWOOD FLOOR

EXPECTS TO RETURN TO MINNEAPOLIS IN A SHORT TIME TO RECUPERATE

From Monday's Daily—

H. C. Scribner this morning received a letter from Mr. J. M. Ball which tells of a very serious injury to Mr. Ball a short time ago. While building a house for a tenant at Altamira, Tampo Texas, he fell from the roof, one of the joists breaking, and landed on his head on a hardwood floor 11 feet below.

He did not regain consciousness for 24 hours and is now only able to get around with the aid of a cane and crutch and is bothered with severe pains in the head nearly all of the time.

As soon as he is able to travel the family will leave Texas for Minneapolis where they will remain till Mr. Ball has recuperated.

KEYSTONE

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Aeschlimann left for Stephen last Saturday morning to visit with friends. They returned Monday evening.

Earl Capes spent Saturday and Sunday with his brother Elmer and family at East Grand Forks.

John Alt of Stephen drove down last Friday visited friends and relatives and returned Saturday.

A very interesting ball game was witnessed by a large crowd at Tabor last Sunday. Edward Brantl choose nine boys to play against some of Tabor's most prominent players. The score was 26 to 16 in favor of Edward Brantl's side. Sometime ago we heard that a team is stronger and better without the Suckers' aid, but it did not seem to be true last Sunday as two Suckers were on the winning side and received many cheers from all present. Altho being defeated the Tabor boys treated the winners in a very pleasant way, and are anxious for a game with Key West but the Key West team consists of men and high school students and might beat the game.

William Grundahl, Gustave Miller Edward and Miss Tillie Brantl and Messrs and Misses Aeschlimann were at the ball game at Tabor last Sunday.

Samuel Aeschlimann was at Crookston last Saturday returning home Sunday noon.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES

WERE CARRIED OUT TODAY BY SCHOOL CHILDREN OF CROOKSTON

ALL STUDENTS ASEMBLED AT DIFFERENT TIMES IN FRANKLIN BUILDING

From Friday's Daily—

The special patriotic exercises which are usually held in the public schools of Crookston the Friday before Memorial day were held today, one week earlier than usual on account of the school examinations which will be on next week.

The students from all the schools united today in exercises in the new Franklin School, the various departments from the other schools coming at stated times, and the little ones attracted a great deal of attention as they marched in a body to the Franklin school.

The exercises lasted the entire day and the programs carried out were of a most interesting character. Addresses were made by members of the G. A. R. who with the W. R. C. attended in a body and several citizens also made short remarks.

Many parents and others interested were present and all thoroly enjoyed the exercises. Prof. McIntire spent nearly the entire day there and with teachers was highly commended for the pains taken in preparing for the occasion.

WERE WEDDED AT HIGH NOON TODAY

The Ellington-Willey Nuptials Solemnized at the Home of Mrs. W. E. Slocum—Elaborate Wedding Dinner Served Following the Ceremony After which the Young Couple Departed for Cities on Wedding Tour

A very pretty wedding took place in Crookston at high noon today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Slocum on Bridge St., when Miss Grace Willey a cousin of Mrs. Slocum, became the bride of Mr. Elmer Ellington. The bride looked charming in a white net gown over a white silk slip, carrying a cluster of bridal roses. The groom wore the conventional black.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. C. C. Warner under a large white wedding bell uniquely fashioned out of white roses, ribbons and smilax. Miss Fern Lancaster played Mendelssohn's wedding march and little Marguerite Low acted as ring-bearer. The parlor was banked with arbors of white cut flowers and twinings of smilax, which made an exquisite and appropriate setting for a bridal party. The large dining room was transformed into veritable garden of pink flowers and summer fragrance

Immediately following the ceremony the guests enjoyed a course luncheon from a table made handsome with dainty appointments. A large wedding cake was in evidence and the chairs of the bride and groom were joined with white satin ribbons.

The bride's going away gown was of brown broadcloth with hat, gloves and shoes to match.

The happy couple imagined they had evaded their friends at the depot by taking a touring car to the railroad crossing and boarding the train from there but the guests calmly walked down to the N. P. depot and took the train to Fertile and if there was any passenger on that train who did not know there was a newly married couple aboard he was deaf, dumb and blind, for the coach was festooned with white streamers, placards etc.

Both bride and groom have the well wishes of a large circle of Crookston friends. They expect to remain in Minneapolis for a week as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fawcett. They will also spend some time at Duluth and Chicago before going to Donaldson where Mr. Ellington is engaged in the hardware and machinery business and where they will make their future home.

Those present at the wedding were Messrs. and Mesdames L. Ellington, A. A. Miller, C. C. Warner, H. L. Marsh, A. A. Just; Mesdames Leguee, W. F. Arnold, F. Cadwell of Minneapolis, M. L. Hall, A. J. Streeter; Misses Mabel Stone, Fern Lancaster, Alice and Mary Arnold, Janet Page, and Marjory Warner; Messrs. Lucius Miller, Alex and James Arnold, and C. R. Winslow. Mr. and Mrs. Ellington were the recipients of a large number of beautiful presents in cut glass, silver and china.

What convinces a man he is having a good time doing anything is for none of his family to be along.

AUTOMOBILE RUNS AMUCK

C. J. MURPHY'S MACHINE RUNS OVER HIM AND LANDS AGAINST BIG HOTEL

ATTORNEY HAS LEG AND ARM BADLY BRUISED BUT NO BONES BROKEN

From Friday's Daily—

An auto owned by C. J. Murphy, counsel for the Great Northern railway, ran amuck in Grand Forks last evening. It knocked Mr. Murphy down and ran over him, careened down Alpha avenue at a lively rate and crashed into the cafe of the hotel Frederick wrecking a window and breaking a lamp and spring.

Attorney Murphy had one arm and leg badly bruised but no bones were broken. His clothing was torn. Mrs. Murphy and sister Miss Lizzie Sullivan, jumped when the machine started to run away.

The accident occurred near the corner of Alpha and Fourth. The machine is a light one, weighing only 1,700 pounds, a fortunate circumstance for Mr. Murphy.

No Chance to Escape

When the accident happened Mr. Murphy was standing in front of the machine cranking it up. The high speed clutch happened to be in the wrong place and the auto fairly leaped at him.

He was taken to his home in W. H. Kelsey's automobile and will soon be able to be out it is said.

INJUCTION IS ISSUED

RED LAKE CO. COMMISSIONERS WILL NOT SELL BONDS OR BUILD COURT HOUSE YET

MATTER HAS BEEN TAKEN INTO COURTS AND IT WILL CAUSE DELAY

From Friday's Daily—

There will be a meeting of the county commissioners of Red Lake county tomorrow to sell the $35,000 worth of bonds and accept plans for a new court house. The commissioners will not do it however as they have been served with a restraining order and are asked to appear before his honor Court Commissioner Samuel T. Johnson at his office in Thief River Falls on the 29th day of May to show cause why an injunction should not be granted.

Of course there is right to appeal to the district judge and then to the supreme court but this all takes time and Pennington county may have been created before the matter is decided in the courts.

PREPARE FOR CELEBRATION

MINOT ELKS MAKE ELABORATE PLANS FOR LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE

At a meeting of the officers of the Elks lodge at Minot Tuesday plans were made for the ceremonies which will accompany the laying of the corner stone of the new Elks Home next Saturday. Invitations have been sent to every Elk in North Dakota and to all of the lodges in the state and in Minnesota.

Lee Combs one of the prominent Elks of Valley City will deliver an address at that time and with his esquire from that town will assist in the initiation of the candidates in the evening.

Detroit Record: If it is found that the Republican majority is so bound up by trust influences that it is unable to give the people a square deal, and such a tariff schedule as the business interests of the country demand as a whole there are millions of voters who will include that it is time to make a change. There is a political storm brewing, and it remains to be seen whether certain party leaders will heed its protest in time to seek the shelter of honest legislation for the people. "The people be damned" may have been considered good argument in the days of Vanderbilt's prime, but not so following a Roosevelt administration.

Albert Lea Standard: Tempered by Governor Johnson's eight vetoes, the late legislature was not altogether as lamentable as it might have been. So let all cheep up—Governor Johnson may make it sixteen the next time.

DIED AT AGE OF 102 YEARS

BER TANDERSON RECEIVES THE NEWS OF DEATH OF HIS AGED GRAND FATHER

HAD LIVED ON FARM NEAR ALBERT LEA SINCE BEFORE THE WAR

From Friday's Daily—

Bert Anderson today received word of the death of his grandfather Andrew Johnson, at his home on a farm near Albert Lea Minn., at the advanced age of 102 years. The deceased was a very rugged man, and six years ago when Bert Anderson visited there he was hale and hearty with his mind as clear as a bell.

His wife died several years ago. He had five sons in the civil war, three of whom were killed in action. They enlisted at Madison Wis., driving over from Albert Lea in a cart pulled by a mule and an ox.

There were two daughters, Mrs. Ole Anderson who died some years ago and Martha Johnson who never married but kept house for her father.

GREAT PROGRAM MONDAY NIGHT

CROOKSTON ORATORIO SOCIETY WILL GIVE ENTERTAINMENT MONDAY NIGHT

On next Monday evening the Crookston Oratorio Society will give an entertainment at the M. E. church which will be one of the big musical treats of the summer.

The rehearsals have been going on for some time past and no one can afford to miss this splendid opportunity to hear some splendid solo and chorus work. The society is doing a great work in Crookston and the patronage Monday evening should be very liberal.

ADA SECURES CONVENTION

FEDERATED CLUBS TO HOLD DISTRICT MEETING IN ADA NEXT YEAR

Mesdames R. S. Matthews, C. R. Andrews, F. L. Thurston and H. F. Bosworth of Ada returned home last Friday from Detroit where they attended the annual district convention of Federated Clubs as representatives of the Twentieth Century Club of this city. Mrs. Mattheys read a paper before the meeting on the subject, "Co-operation of Parents and Teachers."

The Ada delegates were entertained at the homes of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Conway, Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Phillips, former residents of Ada.

The annual meeting of the clubs for this district will be held in Ada next year at a date to be announced later.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Recording secretary Mrs. Wm. Russel, Moorhead; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. S. Matthews, Ada; treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Hamilton, Detroit.

TRI-STATE CO. TO REACH KEY WEST

AGREEMENT REACHED WITH MUTUAL COMPANY TO CONNECT WITH LINE TO FORKS

The Tri-State Telephone company was successful last evening at Key West in closing a deal for conenctions with a mutual telephone company. About 30 telephones are involved. The stockholders voted unanimously in favor of securing connections with the Tri-State.

NORTHERN PACIFIC CHANGES TIME

Agent Handy announces a cange of time on the Northern Pacific. The south bound passenger train after Sunday will leave Crookston at 1:05 p. m. instead of 2:05 as now and will arrive in Minneapolis at 9:20 instead of 10:20 as at present. There will be no change of time in the north-bound train.

A girl's notion of an ideal hero is one that would be in a padded cell if he wasn't on the stage.

WHAT IS THE N. P. UP TO?

RAILROAD RUMORS REVIVE THE MUCH TALKED OF STAPLES CUTOFF

SUPT. SOVERIGN OF NORTHERN PACIFIC VISITS THIS SECTION

From Friday's Daily—

Supt. Soverign of the Minnesota division of the Northern Pacific Ry., in his special car, visited Fertile this week remaining over night there and proceeding the next morning up over the Red Lake Falls branch to Grand Forks. There is much speculation as to the cause of the superintendent's frequent visits here of late and the theories advanced are varied and many. Some are of the opinion that the cutoff from Fertile to Staples, so long talked of, is to become a reality.

This is given much credence by reason of report from White Earth that Northern Pacific surveyors are at work running line across the reservation and headed this way. Others say the N. P. wants a shorter route to Winnipeg and will run the flyer from here over the Red Lake Falls branch and thence over the Warroad branch, making the distance much shorter. These are only speculative rumors and nothing may come of them. But in case they do, Fertile will surely be made a division point.—Fertile Journal.

A CHAMPIONSHIP SCRAP PULLED OFF

HOT SESSION PULLED OFF IN ROPED ARENA AT EMERSON MANITOBA

Emerson, Man., Canada, May 20—(Special to the Journal)—In the arena at Emerson two more young men one of this city (a local) and the other somewhat of a roving nature yesterday met in the roped arena here to settle a difference in opinion. Round 1—Mr. Stephens the local was in the aggressive in this round and leads with a sledge hammer blow for the top of his opponent's head but he being a man of very slight physique did not have to exercise much skill to avoid the blow which went wide Gong sounds, honors even, both men go to the bar for a drink.

Round 2—There was considerable talking in this round. Referee A. Johnston having to call time on both the men. The tourist bested his man in this round. Gong sounds.

Round 3—Mr. Stephens now became angered at his slow work and makes a rush at his opponent forcing his man to the ropes. Both men grab for nose hold and had to be separated by Referee Johnston. Honors even.

Round 4—The tourist makes an effort to put his man out in short time so makes a heavy swing for the end of his opponents nose. This landed and so angered Mr. Stephens that he leads with a heavy left for his opponent's jaw knocking him to the mat Gong sounds, honors even.

Round 5—Mostly all talking in this round and referee Johnston had to decide in favor of the local who is now going around with the belt.

Mr. Stephens has challenged Mr. Peterson the present holder of the local championship belt to a 10 round contest to take place in the near future.

St. Cloud Times: The Minnesota delegation in congress are certainly endeavoring to use their efforts for real tariff revision. The effort may be in vain but whatever the result is their constituents will have nothing to regret from the stand taken by their two senators and the nine congressmen who represent Minnesota.—Brainerd Dispatch.

Suppose that Seators Nelson and Clapp who are making a fight for lower duties shall, when the Aldrich bill is on final passage with all of the outrageous rates on certain articles which have condemned fall into line and vote for it, as did our house members, then what will their constituents think It looks very much as if much of this discussion, and efforts to amend were merely intended to keep certain senators and representatives "solid" with their contituents The way to defeat the tariff iniquity is to vote against it first, last and all the time. Thus and thus only can the Aldriches be compelled to consent to an equitable tariff.

Mora Times: The new Aldrich tariff law does not look good to the people of this section of the country. There is altogether too much revision upward or none at all.

J. J HILL TO BE HONORED

BUST OF EMPIRE BUILDER TO SYMBOLIZE MINNESOTA AT SEATTLE EXPOSITION.

STATUE TO FORM CENTERPIECE OF GROUP IN KLONDIKE CIRCLE.

James J. Hill, empire builder and railroad king, is to be honored by having a bronze statue of himself used to symbolize Minnesota at the Seattle exposition. The bust will be nearly seven feet in height and will stand on a base of Minnesota, Japanese and Washington state granite, twenty-one feet high, a tribute to the glory and the progress of the Northwest.

At the right of the bust will stand a model of the battleship Minnesota, and on the left that of a rilroad train. Gov. John A. Johnson has undertaken to send the Minnesota granite, and the Japanese consul general will send the Japanese granite.

Finn H. Frolich, a Seattle sculptor, is now making the clay model for the bronze bust. He is working as fast as his sitter will allow him, for the whole work has to be finished and in place by August 3, which is Minnesota day at the exposition.

Has Place of Honor.

The tribute to Minnesota's greatest man will occupy the place of honor in Klondike circle, at the entrance of the "Pay Streak." When the exposition is closed the statue will be removed to the grounds of the Washington state university, Seattle, where it will be placed on the campus.

In the celebrated art gallery at the Hill mansion Artist Sculptor Frolich is busily engaged putting James J. Hill into clay expression.

Although the clay is only in its early stages, the reporter recognized it among the works of art, as he came down the hall. The bust was turned toward the door, but the back of the head alone was enough.

"It's a strong face and head," said the artist. "There are so many distinctive points about it that it would be hard for a sculptor to miss getting a likeness."

"Can Mr. Hill spare you much time?" he was asked.

"That's just the difficulty," said Mr. Frolich. "The sittings are necessarily short. From 9 till 10 in the morning and after 5:30 in the evening. Mr. Hill is a forceful character with a great deal of personal magnetism. Before one gets acquainted with him this is a drawback; after one gets accustomed to the subject, it is a great advantage.

Work Still Unfinished.

"Though it looks finished to you and resembles J. J. Hill, I'll admit, there are three days' work to be done on it yet. No one but an artist would understand this. But wait till all the finishing touches are made. You'll get the life expression then—the man himself as he moves and breaths and thinks. Just wait a few days."

Among the former Minnesotans who are looking after the preparation for the statue in Seattle are: Judge Thomas Burke, Judge G. M. Hawthorne, C. W. Corliss and Col. Blethen, of the Seattle Times.

Finn H. Frolich, the sculptor, is a native of Christiania, Norway. He received a large part of his artistic education at L' Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. He has been in Seattle now some two years.

As soon as the clay model is complete a plaster cast of it will be taken and Mr. Frolich will take it to New York, where the bronze mold will be made.

JACK JOHNSON IS TOO SLOW

NEGRO FAILS TO DO MUCH TO JACK O'BRIEN IN FAST SIX ROUND BOUT

NEGRO CHAMPION SLOW—PHILADELPHIAN ENTITLED TO A DRAW

Philadelphia May 29 — Jack Johnson, the big colored heavy-weight champion failed to win over Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia light-heavy-weight last night in a six round bout. The fight was even and the consencus of opinion was that it should have been a draw had a decision been permissible. O'Brien's marvelous fast foot work and his superior blocking saved him from damage in several close mixes, and three times he was forced to his knees by the great strength and weight of Johnson in the clinches.

It was a fast fight, O'Brien doing the greater part of the leading. Johnson was slow on his feet and appeared not to be in the best condition. Repeatedly the champion rushed his smaller antagonist but seldom landed effectively. A right hand counter in the fifth round cut O'Brien's right eye and this was the sum total of the damage done in the six rounds.

O'Brien was in and out like a flash in nearly every round, stabbing Johnson on the face but the blows lacked force and had no effect other than to make the big man grin and wave his hand at the crowd. The spectators shouted wildly every time O'Brien landed and hooted Johnson for his apparent rough work in the clinches.

Referee McGuigan said after the fight that O'Brien did remarkably well under the circumstances. He weighs 162½ pounds while JoJhnson's acknowledged weight was 205 and it was probably more.

"Johnson looked tired and anxious in the fourth round and O'Brien appeared confident thruout the bout. He certainly fought a game fight," said McGuigan. "Johnson had nothing to say after the bout except that he thought he had the better of it. O'Brien was enthusiastic over his showing. He said today he accepted a proposal to meet Al Kaufman in San Francisco in the near future.

Stillwater Gazette: Sometimes we think, after thinking a few about the political situation in Minnesota, that if the boys would get together and agree to discard all the old decks of cards, buy a new and clean deck and commence all over it would be just about the best move for peace, harmony and victory that could be brought forth. How about it?

The building activity in Crookston this spring is more noticeable than for many years past and visitors in the city are commenting upon it very freely.

IMPRESSIVE SCENE IN ST. MARY CTH. CHURCH

Class Of 37 Took First Communion Services Under Direction Of Fr. Smiers With Several Assisting Priests.

From Friday's Daily—

A spectacular scene at St. Mary's Catholic church on Ascension Day in the city of Crookston, Thursday a memorable feast of the church marked the day one of pomp and ceremony long to be remembered by first holy communion class of 37, consisting of 21 boys and 16 girls, ably prepared by the pastor Father John W. Smiers. The scene in the church cannot fail to leave an impress, not only with the communicants but the congregation as a whole. The excellent training given this first communion class comes of a master mind and a teacher out of the ordinary in training children.

Impressive Sight

The order of the ceremony was as follows: Procession from the Sacristy led by the altar boys, cross bearer, John McKinnon, Eugene Rauenbuehler and Laurence Regan, followed by the girls all in white wearing wreaths and veils and white gloves. The boys were dressed all in black and also wore white gloves. The flower girls were as follows: Elmira Andrist, Kathleen Ures, Helene Greening. Next came the pastor, then prayer by the communicants in concert, after which they sang the hymmn "Come Holy Spirit".

The "Te Deum" mass was then sung. Celebrant of the mass, "De Deum" mass John W. Smiers, deacon of the mass Rev. Father Corbinia Hermanutz, O. S. B. Sub-deacon of the mass, Rev. Father Claud Massonat. Master of ceremonies Rev. Father V. Koelman, of Reynolds, N. D.

Just before the communion was administered, acts of Faith, Hope and Charity and Contrition were recited in concert by the communicants, they then sang hymn "O Lord I am not Worthy". The girls led by the angels approached to receive holy communion first, the flower girls representing angels, the boys following in regular order. The Hymn "What Happiness can Equal Mine" was then sung by the class, followed by the Litany for the occasion recited by the communicants.

Special Choir

A special choir was chosen for this ceremony. The mass sung by the choir was Bartholomeus in E. flat, assisted by Miss Eva Desautels, county Superintendent N. A. Thorson, Mrs. James O'Brien, Mr. Oscar Peterson, At the offertory Miss Eva Desautels beautifully rendered "Ave Maria" by Petri. The solos were all very well rendered. The organist Miss Louise Veronneau was at her best and the music was inspiring.

After the ceremony the procession returned to the Sacristy.

At 2:30 occurred the enrollment of the scapular. After that Father Smiers took the children to the studio to have their photos taken. They returned with Father Smiers and were treated to cake and candy.

Evening Services

Evening services began as in the morning, procession from the Sacristy headed by the cross bearer followed by the pretty little girl strewing the path with flowers, then the girl communicants following in single file carrying blessed candles. The procession started in center aisle, the boys in same order, led by another pretty little flower girl then came the altar boys, then two assistant priests followed by Father Smiers all around the church back the center aisle where the hymn "Come Holy Ghost" was sung by the communicants, after which the girls all kneeling in the center aisle were met by two flower girls as they approached the altar in pairs to renew their Baptismmal vows The boys followed in regular order of this impressing part. The class then sang "Mother Dear O Pray for Me." Father Smiers then gave a practical sermon reminding the children of their sacred duty to God and impressing upon them their duty of obedience to their parents. He then addressed a few remarks to the parents advising them to look after their children by setting a good example.

Solemn Benediction was then given completing the ceremony.

PICKS O'BRIEN TO SUCCEED ELLIOT

GOVERNOR ANNOUNCES SELECTION OF ST. PAUL MAN FOR SUPREME BENCH

WAS SUPPOSED TO BE SECRET BUT LITTLE BIRD GOT VERY BUSY

From Friday's Daily—

Governor Johnson announced today that, with the understanding that Judge Charles B. Elliott of the Minnesota supreme court is to be Judge Charles A. Willard's successor on the supreme bench of the Philippine islands, he has selected Thomas D. O'Brien of St. Paul for the resulting vacancy.

No official report of Judge Elliott's selection is given out. He himself declined today to discuss it, saying that all information must come from Washington. The story comes from unofficial sources there, but was confirmed by Governor Johnson today.

"My informant was the president of the United States," he said. "The news was given me in confidence. Now that it has come out, I see no reason to deny it. Judge Elliott is to be appointed to Judge Willard's place in the Philippines and when he resigns from the state supreme court I shall appoint Thomas D. O'Brien to that place. The vacancy may not occur for several weeks, but I have consulted Mr. O'Brien, have his acceptance and have informed him that I will appoint him."

How Change Occurs

The proposed judicial shift comes from appointment of Judge Charles A. Willard of Minneapolis as United States district attorney for Minnesota. Judge Willard has been serving as associate justice of the supreme court of the Philippines. Judge Elliott was formerly on the Hennepin district bench, but has been a supreme court justice since 1905. His term expires next year.

T. D. O'Brien was associated with the state administration as insurance commissioner. He resigned to go into private practice with R. A. Stone and was retained as special counsel for the state in the railroad rate injunction cases. Since E. T. Young's retirement as attorney general he and Mr. O'Brien have been actively in charge of the prolonged hearings of these cases.

The salary of supreme court justices in Minnesota is $7,000 while in the federal judgeship in the Philippines pays $10,000.

PROSPECTS FOR LATE HARVEST

MANITOBA'S PRIME MINISTER SAYS MONTREAL IS FIGHTING FOR EXPORT GRAIN CROP

R. P. Roblin prime minister of the province of Manitoba enroute to Winnipeg from Montreal, was in Crookston today. Montreal, Mr. Roblin said, is making a great fight against New York for the export grain trade of the Atlantic coast, is progressing all along the line, and is handling a larger volume of business both in and out. There is a tone of optimism in east Canada.

West Canadian advices, Mr. Roblin said, were of favorable weather. He says that his absence from Winnipeg had put him out of touch with the crop situation. There had been a late start in many parts of the grain area, and a prospect for a late harvest. Whether the good weather had brought the crop along enough to make it compare in progress with an average season, he could not say. The immigration outlook for west Canada, he said, is very favororable and there has been a great inrush of new settlers most of whom had money. Very largely they have settled in Alberta and Saskatchewan, but Manitoba got a good share as well.

The possibilities of unbleached muslin are not appreciated. This cheap material is of a mellow, creamy tone, which lends itself peculiarly to artistic decoration. For summer cottage hangings it is a most desirable material, the unevenness of weave suggesting certain silken fabrics. A pretty bedroom in a cottage at Atlantic City is to have the walls papered with delicate pink and yellow roses upon a creamy ground. All the hangings—the window curtains, the door curtains, the bedspread, the couch and chair covers and cushions—are to be of unbleached muslin finished with bands of cretonne to match the wallpaper.

TOM FLAHERTY CASE DISMISSED

JUDGE DECIDES EAST GRAND FORKS COURT HAS NO JURISDICTION

$400 COSTS ACCRUED IN BRINGING FLAHERTY BACK CHARGED TO TAYLOR

The well known Tom Flaherty case was decided yesterday by Judge T. A. Sullivan of the municipal court at E. Grand Forks the court finding that he had no jurisdiction in the case. The court declared in the order that having heard the evidence in the case, the complaint was dismissed on the ground that the crime, if any crime had been committed was committed in Ward county, North Dakota, and he had no jurisdiction. He further found that the complaint was wilful, malicious and without proper cause and charged the costs accrued in the proceedings to John Taylor, agent of the John Gund Brewing company in East Grand Forks. The costs in the case make quite an item amounting to almost $400.

The case against Flaherty is an interesting one and has attracted much attention to this section. The law point involved on which the defendant fought his entire case is also an unusual one. Flaherty, employed as an agent of the brewing company at Minot is charged with having left for Seattle with about $400 of the company's money an don complaint of the company was brought back to this city.

According to the evidence of Flaherty was instructed to deposit money collected in the bank at Minot and on this point the defense largely based their claim that the East Grand Forks court had no jurisdiction. The case dragged along in the municipal court for some weeks and in the meantime it is understood the bond company settled the claim and were reimbursed so that "all's well that ends well" except for the costs accrued.

Commercial Club Behind Project To Raise $10,000 Bonus. House Will Probably Be Built This Summer.

From Friday's Daily—

At the meeting of the 25,000 Commercial club last evening it is more than probable that the Opera House problem was solved as interest in the project was shown by the presence of about 75 of the leading business and professional men of the city who were unanimous in the opinion that the time had arrived that something must be done toward securing the construction of a modern, commodious and artistic opera house.

Secretary T. R. Brown laid before the meeting two propositions made by a big theatrical firm in Minneapolis who were willing to take stock in a joint stock company to erect an opera house or who were willing to give a bond that would bind them to at once construct a $30,000 opera house, which with the cost of the lot and incidentals would probably run over $35,000, providing a cash bonus of $10,000 was raised.

Secretary Brown submitted the plans for the proposed building which would be modern with a capacity of 850, 200 more than the old opera house would seat.

Members were Enthusiastic

The success of the project to raise $10000 bonus was assured by the enthusiastic support given by all present. It was the unanimous opinion that Crookston could not longer afford to be without an opera house. It is one of the advantages that residents demand, and travelling men and others who can as well make their home somewhere else could not be expected to make their home or head quarters here without advantages which they could secure in other cities within reach.

Another phase of the matter dwelt upon was the thousands of dollars every month by people of Crookston being left in Grand Forks and Fargo and the large number of small villages radiatoing from this city who had to go to these cities to hear an opera or good play which required a large opera house. People in surrounding towns have a right to look to Crookston for such advantages.

Short addresses were made by J. E. O'Brien, A. D. Stephens Charles Loring, A. Holmboe, T. R. Johnstone and many others and all were of the same opinion.

Committee Named

President Misner was authoried to name a committee and today announced the following: James E. O'Brien, Sam Rosenthal and Ed. Peterson.

This committee will start work at once. $10000 is a considerable sum but it is believed that it should be raised.

The time is limited. The Minneapolis company must know within 30 days in order that bookings may be made for the Crookston House the coming season.

Every citizen should do his full duty. The burden must not fall on the few. There are a number who can afford to donate large sums and they will not be found wanting, but the small donations must be forthcoming also to make the project a success. The committee should be greeted by willing givers toward a most important cause, and not as a trio of beggars for a favor.

Membership Limit Raised

The club also raised the membership limit from 100 to 125 and increased the membership fee from $5 to $15 25 applications were considered last evening by the directors after the general meeting of the club, and all were elected to membership so that the full quota is enrolled.

New applicants for membership will be posted and placed on the waiting list, and elected to membership as vacancies occur.

At the next meeting a new by-law will be adopted granting honorary memberships to the clergy of the city.

To Improve Lots

It was also decided to get an estimate from some one as to the cost of seeding down and mowing off the lots on the manufacturing site addition to the city to prevent the growth of unsightly weeds. Some of the lot owners are planting potatoes or other garden stuff on them and the balance should be seeded to grass.

Moorhead Citizen: A few of the Republican papers in the state that are so narrow that they cannot see anything but their side of the question are hollering "steel" trust at the governor because he had the manhood to veto a tonnage tax bill that was unjust to a certain portion of the state. Who was it ha-pu in money o help to elect J. F. Jacobson? The steel trust and nobody else in the last campaign. Who was it that had these mining properties taxed to the limit on the iron range? Governor Johnson and his tax commission. Why did not the Republicans do this when they had a Republican in the governor's chair for at least forty years? Because they did not want to. Governor Johnson did not veto the tonnage tax because the steel trust wanted him to, but because it was for the best interests of the state and its people.

Patrons of the co-operative creamery can learn a lesson from the remarks of Patrick Howley, of Beauford as chronicled in our Beauford correspondence this week. While Mr. Howley secured 30 cents a pound for butterfat his brother in Kansas, where the co-operative creamery has been driven out, secured but 16 cents.—Mapleton Enterprise.

Anoka Union: The Union is free to maintain in language quite plain that it would be a great deal better for the Republican party of Minnesota of a large number of men who pretend they are Republicans and are working for the opposition would leave that organization and go where they belong.

Virginia Virginian: After reading the divorce proceedings in the daily papers it's refreshing to turn to a story on the celebration of a golden jubilee by some happy old couple.

Business Refuses to Wait on Tariff

Reports from the commercial agencies and the manufacturing centers of the country show that business expansion has refused to halt on account of the tariff tinkering at Washington. This may be due to the fact that the business interests are convinced that there is to be no marked change in existing schedules, and it may be that the great consuming body again is appearing in the market and buying liberally, after the depression which began in September 1907, and lasted for about fifteen months. The federal government is feeling the effects of renewed business and industrial activity and the treasury department reports that its receipts are now daily in excess of expenditures. This improvement has been so marked in the last few weeks that there is a prospect that the deficit scheduled for the end of the fiscal year, on June 30 will be cut down to $60,000,000 or less instead of the $130,000,000 estimated by the treasury experts some months ago. Railway earnings are improving every day. Building activitie are greater thruout the country than at any time since 1906. Increased consumption runs thru every department of industrial activity, and as the logical result, mills and factories that have been on short time for more than a yearare now pressed to their capacity to supply demands. The entire country appears to be determined to show that business is more important than politics.—St. Paul Dispatch.

A FARMERS INSTITUTE

WILL BE HELD IN CROOKSTON ON THURSDAY JUNE 17—BIG GATHERING

THREE SPEAKERS WILL ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS AND TALK ON LIVE SUBJECTS

From Wednesday's Daily—

A Farmers' Institute is to be held at Crookston on Thursday June 17th commencing at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Prof. Wm. Robertson of the Crookston School of Agriculture will be in charge of the Institute and will be assisted by Mrs. Ida E. Tilson of West Salem, Wis., O. A. Storvick of the Dairy and Food Department, and Supt. L. P. Harrington of Crookston.

The regular Institute sessions will be devoted to a discussion of the lines of farming that are particularly adapted to this part of Minnesota, dairying, swine raising, clover, rotation of crops, etc. Poultry, fruit growing, vegetable gardening, schools, etc., subjects in which all members of the family are interested, will also be given attention.

In the afternoon, commencing at 1:30 a special session for women and young people will be held in a separate hall, where lectures on the care of poultry, home economics, schools, and the industrial contest for boys and girls will be given by Mrs. Tilson and Supt. Harrington.

Questions

In the daily work on the farm many things happen that we cannot quite understand. We ask first one party and then another and each usually gives a different answer.

Many questions come to our minds about agriculture that we would like to have explained. How to feed roots; how to keep the boys and girls on the farm; the hired man question; how to test our seed; how to grade up our cows; the best methods to follow in various work; the latest ideas in building and co-operation, and a thousand other every day questions. All of the above you have the privilege of asking at the Farmers' Institute and they will be answered by men who are paid by the state for knowing how to answer them.

At Crookston, Thursday June 17th.

Care of Milk

The care of milk: Too much of the milk and cream sent to the creameries arrives in poor condition. This is often due to some cause that can be easily remedied. If you keep cows it will pay you to learn about this matter at the Institute.

Value of Hens

There is a prospect that the present high prices for poultry and eggs will continue. A small flock of hens can be made to pay the grocery bills and it is worth while to learn something more about this branch of farm stock. Mrs. Tilson is one of the best paultry lecturers in the United States.

All Invited

Every member of the family is invited to attend,—from the youngest to the oldest. Sessions commence sharp at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p m.

COUNTY SEAT FIGHT RENEWED

INJUNCTION RESTRAINS ISSUE OF BONDS FOR RED LAKE FALLS COURTHOUSE

Another step has been taken in the county seat fight between Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. The county commissioners were to meet last Saturday and take steps to issue $35,000 worth of 6 per cent bonds for the purpose of constructing a new county seat house at Red Lake Falls to replace the old one recently destroyed by fire. They are restrained, however by an injunction issued by Court Commissioner Johnson whereby cause must be shown next Saturday for such action. This probably will throw the mater again into the courts, where it will drag its length until such time as may seem convenient for the disputants.

As it is the intention of the north portion of the county to have the seat removed to Thief River Falls by a division of the county, and in view of the fact, that a petition to this effect is now on file with the secretary of state the courts will be kept busy.

CROP GROWTH VERY RAPID

ALL GRAIN IS SHOWING WONDERFUL GROWTH, THRUOUT RED RIVER VALLEY

MANY FARMERS BUSY PLANTING LARGE ACREAGES OF POTATOES

From Wednesday's Daily—

Reports from all directions continue to be of a most encouraging character regarding the crops. Many farmers state that they never saw grain grow so rapidly as this spring, and that it is fully up with grain sown much earlier in other years.

While the surface of the ground is not very moist, there is an abundance of moisture underneath with the result that the grain is sending roots down deep which will make it capable of withstanding a great deal of dry weather later on.

Potato Acreage

Many farmers are busy seeding potatoes. Albert Lee is seeding 80 acres, J. W. Lee over 100 acres, R. E. Smith 20 acres all in one locality southeast of the city and many others are sowing even larger acreages.

Fertile

Farmers in general are well-pleased with the crop conditions. While the season was late in comparison with some years nevertheless the grain was put in the ground in fairly good season and the ground was in ideal shape for working. The late snows helped the small grains and the late rains and cool weather is giving it a good chance to take firm root. The prospects were never better for a good crop.—Fertile Journal.

COMMERCIAL CLUB IS FLOURISHING

MEMBERS OF ADA CLUB ARE TAKING GREAT INTEREST—FINE CLUB ROOMS

E. J. Herringer who was in the city recently states that the Commercial club of Ada is prospering. It was organized last fall and already the club has a fine home consisting of a brick building with bowling alleys and billiard hall on the first floor and reading smoking, card and assembly rooms on the second floor. All the members are taking an active interest. Mr. Herringer is the president and this is one reason why the club is a success. Mr. Herringer is a hard worker, a consistent booster and one of the most patriotic and public spirited men in Northern Minnesota.

CASS LAKE TO BE DEPOPULATED

MESSRS. SMITH. O'BRIEN AND THE LYCAN BROTHERS ON A FISHING TRIP

This morning Dr. H. W. Smith, City Attorney Martin O'Brien and W. S. Lycan left for Cass Lake on a several days' fishing trip. At Bemidji they will be joined by F. S. Lycan who will act as chaplain during the trip. The retail price of fish has been lowered two cents per pound already by the local butchers owing to the proposed trip as it is a certainty they will glut the market within a few days.

HEAD OF CENSUS BUREAU RESIGNS

Director North Forced to Quit His Position.

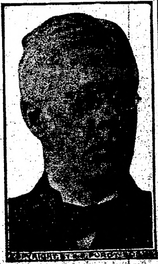
OUTCOME OF CONTROVERSY

Friction Between Secretary Nagel and Retiring Official Had Continued Some Time and Finally the Cabinet Member Informed the President That Either He or Mr. North Must Leave the Service.

Washington, May 27.—S. N. D North, director of the census, has tendered his resignation to President Taft and it has been accepted. E. Dana Durand, deputy commissioner of corporations, has been named to succeed Mr. North. Mr. North's resignation is a direct result of his recent controversy with Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel.

Mr. Durand, who succeeds Mr. North as director, is from California. He has been in the bureau of corporations for some time and it is believed he will work in harmony with Secretary Nagel.

It had been supposed up to within the last few days that the controversy between Secretary Nagel and Director North had been amicably adjusted. The friction between the two continued, however, and at last Secretary Nagel put the matter squarely up to President Taft, saying that either he or Mr. North would have to leave the service, as existing conditions between them were impossible.



S. N. D. NORTH.

Director North held to the belief that the census bureau was an independent institution and that he was responsible only to the president. A congressional enactment put the census bureau under the department of commerce and labor, however, and Secretary Nagel felt that in spite of the great powers conferred by congress on the director that official should be subordinate to the cabinet officer in charge of the department. It was because of this friction that Director North was finally forced to step out.

NOTHING DEFINITE RESULTS

Commissioner Neill Confers With Georgia Strike Leaders.

Atlanta, Ga., May 27.—Long private conferences with the strike leaders here and a dreary rain, which almost stopped all sorts of transportation in the strike district, made a quiet day in the Georgia railroad firemen's struggle for preference over negroes.

United States Commissioner of Labor Neill spent several hours negotiating with General Manager Scott of the railroad and Mr. Ball, the firemen's leader.

"Nothing definite has yet resulted," said Mr. Ball. We simply placed our side of the matter before Mr. Neill."

The local postoffice authorities reported that mails were still practically at a standstill.

Automobile parties out in the strike district reported that they found no one suffering for the necessities of life, but that business was badly disorganized.

TWO YEARS FOR BRIBERY

Pittsburg City Railway President Sentenced to Prison.

Pittsburg, May 27.—Charles S. Cameron, president of the Tube City railroad, convicted of offering a bribe to former Councilman W. A. Martin, now serving time in the penitentiary, was sentenced by Judge Van Swearingen to serve two years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $500.

On the charge of obstructing justice Cameron will also be sentenced next week by Judge Evans.

Highest In Its History.

El Paso, Tex., May 27.—The Rio Grande river is the highest in its history and villages and farms in the valley above and below El Paso are inundated. In El Paso county a force of men has been constantly at work cutting away driftwood in order to save the bridges.

INDICATES NEW CONTROL

J. P. Morgan, Jr., Succeeds Rogers In Steel Directorate.

New York, May 27.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., has been elected to fill the vacancy on the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation made vacant by the death of H. H. Rogers This is another important step toward substitution of young Morgan for his father in the world of finance It is also considered significant that a Morgan should succeed a Standard Oil man.

Morgan interests have been in nominal control of the trust since its organization, although for a few months when the stock broke to $10 a share the trust was understood to be owned chiefly by the Rockefellers. It developed that their purchases were largely speculative and as they liquidated on the advance Morgan brokers purchased and controlled the company for several years.

The aggressive buying of the last few months has been chiefly by the Morgans also. The change in the board suggested to Wall street that Standard Oil interests had been liquidating steel at the record high prices

GASOLINE LAUNCH CARRIED OVER DAM

Four Persons Are Drowned at Grand Rapids, Wis.

Grand Rapids, Wis., May 27.—Four persons were drowned and four others rescued from a capsized gasoline launch which was carried through the sluice gates of the dam of the Consolidated Water Power company of this city and dashed to the rocks below. The drowned are: Miss Bessie Anderson, Miss B. Bogiger, Miss May Forse and Ralph Anderson.

The unfortunate party went up the river to a place on Big Island called Lovers' nook to roast marshmallows Upon their return, in attempting to make a landing and not knowing the gates of the dam were opened, the swift current caught the stern end of the craft and all were carried to the river below. Screams for help brought a party of rescuers, but four members of the party became exhausted before help arrived. The remaining members were almost exhausted, but were resuscitated after strenuous efforts.

ALLEGES ILLEGAL MONOPOLY

Minnesotan Files Complaint Against Express Companies.

Washington, May 27.—A general attack on the system of management of the principal express companies doing business throughout the country has been started by State Senator B. E. Sundberg of Minnesota.

Senator Sundberg has lodged a complaint with the interstate commerce commission in which he declares the American, Adams and United States Express companies have formed themselves into an illegal monopoly for the control of the express business throughout the United States and that they are conducting such a monopoly in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act of 1887. He asks the commission to break up the monopoly and fix a schedule of prices for the express business which will bear a fair relation to the cost of transportation.

DEFENDS JAPS OF THE WEST

Speaker at the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Denver, May 27.—That the Japanese resident of the West is a better Christian than the one who seeks to keep him out of the schools and the country was the intimation of Dr. A. W. Halsey of New York, secretary of the board of foreign missions, in his address following the report of the board before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church.

"I have just received a letter," said he, "from a man representing 1,000 Japanese in various Western states. He says that his people have raised $8,000 for the evangelizing of the Japanese and he wants the assembly to give a like amount. They are scorned, but they are Christians and I wonder if not better than the ones who scorn them."

PANIC STRICKEN BY THREATS

Man Under Indictment Mortally Wounds Passerby.

St. Louis, May 27.—Unnerved by threats William Wright, under indictment for killing Sam Young a constable, became panic stricken at Franklin and Ewing avenues and mortally wounded a passerby. Wright said he had been told that Young's friends were planning to "get" him and that he began firing when five men started towards him out of an alley. Alfred M. Neilson, the victim of the shooting, was on his way to work and crossed the street in the path of Wright's bullets. None of the witnesses of the shooting saw the five men of whom Wright complained.

M'ENERY DISCUSSES TARIFF

Says South Is Changing on Question of Protection.

Washington, May 27.—Promptly resuming discussion of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill Mr. McEnery of Louisiana, in the senate, dealt with the attitude of the Southern states and Southern statesmen toward the policy of protection. He said:

"That there is a change of sentiment going on in the Southern states in relation to protection was shown recently and I hope senators from the South who have supported protection of every industry in the state may extend the vision of their horizon and accord protection to great national interests."

Mr. McEnery spoke specially of the need of a protective tariff on lumber, which industry, he said, employed $5,000 men, producing lumber worth $44,000,000 annually.

After pointing out that Southern senators had voted for a duty on lumber, which produces a revenue of only $2,000,000 annually, Mr. McEnery called attention to the vastly greater income produced by sugar, which yields a revenue of $60,000,000. "I want to appeal to Southern senators," he declared in ringing tones, "to abandon their absurd ideas of a tariff for revenue only and vote to support the industries of the United States."

KING EDWARD'S ENTRY WINS DERBY

Captures Classic Event by a Very Close Margin.

Epsom, May 27.—The Epsom derby, the classic event of the English turf and the blue ribbon feature of the racing season, was run here and won by King Edward's Minoru. In this victory the famous bay colt has made history, being the first occasion on which the greatest of all flat races on the turf has been won by an animal belonging to a reigning monarch. W. Raphael's Louviers was second and Lord Michelham's William the Fourth was third. The American crack, Sir Martin, owned by Louis Winans, an American resident of London, and bred in Kentucky by John E. Madden, of whom so much was expected, was nowhere in the race and fell down.

Magnificent Minoru scored his victory by a head only, while half a length divided the second and third horses. The victory of the king's horse was greeted by an outburst of enthusiasm the equal of which never has been witnessed at Epsom.

The crowd at the course was wild with excitement and broke through the police cordon and almost mobbed King Edward as, following the time honored custom, his majesty, as owner of Minoru, led the champion into the paddock.

TWO SONS WILL CONTEST

Fight Over Spreckels Millions to Begin in July.

San Francisco, May 27.—The contest involving the estate of the late Claus Spreckels, the sugar magnate, who left a vast fortune divided between his widow and three of his children to the exclusion of his other two sons, will be begun July 19, according to a decision of Probate Judge Coffey.

The matter at the bar is the demurrer filed by John D. Spreckels and Adolph Spreckels to the petition for a partial distribution entered by Rudolph and Claus Spreckels, executors under the will.

The protestants are the two children ignored by the terms of the will and the argument on the demurrer may be the first step in a great will contest in California.

WIRING OF FUSE DEFECTIVE

Alleged Attempt to Blow Up Lake Steamer at Buffalo.

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association has received word from Buffalo that an attempt was made there to blow up the steamer F. T. Heffelfinger. Four sticks of dynamite, with a partly burned fuse attached to them, were found by members of the steamer's crew in the discharge pipe of the ballast pump.

"Only the fact that the wiring of the fuse was defective," said President Livingstone, "saved the Heffelfinger from being destroyed."

The F. T. Heffelfinger is a modern steel freighter, 430 feet long, and is owned by the Peavy Steamship company of Duluth.

HUNDRED FISHERMEN PERISH

Violent Tempest Rages Off the Coast of Spain.

Bilbao, Spain, May 27.—A violent tempest has been raging on the Bilbao coast. More than sixty vessels of the fishing fleet have foundered and it is estimated that 100 fishermen have been drowned.

Taft May Name Cromwell.

Washington, May 27.—William Nelson Cromwell of New York, whose association with the American acquisition of the Panama canal zone is well known, would be nominated by President Taft as American minister to China if the senate could be induced to give its assent thereto.

LORIMER GETS HOPKINS' SEAT

Senatorial Deadlock in Illinois Finally Broken.

VOTING BEGAN ON JAN. 20

Election of Chicago Man Made Possible by a Coalition of Democrats and Anti-Hopkins Republicans, Fifty-three of the Former and Fifty of the Latter Casting Their Ballots for the Congressman.

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—Congressman William Lorimer of the Sixth congressional district was elected United States senator by the joint session of the general assembly.

The election of a junior senator to represent Illinois in the upper house at Washington came about through a coalition of Democratic assemblymen and the anti-Hopkins Republicans. The hall of representatives, through the hours speeding the close of the deadlock, was crowded with a host of politicians. Strong efforts were made by former Senator Hopkins' aids to head off the break to Lorimer, but they were unavailing. The dramatic last act of the deadlock, which has waged since Jan. 20, played to a small crowd.

REPRESENTATIVE LORIMER.

In the many joint ballots of the deadlock nearly 150 candidates have been listed for the office of United States senator, the great majority of them being Democrats.

Of the eighty-nine house members who voted for Senator Lorimer forty-seven were Democrats and forty-two Republicans. In the senate six Democratic senators voted for Lorimer.

Sketch of New Senator.

Although William Lorimer's progress in politics has been steady and consistent from the time when he began securing city contracts for his firm of contractors until he was elected to the United States senate he never can be president, for he was born in England.

Mr. Lorimer's biography in the congressional directory is one of the briefest, about fifty words, and omits to mention that he first saw the light in 1861. At the age of five he was brought to this country by his parents. At the age of twelve he worked as a sign painter's apprentice. Later he labored at the stock yards, of which in after days he was known as the "boss." Next he gathered in the nickels on a street car. Meanwhile he had become a political factor. He became a contractor, was called the "blonde boss" in the newspapers and was counted on to deliver the packing house district to the Republican ticket. In 1892 he was defeated for a county office, but three years later he was elected to the Fifty-fourth congress, where he has remained, with the exception of one term, ever since. The Fifty-seventh congress saw him not, for he was beaten in his own stock yards district by one who was comparatively a mere stripling, John J. Feely, then in his twenty-sixth year. This was in the Second district. Mr. Lorimer then moved into the Sixth district, which promptly sent him back to Washington.

IS A BAR TO "JOY RIDING"

Bill Passed by Wisconsin Legislature Regarding Autos.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—There will be no more "joy riding" in Wisconsin if a law passed in the state legislature can stop it. The senate passed an assembly bill which prohibits the use of autos by other than their owners and providing a heavy penalty for such use of a machine. The bill is primarily due to a series of accidents in Milwaukee during the early spring when several chauffeurs took out the autos of their employers and met with fatal mishaps before reaching home.

Wind Plucks Seven Geese.

Mattoon, Ill., May 27.—Caught in the furious blast of a tornado, which swept farms southwest of this city, seven geese, swimming on a pond on the farm of E. M. Thomas, were plucked clean by the wind, swept up in the air and blown into a haymow. Scarcely a feather was left on the birds when Thomas found them after the wind had passed.
